GROWING BUSY TOWNS

Editor Newkirk of Artesia Says Prosperity and Plenty Abound.

Among the visitors in the Capital this week is D. L. Newkirk of Artesia, Eddy County, editor and proprietor of the Pecos Valley News, a firm believer in the future of the Southwest, particularly the section from which he hails, and an energetic and industrious citizen.

Mr. Newkirk hails from Girard, Kansas, having located only a few months ago in Artesia, with his family. He was attracted to New Mexico by the salubrious climate and publications of the Bureau of Immigration. Mrs. Newkirk being in failing health, he concluded that southern New Mexico was the place for her.

After reaching Artesia he decided that the Southwest was good enough for him and started the Pecos Valley News, a Republican paper of merit.

"I am here to stay too," said Mr. Newkirk to a New Mexican reporter, at the Hotel Claire yesterday.

"I cannot see how anyone can come to New Mexico and ever want to leave. The Pecos Valley in particular seems like a garden of Eden to me, and I am here to stay."

"By the Pecos Valley, I refer more specifically to Eddy and Chaves counties. People do not yet realize how large a tract of land is embraced in these two counties."

Large Area of Fine Lands.

"They contain something like 16,200 square miles, being about 162 miles from north to south and 108 miles from east to west."

"There is at present only one disagreeable feature, and that is to go from Roswell to Carlsbad or vice versa, one must travel seventy-five miles. Residents in Chaves and Eddy counties sometimes have to go further to reach their county seats to transact business."

"But one forgets such incidents in viewing the magnificent, highly cultivated bodies of land, well watered either by artesian wells or other sources of supply."

"The crops raised on the lands of the Pecos Valley rival any I ever saw anywhere in the United States. Fruit and alfalfa are the leaders but all sorts of grains, garden truck, etc., are raised in abundance. Our melons are the finest in the world."

"The climate of the Pecos Valley is of the best. The summers are just warm enough to be delightful, the nights are cool and healthful and the winters are mild."

Rainfall Increasing Every Year.

"The older residents in the valley say that the amount of rainfall is steadily increasing in our district and I do not believe it will be long when irrigation will be a thing of the past with many farmers. Last season enough rain fell to raise abundant crops. The amount of moisture now in the ground is great."

"Good lands, crops and opportunities of course mean thriving towns and businesses."

"There are no better towns in New Mexico than we have in the Pecos Valley and prosperity is the rule and not the exception with our people."

"One of the youngest towns is Artesia, my home, which now has a population of 2,000. The town was started only a little over three years ago. It has good, substantial business houses and residences, cement sidewalks, a city water plant, a $10,000 school house, two newspapers, two flourishing banks, four hotels, a wholesale house, a telephone system, several churches, a good nursery and a college for girls, now in process of erection."

Land Values Not Unreasonable.

"Unimproved land in the vicinity of Artesia can be bought for from $15 to $40 an acre while relinquishments on homesteads and desert claims may be secured at much less."

"In the vicinity of Artesia are a number of fine little towns that are growing daily and promise to develop into substantial business centers."

"Monument, in eastern Eddy County, is rapidly forging ahead."

"Lakewood, eighteen miles south of Artesia, is in the hands of progressive people and surrounded by rich, well watered lands."

"Eight miles south of Artesia is Dayton, which is coming rapidly to the fore and is in every way a credit to the county."

"Lake Arthur, ten miles to the north of Artesia, need only be known as the center of the shallowest artesian wells in the district. There can be no question as to its future."

Population is Cosmopolitan.

"I could go on telling of the progressive towns and people all day without exhausting all I could with justice say."

"We have a cosmopolitan population in the Pecos Valley. Carlsbad numbers a majority of Southern people among its population. The people of Roswell are mainly Southerners also. Artesia too has many Southerners."

LAWLESSNESS NO REMEDY

Trade Competition Not Race
To Govern Pacific Coast--
Scares Disturbers

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 14.—"No congress could pass a Japanese exclusion act," said David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford University in addressing a meeting at Equity Hall last night of Socialists by whom he had been invited to speak on the Asiatic problem.

"And no President would sign one because it would be a hoodlum act."

Nation Should Be Gentleman.

Mr. Jordan quoted President Roosevelt as saying that as a general rule, "it paid for a nation to be a gentleman," and he was of the opinion that the remedy of immigration troubles did not lie in lawlessness, nor yet in mass meetings denouncing the Japanese as a nation because they did not go to the same Sunday School as we attend."

About Mastery of Pacific.

It is all nonsense, he said, that we have to fight with the Japanese to see who shall have a mastery of the Pacific. That country will have the supremacy which has the best goods to sell, wrapped up in the most attractive parcels and for sale at the cheapest prices. He said he believed the Japanese were sincere in their desire to stem the unskilled labor immigration to this country.

BRIGHT ATTORNEY
TO NEW MEXICOC. J. Roberts, of Trinidad, Colorado, Admitted to Bar Here and Will Locate in Raton.

Attorney C. J. Roberts, of Raton, who recently was admitted to practice the legal profession in New Mexico, is assistant counsel of the Yankee Fuel Company, and its allied interests in Colfax County. He is also president of the Trinidad Publishing Company, which owns the Trinidad Advertiser. He was until a few weeks ago the business manager of the newspaper but resigned that position in order to enter upon the practice of law in Raton.

Mr. Roberts is a native of Indiana. Prior to his departure from the Hoosier State he was practicing the legal profession at Madison, Jefferson County. He began his career as a full fledged lawyer in 1894. When he hung out his shingle with "attorney at law" following his name, his capital consisted of a suit of clothes and $65 cash. But he had an unlimited amount of nerve and was filled with the energy of youth which made up for the lack of worldly goods and he was successful from the very start.

Held Position of Trust.

From 1897 to 1899 he served as district attorney of the Fifth Judicial Circuit of Indiana. In 1900 he was elected county attorney of Jefferson County and of which Madison is the county seat. He held that position until last year having been re-elected after he had come out west.

Failing health caused him to seek a change of climate about a year ago. He had been so engrossed in his law practice that his health began to suffer and he was advised by his physician to take a needed rest of a few months in Colorado. In December, 1905, he arrived at Denver and after remaining there for three months he returned to Trinidad. The Trinidad Advertiser was on the market at that time and he leased the plant.

Although he had never been engaged in the newspaper business previously he finally succeeded in picking it up a paying investment and last July organized a stock company under the name of the Trinidad Publishing Company. He was elected as president and business manager.

Will Locate in Raton.

A few weeks ago he was offered his present position as assistant counsel and accepted. This necessitated his removal to Raton. His wife and children are still residing at Trinidad but will make their home at Raton as soon as Mr. Roberts is able to find a suitable residence.

Judge Jesse G. Northcutt, of Trinidad, is the general counsel of the Yankee Coal Company and the corporations affiliated with it. He was until recently on the district bench in Colorado but resigned his judgeship to accept this responsible position. Judge Northcutt and Mr. Roberts have formed a law partnership and have opened an office at Raton. Mr. Roberts left yesterday for Raton after several days spent in Santa Fe.

TAOS PUEBLO AND ANCIENT BUILDINGS

This Photograph of the Pueblo at Taos is Both Weird and Beautiful, Showing the Lone Figure in the Twilight

In the beautiful Taos Valley, in New Mexico, less than 350 miles from Denver, and reached from Servilleta, a station on the Santa Fe branch of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, is the ancient Indian village, Pueblo de Taos.

The two great buildings—one five and the other seven stories high, inhabited by more than 400 people—are considered the most interesting as well as the most perfect specimens of early Indian architecture. Inhabited no one knows how long, but certainly more than 500 years, they are in a perfect state of preservation.

The Indians, who have lived here for generations are simple, quiet and peaceful, and in a small way tillers of the soil. Aside from short journeys into the neighboring mountains, they never leave the Taos Valley.

Like all Indian tribes, they are very superstitious, believing in all kinds of signs and workings of supernatural powers. Although taught the Catholic religion by the Spaniards and used the Mexican language even more freely than their own, the priests of whom there are several are all French.

The dances, constituting so important a feature in all of their worship or of prayer to the Amity Clava. Of festival days there are many, the most important being the feast of San Geronimo, celebrated on the 30th of September.

