IRRIGATION.

This year saw the completion of the first step in the gigantic Elephant Butte Reservoir project of the Reclamation service, the construction of the Penasco Diversion dam in the Rio Grande river, assuring an ample and steady water supply for 20,000 acres of fertile land in the Mesilla valley. Almost a quarter million dollars were spent in this preliminary work and now 125 men are working steadily to clear the ground for the $7,000,000 dam and canals that it will take seven years to complete and which will reclaim 200,000 acres. For the first time, too, in several years, the farmers of Eddy county, in the vicinity of Carlsbad, have had ample water, for the government completed the Carlsbad irrigation project, turning it over to the water users and generously extending the time for making the first payment another nine months. The main reservoir of this system, Lake McMillan, is 9 miles long and 3 miles wide and holds water enough to reclaim 40,000 acres. Next spring, the first use will be made of the completed Rio Hondo reservoir, also in the lower Pecos valley, in Chavez county, and one of the first systems to be completed by the government. In no other county has there been as much work on irrigation enterprises as in Colfax, where private capital is accomplishing what the government is doing for other sections. The French Land and Irrigation com-

Public land entries, 22,000, covering 2,850,000 acres, leading all other states.

Story of Marvellous Growth.
Just 3,000,000 acres of public land during the past year, 2,000,000 acres; as much taken the year before; irrigation projects under construction to reclaim three quarter million acres of land—this gives a glimpse of New Mexico's growth, but only in one direction. Naturally, these are years crowded with events that count for the future of the Sunshine State.

A gain of one hundred per cent in population is marvelous for a territory settled three hundred years ago, but that is New Mexico's record during the past decade. Yet, every indication is that this is only the beginning of a new era.

In a report of experts made to the legislature less than twenty years ago, it was asserted and proof was offered, to show that at the most not more than a million acres could ever be brought under profitable cultivation in this Territory. Today, more than two million and a half acres are under such cultivation and as much more will be plowed by next spring. The same report said that there is water available for only a little more than a quarter million acres. Today twice that area is under ditch; one irrigation project under construction by the federal government, alone, will water 200,000 acres, and there have been made application to the territorial engineer's office for the use of waters for 650,000 acres, and this will by no means exhaust the water available for irrigation in the Territory, for Territorial Engineer V. L. Sullivan, who has gathered the most comprehensive data on irrigation in New Mexico, says that there is water enough to irrigate 2,000,000 acres. No wonder that there is an industrial awakening all over the territory. The giant of New Mexico's resources is being touched by capital and by enterprise and he is leaping out of his lethargy to serve the multitude. No wonder there are rapid changes from the old to the new, so rapid that a few are swept off their feet and others find it hard to realize that this is not the New Mexico of old. It is a theme for an epic, this growth, this development, this transformation, this romance, prosaic as may seem the mere recounting of the steps that are taken forward each year.

It is strange, too, that this influx of new blood, this unparalleled hegin of land-hungry homeseekers to the arid Southwest, should come in a year that was unfavorable from the financial standpoint, owing to the depression in the Atlantic and Middle West states. There was no railroad and is building reservoirs to reclaim 18,000 acres. The Eagle's Nest Reservoir site has been surveyed and private enterprise there has initiated the first steps toward reclaiming 100,000 acres. The Springer Ditch System, also in Colfax county, is more than doubling its capacity to reclaim 7,000 acres. In Eddy county, Denver parties are at work on the Penasco reservoir to reclaim 10,000 acres, and the Cats' Claw Reservoir, which will water 5,000 acres. In Valencia county, the Bluewater Reservoir project is nearing completion and will reclaim almost 30,000 acres. It will cost half a million dollars, of which $300,000 have been expended. In Santa Fe county, work has been begun on the Arroyo Hondo project to reclaim 12,000 acres at a cost of $250,000. The Eden Ditch system of 60 miles in San Juan county is under construction to reclaim fertile lands in the San Juan valley. In Lincoln county, the Rio Bonito has been piped over the crest of the White Mountains to Carrizozo and other points along the El Paso and Southwestern. In the Mimbres, the Red River and Cabresto Lake Valley a large project is assuming tangible shape, and the Red River and Cabresto Lake projects are about to become realities. Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan has during the year approved irrigation projects to reclaim 650,000 acres while a number of applications are still pending.

AGRICULTURE.

Although the year just past was a poor fruit year, except in a few valleys, on account of the havoc wrought by late frosts, yet the total agricultural production of the territory is estimated at $35,000,000, against $10,000,000 during the last census year. For the first time, cantaloupes raising on a large scale has been made a financial success in the Mesilla valley and in the Rio Grande valley in the vicinity of Belen. Next year, 4,000 acres will be put into cantaloupes in the Mesilla valley, instead of 800 acres, the area cultivated this year and which yielded almost $40,000. In the lower Pecos valley cantaloupes have been raised successfully for years. For the first time, too, the Territory had more than 5,000 acres in cotton, and while the production did not reach 5,000 marketable bales, yet, it was demonstrated that cotton growing can be made a success in Eddy, Chavez, Roosevelt and Quay counties. Most significant, however, is the fact that for two years in succession dry farming has been fairly successful and that today the area under cultivation without irrigation is double the area cultivated under irrigation, and next year will be five times

MEETS DEATH BY TRAIN MAN SUICIDES WITH DYNAMITE

San Marcial, N. M., Jan. 2.—An old native laborer met with an awful death this morning at 11 o'clock. The switch engine was pulling a string of cars up the main line when in some way the Mexican either tried to get on or to commit suicide. The body was literally torn to atoms. The man's name is unknown.

