TRIAL OF ABRAHAM RUEF IS RESUMED

Court Overrides Motion for Change of Venue

HENEY'S PLACE IS FILLED

Three Attorneys Who Volunteered Services Conducting Prosecution.

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—With Hiram Johnson, Matthew I. Sullivan and Joseph J. Dwyer, three attorneys who volunteered their services at the trial, in place of Francis J. Heney, who was shot down in the court room last Friday afternoon, the trial of Abraham Ruef on the charge of bribery was resumed before Judge Tawler today, the court having swept aside all motions and technicalities interposed to stop the progress of the trial.

James L. Gallagher, who acted as agent for Ruef in the alleged bribery transactions with the board of supervisors, was subjected to a severe cross examination by Ruef's attorneys today.

Judge Lawler admonished the jury that they were not to be influenced by the shooting of Heney, but were to be guided solely on the evidence presented. Instructions were also given the court attaches that Ruef's employees and friends were to have free access to the court room. Extraordinary precautions were taken to maintain order.

The condition of Mr. Heney continues satisfactory.

OPERA "MARTHA" A MUSICAL TREAT

Another Large Audience Grets Second Performance of Boston Ideals "Girofle-Girofia" To-Night.

The Boston Ideal Opera company, scored another distinct success with local music lovers last night when it presented "Martha" which is one of the most pretentious operas in the troupe's entire repertoire. An audience equally as large as that at the opening performance the previous evening was in attendance and indicated its appreciation with enthusiastic hand clapping and repeated encores.

The familiar music was sung with a spirit that was extremely pleasing and the flood of melody in the ensembles threatened to raise the roof. Miss Laura Moore, the pretty and petite comedienne was given opportunity in the title role to make good use of her beautiful voice, and especially in her rendition of "The Last Rose of Summer." Miss Lillian Shattuck made a decided hit with her interpretation of the part of Nancy, a maid of Lady Harriet's, and her graceful singing of the difficult arias in company with Miss Moore was one of the features of the performance.

Ed. L. Weston and F. O. Burgess, who were cast as Lionel and Plunket, were very good in their respective roles, as were also W. H. Burgess as Sir Trestam and M. G. Reyfield as the sheriff. The chorus is small but it makes up in quality and quantity of music what it lacks in numbers.

"Olivette" was sung at a matinee performance today before another good sized crowd, and "Girofle-Girofia" will be given tonight. This latter opera is also replete with pretty music and catchy lyrics.

The company will close its engagement here tomorrow night, at which time "The Chimes of Normandy" will be presented.

EXPLOSION PARTIALLY WRECKED ROY HOTEL.

Roy, N. M., Nov. 18.—The kitchen in the Kitchell hotel here was almost demolished and two people had a narrow escape from death as the result of the explosion of frozen pipes in the boiler of one of the kitchen ranges. The explosion was a terrific one and was heard all over town, and caused a panic among the guests at the hotel. The stove and another near it were demolished, the windows of the room blown out and particles of iron hurled in all directions, piercing the walls and ceiling. Mrs. William Brumage and Miss Blanche Kitchell had a miraculous escape from death as they were standing only a few feet away from the stove. When the smoke and steam cleared away and the stunned women recovered they were found to be uninjured except for badly cut and bruised faces.

PROMINENT LAWYER A CAPITAL VISITOR

E. C. Knapp, of Mountainair, in Santa Fe to Become Acquainted—Has Had Envious Career

E. C. Knapp, one of the leading citizens of Central New Mexico, and a prominent lawyer who has already attained a prominent position in law and in social life in the territory, although he has been here but a year and a half, spent today in the city on legal business.

Mr. Knapp lives at Mountainair, in a very comfortable residence and came to New Mexico for the benefit of his wife's health who needed the high altitude, a good deal of sunshine and the clear, health-giving atmosphere.

Mr. Knapp was a caller at the editorial office of the New Mexican today and talked very interestingly of how glad he and his wife were that they came to New Mexico. Mrs. Knapp is steadily improving and is today a picture of health and good looks.

Mr. Knapp is a native of New England and commenced the study of law at an early date. He graduated with honors in the law department of the celebrated Yale University at New Haven, Connecticut. He also took a course in law in the University of Pennsylvania and thereafter took a post graduate course at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, one of the best educational institutions of its kind in the country.

At Knoxville for two terms he also taught in the place of Judge Henry H. Ingersoll, who was called from the University to attend to important law business for a time. The students of the class which he taught graduated with the highest honors.

Thereafter he moved to Oklahoma with the intention of taking up some public land. He was deputy clerk of Comanche county for a while and also performed the duties of deputy treasurer, both with success and ability. He was also clerk of the Seventh judicial district court under Judge Gillett for some time and was offered another clerkship there. During that time he was also receiver of the Bank of Lawton, which had failed and in which he succeeded in saving to the depositors and stockholders 67 1/2 per cent, although the assets when he took charge of it were only five per cent. This gained him the universal respect and esteem of the people of that county. Judge Gillett also appointed him receiver of the Bank of Sibony, at Manitou, Oklahoma, in which he found the assets upon taking charge to be $1.65 and this all in pennies. Since his receivership he has managed to declare 35 per cent which has been paid to the stockholders and depositors. He hopes to bring this up to 60 per cent.

For the health of his wife during the past three years they have resided at Galveston, Chicago and Atlantic City and found no benefit for her. They then returned West and from the time they left Amarillo, Texas, and reached the New Mexico frontier the balmy atmosphere, the sunshine, the ozone and purity of the air benefited Mrs. Knapp to such an extent that she is very well today and she enjoys the great blessing of being a resident of the Sunshine Territory and living in one of the prettiest and most picturesque and attractive spots in the territory, namely Mountainair, which is on the crest of the continent, a leading point on the Eastern Railway of New Mexico to which many tourists, travelers and health-seekers are now coming.

