WONDERS OF THE CLIFF DWELLINGS

Pajarito Park a Region of Hoary Antiquity

INTERESTING DISCOVERIES

Dr. Hewett, Tells of Results of Recent Archaeological Research There.

A thousand, or two thousand years ago, or perhaps, contemporaneous with Ur and Nineveh, there flourished twenty miles west of Santa Fe, in the lower Rito de los Frijoles Canon, an interesting community, or rather group of populous pueblos that had attained as high a degree of culture as the Pueblo Indians of today, in fact, must have been far advanced in some respects, for they supported thousands where a dozen Pueblo Indians would find it difficult to make a living, and some of the pottery and instruments that they left to puzzle future generations of another and superior race, are more artistic and possess a better finish than the wares manufactured by the Pueblos of today. Such were the conclusions that forced themselves upon those who were fortunate enough to hear Dr. Edgar L. Hewett, director of the American School of Archaeology, on Saturday evening in the supreme court room at the capitol, as he told of the discoveries made by his party of archaeological students during the past few weeks. He himself did not present these conclusions; he has grown more cautious, more conservative, during the past six years, is more thoroughly imbued with the scientific spirit that rejects all theories until there is irrefutable proof to support them. He told of the remarkable discoveries calmly, dispassionately, almost coldly, advanced no theories, presented no conclusions, told only the bare facts, which in themselves are so wonderful that all those who heard, marveled, facts which will prove of such intense interest to the scientific world that it will hasten to bestow even greater honors upon Director Hewett than he has attained in the past, and of which the conferring of the degree of Doctor of Social Sciences by the University of Geneva is only one of many.

Hoary Antiquity.
The great age of this pre-historic civilization brought to light within sight of Santa Fe is attested by the fact, that decided climatic changes have occurred since it flourished, and by other evidences less convincing to the lay mind, but conclusive to the archaeological student. That this civilization was rudely displaced by some conquering tribe or tribes from the north seems apparent, and upon these facts may be based the logical theory that these ancient, prehistoric people retreated before their foes to Mexico, Central America and perhaps Peru; that the nomadic invaders bore away some in captivity and learned from their captives their arts, and that admixture of the blood of the captives with that of their captors produced the Pueblos. This is not Professor Hewett's theory, at least he did not express it thus, but it is fascinating and must suffice until more light is thrown upon the subject by just such work as Professor Hewett and his party accomplished this summer under the auspices, or rather on behalf of the Santa Fe Archaeological Society.

A Wonderfully Interesting Region.
The supreme court room was well filled with an audience that represented the more thoughtful portion of Santa Fe society, the men and women of culture who have a live interest in the deep problems presented by the ruins and remains of generations that have lived and vanished in this particular part of the southwest. Upon large tables were spread out photographs, drawings, charts and plans, which gave vivid impressions of the Rito de los Frijoles, its ancient people and the remains that they left upon the sands of time. Some of these will form part of the Santa Fe archaeological exhibit at Albuquerque during the next two weeks and will bring home to the many visitors to the Irrigation Congress that almost within a stone's throw of this city lies the most wonderful region in all of the United States, and in some respects in all of America, equalling in interest even the valley of the Nile, of the Tigris and the Euphrates and of the Tiber.

Judge John R. McFie, president of the Archaeological Society, introduced Professor Hewett with well-chosen words and the latter was soon in the depths of his subject, holding the interest of his hearers until the end.

Human Interest and Scenic Beauty.

He said that the explorations in the Rito de los Frijoles this summer were really a local undertaking, under the direction of the Archaeological Institute of America, one of whose aims it is to direct just such local work. The Rito de los Frijoles he described as eighteen to twenty miles west in an air line from Santa Fe, three hours' ride from the Denver and Rio Grande station of Buckman. He predicted that in a few years it would be an even pleasanter trip than today, and emphasized that he is absolutely certain that it will become a great resort for not only scientists, but also for the great general public. Although he has spent many years in the archaeological fields of America, from Canada to Central America, he did not hesitate to pronounce the Rito de los Frijoles as one of the most interesting canyons in America, both in scientific as well as human interest of the ancient culture that here had its seat and excelled in scenic beauty by few, if any, others. It is truly a wonderful spot, and is bound to become a popular pleasure ground for many, many travelers. The Archaeological Park of Colorado is greater in extent, has more spectacular ruins, but lacks the unity of the Frijoles, is not the thing apart from all the other canyons, does not create the well-defined, vivid impression of the New Mexico canyon.

A Buried Civilization.

The ancient civilization of the Frijoles has been known to us through the writings of Professor Bandelier, who lived in this city in the early eighties and here wrote many of his works. He was the pioneer archaeologist of the southwest, and Professor Hewett paid him a gracious tribute. But Bandelier's writings are purely descriptive; he did not command the means for extensive excavations and it is only by this latter method that the civilization which lies buried can be brought to light and studied. Professor Hewett, too, had known and visited the ruins of the Frijoles in past years, but not until he put the spade in the ground this summer did he realize the vast extent of these ruins and the real character of the culture they represented.

A Striking Gorge.

The speaker then described the region as one approached the gorge from the camp of the Ramon Land and Lumber Company, from which a road has been built by this enterprising and generous company to the very rim of the Frijoles Canyon, the north walls of which drop an average of five hundred feet from the mesa above. It is cut through the soft tuffa rock which flowed aeons ago from the Jemez range of volcanoes, now extinct. It is in this range that the Frijoles rises, but it is only the lower three of its twenty miles that are of special interest to the archaeologist. The north canon walls are broken by a bench forty to fifty feet wide, while from the base of the cliff slopes a talus down to the valley, where purls the beautiful mountain stream, which lower down, not far from its junction with the Rio Grande, drops in two magnificent falls of seventy and eighty feet to the level of the upper edge of the White Rock canon, a most wonderful gorge in itself, at some points fully a thousand feet deep. A new trail leads down to the Frijoles from the top of the cliff, but the traveler before descending should gaze upon the marvelous scene that spreads before him deep down in the gulch, where lie the ruins of the great pueblo, now partly excavated.