At the Elephant Butte dam site where the government work is going on, an unknown old man, some 60 years old, committed suicide last Tuesday. He secured a piece of dynamite and some fuse and set it off and laid on the dynamite, blowing the back of his head and shoulders to atoms. He had lots of trouble with his stomach and it is thought he got tired of suffering and ended his career. He had about $100 on his person.

LOSES LIFE AT DEMING.

Deming, N. M., Jan. 2.—While sleeping in his ranch near Deming, Frank Evans, a prominent citizen of this place was killed by a train with an ax. James M. Evans had been assisting him in some work and had been arrested. The man was considered crazy.

GHOULS AT WORK AMID RUINS

Efforts Now Being Made to Restore Order

CASUALTIES STILL GROWING

Soldiers Have Been Landed Along the Stricken Coast

The part of Italy visited by the earthquake is now the scene of most appalling depredations and crime. Ghoulies are at work looting the dead and wailing the living. Robbery and murder have become common and thieves, thugs and murderers are openly defying the few remaining police. All efforts so far to maintain discipline have proved fruitless. However, five thousand soldiers have been landed on the coasts of Sicily and Calabria and every possible effort will be made to restore order and quiet. Since the first shock, many minor disturbances have been felt, but the volcanoes Aetna and Stromboli, are now quiet. The number of casualties is no longer the main concern, though the list grows hourly, and by some has been already placed at nearly 300,000. All efforts are now being concentrated in sending relief ships to carry survivors from the dangerous zone and to supply food and drink to those still in danger. Supplies are being shipped from all parts of the world as rapidly as possible. Many harrowing and pitiful tales are current regarding the awful scenes of devastation, havoc and ruin, all made still more fearful by the atrocious actions of inhuman brutes who are reveling amid an orgy of death and carnage.

Troops on Hand.

Messina, Jan. 2.—The town is thoroughly occupied by troops. Each quarter has a body of them divided so no point in town is without protection. A cordon of soldiers also surrounds the entire town which is almost deserted. Only soldiers and sailors are to be seen there. Suffering persons are still buried in the ruins of fallen buildings here who are dying from hunger too awful to contemplate. Dead bodies have been found which bear mute testimony of the tortures they endured before death relieved their sufferings. Several of these persons died gnawing at arms and hands evidently delirious from pain and hunger. Other bodies brought from the ruins with portions of shaws and clothing in their mouths and one woman had her teeth firmly fixed on the leg of a dead baby. Archbishop Messina has been found still living in the ruins of his palace.

American Gunboat Will Arrive.

Rome, Jan. 2.—The American gunboat, Scorpion, will arrive at Messina Monday, when the commander will place his vessel at the disposal of the American Embassy officials and consular authorities for assistance of Americans and the protection of interests in Sicily. The Scorpion, like other foreign vessels, will also transport refugees from affected districts, carrying messages and will cooperate in all possible ways with the authorities in all affected districts.

Dismissed.

Pekin, Jan. 2.—An edict issued today, dismisses from office Yuen Chi Yaad, grand councillor and commander in chief of the forces. The reason given for this action is the amputation of his leg.

King on Scene.

Rome, Jan. 2.—Returning from a visit to the Cambrian coast north of Reggio, King Victor Emmanuel sent the following telegram to Premier Gioiotti: "I visited Cantitello, eight miles north of Reggio which is literally razed to the ground. Villa San Giovanni is also destroyed. As at Messina rescue work is well organized. Fires at Messina have now been reduced to a small proportion. Three other British and three French warships have arrived at Messina."

In compliance with the order of the King, that the royal palaces at Caserta and Naples be placed at the disposal of the wounded, one hundred injured persons from Messina are already occupying a portion of San Bernardino Palace, the royal house providing everything. Duchess Aosta has transferred into a hospital a large hall in her palace at Capo Dimote. Reggio has not been heard from since overwhelmed by the tidal wave following the earthquake. Almost all the people of Reggio and Messina, it is said, are making up their minds to abandon the beloved cities. Nobody in Italy envies King Emmanuel his errand of mercy more than does Pope Pius, who always felt his place was with the stricken earthquake sufferers. Having been prevented from going there, his holiness tried to keep in touch with prevailing conditions as

SANTA FE GROWTH MEASURED BY INCREASE IN POSTAL RECEIPTS

The growth of the business of the local postoffice from year to year, is a good index of the prosperity of a community. It is easily expressed in figures, at least in part, although such improvements as the free delivery of mail, the establishment of the Santa Fe-Torrance Railway postoffice, the introduction of the distribution of mail at night, the placing of new postoffice fixtures and more than doubling the working space of the postoffice, the numbering of houses and construction of pavements necessary for the securing of free delivery, the increase in the number of outgoing and incoming mails now amounting to 75 a week, the training of an efficient force, are factors that do not lend themselves to statistics, but for which much of the credit belongs to Postmaster Paul A. F. Walter, reports from the post-office department at Washington classing the Santa Fe postoffice as one of the best conducted in the Southwest.

Here follow some statistics which show that Santa Fe is growing and growing rapidly, the increase of 40 per cent in postal receipts in 1908 over 1907, being perhaps, unparalleled by any of the larger postoffices in the West or East.

1909, receipts	$ 9,803.30
1907, receipts	12,412.42
1908, receipts	17,149.79
1909, expenditures	7,224.56
1908, expenditures	13,917.19
1909, money order business	152,219.37
1908, money order business	298,859.68
1907, registered pieces handled	20,290
1908, registered pieces handled	21,990
1909, stamps and envelopes sold	462,349
1908, stamps and envelopes sold	906,354
1909, January 1, on pay roll	5 persons
1908, January 1, on pay roll	16 persons

much as possible and offered bishops of the affected zone all he could give. His latest gift has been another $200,000.

