PROSPEROUS AND BRIGHT FUTURE*In Counties Visited
By Prof. Amado
Chaves.*BIG VOTE FOR ANDREWS*Apparent on All Sides—Natives Favor Joint Statehood Proposition.

Hon. Amado Chaves who has just returned from his summer vacation was interviewed recently by a representative of the New Mexican and in an answer to an inquiry as to how he found things in the places he visited during his absence said:

"During the last thirty days I have been traveling on personal business in the counties of Sandoval, Bernalillo, Valencia, Socorro and Dona Ana. The whole country looks beautiful after the rainy season. The farmers have gathered excellent and abundant crops, the sheep men have sold their lambs for the highest prices ever obtained before, the cattle men are doing well, the mining camps are looking up on account of the rise in silver and all in all the people of the sections I visited are happy and contented and full of bright hopes for the future.

Wave of New Settlers in All Counties.
"New settlers are coming to every county that I visited and they are of the right kind to aid in the development of the Territory—I mean farmers. In all the valleys that have in the past been considered as desert you can see wind mills now and tents and temporary buildings going up and families with their little ones establishing new homes.

"The native people of the Territory are waking to the importance of taking up government land before it is all gone. The time has arrived when families can live in safety anywhere in the Territory. In former times the settlers were compelled to live in villages on account of the savage Indians. It was impossible for isolated families to exist but that time is gone by and now that peace prevails everywhere the people are scattering and taking up homes in many places in which it was not safe to live before. One remarkable thing is that water is being found everywhere. Even in places where the oldest inhabitants thought that water could never be developed, great quantities are now being obtained at a reasonable depth. So far as I have been able to see all is well with the people of New Mexico and the future looks bright.

"At this particular time the main item of news everywhere you go, is the political situation. There is hardly a village you visit but that you find some worthy old widow or an invalid soldier whose life has been made comfortable by the receipt of well merited pensions quickly obtained through the energetic efforts of our present Delegate to Congress, Senator Andrews.

Mr. Andrews Very Popular For His Good Work.

"The feeling in favor of Mr. Andrews is so general for what he has done for the people that there is a surprise in store for us all when we see the result of the election. The sentiment prevails that at last we have sent to Washington a Delegate who really does things and the people are ready to show their appreciation by casting their votes the right way. Another matter that is interesting the people very much just now is the question of statehood and while I was prepared to find many of the old timers opposed to the measure, I was agreeably surprised to see that the general feeling is in favor of statehood in any way shape or manner. The native people especially feel that this is the time for them to come into the Union as a state, now that they are strong enough to secure a fair and just constitution. The vote in favor of statehood is going to be very large. The opposition that there is, has no head and amounts to very little. When the real meaning of the law for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona is explained to the people they are satisfied that they have everything to gain and nothing to lose by coming into the Union at the earliest possible moment.

Educational Matters in Fine Condition.

"Educational matters are in fine shape. The people are determined to select for school superintendents men of real merits and qualifications. A new sentiment has been aroused all over the country in favor of taking the office of county school superintendent out of politics. This movement was started by Professor Hadley the present superintendent of public instruction. It must be gratifying to him to know that his efforts are commencing to bear fruit even at this early day. If the attorney general had not decided that women could not hold the office of school superintendent in this Territory more than half a dozen counties would this year have elected women to that important position.

"Yes, the future of New Mexico is bright. A feeling of confidence is in the air. All the people you meet in the highways are smiling and when people smile there is prosperity in the land."

GOLD HEADED CANE FOR DAVID M. WHITE

Chairman of Republican County Central Committee, Rewarded For Good Party Work.

"Presented to Hon. David M. White for distinguished services, by the Republican candidates and central committee of Santa Fe County, 1906."

The foregoing inscription was engraved on an elegant gold handled ebony cane which was presented last night to Mr. White, the efficient and hard working chairman of the Republican County Central Committee, of Santa Fe County. Mr. White was thirty-eight years of age yesterday and his political friends took advantage of his natal anniversary to make him a birthday gift as a token of friendship and esteem, and also in appreciation of his untiring efforts in the interest of the Republican party of Santa Fe County.

Chairman White was prevailed upon to go to his office in the Old Palace, last evening under the pretext that an important meeting of the Republican candidates of the county would be held to discuss plans for the remainder of the campaign. When he arrived most of his friends were already there and were talking informally over the political situation. Mr. White joined in the discussion when questioned as to the outlook for Republican victory and assured his hearers that it was only a question of majority. He did not have any inkling as to the real purpose of the gathering until L. Sparks, candidate for county commissioner from the third district, began the presentation speech after the dilatory ones had put in an appearance. Mr. White was non-plussed when his name was mentioned as the recipient of the long, slender neatly wrapped package which Mr. Sparks held. He had recovered from his surprise by the time the handsome cane was handed over to him however, and responded in a felicitous speech of acceptance.

Mr. Sparks stated during the course of his remarks that it was largely due to the tact and loyalty of the Republican county chairman that the reuniting of the Republican factions in the county had been accomplished. Now that harmony once more prevails in the ranks and factional differences are a thing of the past, he felt certain it was a foregone conclusion that the entire ticket would be victorious at the coming general election in November. The Democrats were in a quandary what to do or which way to turn now that the leader upon whom they had learned to lean for support had returned to the Republican fold. The speaker referred to Thomas B. Catron, who was one of the members of the surprise party.

Mr. Sparks said he recognized the fact and so did others of the party that the present chairman was the right man in the right place, one who had the happy faculty of making friends and who was well versed in the game of politics. In conclusion he congratulated the Republicans of the county in having such a shrewd and fearless leader, and complimented Mr. White for the able manner in which the latter had handled the party affairs.

Mr. White was so overcome by emotion that it was a few seconds before he could collect his thoughts and when he did, he rose to the occasion gracefully. He extended his heartfelt thanks to the donors for the valuable testimonial of their regard. As far as the wiping out of the factional differences which had split the party in twain for several years was concerned, he said that he did not merit the entire credit in what had been achieved as without the earnest cooperation of others he would have failed.

"I desire to say that this is the only time when a chairman of this county has been given faithful and undivided support. I assure you that in so far as the committee is concerned the ticket put up this fall is entirely satisfactory and it will be elected. The Republicans are united this year and there is no doubt about success. It will be one of my most cherished hopes to see the Republican party ticket elected by the largest majority ever recorded in Santa Fe County before."

Both speakers were warmly applauded as they resumed their seats, and a pleasant social hour was passed before dispersing. Mr. White dispatched a messenger for cigars and refreshments, and it resolved itself into a genuine "love feast." The candidates related amusing incidents of their electioneering trips.

Mr. White was also remembered on his birthday by the clerks in his office who presented him with a handsome ebony toilet set compactly arranged in a leather case for traveling purposes. He had occasion to use it today on his trip to Lamy. Other friends remembered him, generously with gifts.

Absolute silence is maintained on both sides of the river regarding the arrests.