In the early morning of St. Jerome's day, a black-robed Indian makes a recitation from the top of the pueblo to the assembled multitude below.

In the plaza stands a pine tree pole 50 feet in height, and from a cross-piece at the top dangles a live sheep. Beside the sheep, a garland of such fruit and vegetables as the valley produces, together with a basket of bread and grain, hangs from the pole.

The bell in the little adobe chapel sounds, and a few of the Indians go in to mass. After the services are concluded, a procession is formed and marches to the race track, which is a quarter of a mile in length. The runners of whom there are 50, are naked except for a breech cloth, and are painted no two alike. Fifty other runners to contest with these arrive from the pueblo just across the dividing stream. Two runners from each side start down the track. No sooner do they reach the goal than two others start off—and thus for two hours the races continue in relays of twos. The victorious side is given the privilege of electing the governor for both pueblos for the ensuing year.

In the afternoon dances by hideously painted clowns and mirth-makers are followed by mimic attempts to climb the pole, which is at last accomplished, and amid the yells of the onlookers the sheep, fruit and grain are thrown to the ground and carried off amidst the wildest excitement. St. Jerome's is supposed to rejoice in this happy conclusion of the festival in his honor. Equally interesting ceremonies begin the night before Christmas and continue through the holiday period.

Two and a half miles from the Indian pueblo is the historic old Mexican town of Fernandez de Taos, with its primitive adobe structures, the home in times gone by of many famous westerners.

Pueblo de Taos and Fernandez de Taos are so queer, quaint and curious that at all times can be found there a colony of artists and writers studying the Indian and Mexican traits. Frank P. Sanerwen and Bert Greer Phillips have studios in Taos, while Frederick Remington, E. L. Blumenschein and Curtis, the photographer of Indians, periodically visit that locality for new subjects.

Last week George L. Beam was in Taos and succeeded in getting a wonderfully artistic view of this pueblo from a new point of view, which we reproduce. The low well-shaped structure in the foreground is the entrance to an estufa or kiva, the council chamber of the Delight Makers, one of the mysterious Indian orders so beautifully described by Bandoller in his story of the same name. The tall poles are the arms of a ladder leading to the subterranean chamber. Tourists visit Taos at all seasons but in greatest numbers on the festival occasions. So easy of access is this most interesting spot that preparations are being made to entertain large crowds on the occasion of future holiday celebrations.

Special Message to Congress

DETAILS OF FATAL AFFRAY

At Brownsville Given--Bullets and Cartridges from Springfield Rifles.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—President Roosevelt today sent to the Senate a special message regarding the Brownsville incident which gives additional evidence collected by Assistant Attorney General Purdy and Major Blockson, who were sent to Texas by the President to investigate the affair. The President submitted with his message various exhibits, including maps of Brownsville, Fort Brown, Bandoller, three empty shells, seven ball cartridges picked up in the streets a few hours after the shooting, three steel jacket bullets and some scraps of casings of other bullets picked out of the houses into which they had been fired.

Negro Soldiers Shielded Criminals.

The President declared the evidence is positive that outrages were committed by some of the colored troops that have been dismissed and that some or all of the members of three companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry have knowledge of the deed and have shielded the guilty ones.

Calls Soldiers Midnight Assassins.

The negro troops are referred to in this message as "midnight assassins," and he declares that very few if any of the soldiers dismissed could have been ignorant of what occurred. The discharge of the troops, the President maintains was within his legal and executive power. Secretary Taft's report giving the sworn testimony of witnesses is transmitted with the message. The testimony of four negro people is incorporated in the report.

President Defends His Action.

The President in his message defends his action in discharging the negro troops, saying that it would be absolutely impossible to preserve army discipline by pursuing any other course. To justify his action he submits the report of Major Blockson and Assistant Attorney General Purdy giving the results of an exhaustive investigation they made at Brownsville upon the President's order.

Maps of Scene of Disturbance.

The President, with his message, submits maps with diagrams and photographs designed to aid the Senate in reaching an intelligent understanding of the situation together with empty shells and bullets from Springfield rifles. The crimes committed at Brownsville upon the night of August 13, according to the investigation ordered by the President are as follows:

Murder One of Crimes.

(a) The murder of Frank Vatus. (b) Assault on Lieutenant of Police Dominguez. (c) Assault upon Mr. and Mrs. Hale Odin and son. (d) Shooting into a house containing women and children. (e) The wounding of Ureclada. (f) "My evidence," says the message, "proves beyond a possibility of a doubt that some individuals among the colored troops I have dismissed committed these outrages and others had knowledge of the deed and shielded the guilty from the law."

President Acquits Brownsville People.

The President dismissed as ridiculous the charge that Brownsville citizens committed the outrages with a view to throwing odium on the negro troops and obtaining their dismissal. That the criminals were soldiers is shown by the fact that reputable citizens saw the uniforms, heard the voices recognizing them as negroes; the fact that Springfield rifles were used, no weapon of that kind being in the hands of civilians, and the examinations of shells and cartridges showing they could not have been fired from a Krag Jorgensen rifle or a Winchester.

Ammunition Establishes Guilt.

"The finding of this ammunition in itself," says the message, "establishes the guilt of the soldiers and would be conclusive even if the soldiers had not been seen or heard by Brownsville residents upon the night in question." The evidence of fourteen reputable witnesses is submitted to making sworn statements to the President's investigators. Twenty-five other witnesses saw minor phases of the affair, making statements accordingly.

Town Fired Upon From Fort.

From all this the President gathered that fifteen or twenty negro soldiers committed the outrage and that some numerous shots were fired into the town from the fort.

Attacked Town at Night.

"The shooting," said the President, "was done at midnight. After the first volley, the soldiers advanced upon the town, firing into a residence. Few of the soldiers therefore could have been ignorant of the affair. Indeed, it is probable that but few of the soldiers dismissed, could have missed seeing the attack."

President Carefully Reviewed Case.

"I have gone carefully over each issue of law and fact that has been

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

NEW MEXICO'S POPULATION STEADILY INCREASING.

The El Paso Herald in a recent issue comments upon the tremendous growth in population which New Mexico has experienced during the past year and which has been pointed out several times by the New Mexican. The Herald says:

"The most remarkable thing that happened in New Mexico last year was the tremendous influx of new settlers. The increase is estimated by some papers to have been 90,000, or a third of the previous population. Though that may be an overestimate, suppose the increase was no more than 50,000, it still means a most powerful influence for development and progress, brought into the Territory."

"These 50,000 or 90,000 new people are almost without exception English speaking natives of the United States, well educated, possessing some independent means, young and ambitious, and having the virtues of thrift and industry. They have come from free choice, to make new homes for themselves and to better their lot. They bring valuable experience gained among the older and more settled environments of the eastern and central states, and enter with intelligent zeal upon the work of building up new communities in the west."

"New Mexico has been very widely advertised through the statehood agitation, and taking advantage of the publicity already accorded, the railroad has engaged in an active campaign for homesteaders. New Mexico has vast areas of government land ready for the settler, and the terms have appeared attractive to the northwestern and easterners looking for a new location and reached through the railroad bureaus. There has also been a heavy movement into New Mexico from Texas, so that the Pecos Valley is strongly influenced by this factor in the population."

"New Mexico has lain comparatively dormant for many years, until recently. There has been steady, substantial growth, but nothing spectacular. Now, however, the movement seems to have turned her way, and before the next census the Territory will have added to her population an immense body of picked citizens who will co-operate with the progressive spirit of the old regime to build up a powerful, rich, populous, and productive commonwealth."

A NEW RAILROAD DEPOT FOR SANTA FE.

