SANTA FE NEW MEXICAN

VOL. 45.

SANTA FE, NEW MEXICO, TUESDAY JUNE 30, 1908.

NO. 118

TAFT'S LAST DAY AS SECRETARY

Will Cease to Be a Cabinet Member This Evening

TO RESUME POLITICAL WORK

Will Confer With Hitchcock and Vorys Relative to Campaign Manager.

Washington, June 30.—This was William H. Taft's last day as secretary of war. After many years of distinguished service to the government as judge of the United States court, as governor general of the Philippines, as secretary of war and as the special representative on several delicate and important diplomatic missions, he practically relinquishes tonight the performance for a time at least of any duties as an official of the United States.

The formal transfer of the war department to General Luke E. Wright, his successor, will not take place until tomorrow, but the work of the department will be brought up to date by Secretary Taft before he leaves his desk this evening. Secretary Wright will enter upon his duties with a clean slate.

Tomorrow Mr. Taft will resume his political work with conferences with Frank H. Hitchcock and Arthur I. Vorys. These conferences will relate to the national chairmanship of the Republican party and promise to have an important bearing on the selection of a national campaign directors.

RECENT RAINS ENCOURAGE FARMERS

Those Who Left for Harvest Fields Will Return and Put in Second Crop Next Month.

Matt Tella, who has been representing the New Mexican on the road in eastern New Mexico for the past five weeks returned to Santa Fe this morning. On his trip he made the various towns in the counties of Torrance, Guadalupe, Quay, Union, Colfax and Mora. The outlook for the farmers in these counties has not been favorable during the early part of this season and a good many homesteaders left in May and June temporarily for the harvest fields in Kansas and other eastern states.

During the past ten days the sections mentioned have received good rains and the prospects for a second crop are very good and as a result the farmers and business men are jubilant. Many of those who have gone to the harvest fields in the middle-west will return and put in crops on their claims in New Mexico during the month of July. The soil and lay of the land in the eastern part of the Sunshine Territory is very good and on lands that are under irrigation splendid crops have been raised.

TO RESUME WORK ON UNION PACIFIC EXTENSIONS.

Omaha, Neb., June 30.—Official announcement made today by Vice-President Morley, of the Union Pacific, was that the extension work on the Harriman lines will begin on July 1st where it was stopped several months ago because of the financial unrest. The work will begin on the Athol Hill cut-off in Colorado and the extension of the branch line up the North Platt river. Large gangs of men have been sent to both places and will begin work immediately.

ANACONDA COPPER COM- PANY DECLARES DIVIDEND.

New York, June 30.—The Anaconda Copper company today declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents. This is unchanged from the last previous quarterly dividend.

DISORDERS IN MEXICO DUE TO BANDITS

Thomas Madden who is now sojourning in this city visiting friends, and who has mining interests in Torreon, Mexico, has received a dispatch from C. C. Gordon at Torreon reading as follows:

"Torreon, Mex., June 29. "Thos. Madden, Santa Fe, N. M. "Torreon and vicinity absolutely safe and quiet. Disturbances due to bandits. No political significance. Press reports highly exaggerated. "C. C. GORDON."

TO TEACH FARMING IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Territorial Board of Education Trans- acts Much Business at Meeting in Capital.

The science of agriculture will be taught in the public schools of New Mexico where by vote the patrons of the district desire it.

Hereafter holders of life certificates to teach in the territory will not be compelled to attend county institutes. Teachers with creditable grades and certificates from California, Michigan, Oklahoma and Missouri will be allowed to teach in New Mexico without further examination so long as their certificates are in effect.

Three life certificates were granted to applicants and many certificates of lower grades were issued.

In brief the above were the important actions taken by the Territorial Board of Education at its meeting yesterday.

Where desired the text book entitled, "Elementary Agriculture For Beginners," by Burkette, Stevens and Hill will be used in the common schools. This book was selected as the standard. A text book for basel use in elementary language preliminary to the book recently adopted known as "Language Thorough Literature, Nature and Art," was adopted. The book is called, "With Pencil and Pen" by Sarah Louise Arnold. It is for use in the Third grade.

Territorial five-year certificates were issued to Miss Carrie Armstrong Arroyo Grande, California; Miss Grace Barker, Beulah, New Mexico; Miss Annie Cumbee, Silver City; Miss Margaret Devine, Las Vegas; Miss Margaret Flint, Las Vegas; Miss Eda Haggerson, Silver City; Miss Barbara Wohlgmuth, Douglass, Arizona; Miss Lizzie Young, Silver City.

Territorial life certificates were issued to Brother Michaels, of Bernadillo; Miss Anna J. Rieve, of Las Vegas, and John H. Vaughn, of East Las Vegas. Many certificates of a lower grade than the above were granted.

Favorable action was taken to establish reciprocal relations in respect to teachers' certificates with the four states before named and it was reported that action was pending with many other states which would result in mutual agreement.

All the members of the board were present. It was the last meeting for Luther Foster, ex-president of the Agricultural College. A new member of the board will be selected this week by Governor Curry, but who is not definitely known. All the members of the board were present as follows: Governor George Curry, president, Santa Fe; J. E. Clark, superintendent of Public Instruction, secretary, of Santa Fe; W. G. Tight, of Albuquerque; C. M. Light, of Silver City; William Rowe, of Santa Fe; W. E. Garrison, of Las Vegas; Luther Foster, of Agricultural College.

PROMOTIONS IN NATIONAL GUARD

Two Captains, a First Lieutenant and Second Lieutenant Appointed By Adjutant General.

Adjutant General Tarkington, by order of Governor George Curry, has announced the following promotions and one appointment in the New Mexico National Guard:

To be captains, subject to examination, in the First Infantry, First Lieutenant Arthur Ball, and First Lieutenant Philip E. Dessauer, promotions to be effective from June 30.

To be first lieutenant, subject to examination, Second Lieutenant David R. Lous.

To be second lieutenant from June 30, Graham H. Frost, of Santa Fe. Lieutenant Frost will report to Adjutant General Tarkington and will be assigned to staff duty on the trip to Leon Springs, Texas, where the New Mexico Guardsmen will participate in field maneuvers with regular troops and militia from the states.

Captains Ball and Dessauer will remain in command of Companies D. and R. respectively and Lieutenant Lane will remain on duty with Company G.

FLAGS AT HALF MAST ON FEDERAL BUILDINGS

In Memory of the Late ex-President Grover Cleveland—To Remain Thus for Thirty Days.

Superintendent Clinton J. Crandall of the United States Indian Training School and Collector of Internal Revenue H. P. Bardshar, federal officials who have charge of the Federal buildings here, this forenoon received telegraphic orders from their superior officers in the city of Washington, directing that the flags on the flag staffs on the buildings under their charge here be kept at half mast for the next thirty days in memory of the late Grover Cleveland, ex-President of the United States. The orders have been complied with.

TRAIN REPORT.

Train report at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon: All trains are reported on time.

NEW YORKER MAY RUN WITH BRYAN

Leaders Figuring on Vice-Presidential Candidate

JUDGE GRAY NEXT CHOICE

If Empire State Cannot Land Plum Then Delaware Man May Get It.

Lincoln, Neb., June 30.—The Nebraska delegation at the Denver convention will approve of any New York man on whom the factions of that state can unite for vice-president.

Falling in this, Nebraska will vote solidly for Judge Gray for vice-president. The record of Gray is regarded as of the best for pleasing the labor votes and it is for these votes that the Democratic party is going to make its strongest bid, assert the Nebraskans.

The Nebraska delegation which is considered in accord with Bryan in every particular is standing for a strong anti-injunction plank that will satisfy the demands of President Samuel Gompers and other labor leaders.

The visit here of Josiah Marvel, of Wilmington, Delaware, manager for Judge Gray has accentuated the belief that Gray is persona grata with Bryan. The tariff plank in the platform will be very similar to those of former years.

PERSISTENT LOVER WOES WITH SHOTGUN

Amado Alarid Bombards Home of Sweetheart When Refused Admittance.

Amado Alarid was arrested this morning by Marshal Nicolas Sena, charged with having shot into the home of Mrs. Francisco Mares de Gonzales in the eastern part of the city about daylight this morning. He is lodged in the county jail awaiting trial.

The home of Mrs. Gonzales shows the effects of being used as a target for a shot gun and at close range. Six charges were fired into the walls of the building near an outside door. None of the shots passed through the walls which was extremely lucky for the terrified occupants.