The Great Pueblo.

This unique ruin is roughly circular in shape; is built in accordance with a definite plan around a court. The structure is seven rooms deep and contained originally from 700 to 800 rooms, while at present about 400 rooms can be restored, of which Professor Hewett and party excavated forty so as to clearly demonstrate the type of the ruin. This differs from the other haphazard structures of pueblo ruins, the latter resulting from additions to the original building by the addition of rooms as the girls of the family or the clan were married, it being the custom for the bride to build a room adjoining her mother's home, into which she moved with her husband. In this great pueblo of the Frijoles there were three kivas or ceremonial rooms within the court. The smallest of these, thirty feet in diameter, has been excavated and resembles the estufas or kivas of the modern pueblos, with their shaft and vent hole on their east wall. In those days, it seems, the same as today, each clan, the Sun, Eagle, Turkey, Turquoise, etc., had its own sanctuary, but here there are indications of a tribal sanctuary, a great temple to which all the clans came. This is the largest of the three kivas, an enormous underground circular structure of stone, entered through a trap door in the roof. Like the other kivas, it had its central depression or fireplace through which in Indian tradition men emerged from the under-

ROOSEVELT AGAIN REPLIES TO BRYAN

President Reiterates Charges of Insincerity

DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION

Compares Its Deeds With Those of Democratic Predecessors.

Washington, Sept. 28.—President Roosevelt late last night made reply to W. J. Bryan's recent speech in which he maintained that the Democratic party and platform were not getting a square deal in the campaign. Mr. Roosevelt's response deals particularly with Mr. Bryan's assertion that the administration has been neither sincere nor effective in the prosecution of trusts. He combats this charge with choice emphasis and sets forth in detail what has been done under his administration toward curbing the tendency of capital to centralize with a view to destroying competition.

The president compares the deeds of the present administration and Mr. Taft with the promises held out in the Democratic platform. The failure of the Cleveland administration to take action against the lawless trusts is cited as showing what may be expected in the event of Mr. Bryan's success at the polls in November.

Governor Haskell also comes in for another vigorous scoring. The Oklahoma executive is accused of extensive land frauds and attempts to swindle ignorant Indians of their birthright. All in all the president's second letter to Mr. Bryan is fully as interesting a document as the one issued a few days ago.

CHARGES REPUBLICANS WITH AIDING WATSON

Former U. S. Senator Pettigrew Claims He Was Offered $10,000 to Campaign For Him.

Salem, S. D., Sept. 28.—While traveling through South Dakota with William J. Bryan today, former U. S. Senator R. F. Pettigrew publicly announced that four years ago he had been approached by the Republican national committee through a former U. S. senator with an offer of $10,000 if he would deliver ten speeches in support of the candidacy of Thomas E. Watson, the People's party candidate for president. Pettigrew declared he declined the offer and made an investigation with the result that he satisfied himself that the Republican party financed in a large measure, Watson's campaign.

Bryan in South Dakota.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Sept. 28.—W. J. Bryan opened the fourth week of his tour by a renewal of his criticism of Taft and the Republican platform in a speech to a big crowd here this morning.

TAFT CONTINUES SPEAKING TOUR

Spent Today in Minnesota—Will Enter North Dakota Before Night—Unites Factions.

Sauk Creek, Minn., Sept. 28.—With his voice fully recovered and all hoarseness gone, Judge W. H. Taft today made the first of a dozen speeches he is to deliver in this state at St. Cloud. North Dakota will be reached before night. Already the Taft special is carrying representatives of the two factions headed by Senators Hansborough and McCumber of that state. Each senator is seeking to show his friendliness to Taft. At St. Cloud, Taft spoke on the labor question, saying he believed "a few crumbs from Gompers' table would fall to him."

NEW SECOND ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL NAMED

Washington, Sept. 28.—Joseph Stewart, of Missouri, superintendent of the division of railway mail adjustment in the postoffice department today was appointed second assistant postmaster general, succeeding James S. McCleary of Minnesota, who resigned to become a candidate for Congress.

RECORD BREAKING DROUTH IN MANY STATES BROKEN

HASKELL WILL SUE HEARST

To Prosecute Editor for Criminal Libel

GOVERNOR IS IN GUTHRIE

In Interview Says He Will Prove His Innocence in the Courts.

Kansas City, Sept. 28.—A special from Guthrie says: Governor Charles N. Haskell upon his arrival here last night from Chicago announced that he would bring suit against William R. Hearst next Wednesday.

"For criminal libel?" the governor was asked.

"Well, I don't know what you would call it," he replied.

"To make him prove what he said?" was the next question put to him.

"No, sir," replied Governor Haskell, "but to make him prove what he said was not true."

ROSSELL CADETS TO ALBUQUERQUE

Crack Battalion Makes Trip to Irrigation Congress in Special Train. Expects to Outshine Regulars.

Special to The New Mexican:

Roswell, N. M., Sept. 28.—The crack battalion of the New Mexico Military Institute left Roswell last night for Albuquerque to attend the Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress. The cadets made the trip in a special train, consisting of a baggage car and three coaches. Each company was assigned to a coach. The band occupied a front section of the coach reserved for Roswell citizens who made the trip with the cadets and who will also attend the Congress and International Industrial Exposition to be held in connection with it. Two field pieces used by the institute were shipped by freight some days ago and should be in Albuquerque by the time the cadets arrive.

