On April 25 in Washington, the Inter-American Development Bank announced approval of a $500,000 loan to support a program for 650 low-income women who own small-scale businesses in the Santiago metropolitan area. The credit is to be administered by a non-profit private corporation, Finanzas Internacionales y Nacionales de la Mujer (FINAM), also known as the Filial Chilena del Banco Mundial de la Mujer. The IDB financing is earmarked for loans, business administration training and consulting services. The maximum loan amount is $3,000. (Basic data from AFP, 04/25/91)