To Shake Hands.

Special to the New Mexican.

Las Cruces, N. M., Oct. 20.—W. H. Andrews, our Delegate to Congress, H. O. Bursum, Territorial chairman of the Republican Central Committee, and Colonel George W. Pritchard, arrived here this morning on the delayed train from the north. The depot platform was thronged with people and carriages and horsemen crowded both sides of the depot grounds. When the train bearing our popular delegate came in sight the words "there he comes" could be heard on all sides, when the train stopped the delegate, and party got off the car the crowd surged around Mr. Andrews, all anxious to meet him and it was at least half an hour before a start could be made for the Republican headquarters.

A procession was formed to the depot with about a hundred horsemen leading, then came Delegate Andrews' carriage followed by the members of the Republican organization and citizens in carriages.

The procession was about a mile long and proceeded to Republican headquarters, when every one had a chance to meet the man who does things.

Judging from the enthusiastic reception this morning, Delegate Andrews will receive almost every vote in the town. The Republican county convention will be held this afternoon after which Senator Andrews, Colonel Pritchard, Mr. Bursum and others, will address the voters of the issues of the day.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION*For Santa Fe County Convened this Afternoon and Expected Temporary Organization.

Thirteen of the nineteen voting precincts of Santa Fe County were represented at the Democratic county convention which was called to order this afternoon at the court house by Chairman Arthur Seligman of the Democratic County Central Committee. At 1 o'clock this afternoon it was understood that no candidates for legislative or county offices would be placed in nomination until an adjourned session tonight, and even then it is doubtful if a complete ticket will be placed in the field.

Owing to the failure of the precinct chairman to receive the notice from the county central committee in time no primary was held in the San Pedro precinct. Two Democrats from that community were present at the convention however, and they were declared delegates on motion of Charles F. Easley. The precincts represented were Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 12, 14, 15, 17, 18, 20, and 22.

It was currently reported in the convention that no nominee would be chosen for the head of the ticket as member of the Council from the Legislative district composed of Santa Fe and Sandoval Counties. According to rumor the place will be left blank or the Democrats will endorse E. A. Miera, the regular Republican nominee for that branch of the Legislative Assembly with the idea in view of defeating Thomas B. Catron.

A New Mexican reporter interviewed several prominent Democrats at the convention as to probable candidates but was unable to ascertain the name of a single prospective nominee. Arthur Seligman, the present incumbent of the office of county commissioner from the first district, stated that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Chairman Seligman called the convention to order at 2:30 o'clock, Juan Delgado being at his post as secretary. After the reading of the official call nominations were made for temporary officers. Marcelino Garcia was chosen temporary chairman without opposition. Edward Ehle and A. P. Hill were elected as temporary secretary and temporary interpreter respectively.

A committee of five on credentials was then appointed. A. M. Dietrich moved at first that a committee of one from each precinct be appointed as this committee, but when the chair reminded him that there was no contest on from any of the precincts, he amended his motion to five to be appointed by the chair. Chairman Garcia appointed on this committee A. M. Dietrich, Cosme Herrera, Justiano Leyba, Julian Ortiz and John P. Victory.

The committee on credentials reported within ten minutes after retiring, finding that twelve of the precincts had delegates present. Mr. Easley then offered his amendment to the report to have the names of Agapito Garcia and Joe Black recognized as delegates from precinct No. 20, San Pedro. His motion carried unanimously.

New York, Oct. 20.—There was a renewal of urgent liquidation in the stock market today, which carried the earlier prices below those of last night for active speculative favorites. Evidence of a heavy movement in currency to the interior for crop movements and Canadian requirements to fortify the Toronto banks, complicated the situation. Large buying orders for supporting purposes restrained the decline after the opening but did not entirely stop.

The market closed in a semi-panic condition, with severe declines from last night's prices throughout the list.

ARIZONA WILL PAY THE PIPER.

The cost to Arizona of voting down statehood is not yet fully realized by the people of the neighboring Territory. It is bad enough to lose the splendid endowment of almost 30,000 square miles of public land, five million dollars in cash and greatest of all, full American citizenship, but there are other penalties which will blight for a time the future of the commonwealth. The very prosperity of Arizona is based upon its smelters, reduction works and mines, and these as well as other industries must have coal. By voting down statehood, the Arizona will practically exclude the supply of coal they are getting from New Mexico, for they have none of their own and does not pay to ship coal from Colorado or Utah into the Territory. Under the new Rate Law, no railroad company owning coal fields can ship coal out of New Mexico into any other state or territory after May 1, 1908. Says the law: "From and after May 1, 1908, it shall be unlawful for any railroad company to transport from any state, territory or the District of Columbia, or to any foreign country, any article or commodity, other than timber and the manufactured products thereof, manufactured, mined or produced by it, or under its authority, or which it may own in whole, or in part, or in which it may have any interest direct or indirect."

It is well known that the coal supply for the Arizona smelters comes from New Mexico, that it is taken into the neighboring Territory by the El Paso and Southwestern Railway Company, which has built a magnificent railway system from the coal camp of Dawson, to the smelters and mining camps of southeastern Arizona, including those of Bisbee, Douglas, Clifton, Morenci, the very harbors of opposition to statehood. It is also known that the El Paso and Southwestern owns the coal beds either directly or indirectly which supply Arizona with coal. It is further known that the Southern Pacific Railway Company and the Colorado and Arizona Railway Company have acquired thousands of acres of coal lands in New Mexico, and intend to build railroads to them for the very and only purpose of supplying Arizona with cheap and good fuel to build up its manufacturing industries and especially the mining and smelting interests. These plans for the future growth and prosperity of Arizona must necessarily fall with joint statehood, under the terms of the new rate law for even though these railroad corporations should be able to free themselves from ownership or any interest in these coal lands, the new owners would not work them with an eye singly to supplying Arizona with fuel; they would charge what the traffic would bear, and cheap and abundant fuel for Arizona would be out of the question.

These practical considerations should appeal to Arizonians, even if patriotism and love of their country and esteem of American citizenship do not, and it is certain, if the full significance of Arizona voting down statehood on November 6, were understood in the neighboring commonwealth, instead of a majority against the proposition, there would be a majority for it larger even than that which will be given by New Mexico, for as great as will be the advantages to New Mexico of joint statehood, to Arizona, they will be far greater and more far reaching in their salutary effect upon the prosperity of its people.

San Miguel County expects to be the banner county of New Mexico again when the time comes to measure the vote that will be given for Delegate Andrews—Las Vegas Optic.

The New Mexican hopes so. Seriously, however, it looks as if the largest vote for Delegate Andrews will be polled in Bernalillo County, as in right and justice it ought to be.