Captain F. W. Thompson, the institute's quartermaster, arrived in Albuquerque last night to make arrangements and to contract for the subsistence department.

The battalion consists of 150 cadets, divided into three companies and a band. The superintendent will remain in direct command and will go to camp with the cadets. He will take, as his adjutant, Captain J. B. Webster.

The military staff which accompanies Colonel Willson, consists of Lieutenant Colonel W. S. Barlow, U. S. A. retired, with staff composed of Major Lohman, Commandant of Cadets, Captain Kunz, and Captain Rorick, tactical officers. Captains McClung and Lackey are to accompany the battalion and will assist the quartermaster and surgeon respectively.

The battalion was also accompanied by Dr. C. M. Mayes, institute surgeon who will be prepared to render medical assistance whenever needed. A hospital tent will be maintained while in camp, but, as the general health of the cadets is so good, it is hoped that this will not be needed.

Last, but not least in importance, the chief cook and his five Japanese assistants, quartermaster sergeant, chief gunner and ordnance sergeant and two roustabouts were also taken along.

All uniforms are in excellent condition. The band is showing up well. The cadets are strong and manly. The crack company is in excellent form and expects to defeat the Regulars from Fort Logan without difficulty.

Upon arrival in Albuquerque the battalion will be marched to one of the hotels for breakfast, after which the cadets are to go into camp and will remain under strict military discipline the entire time they are away from the school. A regular guard will be mounted and the full tactical requirements complied with. All the institute officers will remain in camp with the cadets both day and night.

Many citizens from Roswell went on the special train, especially those who will attend the Shrine.

BAD WRECK ON THE SANTA FE NEAR LA JUNTA

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 28.—Early this morning eastbound passenger train No. 6, on the Santa Fe went into the ditch at Hadley Station, nine miles east of La Junta, owing it is thought, to a broken wheel under the baggage car. The engine remained on the track but all the cars except the rear Pullman, turned completely over. A relief train brought the passengers to La Junta. All were shaken up and several slightly hurt, but none sustained serious injuries.

ATCHISON MURDER CASE SINGULAR ONE

Defendant Presented Strong Case of Self-Defense—Gives Bond Pending New Trial.

An important, but very singular case in New Mexico's history was tried before Judge John R. McFie in the district court for this county last week. It was the case of the territory vs. W. W. Atchison, who was charged with the murder of William Thayer and James O'Mara, near the San Pedro mining camp in the southern part of this county on June 15, 1902. A grand jury indicted Atchison and he was placed under bond.

Sometime thereafter Atchison went to Cananea, in the state of Sonora, Mexico, where he was employed by the Calumet Mining and Milling company as stationary engineer. Upon being called upon to appear for trial at the last term of the district court he appeared promptly and surrendered himself, having previously given bond in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance. The case was set for trial at the present term of court and Atchison appeared promptly and the trial commenced. It lasted five days, beginning Tuesday morning and was finished on Friday at noon. Many witnesses were heard during the progress of the trial and the testimony produced against the defendant was circumstantial, while the witnesses for Atchison, it seems, made out a strong case of self-defense. It was brought out in the testimony that his life was threatened by James O'Mara and that O'Mara was loading his gun on the fatal night to shoot Atchison and with his comrade, William Thayer, was laying for him. Atchison did not give O'Mara a chance to shoot him, inflicting a fatal wound. While the shooting was going on, William Thayer threw large rocks at Atchison, who after shooting O'Mara, fired at Thayer, also mortally wounding him. The territorial grand jury investigated the case and found an indictment charging Atchison with the murder of the two dead men.

In the trial last week it was shown in the testimony that Atchison was a man of peace and of good character, who came to New Mexico eighteen years ago and since then had been working as a stationary engineer for the Santa Fe Gold and Copper company for a number of years. Also that it was known in the camp before the shooting that some trouble existed between O'Mara and Atchison, the former asserting that Atchison had done him a great wrong. This, however, was not proven at the trial and the witnesses for Atchison asserted that Atchison was friendly with the miners and engineers in the entire camp.

During the past six years Atchison had been employed as a stationary engineer by the Calumet and Sonora Mining company in the state of Sonora, Mexico, and has given complete satisfaction to his employes and when summoned to appear in the court he surrendered immediately to the Santa Fe authorities.

The hearing ended in a mistrial. It is understood that eight of the jurors were for acquittal, three for a verdict of guilty of second degree murder and one of the jurors became insane on account of the strain incident to the trial. Naturally a verdict of disagreement was entered and Atchison was placed by the court under $5,000 bonds to appear at the March, 1909 term of court for trial.

Atchison gave bond promptly or within twenty-four hours for the reduced sum of $5,000 and it is a strong bond. He had no difficulty in securing it as public feeling is very strong for him and as he has many friends in this city and San Pedro who have known him for many years and who honestly believe his plea of self-defense and that he was compelled to do the shooting in order to save his own life.

HOBOES MEET IN FIRST NATIONAL CONVENTION

New York, Sept. 28.—An extraordinary gathering began in this city today. It is made up of delegates who came on the break-beams of freight cars, blind baggage of express trains or straggled in over dusty roads. They profess to represent the country's worthless and constitute the "first national convention of the unemployed." J. Eads, now of St. Louis, known as the "Millionaire Hobo" planned the convention and welcomed the delegates as they arrived. The "Health of the Unemployed," was the principal subject of discussion at today's session.

