NOTARIES MUST KEEP RECORDS

Certain Exceptions as to Recorded Instruments

WATER APPLICATIONS FILED

Messilla Valley Produce Ex- change Files Incorpora- tion Papers.

Attorney Frank W. Clancy, has written as follows upon the question of keeping records by notaries public provided in the new notaries' public law which in Section 11, reads as follows: "Every notary shall keep a true and perfect record of his official acts, except those for whose public record the law provides, and, if required, shall give a certified copy of any record in his office, upon the payment of the fees therefor. Every notary shall make and keep an exact minute in a book kept by him for that purpose in which all his official acts, except as herein above provided, shall be recorded, and in case of certificates to depositions or other evidence, the title of the cause or proceeding the court in which the same is pending and the names of the witness sworn shall be entered therein.

Mr. William G. Haydon, East Las Vegas, N. M.

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 3rd instant has been forwarded to me, and I take the earliest possible moment to answer. I think that it is clear that, under the new law regarding notaries public, those officers are required to keep a record of all their official acts as to documents of any kind, except those for which the law provides a public record. This exception appears to include such documents as mortgages, deeds and other instruments affecting the title to real estate, as the law does provide for their being recorded in the offices of county recorders. I think you will agree with me, however, that it will be better for any notary to err on the side of keeping more of a record than the law requires, than to fall short of it, and even if the statute does not require the keeping of a record of the acknowledgment of a deed, yet, if the notary does keep such a record, it might be of service, as he could probably then testify that such a deed had been acknowledged before him by the parties. Several years ago, I had a case where my client relied upon a deed, the execution of which was denied by the grantor, and the notary public who took the acknowledgment, had a record of the fact, which enabled him to testify positively about the acknowledgment, and especially the time when it was made, although, in that case, he had a recollection of the fact independent of his record.

Very truly yours,
FRANK W. CLANCY,
Attorney General.

ALDRICH & BEVERIDGE CLASH IN SENATE

House for Lack of Quorum Did Not Refer President Taft's Message on Porto Rico.

Washington, May 10.—Senators Aldrich and Beveridge indulged in a tilt this morning when the Senate convened. Beveridge referred to the speech of Carter, of Montana, in which the latter referred to the abundance of information at the disposal of Senators on the tariff. He then had the clerk read an extract from the speech of McCumber in which the latter complained of the lack of information at hand. The clerk also read an extract from the speech of Aldrich saying that he had no knowledge of what occurred on the ways and means committee. Aldrich then said sarcastically that he had not the ability of the Senator from Indiana, but if the latter would devote a little time to the study of these questions he would serve his country better than by proclaiming his lack of information. Senator Heyburn having the floor, refused to give way further and took up the lead schedule.

No Quorum in House.

Washington, May 10.—For want of a quorum the House took no action on the President's message recommending remedial legislation for the island of Porto Rico. Cannon fought to have the message referred to the ways and means committee but Garrett of Tennessee, who wanted it sent to the committee on insular affairs, opened the question of the House rules. The House finally adjourned after a debate without action. On the Senate it was referred to the committee on Porto Rico.

BOYLE SENTENCED FOR HIS LIFE

His Wife Gets Pen- alty of Twenty- Five Years

BOTH MISCREANTS COLLAPSE

Kidnaper Makes Vague Threats About Third Person Implicated

Mercer, Pa., May 10.—James H. Boyle and wife, Helen Boyle, convicted of kidnaping Willie Whitta, were given the maximum sentences today when Boyle was sentenced to life imprisonment and his wife to twenty-five years in the penitentiary. They will begin their sentences at once, though an appeal to the supreme court will be taken. Boyle declares that a Pittsburgh lawyer of high standing has been engaged and will plead their cases. He also says that the name of a prominent person will be made known which will shock the country. He says he has been made the butt in the case and will make others who are guilty suffer.

