WHERE LIONS ARE PLENTY

Roosevelt in Heart of Wild Game Country

SMALLPOX IN CAPAVAN

But No New Cases Were Reported From Kapiti Plains This Forenoon.

Nairobi, East Africa, April 26.—Roosevelt left Kapiti Plains yesterday and went to the ranch of Sir Alfred Pease on the Athi river. Major Mearns, Edmund Heller and J. Alden Loring, members of the party went to Sir Alfred's this morning. George McMillan and F. C. Selous will go to Macakes via the Pease ranch on Wednesday. Lions are reported numerous on McMillan's ranch and a herd of 150 buffalo is on Mr. Heatley's ranch where Roosevelt will hunt. The prospects for a hunt today are exceptionally good. No more cases of smallpox are reported in the Roosevelt caravan.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Plans.

Oyster Bay, April 26.—Instead of remaining in Europe for the winter and traveling up the Nile to meet the former President, Mrs. Roosevelt will return to the United States on November 1, according to the plans announced. Mrs. Roosevelt with Miss Ethel, Archie and Quentin will sail for Europe on July 1.

Roosevelt and Kermit Indisposed.

Both Roosevelt and son Kermit are indisposed today as the result of their hunting activity and their journey from the Kapiti Plains to the ranch of Alfred Pease on the Athi river. They are resting from their fatigue at the ranch.

GOOD AMATEUR BASE BALL

Spectators at the ball park yesterday afternoon were afforded much interesting amusement when the ball team from the U. S. Indian Industrial School clashed with the regular Santa Fe team. From the very start until the middle of the ninth inning, the Santa Fe boys were completely at the mercy of the "Redskin" twirler. On the other hand the boys from the Indian school, in spite of the excellent pitching of Edward Safford succeeded in getting on bases very frequently and soon had piled up six runs. The Indians completely out-fielded their opponents throughout the entire game. Up to the ninth inning the Santa Fe boys had made but two hits, one of these a fluke Texas leaguer. In the ninth with two men gone and the chances in favor of a shut-out, Van Burg succeeded in clouting the ball to right-center for two bags. Five singles followed in quick succession and as a result three runs were scored. However, just as the third run had crossed the pan, Elmer Marsh who had made an opportune single, overran second base and was touched out, this putting an end to a strong batting rally. Though the Santa Fe team was beaten, it was demonstrated that Santa Fe is well represented and has an excellent team, which a little more practice will make hard to beat.

Santa Fe Browns Win.

At the St. Michael's College grounds the Santa Fe Browns yesterday afternoon played a team composed of the younger students and succeeded in laying them to the tune of 23 to 16.

Swastikas Licked.

The Santa Fe Swastikas were overwhelmingly defeated in a one-sided game by the St. Michael's College boys yesterday on the College campus, the features of the game being the hitting of Borrego, Lopez, Savage and Lucero. The score 21 to 1.

Curry Brown Lose.

The Curry Browns met their second defeat this season at the hands of the St. Michael's College Mirgets in a fast and interesting game. The Browns played an excellent game, but they were not able to connect with the slants of young Gomez and Schutz. The score was 19 to 13.

SANTA FE PROGRESSIVE ASSOCIATION

Booster's Organization Pure and Simple to Be Incorporated in the Near Future.

Articles of incorporation are to be filed soon for the Santa Fe Progressive Association, of which all business men will be asked to become and should become members. The association is to be not for pecuniary purposes but for the sole idea of boosting Santa Fe. The objects as enumerated in the certificate of incorporation will be "to promote the general prosperity of all the varied interests of the Territory of New Mexico, and especially those of the City of Santa Fe and vicinity thereof, to procure, preserve and disseminate information in relation to commercial, financial and industrial affairs that may be of general interest and value; to encourage scientific and literary pursuits; to secure uniformity in commercial laws and customs, to facilitate business intercourse, and to promote equitable principles, as well as the adjustment of contests and disputes in trade; to lease, erect or acquire, by purchase or otherwise, a suitable building or buildings, and all the necessary real estate for the same, for the uses of the association, to establish a library, to maintain reading room, assembly hall and club rooms," in short to be a progressive commercial organization working for the material welfare and advancement of the city first, last and all the time, just such as Santa Fe needs. The objects are further elucidated in the preamble to the by-laws which provides for the promotion of "the general prosperity of all the varied interests of the city and its vicinity—that is to say its trade and commerce, its art and manufacturers; its banking, exchange and brokerage; its mining and smelting; its stock and wool growing interests; its agricultural and horticultural interests; its architecture and public improvements; its educational, professional, social, moral and benevolent interests, and to promote efficient, honest and economical government, and to oppose by all honorable means, opposition to these and all other public interests."

The plan is that of a number of progressive, energetic, loyal citizens who are perfecting the ways and means to send Santa Fe to the head of southwestern communities where it rightfully belongs and where it would soon arrive, if local business men and property owners would stop their bickering; their accusing each other of all sorts of high and low crimes, and constantly opposing each other for no other reasons than personal envy or selfishness. The New Mexican will have more to say of the project in the near future. The men who are pushing it are of the kind that never say fail and are bound to win out for the city if the city will only let them.

