ROOSEVELT ON ADVENTURE BOUND

Departs Amid the Cheers of Thousands

"FINE" AND "BULLY" START

Will Be Gone Fifteen Months
In Ex-President's Final Statement.

New York, N. Y., March 23.—Theodore Roosevelt sailed at 11:06 on the steamer Hamburg on the first stage of the journey in quest of big game in Africa. From his Oyster Bay home to the docks here, his trip resembled a triumphal procession. As a feature of the trip, the former president rode for the first time under the Hudson river from New York to Jersey City. As a parting message Roosevelt sent Taft the telegram, "Parting thanks, love and sincerity." On board, Roosevelt found a dense throng of countrymen. In a short talk to the newspaper men he said he wanted to thank the senders of the thousands of letters of good cheer. He said it would be waste of time for any one to write him while in Africa. Some one asked him if he would be the next president, at which he threw up his hands and only replied, "Good-bye."

The Italian Americans presented Roosevelt with a bronze tablet, one side bearing a likeness of the former president and the other side a scene of the Messina earthquake with an inscription commemorative of the aid rendered by the United States to the quake sufferers. As a platoon of police attempted to clear the way to the gangway, the crowd became demonstrative and efforts of the whole police squad were required to push through. The roar of cheers was deafening as the distinguished traveler gained the deck and bowed. On board, the ex-president met a long line of friends who had come aboard to wish him safe passage. Two policemen were knocked off their feet in keeping the crowd back and several times Roosevelt was nearly jostled off his feet but he remained good natured and cheerful throughout. His broad smile never left him and he stood bowing as the last of the leavetakers left the ship.

Departs Amid Cheers.
New York, March 23.—Cheered by his fellow townsmen, ex-President Roosevelt left his home at Oyster Bay this morning for this city to journey across the sea to hunt in the African wilderness. Because of the early hour, only a few were at the station to bid him good-bye. Roosevelt drove to the station with his son Kermit who will be the photographer of the trip. The former President's arrival at the pier of the Hamburg-American line, was greeted with the playing of bands and the cheers of thousands. Everything was "fine" and "bully" to the distinguished traveler. Italians were in evidence with six big delegations.

The officials of the steamship line met Roosevelt with military pomp, being dressed in showy uniforms and glittering braid. Roosevelt's suite aboard the ship is a maze of flowers and decorations sent by friends from the entire country. Pictures presented by Emperor William of Germany to the Hamburg line at the time of the former's trip to Norway is part of the decorative scheme. Many passengers went aboard last night to avoid the rush this morning. Captain Burmeister of the Hamburg predicted a fine trip. The full ship's band played on the promenade deck. Hundreds of flags were hoisted in the rigging and the docks were black with cheering crowds as the liner moved down the harbor. The ex-president in his final statement said he would be gone fifteen months. A slight accident met Roosevelt at the dock. He was caught in the crush and lost his hat. His hat was restored quickly, however, and he soon was on his way.

New York, March 23.—Standing on the bridge of the steamship and acknowledging the cheering of thousands, Roosevelt sailed for Africa today. Beside him stood his son Kermit, and Captain Burmeister, commander of the vessel. The distinguished traveler was still on the bridge as with the band playing the "Star Spangled Banner," the big ship was warped into the stream and headed down the Bay.

BIG SUM ASKED FOR BLACK HAND EXTERMINATION

NO TRACE OF PASADENA BALLOON

Two Searching Parties That Started for the Sierra Madre Mountains Also Lost to Sight.
Los Angeles, Cal., March 23.—More than seventy hours have passed since the huge balloon America, with six men sailed into the fog of the Sierra Madre mountains and nothing has been heard of the aeronauts. The belief is now expressed that the adventurers have been lost in the blizzard raging in the mountains and have met a dire fate. Nothing has been heard of the two searching parties sent in search of the aeronauts.

The entire city is wrought up over the loss of the six men in the balloon America. The city council has guaranteed the expenses of fifty men to search. The big captive balloon Chicago will be towed up the mountains to be used for observation. Seventy-five more have joined the searching parties.

BALLOON FOUND.

CURRY WILL BE GOVERNOR A WHILE LONGER

Happy Solution of What Seemed an Awkward Situation—National Administration Expresses Full Confidence in New Mexico's Executive—Asked to Reconsider.

Governor Curry will remain as Governor of New Mexico, at least for the present. He sent to President Taft a telegram this forenoon withdrawing his resignation as chief executive. As soon as affairs in New Mexico can be arranged, which will be probably in a few weeks, Governor Curry will go to Washington, D. C., to discuss New Mexico matters fully with President Taft and Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. In fall, Governor Curry may again take up the subject of his resignation for he feels that he cannot much longer afford to give his times and services to the territory at such a sacrifice to his own personal interests. Last evening, he received several most flattering business offers in case his resignation had been accepted.

Governor Curry withdrew his resignation upon direct request from Washington. A telegram from President Taft, late last evening, the exact words of which, of course, cannot be given out except at the White House, reassured Governor Curry that he possessed the full confidence of the National Administration; that as long as he was Governor of New Mexico he should have the sincere backing of the President, and that the latter is not aware of any controversy or of any reason why Governor Curry should feel that the National Administration desires any change in the executive office of New Mexico. It was impressed upon the Governor that the Washington authorities considered his action hasty and desired him to reconsider it.