Both Boyle and wife collapsed completely upon hearing their sentences. When started back to the jail Boyle managed to walk with assistance down the steps, but reaching the front door became limp and had to be carried into an omnibus which carried him to jail. Mrs. Boyle was even worse. She had to be carried down three flights of stairs to the street. She was carried into a vehicle and then into jail where she wept violently. Because of their condition it was considered unnecessary to manacle them. Boyle had nothing to say when sentenced and the judge told him of the heinous nature of the crime he committed. "In ancient times punishment was death," said the judge, "but the Pennsylvania law is more lenient."

Mrs. Boyle declared herself innocent and thought the evidence flimsy, but the court said that was a matter for the jury.

That the threats of Mrs. Boyle of double suicide are not idle was demonstrated today by the discovery of a razor hidden in his necktie by Boyle. Mrs. Boyle had taken a quantity of morphine in the night but this had only an effect of making her sick. All dangerous things were taken from Boyle and his wife. Both are being carefully watched.

Sheriff Chess believes it was Boyle's intention to kill his wife and himself last night. Boyle asked permission to visit his wife's cell, but was refused, the sheriff being suspicious. A vagrant in jail said he loaned Boyle a razor to shave himself. A special guard has been placed over Boyle and his wife.

Military Company Organized.—The military company at Artesia, Eddy county, has been organized by electing John B. Enfield, captain; Charles R. Echols, first lieutenant, and Fred Clayton, second lieutenant.

TAFT SENDS SPECIAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS ON PORTO RICO

Special Legislation Needed to Help Island Out of Its Financial Dilemma Caused by Non-Action of Its Legisla- ture on Appropriation Bill

Washington, D. C., May 10.—President Taft today sent to Congress a special message recommending legislation at the present extra session, amending the Foraker act under which Porto Rico is governed. The President direct the attention of Congress to affairs on the island, laying particular stress on what he terms "a situation of unusual gravity" developed through the failure of the legislative assembly of Porto Rico to pass the usual appropriation bills, leaving the island without support after June 30 next.

Porto Ricans have forgotten the generosity of the United States, the President says, in the desire of certain of the island's political leaders for power and, he adds that the present situation indicates that the United States has gone too far in the extension of political power to the Porto Ricans. He concludes that the absolute power of appropriation should be taken away from "those who have shown themselves too irresponsible to enjoy it."

The President suggests to Congress the wisdom of submitting to the appropriation committees the question of qualifying some of the provisions of the fundamental act as to the respective jurisdictions of the executive council and the legislative assembly. But no action of this kind, the President says, should be begun until the Foraker act is amended so that when the legislative assembly shall adjourn without making the legislative appropriation necessary to carry on the government, sums equal to the appropriations made in the previous year for the respective purposes shall be available for the current revenue and shall be drawn by the warrant of the auditor on the treasurer and countersigned by the governor. Such a provision applies to the legislatures of the Philippines and Hawaii and "it has prevented in those countries any misuse of the power of appropriation."

The President reviews the establishment of the present government of Porto Rico by the Foraker act. He says the statute directing how the expenses of the government are to be provided leaves some doubt whether this function is not committed solely to the executive council but in practice the legislative assembly has appropriated for all the expenses other than for salaries fixed by Congress and the President adds, "It is too late to reverse that construction."

The President says that ever since the institution of the present assembly the house of delegates has uniformly held up the appropriation bills until the last minute of the session and has sought to use the power to do so as a means of compelling the concurrence of the legislative council in legislation, which the house desired. In the last regular legislative assembly the attitude of the legislative council in refusing to pass bills led the house of delegates to refuse to pass the necessary appropriation bills.

Mr. Taft discussed the acts of the legislature and the council in details and says the facts recited demonstrate

GOVERNMENT AFTER HASKELL AGAIN

Federal Grand Jury Once More In- vestigating Famous Muskogee Town Lot Cases.

Tulsa, Okla., May 10.—The federal grand jury again today took up the investigation of the town lot cases being pushed by the government. They are the same cases in which indictments were returned last winter against Governor Haskell and six other Oklahomans. The allegations, in the quashed indictments were conspiracy to defraud the Creek Indian nation in connection with the scheduling of Muskogee town lots in 1902. Sylvester Rush of Omaha, will again have charge of the investigation.