HAS SENATOR BAILEY RESIGNED

Reported He Has; Wife Says He Has Not

SHE OUGHT TO KNOW

Both are in New York--Story Comes From Galveston.

New York, Sept. 28.—A dispatch from Galveston, Texas, to several newspapers last night stated that J. W. Bailey had resigned as United States senator and would no longer reside in Texas. Senator Bailey and wife arrived in this city from Washington last night and went to the Waldorf-Astoria. The senator immediately started out to call on friends, but Mrs. Bailey when told of the dispatch said: "It is absolutely false. I am sure that Senator Bailey is not going to resign. At least I think I would have heard of it if he contemplated such a move, and I have never heard him say that he did. A New York paper printed an article, saying he was in poor health. That too, is absolutely false."

DISTINGUISHED FRENCH ENGINEER VISITS CITY

M. Rene Tavernier and Party Spent Sunday in Santa Fe, Viewing Points of Interest.

Chief Engineer M. Rene Tavernier, of the Department of Public Works of France, detailed by the Ministry of Agriculture to attend the Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress and to inspect the construction of great irrigation projects in the United States, was a visitor in the city yesterday and registered at the Claire hotel. He was accompanied by his son, M. Lena Tavernier, and his friend, M. Pierre Villard. Mr. Villard is a very distinguished Frenchman and president of the Societe de Politique Economique of Lyons. The Taverniers are also residents of Lyons.

Mr. Tavernier speaks very little English, but his son is very familiar with the English language and speaks it fluently. J. L. LaDriere of the Duke City accompanied the distinguished guests to this city to show them around the oldest town in the United States.

Mr. Tavernier enjoyed his visit in this city very much and said: "You have a great climate and unexcelled scenic attractions, they being the equal of those of any country in the world." Those of the party expressed the wish to visit Santa Fe again before leaving this country.

The distinguished engineer will especially look after the success of vine-growing by irrigation in the southwest, a subject in which France is especially interested.

After the Irrigation Congress the gentlemen will go to inspect the work on the Carlsbad project on the Pecos river, the site of the Elephant Butte dam on the Rio Grande and the Roosevelt dam in the Salt River Valley of Arizona. Mr. Tavernier will have an important paper before the congress.

DRUNKEN FIENDS SHOOT DOWN HELPLESS WORSHIPPERS

Jellico, Tenn., Sept. 28.—One of the bloodiest affairs in the history of east Tennessee, occurred near the Tennessee-Kentucky line north of the Anthrax postoffice yesterday. The scene was at a little Baptist church, near which is a blind tiger. The services had closed and nearly all the congregation had emerged from the church when a crowd of drunken men began firing at the worshippers. John Bennett, J. W. McKinney and Edward Thomas were shot down at the church door and died almost instantly. The preacher, Rev. Kind, was mortally wounded and another worshipper, named Gibson, was shot, but not dangerously wounded.

MYSTERIOUS BOAT ACCIDENT CLAIMS LIVES OF SEVEN

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Although seven men are believed to have been drowned in the capsizing of a pleasure launch last night in collision with a pier of the Nickle Plate railroad bridge across the Calumet river, the police today are still unable to determine the identity of the victims and no bodies have been recovered. The sole survivor of the party, Elmer Westergreen, owner of the craft, is under arrest and has not yet given a competent account of the accident. He is apparently in a dazed condition.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President—William Howard Taft, of Ohio
For Vice-President—James Schoolcraft Sherman, of New York
For Delegate to Sixty-first Congress—W. H. Andrews.
For Member of Council From Santa Fe and Sandoval Counties—T. B. Catron
For Member of the House From Santa Fe and Sandoval Counties—E. A. Miera

BRYAN THE WHOLE DEMOCRATIC PARTY.

This is a singular presidential campaign, and, in fact, the first of its kind. On the Republican side the issues are those of the party with which Judge Taft, presidential candidate, is in hearty accord. On the other side, however, there is no such thing as party issues. It is all William Jennings Bryan, only this and nothing more.

The farther the campaign advances the more it becomes apparent that there are no issues and policies of the Democracy at stake, and that it is simply "the great I am" William Jennings Bryan who is to be voted for and whose idiosyncrasies and radical administrative policies as heretofore announced by him are to be successful if he is elected.

Discussing this condition, the Pueblo Chieftain well puts the situation when it says that there is good political judgment in the speeches which the Republican candidate for President is making. The personality of Bryan is one of the most prominent issues of the campaign, and it is a subject that ought to be considered by all the voters. The record of a party and its platform as adopted by the party convention may serve as the foundation for its campaign. That is true of the Republican party at the present time. That party has a consistent record, and its platform promises may be judged in the light of that record. It is reasonable to suppose that if Taft is elected, and if the Republicans elect a majority of the house of representatives, the government will proceed substantially along the same lines that it has been following only to such changes as may be developed by progressive Republicanism.

The Democratic party has no such record. It swung from Cleveland to Bryan, from Bryan to Parker and from Parker back to Bryan again, and it is a very serious question whether at the present time a majority of the party is in favor of the principles of the platform. The only record the party has is a record of opposition and of failure. At the only time it controlled the national government it precipitated disaster upon the country. If it is successful in November the government will be disturbed, a new policy will be adopted, and there is certain to be a period of uncertainty and business stagnation until that new policy is developed.

And that is why the personality of Bryan becomes a prominent issue of the campaign. No one knows what Democracy really is, and the party has no record to give solidity to its changing policies and promises. But Bryan himself has a record, and in a large degree Bryanism, rather than Democracy, is on trial before the American people today.