In accordance with his plan to reserve for the United States all public lands underlaid with coal, the President this week ordered 2,380,000 acres of coal lands withdrawn from entry in the Denver land district. Similar orders will no doubt soon be issued to New Mexico land offices. It is understood that these orders are not permanent and that they may be revoked at any time. It is certain, that unless the government intends to go into the coal mining business in the near future, it will retard the development of New Mexico to prevent private interests who intend to work the coal lands not yet filed upon, from doing this. Government ownership of coal mines is a long step toward Socialism. It is no wonder therefore to see it seriously announced that unless the Smelter Trust consents to terms that Uncle Sam will build smelters and will go into the smelting business on his own hook.

The Bank of England, like in days of yore, is still the financial barometer of the business world and the fact that yesterday, without warning, it raised its discount rate to six per cent, indicates that financial breakers are ahead and that on no small scale. It is an evidence of mistrust and a warning to reef in the sails of speculation. Fortunately, in the United States, big crops and the confidence that the Republicans will again sweep the country on November 6, are proof that the long predicted panic is not as yet at the door.

The Democrats of San Miguel County are unable to agree on a ticket to put into the field for the November election. The Unionists seem to have disappeared and in San Miguel as well as in a few other counties where Populism and Unionism were strong for a few years many a stranded voter finds himself in the predicament of Hans Breitman in the poem which begins:

"Hans Breitman had a party,
But the party where is it?"
However, the Republican fold is open to the forlorn voters who are looking around for new party affiliations now that their former party leaders have been shown up in their true colors.

As good a selection as has ever been made for an official position is the one by the Republicans of Lincoln county in naming ex-Arizona General G. W. Pritchard as a candidate for member of the constitutional convention. It is well known that Col. Pritchard favors single statehood and is not "dead gone" on joint statehood. It is also well known that he is peculiarly well fitted to perform the duties of delegate to the proposed convention admirably and thoroughly. Hence the selection is an excellent one and the voters of Lincoln county will do the right thing by electing him to it by a handsome majority.

The Counties of Rio Arriba and Los Alamos will likely give Delegate W. H. Andrews a majority of 1,500 November 6th next. There is the utmost harmony in the Republican party in both counties and hence the above figure is not at all out of the way. The Democrats in either county so far have no effective organization and it is rather late to commence. This is especially the case in Rio Arriba. The outlook for a heavy majority for Delegate W. H. Andrews on election day is improving steadily in those counties.

Ramon Sanchez, candidate on the Republican ticket for the House of Representatives from Taos County is a leading merchant and highly respected citizen of his county. He is well posted on the conditions and public affairs of the Territory and will be found a very valuable man in the position. That he will be elected admits of no doubt. He is a successful business man as honest as the stars are long, gentlemanly and courteous. His is a very wise selection.

Candidate Octoviano A. Larrazola swung around the circle in the southwestern part of the Territory this week. He made speeches in Luna, Grant and Sierra Counties and in no place was his reception cordial or warm. His meetings were not well attended. Evidently the voters want none of him. It certainly looks like a great Republican victory in the Sunshine Territory November 6th next.

The name of Horace C. Abbott, a well known sheep raiser and ranchman in the vicinity of Springer, appears on the Colfax County Republican ticket as candidate for the legislative assembly. Mr. Abbott is one of the best known and oldest citizens of the county; is an able man and honorable man and very successful in business. Of his election there seems to be no doubt. That he will make a very good representative, judging by his record is fully believed.

The Republican nominees for delegates to the constitutional convention from Santa Fe county are all right for the positions for which they have been nominated and should be elected. They will acquit themselves well in that body and will aid in the formulation of the right kind of a constitution. They are: Thomas B. Catron, David M. White, John W. Akers, and James A. Wood.

Comptroller Ridgely says: "Except in sudden panics, there is no reasonable excuse for the failure of a bank or trust company." One need not be a financier to know that. What the public wants to know is a way to prevent failures with no excuse, other than the desire of some speculating crook to cop the coin.

The New York Central Railway Company, for many decades immune from legal prosecution, it seems, at last has been brought to the bar of justice and has been fined $180,000 for granting rebates to the sugar trust. No wonder that there is not much kinship between Senator Depew and President Roosevelt.

An Albuquerque Democrat offers to bet $50 that W. H. Andrews will not have 12,000 majority over O. A. Larrazola. He will find a dozen takers who believe that talking the bet is like taking candy from a child.

Congressman "Nick" Longworth, of Cincinnati has a fight on hand with a labor candidate endorsed by the Democrats as his opponent. His wife is expected to help him, though how has not been stated.

As a propagator of independent newspapers, Mr. Hearst's candidacy for governor of New York is an unprecedented success; the editorial bolting began with the announcement of the nomination.

A New York woman arrested for forgery claims she was under a hypnotic spell, but that should not prevent forgery claims she was under a hypnotic spell is just as dangerous as by inclination.

The big insurance companies may not love Mr. Hearst, but they will hardly violate the law by putting up cash to help elect Hughes, whose probing made sores not yet healed.

Miracles are still possible. A Russian general has actually, unless a liar has been doing duty at the other end of the cable, lived long enough to be retired for old age.

Notwithstanding talk about reforming the game, football fatalities marked the opening of the season.

It never was sufficiently painful to lay me up, but it worried me considerably every now and then. Notling Doan's Pills advertised to stop backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint, led me to reason if this remedy performed half what it promised, it might at least help and I went to Ireland's pharmacy for a box. It fulfilled its promises to the letter, for the backache stopped."

Heard In the Fog

[Copyright, 1906, by Homer Sprague.]

I had chosen Weymouth, on the south coast of England, as the spot where I was to "lay off" for a month and recuperate. The three or four men who had boats to hire soon had them all out. I had planned to fish that day, and as I took my boat out I passed at least a dozen others.

There was something of a sea on, and only one boat followed me out. Its occupants were a man and a woman. The man had charge of the sail, and I soon had cause to wonder that he had been permitted to take a sail-boat out. It was clear that he knew precious little about the management of such a craft, and after awhile I brought my boat up into the wind and waited for him to come up that I might give him a warning.

When he came along he was within an ace of cutting me down, and I cried out to him that but for the woman in the craft I should like to see it bottom side up and he hanging on for dear life. He gave me some impudence in reply, and the woman stood up and held her arms out to me pleadingly.

It at first seemed to be a case calling for interference, but on second thought I changed my mind. The woman, whom I took to be the man's wife, had not demanded my aid except by signs. The man had thus far escaped disaster and might carry the boat back. He was sailing straight out into the channel, but he might turn at any moment. To interfere was certain to bring on a row, and I even might be landed in jail over it.

I resumed my course, bearing away from them, but as I watched the other craft she suddenly vanished from sight like the snap of your finger. A fog rolling in had hidden her.

The other boat was half a mile away when she was blotted out. The tide was setting in, and I knew that she would drift back toward me as soon as the breeze fell. It was perhaps a quarter of an hour before I heard voices and ten minutes later before I could make out words. They came from the other boat, which was drifting slowly in. The man was cursing and threatening and the woman begging and praying.

"I will leave you, I will go away, if you will spare my life," pleaded the woman.

