Five members of the board of the bill provides shall be members or descendants of old Spanish families and five not specified. Five members of the board must be residents of Santa Fe and five from other points in New Mexico. The bill was read the first and second time and ordered translated, printed and referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

The speaker announced that he had signed Council Bill Number 2, an act relative to the filling of vacancies in county offices.

Under the order of bills on their third reading, House Bill Number 2 by Mr. Abbott, of Santa Fe, an act relative to the issuing of bonds for sanitary purposes by incorporated cities and towns came up. The bill was read the third time as amended by the Committee on Municipal Corporations so as to include villages under its provisions.

Mr. Abbott then explained the amendments and moved that the amendments to the bill be adopted, which motion prevailed. Mr. Abbott then moved that House Bill Number 2 as amended "do now pass." The bill passed the House by a viva voce vote.

Mr. Beach announced a meeting of the special committee to draft a new registration and election law at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Abbott, of Santa Fe, announced that the excursion to Torrance County would leave at 7 a. m. Friday morning.

Mr. Beach asked for permission to allow unmarried members of the House to take either the "best girls" or some other "fellow's wife." Mr. Abbott explained that it was "up to Mr. Beach to get married," or make the trip to Torrance County alone. Mr. Holt wanted a special committee appointed to ascertain if Mr. Beach really had a "best girl."

Mr. Mullins wanted the sergeant-at-arms taken along to preserve order on the train.

It was finally decided that a stenographer and a couple of interpreters would be allowed to make the trip to Torrance County, upon motion of Mr. Sanchez of Taos, duly seconded and carried.

Mr. Beach then wanted to select the stenographer, but this was too much for Mr. Holt, who moved that the House adjourn until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The motion prevailed by a viva voce vote, Mr. Beach dissenting loudly.

SUGGESTS REMEDY TO PREVENT WRECKS

Vice President Kruttschnitt of Southern Pacific Favors Complete Publicity of Accidents.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 15.—As a preventative for railroad accidents complete publicity is suggested by Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance and operation of the Harriman lines and vice president of the Southern Pacific Railroad. In an interview today he said:

"The persons responsible for railroad accidents, whether officers, employees or laborers, should be made known to the public in order that they may feel the weight of popular displeasure. We must bring about a closer observation of the rules governing the operation of railroads and a greater respect for danger signals than we now get from our employees. This can only be done by the widest publicity of all accidents."

PREFERS DEATH TO MAD HOUSE

Harry Thaw Averse To Being Adjudged Insane

TRIAL MAY END ABRUPTLY

If Court Should Decide to Appoint Lunacy Commission to Examine Murderer.

New York, Feb. 15.—Will the Thaw murder trial be brought to an abrupt ending when the taking of testimony is resumed next Monday by the appointment of a lunacy commission to officially determine the condition of the mind of Harry Thaw?

Defendant's Counsel Worried.
This is the question that is worrying the counsel for the defendant, whose suspicions have been aroused by the sudden change of attitude of District Attorney Jerome, whose apparent willingness to admit part of the defendant's will, by his seemingly readiness to withhold technical objections to testimony by the Thaw family physician tending to throw additional light upon the defendant's mental status and by his policy yesterday in admitting without opposition the conversation between Thaw and Dr. Evans, when the latter was examining the prisoner in the Tombs.

Would Prefer Death to Asylum.
Thaw, himself, is credited with declaring that he would rather face Sing Sing prison or the electric chair in preference to the asylum if it should come to a show down between the three. His long confinement is beginning to tell on him perceptibly and his nervous system is almost a wreck, owing to his having always been of a high strung disposition.

Jerome Is Reticent.
District Attorney Jerome when questioned as to what stand he would take in case the trial should be brought to an abrupt end by an application for a lunacy commission to examine into Thaw's condition, declined to discuss the matter in any way.

May Cause Family Rupture.
This new phase of the case may cause another rupture between Thaw and his family and also between the defendant and his counsel. Thaw, it is rumored, has intimated strongly during the past few days that he is tired of being pictured as a maniac before the public through the newspapers and it is not at all improbable that he may refuse to abide by the wishes of both the Thaw family and his counsel.

SICKENING SCENE DOUBLE HANGING

Rope Broke Twice Victim Dying in Agony

3 EXECUTED IN KENTUCKY

While Still Another Suffers Death Penalty in Texas—History of Crimes.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 15.—There was a harrowing scene at the double hanging today at Farmville, a village near here, of Moses Hill and William Ruffin, two negroes convicted of the murder of Postmaster John Grubb six months ago.

Both Men Brave to Last.
Both Hill and Ruffin walked calmly to the gallows. When asked if they had anything to say both answered "no" and the black caps were adjusted and at the signal the sheriff sprung the trap.

Hill's Weight Broke Rope.
Hill weighed 275 pounds and when his body shot through the trap the rope snapped, but in Ruffin's case things were more successful, the drop breaking his neck, death being practically instantaneous.

Walked Calmly to Gallows Again.
Hill was seemingly unharmed by his fall and quickly arose to his feet. Another rope was produced and unassisted he calmly walked up the steps of the gallows a second time.

Rope Broke Second Time.
The spectators were horror-stricken when the rope broke a second time and the victim died in terrible agony on the ground, death being due to strangulation, the drop having caused the noose to tighten about his throat.

Threw Crowd into Panic.
The crowd was thrown into a panic and the sheriff and deputies were so shaken by the awful scene that they offered no assistance to the unfortunate victim and he died within a few minutes.

WILLARD WILL BE IMPORTANT POINT

Must Become Great Trade Center Soon

ON THE BELEN CUT-OFF

Four Wholesale Houses Operating There—Extensive Railroad Improvements.

John T. Kelly, T. L. Walrath and W. M. Taylor, of Willard, arrived in Santa Fe last night to accompany the Legislative excursion through Torrance County and boost for Willard, the aspirant for the county seat of Torrance. They came well supplied with literature setting forth Willard's advantages and have been busily engaged among the legislators. They present very convincing arguments in favor of Willard as the county seat.

In conversation with a New Mexican reporter they told of many new enterprises being established in their city, which is only a year and a quarter old.

William Taylor, one of the trio who is a real estate owner and land agent in the new and growing town of Willard, Torrance County and who is a booster for business, spent yesterday in the city preparing for the excursion of the members of the Legislative Assembly and guests of the Santa Fe Central Railway, through Torrance County and for a visit to Estancia, Willard and Torrance today. Although he was very busy a reporter of the New Mexican nevertheless induced him to talk concerning the town of Willard which is now in the public eye and gleaned from him the following:

"The invasion of Willard by the fields of Las Vegas marks the third of New Mexico's largest commercial institutions to open business there and means the immediate expenditure of $20,000 in brick buildings and a $150,000 investment in stock and goods for these three stores alone. Two at least of the large stores will do a wholesale business, which is an early recognition of Willard's fitness as a commercial center by reason of its location on the 'Belen cut-off,' the Eastern Railway of New Mexico which will soon be completed with its connecting lines. The recent Bond Brothers and Dunlap deal at Willard will result in the location of a wool scouring mill and already the Santa Fe System has undertaken plans for the construction of a wool house to hold three-quarters of a million pounds of wool. Willard will become one of the largest wool centers in New Mexico, through its location on the cut off and by virtue of the fact that it is in the center of what has been for many years the finest sheep raising country in the United States.