Looking at the subject from this view point, the main issue before the people is, "Shall Bryan be elected?" and it becomes of very great significance and importance to understand what kind of a man Bryan is, what kind of a record he has, what he has stood for in the past and what he represents at the present time.

These are the matters that Mr. Taft is discussing in his speeches, and he is discussing them in such a way that while he gives no room for any charge of unfairness to the Democratic candidate, he is convincing reasonable men that Bryan is not a man that can be safely entrusted with the great power and the large measure of discretion that are given to the American president.

For Bryan's record is that of a theorist and of a theorist who has been almost uniformly wrong. It may be that Bryan has changed his opinion upon many important public questions, or it may be that he holds the same beliefs that he held in 1896 and 1900. But there is no reason to believe that his judgment is any better now than it was then.

The fact that he is not making anti-militarism a prominent feature of his present speeches does not qualify him to act as commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States.

The fact that he does not regard free silver as the foremost issue of the present time does not qualify him to appoint the secretary of the treasury.

The fact that he has moderated in recent years some of his most radical expressions against law enforcement does not make it wise to give him the power to appoint several judges of the supreme court of the United States.

Taft is right. Bryan is an issue of the campaign, and there can be no better campaign argument for the Republicans than to point out what Bryan has been in the past and what he is likely to be if he should be elected as President of the United States.

REVIVING PROSPERITY.

From all sections of the country come reports of reviving prosperity, the opening of mills, factories and business establishments and a return of good times in the near future in the business world. This is very gratifying, and portends that again soon prosperity will be at hand and plenty of employment will be had for laboring men, the farmer will receive high prices for his crops and manufacturing concerns will resume the activity that was experienced before the slump in financial circles a year ago.

On the first of the month, it is reported from eastern manufacturing centers, that at least 100,000 men will be put to work and renewed activity will begin. This will help the Republican cause and will bring votes to the Republican party on November the third next.

Discussing this oncoming prosperity, the Kansas City Star reviews it fairly and impartially, holding that notwithstanding the traditional dullness of a presidential campaign year there are abundant signs to show that the coming months of this year will witness an almost complete recovery from the conditions of industrial depression that have prevailed since last October. There are still some localities where the unemployed are confronted with a discouraging outlook, and in certain lines of manufactures the tide of reviving trade has not yet begun to make itself felt, but on the whole the situation in all branches of industry exhibits symptoms of a remarkably strong recovery, with a fair assurance of permanent progress. The fall buying, which is now in full swing, is characterized by conservatism on the part of merchants in ordering stocks, but the indications are that such a strong demand will be made by the consumers, especially the farmers and country people generally, that orders by wire to replenish depleted stocks will be the rule where hitherto they have been the exception. The farmers, who constitute the bedrock of business activity, will have more money to spend this year than they ordinarily have, and this fact alone will suffice to force increased movements in the various lines of trade, and thus restore public confidence in the permanency of the new prosperity. The farmers of the southwest have reaped large and profitable harvests and the crop movement in the northwestern country has begun two weeks earlier than usual and on a larger scale than was anticipated. This means an unusual flood of orders for merchandise of all kinds, and increased activity all along the line, from the retail merchant to the jobbers and wholesalers, and thence to the factories. The reopening of idle mills and factories which will follow this new impetus to trade will probably furnish employment for a large majority, if not all, of the workers who lost their places on account of the recession in business last winter and spring. Altogether, the outlook is more favorable than it has been at any time since last fall.

"THROW MUD LARRAZOLO, THROW MUD."

Democratic Candidate O. A. Larrazolo denies that he advised the native citizens of New Mexico to vote against Delegate W. H. Andrews because he is not a Mexican. His denial will do no good. No sensible or fair-minded man will believe him. There was nothing else for him to do except to deny.

On the other hand, it is well understood that such is his opinion, that he utters it whenever possible and where he thinks he can not be caught and the few speakers who are working for him in the campaign do likewise, and, if anything, worse. One of the leading facts in Larrazolo's campaign is to stir up race hatred and race dissension. He thinks on such an issue he can ride into office and grow fat at the expense of the people without doing any good to any one except himself, and should Bryan be elected, to the gang who put him up for office. That this will not happen is in the stars.

In the meantime he attempts to create race disturbances and to put American citizens one against the other because some of them happen to have been born in New Mexico, while there are others who are natives of other states of the Union, and endeavors by such cowardly, dirty, treacherous, unpatriotic and disloyal tricks to jump into the fat office to which he is not competent, to which he is not entitled and in which he could do no possible good for anybody except for his own pocket.

The managers of his campaign are worse than he is, because instead of advising him to be decent, patriotic and fair in his campaign they urge him on and tell him "Throw mud, Larrazolo, throw mud. Throw plenty of it, some of it will stick and some of the people will be silly enough and foolish enough to believe you." Fortunately the people of the territory, those who are at all acquainted with conditions, who read the newspapers and watch the trend of events, will not believe his assertions.

The various reports stating that he held many enthusiastic meetings, and that he was looked upon by the voters of New Mexico wherever he went, especially in the Spanish-speaking precincts, as a sort of saint, as a kind of a demagogue with a halo around his head and as a personification of everything that is pure and good and noble and effective and efficient in politics, is a boast and simply circulated in a few Democratic yellow sheets and by a few Democratic windjammers to blind the voters as to the true condition of affairs, which is that he is a "back number," that he exerts no influence, that he does not impress the voters favorably, and that he is doomed to defeat on November the third next, and that on and after that date the Democratic bosses who are putting up the boodle for his campaign will have their labor for their pains, nothing more and nothing less.

BRYAN'S ASSOCIATES.