Mr. Knapp has diplomas as a lawyer and counselor at law from three universities and no doubt will soon make a mark in legal circles in New Mexico. He expects to be here during the January session of the Supreme Court to be regularly admitted to the bar and will bring Mrs. Knapp in order to watch legislative proceedings.

SITUATION IN PEKIN CRITICAL

Political Jealousies Menace New Dynasty

PRINCE CHUN PARTIAL

Ignores Chinese in His Appointments and Names Only Manchus.

Pekin, Nov. 18.—The situation today showed no material change from yesterday, but rumors are rife of political jealousies at the royal palace. Adverse comment has been aroused by the fact that Prince Chun, regent, is ignoring all Chinese in the composition of the committees who will have the obsequies of the late Emperor and Empress in hand, all but two appointments being Manchus. This partiality threatens the new regime.

ARREST BOYS FOR ATROCIOUS MURDER

New Jersey Village Shocked by Developments in Killing of Wealthy Citizen.

Vineland, N. J., Nov. 18.—The arrest last night of Walter Zeeler, 19 years old, and Cline Wheeler, 20 years old, charged with the murder of William Read, Zeeler's grandfather, last Friday night, has caused a sensation here. Zeeler has confessed but seeks to lay the actual commission of the crime upon Wheeler. Herbert Grigg, another boy implicated in Zeeler's confession, has disappeared. Read was over 70 years old and wealthy. He was shot and beaten to death. Zeeler and Wheeler admitted that robbery was the motive for the crime.

Grigg Taken Into Custody. Philadelphia, Nov. 18.—Charged with being an accomplice in the murder of William Read, Herbert Grigg was arrested at the home of relatives in this city today. He denied his connection with the murder.

EHLE AND MONTENIE DISPOSE OF THE SMOKER.

Business changes seem to be the order of the day in Santa Fe just now. Yesterday another deal was closed whereby The Smoker, opened some months ago by Ehle and Montenie, on San Francisco street, was sold to C. D. McCarley, of Willard. The purchase price was not made public.

Mr. McCarley, the new proprietor, came to New Mexico about six months ago from Morganfield, Kentucky, and went into business at Willard. During a visit to the capital recently he became impressed with its future prospects for growth and advancement and determined to get into business here. After looking about he opened negotiations with Messrs. Ehle and Montenie with the above result.

The Smoker will be conducted under its present name and at its present location.

WILHELM ILFELD JOIN3 SILENT MAJORITY

Head of Family of Six Brothers, Five of Whom Came to New Mexico.

Wilhelm Ilfeld, the oldest member of the well-known Ilfeld family, wholesale merchants and bankers in New Mexico, passed away at his home in Hamburg, Germany, yesterday as the result of a severe attack of pneumonia.

He was 69 years of age and had visited this territory several times. He was the oldest of the six brothers who are now residing in New Mexico and of whom Charles is the oldest and the head of the extensive Ilfeld Mercantile company at Las Vegas, one of the largest business concerns in the territory. The other brothers are Luis, Noah and Bernard, all residents of Albuquerque and engaged in sheep raising and merchandising.

Charles Ilfeld came to New Mexico thirty-five years ago and engaged in mercantile business first in Santa Fe and then in Las Vegas. One of the brothers who also came at that time, Herman Ilfeld, lived twenty years in this city and died here about twenty years ago. Noah, Luis and Bernard Ilfeld are all in the city of Albuquerque and are well known residents there.

The remains of Wilhelm Ilfeld were buried in the Hipo cemetery at Hamburg.

NEW LAND OFFICE REGISTER QUALIFIES.

Judge Thomas C. Tillotson, one of the oldest settlers in southeastern New Mexico, who served as probate judge and in other official capacities in what is now Chaves, Eddy, Otero and Roosevelt counties, and which was then Lincoln, and who owns a very fine fruit ranch on the Lower Pecos, has qualified as register of the United States land office at Roswell, vice Howard Leland, deceased. Judge Tillotson is one of the best known citizens of that section and is highly respected and liked. In addition he is a strong and hard-working Republican. The New Mexican feels from its knowledge of Judge Tillotson that he will give full satisfaction in the performance of the duties of his office.

LABOR LEADERS DINE AT WHITE HOUSE

Guests of President at Significant State Function—Important Questions Discussed.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Subjecting his guests, who were representatives of many of the leading labor organizations of this country, to a rapid fire of questions, President Roosevelt last night at a dinner given by him at the White House, endeavored to find out what labor wants from congress, and in what way he could be of assistance to the toilers of the country.

Although the dinner began at 8 o'clock, it was almost midnight before the gathering broke up.

While the President did not commit himself to any of the propositions submitted by the various labor leaders present, it was learned that he sought a full expression of sentiment from all of them. Labor's attitude on various questions were reiterated, it is said, and the President listened interestedly to each argument presented. No set speeches were made, the President merely rising and explaining to his guests after the last course had been served, that he had brought them together for an interchange of views on public questions.

AZTEC IS NOW A "DRY" TOWN

Judge McFie Sustains Legal Power of Town Board to Prohibit Sale of Liquor There.

During the recent term of the district court of San Juan county, Judge John R. McFie rendered a decision in the case of the town of Aztec versus Leonard Boat, in which he holds that the authorities of the town had the power and authority under the law to regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors and even to prohibit their sale entirely within the town limits.

The defendants brought suit against the town board of the town of Aztec to test the authority of the said town board in prohibiting the sale of liquor within the town limits. The case was brought before the Justice of the Peace of the precinct and by stipulation was carried to the district court. The decision is strongly in accordance with the law and also for the best interests of the town. The people of Aztec favor prohibition and their will should control. The law gives them the right to do so.

There was no important business before the court, the cases being mostly civil. Crime is scarce in San Juan county which contains a very orderly and peaceful population. The court has adjourned and Judge McFie and the court officials have returned to the city.