WHERE VICE IS CAPITALIZED

Investigation of Alleged Trust in Chicago

GRAND JURY PROBE BEGINS

Condition in Illinois Infinitely Worse in any Territory.

Chicago, April 26.—The investigation of the allegation that vice in the tenderloin district of Chicago is protected by a ring composed of two aldermen, two resort keepers, and a high police official, said to have formed a stock company, was begun by State's Attorney John W. Wayman today. Every saloon and dive in the red-light district is said to contribute. It is reported that not only dive keepers pay sums ranging from one to five hundred dollars weekly but the ring owns stores dealing in every necessity at which inmates must trade. The alleged ring has been in existence two years. Of the stock, one half is said to be owned by an alderman and the remainder by dive keepers and a police official. A mass of information on the alleged "vice trust" was presented for consideration of the grand jury.

STIFF TERMS FOR SULTAN

Must Pay Millions of Dollars to Remain on Throne

HUMILIATING DEMANDS

Walls of Palace and of Barracks to Be Razed and Guards Changed.

Berlin, April 26.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger, says that he learns that the Sultan of Turkey will be allowed to remain on the throne on condition that he gives a guarantee against a return to Absolutism.

The conditions are that the walls of the Yildiz palace must be razed and also that the barracks at the palace quartering a thousand men under the command of the Sultan must be razed; the palace guard in the future to be 100 men from the different regiments changed daily to prevent bribery. The Sultan must pay the expenses of the Saloniki expedition from his own purse, and out of the private fortune largely invested abroad must give the nation $250,000,000 for the financial regeneration of the country.

The Man of the Hour.

The city is quiet this morning and is gradually assuming its normal aspect. The declaration of martial law and the fact that the Constitutionalists are in control promise for the maintenance of order. The question of what shall be done with the Sultan probably will be determined by parliament. Scheffket Pasha, commander of the Constitutional army, is the man of the hour. The leading civil members of the Committee of Union and Progress desire him to be grand vizier in succession to Tewfik Pasha, and he has been assured of the majority in parliament, who would gladly support a ministry under his leadership in succession to the Tewfik ministry which resigned today. In reply to the proposals, Scheffket said the offer carried such splendid opportunities to assist the politics of the country that he would not have refused under any other circumstances but could not accept while still leader of the army. Scheffket is an Arab but lived eleven years in Europe and received military training in Germany. A court martial today sentenced five men to death and they will be shot this afternoon. The major of the guard at the Imperial Palace has confessed that he was paid $6,500 to act with the conspirators. The feeling among the members of parliament against the Sultan remaining on the throne is strong. Mohammed Reshad Effendi, brother of the Sultan, is the favorite candidate for succession. Parliamentary leaders have decided to act as if there had been no interruption in the parliamentary system. There will be a public session of parliament this afternoon in the Palace of Justice.

DEVELOPING THE MIAMI VALLEY

M. N. Meixell, manager of the Farmers' Development Company at Miami, near Springer, Colfax county, left for his home on Saturday evening after spending the day in consultation with Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan, regarding irrigation matters.

The Miami valley is settling up with a desirable class of farmers and the larger of the reservoirs planned, having been completed the ditches are running merrily with water.

Much attention will be paid to truck farming and many acres will be planted in cabbage and onions, for which a ready market in Texas and Oklahoma has been assured, while the railroads have given rates that will permit of profitable shipment to common rate points. Many carloads of products will be shipped this fall.

The farmers of the valley hold an institute on each Saturday evening at which the best methods of agriculture are discussed and where co-operative plans for planting and marketing the produce are decided upon.

A Sunday school attended by 150 teachers and pupils is maintained and in other directions the public spirit of the community is manifest. On a high mesa belonging to the tract of land owned by the company, experiments in planting potatoes will be begun this year and if successful, will result in 3,000 acres being put under the plow next year and being cultivated without irrigation. It is an ideal, prosperous community that is being built up, near Springer, a short distance from the Santa Fe railway. It was the forerunner of several other big land and irrigation development schemes that are drawing many settlers to Colfax county.

KNOW IT WELL.Familiar Features Well Known to

Hundreds of Santa Fe Citizens.
A familiar burden in every home, The burden of a "bad back." A lame, a weak or an aching back Tells you of kidney ills.
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.
Here is Santa Fe testimony to prove it:

Locario Lopez, Alto street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "I have never lost my confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills since I first used them. Trouble with my kidneys caused me a great deal of suffering for ten years and at times I could not walk, sleep or even lie down on account of the intense pains in my back. A weakness of the kidneys obliged me to arise often at night and during the day I had difficulty in retaining the kidney secretions. Further evidence of fault with the kidneys was shown by a white sediment which the secretions contained. I tried various remedies which were recommended to me but I derived no benefit until I began the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Stripling and Burrows' drug store. Three boxes cured me and I had no return of the trouble until about a year ago. Then I was relieved immediately by Doan's Kidney Pills and I have been well since. SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES*Roman Catholic.