Mrs. Gonzales and her daughter reside in the building. The mother is a widow and her daughter a young and pretty girl. Mrs. Gonzales stated to Marshal Sena that Alarid appeared there early this morning for a call. The woman locked the door before he could get into the house. He then proceeded to fire into the building until he ran out of ammunition.

Marshal Sena arrested him not far east of the Plaza and evidently while he was returning from that section of the city where he used the shot gun to announce his arrival. He was intoxicated at the time and was mumbling about what he expected to do to certain people. Alarid denies any knowledge of the shooting.

He has been calling on Mrs. Gonzales' daughter and it was understood that were she willing he would make her his wife. Later he became estranged and Alarid has not been a visitor at the home of the girl, at least not as a counter of the young woman. He is about 25 years old and has heretofore borne a fair reputation. Alarid resides in Precinct Number 3, Santa Fe.

It is probable that a territorial warrant will be sworn to by the women charging him with assault with intent to kill.

CHILDREN IDENTIFY MEN WHO MURDERED FATHER.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 30.—The preliminary hearing of Emeliano Sandoval, Albino Gurule and Antonio Gonzales, charged with the brutal murder of Juan Valdez, a ranchman at Cabazon, this county, several weeks ago, was held here yesterday before Judge Ira A. Abbott. The minor sons of the murdered man were the principal witnesses against the accused men and both the boys identified the prisoners as the slayers of their father. They recited the tragic event in detail, telling how the men entered the room in which they were sleeping, together with their father, lighted a lamp and then deliberately hacked their victim to death with an axe, severing his head from the body and then dragging the corpse out into the yard. The hearing was continued today.

CONGRESSMAN SHERMAN MAY LEAVE HOSPITAL TOMORROW.

Cleveland, O., June 30.—Congressman James S. Sherman continues to regain his strength and will probably leave the hospital tomorrow.

BISHOP POTTER IS NEAR DEATH

Noted Episcopal Di- vine Sinking Rapidly

HEAT HASTENS THE END

Physicians Resort to Arti- ficial Respiration to Keep Patient Alive.

Copperstown, N. Y., June 30.—Bishop Potter, who is ill here is not expected to live through the day. His condition was so serious early this morning that oxygen was artificially administered.

The distinguished patients' illness dates from May 1st, when he was attacked by a complication of stomach and liver trouble, but not until early in June was his condition considered serious.

On June 1, he was brought to Copperstown, with the hope that the air would benefit him and for a time he was much better, but the oppressive heat of the past week counteracted this and as a result he suffered a serious relapse yesterday.

Bishop Potter is now in his 74th year.

ADVERTISING IN THE NEW MEXICAN PAYS

Indian Boy Who Escaped From Train- ing School Here Captured at Las Vegas.

Superintendent Clinton J. Crandall of the United States Indian Training School in this city, this forenoon received a telephone message from the city marshal at Las Vegas, to the effect that Antonio Flores, the Indian boy who ran away from the school several days ago was caught by him on the streets of the Meadow City and that he was ready to return him to the authorities.

Professor Clandennin, one of the officials of the school, left this morning for the Meadow City to bring back the scapegrace, that another trial might be made with him to teach him the business of civilization and the ways of a white man.

The marshal had read of the boy's escape from the school and his description in the Santa Fe Daily New Mexican and hence when he saw the descendant of the noble race on the streets of the town and found that he had no means of support and could not explain his whereabouts, he concluded from the description that he was the identical Antonio Flores. He placed him in durance vile awaiting the orders from Superintendent Crandall.

Advertising in the New Mexican pays.

UNIQUE ADVERTISING BY LOCAL MERCHANT

N. Salmon Offers $5 Pair of Shoes to All Ball Players Who Can Hit Big Signboard.

Those who journey down to the baseball park July 4 and 5 will be able to see something new and unique in the way of advertising. In deep center field will be a large sign board upon which will be an offer of a five dollar pair of shoes to the player who is able to bat the ball against the signboard. Nathan Salmon, Santa Fe's enterprising merchant, is the originator of the scheme. A St. Louis shoe house took kindly to the idea and will help Mr. Salmon pay off the players who are successful in placing a fly against the boards.

The sign board is about ten feet long and seven high. It will be placed sufficiently near home plate so that an average batter will be able to win a pair of shoes. There is no limit to the number of shoes a player may be lucky enough to win, in fact, Mr. Salmon stated that he would be disappointed if several pairs of shoes were not claimed.

However, if the batters are unable to place a ball against the sign board then Mr. Salmon proposes to give to the first player who makes a home run a pair of shoes. He wants it understood that he has shoes to give away and the supply is unlimited.

ORDER OF COMMERCE COMMISSION ENJOINED.

St. Paul, Minn., June 30.—Judges Sanborn, Hook and Adams, in the United States court today rendered an interlocutory decree whereby they temporarily suspend, and enjoin, the enforcement order of the Interstate Commerce Commission which reduced the charges made by certain railroads for the transfer of livestock from their terminals in Chicago to the United States Stock Yards from $2 to $1 per car.

NO DELEGATIONS HAVE YET ARRIVED

Looks as if Crowds to Denver Con- vention Will Come in a Bunch—Sub- Committees Busy.

Denver, June 30.—From present appearances it is probable that a majority of the delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention will be in Denver only a short time before the convention meets. Thus far not a single state delegation has arrived.

The most important event of the day bearing on the convention was the meeting of the committee on arrangements which was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning. The meeting was informal and the question of tickets and seating capacity were the chief matters discussed. No action was taken and the committee adjourned until late this afternoon when it will again discuss the matters mentioned.

Notice has been received by the national committee that seats for the entire delegation from Idaho will be contested. The delegates headed by former Senator Dubois now have credentials. Their opponents who differ with them over the Mormon question, claim they are entitled to the seats.

The friends of Urey Woodson are pushing him for chairman of the national committee, arguing his long experience as a member and officer of the committee will qualify him to act as the head during the coming campaign.

GRAND JURY INDICTS WEALTHY BANKER

Former Official of Utah National Bank Charged With Looting Vaults of Institution.

Salt Lake, June 30.—In the federal court today United States Judge John Marshall received from the federal grand jury a report containing an indictment against A. W. Nelson, in connection with the alleged looting of the reserve vaults of the Utah National bank. Nelson is cashier of the Jordan State Bank and was formerly employed in the Utah National Bank, where his uncle, Joseph S. Nelson, was formerly cashier. The elder Nelson tendered his resignation when President W. S. McCormack, after receiving the report of experts, issued a signed statement acknowledging a loss of $106,250 from the reserve chests of the Utah National Bank.

HEARST LOSES HIS MAYORALTY CONTEST

Court Instructs Jury to Find for Mc- Clellan in Election Recount Suit.

New York, June 30.—Justice Lambert today directed the jury to find a verdict for Mayor McClellan in the election recount suit, upholding McClellan's election, against the contentions of William R. Hearst.

The taking of evidence was concluded today. After the recount of ballots cast in the mayoralty election of 1905 had shown a legal plurality of nearly 3,000 for McClellan, Hearst's attorney asserted that the boxes had been stuffed. He offered evidence to show that Hearst had been defrauded out of 6,053 votes. He then rested his case. Counsel for McClellan offered in evidence the official returns of the election and the judge instructed the jury to find for McClellan.

FILIBERTO BLEA WILL RECOVER FROM WOUNDS.

Filiberto Blea, who was seriously maltreated in a cutting affray Saturday night on College street, and for which Francisco Urioste is facing a charge of assault with intent to kill, is rapidly recovering from his wounds. The attending physician stated today that the victim would be able to leave his bed in a few days.

The preliminary hearing of Urioste will not be held until the victim is able to appear in court. The accused has been unable to furnish a bond and hence is languishing in jail.

Luckily for Blea none of the knife wounds were deep but what was lacking in depth was all but overcome by numbers which resulted in much loss of blood. Blea's clothing looked like it had passed through the hands of a carpet rag cutter and then dipped in a bucket of red paint.

M'MILLAN FUNERAL TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Brief funeral services will be held over the body of the late Mrs. Gracia B. McMillan, wife of Ross McMillan, supervisor of the Pecos, Jemez and Taos National Forests, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Associate Justice John R. McFie on the south side. The services will be conducted by the Reverend W. R. Dye, of the Church of the Holy Faith. Tomorrow evening Mr. McMillan will start for Buffalo, New York, with the body where it will be interred in the family cemetery. The three children of Mr. McMillan will be left in Santa Fe until their father returns.