The receipts of the Santa Fe railway company at Santa Fe approximate $125,000 a year and during the past quarter century have totaled $2,000,000, an enormous sum which stands only for part of the financial benefit that Santa Fe is to the line, for it represents only traffic paid for here and not the incoming passenger business nor the trade handled in transit. The New Mexican does not go far astray when it says that since the Santa Fe Railway Company has come here this city has been worth to it in gross income not far from six million dollars or more than sufficient to pay for its Helen Cut-off and leave a handsome surplus for operating expenses. In view of this fact, Santa Fe which has given its name to the entire system and no small part of its advertising fame, is not asking anything outrageous when it petitions for a new depot for the accommodation of passenger and freight business. Surely, the old ramshackle which has answered this purpose for quarter of a century has more than paid for itself and a new structure would be a credit not only to the city but to the railroad company. No corporation should be so cold-blooded as to neglect entirely the place that gave birth to its greatness, even though the birth was humble and gave it its name. What must be the impression of the traveler who has read of the fame of the Santa Fe system, has heard of its greatness, when he alights at the shanty which serves this magnificent railway system as a depot in this city. Surely, the officials of the company owe Santa Fe that much consideration as to give it a depot fitting with its importance and its history, especially when it is remembered that this county grows under a bonded indebtedness partly incurred by a liberal donation to the railroad company that has treated Santa Fe negligently and in a stepfatherly manner for many years, while places far less deserving of the company's gratitude have been boosted at the expense of this city.

SUGGESTIONS AS TO NEW ROAD LAWS.

It is suggested that the question of road repair and road making be taken entirely out of the hands of county authorities and be entrusted to a state commission as is done in other states where a beginning in good road building has been made. It is argued that New Mexico expends annually at least $50,000 in cash and twice as much in labor for road repair and road over-seers and yet the roads are not better for it. That same sum expended systematically under territorial supervision, or perhaps, by the penitentiary authorities, would result in a few years in the building of at least several stretches of good roads and a better maintenance of such roads as exist. The necessity for good roads in New Mexico need not be dwelt upon, every one acknowledges it, and the only question is as to methods to produce the best results with the least burden upon the taxpayer. So much is certain, no county as yet seems willing to invest money for modern road building machinery; nor is there a unity of plan or administration of road building methods by any county in the Territory. As far as this is concerned, the Territory would be in better position to acquire modern road building machinery and to exercise at least a supervision of road building that would assure results.

FARM AND ORCHARD LANDS IN SANTA FE COUNTY.

Farming land under irrigation in Santa Fe County is appreciating very rapidly, and in certain sections has doubled in value during the past four years. This is a hopeful indication. American farmers are settling in the beautiful and fruitful valleys north of this city and are purchasing orchard and farm lands, industrious and experienced orchardists and farmers cannot only make a good living on from ten to fifteen acres of orchard land in this county, but can also lay by a comfortable surplus. This has been proven by experience. The outlook for the future for Santa Fe County in this respect is very encouraging. Every acre in the Santa Fe Valley from the mouth of the Santa Fe Canyon for ten or twelve miles southwest, should again be brought under cultivation. All this section was irrigated and crops raised thereon years ago. The water supply then was ample. There are hundreds and hundreds of acres of good land that would produce the best crops of cereals and fine fruit, with proper facilities for irrigation. The water supply in the Santa Fe River was ample twenty-five years ago for this purpose and why not now?

TERRITORIAL STATUTES SHOULD BE REVISED.

The New Mexico Bar Association will at its meeting on next Monday discuss the subject of law reform. Most of its members hold to the view and very rightly, that at the basis of law reform in New Mexico must be a revision of the compiled laws and legislative acts to date, that is an elimination of obsolete statutes, a harmonizing of conflicting enactments; the brushing away of legal absurdities, a modernizing in form and substance, and a compilation that will be of real service in the interpretation and enforcement of the law. It is the purpose of the Bar Association to appoint a legislative committee which will be ready to assist with its legal experience in drafting proposed legislation. That is not so much to suggest legislation as to see to it that whatever legislation is enacted is passed in legal form so as to avoid ambiguities, to prevent repetition and to make the act test-proof as far as wording and form are concerned. The bar will thus perform a real service for which it is to be greatly commended.

DELEGATE ANDREWS AND DELE-GATE SMITH.

"In the matter of garden seeds, Delegate Mark A. Smith of Arizona would seem at a distance to be outdoing our own delegate, W. H. Andrews, with the shipment of two bags of seeds, about 150 packages, to the board of trade at Phoenix, but in the matter of accomplishing needed things for the good of the Territory he represents the New Mexico delegate may go to the head of the class."—Las Vegas Optic.

Correct! Delegate W. H. Andrews accomplishes more for New Mexico than does many a representative from great and populous districts for his constituents, although such representative has a vote and can make himself felt on the floor of the House. Comparisons are odious, to be sure, but the comparison between Delegate Andrews and Delegate Marcus Aurelius Smith is so much in favor of the former and so much to the credit of the Sunshine Territory, that it is proper to make it. Hardly a day passes on which Delegate Andrews does not do something good or beneficial for New Mexico, or for some citizen thereof.

PUBLIC CLEANLINESS THE FIRST REQUISITE.

In several New Mexico towns the public schools have been closed on account of the prevalence of contagious diseases and a number of the settlements suffer from some form or other of epidemic. Eminent authorities have said that every form of contagious disease is the result of filth and they may be called filthy diseases. Not that every person afflicted with such disease is filthy but that the germs breed in filth and have their origin in filth and that if there were no filth there, would be no contagious disease. It is a lesson that the city of Scranton, Pennsylvania, for instance, is learning at present; it has over 1,000 typhoid fever cases and it should also be learned by New Mexico towns that periodically suffer from the ravages of diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever and sometimes smallpox. The first duty of a municipality is to enforce public cleanliness and there is no reason why Santa Fe, as the capital, should not set an example and be the cleanest town in the Southwest.

CLIMATIC COMPARISONS FAVOR
SANTA FE.

That there may be a great difference in climate on different sides of the same mountain range is shown by the yearly climatic summary for Santa Fe and Las Vegas just published, these two cities being only forty miles apart as the crow flies but separated by the Sangre de Cristo mountains. During 1906 Santa Fe had 32 cloudy days, more than its usual average, while Las Vegas had 37 days classed as cloudy. The maximum temperature at Santa Fe was 87 degrees, while Las Vegas had four months last year during which this maximum was exceeded, June showing a maximum of 95 degrees, July of 93 degrees, August of 94 degrees and September 89 degrees. On the other hand, it did not get any colder at Santa Fe than it did at Las Vegas and the maximum range of temperature at Las Vegas was eight degrees greater than at Santa Fe. The precipitation at Las Vegas was 23.85 inches while at Santa Fe it was only 16.6 inches and even that was almost two inches more than the average. Las Vegas had 31.5 inches of snow last year, 26 inches of which fell this winter, or almost twice as much as has fallen at Santa Fe in that time this winter. However, in many respects, Las Vegas climate is just as fine as that of Santa Fe and there may be some respects in which it excels at certain times of the year although taken the year around Santa Fe climate is ahead of the climate of any other town in the Rocky mountain regions.

PITY 'TIS SO.

The New Mexican regrets that in but few parts of the Territory have taxpayers aroused themselves to the importance of the justice of the peace elections that took place today. But little effort has been made to nominate for the position of justice peace of property, of standing, of at least some knowledge of the law. Yet, in the ordinary affairs of life, the justice of the peace court is called upon to settle disputes far oftener than the higher courts. In fact, a proportion of the cases which cumber the dockets of the New Mexican courts and increase their cost to the taxpayers, have their origin in justice of the peace courts and should have been settled there. Where justices of the peace can be influenced by a consideration that the law falls into disrepute and people lose their respect for it. Grievous injustice may thus be done and the innocent made to suffer instead of the guilty being punished.

In a number of the counties of this Territory officials, excepting possibly the assessor and in a few cases the treasurer and ex-officio collector, are not receiving too high compensation. Take Santa Fe county, for instance. The County Commissioners, the Probate Clerk, the Probate Judge, the Sheriff and the Superintendent of Schools are certainly not overpaid. Considering the bond he has to furnish and the great amount of work in his office the Treasurer and ex-officio Collector receives not too high a compensation. However, there are counties in which too high salaries are paid or too great fees are allowed. No general rule can justly or fairly be made. The salaries of officials in each county should be adjusted with the work and the responsibility entailed on each official.

During the last few days the New Mexican has been fortunate enough to secure interviews with leading citizens from various sections of the Sunshine Territory. These have appeared in its columns and hundreds of extra copies have been sent to people living in the states east and north of New Mexico for personal and consideration. This is the best kind of advertising for the resources of New Mexico and is doing great good. Hundreds and hundreds of immigrants have been induced to settle in the various sections of the Territory by the advertising given them in the columns of this paper. Every copy thus sent out aids New Mexico in general and Santa Fe in particular. The beneficial results are apparent.

