SANTA FE NEW MEXICAN.

VOL 43.

SANTA FE, N. M., MONDAY, JULY 30. 1906.

NO. 137

TO COMPLETE SCENIC ROUTE

From Santa Fe to Pecos Reserve First.

RATON MUST WAIT FOR TURN

Las Vegas Next--Lack of Funds at Penitentiary the Cause.

The Scenic Highway east of Santa Fe is to be pushed as rapidly as possible, to completion, and an extra squad of convicts is to be put to work at once.

This was announced by Governor Hagerman at noon today following a conference with Superintendent Arthur Trelford of the territorial prison and Captain Fred Fornoff of the mounted police. About thirty-five men are at work in the canon at present and fifteen or twenty more will be added to the present force at once. There remains about five miles of the road to be built to the western line of the Pecos forest reserve. As soon as this road is finished, the convicts will be sent at once to Las Vegas to complete the highway there. Owing to the condition of affairs at present and also to the law upon the question, no work can be done at Raton on the highway which is to lead to the Colorado line, until after the completion of the two roads mentioned.

In speaking of the present state of affairs, Governor Hagerman this afternoon said:

Conditions are unfavorable. "When the matter of completing these highways was first brought to my attention, I immediately expressed myself as in favor of doing all that could be done to this end. However, conditions are such that only one road can be finished at a time. In the first place, I looked up the law on the subject and it states that the highway from Santa Fe to the western line of the Pecos reserve and the highway from Las Vegas to the eastern line of the same reserve shall be constructed and then, the highway shall be built from Raton to the Colorado state line.

It would therefore be illegal to start work on the Raton road, however, much I should favor it, until after the completion of the other two roads. The most embarrassing feature of the situation at present, is the lack of convicts.

Question of Finance Only.

"Finances at the penitentiary are in such a shape that it is necessary to keep a large number of men constantly at work in the brick plant in order to make enough brick to pay expenses. The superintendent must manufacture and sell all the bricks possible in order to keep things moving. He is now having two big kilns constructed in order to increase the burning capacity by 12,000 bricks. This will require the attention of additional men. When separate forces of convicts are maintained on the highway, the expense of guarding them is greatly increased and the chances of escape become greater. "The remaining five miles of the road east of this city are through a country where it will take a much longer time to accomplish anything, than it did on the road now completed. There are some places where blasting through solid rock for a considerable distance, is necessary.

"I looked over the highway at Las Vegas as far as it is finished. The work there was well done but there are places where repairs will have to be made as well as a considerable stretch to be finished. I do not know just when work can be started out of Raton. I believe that the task should be taken up in a systematic way and the road completed.

"There is a possibility that the government will consent to build a continuation of the Scenic Highway through the Pecos reserve. While I do not know what has been done along this line, yet I hope that such a road will, in the course of time, be constructed."

MOSHER BROUGHT TO ALBUQUERQUE

Man For Whom Governor Issued Requisition Arraigned Today For "Faking" Checks.

Albuquerque, N. M., July 30.—Sheriff Perfecto Armijo of Bernalillo County returned to this city yesterday from Colorado City, Texas, whither he went armed with requisition papers to bring back G. W. Mosher, who is wanted here for uttering forged checks amounting to $75. Mosher was given a preliminary hearing today before Justice of the Peace George R. Craig. When arrested at Colorado City, Mosher refused to come back here without requisition papers, and this necessitated a trip on the part of the sheriff to Santa Fe. Governor Herbert J. Hagerman at once issued the necessary documents which were promptly honored by Governor Latham of Texas and Mosher was accordingly extradited.

A dispatch from Fort Worth, Texas, is authority for the statement that the prisoner's real name is Baylis, and that he originally came from San Francisco.

NEW MEXICO BAR ASSOCIATION

Annual Meeting at Cloudercroft August 15—Free Transportation for Members.

Secretary R. H. Hanna, of the New Mexico Bar Association, has issued a circular of the annual meeting of that body, to be held at Cloudercroft, Otero County, on August 15th next. Free transportation for all members of the association and their families from and to Cloudercroft, from points on the Santa Fe Central Railway and the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad, has been secured and arrangements are now being made to secure a low rate from the Santa Fe system for members of the association residing at points along its lines. These concessions have been produced by W. A. Hawkins, who is the president of the association this year, and who is the attorney of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad at El Paso. Secretary Hanna requests all the members of the association to be in attendance, and to inform him promptly of their desires as it will take about ten days to secure transportation for them.

Cloudercroft is a beautiful summer resort in the Sacramento Mountains, about twenty-five miles east of Alamo, the pretty county seat of Otero County, the railroad connecting the two points goes through a most picturesque country, presenting much magnificent scenery. The accommodation for the large attendance are of the best and a visit to Cloudercroft can not but prove very attractive, and agreeable to all participants.

The association consists of about 80 members in good standing and President Hawkins and Secretary Hanna hope, that every member will find it convenient to attend and enjoy the pleasing outing offered by the courtesy of the railroads, and the labors of the presiding officers of the association.

The official call reads: "To the Members of the New Mexico Bar Association.

"Gentlemen—Your attention is called to our next annual meeting at Cloudercroft on August 15th and 16th, and your attendance at that meeting is earnestly solicited.

"A program for the entertainment of those attending is now being arranged and an enjoyable time can be anticipated.

Free transportation (for members of the association and their families) over the El Paso & Southwestern and Santa Fe Central roads has been provided for, and the Santa Fe requested to make rates which it will probably do. All members of the association must notify the secretary at once of their desires in the matter of transportation advising him of the route they desire to take, as fully ten days time will be required to secure transportation.

"Kindly give this your immediate attention and join us at Cloudercroft, if possible. Very truly, R. H. HANNA, "Secretary."

TERRIBLE CRIME OF NEGRO BOY

Arrested For Trying to Assault Girl and Then Slaying Mother and Two Children.

Canonsburg, Pa., July 30.—Elmer Dempster, a nineteen year old negro has been arrested for the murder of Mrs. Samuel Penloe and two children and the shooting of a third child last evening. It is said Dempster, who was a helper on the Penloe farm, has confessed that he attempted to assault the four year old Penloe girl, but was frustrated by the mother who went to the bureau to get a revolver. The negro secured the gun first and after killing the mother and shooting the children set fire to the house to hide his crime.

Officers Fought Two Mobs. Washington, Penn., July 30.—Dempster was safely lodged in jail here after the officers had fought off two mobs on the trip from Canonsburg.

TOO MANY FARMERS.

Going into Quay County — Stock Raisers Will Have to Leave There.

Robert Moore a Quay County stock raiser near Endeavor, arrived in the city yesterday with a companion traveling overland. Today he left for San Juan County with the expectation of making settlement there. Mr. Moore called at the office of the Bureau of Immigration and literature on Rio Arriba and San Juan Counties. He stated that a number of the small stock raisers of Quay County are leaving there because that section of New Mexico is becoming well settled with farmers who made homestead entries on 160 acres and fenced them thus curtailing the public range for the use of live stock. Last year very good crops of corn, milo maize, kafir corn, sorghum and similar feed stuff were gathered there by the farmers and this year the outlook, so far, is also very good. Water in wells is reached from twenty to one hundred feet and enough of the life giving fluid can be pumped for live stock and to irrigate small tracts. Sheep have pretty well disappeared from that section and Mr. Moore is of the opinion that cattle will also have to go.

EXPLOSION IN FRENCH PAPER MILL KILLS TWO.

Vincennes, Ind., July 30.—Two men were killed and twenty injured in a boiler explosion at the Vincennes paper mill today. The men were engaged in placing new boilers, the old ones being still in use, when the explosion occurred. The property loss is estimated at $15,000.

PROPHET DOWIE WILL APPEAL

From Decision of Judge Landis on Zion Estate.

NEVER PAID AS TRUSTEE

He Says--Declares Oath of Office Was Treasonable Too.

Chicago, July 30.—John Alexander Dowie will appeal from the decision of Judge Landis of the Federal Court declaring Zion City a trust estate and holding that the deposed first apostle has no individual proprietorship in the estate. Dowie himself made an announcement to this effect at a meeting yesterday, at Shiloh House, Zion City. Dowie appeared to be more concerned over Judge Landis' denunciation of the "Restoration Host Oath" as treasonable than any other point in the court's opinion. He declared the Judge himself in his oath of office was compelled to put God above man and family ties. He said he had never received money as a trustee.

LAID TO HER ETERNAL REST

The Funeral of the Late Mrs. John C. Balcomb, Sunday Afternoon.

"To know, to esteem, to love—and then to part, Makes up life's tale to many a feeling heart."

All that was mortal of Mrs. John C. Balcomb was laid to rest yesterday afternoon within the peaceful confines of beautiful Fairview Cemetery. The casket containing the lifeless remains of the beloved young matron was covered with flowers which were strewn there by hands actuated by the love of sorrow-burdened hearts.

The funeral took place at 3 o'clock from the Presbyterian Church. Rev. George F. Sevier, the pastor, officiated.

Among the mourners were Judge W. H. Pope, a first cousin, and the members of the Wallace Club, to which organization the young woman belonged while a resident of Santa Fe. The pall bearers were Paul A. F. Walter, Percy F. Knight, G. H. Van Stone, J. N. Zook, E. R. Paul, and Dr. Frank Mera.

Mrs. Duncan Clinch Robertson, of Charleston, South Carolina, the mother of Mrs. Balcomb, did not arrive in the city until Saturday night. Tuesday evening last when she left her home it was in response to a telegram notifying her of her daughter's critical illness and she did not know that Mrs. Balcomb had died until her arrival at Atlanta. At Memphis she received another dispatch advising her to go to Santa Fe instead of stopping at Raton, and she did not reach her final destination until late Saturday night.

The remains of Mrs. Balcomb were forwarded to this city Friday night, accompanied by the bereaved husband. It was supposed that Mrs. Robertson would be here in time to have the funeral Saturday, but a message was received stating that she was delayed while en route and the obsequies were therefore set for Sunday.

Mrs. Robertson is somewhat concerned about another daughter whom she left a patient at a hospital in Charleston. This other daughter submitted to an operation a few weeks ago for appendicitis, but rallied nicely from the ordeal and was all but recovered when Mrs. Robertson went away.

Mr. Balcomb returned to his home in Raton last night, but Mrs. Robertson has decided to remain several days longer in Santa Fe. Her tiresome journey and sorrowful mission leave her in need of a rest. She has many friends here whose pleasure of seeing her again is mingled with sadness.