The Gospel read at all the masses yesterday was taken from St. John, chapter 10th, verses 11 to 16, as follows:

11. I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd giveth his life for his sheep.

12. But the hireling, and he that is not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth; and the wolf catcheth and scattereth the sheep.

13. And the hireling fleeth, because he is a hireling; and he hath no care for the sheep.

14. I am the good shepherd; and I know mine, and mine know me.

15. As the Father knoweth me, and I know the Father; and I lay down my life for my sheep.

16. And other sheep I have, that are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd.

Church of the Holy Faith.

Services in the Church of the Holy Faith (Episcopal) 2nd Sunday after Easter, also St. Mark's Day. Celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m., Sunday school at 9:45 a. m., morning prayer, ante Communion service and sermon at 11 a. m.

Rev. Roscoe A. Clayborne, who is priest in charge of the church, took for the subject of his sermon the life and character of St. Mark. He drew a telling picture of the Jewish boy, carried away by the forceful preaching of the new teacher, our Lord and Master Jesus Christ; how he finally became a believer in the doctrine of Christianity, his devotion first to St. Peter and later also to St. Paul. The lesson drawn for each of us today was that there is work in the church for each one of its members. The priest alone can do little without the co-operation of his people. It is the duty of every child of the church first to find out what he can do and then do it. The church was very pretty in its Easter decorations, the music very good and the services will long be remembered by those who were privileged to attend them.

First Presbyterian Church.

Yesterday morning, in this church, the pastor had for the subject of his sermon: "The Corrections of History," and in the evening he gave an exposition of the Scripture which relates the story of Christ cleansing the leper. The morning text was taken from Matt. xx.16: "So the last shall be first, and the first last." Some points in the sermon are as follows:

The text stands at the end of one of the most difficult of our Lord's parables, whose chief teaching is that we are estimated by the Almighty, not so much by what we have actually accomplished, as by the readiness with which we have accepted opportunities for service when they have come to us. The final outcome of that fact is, that when the final adjustment comes, we may find that it was quite as heroic to begin work at the eleventh hour as in the early morning.

Many of our present estimates are wrong. Those whom we rate high, God may rate low; and those whom we put at the bottom of the list, or leave out altogether, may at the last be found occupying the seat of honor at the right hand of God. History when completed, will not read like history while it is being made.

Take the Master Himself. His own time said He was one thing, history claims Him for quite another. There are the wise men—seventy of them. Here stands a prisoner; they condemn Him, and He goes out defeated and ruined. The times will tell you the Sanhedrin was the greater, but history has corrected that absurd estimate. Who are those seventy? There was the chief priest and his successor; there was Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea—who were the sixty-six? History knows not one of them. The times put them first and Jesus last; but history has had a chance, and the first has become last, and the last first. It was the same with the choice of a successor to Judas; the apostles chose Matthias, but God and history chose Paul, and he succeeded to the vacancy in the apostolic college.

The chief difficulty is that our estimates are false in perspective. Some little things are so near to us that they overshadow the great things. We are dwelling amid the foothills of our own time, and are forever mistaking hills for mountains. Occasionally we get views of heroic figures of the past from some of our own heights. There they stand in all their grandeur. How could the men of their own day have missed them? There stands Moses, snow-capped; strange that Pharaoh should ever have seemed greater. There stands Jesus, His head above the clouds; how could men have ever spoken as though Pilate were greater? I declare to you, in looking back and seeing Pilate beside the snow-crowned Christ, he seems rather a depression in the earth than a summit. No man who views events from the close range of personal interests is to be trusted in his estimates and conclusions; they will need the corrections of history.

Another thing must be noted—many present estimates fail because the persistence of the opposing forces is not taken into account. Most of our victories over evil are simply victories over some of its symptoms. Sin is still there working like a virus in the blood of the race. We conquer in a skirmish, and then go home shouting the cry of victory. We no longer push the battle. We consider the victory won. The fact is, only the advance guard of the enemy has been met, to say nothing of being conquered.

Take the temperance movement; a number of times it has seemed that we were about to overthrow this demon in our land. The victory is sure to be won some day; but it will not be won in our day unless we realize that we are dealing with one of the most persistent forces of the devil—rooted on the one side in the desire of gain at any cost, and rooted on the other side in the desire for pleasure at any cost. These two roots of intemperance strike deep into the soil of human nature, and we shall extract them by no process of cutting a twig here and there.

This need for the correction of history appears in national life. The difference between a politician and a statesman is, that the one knows only today, while the other knows today in the light of yesterday and in the hope of tomorrow. Only a saving sense of humor enables us to hear without contempt, a multitude of our two-penny politicians described as statesmen. Statesmen? The state is nothing to them. They know nothing of great motives or great movements. But the statesman, man that he is, is a student of the past, ranges far afield in the future, and saves the state from treading the old paths which states of the past have trod to their destruction.

We also need this correction of history in our personal lives. Some first things have become last, and some last things first with us. If only young people did not have to learn that all over again for themselves! If only they could believe that it is not unnatural nor unhuman to put the real first things first; to put the Kingdom of God and the service of Jesus Christ in first place, and the pleasure of today somewhere in second place. But it is the pathos of human life that we are not willing to learn from the earlier generation.

