TO REORGANIZE ENTIRE NAVY

Battleships to Be Formed Into Two Fleets.

VICE ADMIRAL CREATED

Rear Admiral Converse Ad- vises Radical Changes— Marines Go Ashore.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Completed plans for the organization of the fighting vessels of the navy into two fleets for service on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the United States in such a manner that the whole force may be readily mobilized in case of an emergency, were announced by Rear Admiral Converse in his report.

All Vessels to Be Subject to Im- mediate Command.

The concentration of the battle fleets in American waters, and the assignment of all the vessels therein to the command of one flag officer will be completed about January 1. The report says that the board of navigation has under consideration the withdrawal of all marines from battleships, and it says their duties can be performed by the blue jackets. The presence of the marines is frequently resented by the blue jackets.

Congress Should Pay for Officers So- cial Affairs.

The report says Congress should be asked to make appropriations for official entertainments on board of vessels when they are sent to foreign shores. It is argued that in their duty of showing the flag and cultivating the friendly and diplomatic relations in foreign countries, the officers, for the honor of their service, spend an appreciable amount of their own pay for entertainments which expense should be borne by the government.

Vice Admirals Again in Navy.

The grade of vice admiral will be revived in the navy if the Navy Department adopts the recommendation made by Rear Admiral Converse, chief of the bureau of navigation in his annual report. He says that at least two vice admirals should be created for the commanders of the Atlantic and Asiatic fleets, who will soon have under them, subordinate rear admirals and a larger number of ships.

TRAIN ROBBERS IN PENITENTIARY

Captain Fornoff and Special Officer McIntosh Bring Black Brothers and Murphy From Las Vegas.

Captain Fred Fornoff of the mounted police, United States Deputy Marshal Harry Cooper and W. O. McIntosh, special officer of the Rock Island Railroad, arrived in Santa Fe yesterday from Las Vegas, bringing John Black, James Black and John Murphy, the three men convicted of holding up and robbing a Rock Island express train near Logan, who have been on trial in the district court of San Miguel County. The train robbers were placed in the penitentiary here for safe keeping until December 22, at which time Judge William J. Mills will pronounce sentence upon them. The prisoners maintained their bravado air until the doors of the prison closed behind them, laughing and joking with the officers who, however, watched them closely. In speaking of this case to a reporter of the New Mexican, Captain Fornoff said:

"After their third trial, these men, who are desperate characters, have at last received their dues and will spend terms in the New Mexico Penitentiary. Had they been acquitted, Officer McIntosh was prepared to re-arrest them promptly and take them to Lawton, Oklahoma, where Rock Island officials want them for taking possession of a train, throwing off the trainmen and assaulting them with pistols. Mr. McIntosh has warrants for them on this charge now in his pockets.

"For the first time in my life, I have seen how much can be done to deceive the public by the fostering of a false sentiment for men who are mental, moral and criminal degenerates. Persons interested in the defense of these train robbers created a sick sort of a sentiment in their favor among certain classes of people in Las Vegas. It was the kind of sentiment that causes light-headed women to send flowers to the cells of men who have respect for no woman and publicly boast of it. The remarks made by those men to the officers while we were bringing them to prison yesterday were anything but complimentary to the women who took such an active interest in their defense. It appeared that this false sentiment would at first prevent a conviction of these men but after considerable difficulty, the attorneys secured a good jury and it did its duty. These train robbers, who are desperadoes of the worst type, will probably have other serious charges to face upon their release, which may aid in showing them up in an even worse light."

SIDEWALKS AND LIGHTS NEEDED

Citizens Urge Derelict City Council to Pave Montezuma Avenue Be- fore Legislature Convenes.

The needs of adequate sidewalk and street light facilities before the convening of the 37th Legislative Assembly, will probably be called about the fifteenth time to the attention of the taxpayers of Santa Fe by a petition which a number of business men propose to circulate for the purpose of stirring the City Council to action if such a thing is possible. While repairs and new sections of sidewalk are needed on a number of streets in the Capital, the most urgent place is along the streets leading from the business section of the city to the Union station and the Santa Fe Depot.

Some time ago a proposition was submitted to the city council, in which a number of property owners on Montezuma and Manhattan avenues and Hancock Street, agreed to do their share in laying sidewalks along these thoroughfares to the depots.

It was discussed pro and con at one session of the City Council and it was decided that five feet four inch brick sidewalks ought to be installed. The whole question was then turned over to a committee and that was its end, if the committee has done anything, no one knows of it.

R. H. Hanna, who, as attorney, represented property owners along these avenues in the attempt to secure sidewalks, and Judge N. B. Laughlin, who is also considerably interested in the matter, were seated in the latter's office when a New Mexican reporter entered this morning, discussing the question at issue. Regarding the sidewalk proposition they said:

"It is a shame and a disgrace to the Capital City that there are no sidewalks from its depots to the business center and that the streets are dark, muddy and in an abominable condition. Such a condition of affairs is bad enough at all times but right now, when preparations are being made for the entertainment of the members of the 37th Legislative Assembly, it is much worse.

"The City Council and the Mayor have had this matter called to their attention on a number of occasions. The trouble seems to be that no one is willing to go ahead and do a little something for the city. Several property owners have signified their willingness to do their part and even more. The railroads will place sidewalks on their property. It looks like the city could afford at least to start the ball rolling.

"The matter was apparently settled some time ago when a committee of Council members was given sufficient power to proceed in the matter. Now, however, it seems to be deadlier than ever. The Council meetings are cut short, and sidewalks are never mentioned. A number of the business men are considering the advisability of circulating a petition, requesting the mayor and the City Council to do something and do it quick. It will be great sport for the members of the next Legislature to slip and slide and dodge about those dark streets when they arrive on belated trains and find no cabs at the stations to meet them.

"There will be no trouble about securing street lights in the vicinity of the stations, if the City Council desires it done. It again appears to be up to the citizens to start what the mayor and the City Council should provide for."

ESQUIPULA BACA WILL CONTEST

For Seat of E. C. Abbott in Lower House From Tenth Legislative District.

Contest proceedings have been instituted by Esquipula Baca, defeated independent candidate for the Legislative Assembly from the Tenth Representative District composed of Santa Fe and Sandoval Counties, of the seat of Representative-elect Edmund C. Abbott. Attorney T. B. Catron of this city is engaged as counsel for Baca and the notice served on E. C. Abbott is of a voluminous character. Baca alleges that by an act of the legislature, Sandoval County is entitled to one representative in the Legislative Assembly, and he contends that Governor Hagerman had no power to make a re-appointment for legislative purposes. He further alleges that he was the only legal nominee of the Republican party in this county because he had been nominated by the Republican Central Committee, and that by the refusal of the probate clerk to place his name on the ballots he was deprived of at least 250 or more legal Republican votes. He also claims that the Democratic-Independent Republican ballots had been left blank as to candidate for representative from the district composed of Santa Fe and Sandoval Counties and that Abbott's name had been pasted thereon contrary to law.

THANKSGIVING AT ST. MICHAEL'S

Christian Brothers' College Students Hold Exercises.

MEMBERSHIP IS NOW 234

And Applicants are Being Turned Down—New Buildings Needed.