GREW-OME MURDER TRIAL NEARS CLOSE

State Expects to Finish Introduction of Testimony in Gunness Case By Saturday.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 18.—Associated Counsel Sutherland, of the state's attorney's office, announced today that the state would not use all the witnesses subpoenaed in the Lamphere trial because it was felt that certain propositions had already been fully established and further evidence along these lines would be superfluous.

"We have proved beyond a doubt that Mrs. Gunness is dead and that it was her body which was found in the ruins of the fire which destroyed her home with the bodies of her three children," said Sutherland. "We have also introduced a lot of evidence to prove that threats were made against Mrs. Gunness by Lamphere. Lamphere's setting fire to the house will next be shown. We expect to finish our evidence by Saturday."

The man is suffering from a badly fractured skull, the result of an encounter on election day with one Juan Romero, also of Pecos. It is said that the two men became engaged in an argument and that Romero struck Lucero on the head with a slung-shot. An operation will be performed on Lucero and efforts will be made by the surgeons to remove some splinters against the brain. It is believed that Lucero will ultimately recover, although he is quite seriously injured.

Denver, Nov. 18.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor today, on recommendation of President Samuel Gompers, authorized him to appoint a committee of three to make an effort to bring about harmonious relations between the two unions of railroad carmen, employed in building and repairing cars.

The report of the committee on the celebration of the centennial of the birth of Abraham Lincoln directed the executive committee to take in the celebration and do all in its power to have congress declare February 12 a legal holiday. The report was adopted unanimously.

Max Hayes, of the International Typographical Union, by unanimous consent introduced a resolution calling on the federal government to remedy the conditions surrounding the unemployed of the country.

SON IS CUT OFF WITH FIVE DOLLARS

Denver Man Dies and Leaves Wife and Daughter a Fortune of $40,000.

Eugene McCarthy, county commissioner of Denver, who died recently, left an estate of $40,000 to his wife and daughter and cut his son off with five dollars.

McCarthy died October 28th last, and was so weak a day or two before his death that he could hardly scrawl his last will and testament and sign it, but he succeeded in doing so and left his property, consisting of real estate, personal property and life insurance, to his wife, Mrs. Anastacia McCarthy, and half to his daughter, Ester.

The will was probated in the probate court of Arapahoe county and approved by the court. Young McCarthy and his dead father during the latter's life did not get along well and the old man settled the affair by leaving his son nothing.

Mrs. McCarthy and daughter were east at the time of the death of their husband and father for the benefit of the health of the latter. The son was wild and he and his father had many differences.

NEW MEXICO UNIVERSITY WEEKLY NEWS LETTER.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 18.—Among the many needs of the University, that of an addition to the dormitories is making itself most felt. There are several students who are unable to find rooms in the men's dormitory and who in consequence have had to have rooms fitted up in the basement of the Administration building. Three students are occupying some suites that are intended for two only. The institution's growth in numbers in the last few years is largely due to the improved facilities for caring for students from towns and districts outside of Albuquerque. But this growth will be hindered greatly unless some relief for the over-crowded condition of the dormitories is found.

The football game between the Military Institute and the University last Friday resulted in a score of 16 to 12 in favor of the University. This was the first athletic contest ever engaged in between the two institutions. It is hoped now since relationships have thus begun, yearly contests will continue. The University boys express themselves as well pleased with the treatment accorded them. In the evening a reception was given them at the Commercial Club of Roswell.

At the meeting of the New Mexico Educational Association, to be held at Albuquerque, December 28-30, the High School and College section will hold its annual session. The following program has been prepared:

1. Rhetoricals in High Schools and Preparatory Departments, Professor John H. Crum of the University.

2. Science in the High School Curriculum, Miss Una Bedichek of the Roswell High School.

3. Time Required for Students for study and Recreation, Dr. W. E. Garrison of the Agricultural College.

4. Reply to the Recent Criticisms of the Public Schools, Miss Anna Bradbury of the Albuquerque High School.

5. The Social Side in Secondary Education, Principal Rufus Mead of the East Las Vegas High School.

The library has recently added to its collection about 250 volumes. Many of these were selected by the Professors in charge of departments for special work. Three valuable sets have greatly increased the facilities of the reference library—Garnett and Grouse, English Literature, 4 volumes; Moulton's Library of Literary Criticism, 8 volumes; Reed's Modern Eloquence, 15 volumes.

The library is endeavoring to build up a collection of books on the history of New Mexico. To this end several purchases have been made including the following:

Bandelier, A. F. Contributions to the history of the Southwestern portion of the U. S.

Bandelier, A. F. Historical introduction to students of the Sedentary Indians of New Mexico.

Bandelier, A. F. Final report of investigations among the Indians of the Southwestern U. S., 1880-85, 2 volumes.

Bartlett, J. R. Personal narratives, 1854. 2 volumes.

days ago. Mr. Hines and his young son were engaged in sinking a well and had reached a depth of 45 feet. The boy was down in the well filling the bucket, while the older man worked the windlass.

In attempting to swing off the loaded bucket, Hines stumbled, and only saved himself from falling into the well by grasping the windlass frame in such a manner that his body was in the direct path of the handle, which the descending bucket caused to revolve with terrific speed. Hanging in that perilous position, the man received blow after blow, which nearly crushed the life out of him, while the younger man below was in imminent danger of instant death from the falling bucket.

When the bucket had reached within 12 feet of the bottom, the windlass lurched over in such a way as to bind the rope and the falling load was stopped. Mr. Hines, although badly injured in the shoulder and back, was able to summon assistance, and the man in the well was rescued from his uncomfortable quarters. The lurching of the windlass doubtless saved the lives of both.