On John Fiske's study mantel these words are carved: "Study as though you were to live for all eternity." It is the note of eternity that all great souls want to strike, and it ought to lead us to commit ourselves to the things that endure. That is a grand old saying: "Wrong has the minutes, right has the millenniums."

I will not say that wrong may not triumph today; I will deny to no man that right may be on the scaffold today. But I will call God and history to testify that the scaffold sways the future, and that he who is willing to go with truth to the scaffold, will find himself by and by mounting to a throne. But he who sees wrong seated upon the throne and climbs to take his place beside him there, or bows before that throne, will, somewhere far down the ages, lift his head to find that he has bowed before the scaffold, and only the ghostly wreek of what he counted great is before him there.

Instructed by Thee, oh Thou Great Teacher, our first becomes the last, our last becomes the first. Grant us so to walk in Thine own light, until Thy first shall be our first, and Thy last our last.

St. John's Methodist Episcopal.

The text at this church yesterday morning was taken from Eccl. V.4: "Pay That Which Thou Hast Vowed." The pastor, after speaking of the ancient custom among both heathen nations and the Jewish people of making vows referred to vows both secular and religious which at the present time men voluntarily take upon themselves.

He spoke of New Year's resolutions which are sometimes broken before the year is a week old and of young men who, after promising dying parents to do better and be better, plunged into wilder debaucheries than ever immediately after the death of the parents.

Pledge signing was commended and the breaking of a sacred, solemn pledge once made was condemned.

In regard to the marriage vow he said that it was a sacred promise, made before God and in the presence of witnesses, to cleave together until death doth separate. He said that many had absolutely no regard for this sacred vow. That some even went so far as to declare that marriage is a legal contract to be broken at the will of the contracting parties and that officials in church and state are alarmed at the appalling increase in the number of divorces.

Rev. Anderson then turned his attention to the vows which parents take upon themselves when they present their children for baptism. He said that baptism was not in itself a saving ordinance and that parents sometimes perjure themselves by assuming obligations which they have no intention of fulfilling. The vows which church members and members of the Epworth League assume were also emphasized. Those who had disregarded their vows were unsparingly criticized, yet in such a kindly spirit that no one could justly take offense. He closed with an earnest appeal to all to so live that they could say at last, O, God we have kept our vows.

The sermon yesterday evening was the last of a series of several sermons upon the ten commandments. It was listened to with closest attention, as the pastor touched upon some delicate subjects in plain, but chaste language.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

THE MASONIC REUNION.

Even from the narrow, selfish, material standpoint, the Masonic reunion that is being held in Santa Fe this week, is of great benefit to the community. It has brought here distinguished men of many callings and professions, men who are worth while, men of means, of influence, of intelligence, who appreciate Santa Fe's manifold attractions, climatic, scenic, historic and prehistoric.

But it is not merely for material reasons that Santa Fe welcomes the Masonic brethren that have come short or long distances to the reunion. It is glad to welcome them with old time hospitality, because it recognizes that to take Masonic vows is to promise to be noble; to be a true Mason, of low or high degrees, means to be a law abiding citizen of lofty motives. The Masonic order gathers to itself in every community the best, the most cultured, the most intelligent, the most ambitious and the most successful among its citizens and therefore, everywhere it is recognized, that to be a Mason is to stand on just a little higher plane, than the majority of other citizens.

Santa Fe is therefore proud that Masonry has found a home within its gates for over half a century; that its maxims have been assiduously practiced by most of its many distinguished citizens and visitors; that it is now about to become the home for a wide jurisdiction that intends to erect here a temple dedicated to the beautiful rites of the order, a most fitting monument to a long line of noble endeavor in a most historic spot.

THE PUBLICATION LAW.

The Roswell Tribune continues to charge poor homestead entrymen, so it is reported, $7.00 for a two inch final notice, but is still shrieking itself red in the face because the eminent city of Roswell is called upon to pay 75 cents an inch to publish its proceedings. The necessity of publishing these proceedings officially is apparent when comparing the accounts published by the Democratic and the Republican papers in that city of the same transactions. It was also evident in Santa Fe, recently when the advocates of no-license asked the New Mexican to publish the proceedings one way; the mayor asked the paper to publish them another way and a reporter of the paper had a third account differing from the other two. Which one of the three accounts would have been misleading to the taxpayers, the New Mexican does not presume to say, but it was relieved of embarrassment and the public and taxpayers were correctly informed, by the official proceedings as furnished by the city clerk. Naturally, no report and no newspaper is so colorless that it would not give some of its own partisan or personal coloring to the proceedings of the Democratic or Republican city council. There is much more reason, therefore, to require the official publication of the council proceedings than there is for publishing final homestead notices.

It is also to be observed, that the indignant attorneys, who are protesting so violently against being compelled to publish their legal notices where they will be seen and read, are still charging litigants $500 and more, for taking a measly little law suit that doesn't demand time or enough learning to justify a charge of $25. It is noticeable also, that when one of these lawyers is elected city attorney or appointed district attorney or is called upon to serve the public in some capacity or other, he charges all the law allows him and neither shrieks nor sheds crocodile tears over the burden that this imposes upon the poor taxpayers.