LAST DAY OF JAPANESE VISIT

San Francisco, Cal., May 10.—At the end of ten days' visit, marked by a round of dinners and entertainments for Rear Admiral Iijima and officers, the Japanese cruisers Aso and Soya departed this morning for the north. Crowds lined the water's edge as the ships sailed out of the harbor and disappeared over the horizon. The cruisers will be at Seattle on June 1 to participate in the opening of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

SULTAN INVESTED WITH SCIMITAR

Worn by Thirty-Four of His Predecessors—Impressive Ceremony at Sublime Porte.

Constantinople, May 10.—The Sultan proceeded in a launch from the Palace to the Mosque where the rite was performed. Attended by Grand Vizer Sheikh Ulyam, members of the cabinet, chiefs of the army, the two higher grades of Ulema and other officials, he drove to the top of Kapou, six miles distant, to kiss the robes of the Prophet. At Ayoub Mosque, Mehmed V. drew the scimitar of his ancestor Osman I, founder of the Ottoman empire and standing in front of the group of buildings called the Sublime Porte, raised his weapon on high and by this act took possession of the Turkish empire. The shouting of people, the fanfare of trumpets, the rattle of musketry, burst forth and above all the chorus of school boys chanting, Midhat Pasha's hymn "Liberty." A notable contrast was seen when Mehmed stood in an open carriage of the most fashionable Paris make and held aloft the scimitar worn by thirty-four of his predecessors.

MURDER DECLARED ACT OF GOD

Chief Justice for Defense of Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., Makes a Novel Plea.

Flushing, N. Y., May 10.—When court opened today, John F. McIntyre, counsel-in-chief for Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., on trial for the killing of William E. Annis, began his closing plea. The case may go to the jury late today but it is believed that Judge Garretson will adjourn court and give his charge tomorrow. There was an affecting scene in court when the aged mother of the defendant walked to where her son was sitting and threw her arms about him. In the opening of his plea, McIntyre said that the killing of Annis by Hains was an act of God. He declared the meeting was an accident and the captain had no intention of killing Annis.

ROOSEVELT BRINGS DOWN RHINOCEROS

Nairobi, May 10.—A bulky bull rhinoceros is the latest prize wrested from the jungle by Roosevelt. From the former president's camp near Machokos word was brought today of the luck of the party of hunters and that fifteen varieties of game, including a rhinoceros, had been bagged. The rhinoceros was rushing at Roosevelt when he fired. The naturalists are kept busy preparing specimens. Roosevelt and son are bringing forty-five skins which have been prepared for the Smithsonian Institute.

STATEHOOD SURE NEXT SESSION

Former Mayor Says It's a Foregone Conclusion

CARTER H. HARRISON

Stops Off at Santa Fe With His Family to See the Interesting Sights.

Last Saturday night a distinguished visitor arrived in Santa Fe, being no other than the Honorable Carter H. Harrison, ex-mayor of the city of Chicago. Accompanied by Mrs. Harrison and daughter Edith O. Harrison, he took quarters at the Palace hotel. Mr. Harrison served for eight years as mayor of Chicago achieving a wonderful record, being the most popular mayor that city has ever had, and has visited Santa Fe several times in recent years.

Three years ago he refused to be a candidate and retired from politics. Approached by a representative of The New Mexican, Mr. Harrison showed himself to be most affable and agreeable and readily consented to an interview. Inviting the reporter into the writing room of the hotel he seated himself comfortably and told his interviewer to fire away.

Pleasure Trip Only.

In reply to the question as to what brought him to Santa Fe, Mr. Harrison said:

"My wife and daughter have been spending the winter at Pasadena, California, and being ready to return home. I went to join them and we are now on our way to Chicago, stopping off at various interesting points on our way home. My son, Carter H. Harrison, Jr., who has been ill at Pasadena, is vastly improved and practically well. He will remain in California for a short time longer. My wife, daughter and I stopped off in Arizona, visiting the Grand Canon and the Petrified Forests. Having a liking for Santa Fe and its unique surroundings we stopped off here. We leave on Monday for Taos and points in that neighborhood and will also visit the cliff dwellings. There is considerable interesting and attractive country around here that I desire to have my wife see. I am a great believer in Americans seeing their own country. It is too bad that so many people labor under the opinion that they must see Europe in order to say that they have seen something. Most people who take the California Limited seem to imagine that they will break up the whole comfort of the trip if they should stop off at any of the points such as Santa Fe and the Grand Canon en route.