DEFAULTING MAYOR GOES TO JAIL

Came Back and Surrendered to Warden at Patterson, New Jersey—Short $25,000.

Patterson, N. J., July 30.—William H. Belcher, the former mayor of this city, returned here early today and surrendered to the warden at the jail. He had been missing since August 1st, 1905. He declared he had no means to make good the funds, amounting to $25,000 which he is accused of having fraudulently obtained.

FRANCE REGRETS KILLING OF OFFICER

Of American Ship By French Crew While at Target Practice Near Chee Foo.

Paris, July 30.—The French Embassy at Washington has been instructed to express the deep regrets of the French government at the killing of Lieutenant Clarence England navigating officer of the Cruiser Chattanooga, who was mortally wounded at Chee Foo, July 28, by a rifle bullet fired from the French Cruiser Dupetit Thouars, while the latter's crew was engaged in small arms practice.

CLEARING DEBRIS FROM TRACKS

Of New York Central--Only Two Killed.

TRAIN STRUCK LANDSLIDE

The Engine Plowed Through Mass of Gravel Then Turned Over.

Newburgh, N. Y., July 30.—Wrecking crews are at work this morning clearing the debris of wreck of the New York Central's Pacific Express which ran into a landslide one mile south of New Hamburg, at 11:30 o'clock last night, resulting in the death of Edward Wells, an engineer of Albany, and Edward Warren, a fireman of New York, and the injuring of about a dozen passengers, none of which will prove fatal.

Worst Wreck Since Tunnel Disaster. The wreck was one of the worst that has occurred on the Hudson River division road since the New York tunnel disaster and it seems miraculous that there were no more serious casualties. The locomotive turned over after ploughing forty feet into a great heap of gravel which had fallen upon the track, shot upwards, then turning almost at right angles came down across all three tracks.

EX-POLICEMAN SHEARS AND DOG

Manuel Gonzales Licked By Aged Citizen--Secures Safety in Flight.

Arrested for shooting his sweetheart, placed under bond after a night in jail, then beaten by an aged man, his physical inferior, well chewed up by the aged man's dog and driven from the home of a woman whom he had called upon Saturday night, such is the bunch of troubles that fate has hurled at the head of former night policeman, Manuel Gonzales. The last encounter, in which it is said Gonzales was worsted, took place Saturday night on the railroad tracks at the west end of Johnson Street, where the ex-policeman had started a little private row of his own with several unmentionable women said to frequent a dive there. Ambrosio Ortiz, who lives in the neighborhood, was seated at his home, when he says, Gonzales, after chasing the women into the "hall and uncult", seized him by the throat and tried to choke him. Instead of submitting, however, Mr. Ortiz, who is 60 years of age and not a Hercules at that, picked up a pair of large shears, and whacked Gonzales across the back with them. The valiant ex-guardian of the peace of the city of Santa Fe fell in a bunch and received several more whacks from the shears. Miss Ortiz, in the interim, unchained a fierce dog, the rear of the house and the animal at once took part in the racket by securing a few mouthfuls of Gonzales' wearing apparel and incidentally his hide in numerous places.

The dog then escorted the ex-policeman quite a little distance down the road, the vanquished defender of the peace winning on the homestead by about a neck. The dog returned to the house and it is said that peace and quiet reigned supreme for the balance of the night.

Residents in the vicinity say that such disturbances are of frequent occurrence, and they are preparing to seek some means of securing a night's sleep. If there is a law to cover the case and a member of the city police force capable of enforcing it.

TEXAS DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY RETURNS

Indicate Majority For T. M. Campbell of Palestine For Governor--Still Doubtful.

Houston, Texas, July 30.—Sufficient returns have been received to show that in Saturday's democratic primaries T. M. Campbell of Palestine received a plurality of the popular vote and that he will go into the state convention with at least 230 votes and sufficient strength indicated for him as second choice to assure him the nomination for governor. M. M. Brooks of Dallas appears to be second, as the returns now stand, with O. B. Colquitt of Terrell, third, and C. K. Bell of Fort Worth, fourth. The other returns at hand, though not complete, strongly indicate that the state ticket outside of governor will be as follows: Lieutenant Governor—A. B. Davidson, of Cuero.

Attorney General—R. V. Davidson, of Galveston. Comptroller—J. W. Stephens, of Mexia. Treasurer—Sam Sparks, of Abilene. Land Commissioner—J. J. Terrell, of Austin.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court—Reuben R. Gaines, of Paris. Associate Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals—John N. Henderson.

Letter heads, bill heads, note heads, envelopes, of all sizes printed and sold by the New Mexican Printing Company at low rates and in quantities to suit. Satisfaction guaranteed.

CENTRAL UNION INTO POLITICS

Decided to Enter Arena and Adopt Platform.

SOCIALISTS LOST CONTROL

Of Session--Will Back Labor Candidates in Either Leading Party.

New York July 30.—The Central Federated Union after a long debate yesterday decided to go into politics in accordance with the recommendation to affiliate unions made by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor. The platform which had been under debate for two Sunday days was adopted in its entirety over the violent protest of the Socialists who fought to force the union into committing itself to the Socialistic party.

Provisions of Platform Displease Socialists. The platform contains the eight hour day proviso the antichild labor and other trade union features and provides for the nomination of candidates with trade union cards who can be endorsed by either the Republican or Democratic party.

FARMERS SHOULD PLANT IN FALL

Says G. W. Harbin, an Immigration Agent--Praises Scenery of Pajarito Park.

George W. Harbin, of Jicarilla, immigration agent for the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and the Santa Fe Central Railways, and Thomas Elliott, of McIntosh, immigration agent for the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, are in the city for a few days and are stopping at the Claire Hotel. They returned here Friday afternoon from a trip of several days spent in viewing the ruins and other interesting sights of Pajarito Park. They are expecting another large party of home-seekers in this city on August 7, bound for points in the Estancia Valley.

Mr. Harbin was seen at the hotel Saturday morning, by a reporter of the New Mexican. Asked about the agricultural prospects in the valley he said that the drought for about two months in the late spring and early summer had left the district looking not as well as at the same time last year, but the recent rains have improved conditions and the outlook is now very favorable.

"I am satisfied that early fall seeding of wheat, rye and barley and the midsummer sowing of alfalfa will result in very satisfactory returns," he said. "I believe farmers of the district are making the mistake of putting in their crops largely in the spring and then they are too late for the best results in spring seeding. Notwithstanding conditions were not as good in the valley a week ago as in the same period last year, the prospective settlers were greatly pleased with the appearance of the country, and where eligible, made homestead or desert land entries.

"We expect to continue the location of people in the Estancia Valley and elsewhere in New Mexico on each excursion date which is the first and third Tuesday of each month. Success in the undertaking is not easy because New Mexico is practically unknown to the farmers of the eastern and northern states as having any valuable opportunities and it requires much advertising and patient effort to overcome this ignorance and also the prejudice which exists in the east and north.

"I have just returned in company with Mr. Elliott after spending three or four days at the Pajarito Park Reserve. I was greatly surprised at the grandeur of nature's handiwork. I have taken the thousand mile circuit from Denver by way of Durango, Silverton and Ouray through the Grand Gorge, etc., and for variety and wonderful scenery I think the Pajarito Park excels the Colorado tour named.

"Santa Fe is moving in the right direction in opening up this park to the public and cannot proceed with its accomplishment too rapidly. It certainly affords an opportunity for tourists that they must appreciate most highly and Santa Fe is given a prominence on the map of this country which it has not hitherto enjoyed. Too much cannot be said of the cliff dwellings in the park and also the ruins of habitations in which undoubtedly the ancient people lived during the summer months. Many of the walls dividing these houses into several rooms as well as the exterior walls of the same are in good preservation. It is not probable that Professor Hewitt found and removed more than a very small per cent of the many evidences of a people living there long years ago and from the cemeteries in which they buried the dead."

UNFORTUNATE RUNAWAY

Accident to Picnic Party of Four Young People--No Serious Injury Resulted.

An exciting runaway occurred about 8:30 o'clock last evening on the Tesuque road several miles out of Santa Fe. While Miss Emily Walter, Miss Shirley Packer, Karl W. Woodward and A. B. Recknagel were returning from a trip to the Tesuque Pueblo, the team of horses attached to the surrey they were riding in, became unmanageable and started off at a mad gallop. The four occupants were either thrown or jumped out of the vehicle, but fortunately none of them was seriously injured. The carriage was demolished but the horses escaped unhurt.

The four young people had driven out to the Indian village during the afternoon and were on the way back to Santa Fe in the cooling of the evening. In going out it had been noticed that one of the horses was rather "skittish" but no attention was paid to this and the probability of a runaway accident did not enter their minds. When several miles from the city and going down a hill, the horses suddenly began running. Mr. Woodward who was driving, clung desperately to the reins but was powerless to check the animals and every time he jerked on the lines they seemingly plunged forward at a swifter pace. Finding that it was useless for him to endeavor to stop them he devoted his energies to keep them in the middle of the road.

After going about a mile at this rate one of the wheels became wrenched off and rolled to one side of the road. Miss Walter made up her mind to jump at this juncture, feeling sure that it was the safest way out of the predicament, and leaped from the rear seat which she had been clinging to. She alighted on her feet but pitched forward on her head. Her left ankle was sprained and her head was painfully bruised. She was dazed when she arose. Her injuries will confine her to a couch for several days and possibly longer.

The others remained in the vehicle, but all went out a half mile further down the road. Whether they jumped or were thrown out they are not certain, but anyway they all landed unceremoniously in a heap on the roadside. Miss Packer fell on her head, and while it raised a painful bump, she was not otherwise injured, and was able to be around today. The two young men landed on their hands and knees and their injuries were confined to minor scratches and bruises in addition to the general shaking up. The surrey became reduced to a scrap pile a few minutes later and the horses were found standing demurely enough a short distance away.

The two young ladies were conveyed to the city in a passing vehicle, and were given another fright before they reached home. Some part of the harness on the second team of horses broke and fearing another runaway they jumped out of the rig. The harness was repaired, however, and the homeward journey made without further mishap. The two young men were obliged to walk to town.

EDUCATORS TRAVEL LUXURIANTLY

Celebrated Professors in Private Car Visit Grand Canon, Adamana and Santa Fe.