"Material for the Santa Fe Railway depot and Harvey Eating House at Willard is arriving and work on these structures will commence very soon. The road will expend over $100,000 at Willard in erecting a depot, Harvey Eating House, coal chutes and water tower. Besides, this road is to construct at Willard what will be the largest railroad pumping plant in the country, the estimated cost of which is $100,000. The round house is another improvement to come and the company has already constructed seven miles of sidetrack and expended many thousands of dollars in drilling wells to supply the 'cut-off' with water. It is a strange fact that Willard has the only water on the cut-off from Texico to Rio Puerco that can be used for engine purposes. This accounts for the extensive arrangements contemplated at Willard to provide water over the entire 'cut-off.' The Willard water is the best so far found in New Mexico, being pure mountain water free from all harmful substances and especially suitable for engine use. It is pronounced the purest water on the entire Santa Fe Railway system from Chicago to San Francisco.

"Willard feels confident of securing the county seat of Torrance County. The Willardites, not only know the full force of Willard's strength commercially, and as to her location, but have full confidence in the ability and judgment of Councilman Dalles in putting the measure through the House. The fact that the bill has passed the Council, receiving every vote, but one, is evidence of the justice of Willard's claim and a fine testimonial on the part of the Council of its confidence in its member from the County of Torrance.

"A. F. Witzel, of St. Louis, traveling representative of one of the largest beer breweries in the country, is at Willard with a view to establishing a wholesale distributing depot for the beer and malt beverages brewed by the establishment which he represents. Willard will be the distributing point for all of New Mexico and Mr. Witzel expects that a big business will be done."

KENTUCKY PAPERS INDICTED FOR GIVING DETAILS OF TRIAL

Lebanon, Ky., Feb. 15.—The grand jury of this county has returned indictments against the Cincinnati Enquirer, the Louisville Herald, the Louisville Times and the Evening Post for printing and circulating the "offensive and indecent" proceedings of the Thaw murder trial.

STRONGLY FAVORS GREATER LAS VEGAS

Max Nordhaus Says Citizens of Two Municipalities Should Join Hands and Boost.

Max Nordhaus, vice president and general manager of the Charles Ifield Mercantile Company, one of the largest business firms in the Southwest, with wholesale establishments at Las Vegas, Albuquerque, Santa Rosa, and Willard, has spent the past few days in this city partly on commercial and partly on Legislative business. Mr. Nordhaus is strongly opposed to the proposed division of San Miguel County, the creation of Garfield and the continuance of two municipalities consisting of the city of East Las Vegas and the town of Las Vegas, believing the latter especially to be very detrimental to the best interests of all concerned.

Mr. Nordhaus read in last evening's New Mexican the news that the plats of the permanent location of the extension of the El Paso and Southwestern Railway system from a point on the line of the El Paso and Rock Island Railroad between Torrance and Duran to the Dawson coal camp—200 miles in length—had been filed in the United States land office here and that the city of Las Vegas would be the main point on the line. Commenting upon his very great and good news to the Meadow City Mr. Nordhaus said to a representative of the New Mexican:

"Since representatives of both sides of the question of the division of San Miguel County have appeared before the proper committees of the Legislature and have had their say, I think it is to the best interests of all concerned to leave the decision to the judgment of the Assembly. Our citizens should allow the matter to rest. There are a number of people in both the town and city who are of the opinion that incalculable harm has been done our community by this most unwise agitation and washing of linen in public which should have been done at home by our local laundry. I sincerely trust that the people of both towns will refrain from making the situation worse by a continuance of the agitation.

Now that the building of a new line of railway into our community seems assured—the Phelps-Dodge people having yesterday filed their maps and profiles in the United States land office here at Santa Fe—it is to the interest of all the people of Las Vegas, regardless of whether they live on the east side or the west side of the Gallinas that they get together for the common purpose of building a Greater Las Vegas, and with a pooling of interests cause a revival of the business of the two towns.

The building of the "Dawson" road will stimulate purchases and sales of real estate and the best way of encouraging buyers and investors will be by demonstrating that harmony between the two towns and in the entire community exists in fact."

WORK DELAYED ON DIVERSION DAM

Cars of Cement and Other Material Side-Track at Points Along Railroad.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 15.—By side-tracking cars of material for the concrete work on the Leasburg diversion dam in the Rio Grande at Selden, New Mexico, the Santa Fe and other railroads are greatly delaying the construction work.

Engineer B. M. Hall, of the reclamation service, returned from Selden yesterday after spending several days at the government camp just below the dam site. He says Contractor J. P. Nelson has about completed the excavation and earth filling on both sides of the river, and is now ready to commence the concrete work. Many cars of material have been received, but material needed before the concrete work can be started has not been received.

Several men have been sent out along the Santa Fe system to trace cars which were shipped from their destination several weeks ago. Mr. Hall said that the tracers had found cars containing material for the Leasburg dam buried on side tracks all along the line.

Contractor Nelson expects to be able to complete the concrete work of the dam within sixty days from the time he starts and it now depends upon the Santa Fe Railway when he will be able to secure the necessary material.

The original contract called for the completion of the Leasburg dam within five months from the time it was accepted. The contract was signed in November, and the diversion dam must be completed in April, that the Mesilla Valley ranchers can secure the water for the spring work from the canal below the big diversion dam.

STILL WRESTLING WITH JAP SCHOOL QUESTION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—Mayor Schmitz and Secretary Leffingwell of the San Francisco school board called at the State Department today and had a conference with Secretary Root.

Neither parties to the conference would disclose the nature of the questions discussed.

Mayor Schmitz, however, said that the school board had not yet considered the proposition looking to placing the Japanese in schools exclusively for them. He said that they had not discussed that.

The conference will be held this afternoon with the President at which it is generally understood all matters in dispute will be amicably adjusted.

CIVIL WAR IN RUSSIA

Certain Says Leader of the Peasant Party

UPON ARRIVAL AT NEW YORK

Alexis Alladin to Tour U. S. in Cause of Freedom in Czar's Domain.

New York, Feb. 15.—Alexis Alladin, the leader of the peasant party in Russia landed here today. He proposes touring this country in the cause of religious and political freedom in Russia and has already been invited to speak at both Harvard and Yale Universities. He said on his arrival today that he would not be surprised if the New Douma was never organized.

Can't Stop Progress of Liberty.
"It is now too late to stop the progress of liberty in Russia," he said. "The liberal sentiment is so broad-cast and general that it will come to the front in spite of all government opposition."

Millions Starving.
Alladin further said that the condition of the poorer classes in Russia at present is extremely desperate and he believes that more than a million people will die in that country during the next three months from starvation.

Predicts Terrible Civil War.
Unless the constitutional rights demanded by the Russian people are immediately granted Alladin asserted that there would be one of the greatest strikes the world has ever seen. The Russian navy will join in the revolt from the first, he declared, and will quickly be followed by the army.

ABOUT SOME NEW MEXICO SONG BIRDS

Breath of Spring Brings the Feathered Singers to the Forests and Orchards of This Land of Sunshine.