Paris, Jan. 2.—The Figaro today published the following dispatch from Rome: As each day goes by disaster appears more horrible, terrifying and immense. It is without precedent in the history of the world. In my earlier dispatches I spoke of over 150,000. This number will doubtless be exceeded, for according to new and conservative estimate 200,000 persons perished miserably in this staggering catastrophe and the worst is not yet known.

Trembling of the earth continues with similar rumbling and at times boiling water surges from crevices. Sources of streams are polluted by putrid water. In spite of herculean efforts, succor is still insufficient and in the more remote regions the unhappy injured are dying for want of food and medical treatment. Dogs and swine enraged by hunger are springing upon the wounded and devouring them.

Queen Injured.

Rome, Jan. 2.—Queen Helena has been slightly injured at Messina, according to a dispatch received here today.

A slight shock was experienced at Messina yesterday and patients in one of the improvised hospitals were thrown into a condition of panic. Her majesty being close by, hurried to the scene and tried to allay the fears of the people. She was caught in a rush of patients making for the open and sustained a slight concussion on her chest. As the Duke of Aosta was crossing Carmine in Palma, a wall fell and bying plaster struck him on the face and hands inflicting slight scratches.

Death List Increased by Suicide.

Rome, Jan. 2.—The exact statistics of the dead and surviving are impossible to obtain because all the dead bodies buried under the ruins have not yet been recovered. It is really impossible to make any accurate count of survivors for they are today scattered from one end of the country to the other. The only figures that can be gotten are reached here by calculating the total population before the disaster and subtracting therefrom the numbers that are supposed to have survived. The result is of course approximated and will probably amount to 115,000 victims, increasing daily, not only through dying of injured but also by many suicides by despairing survivors whose minds have given way under the terrible experiences.

SWORE FALSELY AND NOW ASKS TO RETRACT

Union City, Tenn., Jan. 2.—Asserting that she deliberately perjured herself for the defense and now conscience-stricken and desiring to tell the truth, Mrs. Wade Morris, wife of one of the self-confessed night riders, asked to be recalled today. Wade Morris swore he was present when Captain Rankin was killed and that he recognized some of the defendants. Mrs. Morris upon the stand yesterday impeached her husband's testimony by swearing he was at home on the night of the Rankin murder. Mrs. Morris did not know of her husband's testimony on the stand and today she corrected her testimony and stated her husband was not at home but with the night riders the night of the murder. She claimed to have been pursued by relatives and intimates to swear falsely. The court granted a correction of her testimony.

New York, Jan. 2.—Demand for stocks carried over the week over the level of Thursday. New York Central was feverish with a gain of 134.

JOKE CAUSES DEATH AT ROSWELL

Explosion of Giant Firecracker Causes Fatality—Jail Breaker is Speedily Recaptured.

Roswell, N. M., Jan. 2.—Selim Shakir, the young Syrian, who died in the rescuing of Miss Stone, a missionary, who was kidnapped by Turks some eight years ago, is dead.

Clarence Fonda, sentenced to three months in jail for horse stealing, took advantage of the liberty of the jail corridor given him as a trusty, tied seven blankets together and let himself down from a second story window at the jail. He was captured at Elkins, and two young men who tried to dissuade the officers from searching further for the fugitive, when they talked with them on the several miles bet also been arrested, and abetting in the escape. They had visited a few hours before the escape.

Joe Gunter, a car repairer in the railroad yards here took a giant firecracker to the roundhouse, lit it at the torch near the door where Reuben Rupert, the night foreman was putting a shovelfull of coal into the fire box of the stationary engine. Just as Gunter turned to throw the firecracker, his hand coming close to Rupert's face, doing so, the cracker exploded. One of Rupert's eyes was blown out, the other blinded and after terrible suffering, he died 24 hours later at St. Mary's hospital. Gunter lost the end of one finger and his hand was cut deeply in three places.

Receiver for Railroad.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 2.—Judge Pardee, of the United States circuit court, today appointed President Atkinson and Vice-President Arkwright receivers for the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad.

NAKED MAN CAUSES SENSATION

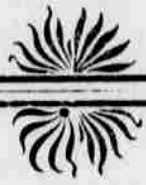

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 1.—Startled and apparently deranged, Frank Mays, a strapping laborer, 26 years of age, was captured in Billy Sunday's Tabernacle where he attempted to mount the pulpit and deliver an exhortation. He was prevented from carrying out his purpose by ushers with whom he fought like a tiger and was taken to the city jail, bound hand and foot. At the station Mays declared he disrobed to prove that he was an angel from God. Still manacled and locked up in a strong cell, he squirmed out of the blanket and began shouting that he was the devil and had come to put Bill Sunday out of business. He sought to verify these statements by singing hymns. Before making the spectacular attempt to enter the pulpit, Mays went into the waiting room where he disrobed. He was half way to the pulpit when he was discovered. His herculean strength enabled him to fight his captors for several minutes before he was overcome and bound.

Claims Self Defense.

Media, Pa., Jan. 2.—The star witness, Mrs. Florence Erb, took the stand today on behalf of herself and her sister, Mrs. Catharine Bersie, who is on trial in Delaware county court for the murder of Captain J. Clayton Erb at his country home, Red Gables, near here, on October 6th. The defense in outlining their case contend that in a violent quarrel Erb was shot by Mrs. Bersie, practically by accident and not by design. The defense has asked for a verdict of justifiable homicide on the ground of self defense.