A Thanksgiving entertainment was held Wednesday afternoon at St. Michael's College under the auspices of St. Michael's Literary Society. The exercises took place in the seniors' study hall which was filled to its capacity by the students. The program was one well suited to the occasion and pleasingly varied to display the talents of the individual participants. Very appropriately the opening number was the singing by all present of "Columbia," and the closing vocal selection was a chorus rendition of "America," two of the favorite national anthems of the United States.

Brother E. Lewis, director of the college, prefaced the program. In an interesting address he told of the origin of the Thanksgiving observance and of the privations endured prior to the first celebration of the day by the resolute little band of pilgrims. He said that this country owed much to the pluck and sturdy pioneers who had helped blaze the path of civilization in the new world. He concluded his remarks by reading aloud the Thanksgiving proclamation of Governor Hagerman which was afterwards pinned on the wall back of the rostrum. It was a touching bit of patriotism and did not pass unnoticed. The act was greeted by spontaneous applause and the hand clapping did not cease until after the speaker had resumed his seat. The circumstances leading up to the adoption of Thanksgiving as a national holiday were set forth in an essay by one of the students.

Entertainment an Inspiring Sight. All in all the entertainment was meritorious and inspiring. Little time was spent in preparation for the event but in spite of this fact those taking part acquitted themselves creditably.

It would not be fair to single out any one for special praise as all shared alike in the unstinted applause. The program was interspersed with selections by the college orchestra and songs by the different classes. Five original essays were given by advanced students. Three of the compositions were biographies of presidents, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. The exercises were conducted entirely in English.

Over two hundred boys were assembled in the hall during the entertainment, and they enjoyed it fully as much as the spectators. When they turned their voices loose in the grand choruses the volume of melody welling up from their just throats seemed almost strong enough to raise the roof and drowned the efforts of the musicians.

St. Michael's Literary Society which had charge of the program is an organization founded in 1882. It has a membership at present of twenty-five. The students belonging are particularly proud of their organization, and on occasions of this kind wear their society badges planned conspicuously on their coats. The students have weekly gatherings at which literary programs are rendered. At these meetings some times several of the members are called upon for extemporaneous talks and at other times sides are chosen for a debate. These affairs not only add to the social life of the college and afford a means of recreation for a few hours, but they are also more or less instructive and serve to create a friendly rivalry among the students. Another salutary feature is the fact that those taking part in these college entertainments gradually overcome the timidity of appearing in public which is known to the theatrical profession as "stage fright."

Present Facilities Inadequate to Meet Increasing Demands.

"We simply cannot accommodate any more students," the college is taxed to the utmost," Brother E. Lewis informed a representative of the New Mexican. "We have been obliged to turn away a number of boys on account of the crowded conditions. We are unable to take care of any more day students or boarders."

The present enrollment at the college is 234. Of these all but about a hundred are boarding students. The attendance has been growing steadily year by year and it will be necessary to have another building erected to make room. The director is sorry that the college is hampered for a lack of facilities but he is making the best of the circumstances. He told the reporter that he wanted stress laid on the fact that the college is filled to the limit so that parents living in the surrounding country might know of the crowded conditions before going to the expense of sending their boys here as many others have done, and then were unable to gain admittance. He hopes to have additional quarters for the students before long.

St. Michael's College was founded in 1859 and was first housed in a few little adobe buildings by Most Reverend Archbishop J. B. Lamy and placed under the direction of the Brothers of the Christian Schools. In 1874, the institution was incorporated. Since that time, the college has grown steadily until now its curriculum embraces besides the primary and commercial branches, French, Spanish, German, Drawing, Typewriting, Phonography, Telegraphy, Chemistry, As-saying and various branches of music.

The discipline of the school is strict but not harsh. Students are not allowed to leave the college grounds without special permission and their correspondence, except with the members of their families, is watched. The young men of the college are encouraged in all manly sports, and their physical welfare is being looked after as carefully as their mental advancement and moral conditions.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

In Session—Attorneys Present—Jury Empaneled and Adjournment Taken.

United States court for the First Judicial District re-convened at 9 o'clock this morning. Judge John R. McFie presiding. A. M. Bergere was at his post as clerk. The government was represented by United States Attorney W. H. H. Llewellyn. The United States grand jury was organized this morning with Sabino Olivas of Park View as foreman, and George A. Parsons of this city as secretary. Nineteen of the twenty-three summoned were accepted. Practically all of the forenoon was spent in examining them as to their qualifications and the jury was finally empaneled at 11 o'clock. A recess was then taken until 2:30 o'clock.

R. B. Thomas, of this city, and Juan Archuleta, of Espanola, were excused from jury service for good and sufficient reasons. The personnel of the jury is as follows:

Ignacio Padilla, Santa Fe; Eulogio Maes, Santa Fe; Juan J. Ortiz, Santa Fe; Manuel Rodriguez y Ortiz, Santa Fe; Melencio Vigil, Santa Fe; Leandro Martinez y Ortiz, Santa Fe; George A. Parsons, Santa Fe; Macario Suazo, Placita; Onecimo Martinez, Arroyo Hondo; Jesus Campos, Ojo Caliente; Francisco Sena, Costilla; Eli-seo Lujan, La Jora; Sabino Olivas, Park View; Manuel Duran, Truchas; Enrique Abeyita, Park View; Jose V. Cordova, Abiquiu; Roman Atencio, Embudo; Juan I. Martinez, Chimayo; Jose I. Alire, Petaca.

No session of the court was held yesterday on account of Thanksgiving. United States Attorney W. H. H. Llewellyn did not arrive here until late Wednesday night and the special session scheduled for that evening had to be abandoned. The grand jury entered upon the discharge of its duties this afternoon and it is intimated that among the first matters to be investigated are the alleged fraudulent coal entries in Sandoval and San Juan Counties.

In the latter county it is reported that the Utah Coal Company will appear. Juan B. Martinez and Seferino Baca have been appointed as bailiffs. George W. Armijo is the court interpreter, while Ireneo L. Chavez is interpreter for the grand jury. No court crier was appointed for this special term of court and the court is officially opened by Deputy United States Marshal H. F. Bogh.

SALADO SHEEP HERDER DEAD

Employee of Big Livestock Company a Victim of Blizzard—Another Missing.

Ex-Governor Miguel A. Otero received the sad intelligence this noon that the body of one of the sheep herders of the Salado Livestock Company, on the Salado, Guadalupe County, had been found yesterday. The herder was frozen to death during the recent blizzard which was so severe south and east of Santa Fe. Another herder is missing but his flock was found yesterday and it is feared that he too has succumbed to the cold. The loss in sheep was comparatively small, but the company would much rather have lost heavily in stock than these two faithful herders who gave their lives for their flocks. The remains of the herder found yesterday will be taken to his home at La Cuesta, San Miguel County.

Dortmund, Germany, Nov. 30.—The revised list of casualties resulting from the explosion on the night of November 28, at the Witten Robert factory, shows that thirty persons were killed, sixty severely injured, and one hundred and eighty less seriously hurt. The town of Witten, near the factory, presents a sad scene of mourning and destruction.

TEAMSTERS TURN STATE'S EVIDENCE

In Trial of Strike Leader C. P. Shea.

DISSENSION IN THE RANKS

For Year Manifested in the Court Scene—Caused Sensation.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—The dissensions which for the last year have prevailed in the ranks of the teamsters' union here, today were carried into the trial of Cornelius P. Shea who, in company with sixteen other men, is on trial for alleged conspiracy in connection with the great teamsters' strike of June 1905.