The following article from the pen of Mrs. W. H. Bartlett of Clayton, New Mexico, formerly of Santa Fe, is not only a literary masterpiece but must prove delightful reading to the lover of nature. Mrs. Bartlett has made the study of New Mexico birds and flowers a specialty and is besides achieving literary success with contributions to magazines and newspapers of national circulation.

The Day of Saint Valentine.

"Hast thou named all the birds without a gun?"

Loved the wood-rose and left it on its stalk?

At rich men's tables eaten bread and pulse?

Unarmed faced danger with a heart of trust?

And loved so well a high behavior, in man or maid, that thou from speech refrained.

Nobility more nobly to repay?

O, be my friend, and teach me to be thine!"

—Emerson.

St. Valentine's day is upon us when, according to an ancient belief, the birds appear in their new spring clothes and begin their love-making.

On fence and tree-top they gather, billing and cooing, strutting about as proud of their finery as any spoiled beauty of her Easter bonnet and new spring gown.

Chaucer in his Parliament of Fowles, says: "For this was on Seynt Valentine's Day, when every bird cometh ther to chese his mate."

The Coming of Feathered Songsters.

The frost-laden winds of winter have receded to the north and, as the breath of spring sweeps over the earth and the days grow longer and warmer, the air begins to throb with twittered melodies and the trees to flutter with tiny wings, for it is at this season that the great northern migration begins. Thousands and thousands of feathered songsters leave their winter homes in the South and travel to cooler climes where they will nest and rear their young. All day and night they pass over our heads, countless numbers of them obeying the call, "To the North, to the North!"

And we should be up and doing for this is the best season to study the birds. It is far easier to distinguish and identify them now when their plumage is at its best than to wait till the mating season is over when the bright colors will be faded and gone.

Birds Love the Land of Sunshine.

New Mexico is particularly blessed in the matter of birds. It is of such vast extent and its climatic conditions are so varied that it meets many avian requirements, then too it is on the line of travel between the North and the South. Many boreal species find suitable homes in the alpine heights of our mountain ranges; many Mexican songsters cross the border into the southern part of the Territory; and many from the Southern and Middle Western States migrate to the plains in the eastern part of the Territory. Thus we have birds that love low, medium, or high altitudes and those that love warm, temperate or cold climates.

Grosbeaks.

Everyone in Santa Fe, whether a bird lover or not, has surely noticed the grosbeaks that, during the early days of spring, play about the Capitol grounds and wherever else there are maple and box elder trees. Stop and watch them for a moment. They flutter to the ground, their olive green and yellow wings outspread, then crack, crack, a hundred pods are split by as many strong conical bills and a hundred greedy grosbeaks feed on the seeds that have lain on the ground all winter and become sweet and mellow for these happy, clumsy gourmands.

House Finch.

A little brown and gray house finch (Carpodacus mexicanus frontalis) with its crimson head and breast, has been with us all winter for it is a native of New Mexico, Arizona, and California.

In the latter place it is called "pepper bird" because it inhabits the pepper trees. And have you recognized the Junco (Junco hyemalis connectus) with his black cowl and his white rimmed wings and tail? He too has been here through the cold months for he loves the snow and later will follow it northward and to the tops of the mountains. For this reason he is called "snow bird" and he certainly merits the name.

Catbird.

Wherever there is a clump of cottonwood trees somewhat removed from the broad highway, one may be sure to find the catbird in his quiet gray clothes. His scientific name is Mimus carolinensis and he is related to the Southern mockingbird and to our mountain mockingbird. "Meow, meow," he cries and one looks among the stones and shrubbery about him to find a cat. No, no, look up in the tree, there he goes—"meow, meow!" Not a very musical cry is it? But the catbird has very pretty songs in his repertoire and if you listen quietly he may sing for you. The mountain mockingbird that is so common in the hills about Santa Fe is Oreoscoptes montanus and is a native of the western States and Territories. He is speckled below with brown and gray, his wings and tail are marked with white and he is often seen in the sage brush for which reason he is some-Oriele.

Bullock's oriole (Icterus bullocki) in his sleek dress suit of black and gold, is a frequenter of the plains and of altitudes up to 10,000 feet. He is one of the handsomest birds we have. His breast, collar and cheeks are deep golden yellow, his cap, shoulders and wings are black, the latter being barred with white, and his tail is black and yellow. He is often seen swinging on the branches of trees near town and the hanging nests, he and his modestly gowned mate build, are a source of wonder to many small boys.

How appropriately is he described in the poem called "Spring": "The oriole drifting like a flake of fire rent by a whirlwind from a blazing spire."

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Several so-called gold finches which visit this vicinity every summer may be identified from their resemblance to the canary bird. They are yellow or yellowish with markings of black and olive green and are very pretty.

The American gold finch or thistle bird (Chrysomitris tristis) has a beautiful golden yellow coat with black cap, wings, and tail, the wings having bands of white on them. The Arizona gold finch (C. psaltria arizonae) is greenish above and below. Others of this genus that visit our district are the Mexican gold finch (C. psaltria mexicana) and the Arkansas gold finch (C. psaltria).

They are seed-eating birds and may be seen in large numbers late in the summer hovering about some weedy patch where ripe seeds are beginning to fall.

Horned Lark.

The desert horned lark (Eremophila alpestris arenicola) is abundant on the plains as high as 9,000 feet altitude, though it sometimes breeds still higher. It builds its nest on the ground, I saw one last summer in an empty can, and raises two broods.

The bird has dull brown plumage, being darkest on the back of the head, the shoulders and near the tail. There are black lines under its eyes and yellow ones above. The throat is yellow with a black crescent on it and on each side of its head there is an upright tuft of feathers that give the bird its common name.

Meadow Lark.

The western meadow lark (Sturnella magna neglecta) is one of our finest song birds. No one who has learned its note can fail to be moved at its recurrence each spring. It is a clear glad song that tells of summer's coming and of the joys that summer brings. The bird is about the size of a robin, has brown, black, and white splotches on its back, wings, and short tail, is lighter on the sides and has a yellow breast with a black crescent below the throat. The bird is abundant on the plains and its acquaintance should be cultivated.

Mocking Bird.

Is there anywhere a greater singer than the Southern mockingbird (Mimus polyglottus)? Not the one caged in the house—no, no, birds were not meant for prisoners—but the one that is in the tree-tops at early morn when the sky grows pink in the East and all the world is aquiver to greet the laughing, golden-crowned god of day. It is then that this silver-tongued songster makes the air throb and dance with his music. He is very versatile as an opera star and his range of notes is quite as remarkable. Listen to his varied song! Hear how he gurgles and whistles and purrs! Now he trills a soft, sweet melody, now he gives us a staccato movement, and now his song bursts into a grand finale all arpeggios and scales and harmonious cadences. Ah! but he is a prince among singers. And what an ugly name—still he merits it for he is one of the cleverest imitators of all the feathered tribe.

Blackbirds.

Other favorite songsters are the red winged blackbird (agelaius phoeniceus) and the yellow headed blackbird (Xanthocephalus icterocephalus). The former is clothed all in black except for bars of red and yellow on the upper part of its wings. The latter is all in black except its head and breast which are deep golden yellow and its wings which are marked with white. Both species prefer the lower altitudes and are very common throughout the Rio Grande Valley. They move in great flocks resting now on a tree top now in a field of growing grain. Then the air begins to tingle with sweet clear notes as though a thousand crystal bells were set in motion. Oh, but it is good to hear them.