"You promised once before and then lied to me," came the voice of the man. "But it will be murder, murder, murder! Oh, Richard, you don't mean to kill me!"

"But I do. You have been in my way for years. Curse you! Why did I ever run across your face? You have stood between me and happiness long enough."

"But I'll go this time. I promise you before God I'll go. Richard, I have been a good wife to you, but if you have come to hate me I'll go."

"Hate you!" he growled, like a savage animal. "Why, I hate you to the death. I'd have murdered you a dozen times over in the last two years if I'd had a fair show. You are going to die now."

"Oh, my God, don't do it, Richard! Don't kill me!"
I knew their boat was close to me now, and I gently raised my anchor so as to drift in company with it. I might have cried out, but I did not. Had I struck my hand on the rail of the boat they must have heard me. I was silent, but why I cannot tell. I heard the man move. I heard him tugging and breathing hard as he picked the woman up in his arms.

She whimpered and gasped and tried to scream, but he gave her a fling over the gunwale of the boat. She floated away, but did not go under the surface. With the boat hook I reached as far out as I could on the port side, and presently I had her and was pulling her in. The two craft were not ten feet apart, and yet no human sight could pierce the fog between.

I held the woman's head out of the water for ten minutes. Then I somehow knew that the other boat had drifted ahead of me, and with the utmost care I hauled the unconscious woman into the boat and laid her on the bottom. I waited seven or eight minutes, and I then went with the long oar and by compass guided the boat to reach the shore at Bridport, to the west of Weymouth.

Before we struck the beach I had forced some brandy down her throat, and she had regained consciousness, but I did not explain matters to her until we were on the sands and the fog had rolled away. She had begged for her life like a weak woman, and I expected to find her hysterical. She heard me through without interruption, and then her eyes snapped, and she set her jaws. I got a farmer to drive us over to Weymouth, and during the journey she did not speak five words. Her husband's boat had not made harbor yet. The fog had disappeared, but the breeze was very weak.

We went to the house where the boat had been hired and waited. When the boat drew near the woman hid herself. Her husband came ashore with pale face and bloodshot eyes. The boat owner said that of a woman having gone with him, and the man was about turning away when the woman stepped out and took him by the arm. He gave one look and groaned out and sank down, and when he opened his eyes he began babbling.

The pair were at the hotel for long weeks after I left, but so far as I could keep track of the case the man has not recovered. He could walk around, but he smiled and babbled in a silly way, and his mind was that of an idiot. And, stranger than all, the woman never thanked me for what I had done or made mention of the affair, though I saw her three or four times a day for two weeks. M. QUAD.

LONG-LIVED

NOCONA'S WIFE THE WHITE SQUAW

Wonderful Story of Cynthia Ann
Parker

AND TEXAS BORDER DAYS

Girl Captured by Indians
Wedded Comanche Chief
—Son Now Rules Tribe.

(Written Especially for the New Mexican.)

Seventy long years have gone by since Cynthia Ann Parker was lost to civilization. In the days when old Fort Parker was destroyed the great empire state of Texas had a population of only 30,000. They were harassed by over 5,000 hostile red skins, chief of whom were the Cadeos and Comanches. Over 8,000 semi-civilized Indians roamed the prairies, the most friendly being the Choctaws and Chickasaws. Most of our frontier history is rapidly passing away as the old pioneers, one by one, cross the great divide. Like the lost mines of the adventurous Spaniards, vast historical wealth is irretrievably lost for the want of some one to put to record the rich reminiscences of the Texas heroes. It was lately my fortune to know and talk with one of the veterans who was with the rangers that captured Quanah Parker. From him I got the story of the white squaw and her boy—chieftain of all the Comanche tribes.

In the fall of 1823, the Parker family moved from Cole County, Illinois, to Texas. The elder Parker was a Virginian by birth. He lived for a while in Georgia, but raised his family principally in old Bedford County, Tennessee. It was from this county, in 1818, that he moved to Illinois—then a country far west. To speak of Texas, even in the thirties, was but to mention the land toward the setting sun. It had a far, far away sound. But the elder Parker and his sons dreamed of the distant lands on the frontier. And they came to build their altars there in a howling wilderness. And what is more strange, they came to be massacred by the Comanches whose savage braves were destined to be ruled over by the blood of the very family they sought to wipe out in that terrible raid.

Parker's Fort.
These pioneers built Parker's Fort on the headwaters of the Navasota and about sixty miles above the settlements. It was a blockhouse, built about a mile west of the river and about two and one-half miles north-west of the present site of Groesbeck. The fort was established in 1834. At the time the Indians made their deadly raid—May 19, 1836—the following were in the fort: The Parkers, Plummers, Nixons, Kelloggs, Prodd, Dwights and the Faulkenburgs; Mrs. Duty, Silas Bates and Abram Anglin—representing 22 adults and some 15 or more children. They were all in the fort on the night of the 18th—the night before the raid.

It was 9 o'clock on the morning of May 19th, 1836—that tragic day, like so many others that have made Texas a soil redeemed by her martyrs' blood. What would our mighty history be were it not for these bloody chapters that tell of the fall of forts and recount the heroism on such fields as Goliad and San Jacinto? To tell the story of these battles and our Alamo around our firesides is to teach our sons that they're born of Spartan blood.

James W. Parker, Nixon, the two Faulkenburgs, Bates and Anglin, were off to the fields some distance in Navasota bottom. Suddenly, as if rising from the very dust, hundreds of Indians were seen riding toward the fort. They came within three hundred yards, and having halted, raised a white flag. Benjamin Parker went out to treat with them. He came back and said that he believed the Indians intended to fight, but that he would treat with them again. He went—but he never returned. Pandemonium set in. Amidst savage screams and blood-curdling war whoops, the whole band charged the fort now defended only by two men. Execution was speedy and horrible. It was the common story of an Indian massacre. From this sad rehearsal let us turn away to follow the fortunes of those few who lived to be even carried in captivity. For there was a mother who was compelled to lift her nine-year-old daughter, Cynthia Ann, and her little boy, up behind a warrior. The Indian turned his pony's head to the far-away Comanche land. As he rode from view Cynthia Ann was born from her mother's arms, only some day to rock on her own bosom a baby born to rule the warriors that stole his mother in the years of the long ago.

THE BEAUTIFUL ESPANOLA VALLEY

Finest Possible Conditions for Fruit Raising—Abundance of Water.

The Espanola Valley of the Rio Grande beginning twenty miles north of Santa Fe and extending north twenty-five miles to Embudo is perhaps the greatest irrigated valley in New Mexico. No other valley has a better climate, soil, variety of products or more abundant supply of water for irrigation. The soil in this valley is free from alkali, cold, stormy winters or excessively hot summers; it is shut in by high mountains and as a fruit district the conditions are almost perfect. Thousands of acres lie uncultivated and eighty per cent of the waters of the great Rio Grande roll by unused. Home seekers are settling here rapidly and more are welcomed to help make this beautiful valley the best in the Rockies.