SOLDIERS PUT BANDITS TO ROUT

Mexican Govern- ment Has Upris- ing in Hand

TROOPS PATROL BORDER

Capture of Important Insur- gent Leaders Will Likely End Disturbances.

Monterey, Mex., June 30.—A special correspondent of the News has just returned here from a trip to Viesca with the Tenth regiment of Mexico troops, composed of 350 men under the command of Brigadier General Duran. At Galita information was received that a band of about 100 insurgents had just passed there burning a railroad bridge about one kilometre the other side of Galita and cutting the telegraph wires both ways.

In view of this General Duran ordered part of his force to make a general hunt through the mountains in search of the insurgents and the remainder to repair the bridge. The force hunting in the mountains captured four men. These stated that the bandits had dispersed and were now scattered in the town of Viesca. The troops made several important arrests, including Monaciano Estrada, who was the principal instigator of the raids, Bonito Ibarra, merchant who took an active part in the raid and was the chief of the band and Albino Polendo, a tailor, who was second in command.

U. S. Troops Patrol Border. Washington, June 30.—With troops in readiness on both sides of the international border, developments in the insurrectionary situation in northern Mexico are being watched with the closest interest from Washington. The official machinery of this government will co-operate to the fullest extent with the Diaz government and from this city the state department, war department and department of justice are working together in the common movement for the preservation of neutrality within the domain of the United States.

The troops were dispatched from Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio, Texas, and have been stationed at Del Rio, El Paso, Laredo, Eagle Pass and other points.

HERO OF M'KINLEY ASSASSINATION DEAD

Man Who Wrenched Revolver From Czolgosz Succumbs to Injuries Received at Time of Tragedy.

Chicago, June 30.—Albert Gallagher, for many years in the secret service of the United States and one of those detailed as the personal guard of the late President McKinley at the time of his assassination, died here today. Gallagher seized Czolgosz' wrist after the fatal shot was fired and wrenched the weapon from his hand. Gallagher was mistaken by the crowd for the assassin and was badly beaten, and to this fact, according to the attending physician, Gallagher's death was indirectly due. An affection of the liver developed from the injuries which he received at the time.

PRETTY WEDDING IS CELEBRATED AT WATROUS

Special to the New Mexican.

Watrous, N. M., June 30.—The marriage of Ed Gussion of this city and Miss Jeannette Baca, of Shoemaker, was solemnized in the Catholic church in this city yesterday morning with the Rev. Father Olliar officiating. Miss Baca, the bride, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herculano Baca, prominent citizens of Shoemaker. The groom is one of the most prominent young men of Watrous, and for the past several years has been salesman in the store of H. D. Reinike. The wedding dinner was served at the Watrous hotel immediately after the nuptial ceremonies. Over sixty guests were in attendance.

Watrous is having a building boom this summer. H. D. Reinike, the merchant, has under construction a large store building of solid stone, fifty feet wide and two hundred feet long. The store will be completed within two months. Several new dwellings are under construction also. The recent rains have done good in this vicinity and fairly good crops will be raised by the farmers in Mora county this year.

MRS. CLEVELAND AND CHILDREN LEAVE PRINCETON.

Princeton, N. J., June 30.—Mrs. Cleveland left here today for her summer home at Tamworth, New Hampshire, where she will remain with her children until September.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and as a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET.

For President—William Howard Taft, of Ohio
For Vice-President—James Schoolcraft Sherman, of New York

THE MAN WHO DOES THINGS
NEEDED IN CONGRESS.

U. S. Senator Warren returned to Cheyenne, Wyoming, last week from Washington, D. C., where his services were similar to those of Delegate W. H. Andrews, in securing beneficial legislation for his constituents, but especially in looking after their lesser demands before the departments. Like Delegate Andrews, Senator Warren is one of the recognized leaders of the Republican party in the United States. Despite this distinction, Senator Warren is not ashamed to acknowledge that he worked hard to secure pensions for many veterans in Wyoming just as Delegate Andrews has done for New Mexico veterans. Of course, Senator Warren's enemies will scoff and say that these pensions came to Senator Warren's constituents as a matter of course.

The fact remains that departmental methods, red tape and routine procedure hold up the pensions of many worthy claimants and that but for the efforts of Congressmen, many a worthy veteran would be denied his rights on account of legal quibbles or misunderstandings that a Congressman can easily explain away, if he is familiar with the merits and circumstances of the individual case. In other instances, long delays would have occurred. That a veteran who is entitled to his pension will receive it without the intervention of his Congressman, at least theoretically, is just as true as the assertion that a man with a righteous cause will win in court without a lawyer, but no sensible man no matter how good his cause, will go into court without a skilled advocate to present it. But here is what Senator Warren said upon his homecoming to Cheyenne:

"The West demands workers, not statesmen, in Congress, and now, my dear friends, what of my stewardship? You, the masters, I the servant, I do not wish to tire you with tedious details, but perhaps you will expect me to 'talk shop' for a few brief moments with relation to the doings of the first session of the Sixtieth Congress.

"The position of a servant of the people in Congress is peculiar. His environment and surroundings in Washington form a constant temptation to him to become a statesman, so called, and indulge in large theoretical questions of government rather than engage in the real work of constructive legislation—such as getting appropriations and various favors for his own state, pensions for its old soldiers, and the thousand and one little things his constituents desire."

Republicans and Democrats alike, just as they did in New Mexico upon the parallel occasion, cheered lustily and acknowledged that it is the man who does things, rather than the man who can make a beautiful oration, who is the most successful representative that a constituency can have at the National Capital.

LAND GRANT VALUES INCREASING.

New Mexico land grants are attaining value and several of them have been sold of late at very good figures. For instance there is the Eaton Land Grant in south Santa Fe county with an area of about 80,000 acres, which was sold six months ago as the New Mexican is informed at $1.80 an acre and for which was offered lately $3.50 an acre. The Labato Land Grant in Rio Arriba county was disposed of last week at a very handsome figure although this is confidential and has not been given out. The acreage involved is 152,000 acres. The New Mexican knows of other land grant properties that are being placed in shape for sale and as the public domain diminishes in the Southwest land grant areas under good title and where agricultural development is possible or where there is timber or grazing land, will be bought up by capitalists for practical use or for future increases in valuation. Within the next three years the value of all lands will be trebled for taxable purposes. This will not be too high a valuation. As soon as this is done and as soon as railroads, coal corporations, lumber companies and big mining concerns are properly taxed the tax rate in this commonwealth, which will then be a state, will be hardly felt, but will be borne with equanimity by the people as the great bulk of the tax money to be collected will go for the support of educational and charitable institutions and public works.

COW KISSING BY THE RATON RANGE.

"There is no counting for tastes," as the old lady said, when she kissed the cow.

The following from the esteemed Raton Range is in point. In what respect the people of the territory would gain in this campaign by nominating Delegate W. H. Andrews as the Republican candidate for delegate to the Sixty-first Congress and by electing him is very plain and very well understood all over the territory. There are at least fifty newspapers published in New Mexico in the English and Spanish languages, Republican in politics, that support Delegate Andrews for recognition by the Republican territorial convention and will work hard for his election by Republican voters and by all such citizens who desire statehood and who wish an experienced, successful, influential and efficient delegate in the national House of Representatives who has deserved very well of the people for the beneficial work he has performed for them during the past three years.

The record of Delegate Andrews during these three years is the record of the Republican party of the territory. It is of the best, it needs no defense, it speaks for itself. The people have become acquainted with him and the conditions that prevailed in the 1906 campaign. The slanders, lies and libels published against Delegate Andrews in that campaign have been proven to be absolutely and unqualifiedly false and the Range and its supporters know this. No one is afraid of another fight if it is to be made, let it come.

Here is the editorial cow-kissing by the Range:

"The crying need of this territory, according to acknowledged authority, is another term for Delegate Andrews that he might secure statehood for New Mexico. This has been the wall of the Andrews papers: 'We cannot have statehood unless Andrews is the delegate.'

"And now comes Governor Curry saying that statehood is a sure thing at the next session, but the governor does not annex Andrews to his statement. How is this? Does the governor believe that such a gigantic result can be obtained without the assistance of the present delegate? The territory agrees to accord to Mr. Andrews the glory of obtaining statehood for us and excuse him from further responsibility in the matter. All he asks is the credit of this feat and if that be freely given, his object is attained. Now for a new man, a real resident of New Mexico for our next Republican delegate!"