BABY'S ITCHING WAS INTOLERABLE

Girl of Six Months had Fearful Attack of Eczema—Spread All Over Her Face and Eyes Began to Swell—Scratched Till Blood Came—Relieved in a Night and

CURED BY CUTICURA
AFTER LONG SUFFERING

"When my little girl was six months
old I noticed small red spots on her right cheek. I did not pay any attention to them but finally the spots grew so large
that I sent for the doctor who said it was ringworm. He prescribed an ointment
which I used for two weeks, but instead of helping the eruption,
the ointment seemed to make it worse. Then I went to a second doctor who after examining the baby said it was eczema. He also gave me an ointment which did not help either. The disease in the meantime spread all over the face and the eyes began to swell. I became very anxious.
The itching grew intolerable. I had to tie the baby's hands to the cradle to prevent her scratching. The cheeks were covered with blood and it was a terrible sight to see. I consulted doctors from September to December, but they were unable to cure the baby. I paid out from twenty to thirty dollars
without relief.

"One of my friends told me of the Cuticura Remedies and I sent at once for a set which I began to use that evening. The next morning the baby's face was all white instead of red and you can imagine how surprised I was. I cannot find words enough to praise Cuticura and I do not know what would have become of my baby only for it. I used the Cuticura Remedies until the eczema entirely disappeared. The child is now three years old and quite well. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and I never use any other soap. I always recommend them whenever there is a chance for doing so.
I will send you one of her pictures which she had taken just after she was healed. Mrs. P. E. Gumbin, Sheldon, Ia., July 13, 1908."

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

A bright New Year, and a sunny track,
Along an upward way;
And a song of praise on looking back,
When the year has passed away;
And golden sheaves, nor small nor few.

This is our New Year's wish for you.
"Who pays Uncle Sam's bills?"

Some time ago the liquor interests of this country entered upon an educational campaign. Since that time many weekly and daily papers have published articles calculated to prejudice readers against the cause of temperance. These articles often appeared as editorials, but were really "paid" articles furnished by the educational committee of the National Liquor Dealer's association, and the United States Brewer's association. A large number of tracts or leaflets have also appeared. Some of these contain garbled statements and in others false statements are made concerning the habits of men once prominent in church and state, but who being dead cannot defend themselves against these slanderous attacks.

Others, while not exactly misrepresenting, are misleading in their conclusions. One of these leaflets has appeared in this community and is entitled "A Statistical Story of Real Interest," and so it is.

According to this leaflet it costs
$8.86 per capita to run the United States government. This goes to keep up the Army, the Navy and all other departments of Government. It is claimed that the Government annually spends One Hundred Million on the Navy and One Hundred and Twenty-five Hundred Million on the Army and that the fellow who stands in front of the bar keeps these going, besides paying the Postal deficit of Eight Million Five Hundred Thousand.

This claim is based on the fact that the Government received the last year
from the Internal Revenue on distilled spirits and the tax on imported spirits, and from the tax on home-made and imported beer and wine a total of
Two Hundred and Thirty-one Million Dollars. Inasmuch as this is approximately the total cost of the Army, Navy and Postal deficiency, the conclusion is drawn that the consumers of liquor, or the men in front of the bar, pay these bills.

It is also shown that the taxes collected by the Government on alcoholic drinks amount to 35 per cent of the collections from all the Government sources of revenue, and that therefore the consumer of liquor pays 35 per cent of all the expenses of running the Government.

We recognize at once the educational value of this leaflet, we learn that the men in front of the bar, bravely face the danger of delirium tremens, criminal prosecutions for crime committed under the influence of drink to pay these bills and are patriots of the highest order. That many may pay the expense of our splendid army and navy, they uncompromisingly suffer poverty, impaired health and unjust condemnation. For this they are willing to keep their families in poverty and entail suffering upon generations
yet unborn, through the inherited appetite for drink. That home and native land may be protected or defended in case of need from foreign or internal foes, these men stand before the bar and drink the fatal draught which annually results in greater loss of life
than the Union and Confederate armies together sustained in the terrible Battle of the Wilderness.

But it seems strange that it did not occur to the author of this leaflet that his is a very unbusiness-like method of raising funds to support the army and navy and to pay the postal deficiency. In the collection of this
Two Hundred and Thirty-one Million Dollars over Two Billion dollars are worse than wasted. According to official census returns, the direct cost of the liquor traffic is Two Billion,
Two Hundred and Seventy-five Million dollars, or $26.50 per capita.
In other words, the liquor traffic costs the people of this country $17.64 per capita more than all the departments of the Government put together.

Would it not be more business-like to raise the $8.86 per capita necessary to pay the Governmental expense, by a direct tax, than to engage in a business, for revenue, that costs us $26.
50 per capita, and the profits of which only pay 35 per cent of the Government expenses?

There is another phase of this question which the author seems to have overlooked, and that is who pays the expenses incurred upon the public, by the men before the bar?

Careful estimates indicate that it costs at least One Billion Two Hundred Million Dollars to pay for the loss of grain, productive labor and shortened lives; to support and care for the paupers, idiots, insane and other dependent classes, and to punish the criminals which the liquor traffic produces.

This amount would support Five Navies and Five Armies the size of our present Army and Navy, besides paying the postal deficiency, and still have enough left to pay half the Pension bills.

While then men before the bar are paying 35 per cent of the Government's expenses, the direct cost of the liquor traffic, plus the indirect cost amounts to four and one-half times
the total running expense of the Government. Therefore, he not deceived by the rather imposing array of figures that appear in the leaflet entitled,
"Who Pays Uncle Sam's Bills?"

In addition, we might ask the man
before the bar this pertinent question,
"What other bills are you paying?"
Who builds the gigantic breweries,
with smokestacks and glittering towers piercing the skies, with great cold-storage and ice plants attached; who pays for the splendid horses drawing the great brewery wagons through the streets of our cities, who puts diamonds on the hands of the fat brewer, buys great automobiles for him to ride in and fills his coffers with millions of dollars? Who makes rich hundreds of thousands wholesale and retail liquor dealers in the U. S.? Who walks that others may ride, who starves that others may feast, who lives in a hotel that others may live in mansions, whose children are hungry, pinched and cold that others may be wrapped in silks and furs?
These are very pertinent questions for your solving, men before the bar.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own con-fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally success-

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and as a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

PROUD OF NEW MEXICO'S GROWTH.