Miss the Best Sights.

"It seems strange that these people coming west to California year after year have never seen the interesting attractions that so freely abound in this section of the country. I'll wager that not one in a thousand going to California have ever seen the Yosemite and its wonderful attractions, let alone the Grand Canon, Cliff Dwellings and other great features. One incident which impressed itself on my mind when still very young, I will never forget. I was in Germany near Dresden, in the part called Saxon Switzerland. There was a cliff, perhaps a hundred or a hundred and twenty-five feet high. Near by flowed a small stream. A man living in the neighborhood used to dam the stream and when he had dammed up sufficient water he would charge an admission fee, usually ten cents, and when the crowd gathered would release the water, creating a waterfall over the cliffs for the benefit of the curious sightseers. There were many Americans in the crowd and the ludicrousness of the situation impressed itself upon me even though I was very young. No, one does not have to go to Europe to see sights. Right here at home there is plenty to see."

Not in Politics Any More.

When asked about the stories that he was to be the Democratic candidate for mayor at the next municipal election, Mr. Harrison laughed and replied:

"Indeed not. In the first place the next election is too far away to speculate on a mayoralty candidate. By the time the election rolls around I may be in 'Kingdom Come.' In the second place when I retired from politics I retired and I intend to stay retired. The stories appearing in the papers from time to time regarding my running for this office or that appear to be habitual but are not based upon fact."

PUTTING LAND TO ITS BEST USE

Examinations of Forest Reserve Boundaries for Elimination of Agricultural Tracts.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Through the establishment of six district headquarters in the West, the work of the Forest Service has advanced so far that it is now possible to undertake a thorough-going examination of National Forest boundaries and an inquiry into the character of any interior areas which may appear to be not suitable for National Forest purposes. In a letter to the District Foresters in Albuquerque, Forester Pinchot says:

"Plans formulated here last winter and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture call for a systematic and complete going over of all National Forest boundaries during the present field season. The work which you have been constantly doing in this direction is along the right lines, but the plan adopted calls for more concentrated effort in this work throughout the Service during the coming summer. With the field force at your command and your close knowledge of local conditions and of the National Forest officers, you can so organize this effort in your district as to insure a thorough going over of your part of the 69,000 miles of National Forest boundaries by competent men, whose reports as to the character of the land within and without the forests and whose recommendations as to lands which should be excluded or included, checked by information already possessed by the forest service, can be relied on.

"To do this work in one summer will make severe demands on you, but it is not beyond the capacity of the service, as now organized. Please give it your best efforts until the work is completed, and bear in mind especially that the quality of the work must be unimpeachable.

"This work should all be completed by the close of the present field season, and each district forester should at that time be able to vouch for the correctness of the proposed boundaries of his forests. If, however, there are changes recommended by examiners which you feel are questionable, such cases may go over for checking until the next field season, in order that no mistakes may be made. Possible additions should be noted carefully in the six states where congressional action is necessary to create additions to forests as elsewhere. "As you know, the policy of the service has always been to exclude from the boundaries of a national forest all agricultural land, except, as Congress clearly intended, areas so small that they could be handled more acceptably under the Act of June 11, 1906. We want all the land put to its best use, whatever that use may be. A good deal of time and money has been spent by the service in this most important work. I believe, however, that there is still land which would serve the public interest best outside of national forests.

"For this work you will need to use your very best available help. The organization of the work is, of course, in your hands.

"Existing and proposed boundaries, and all land and cover classifications should always be shown on maps, supported by reports. So far as possible, the forest service atlas folios should be used as the base maps. The publication of these folios is being pushed as rapidly as possible. By the first of August nearly all of them will be in your hands. Where it is possible to get them to you at a considerably earlier date by leaving out the classification and simply sending you the blank copies this will be done.

"In addition to having boundary line carefully gone over, I want you to consider whether you have any considerable areas of agricultural land in the interior of the forests or other land which would serve the public best by being excluded.

