Cuba: 1990 Tourism Revenues

by Barbara Khol

Category/Department: General
Published: Thursday, May 30, 1991

On May 28, Rafael Sed Perez, director of the National Tourism Institute, said tourism revenues for 1990 totaled $250 million. Last year 340,000 tourists visited the island, representing a 4.2% increase compared to 1989. Twenty-six percent of the tourists in 1990 were Canadians. Cuba was also popular vacation spot for tourists from West Germany, Mexico, Spain, Italy, Brazil and Argentina. Last year, 22,600 Spaniards visited Cuba, a 5% decline compared to 1989. (Basic data from EFE, 05/28/91)

-- End --