HUMORIST'S ODD GRAMMAR.
Captain Derby Provided Literally For Figurative Expression.
Among the pieces which made up the quaint output of Captain Derby, whose too early death deprived America of one of the most original humorists, was one entitled "A New System of English Grammar." It seems never to have attracted much attention; but, though there are in the volume containing it articles more broadly amusing, there are none in which wit and wisdom are more fully blended. After the lapse of years the exact words and the particular illustrations employed escape me in part, but the line of reasoning adopted will not vary materially from what is about to be given.
The humorist proposed to have all descriptions and epithets marked on a sufficient scale of comparison—not the beggarly three to which we are now limited, but to a number large enough to indicate every variation of character in the object under consideration and every possible degree of human conception in regard to its nature. The lowest conceivable amount of any human quality consistent with its being at all would be indicated by 1. Its maximum would be represented by 100. Here, then, would be a wide range between the perfection of the idea expressed by the one number and its bare existence merely implied by the other, as well as the feelings of the speaker about it, in which all shades of thought and feeling would be fittingly represented. By prefixing to each epithet a figure between 1 and 100 the precise truth in regard to it as it appears to him uttering it would be conveyed to him hearing it. For example, you are asked about your health. Instead of replying pretty well, tolerably well, very well or some other ambiguous expression, you would say, bearing in mind that 100 indicates perfect health, I am 15, or 50, or 75, or 90 well, or any other number, as the case may be. By this means the inquirer learns definitely what he wants to know. He has not been put off with formulas of speech whose general applicability to different conditions of bodily health conveys nothing precise to the mind. The moment this method of expression comes into general use we shall speedily become exact, mathematical, truth telling in the highest degree.
How well the rule would work can be best illustrated by the narrative of a simple incident of news communicated by a man to his friend in some such words as these:
"On a 76 fine morning I was 55 slowly walking down the 33 clean avenue when I chanced to meet the 22 young and 85 charming Miss Smith, about whom you ask. We at once exchanged the 91 usual meteorological observation. 'It is a 76 beautiful day,' I remarked. 'Indeed, it is a 95 beautiful day,' she replied, 'and I am 97 glad to have met you, for it is a 99 long time since I have seen you.' I felt 77 flattered by words like these coming from a 79 lovely girl, but proceeded to make the 71 usual inquiries about her health, for I knew that on that point you had been 89 anxious. She told me in reply that it had been 78 poor, but she was 100 glad to say that it was now 87 good."—Professor J. E. Louis-bury in Harper's Magazine.

A Large Salary.
Mr. X., a prominent lawyer of Philadelphia, was much addicted to the habit of lecturing his office staff, and the office boy came in for an unusual share of admonition whenever occasion demanded and sometimes when it did not. That his words were appreciated was made quite evident to Mr. X. one day when a conversation overheard on the elevator between Tommy and another office boy on the same floor was repeated to him.
"Whatcher wages?" asked the other boy.
"I get $10,000 a year," said Tommy.

Blenheim.
A very "famous victory" was that of Blenheim, which is our corruption of Blindheim, the village on the upper Danube where John Churchill won his dukedom, his magnificent palace in Oxfordshire and his yearly pension of £5,000. This is still enjoyed by his heir, the present Duke of Marlborough, who annually places a French fleur-de-lis flag over the bust of his ancestor in the guardroom of Windsor castle, the condition of his tenure of the estate of Blenheim.—London Answers.

The Comparative Method.
Theodore had twice been sent to wash his hands and was now returning for the second inspection.
"My child," said his mother, comparing the two hands critically, "your right is just as dirty as your left. What have you been doing all this time?"
"W.L., mamma," explained the youth, "last time you said that my left hand was cleaner than my right, so I tried to make them even. I'll go again."—Youth's Companion.

Her Regret.
The Nobleman—You bought me—bought me as you would buy a hat. The Heiress—Yes, and what I'm core about now is that I neglected to wait for my change.—Cleveland Leader.

Chagrin.
Lonie—Uncle, what's the chagrin? Uncle—Well, it's what a stout man feels when he runs and jumps on a car that doesn't start for half an hour.—Chicago News.

Success is the child of audacity.—Disraeli.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for circulars free.

The Bon Ton restaurant is now under the management of Hugh F. DuVal, who has bought out the interest of John V. Conway. Colds and Croup in Children.
"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. William H. Serig, No. 41, Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and as a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

GREAT COST OF THE INDEPENDENCE PARTY VOTE.

Votes of the Independence party come high but in some of the states they had to have them and they secured them at a great expense. In the Sunflower State which cast about 300,000 votes at the recent election the entire number of votes for the Independence party footed up 60 and those cast the state and the Hearst Independence party national committee a good deal of money, but Mr. Hearst said the Independence party must be recognized and as he has plenty of money and his mother has millions he secured votes for Candidate Hisgen whom he nominated as the party candidate for the presidency.

The Kansas City Journal, which is well posted on Kansas affairs and a reliable paper, gives a very interesting and humorous account of the cost of the Hearst-Hisgen Independence party vote in that state, remarking that the returns from Kansas show that it cost about $30 each for the votes that were cast for the Independence ticket in the recent election. It appears that only sixty votes were cast for Hisgen in the entire state, and it has been declared that even Colonel Ed. S. Waterbury, state chairman of the Hearst campaign, did not vote for his party's candidate for the presidency. In Wyandotte county where 17,000 votes were cast the Hearst candidate received twenty, and the remainder of the total of sixty Hearst votes were scattered over the state wherever there happened to be men who wanted to throw away their ballots.

The placing of the Independence ticket in the field cost the state of Kansas about $2,000. But it was not in money wasted that the principal nuisance of this Hearst movement consisted. The official ballot in Kansas, as elsewhere, was large and confusing even to intelligent voters. The total time and inconvenience involved in the increase of the ballot by adding the Hisgen electors was enormous throughout the state. The returns from other states show that the Hisgen vote was a mere political joke, but because Hearst insisted upon the country taking his movement seriously this extra expense and annoyance had to be borne. It cost the taxpayers of the United States something over $100,000 to give this tribute to Hearst's egotism. Another presidential ticket that was foisted upon the public and for which the taxpayers had to "put up" was the Socialist Labor ticket, which was even more of a jest than the Hearst ticket. Most of the voters in the land knew who the candidate for the Independence ticket was, but probably not one in a thousand could have told the name of the man running for the presidency on the Socialist Labor ticket.