Union Leaders Entered Pleas of Guilty.

Albert Young, former president of the teamsters' union, William Kelly, business agent of the coal teamsters' union, and William Murphy, said to be a member of the "wrecking crew" during the strike, withdrew their pleas of not guilty and entered pleas of guilty. All of the men declared their intention of turning state's evidence. This incident caused intense excitement in the court room and took the other defendants completely by surprise. Shea and Young had for years been close friends and worked through a number of strikes side by side. Since the last convention of the teamsters' union, however, they have been opposed to each other. A recess until this afternoon was requested by the defense and was granted.

Jealousy Caused Split Between Leaders.

The trouble between Young and Shea resulted from the efforts of the former to secure the presidency of the International Teamsters' Union. He represented an element in the union that opposed Shea and was dissatisfied with his methods of conducting the Chicago strike. Shea was re-elected and Young then organized a rival organization which is known as the United Teamsters of America.

Street Brawls Caused by Rivalry. In the last two years there has been bitter strife between the teamsters, and assaults and fights on the streets have occurred frequently.

FIVE MORE CONVICTS.

Brought From Otero County to Peni- tentiary—Crimes on Which Convicted.

Sheriff A. B. Phillips of Otero County reached the city last evening via the Santa Fe Central from Alamogordo, the county seat. He was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Bernardino Gomez and had in charge five prisoners tried, convicted and sentenced at the term of the district court for Otero County, held last week by Judge Edward A. Mann.

The prisoners were turned over to the Territorial penitentiary on arrival and are as follows:
Ciriaco Morano, 17 years of age, sentenced two years, for murder in the second degree. Morano was charged with having killed one Medina on Christmas 1905 near Alamogordo in a fight.

James Nevins, 30 years of age, larceny, one year. Nevins had broken into a jewelry store in Alamogordo and stolen some diamonds and jewels. He was arrested by Sheriff Phillips immediately after the committing of the crime and gave bond. He ran away, forfeiting his bond. The sheriff discovered his whereabouts and followed him to San Francisco, where he was rearrested and brought back to Alamogordo.

Manuel Aviso, 26 years of age, larceny, two years.
Necador Cadero, 24 years of age, beating a woman, eighteen months' imprisonment. Cadero quarreled with his sweetheart and beat her, inflicting severe injuries.

Pedro Romo, 26 years of age, wife-beating, one year.

Sheriff Phillips and guard returned home at noon today. A term of the United States District Court for the Fifth Judicial District has been in session in Alamogordo during the week and the sheriff expects that there will be some convictions in the session. The Territorial term was very effective, the petit jury consisting of good men and the criminal docket was nearly cleared.

DEMOCRAT GETS CIVIL SERVICE JOB

President Appointed John A. McIl- henry on Commission—Caused By Cooley's Promotion.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—President Roosevelt today announced the appointment of John A. McIlhenry of Louisiana to fill the vacancy on the civil service commission caused by the promotion of A. W. Cooley to be assistant attorney general of the Department of Justice. McIlhenry was a member of the Rough Riders of which Roosevelt was the colonel during the Spanish-American War. He is a Democrat and his appointment makes the board a Democratic one. Commissioner Black also being of that faith.

16 PRISONERS GAIN FREEDOM

By Sawing Cell and Window Bars of Jail.

TEN DESPERATE MEN PLAN

Bold Break—Six Others Fol- lowed When Released by Guards.

New York, Nov. 30.—Ten of the most desperate prisoners in the county jail at Long Island City have escaped from that institution and are still at large. The first four prisoners to get out sawed the bars to their cells and of a window opening into the corridor of the jail at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Escape Was Easy After Gaining Yard.

Once in the yard they had only to climb a fence and were free. The absence of the men and the sawing of the bars was unnoticed when the keepers opened the cell doors and allowed the other prisoners to enter the corridor at 6 o'clock this morning. Six other prisoners immediately crawled through the hole in the window and escaped.

THE LOGAN TRAIN ROBBERS' CONVICTION

Celebrated Case—Three Trials—Con- sumed Thirteen Days.

Major W. H. H. Llewellyn, U. S. attorney for the district of New Mexico is in town attending to his official duties before the special U. S. grand jury now in session here. Major Llewellyn was seen by a representative of the New Mexican and concerning the celebrated trial of the Rock Island train robbery case which closed Wednesday last at Las Vegas, after thirteen days duration, had this to say:

"The Black Brothers, John and Jim Black and John Murphy were tried on indictment charging them with holding up a Rock Island Railroad train at Logan, New Mexico, on July 30th, 1904. They have had three trials. In the last after being out 17 hours the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. The defense was well conducted and strenuous, but the defendants were found guilty on the several counts in the indictment being four in number. Pending a motion for a new trial which will be heard before Chief Justice Mills later, the defendants were brought to the Territorial penitentiary in this city yesterday and turned over as United States prisoners for safe keeping.

Naturally the cases entailed much work on the part of myself and assistants, namely, Captain David J. Leahy and Edward L. Medler. The fact that the trial lasted thirteen days establishes this pretty well. The preparation of the case also took much time and considerable labor. Thirty witnesses were examined, all of these brought from a distance, some of them as far east as Oklahoma and others as far north as Denver. The jury was composed of very good men, most of them property owners and tax payers. They were all native born citizens of New Mexico, of Mexican descent, but the majority spoke English and the members acted in an intelligent, conscientious and careful manner.

"As far as I can see there is no error upon which to base successfully a motion for a new trial.

"Quite a number of the good women of Las Vegas took an active interest in the defendants and saw to it that they suffered for nothing. I am always glad to see men in jail under indictment well treated and supplied with good and wholesome literature and made as comfortable as is possible under the circumstances."

"Upon being asked what the United States grand jury was working on the major would not talk. He said that there was but one way to get this information and that was when the grand jury returns indictments and makes its final report.

A term of the United States Court is now in session in Alamogordo, presided over by Judge Edward A. Mann. Assistant United States Attorney David J. Leahy represents the United States. There are several cases ready for trial and several cases will be presented to the grand jury.

DISTRIBUTION OF PARTY VOTES IN NEW MEXICO.