Brewer's blackbird (Scolopagus cyanocephalus) is one of the crow-blackbirds and is sometimes called grackle or rusty grackle on account of the rusty plumage of the female. The male is pure black with a bronze-purple luster and a bluish head.

Tanager.

Undoubtedly the most beautiful of the small birds that visit New Mexico are the Louisiana tanager (Piranga ludoviciana) and Copper's tanager (P. rubra cooperi). The former is canary yellow with green back, wings and tail, and crimson cap and breast. It is often found in the mountains where it breeds at altitudes from 5,000 to 10,000 feet. The latter is our western representative of the scarlet tanager so well known in the East. It is common in the southern part of the Territory and may be identified by its deep rose-colored or scarlet coat and its brownish back and wings.

Pewee.

Nothing could be sadder than the note of the western wood pewee (Contopus richardsoni) which is found at altitudes varying from 7,000 to 11,000 feet. All day he sits on the dead-branch of a tree where nothing can obstruct his view and cries, "pee-wee-wee, pee-wee-wee." Suddenly he swoops down, circles through the air, catches an insect on the wing and is back on his branch in the twinkling of an eye resuming his plaintive cry for food. Not far away hops the chickadee, or black-capped titmouse (Parus

ANSWER IT HONESTLY.

Are the Statements of Santa Fe Citizens Not More Reliable Than Those of Utter Strangers? This is a vital question. It is fraught with interest to Santa Fe people. It permits of only one answer. It cannot be evaded or ignored. A Santa Fe citizen speaks here. Speaks for the welfare of Santa Fe. A citizens statement is reliable. An utter stranger's doubtful. Home proof is the best proof.

Ruperto Martinez, of Griffin Street, says: "I knew that a pretty sure indication of kidney complaint is an aching back, but in my case there was added to that annoyance trouble with the kidney secretions. At first the pain across the loins was the only evidence, but latterly the condition and action of the kidney secretions plainly told me that I must do something for my kidneys or aggravated trouble would follow. I went to Ireland's drug store for Doan's Kidney Pills, took a course of the treatment and the complication stopped. To show my faith in Doan's Kidney Pills, let me tell you that while working at Watrous getting out stone for the railroad an acquaintance of mine was compelled to stop and go home on account of his back. I advised him to use Doan's kidney Pills. He acted on my advice and in a couple of days after commencing their use he returned to work."

BABY'S TORTURING SKIN HUMOR

Ears Looked as if They Would Drop Off—Body Entirely Covered—Face Mass of Sores—Three Doctors Could Not Cure—Child Grew Worse—Face and Body Now Clear

CURED BY CUTICURA
IN TWO WEEKS FOR 75c.

Mrs. George J. Steese, of 701 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio, tells in the following letter of another of those remarkable cures of torturing, disfiguring skin humors daily made by Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, after physicians, and all else had failed: "I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter."

She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away; her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a new-born babe. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents, which is all it cost us to cure our baby, after spending many dollars on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for every humor, from Eruptions to Scalds, from Itch to Erysipelas, consisting of Cuticura Soap, 25c; Ointment, 50c; Resolvent, 50c. (In form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c per box of 60), may be had of all druggists. A single set often cures the most distressing cases, when all other remedies fail, and even the best physicians fail. Putter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

Timely Suggestions.

There is no part of the home, that should receive more attention, in equipping the same, than the kitchen.

This is true, whether we employ a chef or attend to the culinary duties personally, and much of the happiness of the home depends on the ability of the cook, for whether we are epicures or not, good cooking is indispensable.

An up-to-date household, uses up-to-date appliances, for, "That which today is a luxury, tomorrow becomes a necessity," in this progressive world, and this applies to the kitchen.

If you will allow us to show you some of these articles, we feel sure their utility and merits will be obvious.

MISS C. T. CROSBY.

First Woman to Hunt and Fish in the Lake Regions of Maine.
Miss Cornelia Thurza Crosby, known to thousands as "Fly Rod," the first woman to hunt, fish and stalk game in the lake regions of Maine, is a philosopher as well as a sportswoman. "All we take out of this world is the good things we do for others and the friendships we make here," she says.

Great-granddaughter of Ezekiel Porter, first selectman of Farmington, who was a personal friend of George Washington and a colonel in the Revolutionary war, she was born in Phillips in the little cottage where she still lives under the shadow of trees which her father planted when a young man. She grew up with an inborn love of forests and the woods life. She loves the woods, and instead of flowers one finds about her rooms bits of pine branches of cedar and of fir, fragrant and clean.

When still young her health broke down, and she took to the forest life in self preservation, adding to necessity a love of sports and adventure. Her adventures in wood and along stream have been the theme of many a writer. Her own stories, written over the signature of "Fly Rod," are familiar as nursery tales in many a family, and her personality is well known to thousands of people who have seen her a welcome guest at summer hotel or campfire or city home.

Many women today shoot and fish and camp with their husbands and brothers in the woods of Maine. But Fly Rod was the first to make the way easy and safe. Her rifle was the first to echo in the lake country of her own state, and her skill and personality soon won her wide attention. Her fishing tackle, her rifles, her hunting costumes, most of them gifts from wealthy friends, are familiar to the public. Her work in establishing a Maine exhibit in the New York sportsmen's exhibition has done more to advertise Maine as a hunters' paradise than any one single method of its advertising.

Miss Crosby is a convert to the Catholic faith and takes an active, earnest, practical part in all church work.—Boston Herald.

Keeping Silver Bright.

There is nothing uglier than dull, smeary looking silver. It is bad enough in a toilet service, but when ill kept silver is seen on the dining table it presages a carelessness that is far from reassuring to the diner.

It is not enough to give silver a weekly cleaning, as is much the custom. Coal gas, steam and furnace heat all tarnish it quickly, while the dust from even the best kept house will soon dim a polished surface.

To keep silver bright after use it should be washed at once with a chamolite leather soaked in warm, soapy water, rinsed thoroughly in boiling water and dried and polished quickly with a soft cloth or a fresh chamolite skin.

This, to a well trained dishwasher, should be as expeditious as the ordinary slipshod methods of drying the table silver in constant use.

If it becomes too clouded, yet one does not find it convenient to give it a regular cleaning, silver can be wonderfully cleaned by a rub with a roughed chamolite. One of these should be in every well equipped pantry. They are sure to rub off on hands and gowns, especially when new, but are excellent for an emergency.

The most persistently and brilliantly shiny silver I have ever seen belongs to a woman whose maid confided to me the secret of its good appearance. She always used pure alcohol instead of water to moisten her silver powder.

Never use a stiff brush or a rough cloth on a plain surface, for scratches will result. A very occasional turning over of one's silver to a jeweler for repolishing is useful when one can afford the expense.

Middle Age and Trim Figures.