In the meanwhile, Governor Curry had heard in no uncertain terms from every part of New Mexico. It was a tribute to his popularity, a call from the business interests and the people, to remain on duty, which no conscientious man could withstand. Having the interests of the territory at heart, rather than his own, Governor Curry after consideration and consultation with party leaders and friends, decided to defer to their wishes and for the present to withdraw his resignation, although he has made up his mind fully to retire when he can do so feeling that he had accomplished all that it is in his power to do for the people and when a successor can take up the work successfully where he has left it.

Governor Curry, although ill today, was on duty in his office. There is a large amount of routine work to be cleared away and by April 1, many vacancies on board will have to be filled. The Governor is giving much attention to the selection of the right kind of men for these places.

In the meanwhile, not only the rank and file as well as the leaders of the Republican party were happy, but the people as a rule, too, are gratified and happy, that the cloud which hung over New Mexico has passed away.

appropriation of one-quarter of a million dollars is provided for the establishment of a National Tuberculosis hospital in the state of Colorado, is provided for in a bill introduced by Representative Sabbath today. The bill directs the secretary of the treasury to acquire a site comprising not less than 20,000 acres and to erect suitable buildings and supply complete equipment for the use and treatment of any persons in the United States.

Many New Bills in Congress.
Washington, March 23.—There were introduced in the Senate yesterday 495 bills and four joint resolutions. The majority of these measures were on subjects of which action was sought at the last session. Mr. Heyburn introduced a large number of land bills, drawn on the line of measures heretofore considered and also reintroduced the bill providing for a new executive department to be known as the "department of mines."

CALL FOR TRANS. MISSISSIPPI CONGRESS

Program of Great Meeting at Denver Covers a Wide Range of Subjects.—Thomas F. Walsh President.

Question of the forest reserve policy are to be thrashed out at the Trans-Mississippi congress in Denver next summer. The question of whether the states or the government shall control the forests of the nation occupies a prominent place in the program of the congress, which has just been issued by Thomas F. Walsh, president of the organization.

"Reverting to the question of conservation," the call says under the caption of "The Public Domain," "with special reference to the forests and the public domain, the executive committee directs attention to the action of the Denver session of 1891, which recommended the reversion of all public lands to the states as a speedy solution of problems that were likely to arise.

"It is submitted, as shown by the increasing agitation over the administration of the forest reserves, that these problems anticipated at that time, as demonstrated in the passage of the Carey act, now have become vexed questions, calling for some speedy action, alike unprejudiced to the interests of the general government and states of the Trans-Mississippi section.

"The executive committee places this question upon the program, with the hope that intelligent discussion will lead to conclusions of advantage when the questions in detail are laid before the national congress."

Other questions recommended as germane to the object of the congress are:

Irrigation and reclamation of semi-arid lands. Waterway improvements. Drainage of submerged lands. Disposition of public lands. Scientific dry farming. Alaska. Separate statehood for New Mexico and Arizona. Parcels post. Postal savings banks. Insurance. Trade relations with Mexico, Central and South America. Gulf ports and the railroads. Conservation of natural resources. Panama canal. Hawaii. The Philippines. Department of mines. Immigration. Good roads. Sugar beet and cane industry. Barataria and LaFourche canal. National finance. Consular service.

Wide Representation Desired.
The call is addressed to governors, mayors, county commissioners, chambers of commerce, boards of trade, manufacturing, mining, mercantile and all other associations whose interests are discussed by the organization, bidding them send delegates to the twentieth annual congress, which will meet August 16 to 21. The representation is provided for on the following basis:

Governors may appoint ten and not more than twenty delegates; mayors one delegate-at-large and one for every 5,000 inhabitants (limited to ten); each business organization may appoint one delegate-at-large and one for every fifty members (limited to ten); each county may appoint one delegate.

Governors of states and territories, members of the congress of the United States and former presidents of the Transmississippi Commercial Congress are ex-officio members, with all the privileges of delegates, except voting.

The call is signed by Thomas F. Walsh, president (Wolhurst), Denver, Colo.; Ike T. Pryor, chairman executive committee, San Antonio, Texas; Sam F. Dutton, vice-chairman executive committee, Denver, Colo.; Arthur R. Briggs, chairman advisory committee, San Francisco, Cal.; Fred W. Fleming, chairman congressional committee, Kansas City, Mo.; Fred G. Moffat, treasurer, Denver, Colo., and Arthur F. Francis, secretary to the congress.

Panama and the West.

After calling attention to the fact that the congress was born in Denver and reconvenes for the first time in nineteen years in the place of its cradling, the call goes on to outline the program as follows:

"The executive committee presents for careful consideration the question of closer commercial relations between the people of the United States and those of the Latin republics, with special reference to the early completion of the Panama canal and the consequent result stimulating commercial development in the Transmississippi states, to which this international highway is directly tributary."

KIDNAPED BOY RETURNS

Father Pays Ten Thousand Dollars
Ransom

LEFT AT ONCE FOR HOME

Police of Cleveland, Ohio, Still Seeking the Outlaws.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 23.—Vast throngs filled the streets this morning when "Billie" Whittle, the kidnapped child, was returned to his father in the Hollenden hotel. The boy was placed on a street car in the outskirts of the city and was sent to the hotel where the parents waited. Previously, by agreement, the father left ten thousand dollars in a little suburban grocery where a few moments later a man entered and received the money. The boy was then sent to the father. The latter made no statement but left at once for his home at Sharon, Pa. The police are still seeking the kidnappers.