Politics makes strange bedfellows. This is especially, strongly and prominently illustrated by the course of William Jennings Bryan, the candidate of the Democratic party for the presidency. For instance, the great man of the "crown of thorns and the cross of gold" is now hand in glove with Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, whom he has frequently in the last few years described as a servile and willing tool of the corporations; he consults these days, and that quite often, with ex-United States Senator David Bennett Hill of New York, although he has held him up to the people and to the voters at various times during the past ten years as a traitor to the Democratic party and as a political Judas, with whom true Democrats should have no intercourse whatever; he has made up with Roger Sullivan, who is the boss of the Democratic machinery in the great state of Illinois, although four years ago he called him a political train robber, pirate and a traitor to the party and to the people of the United States. All these things are now being forgotten by the great comonomer because he is up for election to the highest office in the land and because he wants votes. He does not care where they come from or who gives them to him.

In this campaign Bryan has adopted this Jesuitical motto, "The end justifies the means."

He is also hand in glove with Boss Murphy of Tammany Hall and with "Fingy" Connors, dictator of the state Democracy of New York; Tom Taggart, another character and politician of evil repute, is one of his right-hand men, and Governor C. N. Haskell of Oklahoma, who, it is charged, is a tool of the Standard Oil Company, is one of his intimate friends and deep in his confidence.

Governor Haskell was treasurer of the Democratic national committee and a member of the executive committee. In Haskell's case, however, the great comonomer was compelled to sever connection with him because it became very apparent that the charge against Haskell, that he is a tool of the Standard Oil company, is pretty well established.

It is an established maxim that a man in politics, in business, in his profession, and in fact in every walk of life, is judged by the company he keeps. Mr. Bryan claims to be an honest man and a sincere patriot. The company he keeps, however, does not bear out this claim to any alarming extent. The old proverb that "birds of a feather flock together" holds good in his case.

The Deming Graphic advances splendid reasons why Delegate W. H. Andrews should succeed himself. It says: "Considering that New Mexico needs a statesman at Washington instead of a windjammer, is one of the best reasons in the world why Delegate Andrews will be re-elected with a rousing majority."

The New Mexican can do printing equal to that done in any of the large cities. Our solicitor, every piece of work we turn out. Try our stock once and you will certainly come again. We have all the facilities for turning out every class of work, including one of the best binderies in the West.

The Longer You Know Them the Better You Like Them.

Doan's Kidney Pills never fail you. Santa Fe people know this. Read this Santa Fe case. Read how Doan's stood the test for many years.

It's local testimony and can be investigated:

Manuel Delgado, living at 140 Canon St., Santa Fe, N. M., says: "I am glad to re-endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as the cure they effected in my case has been permanent. Before using them I suffered from kidney trouble in its worst form and all the medicines I tried did not give me relief. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Ireland's Pharmacy quickly relieved me and there has not been any similar trouble since. I think a great deal of Doan's Kidney Pills and recommend them at every opportunity."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Captain Thomas E. Selfridge, whose tragic death in the accident to the Wright aeroplane at Fort Meyer last week was chronicled in the daily papers, was formerly a patient at Fort Bayard, Grant county, and is pleasantly remembered by those who were at the post at that time. He was en route from Mexico to Carlsbad to visit his family when overtaken by the illness which caused his death. The body was taken to Carlsbad and interred in the City cemetery. The deceased founded the Carlsbad Argus in 1889. He was also at one time part owner of the El Paso Herald.

A number of San Marcial men, who have been interested in a mine about four miles from the Elephant Butte dam near Engle, Sierra county, report that a new find has been made in a ravine 200 feet below the place they are now digging. Steel galena in good quantities was found, and it is thought a high grade silver ore will be found also, since it is usually found with the steel galena. The vein is about a two and one-half feet one. A contract for a seventy-foot shaft had already been let and they immediately extended the contract for thirty feet more.

Governor Curry left yesterday for the Duke City to be present at tomorrow's opening ceremonies of the Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress. En route he met Major General J. Franklin Bell, United States Army, chief of staff of the army, with whom he served in the Philippine Islands, and the two high officials went together the rest of the way.

W. M. Reilly, one of the leading citizens of Carrizozo, a leading town in prosperous Lincoln county, reached the city last evening and registered at the Claire hotel. Weak Kidneys Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

Mrs. J. H. McNeill, Salt Lake City, Utah, writes: "I am eighty years old and I thank Horehound Syrup for having cured me of coughs, colds and other like diseases."

Colonel Prichard is a forceful and convincing speaker and will do good for the Republican ticket wherever he appears.

The Saving Habit

If you are tarry, you have some of your money left over. The extra money is the foundation for future riches, if you will only persistently save it. What if it does only amount to a few dimes or nickels a day—there are going to be a great many days in your life! and these dimes and nickels will grow into a good large sum. The opportunity may come, when a few hundred dollars might change your whole financial condition; Might mean buying an interest in some growing business; Might give you a chance to grasp your next opportunity.

AND WHAT IS THE USE OF ALL THIS?

Why it just means making a man of you.
Making you free to do as you wish.
Making you and your family happy and contented.

The Santa Fe band gave a concert in the Plaza yesterday afternoon and considering the cold weather a good many Santa Feans were out to hear the music. Later in the evening the members of the band drilled on the streets around the Plaza. A Traveling Man's Experience.

"I must tell you my experience on an East bound O. R. & N. R. train from Pendleton to Le Grande, Ore.," writes Sam A. Garber, a well known traveling man. "I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said, 'There is a woman sick unto death in the car.' I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic, her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a deathlike look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her and giving her whiskey. I went to my suit case and got my bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of the medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil; then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into Le Grande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the husband to be used in case another dose should be needed, but by the time the train ran into Le Grande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car." For sale by all druggists.