New Mexico is rapidly gaining upon Colorado in population. The census of 1900 gave Colorado more than 500,000 people, while it gave New Mexico less than 200,000, or only two-fifths as many. Today Colorado claims 750,000, a gain of less than fifty per cent, while New Mexico has 400,000 people, or more than one-half as many, a gain of more than one hundred per cent since the last census. If this ratio of increase is maintained by the two commonwealths until 1930, New Mexico will have 2,500,000 people in that census year, while Colorado will have only 2,100,000. The likelihood, however, is for an accelerated increase for New Mexico, and a diminishing rate of increase for Colorado, so that by 1920, already, the Sunshine State may pass the Centennial state in population, if not in wealth and output of its industries. New Mexico truly is the coming Empire of the Southwest, as any one who will carefully study the review of this year's progress, outlined on another page, must admit. Governor Curry, too, in an interview quoted by the Denver Post this week, gives intimation of this same marvelous growth and advancement, when he says:

"The territory of New Mexico is proud of her achievements in 1908. Her coal mines produced 2,530,000 tons of coal, and 225,000 tons of coke; her lumber mills turned out over 100,000,000 feet of lumber; the territory's wealth increased $25,000,000.

"We have a population of 500,000. Homeseekers are coming into the territory at the rate of 75,000 per year, and about two-thirds of this number come from the farming communities of the North Central states. For 1908 the assessed valuation of property is approximately $52,000,000.

"The lie-land bill passed by congress this year gives New Mexico 30,000 acres of land for her public schools.

"Intensive farming is being successfully inaugurated in our prairie counties; this is the land of the sugar beet, and sugar beet factories will be under construction here in the near future. Cantaloupe-growing is an important industry in the Mesilla valley. "Silk worms have been imported from Italy by an Italian colony near Albuquerque, where the silk industry is in its experimental stage.

"We have here about 5,000,000 head of sheep, and the wool clip for 1908 amounted to 18,000,000 pounds. About 100,000 head of cattle were shipped out of the territory during the past year, which is a smaller shipment than usual. The New Mexico angora goat has won first honors in various national live stock shows.

"The irrigation plants now in the course of construction will irrigate 500,000 acres of land and will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000,000. The Elephant Butte dam, in Southern New Mexico, which when completed, will be the largest storage reservoir in the world is now under construction by the reclamation service.

"During the recent financial crisis not a single bank in New Mexico closed its doors; on the contrary, a number of new banks were established. Two hundred corporations were organized, and fifty admitted on charters from other commonwealths. The total capitalization amounts to $88,000,000.

"Five armories are now under construction in different cities of the territory; a handsome annex to the territorial capitol is well under way, and substantial additions are being built to our various educational institutions.

"The territory contemplates building a public highway from its northern to its southern boundary, to be known as El Camino Real. Over forty miles of this road are now completed through almost inaccessible mountain regions, and this portion of the road is known as the Scenic Highway."

The Denver daily papers each New Year publish an industrial edition covering the activities of the Centennial and surrounding states. All of these editions, except that of the Denver Republican, are a disappointment this year. The latter is far ahead of its rivals, and in completeness, accuracy and readability sets the pace. While the News and the Times ignore New Mexico altogether, and the Post gives it only a small space, the Republican treats fully of the territory and its resources. The Republican, year in and year out, pays more attention to New Mexico affairs than all other large city dailies combined, and in its editorial columns it says a good word for the commonwealth, its people and their ambitions, whenever opportunity offers.

NEW MEXICO IT IS AND NEW MEXICO IT SHALL BE.

The New Mexican on Thursday published a beautiful poem from the pen of Edna Proctor, one of the sweetest singers of America. In this poem she pleads for New Mexico to adopt the name of Lincoln for the future sunshine state, and her word pictures of the commonwealth are so beautiful and so inspiring that one would fain grant her wish, if important considerations, both utilitarian as well as sentimental, did not stand in the way and make it imperative that the name of the commonwealth remain New Mexico until the end of days. Says the Denver Republican upon this subject:

"Apparently there is much disappointed individual effort behind the movement to have New Mexico surrender its name upon admission to statehood, and assume the name of Lincoln.

"Even the poets seem to have taken up the fight and are twanging right heartily upon the lyre in the endeavor to have New Mexicans give up the ancient name of their territory—witness the following verse from a trio by Edna Dean Proctor:

"O magic Land! In this memorial year
Give to thy cliffs and ruins yet rarer fame,
And make thy realm to all the world more dear,
Crowning its glories with our Lincoln's name!

Then will thy mountains prouder pierce the sky,
Thy rivers grander roll to greet the sea,
And larger manhood lift thy standard high

For all the mighty ages yet to be!
'This is very fine sentiment, but it must be remembered that Abraham Lincoln needs nothing to add to his stature, while, on the other hand, the sacrifice of the name New Mexico would be no inconsiderable matter. There are many firms in New Mexico that would be put to inconvenience by the changing of the territorial name, inasmuch as the title has been incorporated for business purposes and represents actual cash value in many instances.

"It is from a historical standpoint chiefly, that any change in the name of the territory appears wrong. The territory got its name from a letter written by Francisco Ibarra, in 1551. Ibarra wrote an account of his explorations in the Southwest in that year, and told his brother, in the City of Mexico, that he had discovered 'una nueva Mexico.' Thereafter all that part of the Southwest was known as New Mexico.

"The territory that was christened so long ago should not have its name changed at this late day. New Mexico is a name that hints of ancient and interesting things, and devoted and chivalrous people, and should endure."