Says the Roswell Daily Record: "The New Mexican is mistaken in the statement that the city of Roswell cannot afford to publish the proceedings of its city council. The whole trouble is due to the influence of one member of the council who happens to be connected with a weekly paper, and whose only real abjection to the new law is that it requires such publication to be made in a daily paper. How he stamped the other members is unknown—by expert figuring perhaps."

papers, which it would have otherwise received, but which are now being published in weekly newspapers in another county in strict conformity with the law. If the new publication law is a graft for the daily newspapers, it is proving a poor graft, and from the financial standpoint of the daily newspapers is not worth any defense at all.

The matter of fact is, that the friends of the daily newspapers had succeeded in passing through the House of the legislature a fair, just, equitable publication law, when the representatives of the weekly newspapers raised such a wail and howl, that the members of the Council who were unfriendly to the daily papers, redrafted the act entirely so as to provide adequately for the Spanish and English weekly newspapers and to deprive the daily papers of that which would have come to them otherwise. They also inserted a provision for extension of time in which to make sales after advertisement. The act then looked no more like the original bill than a turnip looks like a water melon.

Nevertheless, the law is a great improvement upon any measure providing for publication that New Mexico has ever had upon the statute books. It repealed the obnoxious and contradictory public printer law, it systematized the methods of legal publication and the party interested in a legal publication now knows where to look for it, and the cost is far less than it would be in any other commonwealth of the Union.

NEW MEXICO AND THE CENSUS.

The census district of New Mexico is one of the largest, and outside of Alaska, the most difficult, in which to take the census. It is a serious mistake on part of Congress that the new census bill provides for only one census supervisor for New Mexico, while Colorado, for instance, is given three. One supervisor is given New Mexico, upon the assumption, that its population according to the census of 1900, is only one third of that of Colorado, but it is two thirds of that of the Centennial State today, and owing to the large Spanish speaking population and to the remoteness from railroads of the more sparsely but extensive precincts, it will be more difficult for one man to supervise the New Mexico census than it would be for one man to enumerate the population and wealth of Colorado.

The position of census supervisor, therefore, should go to some man of especial ability; a man who knows how to handle a large force of enumerators, who knows every nook and corner of the Territory, a man who has a mind for statistics and a love for the work; a man who is determined that the census of 1910 shall not be the botch and the discredit to the Territory that was the census of 1900. It will be difficult to find such a man for the job which is to pay only $1,500 a year and $1.00 for every 1,000 names enumerated, which will bring the total up to $2,000. The place will be good only for a year, and for a competent businessman to leave his business for a year for $2,000 to do this work, will mean some sacrifice for there will be no gratitude but a good deal of criticism his portion for no matter how well he does his task, there will be disappointment on the part of many communities.

One line of work which will be undertaken by the census this time is indicated from the following in the Youth's Companion:

"Not long ago the Census Bureau issued a bulletin containing a list of the heads of families in the United States at the time of the taking of the first census, in 1790. Another bulletin, which in like manner links the present with the past, makes some interesting comparisons between that first census and the one taken in 1900.

"Most interesting and notable, of course, are the figures and comparisons which mark the growth of the country. At the time of the first census, only six cities reported a population of eight thousand or over. Today there are two hundred and eighty-six cities and towns in the same area which have that number of inhabitants or more.

"But the increase in the number of cities and the population dwelling within them may be regarded as not wholly disconnected with another important matter which is described in the bulletin: the birth-rate then and now. In 1790 the average family included five and eight-tenths persons. In 1900 the number had dropped to four and six-tenths. Families of five or six members made up more than one-half the total population in the period of the first census. At present they represent but one-fourth.

"The conclusion is inevitable that Americans are not so prolific now as they were one hundred and ten years ago. The change is not remarkable, and would have been true of any other people similarly situated. Newly settled countries are always fruitful of children, as of other crops; but crowding into cities and the increase of competition in the struggle for a living, together with the growth of luxury, are forerunners of a declining birth-rate.

"There is, however, another matter which should be considered. At the time of the first census there was no immigration to America, and comparatively few immigrants. That great portion of the present population which has come here unmarried to make homes for women who will come over later, has an effect in the apparent lowering of the birth-rate which must not be neglected, if the reckoning is to be accurate."

It is no wonder that the number of cattle and sheep in New Mexico is on the decrease. The day seems to be past when big fortunes could be accumulated in short time by the old methods of growing sheep and cattle on the range with no winter protection or feed and the haphazard methods of lambing and shearing in the open. With 25,000 homesteaders rushing into the Territory each year taking up homesteads, the free range is being cut up so that the stock industry is driven out of many sections. The seven million acres of forest reserve are the only refuge for the open range sheep and cattle. However, in time, there will be new methods and then New Mexico will again become a leader in wool and meat production, for it possesses an ideal climate and an ideal range for the industry under the new methods which include feeding and shelter in winter for the flocks and herds; which mean shearing and lambing under roof and with the aid of modern appliances. Under such methods, the heavy losses reported this spring from many parts of the Territory will be impossible, and the sending away of lambs and sheep for feeding will be deemed absurd. Then again, fortunes will be made in the industry and instead of only 5,000,000 sheep and less than a million cattle, New Mexico will have twice that number to its credit.