The New Mexican does not believe in a miserably policy towards its territorial educational, charitable, penal and administrative institutions. The tax monies spent on them comes home to the people many fold. This paper is also an advocate of liberal maintenance of the common schools of the Territory. Colorado has more state educational, charitable, penal and administrative institutions supporting the population than has any other state in the Union and expends great amounts of money on its schools. Colorado is very prosperous. Taxes paid for purposes stated above come home many fold and bring in many benefits.

On account of a sanitary streak the members of the Pennsylvania legislature took the oath of office on an individual Bible for each member and now the discovery has been made, according to a Pennsylvania exchange, that fifty of these Bibles have been stolen, presumably by legislators. This is the first reform legislation that the Keystone State has had for many years and according to the above even reform manifests some strange weaknesses.

Patriotic citizens who would gladly sacrifice themselves to hold office in New Mexico are plentiful these days judging from the number of applications for appointment to office received and being received by Governor or Hagerman. The desire to hold public office is evidently strong in the breasts of many citizens of the Sunshine Territory.

They are talking in dead earnest about constructing a hotel fifty stories high in Gotham. The promoters say that they want to get as high as possible above the street level. The latter is evidently something like Hades.

One of the hobbies of Leopold, King of the Belgians is said to be street cleaning. A month or two of the reign of that king in Santa Fe would be a blessing. Do you see the connection?

The word colonial in house construction and also in furniture design is frequently used without a definite idea of its meaning when used in this connection. Properly speaking, a colonial house, or colonial furniture, dates back before the Declaration of Independence when this country was a dependency of Great Britain and classed as a colony or colonies.

Some good houses were built at that time by emigrants from England and other countries and the best ideas of building known at the time were incorporated in these houses. There is abundant evidence of the influence exerted on the minds of builders in those days by the free expansion of new territory. Some of these old time builders came from the narrow streets of old London and other large cities where narrow fronts and a dingy outlook was a rule even with the better and more expensive dwellings.

A broad front and square rooms, with a wide hall in the center was the elegant plan adopted by the more generous hearted entertainers of colonial days. They could afford to be prodigal in the expenditure of space because they had left congestion behind them and the influence of their new environment had suggested broadened lines in regard to house room as well as the affairs of the state.

Many ideas have since resulted in the modification of this commendable style of house building. But down to the present time we have many admirers of the old fashioned square house with a parlor on one side and a drawing room on the other. These old houses had a broad hall, often ten or twelve feet wide, in the center of the house. This great hall sometimes was furnished with a big brick or stone fireplace in the far end where cordwood sticks were burned and the warmth from the fire diffused through the open doorway to the rooms above.

It is easy to imagine the cordial reception the guests received on entering the wide thick-paneled front door encased in a heavy frame of timbers. There was a heavy sash with its several lights of glass on either side of the door frame sometimes reaching nearly to the floor and generally there was a long transom window above. The heavy oaken door was furnished with a big brass knocker and an immense lock with a key nearly a foot long, but the big heavy doors opened easily and quickly in response to the clatter of the big brass knocker because even strangers were welcome and friends were received with genuine cordiality if not affection.

Some of these old colonial houses were built with timbers much larger and placed closer together than is now customary in building our largest barns or warehouses.

Through all the intervening years we have retained the general style of these commodious old colonial houses. The one given on this page has the old style of roof, the square proportions and the general air of breadth, practically the same as the most approved house in George Washington's

We still have the wide hall with a fireplace in the far end but we haven't the cordwood to burn so we have reduced the size of the fireplace to fit the fuel that we are obliged to use. Then instead of building the servants' quarters outside in a separate building we have combined the back porch with a pleasant room that answers the same purpose.

We have improved on the old time dining room, pantry and kitchen because we have discovered that it takes a great many steps to travel a distance of twenty or thirty feet between the dining table and the kitchen range. We have cut down the number of these steps as much as possible and we have arranged the pantry with shelves for the dishes midway between the dining room and kitchen and we have a pet cupboard for the storage of necessary kitchen utensils as close and convenient as possible to the range.

During the interval between the old colonial days and the present time we have added a hot water heater to our kitchen range and connected it with a water pressure supply that carries hot water to the bath room as well as to the kitchen sink.

Our modern bath rooms effect a great saving in perfunctory bills. When hot water was scarce and bath rooms were the exception rather than the rule the scent bottles and sachet bags were a necessary accompaniment of the toilet. Our hardheaded, practical, inventive geniuses and mechanics probably had no intention of putting the scent makers out of business but they are responsible for the change whether they intended to or not.

CHURCH WILL NOT YIELD TO FRANCE

Pope Pius Issues Encyclical and Bishops Obey Provisions to the Letter.

Paris, France, Jan. 14.—An encyclical issued recently by the Pope seemingly puts an end to the hopes of the moderates of all shades of opinion, that the church eventually would accommodate itself to the new conditions in France. There is not the slightest suggestion that French bishops will not obey the orders from Rome. The consequences are likely to be deplorable from every point of view. A majority of the clergy and Catholics generally recognize that there is practically no chance of the church emerging victorious from the struggle. On the contrary, the lot of the church will be harder. Even Jaures, the socialist leader refers respectfully to the consequences which the Papal encyclical will entail. He says: "The Pope desires to save the dogma and hierarchy. In reality he is preparing their ruin."

MUCH TALK BUT NO INVESTIGATION

Texas Legislature Discussing Ways and Means of Looking into Bailey's Conduct.

Austin, Texas, Jan. 14.—Saturday the lower house of the legislature started upon an eight hour discussion as to whether Senator Bailey should be investigated by a committee or by the House in a body, as to his alleged connection with the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. The two factions agreed that each side should have four hours time and at the expiration of that time, a vote should be taken. Adjournment took place before the debate was concluded.

Two Men From Arkansas Decide That One Is Needed—Experienced in Their Work.

Portales, N. M., Jan. 14.—R. J. Nelson and brother, F. F. Nelson, horticulturists at De Queen, Arkansas, have decided to start a modern up to date nursery at this place. They were here a week ago and looked the farming section over. They consider that this country has a future in the line of orchards.

They have a large nursery now at De Queen and took a premium on their products at a horticultural exhibit in business there they are not prepared to stay here, so made arrangements with J. S. Bushong, who lives four miles west of town, to plant and cultivate 2,500 apple grafts which they will ship out soon. These grafts, properly grown the coming summer, will be ready to market next fall and spring.

TRAIN'S MAD FLIGHT DOWN GRADE

Santa Fe Has Disastrous Wreck at Rowan—No One Was Killed.

Bakersfield, Cal., Jan. 14.—A Santa Fe freight train broke in two at Rowan, a station near the summit of the Tehachapi Mountain, and the rear section dashed down the steep grade a distance of nine miles to a curve near Bealeville. Sixteen freight cars, two locomotives and a caboose were on the runaway rear section, and all five of the cars and one engine were piled in a heap at the point of the curve. All of the train men jumped when they realized that the train had broken in two and none of them was killed or seriously injured. The runaway part of the train dashed down the mountain side at a remarkable rate of speed, covering the distance of nine miles in six minutes.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Pains of Santa Fe People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Santa Fe cures are the proof.

Benito Romero, employed with Lamberton's Transfer, residence San Francisco Street, says: "The use of plasters for a year and a half on my back did not bring the results I expected and relief from pain across the loins was just as remotely in the distance as it was when I first noticed it. This led me to go to Ireland's Pharmacy for Doan's Kidney Pills and take a course of treatment. I read in our Santa Fe papers that they could be depended upon and with considerable faith in the preparation because it positively stated that they were for the kidneys and the kidneys alone, I commenced the treatment. It was very satisfactory. I used two boxes and they stopped the trouble."

PERSONAL MENTION

Chief Justice W. J. Mills returned last evening from East Las Vegas, having spent Saturday and Sunday at home.

Attorney E. V. Chavez, resident of Albuquerque, was in town today on business before the Territorial Supreme Court.

A. J. Weiss of Del Norte, Colorado, head of the A. J. Weiss Mercantile Company, looked after business today in Santa Fe.

Postoffice Inspector C. G. Phell, whose headquarters are in Denver, spent Saturday and yesterday in Albuquerque on official business.