All through tourists tickets on the Santa Fe Railway system to the Pacific coast and to El Paso for this summer, carry the privilege of a side trip from Lamy to this city and return. This fact should be advertised as much as possible by the citizens of the capital who should write their friends and acquaintances who are taking such trips to take advantage of the privilege and to visit the capital of New Mexico, one of the most attractive health resorts and the place that possesses the most equable, salubrious and health giving climate on the great American continent. Too much publicity cannot be given this free side trip and the more of it the more tourists and travelers will visit the capital of New Mexico. The action of the road in this case is very commendable and if properly pushed will redound to the benefit of all concerned, the Santa Fe Railway system and the city of Santa Fe.

Traveling Auditor Charles V. Sanford, has returned from an eastern trip during which he attended the annual session of bank examiners and of state auditors which was held in St. Paul, Minnesota. During his visit he carefully examined systems of auditing and inspection of state and county accounts in various states and is of the opinion that the New Mexico system compares more than favorably with those of most of the states and that in several instances the New Mexico system is ahead in correctness in simplicity, and in bringing about better accountability of finances. In some of the states the methods are very cumbersome and complicated. In New Mexico they have been reduced to a minimum of work and the system that has been adopted while simple and short nevertheless assures thorough correctness and is very easy to check and to compare.

VERY FAVORABLE SENTIMENT
TOWARDS DELEGATE ANDREWS
IN BERNALILLO COUNTY.

For the past three years the Albuquerque Muckraking Journal has endeavored to pass as a Republican paper, but during these years it has lost no opportunity to injure and harass that party and to do evil to its nominees if possible.

Delegate W. H. Andrews and Chairman H. O. Bursum have been especially singled out and the slanders and libels concerning them that have appeared in that paper are too numerous to mention. The sheet has announced from time to time that it had absolutely ruined Delegate Andrews throughout the territory, especially in its own town.

Whatever injury and harm were done by its malicious and crooked course to the Republican party, to Delegate Andrews, Chairman Bursum and other Republican leaders, has passed away, it having been ascertained that its falsehoods, slanders and libels had no basis whatsoever to stand upon and that they were made for personal, political and financial ends.

A few days ago Delegate Andrews returned from Washington and to show the difference of opinion between the citizens of the city of Albuquerque and the Albuquerque Morning Fakir Journal, the New Mexican today on the seventh page of this issue publishes a story detailing the incidents and the reception given to the Delegate upon his return to his home town and which appeared in the Daily Sun, a Democratic evening newspaper in that city.

The reception was so spontaneous, so cordial and so sincere that the story fully shows that Delegate Andrews stands very high in the opinion and enjoys the respect and esteem of the citizens, not only of the county seat of Bernalillo but also the county itself. For this purpose, especially, and to demonstrate to the people of the territory that right is right and that truth finally will prevail, the story is given in these columns as an evidence that even the worst of muckraking yellow journalism cannot hurt in the long run.

CASTRO NEEDS A SEVERE LICKING.

The time seems to have arrived to administer a severe lesson to the pestiferous and scoundrelly head of the so-called republic of Venezuela. Castro, by name, who for a few years past, has carried matters, governmental and administrative in his ball-wick, in a very high-handed manner and has outrageously and impudently defied the rights and claims of citizens of other governments who were doing business or sojourning under his tyrannical dominion.

Discussing the situation the St. Louis Times takes a proper and reasonable stand when it editorially says that this country has had a busy time looking after the affairs of Cuba and Hayti and Panama but it would appear that the work in the south will not be ended until the affairs are set right in Venezuela. That Castro's rich empire needs an adjustment in its relations with the world is very sure; that the adjustment must be directed by the United States is surer if we are to stand by the principles of the Monroe doctrine. Venezuela is now at outs with this country. France and Columbia are without relations. Holland is about to have a new squabble with Castro and England is never without an unsettled difference that no one can understand. There is another reason for intervention. Owing to bad management of internal affairs, the health of the country has grown dangerously menacing. Fevers rack her coasts. Ships are carrying the diseases away. Our own coast is in danger. Panama and Cuba are threatened.

There will be small complaint if Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt descend upon Castro heavily.

The conduct of the campaign will depend a good deal upon the methods which will be used by the Democratic bosses and by the tone of the papers under their control. Also by the contents in Larrazolo's speeches. The Republicans propose to have a clean campaign in every way in their newspapers, in the speeches that will be made by their speakers and candidates and in the literature they will issue and distribute.

Referring to this side of the present campaign the Torrance County Leader strikes the right keynote when it says editorially that some of the Democratic weekly newspapers are making, already, a very bitter, uncalled for and dirty fight on the Republican party, on its administration and on its probable nominees. This will have to be counteracted and it may be necessary to fight the devil with fire. If this should be done, the fight should commence at once so that the harm intended by the villainous and vindictive course that has been adopted by some Democratic papers, should be minimized and undone as speedily as possible.

The McKinley County Republican, published at Gallup, a paper of large circulation in its county and vicinity, has joined the Andrews column and carries the name of the delegate at the head of its editorial page as favoring the delegate for re-nomination subject to the action of the Republican territorial convention. Thus the ball keeps on rolling.

A GOOD REASON.

Santa Fe People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Santa Fe people testify to permanent cures.

Lino Romero, living at Palace avenue, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills act just as represented. If I had not been confident of this fact no inducement could have led me to give my recommendation of them five years ago. I then stated that this remedy procured at Ireland's drug store, cured me of a dull aching in the small of my back which had bothered me off and on for a long time, and had by spells been the cause of my laying off from work. During the lapse of years I have now and then noticed a slight return of the annoyance, but never one that has resisted the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They go right to the seat of the trouble and remove it quickly and thoroughly. The good opinion I first formed of Doan's Kidney Pills still remained and always will."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

NEW MEXICO REPORTS VOLUME NUMBER 13

Just Issued From Press of New Mexican Printing Company—Essential to Every Attorney.

Volume 13, of the reports of cases argued and determined in the supreme court of New Mexico is now ready for distribution among the members of the bar. No law library in New Mexico is complete without it and to the practicing attorney it is absolutely necessary. Justices of the peace, U. S. commissioners, court officials and all others who are interested in the interpretation of the law, especially the New Mexico law, by the highest court of the territory, should have the volume at their elbow. It is compiled by Judge A. J. Abbott, the supreme court reporter, and federal attorney for the Pueblo Indians, and his experience on the bench, as practicing attorney and as the author of previous volumes of Reports, assures that volume 13 has been carefully edited and indexed. The typographical work and binding is by the New Mexican Printing company which is being complimented upon the fact that it is the best printed and best bound volume of New Mexico Reports thus far issued. The price per volume, $2.70, is lower than that of any previous volume. To this 30 cents should be added for postage, if volume is ordered by mail. The edition is limited and orders will be filled in the sequence of their receipt.

Stomach Troubles.
Many remarkable cures of stomach troubles have been effected by Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. One man who had spent over two thousand dollars for medicine and treatment was cured by a few boxes of these tablets. Price 25 cents. Samples free at all drug stores.

No Need of Suffering From Rheumatism.

It is a mistake to allow rheumatism to become chronic, as the pain can always be relieved, and in most cases a cure effected by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes sleep and rest possible. Even in cases of long standing this liniment should be used on account of the relief it affords. 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by all druggists.

MINES AND MINING.

In its latest issue the Mining World contains a very interesting treatise on the development of San Pedro mountain in south Santa Fe county. The article is by Robert H. Brinsmade, a mining engineer of wide reputation and describes the development of this property from the time it was opened up and worked by the Spaniards in the early days to now, with eastern capitalists in control. The geology of the ore deposits, dredging and other methods of recovering the precious metals, etc., are also treated at length. The article follows:

The San Pedro Camp.
About 20 miles south of Cerrillos station on the main line of the Atchafson, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, lies the San Pedro mountain in Santa Fe county. The altitude of the valley leading from Cerrillos to the base of the range is about 6,000 feet, and the highest peak rises over 2,000 feet above this.

There are two villages in the foothills, Golden on the northwest and San Pedro two miles farther south, on the same side. The first is tributary to the gold placer and quartz district, while the latter serves the copper mines. San Pedro mountain is about five miles in diameter and is the central peak in a line of three mountains, of which South mountain lies two miles south and Ortiz mountain, five miles northward.

History.
The first Santa Fe Gold and Copper company was formed in 1888 to take over the mines, and General U. S. Grant was once the president of the company. Litigation and various difficulties finally caused a foreclosure sale, at which the property was bought in by Leonard Lewisohn of New York. To perfect the title, the mines were then closed for seven years, but in January, 1899, the Santa Fe company was reorganized with a capital of 250,000 ten dollar shares.