Willie's Story.
Whittle received the newspaper men later. Willie told his story as best he could.

"Papa," said the boy in a tone of childish prattle, "I have been buggy riding, been on cars and in a nice big white house that looked like a hospital. I have been treated nice and had lots of good things to eat."

"One man, tall and with a black moustache, came to the school house Thursday and told my teacher, Mrs. Anna Lewis, that you wanted me at your office. I went out to a buggy with him. I got in and then he got in. Then we rode away. On the way down town he asked me to address a letter to you. I did so and dropped it into a mail box. He was awfully kind."

"We went from Sharon to Warren. We had the nicest trip. The man who was the same one who brought me to the car line tonight, was nice to me. "When we got to a place, the man said was Warren, the man left the buggy in the road. Then we got on what I think was an electric car. I don't just remember what it was, but it was something like a street car. I became sleepy when we got on the car and I slept most of the way to the place where we were going."

"When we got to a town that the man called New Castle they took me to a big building and turned me over to a woman. She was good to me. The hospital, or whatever the building was, was a clean place. There was a man there who looked like a doctor, because he had whiskers—Short gray whiskers. The people in the hospital said that I must do just what they told me to do. If I did not obey them they said they would take me to a place called the pest house where folks that have smallpox have to go. It was not a clean or pretty place, they told me. I walked the chalk line just like a good boy, papa, like you have told me to do."

"On Saturday night I was taken away from the hospital and I think we went to a town called Ashabula. We traveled in a buggy and on foot. Early in the morning we went back to the hospital. I heard one of the men say "there will be nothing doing tonight, I guess."

"I might have been right in Cleveland, though papa, for some of the town I saw tonight on the car looked like the place we went to Saturday."

"They told me all along that I was just taking a little vacation. I was not going to be hurt, they said. So I just acted nice and had a good time playing around the hospital. I knew I would get back home all right and just supposed Mr. Jones was one of my friends who was treating me nice because you wanted him to treat me that way, papa, dear."

The boy told the story slowly. His father sat as if in a trance. The music of his boy's voice seemed to charm him.

Stroking the blonde locks of Willie he said:

"God bless you my darling boy." "Whittle handed the boy to Detective Perkins and reaching into a grip produced a little night dress for the boy. Whittle stripped the little sweater, pants, stockings, shoes and underclothes the same ones that the boy wore away when he was kidnapped, from off the child's form and robing him in the nightgown prepared him for bed. He was asleep in a few minutes.

At a conference with Captain Shattuck of the Cleveland police, Whittle said that he believed that his boy had been drugged after being taken from school by the kidnappers. He came to the conclusion, he said, because the

MOVING PICTURES VIOLATE COPYRIGHT

U. S. Court Restrains Production of Scenes From Ben Hur Without Publishers' Permission.

By a decision rendered this week in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, a moving picture exhibition is held to be a stage representation violative of the rights of the author's copyrighted book.

The question arose in a suit brought by Klaw & Erlanger and Harper & Brothers against the Kalem Company to enjoin the moving picture exhibition of "Ben Hur." The Kalem Company, which is a member of the moving picture trust, admitted that the scenes which were being exhibited were taken from General Lew Wallace's book "Ben Hur," but it urged through its counsel, Drury W. Cooper, that the representation was only an exhibition of pictures and not a dramatic performance under the copyright law, and that in any event the statute was unconstitutional which sought to prevent moving pictures, because it was not a "writing" within the meaning of the constitution which vested in Congress the power to secure to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their "writings."

Klaw & Erlanger and Harpers & Brothers were represented by John Larkin and David Gerber, and it was shown that over five hundred different theatrons were giving exhibitions of "Ben Hur" throughout the country, and while they conceded that the questions presented had never been decided in this country because the moving picture was a matter of recent discovery and development, still as an author was protected in the story which he originated, any method of conveying to the public that story, whether in pantomime, dialogue or by means of moving pictures, was a violation of the author's exclusive right to his origination.

The Circuit Court of Appeals held that in order to give a moving picture exhibition it was necessary to take the novel of the author and prepare a synopsis or story, which was in effect a dramatization and that the author alone had the right to make or authorize a dramatization and that therefore a moving picture exhibition of a story of an author violated the author's exclusive right secured to him by his copyright.

Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks have accepted a play by Mrs. Gertrude Andrews, entitled "Through a Window," which they will produce early next fall.

Fannie Ward has purchased from Channing Pollock the English rights of a one-act play, entitled "With Her Back to the Wall," which she will present next summer in London. The piece was especially written for Miss Ward because of Mr. Pollock's recognition of her work in his dramatization of "In the Bishop's Carriage."

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire" is doing phenomenal business on the Pacific Coast. Her season will not close until the middle of June. She will open in her new play "The Widow's Might," by Edmund Day, in New York City the middle of September. Will Archie, who is playing the part of the stable boy, will be featured in "Wildfire" next season.

Joseph Brooks has engaged Eleanor Moretti for the part of the Egyptian, Iras, in "Ben Hur" next season. Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks are organizing an exceptionally strong company for this play for next season and will present it in the larger cities, such as New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Washington, Baltimore, Chicago and Pittsburgh.