N. C. Frenzer of Las Cruces, an attorney at law, attended the session of the Territorial Supreme Court today, he having business before the court.

Robert P. Ervin of Clayton, a member of the Territorial Board of Equalization, was among last night's arrivals in town. He came to attend the session of the board.

W. H. Dearnsteyne, of Denver, traveling representative of the Peters Paper Company, called on his trade today in Santa Fe. Mr. Dearnsteyne is a periodical visitor to the Capital.

Secretary Venegas Jaramillo of the Territorial Board of Equalization, reached the city Saturday evening from his home at El Rito. He was on hand today at the meeting of the board.

Miss Rebecca Clark will leave tomorrow for her home at Santa Cruz after a visit of about two weeks in the city as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hersch. Mrs. Hersch and Miss Clark are sisters.

Mrs. C. N. Lord will leave tomorrow for Buffalo, New York, accompanied by her two young sons, DeForest and Neil. From Buffalo she will proceed to her old home at Watertown, New York.

John Fiddling, Jr., a clerk in the general offices of the Santa Fe Central Railway, left yesterday on a visit to his parents at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He will be absent from the city about two weeks.

J. A. Mahoney one of the leading merchants of southern New Mexico, reached the city yesterday from Deming. He is a member of the Territorial Board of Equalization and attended its session today.

Antonio F. Salazar, wife and two children were in the city yesterday from their home in Estancia where Mr. Salazar is in business. Mr. Salazar is the assessor of Torrance County. Mrs. Salazar, who has been ill for some time, came for medical treatment in Dr. Diaz's Sanitarium. They returned today. Everything is progressing as usual in Estancia. Mr. Salazar stated that William M. Gregg is a candidate for justice of the peace on the Republican ticket in his precinct, and Sam Phillips, on the same ticket, is a candidate for constable. Election was held today.

Mr. Laderer was a resident of this city during the late '80s and was engaged in surveying and civil engineering. Upon leaving here he went to MacPherson, Kansas, where he engaged in mercantile business and in farming. He was the husband of late Mrs. Emma Ritch Laderer, a daughter of the late Governor and Mrs. W. G. Ritch. It will be remembered that Mrs. Laderer died at her home in MacPherson, Kansas, about two months ago and that former Governor Ritch and Mrs. Ritch also joined the silent majority two years and a year ago respectively. Mr. Laderer has many good friends among the older inhabitants of this city.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brush your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain your eye, of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

The regular monthly convocation of Santa Fe Chapter No. 1, Royal Arch Masons, will take place this evening at 7:30 o'clock at Masonic Hall. Officers for the ensuing year will be installed. Visiting companions are cordially invited to be present.

Complaint is made of the bad condition of Cerrillos Street. This thoroughfare has been sadly in need of repair for some time within the city limits and it is almost impassable in several places on account of the mud after every rain or snow. It is suggested that inasmuch as the road is used a great deal in hauling brick shale to the penitentiary the convicts ought to be put to work in keeping the street in repair.

Considerable blood was spilled shortly before one o'clock today on lower Palace Avenue when two native young men engaged in a fight which was no sham battle. Bricks, a beer bottle and other missiles were freely used. One young man was struck with the beer bottle and an ugly gash cut across the back of his neck. He was knocked down but came up full of fight with a stone in his hand. Before the other man could dodge, he received the stone on a tender part of his anatomy. Friends then separated the combatants. The two enemies stood and talked angrily for several minutes when they advanced to an alley and again continued the fight. Finally they were induced to quit. Both were covered with blood, mud and snow. The police were not notified and no arrests resulted.

Judge A. L. Morrison received word recently from his son, Robert Emmett Morrison, of Prescott, Arizona, elected last fall to the office of district attorney of Yavapai County, stating that the latter had won in the contest proceedings brought against him by R. P. Talbot, the Democratic candidate. Talbot's contention was that the board of supervisors and justice of the peace had failed to comply with the law in not officially naming the polling place in the north Prescott precinct and he wanted all of the votes cast in this precinct thrown out as being illegal. Had Talbot won his case it would have meant the election of every Democratic candidate with one exception.

COUNTESS OF CARLISLE.

The Peeress Who is President of the World's W. C. T. U.

Lady Rosalind Frances, Countess of Carlisle, president of the World's W. C. T. U., is also president of the British Women's Temperance Association and has been for many years an aggressive temperance worker and one of the leading members of the Woman's Liberal Federation of Great Britain, of which organization she was president for several terms. While Lady Carlisle is active in all movements for the betterment of the status of her sex, temperance is her greatest cause, and she it was who led and directed the recent crusade against the employment of women in England as barmaids.

The Countess of Carlisle is the youngest daughter of Lord Stanley of Alderly and in 1864 was married to the Earl of Carlisle of the Norfolk and Howard families. The earl and countess have five sons and five daughters and reside at Palace Green, Kensington. The countess is ably supported by the earl in all her philanthropic measures.

The history of the work of Lady Carlisle would be the history of the woman's suffrage movement in England up to the present time. She has done more than any other woman to create what is now of considerable political importance—the Woman's Liberal Federation—and she is constantly agitating for the rights of her sex. She is a great favorite with all who know her, and she combines with social prominence and personal ability and charm the quality of being a joyous fighter.

Buying the Dining Room Table.

The incident was an amusing one, but the old lady's advice was good, and it was accepted, says the St. Joseph Gazette. She was not talking without her book, as the old saying has it.

"Don't buy that square table for the dining room, young people," she observed pleasantly, addressing the couple who were evidently preparing for the great event of their lives. The salesman of the furniture warehouse looked on with just a flicker of a smile hovering about his lips. "They call them 'squares,' but they are usually oblong, you know," she added, with a sagacious nod.

"Why not buy a square table?" ventured the future bridegroom, entering into the spirit of the thing.

"I'll tell you," responded the old lady decidedly. "Of course, you are beginning in a small way. Oh, don't be ashamed of that! We commenced in a small way, but we worked steadily, and we are in a large way now, as I hope you will be one day. Well, in a small house you have small rooms. You find that you cannot have a big table. If you have a square one you find it awkward when you have more than two visitors. There are two sides and two ends to your square table, and so that's all right for four persons, but if there are three or four visitors what then?"

She paused almost in triumph. The young people waited for her to answer her own question.

"You get two persons on each of the two sides and you feel crowded at the side, while those at the end have really more room than they require. It's inconvenient. Then, again, the corners seem to divide you into groups, so to say. Chimney corners may be social enough, but tables corners are not. If you are in a big place, with a big table, it is quite different, but in your little house you will find it just as I say."

"Therefore buy an oval table. There are no corners and you all sit side by side. You have more space and you are not parted. You may think that you lose space by rounding the corners; so you do, but the space lost is in the middle of the table, for the outer edge, where people sit, is increased. You have a little less space for placing dishes, but you can easily have those on a side table. You can't seat a guest at a side table when you are only a small party."

"A round table would be better? No. Round tables are usually not so firm on the legs, and to get a good sized table requires more width than you are likely to get in your small house. Take my advice!"

Bathroom Wall Paper.

It has been said that a well equipped bathroom is the hallmark of respectability, and the color and condition of a bathroom's walls go a long way toward making or marring that equipment. Blessed is the housekeeper who can afford to have her walls tiled from floor to ceiling! For less favored mortals, who put up with tiling and paper, wainscoting and paper, or even paper all the way, that paper is of paramount importance. Some persons like tiled paper. Others say that its place is the kitchen, not the bathroom, but whatever your preferences along this line, make the color light. Get a glazed paper, and if from lack of wainscot or tile it must stand the splash of water, give it a coat of white varnish. Avoid elaborate patterns. A white background is always good. Designs of long stemmed, long leaved flowers, running lengthwise, are effective, especially when carried over the ceiling. Confine yourself to blues, greens or purples in the coloring of your designs and you will find the effect cooler, cleaner and more suggestive of the water.

Style and Comfort.

How many rooms there are, correct and beautiful, which fall of being lovely! Everything is perfect. Some "period" has been carried out faithfully by a professional interior decorator of big reputation, with the result that the room has style and distinction, is cold, correctly exquisite or magnificent, and yet no one would voluntarily choose that room to live in. No one would deliberately elect to spend a delightful afternoon in it with a novel. No one would dream of repairing to it for the purpose of being unintelligently lazy. The fact is art and comfort are not synonymous terms by any means. Many an artistic room is uninteresting, cold and characterless because it bears no stamp of personality, yet correct style and comfort can and ought to go hand in hand.