Many improvements were made and a smelter built, which was blown in during December, 1900. The run, however, only lasted until the fall of copper prices in November, 1901, and the furnace was cold up to December, 1906, when operations were resumed.

Geology.
San Pedro mountain is a laccolite of syenite, which intruded into the sediments and raised them to their present level. The surrounding plain, like most of those of central New Mexico is topped by Cretaceous shale and sandstone, but the highest strata, remaining on the mountain mass, are probably Permian.

Ore Deposits.
Gold, lead, copper and silver have been produced in commercial quantities. The gold occurs both in consolidated and detrital rock, the first in the massive syenite and the second in the talus at its base. The surface of the laccolite, especially on the north-west slope of the mountain, has been fissured with gush veins, many of which are crushed along their walls, and it is into these spaces that quartz and gold bearing pyrite were deposited.

The wall rock is barren, but the quartz veins themselves carry up to $50 in gold per ton and some pockets have produced $60,000. Unfortunately, the veins are so small and irregular, as a rule, that their exploitation has been unprofitable. Several three and five-stamp mills have been erected in the gulches above Golden, and one shaft is 185 feet deep. Short mill runs are made, if a good pocket happens to be found, when doing the annual assessment work on the claims.

Though the gold veins in place are mostly worthless, the same cannot be said of the product of their erosion, the placers around Golden. These may be subdivided into the detrital and the cement deposits. Of the former, the payable area remaining is thought to be a square mile, and it is covered with sand and small boulders, for a depth of 15 to 40 feet. The gold is coarse and little water-worn, and the contents of the gravel vary considerably. Some of the upper portions, which has been dredged, only yielded 10 cents per yard while a layer in bedrock probably averages $1, and in spots, where there was a natural riffling, as much as $2,000 in dust and nuggets has been taken by a Mexican from one shaft.

The "cement" bed in the mesa below Golden is a layer of cemented gravel, twenty to fifty feet thick and is overlaid by a ten-foot cap of gravel and soil, some of which contains gold. The deposit has an area of several square miles and will yield in favorable spots $2 to $4 per cubic yard, but the values are so spotty, that no operator has so far made a success, though attempts to get the gold are still in progress.

The lead-silver deposits occur in shoots, which follow the bedding planes of the limestone along a shattered zone. They are due to replacement and contain galena, pyrite and sphalerite in quartz below, with their oxidized products above. The Lucky Anaconda was the largest shoot found and was 40 to 70 feet in diameter, but it is now idle, as are also the other small mines of this type.

The copper occurs in the typical contact deposits, always associated with the garnet, though near the surface a zone of secondarily enriched oxides was taken out. The garnet beds vary greatly in value, some are entirely barren, while others are ranked as second-class, and a few as first-class or smelting ore. The surface oxides are now exhausted.

Gold Gravel Working.
Only the handling of the gold gravel, the gold cement and the copper ore will be described, as the gold quartz and lead mines are inactive.

Dry Washing.—Until recently the small hand dry blowers of the Mexicans have held the field. The dirt is first sifted and the fines are placed at the top of an inclined screen, with riffles at regular intervals. By a hand centrifugal fan at the back of the screen, the sand is blown down and away, while the gold and black sand is caught by the riffles. Large sums have been spent on trials of mechanical, dry separators, both here and at the Old Placers across the valley.

At the latter place, Thomas A. Edison and associates built a good sized mill and put in three years on tests and experiments, but everything was closed down several years ago. It may thus be said that no type but the Mexican hand blower, has hitherto made a commercial success.

Water Supply.—There is a porous water bearing gravel stream in the Cretaceous mesa around Golden. This stratum is evidently merely a storage reservoir for the catchment area of the San Pedro, along with the higher Sandia range, twenty miles to the west. The quantity and hydrostatic level are too small to make it necessary to seek the water source in the higher mountains around Santa Fe city.

To reach the water near Golden, wells of 500 to 800 feet depth are required. These have a 12-inch casing to bed rock and below that are lined with 4-inch steel pipe, in eighteen-foot lengths. When the desired stratum is penetrated, the water will often rise several hundred feet in the hole. The 4-inch casing is then withdrawn, a 4-inch brass tube screwed to its bottom, for a pump barrel, and then the casing is forced down again to a point 100 feet or so, below the new water surface.

The well is bored with the regular artesian drop drill derrick with a walking beam, actuated by an agricultural engine and boiler. For pumping, a 1-inch steel rod is attached to the piston, to which a 3-foot stroke is given by a walking beam, that is actuated by an electric motor through a belt and spur gear train. The yield of water per well has been 25 gallons per minute, but there has not been as yet, enough pumping to determine if this would continue indefinitely, independent of the number of wells.

Dredging.—The Monte Cristo was the first company to sink wells and dredge the gravel. The first machine was a second-hand dipper dredge, brought from Washington gulch, Montana, about 1899 and tried for a season or two. It did not prove a financial success and was finally buried in its cut by a cloudburst. Soon after a new company, the Gold Bullion, acquired the 480 acres of placer, owned by the Monte Cristo and erected the dredge now in operation.

A central power plant has been established below the placer, for circulating the dredge water and pumping the wells. These are two horizontal return tubular boilers, of 80-horsepower, which burn wood. The dynamo, which now furnishes power for the pump motors, will soon also actuate the whole dredge, except the dipper. It is a continuous current machine of 250 volts pressure, and is turned by a 12x16-inch horizontal, automatic engine of Hendrie and Bolthoff make.

Only two wells, out of the five owned by the company (which are scattered at 1-4 to 1-2 mile distance from the power house), need be pumped to supply the fresh water for gold washing. The well water is piped to a rectangular, wood tank (15 by 12 by 10 feet high) at the power house, which also receives the overflow from the settling basin, that takes the dirty water from the dredge.

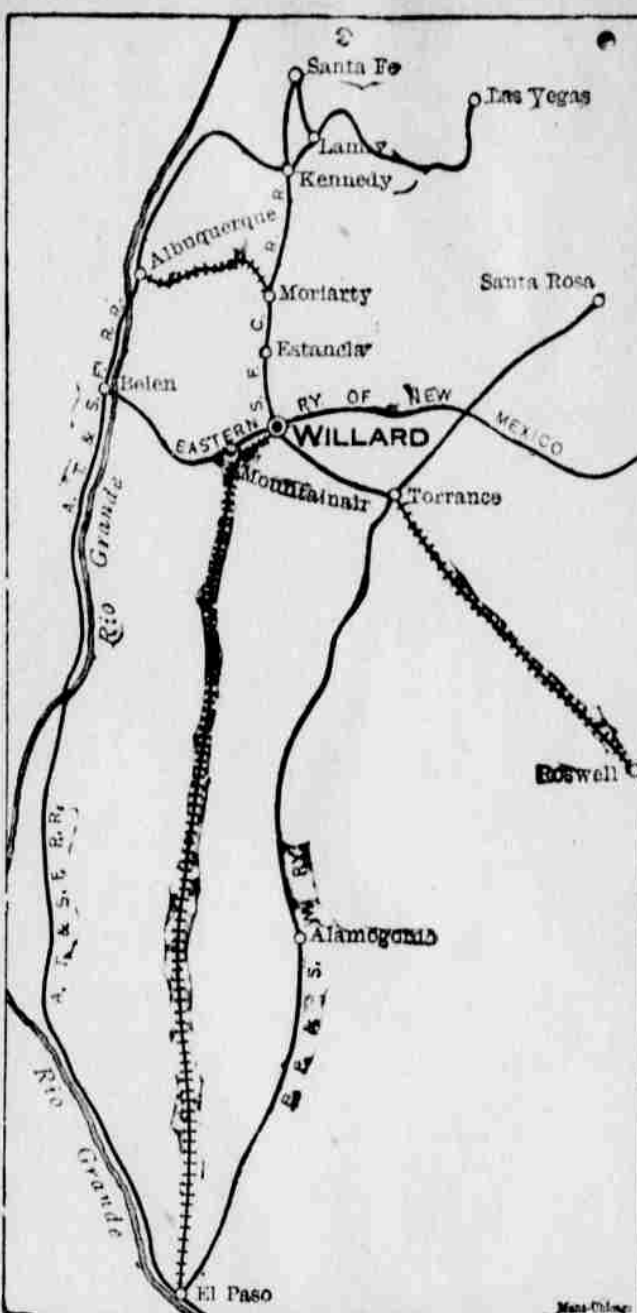

The water of the tank is forced back to the dredge through a 10-inch steel pipe by two centrifugal pumps, set in tandem. These are single Morris, No. 6, sand pumps, and are run by separate vertical engines; the first pump being belted to go 230 revolutions per minute and the second connected for 360 revolutions per minute.