For further particulars in general, prices of bearing orchards, improved and unimproved lands, etc., address Roscoe C. Bonney, real estate and immigration agent, Espanola, New Mexico.

Rochester Paper Tells of Work of Professor of Geology in New Mexico School of Mines.

A recent issue of the Times, published in Rochester, one of the leading cities of the state of New York, contains the following concerning Dr. Clifton James Sarle, who has been selected to fill the chair of Geology at the

New Mexico School of Mines, at So-

city yesterday for Socorro, New Mexico, where he is to take the chair of geology in the New Mexico School of Mines.

"Dr. Sarle was born in New Berlin, Orange County, and at an early age moved to Rochester, receiving his early education in School 7. He became interested in Indian relics and collected until he had one of the largest private collections in this part of the state. Before he graduated from

Rochester High School, which he did in 1898, he sold his Indian relics to a

New England college, and decided to devote himself to scientific study, specializing in geology. He graduated from the University of Rochester in 1902 with the degree of Bachelor of Science. The next year he took his master's degree. The next fall he entered Yale for post graduate work for a doctor's degree. The sudden death of Professor Charles Beecher, geologist at Yale gave Sarle an apportunity and for a year he taught economic and historical geology at Yale. Last June the faculty conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

"While at the University of Rochester, Sarle was assistant to Professor

Herman L. Fairchild, being in charge of nearly all the classes in field work.

For two summers he was instructor in geology at Professor Arey's science camp at Canandaigua. He was employed for two years on the New York

State Geological Survey. He was engaged in mapping rocks, their out-croppings, extent and estimating the mineral deposits in the eastern part of the state, and also in the St.

Lawrence district and Lake Champlain. One summer was spent in the vicinity of Farmington, Conn., for Yale University.

"Dr. Sarle's articles on the Economic Geology of Monroe County have attracted attention and comment, and are considered authoritative. He has also contributed to the bulletin of the American Geological Society and to the American Journal of Science.

"The work of Professor Sarle at the Socorro college will embrace in addition to general geology, special attention to the mineral deposits of

word in Texas, was only eighteen and on his college vacation. He took command of 13 friendly Indians—Wacoos, Tehuacanos, Toncahuas and Caddoes. Van Dorn readily accepted their services when tendered and they entered on the famous campaign. Ross and his command took the lead; Van Dorn with his dragoons and supply trains brought up the rear. When Ross reached the Wichita Mountains he sent a trusty Waco and a Tehuacano to scout the Wichita village seventy-five miles east of the Wichita River. He hoped to find the camp of the savage Comanches whose raid had worked such awful havoc on old Fort Parker. The scouts were amazed to find that Buffalo Hump and his band of Comanches were in the village trading and gambling with the Wichitans. When night fell they stole two Comanche ponies and hurriedly carried word to Sul Ross. Buffalo Hump was the one chief among all the hostile tribes against whom Van Dorn's campaign was directed. Ross had a hard time to make him trust the word of his scouts. At last he persuaded Van Dorn to make a forced march with his dragoons against the village.

The Attack.

The sun was just rising on the first day of October. Van Dorn with his dragoons and Sul Ross with his 135 redskins struck the Wichita village like thunderbolts out of clear skies. Buffalo Hump and his powerful band were almost wiped from off the face of the earth in the first assault. Van Dorn's command fought like demons for they saw afresh the scenes of old Fort Parker. Many prisoners were taken. Among them was "Lizzie." She was a white girl for whom no relative was ever found, nor a solitary soul that could give the faintest recognition. Sul Ross adopted, reared and educated her with all the tenderness of a father. She reached a graceful womanhood, married, and died among the flowers and sweet perfumes of California. The next great epoch in frontier history was:

The battle of Pease River, where after the dragging years of a quarter of a century had gone by Cynthia Ann Parker lifts her form above the horizon of a civilization from which she had long since faded away.

When the leaves began to fall in 1860, a powerful band of Comanches made a terrible raid through Parker and adjacent countries. Under the leadership of Chief Nocona they spread ruin and disaster along the war-trail. Sul Ross, now a captain of the Texas Rangers, with a force of forty rangers, twenty dragoons from the regular army, and seventy citizens out of Palo Pinto County, took the Indians by complete surprise at their camp near some cedar mountains on the headwaters of the Pease River. They were packing horses preparatory to the desertion of the camp when Sul Ross and his command swept upon them like a whirlwind. In less than a half hour he had killed or captured everything in sight except Nocona who, with an Indian behind him, broke for the mountains six miles away. On a swift pony, the chief's squaw, with a baby in her arms, rode beside him. Ross and Killdeer pursued them like devils. Ross soon came within range and killed the Indian riding behind Nocona. It proved to be a woman, hidden by a great buffalo robe. In her fall she unhorsed her chief by a death-grip. A deadly combat was drawn between Sul Ross and the Comanche chieftain. At last a shot from his revolver broke the Indian's right arm and he could no longer pull the bow-string. The ranger then shot him through the body. Walking deliberately to a tree, he leaned against it and began to sing his death-chant—the only privilege a red-skin ever begs of his foe.

Angers having arrived, Nocona was commanded to surrender. He answered by a vicious thrust with his lance. A rifle ball brought the death-song to an abrupt close, and Nocona's shield, quiver, and war-bonnet, were hung among the trophies at the state capital.

A White Squaw.

The squaw and the child captured by Lieutenant Killdeer proved to be Nocona's. The trained frontiersmen at once discovered that she was a white woman bronzed by the winds and the suns of the plains, that her eyes were blue and that she was weeping. They told her not to cry for they would not hurt her. For twenty-five long years an unbroken search had been made for the missing girl of old Fort Parker. Somehow it dawned on them that they had found the white squaw, the fallen chieftain's wife. The Indian neither weeps nor laughs. He is stolidly indifferent to any emotion that stirs the white man's breast. But she said she was crying not for herself but for her two boys, as she thought, slain in the battle. She was carried to the settlements and readily identified as the long lost Cynthia Ann Parker. A quarter of a century in the wigwags of the Comanches had made her as perfect an Indian as if she had been born around their camp fires. She had forgotten every English word. Civilization was so unbearable to her that she sought every chance for escape. A close watch had to be kept over her for days and days. Slowly the recognition of childhood scenes stole in upon her savage sense. At last she became contented in her brother's house in Anderson County. Her little "Prairie Flower"—the baby that rode with its mother alongside Nocona's fatal flight—died. In less than two years, Cynthia Ann Parker was tenderly laid beneath the flowers that bloomed on the grave of her little barbarian.

Her two sons did not fall in the battle of Pease River. Several years afterward, one died on the great plains of Texas. The other son lived to become the famous Comanche chief—Quannah Parker. He was born in Wichita Falls, in 1854. He rules his people on their reservation in the Indian Territory. He speaks the English tongue, and is quite advanced in civilization, and owns a well stocked ranch.