"This is a matter on which it will be necessary for you to put your very best effort. If there is any help that can be given by the Washington office let me know. From the time this work first starts I want you to keep me fully informed of its progress by monthly reports."

COMPILING DATA ON FOREST FIRES

Territorial Conservation Commission is Asked to Co-operate in This Most Important Work.

Albuquerque, N. M., May 10.—That the country have the most complete compilation of data on forest fires, the Forest Service has invited the co-operation of the members of the state conservation and forest commissions with forest officers, and in a letter to the District Forester in this city concerning this year's work in the Southwest, Forester Pinchot says:

"Last fall the Forest Service attempted to collect from the Washington office data upon forest fires throughout the United States. We got excellent reports from a few states, but no information whatever from many of them. This was due, in some cases, to the failure of the proper officers to make careful reports and in other cases to the utter lack of any state organization to handle forest fires, and the complete absence of any record of them.

"The fire problem is such a fundamental one that the service desires to get as complete a statement as possible this coming season, and we feel that time and money are well spent for this purpose. The best results will doubtless be secured by localizing the work as far as possible, and making a large number of officers and organizations each responsible for reports upon a small territory.

"There are now conservation commissions in thirty-eight states and territories. These commissions are anxious to promote forest conservation in any way they can, and in the states which do not contain national forests we will take up the matter of a fine record with them. In national forest states better results will, I think, be secured if the District Foresters gather data from every possible source, and also co-operate with the state conservation commissions.

"I shall, therefore, ask your district to take the responsibility for the compilation of as complete a record as possible of all forest fires, both on and off the national forests in New Mexico and Arizona during the coming season. This record should be comparable with the one made solely for the national forests, and I suggest that it follow the same lines. It should, if possible, be compiled by counties. Some assistance can undoubtedly be secured from county clerks, county surveyors, or other county officers. Wherever there are local fire wardens, reports should be secured from them.

"It will be well for you to work out a definite plan of action with the conservation commission early in the season in the case of New Mexico, and to let this commission do as much work as it can. The importance of getting the machinery started for securing the desired information before the fire season starts, will, I know, be realized by you. The New Mexico commission is as follows: Hon. Solomon Luna, Los Lunas, New Mexico; Hon. A. A. Jones, Las Vegas, New Mexico; Hon. W. A. Fleming Jones, of Las Cruces, New Mexico. You undoubtedly know some of these gentlemen, and there should be no difficulty in arranging for mutually helpful co-operation. No commission has as yet been appointed for Arizona."

EX-GOVERNOR FRANTZ AMONG MISSING

Was the Predecessor of Haskell as Chief Executive of Oklahoma and a Rough Rider.

St. Louis, Mo., May 10.—Former Governor Frank Frantz of Oklahoma, rough rider and personal friend of Theodore Roosevelt, is missing and has not been seen since his escapade a week ago in a taxicab with a weeping woman, when the two were arrested in the early hours of the morning.

Frantz has not been at the Jefferson hotel for a week, and the management has made a diligent search for him. At Oklahoma City, where the former governor makes his home his relatives are alarmed, and his brother, Orville G. Frantz, will come to St. Louis tomorrow to make an investigation where Frantz was last seen.

When he left the Jefferson last Sunday night he was in an automobile and alone. Inquiry at the office of the St. Louis Taxicab company, which has been furnishing the vehicles for the former Oklahoma executive, failed to elicit any information as to his whereabouts.

Frantz's room at the Jefferson remains just as he left it. The management today made an investigation to ascertain whether the late guest had left a note of explanation. From the appearance of the room, it was evident that he expected to return soon.

The charges of disturbing the peace which were placed against Frantz and the woman who was with him in the taxicab when he was arrested, were dismissed the following morning and they left the station together.

The former Oklahoma governor at first gave a fictitious name, but when he found he was to be searched and the letters in his pocket would reveal his identity he told who he was.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

UNFORTUNATE PORTO RICO.