It is evident from this showing that in any general plan of reforming the ballot some way must be found to keep political shysters from forcing themselves upon the official ballot. It is desirable that all political parties formed and maintained in good faith, with a bona fide organization of respectable size, should have a place upon the ballot. The Republicans and the Democrats have no right to monopolize the ballot, and the monopoly would not be desirable if they had the right. The Socialists, and in some instances other independent parties, should be permitted to ask for the suffrage of the people without prejudice. But a way should be found of limiting ballot representation to legitimate political organizations. The returns indicate that the people take only the slightest interest in Mr. Hearst's personal ambitions and he should either join with another party or show cause—and good cause, too—why he should not be denied the privilege of confusing the ballot and mulcting the taxpayers to the tune of hundreds of thousands of dollars for his own exploitation.

BENEFICIAL REPUBLICAN SHAKE-UP IN MISSOURI.

Governor-elect Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri, will have lots to do immediately after his inauguration. He has more patronage at his command than any previous governor of Missouri. The Democratic legislature of 1907, sure that a Democratic governor would be elected, created many fat offices which will now be filled by the first Republican governor in thirty-five years and the Democratic ring is desperate. However, laws are laws and Governor Hadley will execute them faithfully and energetically, regardless of the wishes of the Democratic bosses.

One of the softest snaps under the new governor will be the officers to be appointed to the state banking bureau which the Democratic gangsters under the present state Democratic administration and in the 1907 legislature thought they would gobble for themselves. The banking bureau will be a very important branch of the state government, and will take about half of the fees away from the office of the Democratic secretary of state which is today and was for many years one of the softest and best paying ones in the state and now these fees will go to a Republican chief of the banking bureau and naturally the Democratic bosses are very unhappy and very much wrought up.

Among other nice places which will be taken from the Democratic politicians and members of the Democratic state ring who have sucked the blood out of the taxpayers of Missouri and have waxed fat and rich in easy offices will be those of excise commissioner and coal oil inspector in St. Louis, the election boards of St. Louis and Kansas City, oil inspectorships in some of the other larger cities like Springfield, Joplin and Sedalia, and the professional and business staffs of the various institutions of the state. Appointments to the police boards of the cities carry more power than pay.

At the state capital the appointive offices to be filled by the governor include the warden of the penitentiary, state superintendent of insurance, state supervisor of building and loan associations, adjutant general, pardon attorney and private secretary.

Verily this shaking up will do Missouri great good and will relieve the people from a mass of officials who have simply drawn pay, made all possible fees, legal or illegal, and have had a fine time for a third of a decade in the old commonwealth. It will be very refreshing and very acceptable to the patriotic and good citizens who elected young Herbert S. Hadley to the governorship of their state because they have found him a true and honorable man, because he has proved himself a very successful and able and fearless lawyer and because they were convinced of his honesty and integrity of purpose, his competency and attainments to make them a first-class governor and to give the state an era of reform and integrity in public affairs which it needs very much now and which has been denied it for all these long years under Democratic misrule. The people of Missouri, the best class of citizens, the property owners, the business men, the intelligent classes, the hardy farmers and livestock raisers builded well indeed for their future benefit, prosperity and well-being when they elected Herbert S. Hadley to be their governor for four years from January 1, 1909.

PUSH THE STATEHOOD CAUSE.

The Socorro Chieftain is of the opinion that no time should be lost in commencing an active and aggressive statehood campaign. This is in accordance with the views of this journal and the New Mexican is glad to welcome the Chieftain, which is a bright and patriotic paper, to the links of the active and insistent statehood advocates.

The more the newspapers of New Mexico will advance the plan and the more they will publish editorials in favor of statehood, the better for the situation and the quicker will statehood be obtained.

Delegate Andrews is already in Washington and will push the statehood bill now pending with a few additional amendments. No time should be lost and the people one and all, regardless of politics, regardless of political factions should lend a helping hand and push the statehood bill along.

The Socorro Chieftain pertinently says:

"The Republican leaders of the territory should get together at once and start an energetic movement toward securing statehood at the approaching session of congress. Mr. Andrews stated during the campaign that he was very positive that if elected he would get statehood at the short session of the present congress and he was supported in the statement by every one of the prominent Republicans of the territory who took an active part in the campaign. The statement came very near being a promise. It was made in perfect good faith in spite of Democratic insinuations to the contrary, and no stone should now be left unturned to show once more the utter folly and futility of Democratic predictions."

William R. Hearst, leader of the Independence party in the recent campaign, has called at the White House and paid his respects to President Roosevelt. The press dispatches did not say how cordial his reception was. The chances are that it was formal. Oil and water do not mix well.

THE CHINESE SITUATION.

China has a new regent who will in due course of time no doubt be crowned emperor of the vast country known as China and who in all probability will continue to have his predecessors on the Imperial throne of the yellow empire done for six or seven thousand years.

It is not likely that there will be any serious interference on the part of European powers in the incoming Imperial administration in the land of the Manderians and peacock feathers. The great European nations which years ago took great parts of China as their property have not indulged in that policy of robbery of late. They are watching each other with jealous eyes and will allow no more land stealing.

The Denver Rocky Mountain News, discusses the Chinese condition editorially in a very able article and puts the situation in a clear and correct light as follows:

"Important changes will undoubtedly follow the sudden deaths of the emperor and dowager empress of China, but there is little to indicate that a dissolution of the ancient empire will be one of them. The nations of the world want peace, and an attempt to divide China would produce a dangerous friction. Japan will undoubtedly endeavor to increase its influence in the course of the Celestials and will succeed to an appreciable extent, but the diplomats of Europe and America may be dependent upon to protect the interests of their nations.