The dipper dredge was made by the Marion Steam Shovel company. The dipper is 1 3/4 cubic yards capacity, and 75 cubic yards per hour are dug. The steam is supplied by three Marion boilers of locomotive type, aggregating about 105 horsepower and of this the dipper with its winches (hoisting, digging and turning) is estimated to take 70 horsepower, the chain elevator, the tallings elevator and the trommel, five horsepower each, and the centrifugal pump twenty horsepower. The dredge frame is supported by four 4-wheeled railroad trucks, which run on two pairs of rails.

The dipper lifts the gravel to the boot of an elevator, whose steel buckets are carried by an endless chain at each end. The makers are the Erie Machine company, of Kansas City, Missouri, and 10 to 12 of the 1-6-yard buckets, are raised per minute.

The elevator delivers to a trommel, 13 feet long overall and on a grade of 1 to 12; its screen is 4 3/4 feet diameter, by 10 feet long, and of 3/8-inch steel plate with 1-2 inch round holes, set at 1 1/8-inch centers. The trommel has no shaft, but is supported and turned, like a Buckner roaster cylinder on rollers. There are two rollers under each of the card collars of the trommel, with a vertical roller, to take the down thrust of the upper collar

FRANK L. WALRATH, REAL ESTATE, Willard, New Mexico.

(resulting from the trommel slope of 1 to 12.)

The trommel oversize falls over a grizzly, with 6-inch openings, whose oversize remains at one side of the dredge pot, but whose undersize drops into a continuous steel bucket tallings conveyor, by which it is deposited on the bank alongside the pit. The tallings conveyor is on a swinging steel frame, which is moved by a hand windlass on the dredge.

The trommel undersize goes to a rectangular steel flume, 2 feet wide by 4 inches high, by 22 feet long, on a grade of 1 to 12. The flume bottom is covered with sheet steel riffle frames, of which the first few contain quicksilver, and the gold being coarse, is nearly all caught within the first 4 feet of the flume.

The fine tallings from the flume falls into a Morris No. 8, sand pump, direct connected to a vertical, duplex engine, and are thrown to the settling pond on the bank. The adobe in the tallings soon puddles the bottom of the pond, so that it is reckoned only 20 per cent of the water falls to overflow flume and descends to the tank at the power house.

The dredge was started at the lower edge of the ground and dug itself down to bedrock on the steepest convenient grade. By following the contours of the hillside, nearly level tracks are secured along the bedrock, while the bedrock can be readily cleaned, as it is always dry and in plain sight, in front of the dredge.

The tallings are always thrown on the down hill side, and virgin ground need only be covered for the first cut as the tallings from the second cut are dumped into the first cut along side. The dredge labor for each shift comprises an engineer, a brakeman, a fireman, a riggerman, a wood passer and three or four roustabouts.

Gold Cement Workings.
Many experiments have been made with various methods of handling the cement, but so far without commercial success. The largest company at present is the Interstate, which owns 1,120 acres of cement land, just below Golden. It has a plate amalgamation mill, equipped with Blake breakers and 30 stamps and is planning to add a cyanide plant. The company owns a spring and three artesian wells. If an area of cement ground with uniform good values can be found, success may yet be achieved in production here.

Copper Beds.
The only concern at present active is the Santa Fe Gold and Copper company, which owns 3,400 feet along the best part of the copper bed, and also the adjoining San Pedro land grant of 40,000 acres.

The ore is developed by a two-compartment shaft, sunk to the ore bed at 200 feet depth, and from it an inclined rise follows the dip of the footwall of the 50-foot garnet stratum. The smelting ore is only in certain layers of the garnet and to develop it, drifts are turned off from the incline at 30-foot intervals along the foot-wall. The dip being only 13 degrees, the ore will not run from chutes, so it has to be shoveled from the face into the mine cars.

The drift tracks were at first curved into the slope track by split rail lever gate valves. The water pockets are flange steel and there are two of and conforms to its dip; except when it is turned at right angles to receive a loaded car, when it becomes horizontal.

The stoping is by 15 large mounted machine drills, and the face is advanced in overhead benches reaching from drift to drift, the highest drift being farthest ahead. No timber is needed, but occasional pillars of low-grade ore are left to support the strong lime hanging wall.

On the slope, the loaded cars are let down by an air hoist to the shaft station, from which they are hoisted to the surface and dumped into the bin. This bin spots into one of the counterbalanced skips, running on a short double tracked surface incline, and this lowers and dumps the ore into the storage bin above the smelter. For a daily output of 160 tons, eighty men are employed on the day, and sixty on the night shift, above and below ground. Mexicans are utilized wherever possible, the shift bosses and machine men being of that race altogether.

The 160 tons of ore hoisted is reduced by hand sorting to about 115 tons of first class or smelting material, which assays 5 per cent copper and $2 in gold and silver. The metal is as chalcopyrite, with occasionally malachite, and the gangue is largely quartz and gossiorite or lime-garnet, and an average analysis is: Insoluble 60 per cent; iron oxide, 10 per cent; alumina, 10 per cent, and lime, 10 per cent.

Of the second class ore, with about 2 per cent copper, and 80 cents in gold and silver, there is a very large quantity available, but it is too poor for direct smelting. Successful experiments have been made on a laboratory scale, with magnetic separation (after a preliminary magnetic roast of the chalcopyrite) and plans for a mill have been prepared.

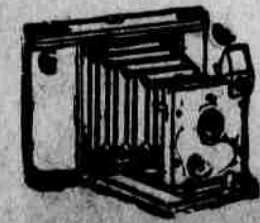

The utilization of second class ore will enable the mine to be worked on a much larger scale, as the whole ore bed can be excavated, instead of selected layers as now. Many first-class ore bodies will then be uncovered, which, by the present system would be missed.

Proposed Mill.—The ore will first pass through a jaw breaker to drop on a picking belt, where smelting ore and waste will be removed. It will then go through three sets of rolls and two trommels, for gradual communication to 10-mesh, to fall finally into long revolving roasting cylinders, on the White and Howell model.

Next, the roast is cooled in revolving, unlined, iron cylinders, sprayed on the outside with water, and is now ready for the magnetic separators. These are Wetherill machines and will deliver a concentrate of chalcopyrite and garnet (carrying 15 per cent copper) that will be self-fluxing. It is hoped to get 85 to 90 per cent of the values of the crude ore into this low-grade concentrate.

Smelter.—This is on the hillside, a few hundred feet below the main shaft and a mile above the town of San Pedro. It comprises a copper smelting blast furnace, a power house and repair shops. The furnace is 42 by 120 inches at the tuyeres, of which there are 10 of 4-inch diameter on each side, controlled by lever gate valves. The water pockets are flange steel and there are two of

PERSONAL MENTION

E. R. Paul, assistant treasurer of the Santa Fe Central, was at Raton yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Todd of Estancia, are guests at the Normandie today. They came to the city to do some shopping.

Miss Margaret Moore of Stanley was a guest at the Hotel Coronado today. She was in the city on a shopping tour.

Narciso Chaves of El Paso, Rio Arriba county, was among the business visitors in the city today. He had a room at the Normandie.

H. D. Winsor, owner of a fine ranch on the Pecos river, came to the city yesterday on personal business. He registered at the Claire.

L. L. Terry, of the Forest Service, returned last night from a trip to the upper Pecos. He reports the Winsor trail to be in first class shape for travel.

Special Officers J. E. Flanders and A. G. Pollock of Washington, connected with the office of Indian affairs, were among yesterday's guests at the Palace hotel. They are in the city on official business.

Matt Tolin who has been touring eastern New Mexico for and on behalf of the New Mexican Printing company reached town yesterday after a three weeks absence. He took a room at the Normandie.

Samuel Eldott, a well known merchant and fruit raiser at San Juan, Pueblo, Rio Arriba county, was a business visitor in the city today and registered at the Palace hotel. Mr. Eldott is always welcome in Santa Fe.

Professor C. M. Light, president of the Normal School at Silver City, was among last night's arrivals in the city and stopped at the Palace. He attended the sessions of the Territorial Board of Education of which he is a member.