To those who were under the impression that Chavez was the leading Democratic County of the Territory, it will come as a surprise to learn that San Miguel cast two and a half times as many Democratic votes at the last election and that even Santa Fe has more Democratic voters than Chavez County. As a matter of fact, Chavez County is only eighth among the counties as to its Democratic vote. San Miguel led with 2,728 votes for Larrazolo, Bernalillo was second with 1,976 votes for him, Rio Arriba was third with 1,554 votes and Colfax was fourth with 1,412 votes although it gave a phenomenal Andrews majority. Santa Fe was fifth with 1,226 votes for Larrazolo and Grant sixth with 1,220 votes, while Mora was seventh with 1,156 votes. Chavez comes eighth with 1,137 votes for Larrazolo, and Socorro ninth with 1,029 votes. All the other counties gave less than a thousand votes for the Democratic candidate and ranged in the following order: Union 916, Eddy 914, Roosevelt 873, Dona Ana 852, Guadalupe 827, Otero 741, Quay 569, Lincoln 548, San Juan 547, Sierra 399, Luna 343, Torrance 291, McKinley 218, Sandoval 191 and Valencia 168. The significant fact about the above figures is that the so-called strongly Democratic counties cast only a small aggregate vote, while the Democratic vote that really counts comes from the strongly Republican counties. The total Democratic vote of the Pecos Valley, for instance, is not near one-seventh of the total Democratic vote cast. On the Republican side this is different, for what are considered the leading Republican counties of the Territory also cast an aggregate vote that makes up by far the greater per cent of the total Republican vote. Bernalillo led with 2,255 votes for Andrews, which is the more remarkable, because here it was that the Fakir Journal thundered forth against and lied about the Republican candidate for delegate and is supposed to have the most influence. Colfax County came second with 2,182 votes for Andrews, while San Miguel has to be satisfied with third rank, 1,945 votes, which is not so bad considering that it was the home of the Democratic candidate and the Democratic chairman. However, two years ago, it stood first. Socorro was fourth with 1,648 Republican votes, and Valencia fifth with 1,577 such votes. Rio Arriba was sixth with 1,323 votes for Andrews. Santa Fe seventh with 1,280, Taos eighth with 1,760, and therefore holds the same relative rank in the Republican Party as Chavez does in the Democratic. Dona Ana was ninth with 1,059 and Mora tenth with 1,006 votes for Andrews. The other counties cast less than a thousand votes for Andrews as follows: Sandoval 829, Grant 783, Union 710, Guadalupe 660, Lincoln 623, Otero 613, Torrance 603, Chavez 467, San Juan 411, Sierra 394, Quay 348, Eddy 321, McKinley 294, Roosevelt 246 and Luna 182. Two counties therefore gave him a vote that was less than his plurality over his Democratic opponent.

The Socialists cast fewer votes than had been anticipated by them or by other party leaders and it seems as if Socialism is not one of the immediate dangers with which New Mexico is threatened. In only ten counties were any votes cast for W. P. Metcalf, the Socialist candidate for Congress, Bernalillo leading with 78 votes, Quay County being second with 47 votes, Roosevelt third with 42 votes, Santa Fe fourth with 16 votes, Colfax 9 votes, Sierra 6, McKinley 5, and Chavez and Lincoln each 2 votes for the Socialistic standard bearer. A study of these figures will dispel many notions that probably the majority of voters hold regarding the relative strength of each party in each county.

WHY GIVE THANKS?

It is to be feared that in spite of the annual celebration of a "Thanksgiving Day," the virtue of gratitude is on the decline and its place is taken either by a spirit of discontent or of indifference. People who receive blessings and gifts consider them a just due and if the measure of their reward is less than that of a neighbor, they feel that they have just cause for grievance. The only gratitude very pronounced these days is that of the Pharisee, that for being better or better off than a fellowman. Even in children, as a rule, nowadays, there is a noticeable absence of gratitude even for the self denial and care of parent. All this is regrettable, and if "Thanksgiving Day" is really devoted to nurturing the spirit of gratitude towards omnipotence, towards superiors, towards relatives, towards friends, towards humanity in general, then much will have been achieved in the cause of happiness.

If one examines causes of unhappiness, they will be found to be summed up in the lack of appreciation of what is in possession and hankering after that which is out of reach. The man who is thankful because he has good health, because he is able to do his work well, because his community is prosperous, does not need to search for happiness; he already possesses it, and of what use is existence except it is to be happy or to make some one else happy?

This is a simple philosophy, but one that works in every day life. There is no man so poor, so neglected, so ill, so maltreated but can find some cause for thankfulness, even if it is

TEACHERS' AND FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

The cause of public education is furthered by the frequent holding of teachers' institutes, both local and of a general character. It is a poor city or town school system nowadays that does not have at least, once a month, a conference of teachers and an institute at which opinions are exchanged and new ideas in teaching are advanced. In New Mexico, every county is by law compelled to hold such an institute once a year and those who attend it are compelled to, under penalty of losing their positions if they are absent without adequate excuse.

What holds good in teaching, is also more or less applicable to other branches of human endeavor, but in none more than in farming. Probably in no other occupation does experience count for so much and is an exchange of opinions so valuable. Great results are being accomplished in many commonwealths by farmers' institutes and similar results would be attained in New Mexico. The problems of the Arid West and especially of the Land of Sunshine, as far as agriculture is concerned, are so unique, so interesting and so far from ultimate settlement, that an interchange of experiences and opinions at frequent intervals should be of especial value. The faculty of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts is ready to encourage the holding of farmers' institutes and will help to make them interesting by sending to them men to take the lead in discussions, to demonstrate what has been tried in a scientific way at the agricultural experiment station and also to tell what theory has to say upon the many aspects that farming presents. The recent development of dry farming for instance, can be aided much by the meeting of farmers of every county at least once or twice a year to tell how and why they succeeded or failed along certain lines. Such gatherings would be worth money not only to those who participate but to the entire commonwealth. If the coming legislative assembly can devise ways and means for encouraging and facilitating the holding of farmers' institutes it will have contributed something worth while to the welfare of the Territory.

FAIR FREIGHT RATES NEEDED.

The pinon crop in the mountain regions of the Territory, especially in the central and northern parts, is great this year, and would prove valuable could the pinons be shipped east to confectioners who use these pine nuts in making certain kinds of candy which are very popular, have a ready sale and bring good prices. A merchant of this city arranged for the delivery of two carloads here for shipment to New York. This would have given quite an income to the growers who would be people in poor circumstances and to whom the pay for this work would be a very welcome addition to what little they now make. It was found that while customers in New York City were ready to buy them at the freight rates were so exorbitant as to prevent even the consideration of carrying out the plan. The railroad systems entering this city would charge no less than $35.00 per car, the car to contain not less than 24,000 pounds. This is but a small item but it is a straw showing which way the wind blows. There are other products in this Territory that could be developed so as to do well were the railroad rates arranged so that shipments could be made to eastern centers at a fair rate.

RATHER NARROW MAJORITIES.

A careful inspection of the returns of the November election shows conclusively that the country came dangerously near to being saddled with a Democratic House of Representatives in the 60th Congress. The Republicans will have a majority of 52 and the election returns show that thirty of these were elected by average majorities of only 250 or under. A change of 150 votes in each of these congressional districts would have given them to the Democratic candidates. If this had happened a small Democratic majority would have been the result in that body. Of course in elections a miss of a roll is often as good as a miss of a mile, but these very narrow majorities are not pleasant to contemplate. Viewing this question from another standpoint, New Mexico did not do so badly, although to all intents and purposes it did poorly enough. There is comfort in the thought that Delegate W. H. Andrews will not be the only member of the House of Representatives of the 60th Congress who was elected to that body by a narrow majority.

San Juan county possesses one of the largest belts of good bituminous coal in the United States. It has a fine natural water supply, the best of agricultural land, raises fruits, grain, and vegetables in abundance, enjoys a speedy and profitable market at its doors and is a fine stock raising country. Its climate is superior. The people ought to be prosperous and they are. The population is naturally increasing at a gratifying rate. The residents there should be satisfied and thankful and the New Mexican hope they are.

New Mexico is the only commonwealth in the United States wherein District Attorneys are not chosen by the people in popular elections. Even corporation ridden and trust magnate controlled Arizona elects district attorneys by a popular vote. The people should govern themselves whenever possible by officers elected bi-annually. Rotation in office is not at all a bad thing under the present form of government of this country.