It is a rare thing to see a woman of forty with a light step, a graceful carriage and a trim figure. We say trim, not slender or girlish. It would be foolish to make the outlines of girlhood the ideal for a woman of middle age. Nature provides that she shall "fall into flesh" a little and that her form should express something more substantial than the careless grace of a girl. But women of about forty are far too prone to indulge the natural inclinations of advancing years. It is a thing even more rare to find a woman who wakes to the fact that conditions could be improved and starts to do something in that line. Hopeless as it may seem, a figure, a carriage can be vastly changed even at forty-five years. It is a slow process to effect such improvements even at twenty-five. At the former age it is proportionately difficult. But it can be done. Even though the flesh grows weary and unwilling, the will can bring it to better form. Faithful daily practice in contour exercises, general activity and constant attention to one's position will work wonders. An erect posture—sitting, standing or walking—with vigilant care over every attitude, will be quite worth while to the woman who has lost forever the fresh rosinness of girlhood, but who has in its place and dignity and a sweetness different from anything else in the world.

Powder on the Face.

The girl who always complains that powder shows on her face may be pretty sure that she is not taking correct care of her complexion or that the powder she is using is not desirable. If the complexion is kept soft and smooth with a good facial food or cream it will accept powder without raising a disturbance and making the girl look like a humpy dumpty. Of course when the cuticle is flaky and molting in large particles any dry substance like powder will but exaggerate the trouble. But when the surface is smooth and soft and fine little powder can be used with good effect. Besides giving the face a velvety look it will act as a protection against the winds and the gentle breezes that blow not only in the springtime, but the whole year through.

Trick in Dishwashing.

Where a great deal of dishwashing is necessary it is a good plan to do away with the drying of dishes. To make this possible in the average household a rack is now used. It is shaped like those photographers use for negatives, only, of course, much larger. After being rinsed with clean hot water the dishes can be set up on edge in the rack and allowed to dry by evaporation. All they need then is a polish with a dry towel as they are placed on the table. One can wash the dishes, go about other work and return to find them all ready to put away.

Macaroni Rarebit.

For macaroni rarebit take half a cupful of boiled macaroni that has been cut into small pieces. Put half a cupful of milk into a saucepan, stir in quickly the yolks of three eggs, a cupful of American cheese either grated or broken into small pieces, a generous tablespoonful of butter, salt, pepper and lastly macaroni. Stir the mixture over the fire until the cheese has melted; then serve on hot buttered toast.

Eyes, Hair and Gowns.

Where a person has hair of a dark reddish hue and eyes almost black they look best in a dark neutralized orange or brown, where hair, eyes, skin and costume blend in a harmonious whole. On the contrary, if a person has lustrous blue black hair and eyes, with cold grayish skin, not rich in color, they will stand out if the costume is in harmony with steel blue or cold gray.

Heating Irons.

If you are ironing with the patent hand iron and using a gas range, it is a good idea to put a tin cover on top of the iron as it sits on the fire. The cover keeps the heat from escaping, and your iron with its help will get hot much quicker. On a good sized blaze two irons of this kind covered with a tin or copper cover will heat as soon as one.

Dishcloths.

Make your new dishcloths of knitted cotton, and you will be pleased to note that they may be washed again and again and still look clear and clean. After using, always carefully wash cloths with both soap and soda and hang them out in the air to dry.

Sunday's Breakfast.

"Make a point always to have an extra good breakfast on Sunday morning," advises a wise woman in What to Eat. "It starts the day right for the man of the house. Give him the things he is particularly fond of on that day above all others."

Make Your Own Linoleum.

Tack tightly to your kitchen floor an old carpet. Rag carpet is the best. Spread thickly over this a thick paste of flour and water. When dry, add another thick layer. Then paint in some dark color. This can be scrubbed and will wear a lifetime.

Ask your grocer for bean bags, for which he will charge you 5 cents each. Cut down both sides and across closed ends, hem all around, and you will have two good towels, suitable for all kitchen purposes.

The hairbrush should have long, soft bristles that will go right through the hair and remove every particle of dust, and must, above all things, be immaculately clean.

Don't forget that when people come to see you on your day it is a distinct call and they expect to be called on in return.

Put a few drops of ammonia on a rag to rub finger marks from looking glasses or windows.

His Part.

Magistrate (to witness)—I understand that you overheard the quarrel between the defendant and his wife? Witness—Yes, sir. Magistrate—Tell the court, if you can, what he seemed to be doing. Witness—He seemed to be doing the listening.

Optimistic View.

Tom (proudly)—Miss Pinkleigh has promised to be my wife. Jack (consoling)—Oh, don't let that worry you. Women frequently break their promises.—Chicago News.

Inquire of the young people; they know everything.

rus Atreipallus.) Try to imitate his note and see how pert he is to answer. There are five sibilant notes uttered in four-four time. For hours the saucy little fellow will talk back, determined to have the last word. The yellow-headed titmouse, or golden tit (Auriparus Flaviceps) from the southern part of the Territory is closely related to the chickadee. It is about four inches long with gray and brown body, yellow head and throat and chestnut color on the upper part of its wings. The bird builds an elaborate nest of twigs then lines it with feathers so the birdlings will have a warm soft home.

"When God made a host of them, One little flower lacked a stem To hold its blossom blue; So into it He breathed a song, And suddenly with petals strong As wings, away it flew."

—John B. Tabb.

Bluebird.

The mountain bluebird (Sialia Arctica) is a beautiful fluttering creature of the most intense blue comparable to nothing so well as a stemless flower. It breeds from the plains to timberline where it is quite as well known as the chestnut-backed bluebirds (S. Mexicana) of the lower altitudes.

Bullfinch.

The Texas cardinal or bullfinch (Pyrrhuloxia sinuata) comes into the Territory at the south. It resembles the eastern cardinal in size and shape but is more quietly dressed. Its upper parts are gray and brown, its breast and the lining of its wings are rose-colored and it has a very showy rose-colored crest. Its bill is short, stout and somewhat parrot like.

Bunting.

Cyanospiza ceris, painted bunting or nonpareil, occasionally finds its way here from the southern states. It is such a brilliantly colored bird that one wonders if it has not been painted. Think of a creature no larger than a sparrow that boasts a blue head, a green back, brown and green wings and tail, red chin and breast, red rings around the eyes and a red patch at the base of the tail. Quite parrot like in color isn't it? The beautiful indigo bird of the East is a near relative and so is the lazuli finch or bunting (C. Amoenia) which is abundant in our district and which strongly resembles the indigo bird. Its head, upper parts and the lining of its wings are azure blue, its neck and back are shaded with brown, its wings and tail are black and white and its breast is chestnut.

I have said nothing of the sweet-sunged vireos with their hanging nests in which lie tiny spotted eggs, nor of the towhees with their cheery morning call, nor of the numerous other birds found in New Mexico either as residents or tourists but I have mentioned some of the most beautiful birds and some of the sweetest singers in the hope that more residents of the Territory will become interested in and acquainted with our feathered neighbors of wood and field and meadow. And now, with the author of the Merry Wives of Windsor, "I do invite you tomorrow morning to my house to breakfast; after, we'll a-birding together."—Shakespeare.

The Daughter

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1906, by Frank H. Sweet

THERE was the usual morning bustle around the small station at Finley. On the platform were long lines of neatly packed crates and orange boxes, and among them the owners, with stencils and paint pots, making sure that their markings were all right.

Presently there were a roar and a quiver, and the great engine rushed by and came to a slow stop as the passenger cars glided opposite the platform.