Manuel Sanchez, a well-to-do farmer and stock raiser of Las Trampas, Rio Arriba county, and ex-member of the House of Representatives of the territorial assembly, spent the day in the city on business. He is well known here.

District Attorney Alexander Read, of Tierra Amarilla, reached town last evening and stopped at the Claire. He will be here during the week on legal business and will also visit Bernadillo, the county seat of Sandoval county, before his return home.

Louis C. Ifield, Las Vegas attorney, member of the Law Revision Commission, was in the city yesterday and registered at the Claire. He consulted with Mr. Cobbey the examiner, who is now going over the work of the commission as far as it has been completed.

O. A. Larrazolo, of Las Vegas, Democratic candidate for delegate to the Sixty-first Congress, had a room at the Claire hotel yesterday and today. He came to attend to political business and hob-nobbed with the Democratic politicians here consulting and planning for the campaign.

Professor W. E. Garrison, president of the Normal University of Las Vegas, recently elected president of the faculty of the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Mesilla Park, spent yesterday and today in town and had a room at the Palace hotel. He was in attendance at the sessions of the Territorial Board of Education.

Ross McMillan, supervisor of the Pecos, Jemez and Taos National Forests, reached town last evening with the body of his wife who died near Coyote, Friday evening last. Mr. McMillan receives the sympathy and condolence of the many friends of his deceased wife and of himself and family. He expects to leave tomorrow morning for Buffalo with the body where it will be interred in the family lot in the Buffalo cemetery.

Macedonio Gonzales and Jesus Mayo, who live in Capuline, Colorado, across the New Mexico line, but who claim agricultural lands in the Jemez National Forest, came to the city yesterday to look after their claims which they assert they have occupied for nineteen years. Mayo claims the southwest one-quarter of section thirteen, township 23, north, range one east, and Gonzales claims north one-half of section thirteen, northeast one-quarter and southwest one-quarter of section 14, and southwest one-quarter and northwest one-quarter of section thirteen, township 23 north, range one east.

MINOR CITY TOPICS

Weather forecast for New Mexico: Local showers tonight or Wednesday, with stationary temperature.

FOR RENT—Six room, modern house. Apply to Leo Hersch. Mrs. Palen will not be "at home" to callers tomorrow afternoon.

This was pay day at the capitol building and is cause for contented smiles on the faces of many territorial employes.

The two-year-old son of Macario Jimenez, of Tesuque, died early this morning as the result of kidney trouble. The funeral probably will be held today.

The number of arrivals at the city hotels yesterday were: Palace twelve, Claire, nineteen; Normandie, eleven, and Coronado two, making a total of forty-four.

Don Gaspar avenue has been resurfaced from Water street south to the bridge across Santa Fe river. Gravel was used to level up this thoroughfare. This street is in fine shape now.

It is reported that the Colorado Fuel and Iron company has a force of forty men opening up the shafts and otherwise developing its recent purchase, known as the Ora Quay Gold Mining and Reduction company property in southern Santa Fe county.

While returning from Agua Fria yesterday afternoon the horse which Eduardo M. Otero was riding became frightened at a vicious dog and making a sudden lunge threw Mr. Otero dislocating his right shoulder. Mr. Otero and a number of other residents of the city attended the St. James and St. Peter celebration at Agua Fria yesterday. They had just started on the return trip when the accident happened. Mr. Otero's shoulder was set and today it is stated that he is recovering as fast as possible.

Suit for possession of property in Rio Arriba county was brought in the district court yesterday by Bernardo Gonzales against Sabino Gonzales. The plaintiff sets out that he is entitled to the immediate possession of a valuable tract of land in Rio Arriba county near El Rito but that the defendant entered into possession on June 20, this year, unlawfully and continues to retain possession much to the first named Gonzales' damage. For these reasons Bernardo Gonzales asks for a judgment for $200 as damages and possession of the property. The suit was filed by Attorney A. B. Renahan, of Santa Fe.

Official announcement was made yesterday that W. C. Scovel had been checked in as station agent at Stanley on the Santa Fe Central railway. A. J. Richardson, the retiring agent, was acting as a relief man. He has a homestead near and was compelled to return to it because of the federal statute. Mr. Scovel formerly was agent for the Santa Fe Central at Kennedy but was relieved last week by M. T. Hudgings, who is a new agent for the company. The Kennedy station is what is known as a joint station, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Santa Fe Central railways using the one depot.

these on each side and one on each end, held together by I-beams and tie rods. The base plate is ribbed iron in two pieces and is supported by eight jack screws, while above it is a 6-inch brasse of clay and coke dust. The smelting column is 10 feet above the tapers and the feed floor is 4 feet higher.

The charge is fed through side openings, in the hood, from whose top the downcomer drops to a dust flue, leading to a guied steel stack. The dust flue is brick with a segmental circular arch, held by tie rods bearing on steel plates along the side walls, which are supported by brick abutments, instead of buckstays. As soon as the mill is built, this furnace will be lengthened to double the present capacity.

The slag-and matte run continuously into an iron settler, 7 by 4 1-2 by 3 feet high, lined with 2 1-2 inches of fire brick. From the settler the matte is tapped into 160-pound molds for shipment. The slag overflows into hand spots and is wheeled to the dump. Owing to the high grade matte, it is difficult to keep the settler open longer than two weeks, so it is purposely made small and mounted on wheels and an extra one is held in readiness alongside.

It is aimed to produce a 50 to 60 per cent matte, to get a slag with under 0.5 per cent copper, but owing to partial oxidation of the sulphur in the furnace, the copper sometimes rises to 70 per cent, with a proportionately richer slag.

As no good iron flux is available, only limestone is used, and a characteristic slag analysis is: Silica, 42.33 per cent; iron oxide, 16.45 per cent; lime 27.70 per cent; alumina, 9.90 per cent; magnesia, 1.40 per cent; barium, 0.22 per cent; copper, 0.46 per cent.

This indicates nearly a protosulphide of lime, iron and alumina. As the ration of lime (to iron-alumina) exceeds 1 to 1, the slag needs a high fusing temperature, but is so light as to permit an easy settling out of the matte.

Mrs. S. Joyce, Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy. It cured me of a severe case of kidney trouble of several years standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine, and I heartily recommend it."

Badly Sprained Ankle Cured.
Three years ago our daughter sprained her ankle and had been suffering terribly for two days and nights—had not slept a minute. Mr. Stallings, of Butler, Tenn., told us of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. We went to the store that night and got a bottle of it and bathed her ankle two or three times and she went to sleep and had a good night's rest. The next morning she "as much better and in a short time could walk around and had no trouble with her ankle—E. M. Brummitt, Hampton, Tenn. 2¢ and 50¢ sizes for sale by all druggists.

ALBUQUERQUE CELEBRATES IN HONOR OF DELEGATE WILLIAM H. ANDREWS

New Mexico's delegate to Congress William H. Andrews, arrived in this city last evening on train No. 1. A brass band and a reception committee of the Commercial club were in waiting to greet him. Throngs of people assembled at the depot long before the train bearing the distinguished delegate arrived.

The reception committee was headed by Attorney Edward L. Medler, who is president of the Commercial club.

Representative business men of the city of all political creeds were like little boys on tip toe of expectancy to shake the hand of the most successful delegate we ever had in Congress. We say "successful" for he "brought home the goods" that were very much needed.

One facetious wag in the good-natured crowd said: "I do not know what people want statehood for, we have more representation in Congress than any state except New York. We have all Pennsylvania and Andrews."

All hands greeted the philosophy with good cheer. One spectator got back at the wag and said: "Yes, but if we were a state with Andrews as United States senator, we would have enough votes with Pennsylvania to even outstrip New York." The wag apologized and said, "right you are, my dear Alphonso."

By the time half such possible pleasantries were exchanged, the train rolled into the station and a wild rush was indulged in to first greet the conquering hero.

Every one had his turn in grasping the hand of the "silent delegate." The committee then escorted Mr. Andrews into the dining room of the Alvarado, where a hasty lunch was enjoyed by the committee and their guest.

All the time the brass band playing popular airs rendered a great degree of democracy to the occasion. Carriages were in waiting for the guest and committee and at 8 o'clock the march up Central avenue to the Commercial club began, headed by the band.

Central avenue was thronged with men, women, boys, their sweethearts, all "rubbering" to get a glance at the man we have heard so much about and from whose efforts we have received so much.

Mr. Andrews today is most likely in the shape that the lawyers and doctors were in after the recent baseball game, from the perpetual causticness he had to indulge in by way of tipping his hat and bowing to all his neighbors on the way to the Commercial club.