Judge Pinckney has incurred the ill-will of the Chicago police by stopping the inhuman practice of "sweating" prisoners. Chicago police are not the only ones who frequently find it easier to "sweat" a confession out of the innocent than to catch the guilty.

Now that Stensland and Hering, his cashier, are both in the Joliet penitentiary, the authorities should see that they have no opportunity to start a bang for the other convicts.

Famous Dime Museum Freaks

"One of the funniest freaks I ever ran across," said Frank M. Drew, an old timer in the dime museum business, to a Cleveland Plain Dealer reporter, "was Millie Christine, the two-headed nightingale."

"Millie certainly could sing. And she had two heads all right enough, which caused me several times two kinds of troubles."

"Millie was colored and highly educated. The heads would hold conversations with each other in all sorts of languages. She had traveled all over the world as a freak, and she had learned every language."

"She could give an entire programme by herself. First she would sing an alto solo, and then a soprano solo. Occasionally she would sing a duet."

"She had four arms and four legs. When it came time for the instrumental music she could play a simple thing with two hands, or she could play an intricate composition with four hands. Great girl, she was. The most expensive exhibit I ever had was Lucy Zarote, the Mexican midwife. She was really the smallest woman in the world. She was about 22 inches high, and played like a little child. She got $20 an hour for sitting on the stage."

"I don't believe there ever was a boy who hasn't heard of Barnum's 'what is it?' The bills called him Zip. He was a southern colored man with a peculiar shaped head. I don't believe anyone really figured out just what was the matter with him."

"Living skeletons and fat men and women were plentiful as the air. The best skeleton we ever had was Isaac Sprague."

"Isaac used to walk around with a can of milk in his hand to keep himself alive. He sure was a thin one. We had a fellow who was almost as thin as Isaac, who could eat anything and everything. I never saw such an appetite. Still, he couldn't get fat."

"During one particular week we had two fat women on exhibition. 'Big Laura' Wolford was the star, and Hattie Bowen was the other. Laura was colored, Hattie white; Laura weighed almost 1,000 pounds, and Hattie weighed a little less than 800. A Circassian girl could be made in a few minutes. All that was needed was a luxuriant head of hair or a good white wig. Nothing else was needed except a little bleaching material for the long-haired girl."

"Jo-Jo and Creo were the once famous hair man and hair woman. Both were completely covered with hair—real hair, too. There was nothing fake about them."

"The camel girl was a funny looking object. Whenever she walked she walked away from herself. From the thighs down her legs were turned the wrong way. If she stooped over her knees would stick out behind like a camel's."

"Ivanovitch, the Siberian exile, was one of the most versatile exhibits. He was a hideous little fellow, nearly covered with hair."

"One day he would be the exile. Next day he might go into a cage and be a wild man. He got a better salary for being a wild man, but it didn't make much difference to him which he was."

"If anything he would rather play the exile, because the wild man had to try to eat raw meat. Ivanovitch didn't like that much."

"Trip was the armless wonder. He used to travel with Barnum's. Trip was really good. He could write, sew, feed himself and do anything else merely by the use of his toes."

"We had a girl, too, who was born without arms. She went Trip a little further and played the piano with her toes. That is no joke."

"Next to the Circassian girls, snake charmers were easiest found. Anybody could go into a cage with the snakes."

"Bill Doris had the largest one that ever played Cleveland. One of them died at the museum. It swallowed a big woolen blanket and choked to death."

"Sad end for him. The Market got caught in his teeth. You know their teeth slant backward, so that whenever food is swallowed it has to remain in the stomach until it is digested. That is what queered this reptile."

"The ossified man I found up in Canada. I brought him down here by paying the expenses of himself and his son and giving them a little money. They stirred up the most attention the museum ever had."

"Myrtle Corbin, one of the four-legged girls, was a good drawing card until she was married. In her travels she found a man from Kentucky and married him. Now she has three of four children. They live in the Kentucky mountain region, and so far as I know are perfectly happy."

"Annie Jones was the best bearded lady we ever had. She married a lecturer with the museum. It is a peculiar thing about freaks that practically all of them are married. They marry each other, or they marry some one who wants to 'get in on' the salary they make."

"We got a lot of free advertising out of Lizzie Mills, the big-footed girl. We had an offer published of $5,000 to any one who would marry her. We never had to make good with the money for no one would take her. If her feet were concealed she was really a nice looking girl. She had an attack of elephantiasis, I guess."

Driver of the Coach

By ALLEN C. REDWOOD

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"The stage coach was coming down a long, steep siding, where the newly-made road had been blasted out of a rocky cliff overhanging the Hell Gate river."

"The wheelers, holding back for all they were worth, were sliding on their hooks, their collars horizontal and the pole pointing skyward. At the bottom of the grade the road, turning sharply to the right, crossed the river on a wide pole bridge. There was not room enough for the team to swing 'round; the leaders kept straight on down into the bed of the stream until the pole lay across the road, then, as the wheelers came 'round, the little mares in the lead scrambled like cats up the side of the bridge, and the team straightened out again."

"Pretty bit of work, that," I commented. "Fair to middlin', for a scrub team," he admitted. "Smart little mare, that off leader," I hazarded presently.

"Oh! she'll do for this kind of a job." He glanced my way, spat deliberately and added: "Most o' you eastern folks don't keer to notice a hoas unless he's been clipped and got his tail chopped off short—like them tally-ho teams you see speakin' 'bout, a time ago. I 'low some o' 'em would 'a been bothered to make that 'ere turn though, don't ye reckon?"

"I reckoned," and further dropped the hint that I was an old trooper, and a looked beyond a clipped coat and a "banged tail" in estimating the points of a horse. The random shot scored a bulls-eye, I had "got him where he lived." He, too, had served in a Kansas cavalry command, mostly on the frontier of Indian Territory. After the war he had drifted west, following various callings. There was material for a book in his reminiscences, punctuated by an occasional digression which must have given the recording angel a steady job—ending always with a persuasive "Come up, Kiddy," to the little dun mare in the off.

"Yes, ye've got to have some 'savvy,' and keep yer eye peeled all the time over most lines this side o' the Rockies," he "allowed." We had just passed a place, going up the Bitter Root divide, where the road wound around a knoll on the natural slope, and where the uphill wheels trod so lightly that in order to keep the coach on a keel, all available live ballast had had to "hike out to windward" wherever we could find footing. "But that ain't a patchin' to some places I've saw in the Gunnison country. Ye're all right, s'long's ye know yer team and got daylight. But you take it of a pitch-dark night, snow and sleet a-drivin' in yer eyes, s'not yer can't tell where yer leaders is 'cep'tin' by the feel o' yer reins, and yer hands that stiff ye can't even be sure o' that, and like's not, a new team, jist off'n the range and not one o' 'em ain't never looked through a collar before! Then see ef ye can do the trick. Ther' ain't no tally-ho frills on that job—it takes drivin', that does. I'm tellin' ye straight."

"Road agents, ye say? Oh, yes. I run into 'em a time or two; not on this route though—out in Arizona and onct down Bolsas way. They didn't make no trouble though, neither time; jist took what they wanted and lit out peaceable-like—no shootin' nor fuss."

"There isn't generally, it seems from all accounts."