Thus ends the tragic story of a stolen girl who made the circuit of all the savage west, died an alien among her own, longed for the wild freedom of the estacadoes and dreamed of an Indian love grave enough to sing his death song.

Female Weakness

"Last Fall," writes Mrs. S. G. Bailey, of Tun-nelton, W. Va., "I was going down by inches, from female disease, with great pain. After taking Cardui, Oh! My! How I was benefited! I am not well yet, but am so much better that I will keep on taking Wine of Cardui till I am perfectly cured."

Despite the envious attacks of jealous enemies and rivals, Cardui still holds supreme position today [as in the past 70 years] for the relief and cure of female diseases. It stops pain, tones up the organs, regulates the functions, and aids in the replacement of a misplaced organ.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Wounds, Bruises and Burns.

By applying an antiseptic dressing to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, they may be healed without maturation and in about one-third the time required by the old treatment. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. An Awful Cough Cured.

"Two years ago our little girl had a touch of pneumonia, which left her with an awful cough. She had spells of coughing, just like one with the whooping cough and some thought she would not get well at all. We got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. She stopped coughing and got stout and fat," writes Mrs. Orly Bussard, Brubaker, Illinois. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Some Sayings By Uncle Silas

How He Founded the Town of Silasville and Was Termed an "Eminent Citizen."

(Copyright, 1906, by Eugene Parsons.)

I THINK I made my great mistake in life by asking for too much advice. I had read and heard that one's fellow men are ready and willing to tender advice, and I pushed the thing for all it was worth. As a consequence I got all twisted up and have been so ever since. My wife, on the contrary, went to a lawyer, laid down a fee of $5 and had her divorce from me in three months' time. The man who hasn't got enough gumption to work his own head or sense enough to go to a lawyer when he finds things too deep for him deserves all he gets, and he'll get a good deal.

I spent years giving my fellow men credit for a combination of sympathy and benevolence and then broke my leg to find out that I had been hugging a delusion. They came in by the dozen to see me and say how sorry they were. They were full of suggestions and expedients and encouragement. Hiram Jones thought it would be a good time for me to learn Latin while I was laid up; Obediah Whitefish suggested that I learn 100 chapters of the Bible; Aunt Sarah Brown said that Providence had arranged it thus so that I might be near home in case the baby swallowed a spoon of thread, and Deacon Truelove called my attention to the fact that no man lying in his bed with a broken leg was ever killed by the explosion of his own shotgun.

I estimated the sympathy of my fellow men during my misfortune at ten full barrels. I hadn't a dollar in cash in the house, and everybody knew it, but not a caller referred to the subject. They were too busy telling me that the accident was the work of Providence and that I must not complain.

For years and years it was a puzzle to me why all men were not honest. I can sit down today and show you cold figures to prove that dishonesty does not pay 1 per cent in dividends and that the honest man is always ahead of the game, but yet dishonesty is on the increase. I went on heaping up the measure when I sold potatoes and tendering 13 cents where I owed a man a shilling, and one day I woke up to the fact that about all my earthly possessions consisted of a bushel of old clothespins and a vinegar barrel.

I myself founded the town of Silasville. As its father, I helped it to grow and prosper. Folks said I was looked up to and respected. I was what is termed an "eminent citizen." If I had doubted that the whole town would have doubted. The time came when I thought it best to run for the legislature. I had every reason to believe that I would go in a whooping, clear, as a matter of fact, I was beaten clear back into the woods. It was a year later when a lightning rod man came along and solved the puzzle for me.

"Would you have sold your vote if you had been elected?" he asked.

"Certainly not."

"Would there have been any bootie to divide up?"

"Not a red."

"Well, there you are, and you needn't work your brains over the case any further."

Here seemed to be proof that lightning rod men were honest men, and I gave this fellow the job of rodding the barn. After I had paid him his price and he had departed I climbed up on the roof and measured his work and discovered that he had worked in fourteen extra feet on me.

"My son," said an old patriarch to me as I was starting out in life, "the secret of success is in knowing your fellow men. Study them and learn to know them."

That looked like good advice, but it didn't turn out that way. Just as I thought I had got a man sized up he would break out in a new spot. If I found him liberal toward the heathen of Africa I found him asking 50 cents too much for a hoe or shovel at home. If he heaped up the measure one day he would scribble it the next. What was his weakness at one time was his strength at another. As a matter of fact, after living over sixty years and studying my fellow men every day, I can't say that I know what my own brother-in-law would do under certain circumstances.

I don't wish to seem conceited when I say that I started out to speak the Belen is 31 miles south of Albuquerque, N. M., at the junction of the Main Line of the Santa Fe System—leading East and West from Chicago, Kansas City, Galveston and points East to San Francisco, Los Angeles, El Paso and Old Mexico.

1,000 business and residence lots, size 25x140 feet, laid out with broad 80 and 70-foot streets, with alleys 20 feet wide, with beautiful lake and public park and grand old shade trees; public school house, costing $16,000; churches; Commercial Club; a population of 1,500 people; several large mercantile establishments; the Belen Patent Roller Mill, capacity 150 barrels daily; large winery; three hotels, restaurants, etc., Belen is the largest shipping point for wool, flour, wheat, wine, beans and hay in Central New Mexico. Its importance as a great commercial railroad city in the near future cannot be estimated.

The lots offered are in the center of the city, well graded (many of them improved by cultivation); no sand or gravel. We need a first class bakery, tailor shop, shoe house, jeweler, plumbing shop, planing mill, coal and wood yard, drug store, harness shop, etc., etc., also a first class, modern hotel.

Our prices of lots are low and terms on easy payments; title perfect; warranty deeds. One-third purchase money, cash. Two-thirds may remain on note, with mortgage security, for one year, with 8 per cent. interest thereon.

truth to all men about all things. I think most of us make that mistake. "Truth is mighty and must prevail" is a watchword that appeals to us. It took me about five years to find out that my standing was generally regarded as worse than that of a liar. The world wants a little truth and a great deal of deception. It's like taking five drops of medicine in half a glass of water. In sticking to the truth I raised up enemies on every hand and finally came to know that I must make a change.

I am not seeking to discourage you from speaking the truth now and then, my son, but you must understand that truth is like a flaxseed pod: for use only on occasions. During the rest of the time you must either keep your mouth shut or claim that you are a little deaf. When we ask about a certain man we expect you to tell us the truth. When he asks about us we expect you to reply that you haven't got fairly acquainted yet.

I have not been able, with all my reading and questioning, to get what may be called the law puzzle worked out. We send lawyers to the legislature and to congress to make laws to be enforced. Those same lawyers come home to do their very best to break those laws. We print the laws in plain English language, and for twenty years they stand unquestioned and in force. Then arises a judge who puts a different interpretation on them and upsets the apple cart. A law is made to protect the people, and yet the lawyer who has the acumen to find loopholes in it is praised by the masses.