The Sierra Consolidated Gold Mining company, case, appeal from Sierra county, was taken up, Mr. J. F. Bonham appearing for the appellant and the case was heard, no one appearing for the county board, and on consideration thereof, the board being fully advised in the premises sustains the appeal and revokes and sets aside the raise made by the county board in this case. It is therefore ordered that the appeal in this case be and the same is hereby sustained, and the raise made by the county board of Sierra county, be and the same is hereby vacated and set aside and that the return of the appellant stand as originally made.

It appearing from the abstract and data submitted to the board by the Traveling Auditor that the counties of Eddy, Mora, Otero, Rio Arriba, Socorro and Santa Fe, show a considerable decrease in the assessed valuation for the year 1908, as compared with the year 1907, and

Whereas, The Board believes from an examination of the tax rolls of the several counties above mentioned, that the taxing authorities did not comply with the valuations as fixed by this board at its January, 1908, meeting, with the exception of Santa Fe county, wherein the loss is partly explained by special report of the traveling auditor.

Therefore, be it resolved, That the Traveling Auditor be requested to call the attention of the taxing authorities of these counties to these evidences of neglect, incompetency or indifference, in such manner as he may deem advisable, and that he report the result of his action to the board at its next meeting.

We further call the attention of the Territorial Auditor to the fact that the Roosevelt county tax roll is not in the office of the auditor, as required by law, and said delinquency is unaccounted for. We therefore request the territorial auditor to proceed in accordance with the law against the proper officer of said county, and report his action to this board at its next meeting.

WEST RECEIVES LIGHT SENTENCE

Negro Who Stabbed Companion to Death in Drunken Quarrel Must Serve Year in Penitentiary.

In the district court late Saturday evening, Judge John R. McFie gave his instructions to the jury in the case of the Territory vs. Allen West, colored, who was charged with the murder of Jim Owens, also a colored man, at the Madrid coal mining camp, a week ago Saturday night. The jury returned a verdict of involuntary manslaughter after being out about two hours.

This morning West was brought in to court to have his sentence imposed upon him by Judge McFie, who gave him one year at hard labor in the territorial penitentiary, which is the minimum sentence that could be given under the verdict, the maximum being ten years. Judge McFie in announcing the sentence to West gave him a very good talk of about five minutes duration.

The arguments on the motion for a new trial in the damage suit of H. S. Friday vs. the Santa Fe Central Railway company, at the request of Judge N. B. Laughlin, attorney for the plaintiff, were postponed until October 12.

At 10:30 o'clock the court adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon when it took an adjournment until October 12.

world to remain in the kiva until their eyes became accustomed to the light.

A Unique Sanctuary.

Enough of this great pueblo has been excavated to show its entire plan. A few yards to the east is another mound, also the debris of a building, and still farther down the canon another immense circular structure, at first taken for a reservoir, but upon examination found to be the most wonderful kiva as yet found in the southwest. It is a walled structure forty-two feet in diameter, the largest subterranean sanctuary reported anywhere thus far in the southwest. It could not be roofed by its builders without support, and therefore four holes for supports are found around the fireplace depression, which is not in the center, but to one side. Unlike other kivas, it not only had an air shaft to the east, but also one to the west, and it has the distinction of having a double wall of tufa blocks all around it, making it one of the most remarkable structures of its kind. To add to this wonder there is found the stone floor of another similar kiva, showing that this ancient people had a dual organization similar to that of the people of San Ildefonso and Santa Clara and other pueblos of today that is a division into a winter and a summer people, each with their own kivas, one above and one below ground.

The Haunt of Outlaws.

The speaker digressed from his subject long enough to recall some forgotten modern history which has been gathered from interesting federal records, that the Canon has been inhabited for the past two hundred years by native people, and for a period, was the secure and favorite resort of outlaws. These modern inhabitants used some of the stones of the ancient structures and built houses of their own, the ruins of which must not be mistaken for those of the prehistoric people who had passed away hundreds of years before.

Twenty Villages in One Great Community.

The great pueblo alone, would make the Frijoles a wonderland, but it is only one of five pueblos; one of which is located on the southern rim of the Canon, and has been partly excavated. In addition, the caves in the north wall of the Canon, in the comparatively short space of one and a half miles, present the remains of fourteen communities, and most wonderful of all, in the talus, at the feet of these fourteen communities, Professor Hewett and his party discovered eleven more pueblo communities, that had built their structure right against the cliffs. In some instances in terraces four stories high, these eleven communal dwellings having had at least sixteen hundred rooms. It was certainly a dense population for so small part of so small a valley. It is true, it had been known before, that houses had been built against these cliffs, but no archaeologist had dreamed that the settlement was so extensive. One of these houses, the largest, contained 350 rooms, and originally covered a distance equal to that from the Capitol to the Postoffice at Santa Fe, rising to a height of four stories. It is certain that to support this population, not only the valley floor was under cultivation but also the mesa above, although after all, the Frijoles, is only one of the many inhabited canons of this region. Certainly, great climatic changes have taken place since this comparatively small area supported so great a people.

In conclusion of the descriptive part of his lecture, Professor Hewett described briefly a ceremonial cave cleaned out by his party. It is rather difficult of access, but unusually large and of more than ordinary interest.