"The Right of Way," Klaw & Erlanger's production of the dramatization of Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, in which Guy Standing and Theodore Roberts are starring, is one of the successes of the season on the Pacific Coast, despite the fact that the play was not received with the cordiality it deserved in the East. Messrs. Standing and Roberts remain together next season, appearing in an American play in which there are two big roles.

"The Round Up," Klaw & Erlanger's big play of the Arizona desert, by Edmund Day, has captured the West. Next season it will be sent through the South and out to the Pacific Coast, with a strong cast. Maclyn Arbuckle, however, will not play the role of the sheriff, as he has been called upon to create the leading role in Eugene Presbrey's new play, "The Circus Man," which will be produced by Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks in Chicago next August. "The Circus Man" will be one of those big productions for which Klaw & Erlanger have become famous.

A Religious Author's Statement.

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." Sold by all druggists.

WHEN THE CLOCK HANDS TURN BACK

Revealing What Appeared in the New Mexican Twenty Years Ago. March 24, 1889.

Justice Stanley Matthews, an eminent jurist, died yesterday at Washington, D. C.

Considerable trouble is being experienced by the territories of Arizona and Montana in the matter of having governors appointed.

Captain Smith H. Simpson is in the city from the Taos valley.

Among the advertisers on this day appear the First National Bank with William W. Griffin as president, Pedro Perea as vice-president, and R. J. Palen as cashier; the Second National Bank, L. Cartwright & Co.; Julius Gerdes; C. M. Creamer; A. C. Ireland, Jr.; Jacob Weltmer and the Fulton Market.

Editorial—Governor Ross of New Mexico has resigned. The territory will probably be able to survive the loss.—Denver Times. No. Governor Ross has not yet resigned, but it is understood that he may somewhere in the future do so. The territory, without doubt, will survive the loss.

Messrs. H. B. Cartwright and E. S. Griswold today bought out E. N. Reaser's retail grocery establishment. Mr. Reaser who heretofore has also been in the wholesale grocery business, will continue in that line.

A Washington correspondent has it that Major W. H. H. Llewellyn is out of the race for the U. S. marshalship but is a candidate for Congress before the coming territorial convention. The New Mexican, however, has positive information that the Major is still in the race.

Secretary of War George Curry entertained at Washington a number of Rough Rider friends from New Mexico. Curry's appointment as secretary of war has been meeting with universal approval.

Since the D. & R. G. has established a main line through Santa Fe, it can readily be foreseen that Santa Fe will rapidly become an important shipping center.

The Mullen requisition matter which ten years ago was appealed to the U. S. supreme court, will probably come up for trial at Washington this week. Mullen is still fighting hard.

The New Mexican will on next Sunday increase its Sunday edition from 100 to 150 pages. This will undoubtedly increase its circulation, which has already passed the 800,000 mark. The new fifteen story newspaper building will in all likelihood be completed within three months, when an entire new plant of modern newspaper machinery will be installed.

Governor Bursum and staff left this afternoon on their aeroplane "Statehood" for a trip of an official nature to the planet Mars. Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan accompanied the party, supposedly to gain information regarding the Martian canals, so as to be able to improve upon the present system of New Mexico irrigation, which has already been developed scientifically beyond all former expectations.

The last parcel of government land was filed on yesterday. This is the only piece of uncultivated land in the entire territory.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

CURRY WILL STAY!

There was a rift in the clouds over New Mexico's skies last evening and today the sun is once more shining. Governor Curry is reconsidering his resignation and there are indications that he will be chief executive of the Territory until fall, and the New Mexican hopes, until statehood comes, and longer. Advice from Washington indicate that there was merely a misunderstanding at the National capital and that Governor Curry possesses the confidence of the National administration as fully as he did under the Roosevelt regime. It would have been strange if this had not been the case, for the few who have been permitted to have a glimpse of the personal relations of Governor Curry and President Taft when they were both striving to solve the great national problem in the Philippines, wondered that there could be even intimations or suggestions that all was not well between New Mexico's executive head and the executive of the Nation. But this much is certain now, no matter what may be Governor Curry's final decision, he has had a convincing demonstration of the fact that the people of New Mexico, and the Republican party in particular, desire him to stay at the head of New Mexico affairs, and he has also had sufficient evidence from Washington that he has the absolute confidence of the President of the United States and that the desire of the latter for George Curry to remain at his post of duty is no less keen than is that of the people of the territory. Governor Curry has been too good a soldier to disobey what are equivalent to orders, expressions of the popular will and a wish of his ranking officer.

GROWTH OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

But few people in Santa Fe have an adequate idea of the development of southeastern Santa Fe county, especially in the vicinity of Stanley. The Stanley Index gives several examples of successful farming on land that is much drier than the waste tracts in the immediate vicinity of this city. It tells a story of G. W. Hearte, aged 65, and his two sons, who came last spring from Texas and filed on 480 acres, 160 of which were immediately put into crops yielding a bountiful harvest by fall. This spring 280 acres are being plowed and seeded, mainly in beans, Kaffir corn and millet, which are especially adapted to dry farming. Fifty acres will be planted in beans, five acres in potatoes and a small tract will be tested for yams. Nine miles southwest of Stanley, D. C. Martin, who came from Oklahoma, occupies with his three sons and daughters, 800 acres of public land on which they have built a comfortable home, and sunk a deep well, while their plowing is done with a steam outfit. They have a large hay press and will install a bean thresher, for beans will be a staple crop, although corn and oats will also be raised in large quantities, as well as millet, sugar beets and potatoes.