The Sleeve Pattern.

Before altering a sleeve pattern the arm should be measured from the arm scye to the bend and thence to the wrist, also from the back of the arm to the point of the elbow and thence to the wrist. Then measure the pattern and make the alterations. If the sleeve is too long between the top of the arm and the elbow place a tuck through the pattern. If it should be too long between the elbow and the wrist place a tuck there also, making the sleeve the required length. If, on the contrary, the pattern should be too short cut it through just where it is necessary, either above or below, allowing for space to give it the desired length.

Cleaning Papered Walls.

Papered walls may be cleaned with a mop of cheesecloth strips an inch and a half wide and eight inches long made fast to a light handle. Brush the paper well with it twice a month.

Every spring and fall mix cornstarch, whiting and powdered fuller's earth in equal parts, dip the mop into the powder and rub walls and ceilings well with it. Then shake all powder from the mop, cover it with a damp flannel and go all over the wall again, wiping in long straight strokes. The flannel must be damp only. Wet, it is apt to leave marks. As soon as it is dry change it for a fresh one.

Old Lace Curtains.

A clever device for utilizing the beauty that remains in fine lace curtains that have seen their day is to cut out the rich raised work rings and wreaths from which the delicate net has worn away. Apply them to squares of velvet or satin for use as cushion covers. Applied on olive or metallic green velvet or some soft wood brown shade the effect is rich and elegant, especially when further set off with a fringe of lace and the back of the pillow made of silk or corresponding tone.

Old Medicines.

It is a wise thing to throw out old medicine. Keeping it is a rash economy, as many drugs lose their strength, while others deteriorate and become dangerous to take. Then the same physical conditions do not often occur, and it is always safer to get a new prescription or at least have the old one freshly put up. Besides, if old bottles accumulate one is apt to forget what they contain and in an emergency seize on the wrong one, with serious results.

The Peaked Chin.

The girl with a wedge shaped face must not wear her hair spread out over her ears. This only accentuates the triangular lines. With a peaked chin it is necessary to avoid broad effects above the brows. Wave the hair at the temples and draw it up to the top of the head in soft rolls. This gives the face a delicate oval outline.

Brooms.

If you have a pyrography outfit it is best to have every broom and scrubbing brush marked with the name and object for which it is designed, so that there will be no danger of your Persian rug being swept with a greasy kitchen broom.

After cleaning an article that requires to be dipped in a bowl of gasoline the gasoline that is left can be used again if strained through filter paper, which can be bought at a drug store, or through chamois leather.

THE FIRST DIRECTORY.

Quaint Olden Time New York Business and Social Addresses.

In the first directory of New York city, which was issued in 1786, there are some peculiar and quaint entries. For instance, in those days it was not uncommon for medical practitioners to sell drugs, as is shown by the following address, "Samuel Bredhurst, physician and apothecary, 64 Queen (now Pearl) street."

Clergymen of that period were exceedingly precise regarding their titles. Thus, "Abraham Beche, reverend of the Church of England, 29 Smith street," and "Jose Phelan, clergyman of the Church of Rome, 1 Beekman street."

Leon Rogers, tailor, of 5 Broadway, was described as a "breeches maker." John Bean, 60 Broadway, as "surgeon and tooth puller." S. Crygier, 69 Cherry street, "pauque and porter house." Jo Deleplane of 132 Queen street, "Quaker speaker." D. Hitchcock, 89 Queen street, "house carpenter and undertaker." John Hogland, 95 Queen street, "fiddler, etc." Henry H. Kip, 25 King street, "inspector of pot and pearl ashes." John Nitche, 7 Garden street, "starch and hair powder maker." Samuel B. Webb, 29 Lower Dock street, "gentleman."

In those days, too, there were a great many "gentlemen" and a few "wash-women." All teachers were then addressed either as "schoolmasters" or "schoolmistresses." The retail dealers on Broadway and Wall and Queen streets called themselves "shopkeepers," the hotel men were "tavern keepers," and the policemen were "watchmen."—New York Post.

THE COLD WATER ORDEAL.

It Was Once an Important Test of Guilt or Innocence.

The cold water ordeal was one of the most important tests of guilt or innocence a few hundred years ago. If the accused floated, he was guilty; if he sank, he was innocent. In the twelfth century some altar vessels were stolen from the cathedral of Laon, and the learned Anselm proposed that a child from each parish and then a child from each household should be put to the test and so on until the guilty one was found. The proposition raised a great outcry, and the people claimed that those who had easiest access to the church be the first to undergo the ordeal.

This looked reasonable enough. So the bishop ordered the six priests of the cathedral to prepare for the test. In the meanwhile Anselm thought to try the experiment himself as a preliminary test. So he was bound and placed in a tub of water. To his great satisfaction as well as discomfort he promptly sank. The day arrived and with it an immense crowd to see the trial. The first priest sank, the second floated, the third sank, the fourth floated, the fifth sank, and then Anselm himself—wonder of wonders—in spite of experiments and protested innocence floated around with the buoyancy of an air bubble. While he was serving his sentence in prison Anselm found time to write a learned treatise on the "Inexpediency of the Water Ordeal and Its Failure in Many Cases."

New Zealand Mocking Birds.

The Poe honey eater is one of the commonest and at the same time handsomest of the New Zealand birds. The neck is ornamented with a fringe of curly feathers of a greenish color with white centers, and the breast is adorned with a tuft of white feathers, which has gained for it the popular name of "parson bird," an appellation appropriate not only because of this decoration, but because of the resemblance of its peculiar attitudes when singing to the gesticulations indulged in by exuberant lecturers when wishing to drive home their points. The bird is an excellent mimic and can be taught to repeat short sentences with extraordinary clearness and also to whistle short songs quite as well as a parrot.

Queen Bees' Giant.

Queen Elizabeth had a Flemish porter who was over eight feet high and of great strength, and he was an extremely good natured man. Whenever he met any one who was abnormally tall he used to patronize him in a friendly sort of way, and on one occasion when he met an inn two soldiers who were over six feet in height he said, "Come under my arm, my little fellows." And, taking them up, he walked down the room with them under his arms as if they had been children, much to their disgust.

A Fast Train.

"Is this a fast train?" asked a passenger who was tired of looking at a station at which the train was not supposed to stop.

"Of course it is," was the conductor's reply.

"I thought so. Would you mind my getting out to see what it's fast to?"

Always the Same.

Tailor's Little Boy (walking with his father, sees a street roller)—What's that, papa? Tailor—The street's being newly ironed and pressed.—Figaro.

"Some men can take new furniture and make it look as if it was made a century ago," says a journalist. So can some children.

A pine floor washed with a solution of a pound of copperas in a gallon of strong lye will take on the color of oak.

ATTAR OF ROSES.

How This Delicious and Expensive Perfume is Made.

The word "attar" is from the Arab "attir" and means perfume. So attar of roses is simply perfume of roses. It is brought from Turkey and the East Indies in small vials and is very costly. Even on the spot where it is manufactured it is extremely dear, because it requires 100,000 well grown roses to yield but 180 grains of attar.

Its high price causes it to be often adulterated with some essential or fixed oil or with spermaceti. However, the adulteration may be detected by testing it in a watch glass with a drop of sulphuric acid. If the attar be pure it will remain colorless, for pure attar of roses is colorless, but if it is adulterated it will become darkened.

In rose fields, where the roses are grown for the purpose of making the attar, the bushes are planted in rows. In the early morning they are laden with beautiful roses, but ere noon comes they are all gathered and their petals distilled in clay stills, with twice their weight of water.

The water that "comes over" is put into perfectly clean vessels and is then carefully covered with "damp muslin" clothes to keep out dust and insects. It is afterward exposed to the night air or to artificial cold. By morning a film is swept off with a feather and very carefully transferred to a small vial. Night after night this process is repeated until all of the precious oil is separated from the water.

BUSINESS SENSE.

A Well Ordered Desk Means a Well Ordered Mind.