"Not unless there's some tenderfoot aboard at ain't cut his eye-teeth, and gits laid out afore he gets the chance ter. There's a good many eastern folks has your idee. It reminds me o' the pictures you used to see on the cylinders o' the old pattern Colt 32's—one feller standin' off a hull outfit o' agents. But I'm tellin' ye—them roosters don't take no chances, nor they don't aim to give ye no show for yer money. An' ye don't never know but what the feller 'longside o' ye ain't in cahoots with the gang—people travelin' 'out here is mostly strangers to each other—and that yer first move fur yer gun won't be yer last. Like's not they don't want nothin', only the Wells-Fargo freight; they're out fur the stuff, every time, you bet! Now, s'pose the coach was to stand off a gang—she's got to come back that same way, and drivers ain't paid fur gittin' filled up with buckshot. Not much! No, sir! When you hear a feller sing out 'Hands up!' jist ahead o' ye of a dark night, ye kin jist go yer pile he's a-holdin' high cards agin ye, and they ain't no sense in buckin' the game then."

"As we topped the divide, the wind came black off the summits of the Bitter Root range, and the snow, which had been threatening all the afternoon, began to drift down, capping off in swirling drifts across the open bunch grass plateau."

"The road on the long down grade grew so slippery that the brake had little power to check our descent and we bowed down at a pace suggestive of disaster should anything give way. The visible world was all one color when the lights of Deer Lodge showed dimly through the murky twilight and our smoking team pulled up in front of the hotel. It had been chilly work for the last two hours, and we promptly lined up at the bar:

"Five whiskies!"

"Well, so long, gents," said my late companion, as he set down his empty glass—"must go turn in my waybill. An' say, pard—if ye meet up with any o' them tally-ho ducks, back east, tell 'em I'm thinkin' o' comin' on ter jine the next parade, will ye?"

NEWS BRIEFS FROM ROSWELL

Banks to Have Metropolitan Hours—Hotel Forced to Close Because of Negro Help.

Roswell, N. M., Nov. 30.—Roswell banks have turned over a new leaf for the coming year and will adopt metropolitan hours. The doors will not open until 10 a. m. instead of 9 a. m., and they will close at 3 p. m., instead of 4 p. m. The rule will be enforced as to bank doors, not even wealthy patrons being allowed special banking privileges. The banks will close at noon on Saturdays. Notice of the contemplated changes have just been issued.

Roswell Elks are planning to erect a club building on a lot owned by the lodge on West Third Street opposite the Carnegie Library. The Roswell Electric Light Company is buying coal of local dealers. Three car loads of the fuel billed out of Trinidad for the company three weeks ago has probably been confiscated by the railroad company as the result of the blizzard.

The snow fall here during the recent blizzard was about 20 inches in several sections of the Pecos Valley. It was nearly two feet deep. The lowest temperature reported was six degrees below zero. Several boys had their hands frost bitten.

The manager of the hotel at Lakewood has been forced to close as a result of a boycott by traveling people. He could not keep help at Lakewood and imported negroes which created unfavorable comment. The hotel with its furnishings had been leased for two years so his loss is quite heavy.

LITTLE COLONY IN OTERO COUNTY

Cedarville, a New Town on Site of Pinon—Fertile Little Valley Brings Settlers.

Cedarville, N. M., Nov. 30.—Cedarville is the name of a little settlement of new comers in Otero County, drawn to the spot by the rich though small valley. The town is located about 15 miles east of Avis, and is in the center of a little valley ten to fifteen miles in length and half as wide. Water is cached in tanks and crops and fine fruit are raised by irrigation. About twenty families have found good homes and comfortable livings in this little valley where a few years ago only cowboys and wild cattle roamed. Land which was homesteaded recently will later be worth several hundred dollars an acre.

THE STAMP OF TRUTH.

Santa Fe Residents Know it Well.

There is the stamp of truth on a statement endorsed by people we know, by our friends and neighbors. The following experience of a Santa Fe citizen is but one case of scores right here at home.

C. M. Conklin, ex-city clerk, living on San Francisco Street, says: "There came to my notice some time ago a case of hemorrhoids, commonly called piles. They were of the bleeding, protruding variety, and itched intensely. Doan's Ointment came to the notice of the party afflicted and was procured at Ireland's Pharmacy and a course of the treatment given. The first application soothed and a continuation of its use for some time longer radically disposed of that far too prevalent plague."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

RUNNING SORES COVERED LIMBS

Little Girl's Obstinate Case of Eczema—Instantaneous Relief By Cuticura—Little Boy's Hands and Arms Also Were a Mass of Torturing Sores—Grateful Mother Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES A HOUSEHOLD STANDBY"

"In reply to your letter I write you my experience, and you are privileged to use it as you see fit. Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble. In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison oak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms were a mass of torturing sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Soap, and anointed them with the Cuticura Ointment, and then gave him the Cuticura Resolvent. In about three weeks his hands and arms healed up; so we have lots of cause for feeling grateful for the Cuticura Remedies. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do twelve miles from a doctor, and where it costs from twenty to twenty-five dollars to come up on the mountain. Respectfully, Mrs. Lizzie Vincent Thomas, Fairmount, Walden's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13, 1905."

Four carloads of sheep for Snyder & Roediker of Fort Morgan, Colorado, arrived here last night via the Santa Fe Central Railway. The lambs and wethers were shipped from Torrance.

Justice of the Peace Jose Ma. Garcia has his court located temporarily in the sheriff's office at the jail building. The floor in his former office was torn up today while a trench was dug to the new jail building for the water pipes.

Word received from Dr. B. Brown and Mrs. Brown, who spent several months here recently for the benefit of the doctor's health, is to the effect that they are now in El Paso. Dr. Charles A. Wheelon and A. H. Broadhead, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, spent yesterday on the Arroyo Honda hunting. They had a nice time but were not too successful. That section of Santa Fe

County has been hunted over very thoroughly of late and the quail and rabbits have taken precaution and gone where they cannot be easily molested.

Word has been received here of the arrival on the 23d instant of a fifteen pound baby boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Turley, formerly of Santa Fe, who are now residents of Blanco, San Juan County. The bouncing youngster gives promise of becoming as robust as his daddy. Heartiest congratulations are extended to the proud parents by their many friends in the Capital.

Thanksgiving day was celebrated in great style yesterday at Estancia. A feature of the festivities was a big supper last night with turkey and all of the accessories which was a free for all feed. After the feasting a dance was inaugurated which was also a complimentary affair and did not require an invitation. Santa Fe musicians furnished the musical inspiration for the dancers.

Thanksgiving day was not one of rejoicing yesterday at the home of Ignacio Garcia. The illegitimate lord and master was in a quarrelsome mood and was arrested on a charge of wife beating. It was alleged that he pulled the wife's hair, kicked her and otherwise abused her. He was given a chance to explain his conduct this afternoon at 2 o'clock before Justice of the Peace Jose Ma. Garcia.

EDWARD EHLE.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are two days of all the year when family reunions are universal, and the wayfarer usually tries to reach his own fireside for these two festive occasions. The Santa Fe hotels yesterday had big turkey dinners to tickle the palate of the commercial drummers and tourists, and cause them to forget any feeling of homesickness that the associations of the day might evoke.

THANKSGIVING-TIDE.

(By Miss Carrie Olson, pupil at Loretto Academy.)

Monotonous, dull is November's grey sky,
Life's song is not writ in a minor key;
Cold, dead are the tones of the winds that sigh
And lingering the notes that mournfully die.
As the snow falls incessant o'er land and sea.