"Under the new regime we may witness the much-talked-of awakening of China, but he would be a bold prophet who would attempt to forecast the result.

"The attitude of the United States under the circumstances is highly commendable and will undoubtedly result in still further strengthening the friendship which has existed between this country and China. We have no designs on Chinese territory. We merely wish to be admitted to her markets on the most favorable terms. It therefore behooves us to insist on the square deal."

San Francisco dispatches state that Francis J. Heney, assistant prosecuting attorney in the Rueff bribery cases, who was shot and dangerously wounded a few days ago, in the court room by a witness, is on the high road to recovery. Either the first dispatch was a fib or the last one is a moonshine tale, as the shooting happened but six days ago and as he is getting well already the wound could not have been very dangerous. In the meantime the would-be assassin shot and dispatched himself to the happy hunting grounds of criminals thus saving the county in which San Francisco is located considerable expense. It is really an ill wind that blows nobody any good.

The convention of the American Federation of Labor which has been in session in Denver for several days and the delegates to which had a very good time, does not want much, provided one looks at it in the way the delegates do. The convention has passed strong resolutions demanding the exclusion of all Asiatics from Uncle Sam's domain and demands that Woman suffrage be established all over the United States and that free school books for all school children be furnished by the state. There is one thing that is commendable in this action of the convention and that is when it sees anything that it wants it makes no bones about asking for it.

The Gallup Enterprise is among the latest newspaper ventures in the Sunshine Territory. It is Democratic in politics and announces that it proposes to fight steadily for the party or rather the combine that nominated that eminent tax dodger, bitter enemy of public schools and opponent of statehood, Octaviano A. Larrazolo, who claims to be a descendant of the Spanish kings, for delegate to congress. The town of Gallup may support two papers but it is doubtful. The McKinley County Republican is a good, live and wide-awake paper and with the present population of the county seat of McKinley county it seems ample to fill the bill.

The El Paso Herald advocates the consideration of the confederation of western communities in Texas for protection and for their own best interests. The advice is good. To an outsider, however, it looks like a very difficult problem. It is generally very hard to get any two towns to work together and it will be much harder to get a dozen or so, especially in Western Texas, where towns and citizens have a very well defined habit of looking out for themselves and acting upon the old adage, "The Devil take the hindmost."

Chun, the new regent of the empire of China, is no slouch. Although he assumed the reigns of government but a day or two ago and the dead emperor and the dead empress are hardly deposited in their tombs, he is showing the yellow skinned Celestials that he is boss and that those who disobey or disregard his edicts are promptly beheaded. Regent Chun will evidently stand no monkeying.

The Saving Habit

If you are thrifty, you have some of your money left over. The extra money is the foundation for future riches, if you will only persistently save it. What if it does only amount to a few dimes or nickels a day—there are going to be a great many days in your life and these dimes and nickels will grow into a good large sum. The opportunity may come, when a few hundred dollars might change your whole financial condition; Might mean buying an interest in some growing business; Might give you a chance to grasp your next opportunity.

AND WHAT IS THE USE OF ALL THIS?

Why it just means making a man of you.
Making you free to do as you wish.

Spanish Beggars.

Spanish beggars do not think it necessary to conceal their cigars when asking alms. Smoking is considered as necessary as breathing to every human being out of the cradle.

Split Hairs.

A hair which is split at the end has ceased to grow. All split hairs should be cut off for several inches to make them healthy. Singeing is better than cutting, but one must be experienced before attempting the latter method.

A Mahogany Cement.

Melt four ounces of beeswax and add an ounce of Indian red and enough yellow ochre to produce the required tint. Use enough to fill up holes and cracks in the mahogany.

Columbus Brought Cards.

Christopher Columbus introduced cards into America in 1492. On the quarter deck of the Santa Maria he used to play the stately game of ombre, a favorite among princes, nobles and courtiers, with its Spanish name, el hombre (the man), and the Spanish terms spadille, Manille, punto, mator, bastro, gano del rey and codilla.

Mine Water.

The quantity of sulphuric acid in mine water varies according to the district and condition of the mine. Some mine water has been found to contain only a few grains, while the water in other workings often contains over a hundred grains a gallon.

The Japanese.

The Japanese are small eaters, and indigestion is almost unknown among them. They eat slowly, as well as sparingly, and chiefly of plain, nourishing food.

The Greyhound.

The greyhound seems to have been developed in level, treeless and shrubless countries, where a moving object is visible at a long distance, and great speed is therefore necessary to enable a predaceous animal to overtake its prey.

The Aeolian Harp.

The aeolian harp was the invention, it is believed, of Athanasius Kircher, who lived in the seventeenth century.

Cats of Heliopolis.

The cat was considered a sacred animal by the ancient inhabitants of Heliopolis, Egypt. When one of these animals died in a private residence, the occupants shaved off their eyebrows.

African Pygmies.

The pygmies of Africa are rarely heavier than ninety pounds.

Live Spokes.

In order to have "live spokes" newly sawed timber must be well racked up and laid in the open air one year to the inch to season. The average automobile spoke requires a two inch piece of timber. That means two years of idle lumber.

The Letter Q.

Q is the letter O with a tail; hence its name, which comes from the French queue, a tail.

The Spanish Navy.

Only once in their history as a nation have the Spanish achieved a naval victory. That was at the battle of Lepanto, in 1571, when, with the aid of Venetians and Genoese, they annihilated the Turkish fleet.

Up in a Balloon.

The occupants of a balloon a mile high command a radius of ninety-six miles.

The American Beauty.

The American Beauty rose originated in the conservatories of the White House. The first of the species was a freak flower, and the intelligent gardener saw that he had a "find" and cultivated the plant.