A Lost Art

The speaker exhibited specimens of the material taken out in the excavation, which although not near as plentiful as that of the Puye excavation to the north last summer, yet is thoroughly represented and illuminating and gives a splendid basis for an archaeological museum such as will be founded at Santa Fe. These specimens include stone and bone implements and utensils, pottery and other articles of the ancient civilization. One piece of pottery exhibited on Saturday evening was especially beautiful in shape, material and decorations that were glazed, disproving as Professor Hewett said, that the Spaniards originally taught the Pueblos the art of glazing, although the art may have been a lost art when the Spaniards came. Several of the stone hatchets and a bone spatula and needle, shown to the audience, were pronounced by Professor Hewett the finest specimens of their kind, he had ever seen. The pottery looked as new as if it had just come from the potter and in appearance it gave no indication of its hoary age.

There were small toys made of clay, undoubtedly made for the amusement of the children of these ancient people. Most of the caves have a red dado around their interior and some of them have symbolic pictures although in the Frijoles, the petroglyphs and pictographs are not as conspicuous as in the Pajarito and other Canons.

A Complete Report.

These are but a few of the revelations, in fact, a mere outline of the report of these excavations which will be printed in illustrated form, and which is to be from press in January. In this report will be included some of the myths and also a dissertation on

S.S.S. THE CURE FOR SCROFULA

Swollen glands about the neck, weak eyes, pale, waxy complexions, running sores and ulcers, skin diseases, and general poor health, are the usual ways in which Scrofula is manifested. The disease being deeply entrenched in the blood often attacks the bones, resulting in White Swelling, or hip disease, and the scrofulous and tubercular matter so thoroughly destroys the healthful properties of the blood that Scrofula sometimes terminates in consumption, an incurable disease. The entire circulation being contaminated, the only way to cure the trouble is to thoroughly purify the blood and restore the circulation to a strong, healthy state. S. S. S. is the very best treatment for Scrofula; it renovates the entire blood supply and drives out the scrofulous and tubercular deposits. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and it not only goes right down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes the cause, but it supplies the weak, diseased blood with the healthful properties it is in need of, and in this way builds up weak, frail, scrofulous persons and makes them strong and healthy. S. S. S. is a gentle, safe, vegetable preparation and is suited for persons of any age. Book on the blood containing information about Scrofula and any medical advice free.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

the language of the remarkable Tewa Indians or pueblos, written by one of the scientists with Professor Hewett, who devoted himself entirely to this subject with the aid of the Indians who were with the party to do the manual work of excavation.

A Rito de Los Frijoles Room.

Professor Hewett has carefully restored one of the dwellings in the Frijoles even so far as to fire place, water jars, metates, meal bins, etc., to give the traveler the most graphic picture possible of the ancient civilization. For Santa Fe, itself, Professor Hewett has a more ambitious plan and that is the establishment of a Rito de los Frijoles room in the Old Palace, the foundation of a southwestern museum of archaeology. In this room, the wall decorations by the well known artist Chapman, will depict the scenes and life in the Frijoles thousands of years ago. Beneath this frieze will be placed photographs and paintings of the beautiful canon and its prehistoric ruins. Upon a large table, there is to be built a relief reproduction of the great pueblo and all around it, scientifically labelled and advantageously displayed are to be the pottery implements, the utensils, found by the party this summer. Such a room, would help to make Santa Fe world-famous, for it would have its superior nowhere; it would draw tourists like a magnet and none of those who had seen it, would want to leave it without also visiting the Pajarito Cliff Dwellers' Park. It would fascinate not only the archaeologist, the scientific student, but the American public and no traveler passing through the Southwest would fail to come to Santa Fe to view this room.

The Foremost Archaeologist of the Day.

Judge McFie made a brief address, telling that Santa Fe was a formidable candidate for the school of archaeology the only school of American archaeology that is to be established by the Archaeological Institute of which Professor Hewett is the director of American work. He spoke of the good chance that this city has of securing this school, not merely local in scope, but embracing all of America in its work. He paid a warm tribute to Professor Hewett, as a man and as a scientist, one of the foremost archaeologists in the entire world today. He was followed by Judge A. J. Abbott who also paid a high tribute to Professor Hewett and discussed plans for the future which are not ready for publication. He moved a rising vote of thanks to Professor Hewett which was unanimously tendered.

A Vigorous Organization.

Professor Hewett, in conclusion, spoke in praise of the effective work of the Archaeological Society of Santa Fe which is one of the most active societies in the United States today, it has accomplished results of which it has good reason to be proud and may accomplish triumphs that will redound to the benefit of the entire commonwealth and the scientific world.

Join the Archaeological Society. An impromptu reception followed during which the fine photographs, the graphic crayon pictures, the pottery and utensils were examined by those present and during which Professor Hewett informally discussed many matters that suggested themselves but for a review of which the New Mexican has not the place today. Quite a number of persons gave their names for membership in the Society. Harvard University shared with the Santa Fe Archaeological Society, the expense of the Rito de los Frijoles expedition in which, besides Professor Hewett, scientists and students from Harvard, Yale, Perdue, Stanford universities and other seats of learning participated and it is with Harvard that Santa Fe shares the archaeological finds and the credit for having been instrumental in making possible the truly epoch-making discoveries in the Frijoles this summer. Considering the interest and value of the work to the commonwealth planned for the future of the society, every public-spirited citizen of the territory should apply for membership an honor, which as Judge McFie, remarked on Saturday evening, may be greatly prized in future years.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON TUBERCULOSIS OPENS

Washington, Sept. 28.—A remarkable educational campaign was formally inaugurated here today in humanity's crusade against the deadly white plague by the opening of the sixth triennial international congress on tuberculosis. A more distinguished gathering has perhaps never met in the national capital. Secretary Cortelyou, as the representative of President Roosevelt, presided and extended the delegates a national welcome. Responses were made by representatives of about thirty foreign countries.