Dr. Horace Jayne, a member of the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. Horace Howard Furness, a prominent educator of Philadelphia, the former being accompanied by his family, were visitors yesterday in Santa Fe. They arrived here late Saturday night in their private car "Columbia" from Albuquerque. After spending the day in sight seeing and visiting the various points of interest in the city they left in the evening for Colorado Springs.

The distinguished educators are making a flying trip over the great Southwest. Their private car is fitted out with all the conveniences and comforts of a modern home with the exception that they haven't any too much room to spare. It is a veritable palace on wheels with its luxuriant furnishings, and other niceties for the travelers.

The party left Philadelphia a little over two weeks ago and did not make any stop of any importance until their arrival at the Grand Canon. Their special car was hitched on behind one of the Santa Fe's transcontinental flyers. A couple of days were spent in exploring the wonders of the greatest canon in the world and then the Columbia was whizzed to Adamana to enable the tourists to inspect the marvels of the wonderful petrified forest of Arizona. Next brief stops were made at Laguna and Isleta, long enough for visits to these Indian Pueblos.

Albuquerque was reached on the return trip Saturday morning, and from thence the party proceeded to Santa Fe. Owing to the shortness of time at their disposal they were unable to remain here long enough to make a trip to Pajarito Park and its famous Cliff Dwellings.

Professors Jayne and Furness were much impressed with what they have seen on their trip.

OLDEST WOMAN IN INDIANA

La Porte, Ind., July 30.—Mrs. Ferdinand Reese, the oldest woman in Indiana and perhaps in the United States, died here today. She was born in Poland in 1794.

REVOLVER SHOTS CAUSED PANIC

In Church Near Warsaw--Five Drowned.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS REVOLT

Against Government and Will Aid in Securing Strike and Uprising.

Warsaw, July 30.—While the church of Wilanow, a suburb of Warsaw, was filled with worshippers today, an unknown person outside began firing rapidly with a revolver. A panic followed; the church service was broken up and the congregation in a wild effort to escape, crowded on a ferry boat which sank, drowning five persons.

Social Democrats Backing Revolutionists.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The central committee of the Social Democrats has been hastily summoned from the provinces. It has been formally decided to support the action of the revolutionary groups last week in pushing the agitation for a general strike and uprising. The Social Democrats' central committee in its resolutions announced that the aim of the revolution is to secure a constituent assembly of the Russian people to decide on the future form of government.

Still Trying to Re-organize Cabinet. St. Petersburg, July 30.—Premier Stolypin has not abandoned the hope of inducing public men outside of the bureaucratic sphere to enter the re-organized cabinet and carry out his policy of "strongly needed reforms." Negotiations with M. Guchkov, Prince Lvoff and Count Seiden are still in progress. A mob of two thousand workmen completely gutted a brewery on Schlusburg road here last night. The Cossacks dispersed them.

Grand Vizier Loses His Job.

Teheran, July 30.—The Grand Vizier whose ultra-reactionism made him unpopular has been dismissed. He opposed the granting of the reforms which resulted in the popular demands for his dismissal.

General Trepoft Was Not Assassinated.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—A rumor was in circulation last night that General Trepoft had been assassinated, but it turned out to be baseless.

GREAT IRRIGATION SYSTEM

In Platte River Valley--Says Judge Edward A. Mann--Denver Elks' Reunion Grand.

Judge Edward A. Mann of Roswell, in company with his daughter, Miss Lotta Newell, arrived in the city Saturday evening from a visit at his old home in Gering, Nebraska, and a sojourn in Denver, during the Elks' convention. They remained until last night as the guests of friends in Santa Fe.

To a New Mexican reporter the judge talked interestingly of the trip back to his old stamping grounds and of the many changes that have taken place in that vicinity in recent years. He said:

"In the Platte River Valley of Nebraska there has been built a wonderful system of irrigation. The available land has been laid out in plats very much after the manner that land is subdivided in a government survey and the main canals run on section lines. The water from these is diverged into the quarter sections from whence the individual owners receive it into their fields. It is one of the most perfect systems of irrigation to be found anywhere and the flow of the Platte River is of such quantity as to insure a sufficient supply for the entire valley. The soil is very fertile and produces all the temperate zone crops in abundance. However, Nebraska has no such climate as blesses New Mexico, and the completion of the various projects of the Reclamation Service will give to the Territory the most valuable irrigated lands in the country.

"Denver surely proffered a magnificent welcome to the visiting Elks. The principal streets of the city were ablaze with purple and white lights across the busy thoroughfares and at nearly every corner a great papier mache elk was placed with its antlers aglow with tiny incandescent bulbs. The principal stores were lavishly decorated and at the station a magnificent arch was erected costing $24,000.

"Twelve thousand Elks participated in the parade. Nearly every lodge represented was uniformed and many novel designs were shown. The Quakers from Philadelphia, Continentals from New England, Mormons from Utah, and an army of all nations from Kansas City were the most notable features."

BRYAN TO OUTLINE PLATFORM AUG. 30

In Speech in Madison Square Garden, New York City--Will Discuss "Issues."

New York, July 30.—William Jennings Bryan desires it to be known that he will outline his conception of the issues upon which the Democratic National Campaign should be fought, in his Madison Square Garden speech, in this city August 30.

APPLIES WITH STRONG FORCE TO NEW MEXICO.

What can be done in reclaiming the arid section of the United States and making it blossom as a rose and a grand success from an agricultural and horticultural standpoint is clearly and convincingly shown in New Mexico's neighbor to the north, namely, the state of Colorado, and in many sections of that commonwealth the result and the lessons there taught apply with still greater force and truth to the Sunshine Territory. What can be done and has been done in Colorado by the appliance of energy, work and intelligence can be accomplished in many, many sections of New Mexico and to a greater degree. The views set forth upon this question in a recent editorial by the New Mexican's Denver contemporary are applicable with still greater force to New Mexico than to Colorado and therefore are good reading for the people and especially the farmers and agriculturists here that they may heed and act accordingly. It is never too late to mend as long as life exists and people can and should always learn. When they are about heading and learning they cannot be of much good to this mundane sphere. "The Battle With the Desert" is the heading of the editorial in which the Denver Republican correctly and timely says that the desert is an enemy to Colorado's agricultural growth which neither slumbers nor sleeps. It is always on the alert, seeking a way or an opportunity to creep back to some point from which by the industry of our people and the intelligent use of irrigation it has been driven. Eternal vigilance is the price of the redemption, year by year, of the irrigated areas from the grasp of this sleepless foe.

The whole irrigated region of northern Colorado, extending from Denver through Boulder, Longmont, and Loveland to Fort Collins, thence down the Cache la Poudre to Greeley and returning by way of the Platte Valley to this city, is an example of what the farmers of Colorado have done in driving back the desert and in holding it back from year to year. The wonderful reclamation of that part of the state from aridity tells what may be done, and to one who understands, it also tells what would result if irrigation should be withdrawn—if the enterprise, the energy and the intelligence of our people should retreat before an advancing desert line.

Within the city limits we have another and a most beautiful example of a like kind. The city park, with its 320 acres of reclaimed land is the fruit of a victory over the desert, which hems Denver in on all sides and besieges it night and day. It is certainly one of the most beautiful artificial parks in the United States, and it has been made entirely by excellent management and the application of water in irrigation to what only a few years ago was as barren and desolate a tract as one may find in all the plains region.

Practically all the agriculture in this state, except what is achieved by "dry farming" on the plains, is a result of successful irrigation. The fruit and vegetables for which Colorado is famous, the alfalfa fields which provide feed for tens of thousands of sheep and cattle every year, and the whole of the beet sugar industry depend upon the continued success of this battle with the desert. Let the streams of irrigation be shut off, and the desert will gain a complete victory. The thousands of people who have made their homes in communities founded where irrigation is practiced will be driven from those homes like Hagar into the wilderness and the millions of dollars expended in reclamation will be wholly lost.

LIFE OF A SOLDIER NOT AN EASY ONE.

The life of officers and soldiers in the United States army these strenuous days cannot be called a very easy or a very comfortable one. There is much study and practice in military affairs required; the officers and enlisted men have no leisure time between the marches, the drills and the camp maneuvers now going on. The saying that the life of a soldier is an easy one is no longer true. Playing at war in time of peace in uniform, except for the actual danger is a harder task than making actual war. Nevertheless, the action of the War Department in bringing this change about is of much consequence and was imperatively needed, if the army were to attain proficiency and efficiency as a fighting body.

Discussing this condition of affairs the Kansas City Star says that all of the regular army in the United States is on the march. Most of the forces are on their way to concentration camps, where maneuvers are to be held for the next two months. Those regularly stationed at the camp sites must march, too, even if it is necessary to walk in a circle over the 250 miles the War Department demands. With heavy packs of blankets, clothes, tents, rifles and ammunition, the men are pounding along in the dust as if it were a real time of war.

With a regularity somewhat disconcerting to the man who believes the American soldier infallible come reports of the men "falling out"—on the march. In some companies a third or more of the men, footsore and weary, had to seek the ambulances or baggage wagons the first day. A third of the company practically unfit for duty after one day's marching. This defection proved conclusively how important these exercises are. After two weeks of daily marches few of the men will be unable to keep up and these few may, perhaps, as well be dropped out of the army.

"No foot, no horse," and the same axiom may well be applied to the soldier. After the Indian campaigns and until the Spanish-American war there was practically no field work for the soldiers of the American army. Here and there some enthusiastic commander put his men on duty resembling that of actual warfare but such instances were rare and spasmodic. Today it is required of all the troops in the United States, and it will do much to bring the army to approach "the preparedness"—the fitness—a certain nation of little yellow men showed itself to possess about a year ago. Without it, better stay out of war.

TO THE ROSWELL RECORD—ET TU, BRUTE!

"Perhaps it might be well for the Democrats of Chaves County to wait for some of the banner Republican counties west of the Mountains to set the example before nominating non-partisan delegates to the statehood convention. There is a feeling among the people too, that a convention composed entirely of lawyers would get up a constitution in which business interests would be held secondary to legal verbiage."—Roswell Daily Record.

Et tu, Brute! Thought it would come to this. However, the Record is correct in the above. The political complexion of delegates to the constitutional convention will be determined according to the best indications, in each county and by each county as its voters deem best. This is real self-government. It also will not be a good thing should the convention be composed of too many lawyers. In New Mexico's legislatures the fact that there have been too many legal lights as members of such bodies, has not proved one of benefit to the people. It is proverbial that lawyers will legislate for the best interests of their profession whenever they have a chance and can do so. An examination of the statutes of this Territory for the past fifty years and more will fully establish this.