I hadn't seen a great deal wrong with politics when an old wheel horse sat down with me and satisfied me that the country was in danger and that unless a change was speedily effected the republic of America would be busted higher'n Gilderoy's kite and sixteen different kinds of anarchy prevail. What he wanted, and what he wanted me to want, was reform. It was about the first time I had heard of it. My cumbars had come along, and my potatoes had ripened without any special effort on the part of reform, and I was dwelling in blissful ignorance of the danger to the bulwarks of liberty when this old wheel horse opened my eyes. I took off my coat and got others to do the same, and we reformed politics and saved America. That is, we sent him up to Albany, and he was such a hustler and such a wise old wheel horse that he made $10,000 out of it and never treated one of us to a glass of lemonade.

There isn't the slightest doubt that this country is in the greatest danger today and that unless we have reform in politics right away we are going to bust up with a roar that will be heard all over Europe, but you can count me out. I'm not going to do a thing to check the impending disaster. I shall sit on my veranda and count my chickens in the yard and hear my hogs grunt in the pen and never sweat a hair. I know that before it is too late some Moses will rise up. He will yell for reform in politics, and he will set others to yelling, and a great wave will sweep over the country and purify and save it.

And on the crest of that wave, with their faces washed and their hair combed in order to disguise themselves, will be the same old crowd, with the same principles, and the boodle will be looked after with the same unfailing care.

Don't get discouraged, my son, and wish you had been born a horsefly instead of a human being. It's a good world to live in, and there's heaps of fun ahead for you, but you mustn't start out laboring under any delusions or hallucinations. Find out what's what and who's who and then go ahead.

MINES AND MINING.

Chaves County.

Oil in considerable quantities has been encountered in the well that is being drilled west of Roswell, at the new Cumberland City townsite, for James Sutherland, S. P. Johnson and C. P. Shearman. The well is down 990 feet and the first and the second artesian flows have been passed. Below the second flow, 100 feet of a very hard formation were passed and in this strata the oil was struck.

Dona Ana County.

The following encouraging mining notes regarding the camp at Organ are taken from the Las Cruces Citizen:

"The only mine in the Organ camp that has reached any depth is the Stephenson-Bennett, and it has not yet reached sufficient depth to be called a deep mine. But what can be said of the Stephenson-Bennett, it paid from the jump and as they go down the ore is more plentiful and richer. A small piece of lead or galena is on exhibition in Las Cruces which tips the scales at twenty-five hundred pounds, and according to report, there is an incalculable amount left where this chunk was taken out. Besides this lead ore, a lead of copper ore about four feet wide has cropped out which assays 20 per cent. The owners of these mines are now making extensive preparations to increase the output. The Torpedo, a few miles above has not yet fairly started, but they are pushing work as fast as possible, and it is expected that in two months more it will employ a full force. The old settlers at Organ are making preparations for the coming boom. On the east side of the mountain, the Dona Dora mine struck a large body of ore in their 700 foot tunnel, about 4 feet wide which according to assays, runs four ounces of gold, forty ounces of silver, and thirty-five per cent lead per ton."

BICYCLE TOURISTS SHY THE SCENIC

Had Strenuous Trip Over Highway From Here to Las Vegas—In City Again.

C. L. Wright and J. C. Wright, of Springfield, Missouri, the bicyclists who are touring the southwest on their wheels, returned to this city Tuesday evening from their trip to Las Vegas. After resting up here for a few days they will resume their trip (wheel) through Arizona and southern California. They expect to spend the winter at Los Angeles.

Messrs. Wright left here on the journey to Las Vegas by way of the Scenic Highway. They had easy going until they reached the uncompleted gap between the two cities, after which they were forced to walk most of the remaining distance either carrying their bicycles or trundling them along. While traveling over this route they encountered a rain storm and were drenched to the skin. They spent the first night at the Valley Ranch on the Pecos and the evening of the second day at Canoncito.

The cross-country riders went to Las Vegas expecting to meet Fred Johnson, another bicyclist from Springfield who reached Santa Fe a week or two ahead of them. Upon arrival at the Meadow City they learned that Johnson had given up the idea of going any further west and started back to his home in Missouri, whereupon they set out on the return trip to Santa Fe. They did not travel of the same route, however, on account of the hardships they were forced to endure and made better time over the regular wagon road.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Attorney E. C. Abbott is back from Aztec, where he has been on legal business before the recent term of the district court of San Juan County.

The Thimble Club, which is composed of teachers in the local public schools held its first meeting this afternoon at the home of Miss Alonzo. A pleasant social hour was spent with cards, music and conversation. The next meeting will be with Miss Barney at 210 Grant Avenue.

E. C. Burke left via the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad this forenoon for Aztec, where he will reside as referee at the fourth sitting of the right of way case of the Arizona and Colorado Railroad vs. the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad. The next hearing which will be the final one has been set for Tuesday.

Octaviano A. Larrozo, Democratic candidate for delegate to the 60th Congress, will be in Albuquerque next week where he will deliver a speech in behalf of the Democracy, at the Elks' Theater, Tuesday night. After making a tour of Bernalillo County, he will go to McKinley County, where he will end his campaign.

C. T. Brown, of Socorro, arrived in the city at noon on personal business. Mr. Brown has just returned from a ten days' trip into the mining sections of Chihuahua, where he made examinations on mining properties for eastern capitalists. He will remain here until tomorrow evening. He will attend the sessions of Santa Fe Lodge No. 1, A. & A. S. R., of Free Masonry this evening.

Adjutant General A. P. Tarkington will leave tonight for Albuquerque, where he will have charge of the rifle practice on the range near that city tomorrow, at which the participants will be members of Companies E and G, first Infantry, New Mexico National Guard. He will go to Las Vegas on a similar mission next Sunday. The open range target practice season which opened on May 1 will close on October 31, and the adjutant general is anxious that the national guardsmen of the Territory all have good scores to their credit.

During their stay in Santa Fe the members of the Midland Opera Quintet were the objects of quite a little social attention and they will have cause to remember the hospitality accorded them while in the Capital. Saturday evening after the concert given by them at the High school they were entertained informally at her home by Mrs. John R. McFie, at which the members of the Presby. Altarian choir were also guests.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fiske, Mr. and Mrs. W. Shearon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eble, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Garrett, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Diaz, Dr. and Mrs. David Knapp, and S. G. Cartwright. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woodruff were host and hostess at a dinner party Monday evening. It had been planned in compliment to Robert Massie of Toronto, Canada, but the intended guest of honor did not return in time from his hunting trip on the Pecos to participate. The guests were Attorney General and Mrs. W. C. Reid, the Misses Massie, Luckenbach, Walter and Dr. J. A. Massie.

Mrs. Massie and Miss Massie expect to leave about the 10th of the coming month for Paywood Hot Springs, Grant County, for a sojourn for Mrs. Massie's health.