President Roosevelt is determined to enforce his own ruling that a presidential postmaster who has given satisfaction, will be re-appointed and retained in office. A bitter fight was made, for instance, recently upon the postmaster at Muskogee, Oklahoma, the political leaders and other persons of influence having advocated a change. Joseph Cromwell, who desired the place, made several trips to Washington to interview the powers-that-be, and felt quite certain that the plum would be his. But Miss Alice Robinson, the present incumbent, has been re-appointed, and she received a letter from the president, which said in effect, as is quoted in the dispatch, "that she will hold on until hell freezes over." President-elect Taft being in entire accord with the president, as is the postmaster general-to-be, Hon. Frank H. Hitchcock. All three believe implicitly that it is for the good of the service and the best interests of the public to retain in office efficient postmasters and postal employees. In fact, it is reasonably certain, that within a few years, assistant postmasters and all fourth class postmasters will be under civil service, and eventually presidential postmasters will be also given tenure of office during good behavior, irrespective of political changes in the national administration.

The Ohio senatorial situation has cleared itself in an unexpected manner and it is now certain that Hon. Theodore Burton will succeed Senator Foraker. That this solution of what threatened to be a vexed political problem, followed so closely upon a visit of Hon. Frank H. Hitchcock to President-elect Taft at Atlanta, Georgia, may be significant or it may be of no portent, but it is evident even in other directions, that the president-elect and his most trusted lieutenant are already taking an active interest in national and state political problems.

The presence of royalty among the stricken inhabitants of Sicily and Calabria, may have an inspiring effect upon the people but it fills no empty stomachs. In fact, the stories of the unbounded enthusiasm caused by the presence of the king and queen at Messina, smack too much of the press agent, to be taken at their face value. The king of Italy is paid $7,200 a day for his services and might be expected to make a personal visit to the stricken provinces, if for no other purpose than to discover for himself that in the face of such dire national need, it is a shame to take so big a salary, when the United States, for instance, secures the services of a much abler man, to serve as president, for $137 a day, and France pays for similar work only $617 a day. Of course, the Czar of Russia receives $25,000 a day; the Sultan of Turkey $18,000; the Emperor of Austria $12,000, and the Kaiser $11,200, but none of these rulers 'live in the earthquake belt.

All the world has been moved to pity by the details so graphically told by the Associated Press of the earthquake ravages in Sicily and southern Italy. Contributions are flowing liberally for the relief of the needy and although New Mexico is more than five thousand miles from the Apennine Peninsula, yet, it too is contributing handsomely to the relief fund through private subscriptions. Grandest spectacle of all, however, in the world's history, is the dispatch of Uncle Sam's mighty battle fleet to the stricken shores, there to extend help in the hour of need. More glorious this mission than would have been an attack on Japan, or a hostile demonstration against some other great nation. This voyage of charity, in the annals of history will rank in importance with the battles of Salamis and of Camperdown, in its results, for it marks an epoch of international good feeling, that augurs well for the realization of dreams of universal peace.

New county officials took charge of affairs in most of New Mexico's counties yesterday. As a rule, especially of late years, county governments have been ably and honestly administered. Here and there, an incompetent may have been elected to office, but as a rule, the people choose only competent men these days. In consequence, progress, economy and a strict accounting mark the administration of New Mexico's counties. Even in this respect, this commonwealth contrasts favorably with most, if not all of the states, for if stories of graft and incompetence that are charged against state and county officials elsewhere, are even only half true, then the people of this territory have reason to congratulate themselves upon the character of the men they place into office.

Yuma county, Arizona, has voted $45,000 for the improvement of its highways and a bill is being prepared for introduction and probable passage by the Arizona legislature, providing for the building of roads under the supervision of the territorial engineer and at territorial expense. If Arizona gets to building Scenic Highways, they will not be permitted to remain in an unfinished and dilapidated condition, like the New Mexico Scenic Highway between Santa Fe and Las Vegas, for instance, which was begun with great flourish of trumpets six years ago, was partly and successfully built and then permitted to fall into disuse and has remained uncompleted ever since, to the disgrace of the commonwealth and the loss of its people.

Mrs. Taft has selected her social secretary, a $1,000 clerk in the signal office of the Secretary of War. Mrs. Eleanor Relyea is the fortunate woman to secure the much coveted prize, which she owes to her skill as a whist player, which brought her into contact with the select social circles of the National Capitol. It is gratifying to know, that in the National Capitol, social position is not altogether dependent upon wealth or office and that native cleverness and talent have their day in Society with a capital S.

A 550-acre tract of land near Eton, Colorado, that a few years ago could have been bought for $10 an acre, has been so greatly improved by dry farming and the development of the surrounding country by dry farming, that it sold this week to Illinois parties for $39,750. In a few years, the same increment of values in dry farming lands will be noted in New Mexico, for the day is rapidly passing when a good dry farming homestead can be had for the filing upon it.

Luna county has been backward in adding population and outside of the city of Deming, the county is rather sparsely inhabited. But now comes news of a rush of homeseekers to the Mimbres Valley and other portions of the county, which indicates that Luna county will not long remain the least among New Mexico counties as far as population is concerned and that it will soon pass McKinley and Sierra counties which are just ahead of it at the bottom of the population ladder.

Fifteen new school districts were organized in Torrance county last year. And yet, there are a few mossbacks who profess to believe that New Mexico is growing neither in population nor advancing in education.

Lame Shoulder Cured.
Lame shoulder is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles and quickly yields to a few applications of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Mrs. F. H. McElwee, of Boistown, New Brunswick, writes: "Having been troubled for some time with a pain in my left shoulder, I decided to give Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial, with the result that I got prompt relief." For sale by all druggists.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Affidavit to be Filed Before Contest,

Legally Dead

(Original.)