How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability one that has an established reputation and that is certain to affect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world-wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which always shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

CHICAGO & RETURN.

GO TO WILLARD, NEW MEXICO.

THE LIVE COMMERCIAL CITY OF THE ESTANCIA VALLEY.

THE CITY OF WILLARD destined to be the COUNTY SEAT of Torrance County New Mexico was laid out in the fall of 1905. It is now a thriving city of nearly 1000 inhabitants. It lies on the main line of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway system, running east and west from Chicago to all California points and the Santa Fe Central Railway running from Santa Fe, N. M., in close connection with the Denver and Rio Grande and the Rock Island System. Surprising Semple.

By WILLIAM F. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1907, by P. C. Eastment.

"Mrs. Greer will look after the canary, but you will surely look after the plants, won't you?" pleaded Mrs. Semple. "Those plants are such beauties it would be a pity to have them die."

"They won't," assured Semple. "One plant to each plant. I remember."

"You're a dear!" she exclaimed. "It's awfully good of you, Ned, to let me go when you won't even have a teeny vacation yourself. I feel almost ashamed of myself leaving you all alone in the hot city."

"You have the time of your life," ordered Semple. "I'll be all right. Don't you worry about me."

"I have such a surprise for you," she said, smiling through the tears that filmed her eyes. "I want you to write and tell me just how you like it."

"What's the surprise? I'll bet it's a cat."

"Better than that and not half the trouble," she declared.

"There's my train being called. It's a shame they will not let you pass the gate. Kiss me again, dear, and do be careful of yourself."

Ned Semple kissed her not once, but half a dozen times. He worshiped this dainty little woman who had lifted him out of bachelorhood and boarding houses and had made home a bit of paradise on earth. He hated to give her up for a whole six weeks, but he could not get away from town himself, and she needed the rest and change.

He waited until the train pulled out of the station and went back to the hot and stuffy office. It was no hardship to work when he worked for her, and there were certain deals that could not be neglected. If these deals went through they would both go to Europe next year, and the occasional problem of where the money for bills was to be found would be solved.

He remained at the office later than usual to make up for the time he had lost over their last lunch together. The occasional charwoman only made the desolation of the huge office building seem more pronounced. The elevators stopped at 8, and it was after 9 when he descended interminable flights of steps, and the sense of depression grew upon him.

In the street the open cars whizzed past crowded with tired workers who found in the speeding trolleys the breeze that could not be coaxed into their stuffy rooms. Whole families filled some of the cross benches, and Semple thought regretfully of how only two nights before he and Alida had taken a ride in the cool of the evening, going clear to the end of the run and stopping at the restaurant for a bite to eat.

He did not feel hungry tonight, though he had had no dinner. He left the car at his corner and crept up the stairs to his apartment.

By this time he was thoroughly blue, and the darkness of the place crowned his misery. As he opened the hall door he seemed to hear her voice call a cheery "Good evening, dear. I hope you had an easy day. Did you?"

Could it be possible, he asked himself, that Alida had come back? She might be hiding in one of the closets. He lighted the gas in every room, but he could find no trace of her save in the orderly neatness which worked all for his comfort.

He went back to the parlor and puffed thoughtfully at his pipe. In his low nervous state but one explanation of the phenomenon was suggested. Alida was dead, and in her love she had come to greet him. So thoroughly wrought up did he become that he telephoned the railroad company to ask if the train had been wrecked.

The response did not seem to soothe his ruffled feelings if it did reassure his anxiety, and at last he went to bed, only to toss restlessly. Sleep did not come until absolute physical exhaustion closed his eyes.

It seemed scarcely five minutes before the alarm clock rang, and he dragged himself out of bed. Alida had left coffee and crackers and condensed milk in the house, and he sipped a cup of coffee while he searched the morning paper for news of a wreck.

He could find nothing of the sort, and at last he started for the office.

As he opened the door Alida's voice rang in his ears again: "Goodby, dear. I hope you have luck today."

It was what she always said, and, although it did not sound exactly like her voice, there was no mistaking certain tricks of speech. He hastily closed the door and hurried down the steps. There was a telegraph office at the corner, and he sent a telegram asking her to wire her safe arrival. In the office building was the booth of another company, and he sent a second dispatch. She was not due at her destination for a full two hours yet, and he could not hope to receive a message before noon, but he paced the office impatiently, unable to concentrate his attention upon anything except the lagging hands of the clock.

At last the blue uniformed boy appeared with a yellow envelope and departed richer by a half dollar tip. He was back in an hour with another message that ran: "Both telegrams received. Telegraphed upon arrival. Of course nothing is the matter."

The assurance brought contentment, and that afternoon Semple put through an important deal. In his elation he dined at their favorite restaurant, and it was late when he reached home. The same ghostly voice greeted him and dashed his pleasure. He moodily smoked his pipe until late, and the unusual allowance of tobacco wrought further havoc upon his tired nerves.

The natural result was a dream in which he vividly saw Alida swathed in bandages, alternately calling to him and begging the attendants not to let him know her peril lest it interfere with the consummation of his plans.

It was clear that in her longing for him her spirit projected itself through space and that same self denial which had led her to keep back the news of her danger led her to give the old familiar greeting and farewell. Her spirit must be in the room.

On the way to the office he telegraphed her that he knew something must be wrong and that unless he received definite information at once he would leave on the next train.

The answer was a dual one. In addition to a long telegram his chum Ben Bradley put in an appearance. Bradley fenced for awhile with small talk, but at last he came to the point.

"Do you feel all right, old man?" he asked anxiously. "I had a wire from your wife. She seemed to think something was wrong."

"I am all right," said Semple wearily. "I've been nervous and dispirited and I got imagining things, I guess."

He could not tell even Bradley what he feared, but he was at last convinced that all was well with Alida, and he was content.