Mrs. A. M. Bergere who has been on a visit to Hon. and Mrs. Solomon Luna at Los Lunas for a week, Mr. Luna being her brother, returned home Wednesday last.

Rev. George F. Sevier, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, has been out of the city this week, having left to officiate at the marriage of his sister in Denver. He was accompanied by his wife, and remained after the wedding for a short visit to relatives in the Queen City of the Plains.

Dr. Charles A. Wheelon will leave during the coming week for Denver to attend the reunion of the Masonic Scottish Rite bodies in that city and to visit friends. Dr. Wheelon is a member of the Scottish Rite Masonic Lodge in this city and will receive the degrees from the 15th to the 32d at the reunion in the Queen City of the Plains. He will be absent about ten days.

James M. Freeman, of Greeley, Colorado, a leading citizen and attorney of the Centennial City who has been in the city on legal business during the week, returned to his home yesterday. While here he was a guest at the Palace. Mr. Freeman visits the Territory three or four times a year on legal business and to look after landed interests for clients. He has done so since the year 1880 and always enjoys his visits.

E. A. Cahoon, cashier of the First National Bank at Roswell, which is one of the most prosperous and solid financial institutions in the Territory, was an arrival in the city last night en route to his Roswell home. He left this afternoon for the southeast via the Santa Fe Central and the automobile line. Mr. Cahoon is one of the most prominent citizens of his section of the country, a first class financier and occupies a high position in New Mexico Masonry. He spent this week in Albuquerque in attendance on the sessions of the various Masonic grand bodies in the Duke City.

Hon. Solomon Luna, of Los Lunas, president of the Bank of Commerce.

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT AFTER AMERICAN FISHERMEN.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The state department has been informed that the Mexican government has given instructions to gun boats and revenue cutters which are employed to break up the fishing by Americans in the territorial waters of Mexico, to refrain from any unnecessary interference with vessels outside of the three mile limit and to be as lenient as possible in other respects.

at Albuquerque, who has been in the city during the past few days on a visit to his sister, Mrs. A. M. Bergere, returned south Thursday night. Mr. Luna is a very busy man these days. He has many duties to perform as president of the Bank of Commerce in Albuquerque and must give much attention to his extensive business as a sheep grower; in addition he is the member of the Republican national committee from New Mexico and has to look after many political fences and after many politicians. He succeeds admirably as his well balanced mind and his quiet but determined way of doing business, enables him to accomplish a good deal in a comparatively short space of time.

A delightful musicale was held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Bishop. It was given under the auspices of the Woman's Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church. A small admission fee was charged for the entertainment, the proceeds to be applied to the fund being raised to pay for the new pipe organ which was installed in the church a few months ago. The concert consisted of instrumental and vocal numbers and was greatly enjoyed by the audience which showed its appreciation by hearty applause at the rendition of each selection. Those taking part were Mrs. W. H. Moore, Mrs. C. O. Luckenbach, Mrs. W. E. Griffin, Mrs. John Walker, Miss Florence Luckenbach, Miss Jean Schuell, Miss Walter, Miss Estella Bergere, Miss Mary McFie, and Charles Lingenefer. Misses Dougherty and Walter and Mr. Lingenefer had the vocal part of the program while the others presided at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Watson entertained at their home last night, their guests being members of the Birthday Club. Yesterday was the birthday of the hostess and the occasion was arranged in her honor. Mr. Watson issued the invitations several days ago calling upon the members to assist him in celebrating the sixteenth birthday of a child when he had taken to raise, and some of those bidden came arrayed in juvenile garb in a spirit of fun. Cards were played for which a birthday cake on which sixteen tiny candles were placed was awarded as the prize, but the feature of the amusement was a series of "living pictures." At 11 o'clock all present sat down to a jointly appointed meal and after its discussion the pleasure of the affair was enhanced by other diversions which appealed to the company. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fiske, Mr. and Mrs. W. Shearon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eble, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Garrett, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Diaz, Dr. and Mrs. David Knapp, and S. G. Cartwright.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woodruff were host and hostess at a dinner party Monday evening. It had been planned in compliment to Robert Massie of Toronto, Canada, but the intended guest of honor did not return in time from his hunting trip on the Pecos to participate. The guests were Attorney General and Mrs. W. C. Reid, the Misses Massie, Luckenbach, Walter and Dr. J. A. Massie.

Beginning on page three and ending on page six of today's New Mexican will be found a story entitled Nacoma's wife, the White Squaw, written especially for this paper, which for thrilling interest and unusual features rivals all of the stories of Indian days and pioneer life in the great southwest. Those who enjoy bright, well written human interest stories, with a semi-historical accuracy, should not fail to read this sketch. The facts set forth are borne out by history of that time and there still live men, who knew "The White Squaw" and her Indian lover who was brave enough to sing his death song, as he was shot down by his white foes.

Celebrated Suits For Alleged Land Frauds—Have Cost Government $125,000.

Special to the New Mexican. Roswell, N. M., Oct. 20.—Judge W. H. Pope at noon yesterday sustained the motion of the government for a continuance of the alleged land fraud cases against Tallmadge Brothers, J. H. McKinstry and C. C. Young, of Kansas City. The continuance was bitterly fought by the defense, who demanded an immediate trial and claimed that by a fair and speedy trial, they would be vindicated and acquitted. The principal ground on which the government wanted continuance was that the old cases, taken to the supreme court on appeal by the government, had not been settled. These celebrated cases in which the defendants claim persecution have cost them and the government combined over one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars.

The Republican county convention of Guadalupe was held Thursday at Santa Rosa, the county seat. The following candidates were nominated:

For member of the council from the fifth district which is composed of the counties of San Miguel, Quay and Guadalupe, Manuel C. de Baca; for member of the House of Representatives, Nasario Gallegos; for sheriff, Martin Serrano; treasurer and ex-officio collector, Jose Y. Armijo; assessor, Macabco Romo; for probate clerk, Placido Baca y Baca; for judge of the probate court, Manuel Gonzales y Armijo; for superintendent of schools, Fidel Gallegos; delegates to the constitutional convention, Celso Baca, and P. D. Morse; commissioner first district, Benito Delgado; commissioner 2d district, John Chapman; for surveyor, Lorenzo R. Labadie.

The convention was well attended, every precinct in the county being represented. In the evening of the day of the convention a Republican ratification meeting was held in the court house at which speeches were made by Mrs. F. D. Morse, Nasario Gallegos, candidate for representative and Mariano P. Larraque, of Santa Fe. The court house was crowded there being about 400 men in attendance and about 40 ladies.

The chances for Republican success in Guadalupe County in this campaign are of the best. The speech made by Mr. Larraque which consumed about one and a half hours was on the benefits to be conferred upon the people by the adoption of the Hamilton joint statehood law and the creation of the joint state of Arizona. Mr. Larraque's speech was enthusiastically applauded and the statehood sentiment in that section was aided greatly by his eloquence and the many beneficial points he dwelt upon in his address.