The Albuquerque Citizen agrees with the New Mexican, that the appointment of Hon. J. W. Reynolds to be superintendent of the Territorial Penitentiary, is a most wise and fitting one. It says:

"By the appointment of J. W. Reynolds as superintendent of the Territorial Penitentiary Governor Curry may rest assured that the prison will be conducted in an up to date business manner. Mr. Reynolds, although still a young man, has made good in every business undertaking he has ever attempted, from his private affairs to the Territorial Secretary's office, which he held for many years. If Captain Green was determined to resign, the Citizen is of the opinion that the Governor could not have found an able man for the position than Mr. Reynolds."

Fruit growing in Santa Fe county is almost as exciting sport as horse racing. Last week, orchardists at Santa Fe sat up nights to watch the thermometer and mentally made bets that the fruit crop would be a total failure for the third consecutive year when they saw the quicksilver drop lower and lower, down to 29 degrees. This week they are elated to find that not a blossom has frozen. By next week they may be wondering whether snow or hail or insects will make inroads upon their expected profits. But after all, fruit raising proves profitable in the long run, if given the proper attention and the result, in Santa Fe county especially, is very gratifying, for Santa Fe fruit is the peer of the best raised in California or anywhere else.

The St. Louis, Rocky Mountain & Pacific Railway Company recognizes that shade trees are an asset for any community. In consequence, it is planting its right of way in Cimarron with shade trees and has offered to furnish free to residents of Cimarron as many shade trees as they will plant. The three most beautiful towns in New Mexico, Alamogordo, Roswell and Carlsbad, are such because of their shaded streets. Santa Fe real estate values would increase perceptibly if all of its streets, had those of Alamogordo, were lined with regular rows of trees, regularly watered and well kept.

Santa Fe has not much time to lose to take the necessary steps for the annexation of the outlying districts in time for the census next year and the assessment of property for 1910. The annexation can not be accomplished in a day and the procedure will take several months. The census is at the door and the city should next year be in position to show the enumerators that it has a population exceeding 10,000 and taxable wealth exceeding a million dollars. The city council must take the first step and it therefore has a duty to perform that it should not neglect.

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

LARGEST LAKE

IN ARIZONA

Located in Tonto National Forest—Will Have Gasoline Launch to Assist in Fighting Fires.

Albuquerque, N. M., April 26.—After the completion of the great Tonto Dam now under construction near the junction of the Salt river and Tonto creek, on the Tonto National Forest, this Forest will be able to boast of the largest lake in Arizona.

By the impounding of the waters of the two streams a lake approximately 25 miles in length, and about two miles in width at the widest point will be formed. This body of water will in all probability be called Lake Roosevelt, since the town which has sprung up at the dam-site is already known by that name.

In order to facilitate the administration of the Tonto National Forest, the government is now figuring on the purchase of a small gasoline launch of which will be used in conveying men, horses, supplies and fire fighting material, to different points on the lake-shore from which the often recurring fires in the nearby mountains can be easiest attacked.

The launch itself cannot, of course, carry horses, nor heavy and bulky loads, but will act as a tugboat and tow cargoes of this nature in a large, flat bottomed scow, or ferry boat. The United States Reclamation Service is now using a launch of about the same size and capacity, which has been found extremely useful in connection with the construction of this immense dam.

GAS AND WATER

EAST OF DEXTER

Artesian Area is Further Extended in the Lower Pecos Valley—Well Down 1,120 Feet.

Special Correspondence of The New Mexican.

Dexter, N. M., April 26.—Excitement is rampant here over the discovery of gas while drilling for artesian water on the farm of Trenc Johnson, three miles east of this place. Indications are that there is an unlimited supply of gas with an unusually strong pressure. Preparations are now being made to case off the water from the gas, and to test the flow of the later more fully. The pressure was such as to raise the heavy drilling tools several feet in the casing. J. R. Stanley one of the best known well drillers in the Pecos Valley is very enthusiastic over the prospects. Besides the gas there is substantial flow of artesian water and a new area promises to be opened up for irrigation, as the well is the first deep well to be dug east of the Pecos river at this point. The gas was struck at a depth of 1,120.

NATURE FAKERS

AT WORK

Pictures of Teddy On Lion Hunt Being Shown Before He Even Reaches Africa.

Chicago, April 26.—Theodore Roosevelt hasn't landed in Africa yet, but an enterprising Chicago moving picture firm already has films showing the ex-president capturing a lion in the jungles. The films will be used in five-cent theaters throughout the country as soon as the cables from Mombasa bring news of Mr. Roosevelt's entrance into the jungles.