In the days when Mexico was in a chronic state of revolution Signor Herrera lived on his hacienda doing his best to avoid being entangled in any of the various strifes that succeeded one another for the possession of the government, for to be on the wrong side meant death. Dona Marina, Herrera's eldest daughter, was courted by Signor Juan Bustamante, a neighboring hacienda owner who had done a great deal to establish the government then in power. He was more than twice Marina's age and was especially disagreeable to her. But she was urged by her family to accept him on the ground that if she declined him he might seek revenge by impugning her father's loyalty to the government.

But Dona Marina loved Philippo Mendoza, the son of a neighboring planter. Urged to give him up for Bustamante, through fear she consented, but not for long. She confessed to Bustamante her love for Mendoza and begged him to release her. He did so at once, with many expressions of grief and wishes for her happiness. By this course Marina turned what had been feared for her father against her lover. Bustamante, thinking that if he got Mendoza out of the way Marina might yet become his wife, secretly accused his rival of plotting with one who was known to be fomenting a new revolution. Mendoza was arrested and taken to no one knew where.

As soon as the news of the arrest reached the Herreras, not suspecting Bustamante, Marina implored him to use his influence with the president in behalf of her lover. He promised to do so and set off at once to the capital ostensibly for the purpose. He knew very well that Mendoza would have been executed before his arrival, for he had so arranged with the government. What he wished was to conceal his own part in the murder and gain credit with Marina that would benefit his suit in the future.

There is a law in Mexico that one executed shall be left where he falls till friends or relatives come and take away the body for burial. But at Mendoza's execution there was no one to claim the body. Bustamante had arranged that he be taken to a distant province from which the news of his execution would be long in reaching his friends, especially Dona Marina.

Mendoza was taken out in the gray of the morning and was stood up before eight soldiers, who at the word of command fired a volley at him. He fell. The commander of the firing party took a look at the body and saw that it had several wounds in the thorax and two in the head, any one of which might be expected to kill him. The soldiers were marched away and a written report handed in that Philippo Mendoza was dead.

But Mendoza was not dead. Notwithstanding his wounds after the firing party had marched away he revived. For a time he supposed that he had awakened in another world. Yet there above him was the same blue sky he had lived under, and he could hear cattle lowing. Making an effort, he raised himself on his elbow, looked about him and down on his blood-stained clothing. Then, making another effort, he got up and walked several miles to a hospital.

He could not keep the secret that he had been executed, and word soon reached those who had been charged with his execution. Fearing that they would be blamed for neglect of duty, they proposed to shoot him again, but before they could agree upon this course the news of the strange case reached the governor of the province. He had been on the bench, and the only thing in the world he respected was the law. He took the matter under consideration, at last deciding that Mendoza had been executed had been reported dead and was therefore dead. That is, he was dead in law. Therefore those who had been ordered to execute him had nothing further to do with him. He was without legal existence in the republic of Mexico. No further report of the matter need be forwarded to the government, for there was nothing to be said about one who had been reported legally dead.

One evening as Signor Bustamante was returning from a visit to the Herrera hacienda he heard a voice from bushes beside the road ordering him to halt. He stopped, and a man stepped into the road a short distance before him. His cheeks were hollow, his lips were thin, his eyes were wild, his face was white. Bustamante saw his rival, or what he considered his rival's ghost.

"Are you of the living or the dead?" "I am dead—legally dead. But that you shall not again have me executed I am a firing party to execute you."

The ghost raised a rifle and shot his enemy dead.

When Mendoza appeared at the Herrera hacienda no one there knew what had become of him. He told the story of his execution and that he had executed the man who had brought it about. His visit was brief, and no one except the Herreras knew that he had been there. The slayer of Bustamante was never known. Soon after all this occurred a new leader of the party opposed to the government arose, marched to the capital, took it, executed every member of the government and was proclaimed president. He was none other than Mendoza.

When it was found that the new president was strangely given to pardoning malefactors the people said, "How can one who is legally dead kill others?" But in this his wife Marina had a hand.

NEW MEXICO'S MARVELOUS ADVANCEMENT AND PROSPERITY DURING PAST YEAR.

the area cultivated under ditch. What this means for the future of New Mexico may be gauged from the fact that experts have given it as a conservative estimate that at least thirteen million acres may be cultivated by dry farming methods, against 2,000,000 acres for which water for irrigation is available. At a yield of only $20 an acre the cultivation of these lands would add more than $300,000,000 to the annual production of New Mexico's farm.

Livestock.

With the farmers taking up the public range for farms; with the forest service having reserved 7,000,000 acres of the best range, with price of wool lower than for years, it is quite natural that as a whole, the livestock industry is on the decline, although to those individuals adopting the methods that have proved profitable in the state without public range, the industry is still very profitable. However, where New Mexico had more than 5,000,000 sheep a few years ago, it today has only 4,500,000 which this year produced almost 18,000,000 pounds of wool. The number of cattle has declined in a few years from 11,000,000 to 750,000. Horses and mules, together, number only 100,000, and the goat industry, which promised so much for the future only a few years ago, is at a comparative standstill. It is noticeable, however, that all kinds of livestock are in better condition than during the days when the ranges were crowded, and that they are grading up their stock with much success.

Mining.