Fully three thousand pounds of seed beans will be planted and this crop alone will yield more than enough to pay all the other farm expenses. Similarly, the example of George Jacobs, seven miles west of Stanley, is cited. He has built himself and family a comfortable home; will put ten acres into beans, and the rest of his homestead in corn, oats, cane and potatoes. From all this it is apparent that dry farming in Santa Fe county is being given a test that in case of success will result in every acre of agricultural land being put under cultivation within the next five years. This would result in doubling population and tax values and making Santa Fe a city of at least, 12,000 people, more than one-half of whom would be newcomers from other towns and states.

One of the arguments against the government ownership of public utilities, has been potentially illustrated the past few days in France, where a strike of telegraphers came near overthrowing the French government and degenerating into a bloody revolution. A general panic and famine in Paris were prevented only by the French authorities meekly surrendering to the strikers. It need not be added that with the successful ending of their strike against the government, the national employees will henceforth become overbearing and will in the future continue to make demands, the satisfaction of which will ultimately bring about the end of the republic.

Oh, how some of the few knackers still remaining in Santa Fe cackled last evening and how crestfallen and silent they are today!

CALLED THE DENVER PAPER TO TIME.

Under the heading, "Denver Paper Falsifies," the Raton Range nails one of the stupid lies of that paper, which further distinguished itself last evening through its morning counterpart, the Denver News, by wiring its correspondent at Santa Fe to dress up a sensational story of Governor Curry's resignation and some of his recent acts: Says the Range:

"Governor George Curry of New Mexico is one of the Roosevelt appointees who may have to make good under the Taft administration or lose their jobs. Governor Curry was a great friend of the late president. He is now under charge of lobbying in connection with the bill to admit New Mexico to the Union and wholesale land frauds. He was recently ordered back to the territory from Washington and compelled to reimburse the territory for moneys spent on a lobbying expedition in connection with statehood.—Denver Times.

"If the Denver Times would read its exchanges, consult recent history, or look for facts as zealously as it chases phantoms, it would know that Governor Curry has never spent a dollar of public money 'lobbying' for statehood. It would know that Governor Curry was not 'compelled' to reimburse the territory for any money at any time. It would know that urging before Congress the admission of New Mexico was a prerogative in the exercise of which Governor Curry earned the gratitude of the people of this territory and the commendation of the president. And, finally, it would know that it was his exemplification of rare administrative capacity in directing the Philippine constabulary, under the eyes of Governor Taft, that caused the Philippine governor who is now president to commend him to Roosevelt as deserving of an executive appointment.

"No, Governor Curry doesn't 'have to make good' to President Taft, to the people of New Mexico, or to anybody else. His record is clean and his reputation is safe."

AN OPPORTUNITY.

The March number of The Earth, as usual, is full of meat for home-seekers. It prints convincing pictures of dry farming and irrigation scenes in the southwest and it also tells the plain, unvarnished tales of homeseekers who mixed brain and brawn with the fertile soil and therefore succeeded where others failed. In the past, it reprints the story of G. A. Martin of El Paso to the Dry Farming Congress, in which he demonstrated that $100 an acre can be made by scientific soil culture; it prints a one page article descriptive of Vaughn, its advantages as a growing town and its strategic location at the junction of the Rock Island and Santa Fe Systems in Guadalupe county; George H. Maxwell presents convincing argument why "Five Acres Beat Five Dollars a Day," in irrigated regions; T. J. Mabry describes "Broomcorn Raising Near St. Vrain," and John L. Cowan, well known in Santa Fe, describes "Farming the Semi-Arid Lands." There are other articles equally as interesting to New Mexico, and reproductions of fine photographs taken in the Mesilla Valley and other garden spots. After reading The Earth, it takes no further argument to convince the average man that the publication is right when it says:

"Get a farm! The federal government still holds, subject to homestead entry, many million acres of land in the great Southwest. You are entitled to 320 acres if you want it. Do you? Much of this land can be cultivated successfully. Not by ordinary methods, but through scientific soil culture. You must mix your brain with your brawn. Millions of acres have been filed on during the past three years. Everywhere there are successful farms being established. What is left will soon be taken up. Act while there is still time. It is an opportunity. Investigate it."

Aerial navigation is no longer a problem. The cable brought the news yesterday that Count Zeppelin's airship had traveled one hundred and fifty miles under perfect control, in four hours, and that it had on board twenty-six men. This announcement is of as great import to the world as was the invention of powder, or of the steam engine. No wonder that Emperor William has set his heart upon the immediate construction of a large aerial navy, and a magazine this week publishes a picture illustrating the alighting of such a navy upon a hostile town. It is certain that new problems in warfare, in transportation, are about to arise that open vistas for epoch-making achievements.