President Taft today sent to Congress a message advising legislation that will help Porto Rico out of the difficulty in which it has been placed by the lower legislative house of the island refusing and neglecting to pass an appropriation bill to provide for the expenses of the government of the island for the next two years. President Taft justly criticizes the attitude of the island's legislators. "A situation of unusual gravity" has developed says the President. "The Porto Ricans have forgotten the generosity of the United States in the desire of certain of the island's political leaders for power," and he adds, that "the present situation indicates that the United States has gone too fast in the extension of political power to the Porto Ricans." He concludes that the absolute power of appropriation should be taken away from "those who have shown themselves too irresponsible to enjoy it."

Undoubtedly, President Taft is right. Undoubtedly, he has made a thorough investigation and study of existing conditions on the islands. Undoubtedly, his experience in the Philippines has taught him to place the right value upon the aspirations and actions of the people of the island colonies. And yet, New Mexico's sympathy goes out to Porto Rico; New Mexico too, has been misunderstood, misjudged, held up to public criticism and has been severely censured without being given a hearing or a chance to defend itself. New Mexico too, has had legislatures which came near being tied up by an unpopular, autocratic governor; it too has had legislatures where the combinations so easily effected in an upper house of a few members, tied up legislation and aroused the opposition of the lower house, and but for yielding on minor matters, would have tied up the general appropriation bill which was held in committee until the last moment so that when it did finally pass it was so full of loopholes and inconsistencies, that even an attorney general has had difficulty to construe it. All these things have happened in New Mexico. They have also happened in the states, yea, even in the state of Ohio. What is more, they have happened in Congress and statehood for New Mexico was only recently defeated by this sort of a thing although the President of the United States and the lower house almost unanimously favored it and the majority of the Senate were known to be for it. The Porto Ricans have learned too quickly these legislative tricks that tie up important measures. They have failed to realize that the colonies are always expected to be better than their masters, that it is right for members of Congress to desire leadership and political power, but that it is utterly wrong for men in New Mexico or in Porto Rico to have such ambitions and to use the means at hand to further them.

Congress expects Porto Rico and New Mexico to be cleaner politically, to be more righteous morally, to be more prosperous materially, than it does the states which send the men to Washington to make the laws for the colonies. Fortunately, New Mexico is cleaner politically and morally than Indiana or Pennsylvania, or Ohio, or even Massachusetts. The trouble with Porto Rico is that it isn't; that it sticks to some of the independent ways it was permitted to indulge in under Spanish rule, which though tyrannical in many hateful and oppressive forms, yet, strange to say, allowed the islanders in some other respects much more personal liberty and the privilege to misgovern and to be misgoverned.

President Taft is right in urging immediate legislation to relieve the situation on the islands even if this situation is the result of carpet bagger government or caused by a protest against the combinations made in an aristocratic upper house; he is also right in censuring the Porto Ricans for their ingratitude and for giving palpable evidence that if they were permitted to govern themselves, the result would be revolutions, such as have disgraced Spanish-American republics whenever they were permitted to have their own way. It is better for the Porto Ricans that they comply strictly with the ideas of the United States of what they should do rather than follow their own sweet will. It is a necessary part of their education before they will attain political autonomy under the Stars and Stripes, and New Mexico's prayer is that they will reach that desirable and glorious privilege of managing their internal affairs, even to tying up their appropriations for two years, in much quicker time than New Mexico has waited after definite treaty promises and party declarations.

A BISHOP TO PREACHERS.

It is a homely homily that Rev. Charles Scadding, D. D., bishop of Oregon, delivered to the biennial session of the Eighth Missionary Department of the Episcopal church at Spokane, in the course of an address on "The Secular Press as a Missionary Agency." In fact, it is not only ministers but the majority of contributors to the press and practically every cub reporter who must learn the same lesson that Bishop Spalding advised his Episcopal brethren to take to heart. He said:

"If you could hear the righteous indignation and the unrighteous abuse, and, I fear, profanity, created in newspaper offices on Friday nights when all hands are called to 'fix up the church notices' for publication, there would be instant reform in this direction. I am told that week after week and year after year there are poured into the newspaper offices these carelessly written notices, often in almost undecipherable chirography, with no regard for the style of the paper for which they are written, frequently written on odds and ends of paper and often on both sides and thrown together in a haphazard sort of way."