A good story is told of one of New Mexico's lawyers who has been a member of the council of the assembly several times, usually serving as chairman of the committee on Judiciary. Whenever a bill was introduced and referred to this committee, he always examined it carefully to ascertain what bearing it would have upon civil and criminal cases he then and there had pending in the district or the supreme courts. If the provisions of the bill affected his interests adversely, it was sure to receive an unfavorable report and would go the way of all legislative flesh, namely, into the waste basket. If it suited his cases and would help them along, the measure would be reported favorably in glowing and strong terms and everything possible would be done by this legal representative of the people for the passage of the bill.

AGAIN, THE LIBRARY QUESTION.

"The city council is to be commended in its action of voting to ratify the city's contract of paying a certain sum each month for the support of the Carnegie library."—Las Vegas Optic.

Correct! The city council of Las Vegas, since its reconstruction, often has the best interests of the city at heart and in mind and acts accordingly. In Santa Fe, unfortunately, under the present mayor and city administration, a different state of affairs prevails. A combination of disgruntled Republicans with the Democratic party brought about this unfortunate state of affairs. It is more than likely that it will continue until the 1908 city elections. Had the city administration of Santa Fe at any time during the last two years and a half, levied a small tax for the support of a Carnegie library, such an one would have been erected and in operation now. There was no money for this laudable purpose because most of the city taxes had to be used for the benefit of the clique that made the combination and carried the city elections in 1904 and this spring. As it is, the Woman's Board of Trade and public spirited citizens were compelled, in order to give the city a suitable library building, to do hard work and to put their hands in their pockets for the purpose of raising the necessary funds. As usual in this case the tax dodgers and knoekers escape scot free.

WILL ARIZONA PAPERS TELL THE TRUTH?

The Tucson Star, a courageous and able daily paper, in the thriving Arizona town, tells the truth in the following:

"Arizona has a larger territorial indebtedness than has New Mexico. It likewise appears that Arizona's aggregate county indebtedness is equally as large as that of New Mexico. Now will such of the Arizona press as have been so industriously decrying their readers please publish these facts? They should do so in the interests of truth and the facts." It is very refreshing indeed to find quite a number of newspapers in the sister territory making a good fight for joint statehood. It takes pluck and nerve and paper, as the Tucson Star, the Nogales Oasis, the St. John's Herald, the Yuma Sun, and others are exhibiting such in good sized quantities.

Carriazo, on the El Paso and Southwestern System in Lincoln County is to be made a division point by that road, which means that in two years it will be a considerable town with a population of from two to three thousand people. The site is one of the finest locations in the Territory and there is no reason why the above prediction should not be verified in due course of time. The country along the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad, especially from Alamogordo to Santa Rosa, is settling up at a gratifying rate and its many natural resources are being brought under development. Another instance of the constant growth of the Territory despite the lies and libels upon New Mexico and its people by a few yellow dog sheets in the pay of unscrupulous politicians and tax dodgers, to the contrary.

A justice of the peace and a police officer in Las Vegas "got together" and did business in collecting fines for alleged violations of city ordinances and of the laws of the Territory in the Meadow City. This was a safe snap for some time. It has been brought into the limelight of publicity, however, and will have to stop. It is evident that the justice of the peace and the police officer involved thought what was right in New York and under Tammany regime was also proper in Las Vegas, and under the ordinances of the city. The Las Vegas Optic whacks these officials over the heads and demands speedy punishment. That paper will have no Tammany methods in the Meadow City, if it can help it.

Leading and patriotic citizens of New Mexico favor the stand taken by this paper that a constitutional convention be held in this city commencing December 2nd next regardless of the result of the election of November 6th next as far as the question of statehood is concerned. Nothing but good can come of the formulation of a modern, progressive, fair, liberal and just constitution for the state of Arizona, or for that matter for the state of New Mexico. This paper is of the opinion that there are plenty of well meaning and honorable citizens who will consent to stand for election to the constitutional convention and if elected will attend the same for the purpose of framing the constitution for the coming new state no matter what its name or what its boundaries shall be.

News from Tonika is to the effect that the management of the Santa Fe Railway system intends at an early date to put on a daylight passenger service from Albuquerque to El Paso. If such a daylight service could be inaugurated between Raton, Las Vegas, Lamy and Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Belen, Socorro, San Marcial, Las Cruces and El Paso, and intermediate towns it would be productive of great good and increased business for the road.

The coming scholastic year bids fair to be very prosperous for the educational institutions of the Territory. Prosperity abounds and when the coming year opens there will be an increase in pupils at this class of schools is noted. The attendance in the public schools will also be greater than ever according to reliable indications. This certainly means progress and advancement in the right direction.

Russia is very unhappy. It ought to be. There are mighty few creditable instances in its history from the day the country has had such a one. The crimes of the fathers are being visited upon the children and the history of Russia's government shows a remarkably long list of crimes of all kinds during its existence, cannot be successfully contradicted.

Democratic politicians and editors are urging the speedy calling of the Republican Territorial Central Committee. Why they are doing so it is not clear. At any rate Chairman Burnham of that body will do what is considered best for the Republican party of the Territory in the matter. He is not the man to heed appeals from that source.

In the attempts of the people of various cities to freeze out the ice trust Greek will meet Greek and ice will meet ice. Fortunately out in sunny New Mexico, although away down south, in the greater part of the Territory people can get along very well without ice and hence the ice situation does not attract much attention.

The Topeka State Journal suggests that the Honorable Grover Cleveland might be nominated as running mate with the Honorable William Jennings Bryan on the Democratic Presidential Ticket in 1908, to give weight to the ticket, but does not indicate who is to be the head and who is to be the tail.

The Tucson Citizen calls the project statehood men in Arizona and New Mexico "apostates." This would be a serious accusation could a proper definition be given of it, but as it pleases the Tucson Citizen and hurts no one, it might just as well be allowed to run.

THEY NEVER FAIL.

That is What They Say About Them in Santa Fe, and it is Therefore Reliable.

Another proof, more evidence, Santa Fe evidence to swell the long list of local people who endorse the old Quaker remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the convincing endorsement of that remarkable preparation:

Thomas Quintana of San Miguel St. says: "When I noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in a Santa Fe paper, I came to the conclusion that they would be just the treatment required by Mrs. Quintana. She suffered from backache I cannot tell for how long, but very often she was unable to do the slightest housework. More than once I have seen her scarcely able to move about the house. With the intention of testing the remedy thoroughly, I went to Ireland's Pharmacy for a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and she commenced the treatment. She took a second box and then a third when the last attack of backache stopped and for eight months she has had complete immunity from pain. Something novel in her existence."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

ASSUMING A VIRTUE.

What Can Be Done by Right Thinking and Self Control.

Zopyrus, the physiognomist, said, "Socrates' features showed that he was stupid, brutal, sensual and addicted to drunkenness." Socrates upheld the analysis by saying, "By nature I am addicted to all these sins, and they were only restrained and vanquished by the continual practice of virtue."

Emerson says in effect, "The virtue you would like to have, assume it as already yours, appropriate it, enter into the part and live the character just as the great actor is absorbed in the character of the part he plays." No matter how great your weakness or how much you may regret it, assume steadily and persistently its opposite until you acquire the habit of holding that thought or of living the thing not in its weakness, but in its wholeness, in its entirety. Hold the ideal of an efficient faculty or quality, not of a married or deficient one. The way to reach or to attain to anything is to bend oneself toward it with all one's might, and we approximate it just in proportion to the intensity and the persistency of our effort to attain it.

If you are inclined to be very excitable and nervous, if you "fly all to pieces" over the least annoyance, do not waste your time regretting this weakness and telling everybody that you cannot help it. Just assume the calm, deliberate, quiet, balanced composure which characterizes your ideal person in that respect. Persuade yourself that you are not nervous or excitable, that you are well balanced, that you do not fly off on a tangent at every little annoyance. You will be amazed to see how the perpetual holding of this serene, calm, quiet attitude will help you to become like your thought—Success.

CATCHING COLD.

Suggestions That May Keep One From the Doctor.

A person in good health, with fair play, easily resists cold, but when the health flags a little and liberties are taken with the stomach or with the nervous system a chill is easily taken and, according to the weak spot of the individual, assumes the form of a cold or pneumonia, or it may be jaundice. Of all causes of cold probably fatigue is one of the most efficient. A jaded man coming home at night from a long day's work, a growing youth losing two hours' sleep over evening parties two or three times a week or a young lady heavily "doing the season," young children overfed and with short allowance of sleep, are common instances of the victims of cold.

Luxury is favorable to chill taking. Very hot rooms, feather beds, soft chairs, create a sensitiveness that leads to catarrhs. It is not, after all, the cold that is so much to be feared as the antecedent conditions that give the attack a chance of doing harm. Some of the worst colds happen to those who do not leave their house or even their beds, and those who are most invulnerable are often those who are most exposed to changes of temperature and who by good sleep, cold bathing and regular habits preserve the tone of their nervous system and circulation.

Probably many chills are contracted at night or at the far end of the day, when tired people get the equilibrium of their circulation disturbed by either overcast sitting rooms or overheated bedrooms and beds. This is especially the case with elderly people. In such cases the mischief is not always done instantaneously or in a single night. It often takes place insidiously, extending over days or even weeks.—London Lancet.

Fighting the Current.

Papua has swift streams well stocked with fish. An explorer tells of Papuan fresh water mullet which sometimes weigh as much as fifteen pounds. "These fish are wonderfully provided by nature with an appliance which helps them to combat the extraordinary currents. At one moment you will see them being swept down resistlessly, but suddenly they shoot off into the quieter water and attach themselves to the rocks by a strong sucker near the mouth. There they hang just outside the current, their tails moving gently with it, and when they have recovered their strength they make another dash through the swifter waters."

Observance of the Sabbath.

There was the minister of Tweedsmuir who on a certain Sabbath found a salmon stranded in shallow water and who, being unable conscientiously to take it out on such a day, built a ledge of stones around it and, returning on the morrow, claimed his prize. There was the old farmer who could not go to the kirk because he had neglected to share on the Saturday night, and he would not profane the day by the use of any edged tool.—Macmillan's Magazine.

A True Fish Story.

Here is a fish story told by a British sportsman: An Irishman had caught a big pike. Noting a lump in its stomach, he cut it open. "As I cut it open there was a mighty rum and a flapping of wings, and away flew a wild duck, and when I looked inside there was a nest, with four eggs, and she had been sitting on that nest."