There can be no objection to the committees of Congress at work on the tariff schedules keeping their discussions and proposed changes from the public. Not that there is anything to hide, but to protect the business interests of the Nation from disturbance which surely follows any long discussion through the public press of any movement that will make a change in the affairs of any large industry. However, it is gratifying to be assured that Congress will not enact tariff legislation that will materially hurt any of the greater industries and especially none that will injure New Mexico's industrial interests, for there will be merely slight, if any changes, in the wool schedules; it is very likely also that the agitation for free hides will fail and the importation of free sugar from Cuba and the Philippines will be limited. The Republican party will be sure to do what is right and what will disturb the industries of the country least. But let the Nation imagine for a moment what would have been the case if the Democrats were in power. Instead of restoration of confidence and return of prosperity there would be panic at the mere thought that the Democrats were tinkering with the tariff.

As the New Mexican had predicted, the Democrats of the Colorado legislature have totally failed to rise to a realization of their duties. A Democratic legislature very seldom does. It has become necessary for the Democratic governor to send a "scolding" message to the Solons and tell them that if they cannot keep their pledges to the people they should at least resign and make way for men who would possess enough manhood to keep a promise. Unfortunate Colorado! Rent and riven by industrial troubles for years and at last to fall into the hands of an unprincipled Democratic gang is to be inflicted with the climax of misfortunes. Were it not for the fact that Colorado is Republican at heart; that its resources are limitless, it would be in a bad fix indeed, but under circumstances it will wake some morning to find that it had only a bad nightmare and that with the Republican party in power again, the interrupted march of progress will be resumed.

That an eight-year-old boy can be taken out of school in broad daylight by a party of kidnapers and these escape and elude the pursuit of detectives and police, is one of the mysteries of modern civilization. It is well high impossible nowadays for the shrewdest malefactor doing his work in the dead of night and without a witness being near, to escape detection and conviction finally, but here a trio of men do openly and in the sight of many witnesses, a most reprehensible act and yet, despite the expenditure of a fortune for detectives and the tempting offers of big rewards, thus far have made good their escape. After all, there are limitations to the power of the human mind to prevent or of the human arm to punish wrong-doing.

Contracts for $129,170 worth of improvements at Fort Bayard were let the past few days, which gives an indication of the large scale upon which the United States government is planning its military sanitarium for consumptives. It also gives proof of the confidence that Uncle Sam possesses in the climate cure, and New Mexico's climate particularly, for the conquest of tuberculosis. This example should result in general acknowledgment by the medical fraternity and information of the people in general, that the line of triumph over the dreaded white plague leads to the plateaus of New Mexico.

The Homesteader is the name of a new weekly journal published at East Las Vegas by Joseph P. Joquef. "It is a seven column, four page newspaper, neatly printed," is all that can be said for it at present. It consists of three pages of "plate" matter and advertisements, and six columns of home reading matter on the first page, but there is no telling to what importance it may grow in the future, although Las Vegas is the graveyard of many a more ambitious newspaper venture, that promised greater success at the start than The Homesteader.

Eggs at Roswell are selling at fifteen cents a dozen. Another potent argument for the extension of the New Mexico Central to the lower Pecos Valley. Then Santa Fe might swap "egg" ocal from the Hagan fields for the freshly laid eggs of the Artesian belt. Eggs at Santa Fe sell 35 to 50 cents a dozen and coal sells at Roswell at $10 a ton. That would leave margin enough for freight, middleman and a handsome reduction to the consumer at both ends.

Editor Don H. Kedzie is naive and philosophical about the failure of Pyramid county being created, for he says in his latest issue of the Western Liberal, at Lordsburg, Grant county:

"Congress adjourned without admitting New Mexico.
"The legislature adjourned without admitting Pyramid.
"The tall went with the hide."

Remarks the Register Tribune at Roswell: "It is a real genuine pity that Roswell can't be induced to go into the daily newspaper field. Ditto Governor Haskell. Wouldn't there be something doing if one got a job on the Santa Fe New Mexican and the other on the Albuquerque Journal?" Wouldn't there? Some legislators would not have escaped without a flaying in that case.

The New Mexico sun today shriveled many a gubernatorial aspiration and ambition. It is a pity that there are not a dozen or so governorships to go around among eager patriots willing to occupy the new executive mansion on the hill overlooking Santa Fe.

How the weekly newspapers feel on the temperance question may be gathered from the following item in last week's Willard Record: "The High Life Saloon burned down last Friday night. We did not learn the origin of the fire. There is nothing in town that can be spared so well."

Prof. H. A. Howell, of Havana, Cuba, Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3rd our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by all druggists.

CHASING ALLEGED CATTLE THIEVES

J. S. Eaton Followed Them for Twelve Hundred Miles From Socorro County to Kansas City, Mo.

The story of the chase of two alleged cattle thieves over a distance of 1,200 miles was told in Trinidad, Colorado, by J. S. Eaton, a prominent New Mexico cattleman on his way home from Kansas City. A short time ago two cattlemen, named Fulghun and Foley, of Magdalena, thirty miles west of Socorro, are said to have driven a big bunch of cattle to Albuquerque, from where they shipped them to Kansas City. Eaton gained word that a lot of the cattle bore the brands of other ranchers, boarded the train at San Marcial and beat the freight into Kansas City. The two alleged thieves saw Eaton when they reached the yards and skipped. Eaton placed the stock in the hands of the inspectors who sorted the beeves, credited the different brands and notified the several owners. Fulghun and Foley are said to have dropped out of sight.

Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs quickly, strengthens the lungs and expels colds. Get the genuine in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

AUTOMOBILE RACE

ATTRACTS ATTENTION
Seattle, Washington, March 23.—The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition automobile race from New York City to the Exposition grounds in Seattle bids fair to result in more good roads activity than has all the campaigning of the last half dozen years.

Every county in the state of Washington through which the course of the Transcontinental racers will run, is busy building and repairing its principal highways. The same is to be said of the state of Idaho and word comes from other states on the western end of the route that similar work will be begun once the exact route is indicated.

On invitation from boards of supervisors in Idaho, M. Robert Guggenheim, promoter of the race and donor of the Guggenheim trophy, has started on an auto tour over the western end of the route. With a party of friends he took one of his big touring cars through Snoqualmie Pass, out of Seattle, and is now making his way slowly through eastern Washington, carefully inspecting all roads and making suggestions for their repair and for signboards which will mark the way for the racers. He will go on across the state and through Idaho on the same mission. He plans to end his trip in Green River, Wyoming.

A party of Seattle auto drivers will go out from this city to meet the scout cars which will leave New York City and Chicago on March 25 for the purpose of marking the route and arranging the checking stations along the 3,800 miles of raceway.

The offer of $250 made by Mr. Guggenheim for the best design for a trophy to cost $2,000, has resulted in designs and models being sent in from artists all over the country and Canada. The committee having this matter in charge has recently sent out notice that the contract for making the trophy will be given to the maker of the accepted design, if he shall be equipped for the work.

THE PRISONED FAY.

A Fay in a giant emerald
Was prisoned a thousand years;
No ear had heard her pleading,
No mortal saw her tears;
And still she grieved and waited,
Still she hoped and prayed;
And looked for an hour of ransom,
Tho' that he long delayed.

On the mountain side about her,
The song-birds came and went;
Round those crags that towered above her,

The storm-god's wrath was spent;
The power of the forceful torrent
Tore all her bands away;
Till, leaping the raging cataract,
At the mountain foot she lay.

'Twas only a new-born river,
Swayed from a hisping rill;
'Twas only a lad, who found her,
Tending his flocks on the hill;
The day-old river left her,
Sparkling there on the sand;
The barefoot-boy a-wading came,
And soon she was in his hand.

His flocks amidst, on the hillside,
He sat him down to think;
And into the green-gemmed prison
His heart sank deep to drink;
Swift out, on a wild rose petal,
Now sprang the unfettered Fay—
The glow of his palm had riven
Her hateful bars that day.

The dry ad-hands that thonged her,
Fast in that ancient wold;
The vengeful deeds they wrought her,
Are tales that are not told;
But somewhere on yon mountain,
The emerald river, dwells;
And there in joy at her ransom,
They are ringing the Elfin-bells.

—Dr. James Henderson.
Santa Fe, N. M., March 18, 1909.
NOT A STAR!
Not a star from the flag shall be taken,
Not a star to the flag be denied;

Its folds are as broad as the heavens
And for it men battled and died.
Ah, truly we cherish and love it,—
The nation of freemen we are;
No other shall e'er wave above it,
Its beauty enhanced by each star.

'Twere base to be churlish o'er craven,
Or say to our brother, "Nay! Nay!"
You shall not have a place with the others;
Not worthy for Statehood today!"

The old flag shall shame all your scheming
To keep from another his right,
And a new star shall rise in the morning,
When she flashes again in the light.

—Dr. James Henderson.

A falling tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or falling Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by Stripling, Burrows & Co.

Georgia's State Chemist Praises Cottolene

J. H. McCandless, State Chemist of Georgia, before a recent gathering of Cotton Seed men, gave emphatic praise to the high quality of Cottolene. He said:

"The sale of this product and the proclamation that it is made of cotton seed oil have done more to bring cotton seed oil truthfully and favorably before the public than anything else in recent history."

Mr. McCandless then pointed out how a pure, refined, vegetable-oil basis, such as is in Cottolene, is the only assurance a woman has of a clean, digestible, cooking product. It seems a positive wonder in the light of all that has lately been said and written, and of what is known of lard, where it comes from, of what it may be made, and how little chance there is to get pure lard, that anyone will continue its use, when pure, sweet and healthful Cottolene can be so easily obtained.

COTTOLENE is Guaranteed Your grocer is hereby authorized to refund your money in case you are not pleased, after having given Cottolene a fair test.
Never Sold in Bulk Cottolene is packed in pails with an airtight top to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome, and prevent it from catching dust and absorbing disagreeable odors, such as fish, oil, etc.

Objects to Name—A new paper has been added to the little paper family. The New Mexico Progress, "published by the deaf and for their interests," at the "New Mexico Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb." The first number is before us, a four page sheet, nicely gotten up and neatly printed; the work being done by the pupils. We hope when New Mexico is admitted to statehood our sister institution will drop the obnoxious title of "Deaf and Dumb Asylum." A school for the deaf is no more an asylum than is a public school, both of which are supported by the public money of the state. Very few of our schools now use the term "deaf and dumb," the word deaf expressing all that is necessary and does not grate on the nerves.—From Le Conteux Leader, Buffalo.