The films were made yesterday. There were numerous palms, canebrakes, trees and a quantity of brush and grass, also canvas mountains and large, overhanging pasteboard rocks and boulders. It may be said that there were even real Africans—they at least were at some time or other descended from Africans, and with the addition of nose rings, earrings, paint and hair and the removal of the greater part of their clothing, they carried one almost to Africa itself.

A Real Live Lion, Too.

Then there was a real, live lion. By several hours' training, just before the time set for the performance, the lion had been brought to such a point that he really jumped around, and he might have attacked a man if the notion had occurred to him. Mr. Roosevelt also was there with a band of hunters in regular hunters' outfits, "Teddy" so nearly resembled the original that in a photograph even his closest friends might be misled.

The lion capturing business as portrayed yesterday is a series of scenes. First, the part yis on the track; then they have traced the lion to the edge of a precipice; hurriedly, a trap is set; an innocent little goat is bound by its feet to a small rock overhanging the precipice; the lion is let into the scene and, after rambling through the canebrakes a few moments, he sees the goat and runs forward, preparing to leap for his prey.

Ends With a Handshake.

Alas, he does not look before he leaps and he falls into the pit. Instantly the band of hunters and natives bound into the scene, and by a few quick movements the lion is forced into a small cage. The cage enclosing the furious beast—the fury being obtained by annoying the captive—is drawn out of the pit and then there is a general jollification and exchange of congratulations. The ex-President and the village chieftain clasp hands as the end of the film is reached.

GLEANINGS BY A PERIPATETIC PEN

The Downfall of Max—For a number of weeks Max Gardner has been in town representing an Albuquerque house. Max is one of those genial good-hearted fellows that easily catches on. Since being here he has succeeded in making any number of friends. Among the newly acquired friends he numbers Doctor John P. Wagner and on last Sunday in company with the doctor and the latter's family, also a few others, made a trip up the canyon near Monument Rock. Here the party camped out. Suddenly, Gardner, discovering the big rock known as Monument Rock, gazing steadfastly in his direction. Then suddenly he exploded, "Gott, in Himmel! Look at that for a climb. Just let me show what real climbing is." With a bound he was on his way towards the mighty rock. With great glee he reached the top and began to chant poems of victory much to the delight of his audience, but shortly after, to their still greater delight, he was observed to slip and soon land in a sitting posture. But even sitting down did not help him for he began a graceful but rather unpleasant (to him) descent. On and on he came, clutching wildly for something to hold on to and retard his downward progress and save what remained of the "west" side of his new trousers. But of no avail. With a final rush, he reached the edge of a high cliff and over he went. At this point, the onlookers became somewhat frightened lest he be seriously hurt by the fall, but as luck would have it, his trousers—or what remained of them—caught upon a projecting stump of a tree and held him suspended in a most precarious manner about ten feet from the ground. Doctor Wagner and the rest of the party now rushed up to aid him, but found that he was too high to reach. After some parley, efforts were made to loosen his trousers from the tree by throwing stones and pieces of rock. As the would-be rescuers were not expert throwers and were not overly accurate, the suspended victim soon made known the fact that he was not covered with rhinoceros hide and begged that his rescuers desist and find another method of getting him down from his precarious position. As it was now time for dinner, some hasty thinking was done and finally one of the party managed to secure a long stout pole. By means of the pole, Gardner's trousers were freed from the tree and the owner fell with a thud to the ground below. Max didn't go home in a barrel, but he says that he never wore so much fringe in his life. He is now going to stick closely to town and leave rock and cliff climbing to others.

S.S.S. PURIFIES BAD BLOOD

Bad blood is responsible for most of our ailments, and when from any cause it becomes infected with impurities, humors or poisons, trouble in some form is sure to follow. Muddy, sallow complexions, eruptions, pimples, etc., show that the blood is infected with unhealthy humors which have changed it from a pure, fresh stream to a sour, acrid fluid, which forces out its impurities through the pores and glands of the skin. A very common evidence of bad blood is sores and ulcers, which break out on the flesh, often from a very insignificant bruise, or even scratch or abrasion. If the blood was healthy the place would heal at once; but being infected with impurities which are discharged into the wound, irritation and inflammation are set up, the fibres and tissues are broken, and the sore continues until the blood is purified of the cause. S. S. S. is Nature's blood-purifier and tonic, made entirely from roots, herbs and barks. It goes down into the circulation and removes every particle of impurity, humor or poison, restores lost vitality, and steadily tones up the entire system. S. S. S. neutralizes any excess of acid in the blood, making it pure, fresh and healthy, and permanently cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Boils, and all other skin eruption or disease. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

MINES AND MINING.

Revival at Sylvanite—The new camp of Sylvanite, Grant county, which has been somewhat dull the past few weeks, on account of one of the leading producers closing down and another property being involved in litigation. E. J. Clark and Heyer & King, who have leases on the Golden Eagle, are reported to have struck some rich gold ore, some of the specimens running almost one-third gold. The shaft is down 60 feet, and is the deepest in the camp. The Eureka-Sylvanite Company this week completed a fifty foot cross-cut which pans gold in places and is also uncovering a ledge that shows up well in gold. The vein on the Monte Cristo or Pearl group is being stripped for more than 150 feet and specimens taken run as high as $100,000 to the ton. Ole Peterson is developing the Hughes, two miles from the Pearl, at Granite Gap, and is negotiating for the sale of the property. It makes a good showing in copper, gold, silver and lead.