Among those to alight was a young girl of seventeen or eighteen, plainly but expensively dressed, and with a bright, eager air of expectation. A quick glance about the platform brought a shade of disappointment to her face. After a moment's hesitation she approached a man in shirt sleeves and broad, low, flapping hat who was leaning against some orange boxes he had just finished packing.

"Can you direct me to Mr. John Austin's place?" she asked.

"Mr. John Austin," he repeated reflectively. "Why, no, I don't. Oh, yes, of course—Boozy John." He stopped abruptly as he noticed the inquiring look on her face. "I—I—yes, I reckon I know. Are you some of his kin?"

"I am his daughter," she replied, wondering a little at the startled white which came to his lips and which she noticed he choked back apologetically. "I have been at a boarding school ever since I was a little girl. This is my first visit to Florida."

"An' does your paw, Mr. John Austin, know you're comin'?"

"No, but I haven't heard from him in almost a year. Father doesn't like to write, but he never allowed my letters to go unanswered so long before. I feared something might be the matter with him or the boys, and he wouldn't tell. I just had to come. I am so glad that you know him." She hesitated and then asked in a lower voice, as though she feared her question would be answered in the negative, "Is he—well?"

"Yes, fur as sickness goes, your paw's one of the ruggedest an' healthiest men I know. I 'low he an' the boys never had a sickness in all their born days. They're perfectly well, all of 'em. I know, for their place lies mine."

"Why, really?" Her face grew radiant. "Your nearest neighbor? And you know the boys and all about them? Dear little fellow! It seems strange that I should never have seen them. You see, when we left Iowa father sent me to the boarding school and then came south. That was twelve years ago, and I have been at the school ever since. Little Tommy is almost nine, and Fred—let me see—Fred is seven. Is the place far?" eagerly.

"Bout half a mile."

"Well, of course, I can go with you. I'll run and see about my baggage and be back directly. Won't they be surprised?" And, leaving him staring blankly at a knot-hole in the platform, she hurried away to look after her trunk and valise.

Half a minute passed, then the man raised his head with a dismal expression.

"CAN YOU DIRECT ME TO MR. JOHN AUSTIN'S PLACE?"

live whistle. It was echoed by another, equally expressive, from the other side of the orange boxes.

"Waal, you're in it now, for a fact," said the owner of the second whistle sarcastically. "What you goin' to do 'bout it?"

"Lord only knows," growled the man in the shirt sleeves. "Reckon mebbe I'll have to tell her."

"Reckon mebbe you will," dryly.

"How could I?" indignantly, "an' she almost the same age as my C'ndy? Land's sake alive, man, d'ye s'pose I was such a brute as to tell her that Mr. John Austin wa'n't nobody but Boozy John, not fit to be father to nobody, an' that he'd been sent to prison most a year ago for stealin', an' that the boys was in the poorhouse an' that the place wa'n't worth the bringin' out of an auctioneer to sell it? For the land's sake, Thompson, tell me what am I to do?" appealingly.

"Just give it to her straight. That's what I'd do. You're too old fied chicken hearted, Williams. Huh! Here she comes now."

"Your landscapes are so quaint and beautiful," she said, with flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes. "I know I shall like to live here. Well, I am all ready. Can you take my trunk and valise in your wagon?"

"Yes," gruffly. He was glad to get away from her, and he made the work of transferring the baggage as long as possible. Somehow he could not bring himself to tell her the whole brutal truth. If it had not been his money that had been stolen and if he had not been the one who had complained of the worthless drunkard it would have been less difficult. He had been sorry for his justifiable act ever since he made the complaint, and now—Well, he would take the girl home to his wife. She had more tact than he and would know just what to do.

This mental throwing of the responsibility from his own shoulders brought back his natural cheerfulness and buoyancy, and he smilingly motioned for the girl to climb into his wagon.

"Ever ride after a mule before?" he asked as he left the animal's head and climbed up on the seat beside her.

"No." Then her face grew wistful. "Do you suppose father and the boys are at home today?"

"I 'low they won't be there jest right now," he said evasively. "You see, they didn't know you was comin', so they happen to be off for a spell. But you mustn't let it put you out any."

"With some animation. 'I'll take you home, an' my wife'll fix you up mighty comfortable till they get back.'"

"Thank you. But why can't I go right to the house and wait for them? It would be such a surprise."

"No, no," he objected, with sudden entreaty. "By no manner of means Bachelor livin' ain't apt to keep a house fixed up, an' jest now 'tain't in place for you. I know that. You must do jest like I say an' come to my house for a spell."

"Well, if you think best." She was silent for some time, watching the unfamiliar plants along the roadside and the curious, bright colored chameleons that dashed from the warm sand in front of the mule and disappeared with marvelous rapidity among the palm-trees.

"Curus, ain't they?" said Williams as he followed her glance. "Jest like a bit o' rainbow strung on lightning. But they're mazin' fine things for pets. Your brother Freddy used to have one that would scoot out from some queer hidin' place whenever he'd whistle. Great land, Freddy, for pets."

At the mention of Freddy she lost interest in the plants and chameleons and turned to him with a tender, tremulous smile on her lips.

"It will be so pleasant to have one's own folks to live with," she said softly. "They were all nice to me at the school, but none of them belonged to me. It will be almost like—like heaven to live in the same house with father and the boys."

The public is showing its appreciation of the attractive circulars sent out by the New Mexican Printing Company, in regard to rubber stamps.

Williams reached out and struck his mule viciously, but she did not notice. "I suppose everybody round here likes father, he is such a good man," she went on in a tone that was an assertion rather than a question.

"He kept you to school pretty steady," returned her companion. "I knew he had a gal up north, but had an idee she was stayin' 'mong her kin."

"Father has done everything for me—everything," said the girl, with a tender light in her big gray eyes. "He was not rich, for he once wrote that I might have to wait a few days for my year's tuition, as money was hard to get. But it came the very next day, and he always sent me plenty for books and dresses and everything I wanted. He wrote for me never to stint myself on anything and that after I graduated I was on no account to come home, but to keep on with my music and drawing and other studies, and when I had learned all I could at the school he was going to send me to Europe to learn more. Dear, dear father! I hope I may be able to make it up to him some time."

Williams gave a quick sidelong glance at the earnest face and then gazed steadily at the road ahead. He had known Boozy John for eight years and could not remember a single redeeming feature about the man. He was erratic, shiftless and utterly irresponsible. His life was one long spree that reeled between absolute drunkenness and semi-intoxication. But he was a good lawyer and fine scholar and even in his jural stupor was able to pick up a good deal of money about the courts and in other ways. People supposed that all this money went to the dramshops, and the supposition made Contagious. An Irish lad on the east side was obliged recently to seek treatment at a dispensary. On his return home from the first treatment he was met by this inquiry from his mother:

"An' what did the docther man say was the matter wid your eye?"

"He said there was some furrin substance in it."

"Shure!" exclaimed the old woman, with an I-told-you-so air. "now, maybe, ye'll kape away from thim Eytalian boys!"—Success Magazine.

Her Impression. "Now I have an impression in my head," said the teacher. "Can any of you tell me what an impression is?"

"Yes'm, I can," replied a little fellow at the foot of the class. "An impression is a dent in a soft spot."—Birmingham (Ala.) Advance.