Fine Art Folders—The New Mexican today received three folders, one of them advertising the time tables and attractions of the New Mexico Central Route and the other two issued by the Santa Fe System. The New Mexico Central folder is printed in red and black and besides condensed time tables gives a double page map of the railroad and its proposed extensions. The Santa Fe folders advertise the Supreme Lodge meeting of the Elks at Los Angeles in July and the Gates excursions to Mexico. Both are beautifully illustrated and are fine specimens of the printer's craftsmanship.

Offices Will Be in the Laughlin Block About April First.

The officials of the New Mexico Central have decided to change the location of their offices. A suite of rooms has been leased in the second floor of the Laughlin block, which will be used by the executive department. The ticket office will be located in part of the large room on the ground floor, occupied by the United States Bank and Trust Company. The bank will remain where it is.

It is understood that the present location of the New Mexico Central Railroad will later be occupied by the Santa Fe Post Office, though this story has not been confirmed.

Santa Fe Swastikas Organized—The Santa Fe Swastika Baseball team was re-organized last week. They played good ball last year, winning the majority of their games. They are practicing daily, and in two or three weeks more will be ready to meet any team in the city. They will greatly miss their last year star pitcher, Ben Alarid, who is now playing in Colorado. The following officers were named: Felipe Perea, manager; Luis M. Baca, captain; Felipe Ortiz, secretary; Armando Larragoite, treasurer. Any team wanting games with them should write or see Felipe Perea, the manager. The roster of the team is as follows: Felipe Perea, Daniel C. Ortiz, Luis M. Baca, Lucio Baca, Armando Larragoite, Felipe Ortiz, Abran Sena, Manuel Abeytia, Frank Garcia, Celso Montoya, Miguel Baca.

Delivering the Goods—The pictures at the Opera House were greeted by an enthusiastic audience at both shows last night. The first reel, "A Voice from the Dead," shows a great foundry at work casting cannon, the strike of the hands, the sudden death of the senior partner, the accusation and trial of superintendent as his murderer, and the voice from the photograph showing his innocence. The second shows Henry B. Dixey in his great character of "David Garlick," in the play of that name and the last is Edison's latest and greatest film of Rider Haggard's story of "She." This makes one of the largest shows given and will only be on tonight and Wednesday night. As is usual with all shows the Opera House will close the winter season this week and will remain closed for two weeks until Easter Monday, April 11, when Manager Dettelbach will open for the summer season with renewed attractions, announcement of which will be made later on.

ARBOR DAY PROCLAMATION

Santa Fe County Will Observe April 16th On Account of Late Season.

Whereas, Governor Curry has designated Friday, March 26, 1909, as Arbor Day for New Mexico, and whereas it is rather early in Santa Fe county to plant trees, the frost not yet being out of the ground in many places, and whereas Section 1625 of the school law says: "That the actual planting of trees may be done on the day designated, or at such other most convenient time as may best conform to local climatic conditions, such other time to be designated and due notice thereof given by the several county superintendents of schools for their respective counties."

Therefore, I, J. V. Conway, do hereby designate and appoint Friday, April 16, 1909, as Arbor Day for Santa Fe county, and urge all public school teachers and their pupils of the schools of said county to spend the day in planting trees on their respective school premises and as many other places as possible. It is to be hoped that many public spirited citizens will help along in this good work.

Respectfully,
JOHN V. CONWAY,
County Superintendent of Santa Fe County.

KIDNAPED BOY RETURNS.

boy was able to tell a fairly consecutive story of his capture and trip to the lair of the kidnapers as far as Warren. The fact that Willie fell asleep on the car between Warren and the place the lad believes was New Castle is considered further evidence of drugging.

Whittla gave little encouragement to the police who wanted to start in their search immediately. He said: "After the lad is safe at home I will talk about the kidnapers."

Boy Still in Stupor.—Cleveland, Ohio, March 23.—It will be several days before Willie Whittla, the kidnaped boy, returned to his parents can tell of his wanderings. The boy is recovering from a stupor evidently produced by the narcotics given him. He scarcely knew his father when given his liberty. The kidnapers laid their plans with consummate skill. None of the tracks can be followed beyond the points they left exposed. The police are making a wide search.

Sharon, Pa., March 23.—Billy Whitla's home town went wild with cheering when the lad was brought from the train. Vast crowds followed the cab from the depot and surrounded the house. The uncle of the boy had planned a huge celebration for tonight in honor of the boy's return. After

 TWO PERISHED
 IN BLIZZARD

 New Mexico Hunters Found Frozen
 Stiff On the Mesa Between Vaughn and Casaus.

A dispatch from Vaughn, Guadalupe county, says that the bodies of John Kibler and George Clark, who were lost in the big blizzard of March 10, were found by a searching party from Casaus, the bodies lying not far from that place. The men went out on a hunting trip just before the storm came and nothing had been heard of them until today. The bodies were in a fairly well preserved condition. That of Clark, the younger man, was first found lying on his back with hands crossed on breast and gun by his side. Kibler's corpse was discovered some 300 yards further on toward the mountains and he evidently died in his tracks while struggling on to get aid for the younger man. He lay face downward on the ground having evidently pitched forward as he walked.

Clark's body will be buried at Vaughn, his friends in this section having generously contributed the burial expenses. Kibler's body was at once shipped to St. Joseph, Mo., for interment upon instructions from the brother of the deceased who was at once notified.