Shocking Precocity.

"What is the result," asked the teacher of the primary class in arithmetic, "when you put two and two together?" "A kid," lisped the curly headed little girl in the front row.—Chicago Tribune.

There are many diversities of vice, but it is one never failing effect of it to live displeased and discontented.—Seneca.

ARIZONA NEWS NOTES

Graham County.

The high line trolley to Morenci and out Chase Creek is nearing a climax, and when the main line is completed a branch to North Clifton is also proposed. The management will in a very short time have the work under way.

Santa Cruz County.

Take Nogales as the hub and draw a circle about it fifty miles away and the circumference thus drawn will include one of the richest mineral sections on earth, says the Nogales Times. Not one mine out of a thousand has been located. Millions of undiscovered and undeveloped property lies in this magic zone awaiting the hand of capital, the eagle eye of the prospector and the brains of the promoter. We have here gold, silver, copper, lead and other minerals enough to pay the debt of the nation.

Pinal County.

Red Rock has added another to its long list of mysteries. The body of a young man was found lying along the Southern Pacific track about one and one-half miles east of the town. How the young man came to his death will probably never be known. Letters found in the pockets of the dead man apparently show that his name was Will C. Davis and that his home was in Waco, Texas. It is believed that the young man met his death by falling off a fast moving train. His neck was broken and he had apparently slid along the ground for a considerable distance.

Apache County.

Everett Chandler lies dead in a mountain hut near Springerville, Arizona, 100 miles from any railroad, as the result of a hemorrhage, and his father, J. E. Chandler, of Jefferson City, Missouri, is speeding overland from Holbrook, Arizona as fast as a team will carry him, to secure the remains of his son, which will have to be transported by wagon over the 100 miles of mountain trails intervening between Holbrook and Springerville. Young Chandler came to Albuquerque about a year and a half ago, and secured a position in the postoffice there. He was suffering from tuberculosis. Later he went to Magdalena and from there left for a trip into the mountains, penetrating the wilds on horseback as far as Springerville, where he was attacked with a hemorrhage, the trip proving too severe for him. The father has made arrangements for transportation at Holbrook, and relays of horses between Holbrook and Springerville will be used.

Pima County.

Unique in the history of celebrations by organizations will be the observance of Labor Day by the labor unions of Tucson. The labor unions themselves will bear all the expenses. No public contributions will be asked. This action was taken simply because the delegations who were present at the meeting were of the opinion that the unions themselves were strong enough financially to bear the expense of the celebration. In previous years and in most places it is customary to solicit donations from the merchants and business men and as a general thing the donations are given cheerfully and liberally.

Additional information regarding Jesus Trujillo who is now serving a sentence of 105 days in the Pima County jail for carrying concealed weapons, indicates beyond doubt that he is the desperado that he has been pictured. Trujillo is believed by the Rangers to be the leader of the famous gang of outlaws who murdered S. L. Reilly, a citizen of Douglas, near Tepic, Sonora. It is likely that Colonel Kosterlitzky of the Mexican Pulares will request that Trujillo be turned over to him that he may be tried on the murder charge. Whether this will be done or whether Trujillo will be prosecuted at Tucson on the less grave charges of horse stealing is not known.

Lieutenant Harry Wheeler of the Arizona Rangers is now acting commander of the ranger force, as Captain Rynning is absent on three weeks' leave, which he is spending on the coast. Lieutenant Wheeler is prominently mentioned in the event of the latter's resignation, rumors of which are current.

Maricopa County.

L. B. Shely, the 145 pound reporter of the Gazette, was assaulted this afternoon in the sheriff's office by Frank King, a deputy sheriff weighing about 250 pounds, says the Arizona Gazette published at Phoenix. The blow was delivered with the fist and was parried by the little man who quickly left the office of Sheriff Walker where the assault occurred. King struck the blow in anger over a story recently published in the Gazette discussing the candidacy of himself for treasurer and Sheriff Walker for sheriff.

Brawley, one of the live towns in the Imperial Valley, is becoming almost as famous for its cantaloupes as Rocky Ford is for its watermelons. During the season now nearing its close 200 cars have been shipped from Brawley and it is estimated that $90,000 in cash has been paid out to the farmers alone for their products. One of the successful growers shipped 3,030 crates from 30 acres. His net income from the strip is placed at $4,000 or $133 per acre.

An envelope was received at the Phoenix postoffice a few days ago in which was a second envelope addressed to a party in an Oklahoma town. The letter was mailed in an Oklahoma town. The inclosed note, which is self-explanatory, follows: "Postmaster: Please take the inside letter from the outer one and mail it to my sister for I want to play a yoke on her and make her think I am at your postoffice in place of being near to her. Be Obedient."

In anticipation of summer floods which will wash dams and headworks away, the Appropriators' Canal Company is busily engaged in bringing

THE BEAUTIFUL ESPANOLA VALLEY

Finest Possible Conditions for Fruit Raising—Abundance of Water.

The Espanola Valley of the Rio Grande beginning twenty miles north of Santa Fe and extending north twenty-five miles to Embudo is perhaps the greatest irrigated valley in New Mexico. No other valley has a better climate, soil, variety of products or more abundant supply of water for irrigation. The soil in this valley is free from alkali, cold, stormy winters or excessively hot summers; it is shut in by high mountains and as a fruit district the conditions are almost perfect. Thousands of acres lie uncultivated and eighty per cent of the waters of the great Rio Grande roll by unused. Home seekers are settling here rapidly and more are welcomed to help make this beautiful valley the best in the Rockies.

For further particulars in general, prices of bearing orchards, improved and unimproved lands, etc., address Roscoe C. Bonney, real estate and immigration agent, Espanola, New Mexico.

SANTA CLARA INDIAN FESTIVAL.

Sunday, August 12th, 1906.

On this occasion the Santa Clara Indians will be joined by those of San Juan and San Ildefonso and an extended program of dancing, racing and games has been arranged.

Santa Fe Lodge of Elks will have in charge an excursion to be run over the D. & R. G. Railway on this date, train to leave Santa Fe at 8 a. m., returning arriving at Santa Fe at 9 p. m.

Fare for the round trip $1.50. Tickets on sale at Fischer's Drug Store and Kerr's Barber Shop.

THE HOT MONTHS ARE COMING. During the summer time, when the heat seems to take all the "kick" out of you, then is when a nice, cool drink of Dr. Lauritzen's Health Table Malt will revive your drooping spirits, tone up your system and make you feel like a new person.

MARRIAGE LICENSE LAW.

The new marriage license law requires probate clerks to post three copies of the new law in conspicuous places in each precinct. The New Mexican has printed the law neatly on cardboard and is now ready to fill orders in English or Spanish at fifty cents for each order. Probate clerks should enter their orders immediately.

"AND THE WORLD GOES ON."

The above is the title to a new song that is gaining in popularity every day. The "Bon Ton" is the title of the best lunch counter and hotel in Santa Fe, which is also gaining in popularity. When you eat there once you have a longing desire to continue a customer. And the world still goes on. Are you glad?

LOW RATES TO SANTA FE, N. M.

Via the Santa Fe Railway.

From Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo the Santa Fe will sell tickets at one fare for the round trip. ## Old Chronic Sores.

As a dressing for old chronic sores there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Salve. While it is not advisable to heal old sores entirely they should be kept in a good condition, for which this salve is especially valuable. For sore nipples Chamberlain's Salve has no superior. For sale by all druggists.

Mr. Burke will be absent from the city a week. The next hearing of the above case will be at Deming on the 15th of August.

Seventeenth Century Panegyrics.
George H. Inquired why Milton did not write his "Paradise Lost" in prose. One sympathizer more with Stephen Duck, the peasant poet, who read the great epic over "twice or thrice with a dictionary before he could understand the language." We find ourselves somewhat at a loss to understand the language in which were couched the fulsome panegyrics of the late seventeenth century. Dr. Hill selects two which it would be hard to surpass. The first is Dryden's to Roscommon:

How will sweet Ovid's ghost be pleased to hear

His fame augmented by a British peer?

Can't go almost farther in the second and blasphemously a good deal further. It is Halifax's lament for Charles II.:

In Charles, so good a man and king, we see

A double image of the Deity.

Oh, had he more resembled it! Oh, why

Was he not still more like and could not die?

This seems unsurpassable. Yet if

Dr. Hill had been concerned with the poems of Mr. Richard Duke he would doubtless have secured an almost equally startling couplet in memory of a monarch whose wit has been more often extolled than his virtue:

God! 'twas could, but Charles could never say

Of all his royal life he lost a day.

—Professor W. P. Trent in Forum.

His Ambition.

A new vicar was being shown round the parish by his warden.

"The natives are a hardy lot, sir," he said, "but you haven't seen Peter Sparks. He's the quaintest character in these parts."

This individual turned out to be the sexton, and he was discovered ringing the church bell.

"Is not this bell ringing almost too much for you, my friend?" asked the vicar sympathetically, noting the bent figure of the old man. "You must be a great age?"

"Yes, yes, sir," murmured the old fellow. "Ow many years I've tolled the bell I can't tell ye, but it's beginning to tell on me. O'wsoever, I've tolled the bell for five vicars."

"Dear me!" ejaculated the clergyman uncomfortably.

"And," continued the sexton, "I'll be happy when I've made up the 'alf dozen. I think I'll retire then!"—Glasgow Times.

Language in France.

There are several districts in France where the very ancient tongues still survive. Basque is spoken by about 100,000 persons, who are naturally proud of a language that is their exclusive possession, for it is unlike every other spoken tongue, and the assertion is commonly made that to understand it one must have learned it in the cradle. This peculiar property gives in the mind of the Basque people support to their belief that it was the language of Adam and Eve. The same claim is advanced, though for Breton. The Romans when they conquered Gaul compared Breton to croaking of ravens. About a million people speak Breton. Then there are Flemish, still spoken by a comparatively small number in northeastern France, Catalan in the Pyrenees-Orientales and Languedoc and Provençal, whose gradual extinction has been delayed mainly by the efforts of a few literary enthusiasts.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Opinions on Campaign Subjects of Interest to the Dear People.

Joint Statehood Buttons.
 Joint statehood buttons have appeared in some parts of the territory. This ought to be a helping influence in securing interest in this matter of vital importance to New Mexico and Arizona. — Tres Piedras Mining Reporter.