THE THIN WOMAN.

When Remedies Fail to Fill Out the Lines and Hollows.

Sometimes the sad truth dawns upon one that after weeks of patient massage and faithful applications of cream and what not there is no change in the sunken lines of the neck and shoulders; the hollows in the cheeks have not filled, even a little; it is no use. That is the unhappy conclusion, and in some cases it is really final. In the quest of the keeping of a fair face and form there is one thing that must be considered, one thing that will sometimes absolutely defy all effort—natural tendency. There are some cases where one is thin and always will be thin in spite of everything. But a woman can determine this easily. It does not take much experience to learn the fact, and when it is learned there is but one sure thing to do—cultivate grace of carriage and movements, a faultless skin, bright and intelligent eyes, beautiful hair and white teeth. With these—and to gain them is not a small task—a woman may be charming herself, despite her slim proportions. Natural tendencies are hard to cope with—when they are in the wrong direction. Some hair is naturally thin and meager; some teeth are uneven in contour and arrangement; some hands are built along ungraceful lines. But every one of the faults of nature may be compensated by cleanliness, care, faithful attention to all that will cultivate charm and a refinement of dress and manner.—Chicago News.

When Wages Were Low. And a Turkey Dinner For Six Cost Only 17 Cents.

"Columbus," said an antiquary of Chicago, "got a salary of $320 a year—less than a dollar a day. His captains got $180 a year apiece. His crew got $225 a month. To equip the expedition that discovered America cost $2,900. The total cost of discovering America was $7,200."

"Lawyers nowadays, especially corporation lawyers, think nothing of earning a million a year. In the reign of Edward IV, a baronet entered in his diurnal, or diary:

"Paid to Roger Fylpott, learned in the law, for his counsel, 3 shillings, with fourpence for his dinner."

"Ministers often make today $20,000 or $30,000 a year, yet John Knox only got $220 a year, or $4 a week, and that was a dollar more a week than Scottish judges got."

"Small salaries, those," concluded the antiquary, "but we must remember that in that epoch there were no trusts to inflate prices, and a dollar went a long way. In fact, a Christmas dinner for a family of six would have cost in John Knox's time: For the turkey, 10 cents; cranberry sauce, 2 cents; potatoes, 1 cent; turnips, 1 cent; celery, 1 cent; plum pudding, 2 cents; total, 17 cents, or less than 3 cents a head."

Friendship With Wild Life. If a fairy had ever offered to grant me three wishes, "the full confidence of wild animals" would surely have been one of them and probably the first. If we seek opportunities to befriend wild creatures and take advantage of them, we shall often find, as I have done, that there is no lack of response on the part of the animals. I once walked up to a pine skin, as he was feeding on the ground and picked him up in my hand. He did not seem a bit alarmed, and when a few minutes later I set him down he continued his search for food within a few inches of my feet. On another occasion a yellow throated vireo allowed me to lift her from her nest when I wished to count her eggs and nestled down comfortably on her treasures the moment I put her back. With a forefinger I once stroked the back of a red breasted nuthatch as he was busy feeding on a tree.—Ernest Harold Baynes in St. Nicholas.

An Answered Prayer. "I sent my little girl," writes a correspondent, "to the butcher's with 50 cents to buy some steak. She came home 10 cents short in change and was sent back for the missing coin. Presently the butcher's boy called with the dime and explained that his employer had found out his mistake, although they had seen nothing of my little daughter. The time went on, and I felt anxious until I heard her singing merrily in the garden. 'Did you go back to the butcher's?' I asked. 'No, mother, it is such a long way, so I asked God to send for the dime. Has it not come yet?'"

A WONDERFUL LAMP.

How to Produce a Brilliant Light With Alcohol Vapor.

This lamp is not the famous lamp of Aladdin, which he had only to rub gently in order to bring about the most wonderful and extravagant doings in the world.

It is, however, a wonderful lamp, for it has power to produce an extraordinary light similar to that of a powerful incandescent electric globe, and that, too, without either smoke or any sort of disagreeable odor.

In fact, you might almost call it an incandescent lamp, only instead of an electric current you have alcohol vapor or gas.

First, you must be told that platinum is a metal that has the property of absorbing a great deal of gas or vapor. Very well. Now prepare your lamp thus: Take an ordinary chafin dish lamp (alcohol lamp), fix up a strong wire arm over it, something like a fancy street lamp post or shop sign support, and from this arm suspend a platinum wire which has been twisted into a spiral. Make sure that the wire hangs directly over the wick or the hole through which the flame rises.

Now light the wick or alcohol, and the flame will quickly shoot up the platinum wire and make it red hot.

In a few moments put out the flame. You will then discover the astonishing fact that the platinum wire, far from gradually cooling, will grow steadily hotter the wick being warm enough to promote a continuous vaporization of the alcohol and the vapor being steadily absorbed by the platinum wire, and as soon as it turns to a pinkish white color it will begin to throw out an intense clear light, which will continue as long as the alcohol lasts.

This is an interesting experiment and worth your trying, boys and girls.—Philadelphia North American.

The Badger and the Fleas. A man who is familiar with the habits of many kinds of animals gives an amusing description of the way in which a badger gets rid of fleas. It goes to some stream, and, standing on the bank, it reaches around with its mouth and pulls a little tuft of hair out of its tail. With that tuft of hair in its mouth it turns around and backs slowly down into the water. The fleas naturally crawl toward the badger's head to keep out of the water, and as it gets farther and farther into the stream they crawl on to its head and finally on to the tuft of hair in its mouth. When they all get there the badger opens his mouth and lets the tuft of hair float downstream. Then he comes back to the bank, shakes himself and laughs perhaps to think how neatly he did the job.—Chicago News.

District Attorney S. B. Davis, of Las Vegas, spent today in Raton on legal business.

Hon. E. A. Miera, member of the Legislative Council from the Santa Fe-Sandoval District, went to Albuquerque last evening where he will spend the next two days, returning to Santa Fe Monday morning.

J. V. Bergen of El Paso, right-of-way and tax agent of the El Paso and Southwestern system, who has been in Santa Fe for several days on official business, returned to his Southern home last night. Mr. Bergen expects to spend considerable time this year in this city during the building of the extension of the El Paso and Southwestern from the El Paso and Rock Island railroad line to the Dawson coal camp.

Hugh H. Harris, the new superintendent of the Manzano and Mount Taylor forest reserves, left last evening for Albuquerque to assume the duties of the position to which he was recently appointed. His headquarters will be in the Duke City. Mr. Harris was connected for a time with the editorial department of the New Mexican and during the past year held an appointment as forest ranger on the Jemez forest reserve.

Minor City Topics.

E. T. Clarendon and E. Archuleta were tried for drunkenness, and being disorderly yesterday at the police court, 112 Galisteo Street, and each was fined five dollars and the costs of the court. Teodoro Padilla is now at work on the streets paying his fine for the same sentence. Alarid, who escaped a day or two ago from the streets where he had been set to work has not yet been captured.