This industry has felt most during the past year, the slump in eastern money markets, and this year's total mineral production has been less than during any year in the decade, although the total will reach almost $7,000,000. The closing down of the Comanche smelter at Silver City; of the Santa Fe Gold and Copper company's smelter at San Pedro, and of the new smelter at Oro Grande, have affected production adversely. However, the receiver has paid all the indebtedness of the Comanche company and operations will be resumed not only at the smelter at Silver City, but the production of the company's extensive mineral holdings at Pinos Altos in the Burro mountains will also be completed. The Santa Fe Gold and Copper company has prospected with vigor development work in its copper mines steadily and with the completion of the railroad into the Hagan coal fields by the New Mexico Central railroad, upon which steel is being laid, will blow in its smelter again. The new smelter at Oro Grande is about to be sold and it is believed that the new owners will lose no time to resume operations. The discovery of tellurium gold at Sylvanite, Grant county, has also given an impetus to prospecting, and there has been an old-time stampede to this camp. During the past few months there have been many sales of mining property, including the famous Crown Point mine at Bland, which will mean renewed activity in that old camp; the Cash Entry mine near Cerrillos, upon which the new owners, New Englanders, have commenced operations on a large scale; the Oro Quay mine near San Pedro, upon which the Colorado Fuel and Iron company has taken a lease; not to speak of the acquiring by English capital and the resumption of comprehensive development work on the Corona Queen properties in Lincoln county. The extensive development during the year on the zinc-copper lead mines of the Magdalena and Kelly districts in Socorro county, should lead to record-breaking production next year. The Mogollon district produced almost a quarter of a million dollars worth of gold during the year, the bulk of the total output of this metal by the territory, although Parsons, Lincoln county, Pinos Altos, Grant county, the New Placers, Santa Fe county have been steady producers also. While the coal mines in Colfax and McKinley counties, the principal producers have worked only with reduced forces and that not on full time, yet, the coal output remains about 2,500,000 tons, the same as last year. The coal mines at Carthage and Madrid have increased their output, while at Dawson, Koehler, Van Horn and Colfax county, modern mines have been completed which when in full operation, will more than double the present output, which is the largest of any mines in New Mexico.

Other Industries.

The above touches only briefly upon the principal industries of the territory, agriculture, livestock and mining. In manufacturing, the output for the year is estimated at more than $2,000,000 by about 500 establishments. In lumbering, the value of the product reaches $2,000,000 for the year. In railroading, there were no new developments, except that the New Mexico Central is now building a branch line from Moriarty into the Hagan coal fields and is planning to build this line into Albuquerque besides extending its main line from Torrance to Roswell, and from Santa Fe to Durango, Colorado. The Santa Louis, Rocky Mountain and Pacific railway intends in the spring to build from Ute Creek, Colfax county, cross the Taos range into the Taos valley. The Santa Fe has started work on fine new mission style depots at Santa Fe and at Lamy. The territory has about 3,000 miles of railroad, one-third of which were built during the present decade.

Important Events.

The Irrigation Congress at Albuquerque this fall, turned the attention of the world, more than ever to New Mexico, and while it did not draw as large crowds as had been expected and closed with a financial deficit, yet, it was a great success from whatever standpoint it may be viewed. The territory has renewed its fight for statehood which had been held in abeyance for a year and has the promise of President Roosevelt and the Congressional leaders for admission during the coming year. The election proved again that New Mexico is solidly Republican and the legislature which will convene in a few days has an overwhelming Republican majority.

Unlike last year, this year recorded no great mine disasters, but there was some loss of life and damage in eastern New Mexico by wind and floods, notably near Folsom, Tucuman, Clayton and Sunnyside.

The portion of the Scenic Highway planned by the territory, from Raton to the Colorado line, is practically completed and work will be resumed early next year on that part of the line between Santa Fe and Las Vegas, of which almost thirty miles are completed. It is the plan to have this territorial highway follow the historic Santa Fe trail from the Colorado boundary to Santa Fe, and from there, the old Camino del Real to El Paso, Texas. Work was commenced and completed on a number of public buildings, such as armories at Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Roswell and Las Vegas, additional buildings at the Military Institute at Roswell and at the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts at Mesilla Park and an executive mansion and extension of the Capitol at Santa Fe. Notable was also the location of the American School of Archaeology at Santa Fe by the American Institute of Archaeology, and for which the territory two years ago tendered the historic Old Palace and an appropriation of $1,000,000. Wonderful was also the discovery of 23 prehistoric conical cities in the Canon of the Rito de los Frijoles, 25 miles west of Santa Fe into the Payson Cliff Dwellers Parks. In the course of this year, through excavations under the direction of Professor Hewett of the American Institute of Archaeology.

While 1908 was not an epoch-making year for New Mexico, it was memorable in many respects, and certainly witnessed the most marvelous growth in population and settlement that any commonwealth has ever experienced in so brief a period.

The Pure Food Law.

Secretary Wilson says, "One of the objects of the law is to inform the consumer of the presence of certain harmful drugs in medicines." The law requires that the amount of chloroform, opium, morphine, and other habit forming drugs be stated on the label of each bottle. The manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have always claimed that their remedy did not contain any of these drugs, and the truth of this claim is now fully proven, as no mention of them is made on the label. This remedy is not only one of the safest, but one of the best in use for coughs and colds. Its value has been proven beyond question during the many years it has been in general use. For sale by all druggists.

The New Mexican Printing company has ready and for sale up-to-date and correct compilations of the territorial incorporation laws, price 75 cents, of the territorial road laws, price 50 cents, and of the territorial mining laws, price 50 cents per copy. These can be purchased by applying in person or by mail at the office of the company.

Engine on Rampage—Engine No. 161 which had just brought down the D. & R. G. train last night from the north went on a rampage when backed into the roundhouse. It did not stop when it had entered the roundhouse but, for some unaccountable reason, kept on going and went through the rear end of the roundhouse, making a destructive exit. The tender plunged down an embankment, imbedding the wheels deep into the soil. The engine was half way down the descent. As a result the Rio Grande train was an hour late this morning in departing, having had to await the arrival of engine No. 224 from up the line.