Andrews Has Nerve and Ability.
 Delegate Andrews returned from Washington on the 18th and was given a grand reception at Albuquerque, which all goes to show that no matter how hard you get hit if you have plenty of nerve and ability you will be on top again before you know it. — Tres Piedras Mining Reporter.

Disposed to be More Fair.
 The Arizona papers are showing an inclination to be fair towards New Mexico in discussing the statehood proposition. The New Mexican papers have, with few exceptions, been just and courteous towards Arizona, and have shown every tendency to discuss the matter on its merits. — Las Vegas Optic.

Result of Yellow Correspondence.
 More results of the yellow correspondent. Here's one from the Kansas City Journal, never a friend to New Mexico: "Arizona is now more indignant than ever over the attempt to annex her to New Mexico. How would you like to be tied up with a territory that has the earthquake habit?" — Daily Optic.

W. H. Andrews as New Mexico's Delegate.

Despite the brutal cry of a few New Mexican journals—"Dehorn Bull Andrews!" he returns home after two years of faithful service in Washington as New Mexico's delegate in Congress, crowned with honor because of the record he has made as our representative in the legislative department of this country. In him New Mexico has found a true friend, an able advocate, and one who, in his effective work, has proved that Hon. W. H. Andrews is a man who does something. He has put to shame his accusers, "obliterated" his pencil pushing detractors, has convinced the world that he is not a bank wrecker, and that the people of New Mexico made no mistake in electing him their delegate to Congress. — Deming Graphic.

Let Us Get Busy.

It has been a matter of comment for some weeks past that the officers of the Democratic Territorial Committee have made no move towards calling a meeting of said committee and outlining an aggressive fight for the fall campaign.

The statehood question, if nothing else, demands such action. The Democratic party of New Mexico declared itself in favor of jointure as far back as 1904 and it is a duty incumbent upon it to take the lead in an aggressive campaign for the success of the principles expressed at such time and consistently followed ever since. There are many questions in this connection which require discussion and determination. For instance, as to whether or not the party will favor a non-partisan convention or make the fight for the election of delegates independently along party lines.

There is, as is even recognized by the opposition, an excellent chance for Democratic success throughout the territory next fall. There are dissensions and disruptions within the ranks of the Republican party, and the Democratic vote has been heavily increased since three years ago. With the proper kind of organization and the right man for delegate to Congress there is absolutely no reason why the party should not be successful this year. First and foremost is the need of organization. This has been the particular cause of defeats for years past and is one that is easily remedied if the right man will take hold and get to work.

It is high time that a start should be made and the independent earnestly urges an immediate call for a meeting of the committee in order that we may all get busy. — Silver City Independent.

KINGSTON JOTTINGS.

District Appears to Be Butt of Numerous Fake Sensational Stories.

Special to the New Mexican.
 Kingston, N. M., July 29.—The press dispatches recently sent out from El Paso, in a dime novel attire, giving a minute account of the assassination of the 17-year-old son of D. S. Miller, a prominent merchant of Lake Valley, and the owner of the Grand Central mine in the Carpenter mining district, Grant County, was one of the coarsest fabrications known in the annals of newspaperdom in this section of New Mexico. If the writer had only attended the funeral of the youth, and photographed the grave, the story would have been quite romantic.

The hold-up of the road graders' camp of F. B. Saemmerhorn, of the Monarch Mining and Development Company, ten miles southwest of Kingston, by a lone bandit is also a fake in every particular. The camps in the lead-zinc mining district of Carpenter are at peace, and it would be unhealthy for a lone bandit to attempt to act a dime novel story. He might be anticipated.

Travel and property in that section, although isolated, are as safe as in any portion of the United States. People in that country do not carry money chests around with them, and therefore have no use for a big six shooter strapped on their persons, as in the days of the Apache, the first known inhabitant of that region.

When the El Paso dispatch was first read in Kingston it created some anxiety and scare among the women and children. But miners and prospectors, familiar with the country and situation at once pronounced it a raw fake. The story purports to come from Manuel Lopez of Las Cruces, who per-

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pain in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by all druggists.

THE KITCHEN.

You could eat from the Bon Ton Hotel kitchen floor. Cleanliness counts so much with all of us. But the Bon Ton Hotel and Lunch Counter management goes much further than cleanliness. Our aim is to serve our patrons with the best food possible—dainty, yet substantial. To see that they live and sleep in cheerful, airy rooms. To surround them by all that is pleasant and refined. And they also have for use the handsome parlors, library, buffet and smoking room. The Bon Ton is just like a great big happy home. Yet all these luxuries and privileges are at your service at minimum rates.

There is more Catarrh in this section of country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address: F. J. ## RHEUMATISM

TROUBLESOME PAINS AND ACHES

While Rheumatism is usually worse in Winter because of the cold and dampness of a changing atmosphere, it is by no means a Winter disease entirely. Persons in whose blood the uric acid, which produces the disease, has collected, feel its troublesome pains and aches all the year round. The cause of Rheumatism is a sour, acid condition of the blood, brought about by the accumulation in the system of refuse matter, which the natural avenues of bodily waste have failed to carry off. This refuse matter coming in contact with the different acids of the body, forms uric acid which is absorbed by the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. Rheumatic persons are almost constant sufferers; the nagging pains in joints and muscles, are ever present under the most favorable climatic conditions, while exposure to dampness or an attack of indigestion will often bring on the severest symptoms even in warm, pleasant weather. Liniments, plasters, lotions, etc., relieve the pain and give the sufferer temporary comfort, but are in no sense curative; because Rheumatism is not a disease that can be rubbed away or drawn out with a plaster. S. S. S. is the best treatment for Rheumatism: it goes down into the blood and attacks the disease at its head, and by neutralizing the acid and driving it out, and building up the thin, sour blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. Being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, S. S. S. will not injure the system in the least. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice without charge.

Mignon's Political Instinct

By BELLE MANIATES

Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells

Ruth's retinue of ex-schoolmates were paying her a visit at the executive mansion, the home of her uncle, Stephen Thorn, governor of the state, likewise guardian of Ruth. Sometimes it was difficult for him to determine which of these positions presented the more intricate complications.

He was past his youth, but had not yet approached middle age. The ex-school friends found him a warm and generous man, and regarded him from a distance with romantic interest.

"That little silvery patch on each temple is so distinctive," ardently declared Lucile.

"Makes one think of the leading man in a play when ten years are supposed to elapse between acts," giggled Mignon Gray.

It was a source of delight to the others that even Mignon felt the influence of their host's demeanor and refrained in his presence from indulgence in frivolous conversation.

To Mignon it was a matter for chagrin. She fortified herself continually by impressive reminders that he was of the people, for the people, by the people, even as she, and that a governor was not so much anyway, but the gubernatorial dignity hung round him still, and her forced courage oozed away whenever he addressed her.

One morning the retinue, with the exception of Mignon, trooped away to the golf links. Mignon remained at home to write letters, but when she knew herself to be alone in this big, stately house she suddenly experienced a sensation of her childhood days and was impelled by an irresistible desire "to be naughty." The daring idea of calling upon Ruth's uncle seized her.

"I'd like to see him 'on duty,'" she mused. "I might—yes, I will—go incognito."

There was a chest upstairs containing garments belonging to Ruth's departed kin.

Presently there emerged from the executive mansion a quaint little figure clad in an old fashioned flower sprigged skirt, a lace mantilla, a neat straw bonnet and a lace edged veil.

The capitol was only a short distance from the executive mansion, and Mignon met few persons. The guard who stood in the broad corridor as she entered did not vouchsafe her a second glance as he directed her to the executive office.

Mignon did not follow his directions. Ruth had told her how she gained his private sanctum when she was in a hurry and did not have time for the red tape channels of approach through private secretary and messenger. She slipped into the "governor's parlor" and boldly opened the door from there into his private office.

The governor chanced to be alone, and he turned in surprise to see who was so bold in intrusion.

"Did you wish to see me, madam?" he asked in courtly manner, placing a chair for the visitor.

"You are the governor?" asked a queer, high pitched voice.

"I am," he admitted.

"I came to see if you would give me a position in the capitol. I am the widow of a soldier—and I pay taxes."

"A soldier's widow?" asked the governor, with interest. "In what war did your husband serve, civil or Spanish-American?"

"There was a moment's hesitation before Mignon decided to locate 'her husband' in the civil war.

"What was his company, and in what regiment did he enlist?"

Silence.

"Don't you know the number of his regiment?"

"Oh, yes; thirteen."

"And what state?"

"Pennsylvania."

"And what was the letter of his company?" he asked, beginning to make a memorandum.

"Why—R—" triumphantly.

His pencil poised.

"The companies were only lettered to K for infantry, you know."

"Then probably it was K," she said. "K looks like R, you know."

"Yes, sometimes," he admitted, "but what kind of a position did you wish?"

"Any position," desperately.

"What experience have you had?"

"I have copied legal papers," remembering a brief she had once copied for her father, who had wistfully counseled her to the flames with the criticism that it resembled his Chinese laundry check.

"Have you, indeed?" he said in evident surprise, and Mignon felt that she had acquired importance in his regard. The governor seemed to be absorbed in meditation, and Mignon began to feel the silence embarrassing.

"I don't know of any vacancies or openings at present," he finally remarked, "but if you will make a formal application and leave it here on file I will communicate with you as soon as the opportunity offers."

"Oh, thank you," she said gratefully. "I don't seem to have any blank forms," he said, looking over the papers scattered on his desk. "However, I'll write one out, and you can sign it and leave your address also."

Mignon had already decided upon a name and address, so when he presently handed her a paper he had written she removed her gage, and on the line indicated she wrote, "Nancy Bettens, 1611 L Street."

He studied the signature carefully.

"And what was your husband's first name, Mrs. Bettens?"

"Adam," was the girl's response.

"You'll hear from me soon, Mrs. Bettens."

Mignon took this as a dismissal and rose to go.

"Do you think there is any hope?" she could not resist asking as she quitted the door.

"I do. The fact of your being a soldier's widow and your having had experience in office work will lead me to consider your application favorably. I shall offer you a position very soon," he replied earnestly.

"What fun I shall have telling the girls!" thought Mignon as she sped home. When she had made a change of costume she discovered, to her dismay, that it was too late to join the girls at the country club for luncheon, as she had promised. While she was reflecting on this change in her programme the library door opened and the governor entered.

"Oh, there isn't any luncheon?" she said. "The girls are at the golf links. Mrs. Farham is invited out for the day, and I made a mistake in the time and didn't meet them. You were not expected."