"It is only due to the newspapers that we are courteous, even in this small matter, and take pains to secure uniformity and cleanliness and present well-dressed and carefully prepared copy."

"In preparing matter for the press you should observe newspaper rules of composition: Tell your story in the first three lines—three words are better—and elaborate afterward. Then the reader can not 'ring off' before you have told him the gist of what you have to say."

Bishop Scadding said the value of the newspaper as a missionary agency depends upon the willingness of the ministers to go and make some effort in assisting it; "and," he added, "in considering the subject it is necessary for us at the outset to appreciate not the theoretical function of the secular press, but what it actually is, and what it actually does for the people."

"It must be borne in mind that the newspaper, even though it has 24 pages, has not a single line to waste. It pays thousands of dollars for matter it does not print, and it is safe to say that no newspaper uses half the matter poured in upon it by the Press Associations, its special correspondents and the public generally. The great bulk of this news matter is bought and paid for, though never destined to see daylight, not because it is not news, but because matters which the trained senses of the editor pronounce more important news crowd it out."

"Those same trained editorial senses are constantly on the alert for the important item. Just mention in the midst of three columns of really important church reports the mere incidental fact that the Rev. John Doe has resigned and the resignation was accepted, and be prepared to turn out of bed at night and explain to half a dozen reporters all about the affair. The next morning the line of resignation may appear as three columns, while the three columns of church news will occupy scarcely more than that many lines. The editor knows that only three lines in your article contained the real news of the day and would help the sale of his paper."

"Now, it can not be argued that we should encourage sensational doings with the view of calling public attention to the church and its work. Ever to a salacious morsel the editor himself would prefer a piece of news of an entirely different character, but he has his finger on the public pulse and he knows what is required. To me it is a certain indication when a newspaper shows disinclination to give space to an article that it will not be read if published."

"We can assume a different attitude to the newspapers. We can take a generous view of existing conditions, accept the newspapers as having a right to all our news and show them that we are in sympathy with them."

While Uncle Sam's cruisers will not reach Asia Minor in time to prevent massacres and the destruction of property, they will be handy in collecting damages and the bills for the American property destroyed. A big navy can be made useful in more than one direction.

Maxwell City, a small settlement in Colfax county, has established a brick plant and has equipped it with modern machinery. Santa Fe is much larger and has been wanting a privately-owned brick plant for a number of years, but it hasn't gotten as far as Maxwell City as yet, in obtaining it.

THE PERSONAL VIEW.

There are pleasant incidents in every newspaperman's career and for every word of condemnation of a newspaper's policy, there are also words of commendation. It is hard to please everybody and therefore it is gratifying that at least somebody is pleased. One reader of the New Mexican, writes for instance, from Chicago, where newspapers are big and enterprising: "I wish your paper all success under the new management. It is one of the best papers I ever read." In the same mail, there was a letter from a local matron who writes: "I am sending a few copies to the home folks over the range. I want them to see what a good daily we have in our little city. The other day I received a letter from the states asking 'how far we were from a church, or if we have churches out here.' I sent a card with a picture of our Capitol. It is very amusing sometimes. Aside from the big city dailies, we think our 'New Mexican,' the very best daily we have ever read with no exception." The same mail brought an offer from North Dakota to buy the New Mexican and another to take stock in the New Mexican Printing Company, while at the same time a daily exchange brought a two column flattering write-up of the editorial management of the New Mexican. It is the vogue of late for the leading magazines to take their readers into their confidence and tell something of the inside workings of a big magazine office. It establishes a closer chord of sympathy between the publishers and the readers, if the latter are at times informed of the pulsations behind the paper or the magazine which visits them at regular intervals and generally and properly, speaks to them from an impersonal standpoint.