"There's one piece of advice" said the senior partner, "that I'd like to give every young man taking a business position with a desk attached to it. It's this: Keep your desk clean. What I mean by having a desk clean is keeping everything possible off it except that which is related to the matter in hand. I've observed in my time a good many men in their offices, and I can say that with very few exceptions the real men of affairs are those who are free from clutter."

"With a lot of papers in front of you it's almost a certainty that some hour in the day you're going to be flustered, and very likely it will be just when you want a clear head. The old idea that a mass of material every which way on the desk is a sign that a person is full of business is pretty well worn. Such a collection not only indicates a lack of order, but also is a sign that nervousness may be expected from the man in the chair. What with filing cabinets and other devices no excuse can be offered nowadays for confusion."

"A well ordered desk means a well ordered mind, a mind taking up one thing at a time and giving it the proper attention. It denotes regularity and concentrated, effective effort."—New York Press.

Easy Gologic Dutch Spelling.

In the good old days when the Dutch were supreme in the administration of the affairs of New Amsterdam everybody knew everybody else, and it mattered little how proper names were spelled. Modern lawyers and civil service reformers would be shocked at the orthographical freedom of the clerks of the burgomaster's court of those times. Here is a sample one taken from the old Dutch records in which the name of a plaintiff is spelled five different ways:

In a case before the court in 1655 Jan "Hacksins" is a complainant against the inspector of tobacco, who has certified to Jan "Hocksins" that the tobacco was good. The inspector says in his defense that he inspected the tobacco at the request of Jan "Hacksins" on June 26, and aforesaid "Hacksins" kept the barrel of tobacco until the 20th without finding out that it was bad. Then Jan "Hacksins" has something else to say in the case.

Loaded For Hawks

By C. B. LEWIS

Copyright, 1906, by C. B. Lewis

There was a great clattering and outcry among the fowls back of the farmhouse, with one long piercing shriek from a single hen, and Aunt Sally Warner dropped the breakfast dish she was wiping and ran out to see a hawk sailing away with a fat pullet in his talons. She waved her hands and cried "Shoo! Shoo!" but there was no salvation for the victim.

"What is it, aunt?" asked her niece, Miss Nettie Ward, from the city, who had come out to the old farm for a vacation.

"Why, another of them hawks has grabbed another of them chickens," was the reply. "I told you only last night that he ought to get out and load the shotgun for me. I s'pose that hawk has got as much right to live as other folks, but I'll be snuffed if I—"

"But he did load the gun, and it's there behind the door," interrupted the niece.

"So it is! What an old goose I am getting to be! Nettie, did you ever fire a gun?"

"Never."

"Then I must show you how to do it. You take it in both hands this way. You draw it up to your shoulder this way. Then you set your eyes and pull on the trigger with your finger, and the hawk drops dead. A hawk may come while I'm down collar or upstairs and you are out here alone, and you want to be able to shoot him."

There were only uncle, aunt and Nettie at the farm, and the girl from the city soon wore off the newness and the novelty and became a bit homesick. On account of this homesickness she almost bowed to a young man who passed the gate one evening at dusk and almost bowed to her, and when she went in she asked her aunt who it was.

"I hadn't seen no strange young men around here myself," was the answer, "but I understand that the Stevenses, half a mile below us, have got a summer boarder. I guess he's the one you saw."

"Things happen suddenly out in the country the same as in the city. Two days after seeing the young man Miss Nettie woke up with the toothache."

She had hardly come downstairs and told of it when the rural mail carrier left a letter for the aunt, which stated that a sister living ten miles away was ill and wanted her to drive over at once. She couldn't drive, and so Uncle Joe must go along. There was room for Nettie to go along, but the toothache kept getting worse. It didn't take her long to decide to stay home and doctor it. She could put on a bag of hot ashes, hold hot vinegar in her mouth and now and then press a wad of cotton batting wet with peppermint essence against the offending molar, and there was hope that she would be all right before night came.

During the long day, if the ache permitted, she could swing in her hammock, climb the cherry tree after the ripe fruit, hunt for hens' eggs in the barn and watch the ducks and goslings in the horse pond.

"There is only two things to look out for," said the aunt when she was ready to drive away. "Keep your eyes out for hawks and tramps. As we haven't seen a tramp for six weeks, I guess you won't be bothered, but then hawks are liable to drop down any time. If one comes, you be sure to shoot it. I've heard that shooting a gun has been known to cure the toothache."

Uncle and aunt had been gone an hour when the toothache ceased, and Miss Nettie piled into her hammock under the pear tree with a book. She was just opening the kitchen door and only thirty feet away, and just inside the door stood the shotgun. The maid had great confidence that if hawk or tramp came along she would play the part of a heroine.

At 11 o'clock, when the young man who boarded down at Stevens' came past the house with his kodak, he was satisfied from the swinging of the hammock that Mrs. Nettie was reading.

Two hours later, when he had snapped an old lop horned cow, a crab apple tree and a brook that seemed to be flowing up hill, he returned to find the hammock so still that there was no doubt in his mind that the occupant was asleep. He had not past the house, walking as slowly as possible, when he caught sight of half the body of a man in an open window on the other side. Whoever it was had come sneaking down through the cornfield.

It was up to the young man to investigate. He started out with the impression that the intruder was a tramp, and he picked up a club, scaled the picket fence and gave a shout. The man in the window heard and drew back. He saw and dropped to the ground and ran around the corner of the house. He ran into the hammock and his sleeping occupant fell over them and bounced said sleeping occupant out on the grass.

At about the same moment the young man from Stevens' who had started to pursue the unknown, caught his foot and took a roll, and he was so slow in picking the current bushes out of his curly hair when he did get up that he turned the corner just as the bewildered Nettie had dashed into the kitchen, seized the gun and was ready for hawks.

She had been rudely awakened, more rudely dumped on the grass and stepped on, and in her half awake state she didn't know a hawk from a man until it was too late.

In a cool moment she never could have mastered the mechanism of that old shotgun. Under the momentary excitement she not only fired it, but sent a liberal quantity of bird shot into some one's legs.

She had only heard the report of the gun when she became panic stricken and fled into the kitchen and shut and bolted the door, and for the next three or four minutes she was in a half faint. Then she realized that she had shot a man. She remembered that he had fallen on the grass. She wasn't overcome with horror at the thought. On the contrary, she had shot a tramp and was entitled to all praise.

Presently, as Miss Nettie listened with her ears against the door, she heard groans. That meant she had only wounded the tramp. Her heart was touched by those groans. She could not see the man after she had opened the door an inch or two, because he was just around the corner of the house, but she called out to him: "Are you going away before I shoot again?"

"I can't say," was the reply. "I'm afraid I can't walk without help."

"Why not?"

"Because you have shot me in the legs."

"But my aunt told me to look out for hawks and tramps."

"But I am neither one nor the other." Judging from his voice, he was a gentleman instead, and after drawing a long breath and breathing a prayer the girl stepped out and peered around the corner of the house. That young man from Stevens' was lying on his elbow on the grass. His face was very pale, and there were blood spots on the legs of his trousers. At sight of her he smiled faintly and said:

"My name is Arthur Welbourne. I am stopping with my relatives, the Stevenses. I live in the city and am an artist. If you will pardon me, I will say that I have heard you are Miss Ward. In passing the house while you slept in the hammock I saw a tramp climbing into a window. I gave the alarm, and he escaped. He it was who tumbled over your hammock and awoke you."

"And I thought you were a hawk or a tramp and shot you," gasped the girl as she wrung her hands.

"But fortunately without serious results. All the shot struck my legs, but I may need assistance to get down home."

"But I shan't let you get down home. Here, take my hand and see if you can stand on your feet. Now hang on to my arm and let me get you into the house and on to the lounge. How could I have been so silly girl! Now, then, you lie down here, and I'll run for Dr. James. I know he lives in the first house above here. I'll bring him right back with me."

She was gone before Mr. Welbourne could protest and was back in half an hour with the good natured country doctor. It took about an hour to pick out the score of bird shot that had been fired into the young man's legs, and during this time Miss Nettie walked up and down in the back yard with tears in her eyes and no care if the hawks came down and took every hen on the place.

The doctor assured her that Mr. Welbourne would live. Mr. Welbourne himself assured her that he was bound to live to make her further acquaintance, and he was taken down to the Stevenses in the doctor's buggy. He limped for three or four days, during which time Miss Nettie and her aunt called twice, and then he ceased limping and returned the calls.