"I didn't come for luncheon," he replied, "but what will you do?"

"Oh, the cook will see that I don't go hungry," she laughed. Some way her fear of him had vanished.

"Let me see to that instead of letting the cook. Will you go to luncheon with me now?"

"What have you been doing all the morning?" he asked as they sat at a little palm screened table.

"I've been writing," she replied in a rambling tone.

"So have I, and I feel the need of recreation. Will you drive with me after luncheon?"

Mignon decided she would not tell the girls of her morning call. As the days went by she became the companion of the governor in his hours of ease. One evening as she sat alone in the library he suddenly appeared and laid a paper before her. She caught her breath. It was the paper she had signed in the executive office.

"I have come for the fulfillment of your promise," he said gravely.

She had not read the paper that morning in his office, as he had given her no opportunity to do so. With burning cheeks she now perused the startling application.

"I do hereby faithfully promise that when Stephen Thorn, governor of the state of New Mexico, asks me to be his wife I will accept the offer."

NANCY BETTENS, 1611 L Street.

"Well?" he asked entreatingly.

"It isn't legal or binding," she said defiantly, "because, you see, it is signed by a fictitious name."

"Will you not remedy that defect?"

"I prefer," she said softly, "that you make me a verbal offer."

From the Apocrypha.

It is impossible to exaggerate the immense indebtedness of English poetry and Italian poetry to the Apocrypha. The beautiful lines of Young in his "Night Thoughts":

But their hearts wounded, like the wounded air,
Soon close; where passed the shaft no trace is found—are evidently to be traced to the verse in the "Book of Wisdom": "As when an arrow is shot at a mark it pierces the air, that immediately cometh together again, so that a man cannot know where it went through." The famous "Hymn of Praise" in Milton's "Paradise" is clearly modeled after the "Benedictus" or the "Song of the Three Children" in the Apocrypha, as in the lines:

His praise, ye winds, that from four quarters blow,
Breathe soft or loud, and wave ye tops, ye pines,

With every plant, in sign of worship, wave.

It is also to the Apocrypha as to the book of Proverbs we owe many maxims which have become household words in our language and in the languages of all civilized nations.

Apprenticeship.

The disrepute into which apprenticeship has fallen and to which so much unemployed and unskilled labor is to be attributed has no more historical foundation than has the prevailing dislike to domestic service. Both were honorable enough professions at one time, only slightly differing from each other in etymology as in kind. The apprentice—from the French "apprendre," to learn—was usually bound for a term of years to his master, who undertook to maintain and instruct him. The domestic servant, called a menial by law—from being "intra mœnia," within walls—was, as a rule, bound only for a year. Neither implied any reproach. Indeed, as in the case of Dick Whittington, the London apprentice was very often the younger son of a country gentleman. Perhaps the law made later on and existing into the seventeenth century, under which all young men and women were compellable by the justices to be apprenticed in some way, may have produced a dislike to apprenticeship. —London Chronicle.

Don't Blink Your Eyes.

If ever you find yourself getting into the habit of blinking your eyes rapidly without any cause stamp the inclination out at once. An authority says that this habit will make your eyesight fail long before it should. Natural blinking is essential to clear and moisten the eyes, and the average number of natural blinks per minute is about twenty. These are necessary, and you do them unconsciously. But a nervous "blinker" will get in something like a couple of hundred in a minute in bad cases, and the result of this is a big development of the eyelid muscles and a counter irritation that acts on the optic nerve and renders the sight daily more weak and irritable. The cure consists in keeping the eyes shut for at least ten minutes in every hour, thus resting them, and bathing the lids in warm water.

TOUCHING FOR KING'S EVIL.

Extent of the Custom in the Seventeenth Century.

Between the years 1661 and 1682 as many as 92,107 persons were touched for the king's evil. Each of them received a gold coin, with a hole in it, which—the coin, not the hole—"was suspended from the neck by a ribbon."

From a proclamation issued by Charles II, dated Jan. 9, 1683, appointing the times at which the touch should be administered:

"And all such as shall hereafter come or repair to the court for this purpose shall bring with them certificates under the hands and seals of the person, vicar or minister and of both or one of the churchwardens, testifying according to the truth that they have not at any time before been touched by his majesty to the intent to be healed of their disease. And all ministers and churchwardens are hereby required to be very careful to examine into the truth before they give such certificates and also to keep a register of all certificates they shall from time to time give."—London Notes and Queries.

While in the forest reserve in which we hunted I met several of the forest rangers, all of them intelligent men, some with college education, men who seemed peculiarly adapted to their calling, who knew the mountains thoroughly, handy with an ax and gun and full of resources. A degree of ethics obtained among the sportsmen, guides, trappers and forest rangers that was interesting. When any one goes to a deserted cabin, in most of which would be found food, bedding, a stove, etc., it is proper form for him to stay all night, eat all he can put away under his belt, if in dire need divide any supply of tobacco and matches he may find, but he must take away nothing else, since to carry off an article of little value, such as hammer, hatchet, pliers, saw, pipe or other similar article might inconvenience the owner greatly when he happened along and wanted them as a source of supply. If a belated wanderer fails to wash the dishes and leave a supply of dry wood sufficient to build a fire and cook a meal he is at once tabooed and his companionship is not sought after. —Northwestern Sportsman.

The Size of the Sun.

The disk seen with the smoked glass, is 869,000 miles in diameter—i. e., 108 earths could be comfortably ranged side by side across the disk. To cover the surface would require many thousands. To fill the interior we should need 1,300,000. On a smaller scale we might represent the sun by a ball two feet in diameter and the earth by a good sized grain of shot. Let the sun be hollowed out, then place the earth at its center and let the moon revolve about it at its real distance of 240,000 miles. There would yet remain nearly 200,000 miles of space between the moon's orbit and the inclosing shell of the sun. Indeed to journey from one side of the sun to the other, through the center, would take one of our swift express trains nearly two and a half years. So vast a globe must be heavy. Since its density is only one-quarter that of the earth it only weighs as much as 332,000 earths, or two billions of tons. The attraction of gravity on its surface would cause a man whose weight was 150 pounds to weigh two tons.

An Unpleasant Climate.

Karnachi, a port in northern India, has a most unpleasant climate. The parched desert country behind Karnachi has a terrific heat. Jacobabad, thirty miles away, often records 125 degrees F. The one mail train a day carries a coffin in the hot weather season "for the use of passengers." If need be, and in one year long ago twenty-three European engine drivers died while working their trains. A long journey by train in the hot season is particularly exhausting. Carriage windows are kept shut to exclude the heat, and sometimes not only does the woodwork get hot to the touch, but even the water carried in the tanks on the roof can scarcely be endured with the hand.

Imagination and Judgment.

Dr. Eaton, president of Madison university years ago, was beloved by the students and his good opinion counted above all things. One commencement day the student who had delivered the valedictory approached the doctor and timidly asked him what he thought of the effort. The doctor looked at him a moment and then said slowly, "Edward, if you would pluck a few of the feathers from the wings of your imagination and stick them in the tail of your judgment, you would make better speeches."

Men ought not to investigate things from words, but words from things.—Mylon.

The Mincing of Races.

In the course of many years of investigation into the plant life of the world, creating new forms, modifying old ones, adapting others to new conditions and blending still others, I have constantly been impressed with the similarity between the organization and development of plant and human life. While I have never lost sight of the principle of the survival of the fittest and all that it implies as an explanation of the development and progress of plant life I have come to find in the crossing of species and in selection, wisely directed, a great and powerful instrument for the transformation of the vegetable kingdom along lines that lead constantly upward. The crossing of species is to me paramount. Upon it, wisely directed and accompanied by a rigid selection of the best and as rigid an exclusion of the poorest, rests the hope of all progress. The mere crossing of species, unaccompanied by selection wise supervision, intelligent care and the utmost patience, is not likely to result in marked good and may result in vast harm. Unorganized effort is often most vicious in its tendencies.—Century.

Curious Habits of Foxes.

The animals on which the fox usually preys are often left untouched round his own home, and it is even asserted that nothing is killed on the side of the hill in which that home is made. In a small patch of nettles within a few feet of the mouth of the foxes' earth a partridge placed her nest and brought off her brood. Round this net bed the cubs were constantly to be seen, and in it they played hide and seek. In another case the entrance to an earth was surrounded by five or six rabbit holes the tenants of which were unmolested by their next door neighbors. In a third a litter of cubs was placed in a large pit surrounded by fencing, from which there was no escape, and in which there were a number of rabbits. None of these was attacked by the cubs, though they would seize a dead rabbit in full sight of the person who had shot and thrown it to them.—Native Notes.

Men Who Are Baked.

The men who work in the famous porcelain factories at Limoges have a hard life. The furnaces in which the porcelain is baked are kept up to a terrible temperature, which, it is said, cannot be gauged by any instrument known to science. In this fearful heat the human salamanders, clad in thick, fireproof garments, their heads and ears well protected, have to work passing from one to another, chain-wise, the porcelain articles as they come out of the furnace. Every five minutes the first man of the chain—that is to say, the one nearest the furnace—has to get out into the open. He throws himself down utterly exhausted on a mattress placed for his convenience near the door. Then a boy gives him ice water to drink from a pitcher, and he falls back on his mattress until his turn comes round to take his stand again close to the scorching blaze.

An Unpleasant Climate.

Karnachi, a port in northern India, has a most unpleasant climate. The parched desert country behind Karnachi has a terrific heat. Jacobabad, thirty miles away, often records 125 degrees F. The one mail train a day carries a coffin in the hot weather season "for the use of passengers." If need be, and in one year long ago twenty-three European engine drivers died while working their trains. A long journey by train in the hot season is particularly exhausting. Carriage windows are kept shut to exclude the heat, and sometimes not only does the woodwork get hot to the touch, but even the water carried in the tanks on the roof can scarcely be endured with the hand.

Imagination and Judgment.

Dr. Eaton, president of Madison university years ago, was beloved by the students and his good opinion counted above all things. One commencement day the student who had delivered the valedictory approached the doctor and timidly asked him what he thought of the effort. The doctor looked at him a moment and then said slowly, "Edward, if you would pluck a few of the feathers from the wings of your imagination and stick them in the tail of your judgment, you would make better speeches."

Men ought not to investigate things from words, but words from things.—Mylon.