Big Dr. Haynes said he would rather play two ball games at once than shake so many hands as the delegate did. Arriving at the club, he had to go through the ordeal of "shaking" with all those present—a large and delighted audience.

The swinging doors of the club were all thrown open and chairs removed from their usual places in order to accommodate the varied and vast participants.

The whole north end of the club rooms was occupied by the "women folk." The middle room was crowded with the more democratic gentry. President Medler opened the ceremonies by introducing our mayor, in a very neat and manly speech the chief executive of our city, representing a metropolitan and cosmopolitan people, extended the formal courtesies of the town to Delegate Andrews. In part the mayor referred to the custom of all people receiving their conquering generals with gratuitous acclaim, and attesting their gratitude for victories achieved. He declared that we were actuated by the same motives of heartfelt sympathy for the arduous and faithful work of Mr. Andrews.

The Democrats present were proud of our mayor, and no one can deny this little piece of partisan pride—silently thought of only, of course.

In detail the mayor referred to the history of the many appropriations that Mr. Andrews secured for New Mexico. Cheer after cheer, applause after applause greeted almost every word of the condensed and appropriate remarks of his honor. If there is any possible distribution or share of honor and glory for last night's tribute to Mr. Andrews, we will slice off a large piece of Mayor Lester. The strongest part of his speech was the sincerity it conveyed to his hearers. And this is the true and only test of eloquence.

No one could help but notice the very observable contrast between the mayor and Senator Andrews. One a mere youth entrusted with the affairs of the metropolis of an intelligent people, the other stern and almost grizzled after many hard fought battles. It was a pleasant picture to see, and it shows us hope in such a form of government as ours. Age, youth, creed, artificial attainments circumstances has nothing to do with the qualifications of our servants.

We are getting a little bit ahead of our story. We thought we were drawing a complete detail of the event. You all know that some chapter is even missing, as we go on. Who else could have greeted in the very beginning the prominent delegate, other than the "grand old man of Democracy"—Attorney Harvey B. Ferguson?

If he were absent from the first number of this celebration things would be out of joint. He "was there," as he always is, "standing square on his two feet, fire and manhood beaming from his open face and declaring to a man of opposite political creed, 'Mr. Andrews, I take my hat off to you when it comes down to getting money for our territory.'"

There is always a grand thing for a grand man to say, and Mr. Ferguson said it. We take a large slice of glory and honor for "the silver-tongued orator" of our city.

We know Mr. Andrews will not be jealous of this division of the cake, for we all think as did Admiral Schley after the battle of Santiago, "there is enough honor for us all."

Chairman and President Medler then introduced Mr. M. L. Stern. Mr. Stern showed the audience that eloquence is not mortgaged by the lawyers of this town. All this came about by a man saying what he had in his heart. Truly an open confession is good for the soul—and body at that. Mr. Stern made us sit up and take notice. He said he was glad to have the honor of representing Mr. Hope, well as president of the Irrigation Congress, and extending to Mr. Andrews the heartfelt thanks of the Congress and the city for the munificent donation from Congress of $30,000.

One of the best parts of Mr. Stern's speech was this feature: He kept on talking to his friends after he quit the floor, declaring again and again that we were deeply obliged to Andrews for some time to come.

Then Mr. Medler had to introduce himself as the next speaker. He, as president of the Commercial club, thanked Mr. Andrews in the name of the business interests of Albuquerque for the impetus to progress that must follow the delegate's disinterested efforts "to make good."

Mr. Medler said: "Although we salute the most beneficial congressman we ever had, we hope that this is the last delegate we will ever return to Washington." He looked straight at Andrews as much to say, "my dear Mr. Andrews, statehood is the last favor we ask you to work for."

Someone in the audience remarked that statehood would be a cheap proposition for the United States if we were going to send such persistent fellows as Andrews after Uncle Sam's pocketbook. We hope that Congress will "tumble" to this idea and say to Andrews during the winter session, "you fellows had better support your selves in the future—here is your diploma for statehood."

This ended the formal speaking. You expected Andrews to talk? Well, thank the Lord he didn't. We send a delegate to Congress to work, and not to orate. We will do all the talking that is necessary, as we did last night and we want to talk about what some other fellow did, and not about what some other fellow will do, etc., etc.

We size Mr. Andrews up as a rather silent gentleman. A presumption of deed goes with an over abundance of silence. The rule applies in this case.

Other interesting events transpired. Mr. Medler, as grand plenipotentiary factotum was busy between acts escorting his friends (all the people) towards the fountain. This was a very democratic and commendable feature of the performance. Democrats galore were present. So were Republican Napoleons, such as Solomon Luna, Mr. Bursum and our own Senator Sulzer.

After the more formal chapters were read in the procedure, all hands sat around and smoked, told stories and some facts.

One humorous gentleman told the following story as illustrative of many things said by the speakers of the evening: "I have seen congressmen from the East all my life. They consume in public much talk about 'Why' they can get no appropriations from Washington. Of course, it is not surmised that they get no personal emoluments except their very meager salary—of course not. Well, here is a fellow who says nothing and he keeps a lot of good legal orators busy trying to relate all the good he has done. It might be convenient and save a lot of time to tell what he has not done. It all reminds me of the following authentic story—it is all so different:

"Once upon a time a very rich old gentleman was about to die, and, called his only heir to his bedside, declared, 'boy, I am about to leave you everything I have, and to be sure that you get it I am going to make your uncle trustee of my will.'"

The boy was very grateful—in words—but after a long pause he said to his father, 'would it make any difference to you if you make my uncle your legatee and appoint me his trustee?'

"The Andrews case is one grand exception, where the people get a good return and account from their trustee."

All hands went home—at different hours. Some dreamed of water flowing from the foothills and irrigating the mesa; others dreamed of postoffices and large sums of money. And everyone today feels good about the event, and say: "Well it's not so bad to be a territory after all."

Thus one bright chapter was added to our dull and routine life, all were better men and better women for having mingled together for a common and united cause. Everyone feels like the fellow who buried his mother-in-law and responded to the inquiry of what was the complaint of the "old lad." "Complaint!" he rejoined. "There was no complaint—everyone was satisfied."

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever." But there is no fever. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn-out nerves leave us languid, lifeless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tired spot." Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. For sale by The Ireland Pharmacy.

The Santa Fe Central Railway company announces a special rate from Santa Fe to Dallas, Texas, on account of the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of B. P. O. Elks. The round trip rate is fixed at $31.

A special rate of one fare for the round trip has been announced by the Santa Fe Central Railway company on account of the holiday for the Fourth of July. Dates of sale are July 2, 3 and 4 with return limit July 7.

A trace of rain was registered in Santa Fe yesterday afternoon at the local weather station. A thunder storm passed west and north in the afternoon between 1 and 3 o'clock. The temperature was low for summer, the highest recorded being 78 degrees and the lowest but 49 degrees with a mean temperature of 64 degrees, which is a departure from the normal of five degrees. The relative humidity average for the day was 46 per cent. The lowest temperature recorded last night was 53 degrees and at 6 a. m., today the thermometer registered 55 degrees. Today's weather conditions are similar to those of yesterday.

MISS GLADYS WILEY IS A JUNE BRIDE

Becomes Wife of Hugh K. Gilmour of Owensboro, Kentucky—Wedding Celebrated This Afternoon.

Miss Florence Gladys Wiley this afternoon became the bride of Hugh K. Gilmour, of Owensboro, Kentucky, the ceremony being performed at 3 o'clock at the Church of the Holy Faith, Rev. W. R. Dye, officiating. The beautiful Episcopal ring ceremony was used.

The church was tastefully decorated in greenery and cut flowers. The bride party entered the church to Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Matilda Alonzo, who was accompanied by Miss Virginia Bean on the violin. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Hope Wiley, while Fernley Wiley, a brother, acted as best man to the groom. The bride, who wore a natty traveling suit of blue, was given away by her father, Frederick Wiley.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride party repaired to the Wiley home on the South Side where a wedding dinner was served. They will leave on the evening train for a honeymoon trip to Albuquerque.

Mrs. Gilmour, formerly Miss Wiley, is a charming young woman and her friends are legion. Since coming to Santa Fe several years ago from Canada, she has been popular in younger social circles.

The groom came to New Mexico some time ago from Owensboro, Kentucky, and is the owner of a pretty ranch on the Upper Pecos, where the newly married couple will be at home to their friends after August 1.