More Men Employed at Oro Grande—Twenty men have been put to work at Oro Grande, Otero county, by the Oro Grande Smelting Company, successors of the Southwest Smelting and Refining Company. Work is being done in tearing out the old sampling plant and sampling bins with a view of rebuilding the plant. The company is closing leases on several mining claims and expects to employ 100 men by May 1.

Aztec Mine to be Sold—William E.

Gortner, special master, offers for sale at the court house at Raton, on June 12, to satisfy a judgment of $10,232.51 and interest, in the case of The Stearns-Roger Manufacturing Company and Smith McKay vs. The Aztec Gold Mining and Milling Company, et al., all the right, title and interest of that company and the Maxwell Land Grant Company in the Aztec Mine, mill site, forty stamp mill and machinery in the Ute Creek Mining District, Colfax county.

LAS CRUCES SETS GOOD EXAMPLE

Las Cruces, N. M., April 26.—The last block of the pavement on Main street has been completed and from the convent north to the end of the street there is not a break in the smooth, hard pavement, nor in the continuous line of cement walks on both sides of the street.

Under Mayor Lohman's direction overhanging signs in the business part of town have all been removed. Porches have been remodeled or removed. The fronts of all the adobe buildings have been remodeled and in most cases have been pebble dashed and made to look very solid.

Street lights have been put up at all principal corners. The pavement is sprinkled every day and is kept cool and hard. Last but not least, Mayor Lohman, backed by other members of the board of trustees, has put on a force of "white wings" as a permanent fixture and no urban boulevard is kept in better trim than the new pavement.

The whole city has been benefited, and a spirit of civic pride has been started that will cause improvements to spread gradually to every part of the town. The entire cost of the work has been but a few thousand dollars.

Beside Mayor Lohman, the following as members of the board of trustees have been instrumental in bringing about this good work: R. L. Young, S. P. Ascarate, P. Moreno, Estevan Lucero.

When the new bond issue of $10,000 has been approved by the voters, the improvements will be continued to other parts of the city.

PREACHES A BASEBALL SERMON

Congregational Minister Emphasizes That God Almighty Does Not Like a Quitter.

Spokane, Wash., April 26.—Rev. Dr. William J. Hindley, minister of the gospel and fan, preached a baseball sermon to his flock in Pilgrim Congregational church at the opening of the league season in Spokane, speaking of life as a confirmed roofer would expound the rules of the game. He talked of the batter, fielders, basemen, coaches, umpire and the man at bat, saying among other things:

"For the sake of the team and for the sake of the game, stand up to the plate. If you can't line out a home run, maybe you can drop a Texas leaguer back of second that will do almost as much good. But bend every effort to meet the ball and not to fan out when there are men on the bases waiting to score.

"There may be two or three men on bases, with two men out and two strikes against the batsman in the last half of the ninth. You've seen the situation right here in Spokane. Your hit, which may seem a small thing in itself, will mean victory for some one, while your failure to connect with the ball results in defeat for the others as well. Fight until the last man is out; God Almighty doesn't like a quitter.

"I am a patron of baseball because I like the game; because it affords relief from the nerve-racking tension of business, and because we have no American sport that is so absolutely free from taint. If it is to be kept clean the good people must line up in front of the gate, and those in charge must be made to see that they have to reckon with the better class.

"If there is any man in the world who has my entire sympathy it is the umpire. He is ostracized by the players and regarded with suspicion by the public—and, I think, unjustly. I believe he deserves more consideration, because he is on top of the play all the time and knows what's going on every minute of the game."

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nervous Strength, or Nervous Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to this weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds its strength; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

PREPARING TO RECEIVE TAFT

Extensive Preparations Are Already Under Way By the People of Spokane, Washington.

Spokane, Wash., April 26.—Extensive preparations are being made by the people of Spokane for the entertainment of President Taft during his attendance at the seventeenth sessions of the National Irrigation Congress in this city, August 9 to 14, when it is expected there will be 4,000 accredited delegates from various parts of the United States and Canada, Europe, China, Japan and Australia, and from 35,000 to 40,000 visitors from states interested in irrigation, forestry, deep waterways, reclamation of swamp lands, good roads and home-making. R. Insinger, chairman of the local board of control of the irrigation congress, of which George E. Barstow of Barstow, Texas, is president, has advised from Washington that plans for President Taft's tour of the Northwest and Alaska are almost completed and that there will be no change unless public business forces the president to abandon the trip. Mr. Insinger said this is hardly likely, since the president expressed a desire to make the trip before he was inducted into office on March 4 and it is now believed he has fully arranged his affairs.

Lang of Minneapolis, investigated the Gila farms irrigation project in western Grant county, last week, the plan being to impound the waters of the Gila for the irrigation of a quarter million acres of land, making it the largest irrigation project in New Mexico, not excluding the Elephant Butte propo-