The Mexican Central has recently placed on sale tickets to New York and return, going via the Mexican Central to either Vera Cruz or Tampico, thence via the famous Ward Steamship Line to New York. The return will be by rail over any line to El Paso. The entire trip, covering thousands of miles, Havana, Cuba, and its famous Moro Castle, Newport, and a dozen of the largest cities of the United States, can be made for $122.50. A more delightful trip can not be planned, as stop-over privileges are allowed and the tickets are good for one year from the date of sale. The trip includes the City of Mexico, the "Paris of America." Further information can be secured by addressing A. Dulohery, Commercial Agent, El Paso, Texas, or W. D. Murdoch, Assistant General Passenger Agent, City of Mexico.

If you cannot afford to pay for a daily paper, subscribe for the Weekly New Mexican Review and get the cream of the week's doings. It is a good paper to send to your friends.

If you want anything on earth—try a New Mexican "ad."

No. 250 San Francisco Street.
Grocery Telephone No. 4. Meat Market Telephone No. 49.

ICE CREAM.
Jello Ice Cream powder makes it easy to have ice cream at will. No cooking, just add a package to a quart of milk and freeze. 2 packages for 25 cents.

FERNELLE SOAP.
Fernelle toilet soap should retail at 25 cents for a box of three bars. In order to introduce quickly we are selling at 20 cents per box.

STARCH.
We have secured a small quantity of laundry starch put up in three lb boxes which we offer at twenty cents per box. That's probably less than you're paying.

GOOD CIGARS CHEAP.
In order to sell them quick we offer our present stock of Lillian Russell cigars at $1.50 for a box of 50. This is a regular standard cigar which sells the country over at five cents.

PET CREAM.
There is no brand of cream that gives better satisfaction than the PET. We have it in three sizes at 5, 10 and 12 1/2. It is pure and the natural flavor is retained.

RASPBERRIES.
Denver grown raspberries are now coming forward in good condition and at reasonable prices. Better buy now if you wish any to put up.

ICED TEA.
CEYLON TEA is doubtless the best for iced tea. We have a good one in bulk at 35 cents per pound. We also carry in packages Chase and Sanborn's, Monsoon and Lipton's.

HIGH GRADE COFFEE.
We especially recommend the coffee of Chase and Sanborn. We carry a number of blends.

5 pound sacks towel blend, $1.15.
Each sack makes a good towel.
5 pound Milk Pail blend, $1.25, packed in a good milk can.
1 pound White package, 25c.
1 pound Yellow package, 2 for 55c.
1 pound Maroon package, 35c.
1 pound Green package, 35c.
1 pound Gray package, 40c.

The White package is a pleasing blend of mild drinking coffees; the yellow package a good Salvador; the Maroon package a fancy Maroon; the green a good Java; and the Gray package is a Fancy Mark Java, and probably the best drinking coffee ever brought to Santa Fe. We also carry this coffee in bulk and in five and ten pound cans.

SEAL BRAND COFFEE, per lb, 40c.

OLD DUTCH CLEANSER.
It chases dirt, and being in a powder is easily handled. Scrubs, scours, cleans and polishes. Will not injure the hands, nor scratch or mar wood, marble or metal, price 10 cents. In large sifting top cans.

Native Killed by Switch Engine.
Juan Aguilar, a native who lives in the Los Conchas settlement, was almost instantly killed at ten o'clock Saturday morning, and Munro Sena, who sat beside him in his wagon, narrowly escaped death in a collision with Santa Fe switch engine No. 1012, on Coor's crossing, the intersection of Main street and the Santa Fe tracks. Sena's almost miraculous escape is due perhaps to the fact that Aguilar was struck first. He sustained only a slight injury to his foot and a severe shaking up. Aguilar lived a few minutes after the accident and then breathed his last. Dr. Smith, who was called, pronounced life extinct. Aguilar's body was removed to the home of Sena across the Santa Fe tracks, near the round house, and later taken to Lewis' undertaking establishment and prepared for burial.

Regulars on "Hike."
The third squadron of the Fifth Cavalry in command of Major F. W. Forster, arrived in the Meadow City Saturday, overland from Fort Wingate, and Saturday camped at the stock yards just north of the city. They are on their way to attend the army maneuvers at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, but will make the rest of the journey from this city on by rail.

The third squadron includes troops M, I, L, and K, and there are 220 men in all. They left Fort Wingate on the fifteenth of July, but have been traveling very slowly on account of the hot weather and heavy sands through which they had to ride. They will return here about October 15 and will ride back to the fort according to orders.

Raton Men Brought Back From Kansas and Oklahoma Before Justice of Peace.

Dispatches from Raton are to the effect that James Jamison and Calvin Like both well known men of Colfax County, were brought back from Jet, Oklahoma, and Harper, Kansas, respectively by the sheriff and arraigned before a justice of the peace at that place on a charge of stealing several head of horses. They were promptly dismissed because the court said there was nothing to prove that the horses were taken from Colfax County hence jurisdiction in the case was doubtful. Both men were quickly re-arrested and re-arraigned. They were placed under bonds of $500 each to appear for hearing August 6. Seven horses were found in the possession of the men at the time of their arrest, two of which it is charged were stolen from Payette Gillespie, a wealthy rancher of Colfax County and were valued at $50 each. What the outcome of the case will be is hard to predict. The sheriff is now trying to find the owners of the remaining five horses in his possession.

Attempts Being Made to Perfect Chain of Evidence For Next Session of Grand Jury.

Chicago, July 30.—When the federal grand jury convenes in Chicago a week from today final steps will be taken toward forging a complete chain of evidence against the Standard Oil Company and some of its high officials which the government prosecutors hope will lead to the indictments and prosecutions under the anti-trust law. Attorney General Moody has had some of his best legal talent at work here several days analyzing the evidence taken before the Grand Jury at Cleveland and preparing a line of procedure that will fortify the testimony already adduced.

MINING NEWS FROM KINGSTON

Special to the New Mexican.
Kingston, N. M., July 30.—The recent bonding of the mining property of E. J. Swarts and Frank Spates to Silver City capitalists marks another epoch in the development of the Carpenter mining district in Grant County. It is reported here that they are people connected with the Comanche Mining and Smelting Company, and that active development will soon be started upon those properties. The Swarts and Spates mining claims are just south of, and adjoin the Grand View group of mines, owned by C. T. Barr, of Kingston, and other parties.

In fact they lay between the Grand View and Grand Central mines. The new twelve foot wagon road from Lake Valley to the Grand Central is about completed, and as soon as finished the machinery for the new mill of the Monarch Mining and Development Company will be hauled overland and set up. This will mark another epoch in the coming lead-zinc district of the southwest.

The Grand View group of mines is not under bond or option. The owners have refused many offers of this character, they preferring to wait and do more development themselves rather than sacrifice their property. It is well known that the ores of the Grand View can be mined successfully, tests along this line having been made at Leadville. Rather than give an undesirable bond with the present outlook for the district they prefer to do business themselves, unless the man that "does things" and has the money and brains to back a legitimate mining proposition makes his appearance.

This is the first time in the history of the Carpenter district that any effort has been made to treat the ores of the camp at the mines where timber, water, and fuel are abundant. Many experts believe, and the surface indications justify it, that Carpenter in time, and with development, will also become a large producer of copper. The ores in the camp show more or less copper. Iron caps abound but more of them have been opened up. Locations also abound, held simply by the sufferance of the community.

Railroad Engineer Meets Fate Twenty Miles East of Taos.

Special to the New Mexican.
Taos, N. M., July 30.—A man named Doc Pierce came to town yesterday afternoon and reported that one of the St. Louis Pacific and Rocky Mountain Railway engineers, named Kelley, a "Locating" engineer, was killed by lightning, twenty miles from here, towards Elizabethtown, as he was crossing an open space on his horse in the storm that prevailed in that section yesterday.

The verdict in the case of widow Vigil's son, killed on the 26th instant, by a 12 year old companion, was "fatal accident."

Miss Romero, daughter of one of the oldest and most prominent families of this valley was buried yesterday.

A dozen or more tourists have visited Taos this week in search of pleasure and trout and departed well pleased.

An examination of candidates for teachers' positions in the public schools was held Monday, the 23rd of July, Dr. T. P. Martin leading in the conduct of the same.

MAN WHO WHIPPED CONDUCTOR NOT PROSECUTED.

According to a Las Vegas dispatch the case against Frank Coe, the saloon keeper of that city, who was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon during an altercation with Conductor P. B. Blackshear, has been dismissed and there will be no further proceedings in the matter. The complaint was sworn out before Justice of the Peace Frank Bope. It recites: "He did then and there make an assault and did then and there draw a revolver."

The Woman's Board of Trade of Santa Fe, New Mexico, will be prepared to furnish plans and specifications for the erection of a public library building, on August 10th, 1906. These plans and specifications can be seen at the library rooms from 2 to 6 p. m. on that date. Bids for the work are requested and communications may be addressed to Mrs. R. J. Palon, Secretary of the building committee of the Woman's Board of Trade. 31-23.

Personal Mention.

Ex-Governor L. Bradford Prince left last night for Albuquerque on a short business trip. He is expected to return home tonight or tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes, Jr., who have been in this city on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Watson, have returned to Albuquerque.

Gregoria Herrera, a farmer living at Santa Cruz in the northern part of this county, was on a visit to this city yesterday. He purchased supplies while here.

Mrs. S. C. Noland, daughter of Register M. R. Otero, of the Santa Fe land office, has returned to Albuquerque from a six weeks' sojourn in southern California.

W. H. Hahn of Albuquerque, spent yesterday at Cerrillos and Madrid. Mr. Hahn has some coal properties in the vicinity of the latter place which he expects soon to develop and he is having a tramway built there.

Frank P. Sturgis, proprietor of the European Hotel at Albuquerque, has returned to the Duke City from a six weeks' sojourn in southern California coast resorts. Mrs. Sturgis remained in southern California.

J. P. Miera, a sheep grower in the vicinity of Clayton, Union County, spent part of last week in this city on business and on a visit to friends. He reports stock and range conditions in his section very favorable. He returned home yesterday. He praises Santa Fe's climate as it is much cooler and more agreeable here than in his section.

W. H. Hahn, proprietor of the Capital Coal Yard, in this city and of a coal yard in Albuquerque, was Saturday and Sunday last in Cerrillos and Madrid on business. It is understood that the Madrid coal mines owned by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company will be reopened at an early date and that the mining of coal on a large scale there will begin at once. It is supposed that the anthracite coal mines will be also reopened, as the fires in the mines are believed to be fully extinguished.