Inside of a week he was something more than a caller. He beats all how fast a girl who shoots a man and the man who is shot by her can get acquainted—very well acquainted. Matrimony and hawks are sometimes shot at with a gun.

The Land of Ducks.

There are more ducks in China than in all the rest of the world. China, literally, is white with these birds, and day and night the country resounds with their metallic and scornful voices. Children herd ducks on every road, on every pond, on every farm, on every lake, on every river. There is no back yard without its duck house. There is no boat, little or great, without its duck quarters. Even in the cities of China ducks abound. They dodge between the coolies' legs. They flit, squawking, out of the way of the horses. Their indignant quack will not unseasonably drown the roar of urban commerce. All over the land there are great duck hatching establishments, many of them of a capacity huge enough to produce 50,000 young ducks every year. The Chinese duck is extremely tender and delicate—the best table duck for eating in the world. Duck among the Chinese is the staple delicacy. It is salted and smoked like ham or beef, and duck eggs are eaten as chicken eggs are in America.

The Oldest Bank Notes.

The oldest bank notes in the world are the "flying money," or convenient money, first issued in China in 2357 B. C. One writer tells that the ancient Chinese bank notes were in many respects similar to those of the present day, bearing the name of the bank, the date of issue, the number of the note, the signature of the official who issued it and its value in both figures and words. On the top of these curious notes was the following philosophical injunction: "Produce all you can, spend with economy." The note was printed in blue ink on paper made from the fiber of the mulberry tree. One of these notes bearing the date 2357 B. C. is still preserved in the Asiatic museum at St. Petersburg.

CASE FOR JEWELS.

Better and More Convenient Than the Ordinary Box. The little case for jewels shown in the illustration is a decidedly better receptacle for pins, brooches and rings than the ordinary jewel box in which unworn articles are tossed about and soon tarnish. It is especially useful when traveling, as it occupies so small a space—in fact, one of small size may be worn pinned to the corset or carried in the little hand bag with the purse, handkerchief, etc.

It is comparatively simple to make, but great care should be taken to do the work neatly; otherwise it will be anything but satisfactory.

The center part should be slightly padded with cotton wool, so that pins may be easily stuck into it. The upper and lower portions are fitted with six little pockets, with flaps of chamois that fold over and button down and in which may be carried rings, chains and other trinkets.

The case folds up and is fastened with ribbons. A nice idea is to have the outside of silk in a pretty design, with the lining of chamois skin, or if the silk should be in a solid color a monogram or an initial may be embroidered on the outside.—New York Mail.

A Help For Mother.

It is an unwritten law that children's garments should be made to fasten in the back, but the woman who has less regard for these "unwritten laws" than she has for neatness and an economy of time and patience will find it a great advantage to have the little underwaists open in front. Little fingers that are just beginning to learn how to help mother by helping themselves can easily button a waist in front, but if the buttons are in the back the top button is quite likely to be placed in the middle buttonhole, and so on.

Rubber Shoes.

To make rubber shoes wear longer, from the tops of old rubber shoes cut pieces the shape of a heel. Smear these pieces on the lining side with thick muckluge or any sticky substance and place in the heels of rubbers, pressing down firmly. These protectors prevent the rubber from receiving the direct pressure of the boot heels and can be renewed when they show the least signs of wear. I make my rubbers last much longer by doing this.

Using Gasoline.

Use gasoline without leaving a ring. This is done successfully by folding a small turkish wash rag once. Of this make a tight roll, winding together with a stout twine. Use the folded end of this as a swab. Place a small quantity of gasoline in a saucer, dip the swab in lightly, avoiding too much fluid. Stroke the spot gently until it disappears. Never pour gasoline on a grease spot. The ring is caused by too free use of gasoline.

PASSPORTS IN FRANCE.

The kind that were issued in the time of Louis XVI.

The mysterious ciphers of the Count de Vergennes each contained a brief history in cipher of those to whom they were given. The Vergennes was Louis XVI's minister of foreign affairs, and when strangers of a suspicious character were about to enter France he issued to them these strange cards, which acted as passports, and were also intended to give information concerning the bearer without his knowledge.

In the first place, its color indicated the nationality of the man who carried it. The person's age, approximately, was told by the shape of the card. A fillet around the border of the card told whether he was a bachelor, married or a widower. Dots gave information as to his position and fortune, and the expression of his face was shown by a decorative flower.

The stranger's religion was told by the punctuation after his name. If he was a Catholic it was a period, if a Jew a dash, if he was a Lutheran a semicolon and so on at all indicated him a nonbeliever.

So a man's morals, character and appearance were pointed out by the pattern of his passport, and the authorities could tell at a glance whether he was a gamester or a preacher, a physician or a lawyer, and whether he was to be put under surveillance or allowed to go free.—Sunday Magazine.

Materialistic Man.

Sir James Crichton Browne, the English physician, speaking before some members of his profession, protested against the tendency to adopt too materialistic an explanation of man. The raw material of a medical practice became a mere contrivance of matter and force; the brain of this poor consumer of pills and potions a "glue-like substance, nine-tenths water, with a little phosphorus thrown in." "They left us," said Sir James, with a smashing figure, "a motor car, self made and self started, with no passengers and no chauffeur, moved by a series of explosions or redistributions of energy, and rushing on to inevitable destruction."

A Prayer.

Send some one, Lord, to love the best that is in me and to accept nothing less from me, to touch me with the searching tenderness of the passion for the ideal, to demand everything from me for my own sake, to give me so much that I cannot think of myself and to ask so much that I can keep nothing back, to console me by making me strong before sorrow comes, to help me so to live that while I part with many things by the way I lose nothing of the gift of life.—Hamilton W. Hale.

Maudie Was Willing.

A strict housewife said to a new maid, "I forgot to tell you, Maudie, that if you break anything I'll have to take it out of your wages."

But Maudie, whom two days had heartily sickened of her berth, replied, with a merry laugh: "Do it, ma'am; do it. I've just broke the hundred dollar vase in the parlor, and if you can take that out of $4—for I'm leavin' at the end of the week—why, you'll be mighty clever."—Argonaut.

The Other One.

"What is the meaning of 'alter ego'?" asked the teacher of the beginners' class in Latin.

"The other I," said the boy with the curly hair.

"Give a sentence containing the phrase."

"He whined his other I."

The Battle of Life.

No man lives without jostling and being jostled. In all ways he has to elbow himself through the world, giving and taking offense. His life is a battle in so far as it is an entity at all.—Carlyle.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

The Practical Way of Mastering It as a Profession.

Domestic science as a special branch for teachers is as yet in its infancy, and I cannot inform you of any college or of any university offering scholarships for the entire course. There are loan funds and small scholarships in several colleges with domestic science courses which will help you to complete your studies if your funds fail and you show that you are peculiarly adapted to the work; also in many of the larger cities domestic science and domestic arts are included in the free night school courses of the public schools and are taught in the night classes of the Young Women's Christian association.

But the woman who has met with reverses and has no funds at her command had best adopt more practical means of establishing herself by her knowledge of domestic science and household economies.

Through the influence of patronesses and the right persons on boards of directors she can perhaps secure an opening as matron or assistant matron or housekeeper of a small charity institution, but it requires powerful influence to overcome the feeling that a trained woman should have the place. Here again the personality or determination of the woman even more than her natural ability as a housewife plays an important part.

If you are brave enough to put your pride in your pocket and enter the linen room of a hotel you can study hotel housekeeping at close range and incidentally be in line for promotion. If you are willing to perform the menial duties of a working housekeeper in a big city until you form acquaintances and work your way into the good graces of the better class of intelligence offices you can secure a position in a family of wealth, but there is absolutely no chance of your securing such a position by correspondence.—Anna Stowe Richardson in Woman's Home Companion.

Writing to Oblige.

Uncle (to little Bertie, aged five, who is being taken off to bed): Good night, Bertie. Of course you always remember your aunts and uncles in your prayers? Bertie—Oh, yes, Uncle Felix! Shall I tell you what I say? I say, "God bless Aunt Kitty and make her thin, and God bless Uncle James and make him fat, and God bless Uncle Felix and"—which do you want to be, fat or thin?—Punch.