Bradley turned up after office hours that evening and carried him off to dinner. "Mrs. Bradley is visiting friends in the country today," he explained, "and I need company. I'll come around to your apartments afterward, and we'll have a good old time chat."

Semple brightened visibly at the suggestion, and when at last they reached home he opened the door confidently. His face went ghastly white as the voice floated out upon the air. He turned to see if Bradley had heard.

Bradley stood there with a smile upon his face. "That's a great idea. Isn't it?" was his surprising comment. "What's an idea?" asked Semple vaguely.

"Why, that phonograph," explained Bradley. "It's a German invention to be used in stores. When the door opens the phonograph announces the bargains of the day. A little alteration fixed this one so that the two messages could be given, one in the morning and the other when you came home. I was telling Mrs. Semple about it the night she was over to see my wife, and she had it fixed up as a surprise for you. I bet it was a starter, wasn't it?"

"It was," said Semple dryly, wondering how near to insanity he had been. "It was a decided surprise." Then he added to himself, "Now that I know it's going to be a comfort too."

The Dry Falls of Lodore.

Southey's description of Lodore has given to that charming friend of holiday days a reputation which is a little unfortunate. It has brought to its course worshippers from afar, when there has not been a cupful of water to perform as much as the meanness of feats which the poet describes. One such visitor was an American. He had seen Niagara again and again. He read Southey on the wonders of Lodore and once more visited the vast cataract of his native land. Then, feeling that, after all, Niagara must be very small potatoes compared with the falls of which the poet had sung, he came to England in quest of Lodore, resolved to consecrate his holiday to the contemplation of its beauties and grandeur. He set out the moment he reached Keswick and long walked and toiled over rocks and bowlders. He could not find the falls. He rested and asked a native, "Can you direct me to the falls of Lodore?" "Why, you're a settin' on 'em," was the heartbreaking answer. The falls of all the adjectives were dry!—St. James' Gazette.

Our Flight Through Space.

Vega is the star toward which our sun is ceaselessly rushing through the infinite regions of space, carrying the earth and all of the other planets with him. Though we are pursuing this journey at the speed of eleven miles a second, so that at the end of each day we are almost 1,000,000 miles nearer the star than we were at the beginning, yet at least 1,000,000 years will elapse before we overtake and drift past this great sun. Were the life of man on earth not so short, how wonderfully would he see the face of the heavens change as he passed through our universe of stars. The Great Dipper, the Northern Cross and even the Milky Way itself would appear to take new forms as he passed on and viewed them from a different direction, and as he drew near the blue star Vega, a sun enormously larger and hotter than our own, it would shine out with extraordinary brilliancy.

To the Point.

In a Tennessee court an old colored woman was put on the witness stand to tell what she knew about the annihilation of a hog by a railway train.

Being sworn, she was asked if she had seen the train kill the hog in question.

"Yes, sah, I seed it."

"Then," said counsel, "tell the court in as few words as possible just how it occurred."

"Yo' honor," responded the old lady. "I shore kin tell yo' in a few words. It jes' tooted an' tuck him."—Cleveland Leader.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

The skin is an index to the quality of the blood. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, pimples, rashes, eruptions, etc., show that some unhealthy humor or acid impurity is diseasing and corrupting the circulation, so that instead of supplying nourishment and strength to the fine, delicate tissues of the skin, it is continually pouring out its acid and unhealthy accumulations. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may relieve some of the itching and other discomfort caused by skin troubles, and for this reason should be used, but such treatment cannot reach the humor-laden blood, and therefore cannot cure. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., a purely vegetable preparation, is the best and quickest remedy. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes and removes the acids, impurities and humors, thoroughly purifies the circulation and permanently cures skin diseases of every kind. When S. S. S. has driven the humors and impurities from the blood, and cooled and cleansed the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with rich, healthful blood and the trouble cured, as the cause has been removed. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Governor George Curry returned this morning from El Paso, Texas, where he had been on personal affairs. His southern trip benefited his health very much and he feels refreshed and strengthened.

Major and Mrs. Clark M. Carr, who have been on a visit to the Capital City, returned yesterday to Albuquerque. They made the trip to and from Albuquerque in an automobile and enjoyed their outing immensely.

Governor George Curry, Adjutant General A. P. Tarkington and Colonel E. C. Abbott are among those who have accepted invitations to be present and make addresses on the occasion of the formal dedication of the new National Guard armory and convention hall at Albuquerque, which will take place on Thursday night. They will go to the Duke City tomorrow morning.

Dr. Frank E. Tull, physician and oculist of Albuquerque, who has attained a good reputation in his profession and who is a graduate of a high standing medical college in Chicago, spent the day in the city a guest at the Claire on professional business.

Several Santa Feans whose eyes needed attention asked the doctor to come to this city for examination and treatment and he was kept quite busy. Dr. Tull says that he is doing very well in his profession in Albuquerque and he is very glad he made the change from the old Illinois town to his new home. He is favorably impressed with Santa Fe and expects to come here and make monthly or bi-monthly visits as his professional practice may require.

Facts About The Great Majestic Range

It is the only range in the world made of Malleable and Charcoal Iron.

It has, beyond any question of a doubt, the largest and best reservoir.

It uses about half the fuel used on other ranges, and does better work by far.

The Majestic All Copper Nickle-plated Reservoir heats the water quicker and hotter than any other. It is the only reservoir with a removable frame.

The Charcoal Iron Body of the Great Majestic Range lasts three times as long as a steel body.

Being made of non-breakable material, there is practically no expense for repairing the Majestic.

As for baking, it is perfection; not only for a few months, but for all time to come.

A Great Majestic Range last three times as long as a cheap range, but it don't cost three times as much.

PROOF—We don't ask you to take our word for any of the above statements, but if you will call at our store, a man from the factory where Majestic Ranges are made, will prove to your satisfaction that these are absolute facts, and will show you many more reasons why the Great Majestic Range is absolutely the best that money can buy.