The verdure of summer no longer is seen,
Enshrouded in white lies our fair mother earth;
The velvet not downy, trees drooping—not green,
All, all seemeth pensive, as mourning past sheen,
Thanksgiving's for blessings yet ever have birth.

Without, all is dreary and lifeless and seer,
Save bright, happy faces we everywhere see;
But within there is gladness and wholesome cheer,
Thanksgiving occurth but once in a year,
The spirit presiding is mirth, gaiety.

No life's phase so gloomy but has features bright,
No music so soulless that none is impressed;
Triumphant the day o'er the darkness of night,
Clouds blackest and densest have linings of light,
For all thanks to Heaven, then all are we blest.

BRAKEMAN INJURED IN STRANGE ACCIDENT

Near Clifton, Arizona—Thrown From Train, Struck Mountain, Rebound and Was Run Over.

Clifton, Ariz., Nov. 30.—A brakeman, Clarke by name, was run over and seriously injured between this place and Lordsburg recently after being thrown from the train, striking a mountain side, rebounding and being run over. That he lived to tell the tale is the remarkable part of the accident. Clarke was adjusting a chain on the brakes on a train which was en route from Lordsburg to this place, when it rebounded knocking him from the car against the mountain side.

Rebounding he landed just alongside the track in position to be caught by the wheels of the private car Arizona, which cut off his right foot and mangled his right hand and arm to the elbow. The accident occurred between three and four miles from Clifton, but was not noted until after the arrival of the train, when the engine was cut off and the brakeman was missed.

The porter at this juncture recalled having noticed a slight jar and mentioned the fact, whereupon the engine was reversed and a quick run made back over the road by Superintendent Wagstaff, Master Mechanic Clark, train dispatcher Wiltener and Roadmaster Blair, in search of the missing man, who was found sitting up by the side of the track supporting his broken leg with his left hand.

He was brought into town and removed to the hospital. Mr. Clark came here from Cincinnati several months ago. He has a wife and family in Ohio.

PECOS VALLEY MAN FOUND WITH HEAD SHOT OFF

John Chester, a resident of the Pecos Valley, was found dead a few days ago on the Felix River near Hagerman, with his head blown entirely off. A shot gun was lying under his body. There were no powder burns on his flesh or clothing and it is believed that he was murdered. Officers are investigating.

THE MESSAGE FROM HOME

If you're an attack of "homesickness"—('tis not a serious malady, but it ought to be humored)—write me at once for particulars of our Home Visitors' Excursions to be run October 23 and November 13 and 27. ### KANSAS CITY LIVE STOCK

Received at Yards—Railroads Unable to Furnish All the Cars Needed.

Special to the New Mexican.

Kansas City, Stock Yards, Nov. 26. The cattle supply is holding up well, and is only limited by the ability of railroads to deliver stock from the range country at the markets. The market is firm all the time, demand good from all sources. Medium class cows weakened a little late last week, but market on them is good today. The run is 15,000 head today, market steady on cows, strong on stockers and feeders, while fed steers are weak to 10 lower. Weakness on fed steers today is caused by an excessive supply at Chicago, and 10 to 15 lower market there. Sales of range cattle last week were at the highest point of the season, and some very good strings of cattle were included. Colorado feeders at $4.25, New Mexico and Colorado yearlings at $4.25, bulk of the stockers and feeders at $3.35 to $3.85. Colorado cows and heifers at $2.00 to $3.00, Panhandle and New Mexico cows and heifers $2.00 to $2.25, heavy calves $3.25 to $4, veals around $6, bulls $2.25 to $3, canners $2 to $2.50, killing steers $3.75 to $4.25. Fed cattle have been selling at $4.75. Good at $4.15 to $3.50, including all grades of finish, which prices are 75 cents to 1 per cent. above this time a year ago, and the flattering prospects ahead of feeders are including many belated feeders to buy cattle and the demand for heavy feeders is greater than the supply.

Sheep and lambs are in small supply now, not much from the range, and only limited numbers of medium class stuff from the feed lots. The market closed last week 10 to 15 cents higher and is strong today, though not at all tested by the small run of 1,500 head. Prime fed lambs are worth $7.20 to $7.40, fair to good lambs $6.40 to $7, a few range Colorado last week within these figures, yearlings up to $6.20, weathers $5.65, ewes $5.25. Feeding lambs bring $5.50 to $6, stock sheep $3.50 to $5, according to quality.

The New Mexican can do printing equal to that done in any of the large cities. Our solicitor: Every piece of work we turn out. Try our work once and you will certainly come again. We have all the facilities for turning out every class of work, including one of the best binderies in the west.

The New Mexican Printing Company is prepared to furnish cards de visite for ladies or gentlemen on short notice, in first class style at reasonable prices, either engraved or printed. Call on the New Mexican Printing Company and leave your orders.

THE GIRL AT THE MILLINER'S

By ISABEL HOWARD

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"I don't quite like this hat you trimmed for me. Can you alter the arrangement while I wait?"

"Certainly, Miss Hilda. I am very sorry it did not give satisfaction."

"Oh, there isn't much the matter!" and the young girl proceeded to instruct the milliner as to the alterations she desired.

"If you will sit down a few minutes, Miss Hilda, I will take the hat to the workroom and put it right."

Miss Hilda, however, could not sit still for long. She moved about the showroom, examining the goods with critical eye and, while thus engaged, the curtains which shut off this department from the shop opened and a lady and gentleman entered.

The former was tall and dignified, albeit young and beautiful.

Bestowing the merest glance upon Hilda, she said, in somewhat haughty tones:

"Will you please show me some sailor hats?"

"Certainly, madam. White or black?"

"Oh, of course—white!"

It was easy to select a goodly number from the pile on the table, and Hilda handed one after another, trying to make some apropos remark respecting each.

But a sudden confusion overwhelmed her on discovering that the man's eyes were fixed upon her face. Could he be anyone she ought to know? Surely she had never seen him before. If so, what must he think?

Luckily at that moment the milliner returned, and Hilda made a sign to her to attend to her new customer while she herself slipped into the background, feeling rather hot and uncomfortable.

When the two had departed, she said:

"They took me for one of your assistants, so I—"

"Oh!" the tone was quite shocked, but Hilda laughed gayly.

Meanwhile the other lady and her brother were riding home in a smart little dogcart.

"You know, Theo, there is nothing for you but a rich marriage," she was saying. "Where should I be now if I had not married well?"

"Exactly so!"

An irritated expression came into his eyes. "It is so different for a woman, though," he said. "And moreover, you were safely married before the crash came."

"Yes, thank goodness! But I don't understand the other part of your remark."

"Why, a man ought to be able to fend for himself, without wanting his wife to keep him. No, I can't do it!"

"Can't do what?"

"Make a mercenary marriage."

"Why, dear boy, only this morning you said that you had never been in love—that one woman was the same as another to you, and that you did not care whom you married so long as she was passable to look at!"

"Yes, but I am not going to marry; I intend to have just one little fling for the next few months while my cash lasts, and then go—oh—to the Klondike, the Philippines—anywhere."

"Theo! Are you mad?"

"No—just recovering my senses and my self-respect."

"Everyone says that Miss Eversley is very pretty, and she is fabulously rich."

"Oh, hang Miss Eversley!" And mentally, he continued: "But that little milliner! What glorious eyes she has, and what exquisite coloring, and what a mouth! The idea of such a divinity having to earn her living in a place like that."