Marshall McHugh shipped his wolf yesterday to Cincinnati, Ohio, where the animal will be placed in a Zoological garden. The wolf was sold to United States Marshal Creighton M. Foraker, who had the animal shipped to his brother J. B. Foraker, United States Senator. The price realized was $100. On the box was this inscription: "My name is Jack; I was raised in Santa Fe; am nine months old; can take off your hat, shake your hand if you wish me to; feed me, water me on the road for I am hungry and dry. Yours respectfully, Mr. Wolfe."

W. T. McCright, business manager of the Albuquerque Citizen, has been suffering from a slight attack of typhoid fever. The latest news is that he is recovering.

A large delegation of the Albuquerque Boosters' Club will visit this city Monday. The Santa Fe Railway has made one fare for the round trip and it is expected that several hundred Boosters will be here on that day. They expect to invade the sacred precincts of the Capitol and make their presence felt with members of the Assembly. They want appropriations for Albuquerque and for the construction of dykes to prevent injury and destruction of property from overflows of the Rio Grande which are expected to come this spring. Let them come. They will be welcome.

New uniforms have been ordered for the members of the Holy Trinity Band and these are expected to arrive in about three weeks. The uniforms will be of dark blue trimmed in gold braid. Twelve uniforms were ordered.

RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR MINING COMPANY

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 15.—Judge Ira A. Abbott yesterday appointed Frank H. More of this city receiver of the Jura Trias Copper Company, a well known mining corporation owning properties near Copperton, Sandoval County, which are said to be very valuable. The receiver was appointed upon application of the First National Bank of this city which holds a judgment against the company on a note of $3,000. There are several others judgments aggregating over $15,000.

The company is heavily capitalized, most of the stock being held by four or five wealthy easterners in Toledo and New York. The company has been successfully promoted by Thomas J. Curran, a well-known mining man of this city, who is connected with the Mogollon Gold and Copper Company and other big enterprises.

HAD MANIA FOR FORGING OF CHECKS.

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 15.—Librado C. de Baca was bound over to the Bernalillo County district court here yesterday in the sum of $500 bonds by a justice of the peace on the charge of forgery. Baca was out on bond pending trial on a similar charge. He seems to have a mania for forging checks as he has been under arrest a score of times during recent years, but has always managed to escape a penitentiary sentence by settling his troubles out of court. He failed to give bond and was committed.

MOTHER AND CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

At Parsons, Lincoln County, by Explosion of Coal Oil—Stove Blew Up.

Parsons, N. M., Feb. 15.—Mrs. William Prethorpe and her three-year-old daughter were burned to death here yesterday in an explosion caused by starting a fire with coal oil.

As near as can be learned, Mrs. Prethorpe attempted to re-kindle the fire in the kitchen stove with coal oil. The stove was filled with red-hot embers and an explosion immediately followed the pouring of the oil upon the fire.

The force of the explosion was so terrific that it was heard by neighbors residing nearby, but by the time assistance arrived the entire house was ablaze. The charred remains of mother and babe were found in the ruins.

The grief stricken husband is employed by the Eagle Mining and Improvement Company and he arrived home only to find that his home was in ashes. The shock was a terrible one for him and he is likely to lose his reason as a result.

RAILROADS NOT TO BE PUNISHED

For Discriminating Previous to Time New Anti-Rede Law Went Into Effect.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—No general order will be issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission requiring railroads to pay rebates and claims for overcharging previous to January 1, the date on which the new anti-rebate law went into effect. This announcement was made today by Commissioner Clark in reply to a request as to the general order as to such claims made by the traffic managers for the Chicago & Alton Railroad and the Chicago Board of Trade.

MAY PROVIDE FOR BIGGER NAVY

House Considering Naval Appropriation Bill—May Build Two Mammoth Battleships.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The proceedings of the House today upon the naval appropriation bill were devoted largely to the consideration of the question regarding an increase in the navy with special reference to the necessity for two big battleships of the Dreadnaught type. The amendment providing for but one battleship was lost.

OKLAHOMANS STILL FUSING OVER CONSTITUTION.

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 15.—One of the sections of the report of the committee on private corporations, adopted by the constitutional convention yesterday provides for a uniformity in the price of all commodities, purporting to prevent discriminations alleged to have been exercised by railroad companies in the price of coal.

An attempt was made to call up the "Jim Crow" proposition for debate early for consideration by the committee of the whole, but was postponed until tomorrow, when decisive action may be taken. A determined fight on the adoption of such a provision will be led by Delegate Haskell, the Muskogee capitalist, who maintains that the constitution would be endangered by the insertion of the proposed plank.

PATIENT ESCAPED FROM INSANE ASYLUM.

Las Vegas, Feb. 15.—Considerable excitement was caused here Wednesday by the escape of a patient from the Territorial Insane Asylum here. The name of the patient was Jose Montoya and the escape was made between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening. Montoya appeared on the street with nothing but a blanket wrapped about him. He was taken in charge within a few hours after his escape by a policeman and lodged in the city jail over night, being returned to the asylum the next day.

TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Mrs. Anna M. Bradley Indicted by Grand Jury in Washington for Killing Senator Brown.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Mrs. Annie M. Bradley was today indicted for murder in the first degree for the shooting of former United States Senator Arthur M. Brown of Utah, on December 8th last, causing his death December 14. Mrs. Bradley probably will be arraigned next week, but her trial will not take place for perhaps two months.

NEW MEXICO MILITARY INSTITUTE

Flag Day Observed February 12—School in Excellent Condition.

Special to the New Mexican. Roswell, N. M., Feb. 15.—New Mexico's flag day was observed by the Cadet Battalion at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when "Escort to the Color" was sounded. The weather was perfect and many spectators had assembled to witness the military honors to the national flag. The flag was escorted to the front of the battalion by Company A, under the command of Cadet Captain Garrett, where the trumpeters sounded "To the Color," while both the officers and cadets stood at salute. There was just sufficient breeze to hold the beautiful silken banner well out from the standard, as the tall color bearer advanced to his position in the center of the line.

This year the institute has the best battalion band that it has had for several years. Captain Fletcher, the bandmaster, has been doing some hard work, the results of which are apparent when the eighteen men under his command appear on parade. This organization is a source of great pleasure to those living at the Post, as well as rendering invaluable assistance in the execution of the military exercises.

Owing to the splendid weather which has prevailed for the last three weeks the officers have been enabled to do a great amount of drilling. The Battalion is now in splendid condition in infantry, artillery and signal drills. Considerable time also has been devoted to target practice on the short practice range. Some of the cadets are making creditable records at this work, and it is expected that much better results will be attained when the long range work is taken up.

It is now proposed that the Cadet Battalion be placed in camp some time near the latter part of April in order to afford a better opportunity to comply with the government regulations in practicing at long range firing. It is not definitely known yet where the encampment will be held, but several places are under consideration. However, the most attractive one is near the headquarters of the government engineers situated near the flood gates of the Hondo Dam. This is a beautiful location, and in case it is finally determined upon, will furnish the cadets beautiful surroundings while they are in the field.

The academic work has been excellent during the term which is now drawing to a close. Next week will be devoted to reviews preparatory to the beginning of the third term's work, which is scheduled to start February 25.

The engineering class has been in the field every afternoon for the past two weeks. They have made surveys of several tracts of land besides retracing several old surveys. They will now take up their notes and prepare comprehensive maps of the country which they have surveyed.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with