"At all events, you will see her next week, and then you can judge for yourself."

"See—whom?"

"Why, Miss Eversley, of course. Were we not speaking of her?"

She would have been hugely disturbed could she have watched Theodore during the ensuing days. He haunted the little market town of Norton until he felt that he knew every pane of glass in every one of the windows, and before the day was planted himself for a full hour at a time every morning, reading the various tickets, examining the goods, and now and then venturing boldly inside to buy a pair of gloves or a necktie, until the proprietor began to regard him as an amiable lunatic.

"And to think she is a shop girl!" he said. "Her face, her voice, her accent are all perfect! Of course her dress must be—they have to dress well to keep up the honor of the establishment. Oh, hang it all! Why is fate so unkind? I know Miss Eversley will be wild if she gets a glimpse of the state of affairs, but—either that girl shall be my wife or I will remain a bachelor."

On reaching Mrs. Bertram's house, one morning he found that lady in a great state of excitement.

"I have seen her!" were her first words.

"And who is 'her'?"

"Miss Eversley. She is a lovely little thing, Theo, and—she is fancy free, for her own mother said so."

"To you! On first acquaintance?"

"No, indeed! I happened to overhear a remark she was making to an old friend of hers. I went to return their call to-day, and though I only had two minutes of the girl's company, I am convinced she would satisfy even you."

"And I am quite equally convinced that she would not!" he returned, almost savagely.

"Why, Theo, I cannot imagine what has come over you just lately. You used to be quite agreeable to the idea of my looking out for a wife for you."

"Well, I have changed my mind and prefer to do the looking out myself. Forgive me, Miss Eversley, I did not mean to be a bear, but you must acknowledge that the fact of your having managed your own affairs so well does not prove that your direction in mine would be equally satisfactory. Money and love do not always go together."

"You used to say love did not matter," she pouted.

"And do you indorse that statement? Would you be happy if you disliked Jack?"

"Oh, well—I couldn't do that, you know. He is—Jack. But you will see her to-morrow night at the Smith's dinner."

A desperate resolution had come to him. He must see the girl at Parker's. Accordingly, he wrote a note, trying to express all he felt. Then he walked into Norton, marched boldly into Parker's.

"This is my second childhood," cackled the tough hen, as she saw the preparations being made to execute her and serve her up as spring chicken.

ker's shop and through the curtains, as if he might be intending to order millinery for his sister.

To his disappointment, only the elder milliner was there and, with some difficulty, he made her understand that he wished the epistle delivered to the girl he had seen on his former visit.

The good woman was fairly non-plussed at first, then after a moment's thought said she would deliver the missive.

When her day's work was at an end she walked to the other end of town, went up a long drive leading to a fine old country house, at the door of which she asked to see Miss Hilda.

The young lady received her very kindly, but blushed a good deal on hearing what she had to say.

"And who is the gentleman?" she asked.

"A Mr. Wilding—brother-in-law to Mr. Bertram, who has just rented the Bonner's home for the summer," answered the milliner.

When left alone, Hilda sat for some minutes before opening the note, and was astonished to find that her heart was beating excitedly. The perusal left her more excited still.

"Really, Theo, I shall have to leave you at home if you are so absent-minded!" remonstrated Mrs. Bertram on the following evening.

"I wish you would!" he made answer, gloomily. "Jack is quite able to take care of you without me."

"Certainly. But you were expressly invited, and unmarried men are more welcome than bachelors, as a rule."

They were the first arrivals at Mrs. Smith's, and in quick succession after them came sundry dowagers with heavy husbands, sporting sons and courted daughters.

"The Eversleys are late," remarked Mrs. Smith. But just then the door opened and they were announced.

Theodore looked up with an air of vexed inquiry. What would this girl be like whom his sister was trying to force down his throat?

He saw an exquisite dress, a faultless figure and—the face of his little milliner!

For an instant the room seemed to turn round with him and he was only recalled to his senses by feeling his sister's eyes fixed upon him triumphantly even you."

antly. Though he had not the happiness of taking Miss Hilda Eversley in to dinner, he sat next to her and, under cover of other people's conversation, managed to say:

"Is it really you or is it your double?"

"Here or in Parker's shop?" was the saucy reply.

"Then you are one and the same! I cannot understand!"

"I am not surprised at that. I will explain some time."

Then he summoned up courage to say: "Did you receive my letter?"

Her eyes dropped and she answered: "Yes."

"Are you offended? I could not help it."

"Why should I be if you really could not help it?"

"And your reply?" he was emboldened to ask.

"I thought it would be better to deliver it in person."

It was an odd place for a proposal—a noisy dinner table—but two hearts were as happy as if they had had the whole universe to themselves, and it never even struck Theodore to remember that, after all, he would be making a wealthy marriage.

SIDEWALK TELLS A FIB.

Jim Crosby Suffers Injustice Because of Newfangled Invention.

"It all resulted from Jim Crosby's wife's curiosity to know how Jim passed his time while she was visiting her mother in the next town. Jim's wife had a brother who ran a novelty factory in the city, and she induced him to make a musical sidewalk, about 15 feet long, leading from the street to the front door. It was so fixed that when you stepped on a plank a clear bell-like note was struck. If you walked fast it played a quickstep. If slow and looting like a dirge. If you sidestepped it was a discord. And when you opened and closed the door it registered just the hour you arrived, home. She wound it up, good for eight days, and went away contentedly.

"I shall remain at home every night, dear," says Jim, as they said farewell.

"You'd better," says she.

"And the peculiar part of it was Jim did stay at home. He had a repentant spell and we couldn't get him to budge from the house for the whole week. But we didn't know anything about the musical sidewalk and little reckoned that it was piling up evidence against Jim. You see, we got to running up to Jim's door at odd hours and dancing a teasing morris on the walk, just to coax him out. We heard lively music when we did it, and supposed Jim was playing some instrument inside to accompany us. And he thought we were serenading him. Then he'd come to the window and grin a denial to our prolonged invitation and at last we'd go away.

"Well, when his wife got back she produced the dial and records and his eyes bulged when she told him what had been keeping tabs on his exits and entrances.

"I'm mighty glad I was good," he sighed with relief.

"Then she opened the mechanism and gave a scream. For all our carryings-on were faithfully recorded. The first record showed he had spent the night dancing on the walk to the tune of 'Don't Treat My Baby So.' From the second record she deduced he was repentant and sentimental, as it showed a staggering effort, accompanied by 'She Is Sleeping in the Valley by Request.' And so on for the entire week. Of course, we all tried to make her believe the truth, but when she leaves home now she takes him with her, and the sidewalk is relegated to playing only one tune, 'When the Harvest Days Are Over.'"

Causes of Insanity.

In England, where everything that is excessive in a great civilization is to be found, mental alienation is frequent. Many special causes contribute to this, such as ill-assorted marriages; which engender hereditary insanity; hazardous and desperate speculations; the frequency of commercial crises, the increasing fluctuations of political life, the lateness peculiar to the rich, the abuse of fermented liquors, and, lastly, the immense number of religious sects.—London Hospital.

Enthusiasm.

Nothing is so contagious as enthusiasm; it is the real allegory of the tale of Orpheus—it moves stones, it charms brutes. Enthusiasm is the genius of sincerity, and truth accomplishes no victories without it.—Edward Bulwer.