New Mexico does not make as much of its mineral and hot springs as it should. Springs inferior to them in many particulars, except sumptuous hotel accommodations, draw thousands of people annually while New Mexico's springs are neglected. The springs, at Ojo Caliente, for instance, in Taos county, as to curative properties, are perhaps, the best in the United States and have achieved almost miraculous cures. At Carlsbad, Eddy county, the Carlsbad Spring Company, is awakening to the profitability of making mineral springs attractive and accessible to the public. A sixty foot public road has been laid out and graded to the springs; over the spring a large pavilion has been erected and the waters will be free to all comers. A large sanatorium and hotel is to be erected and by liberal advertising crowds will be drawn, no doubt, from near and far. Santa Fe too, has mineral springs in its immediate vicinity, to the east, to the west and to the north. The nearest are the Aztec springs, which at one time had a hotel but have been neglected of late years. They would be an ideal site for the proposed Chautauqua grounds and by being advertised properly would in themselves draw many people, the springs being located only three miles from the city limits.

In Colorado, just as in the mountains of Northern New Mexico, there is plenty of snow assuring a bountiful supply of water for irrigation in summer. The Snowfall Bulletin of the Colorado Section of the Climatological Service of the U. S. Weather Bureau, for April, says that the amount of snow in Colorado mountains as a whole is the greatest in many years, far exceeding that at the close of the memorable winter of 1898-1899. The warning is given, which applies also to the Rio Grande and other streams in New Mexico, that the streams will be taxed to their utmost to carry the large volume of water that will come down from the mountains at the end of this and the beginning of next month. Ditch owners and others interested along streams should be alert to avert damage. The high areas at the head of the watersheds of the Rio Grande and the San Juan are still completely covered and melting has been slow at high altitudes.

The Forestry service desires complete reports on forest fires in each state and territory. It expects state and territorial conservation commissions to furnish it with these data. There is one line where New Mexico's conservation commission can make itself useful immediately and get to work. But in the circular sent out a few days ago, dated from the Albuquerque district office, the old conservation commission is named, although a new commission was appointed several weeks ago to take its place. It is rather peculiar to expect conservation commissions to keep tab of forest fires on national forest reserves, when district forestry officers do not even keep tally of the personnel of the conservation commissions with which they are to deal. The district forestry office at Albuquerque should subscribe to some reliable New Mexico daily of which Albuquerque has two.

An automobile line has been established on the road from Silver City to Mogollon. This is a great improvement and shows that it ought not take much work, money or time to make that road a good one.

Porto Rico will be honored with a Congressional investigation. New Mexico hopes that the island will get a thorough one and will not be merely "Beveridged," as was this Territory a few years ago.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

When the blood becomes infected with the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, the symptoms are soon manifested. The mouth and throat ulcerate, copper-colored spots appear, a red rash breaks out, the hair begins to come out, and usually sores and ulcers show themselves on different parts of the body. At the first sign of the disease S.S.S. should be taken, for the trouble is too powerful and dangerous to trifle with. If allowed to run on the tendency is to work down and attack the bones and nerves, and sometimes it makes a complete physical wreck of the sufferer. The disease can make no such headway if S.S.S. is commenced and used according to directions; its progress can be stopped, the poison removed, and health preserved. S.S.S. goes into the blood and removes the insidious virus, cleanses the circulation and makes a complete and permanent cure by driving out the cause. S.S.S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear, the health is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and blemishes, and when S.S.S. has thoroughly purified the circulation no trace of the disease is left. S.S.S., a purely vegetable remedy, cures Contagious Blood Poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven for more than forty years. Home treatment book and any medical advice free to all who write.

NATURE'S PROTEGE. (H. R. H.)

When Nature from her lavish horn,
Poured forth her wondrous wealth,
She gave to Santa Fe "First Born."
Her choice—then added health.

Her choice, indeed, for where but here
Can'er be found such bliss.
Amid her glories, all so dear,
There's not a thing to miss.

Tall mountains guard on either hand
With cloudless skies overhead.
The valley 'tween is fertile land
By purest waters fed.

The waters from the mountains fall,
The melt of purest snow.
They flow in plenteous for all
Alike for high and low.

The rancher gladdened by such aid,
His daily toil finds light.
His products when to town conveyed
His patrons give delight.

Aside from drink and healthful food,
Dame Nature more did grant.
She showed herself in graceful mood,
Such glories here to plant.

For where in all this land so great,
Can air be found more pure?
And where, though men may ever
prate,
Do scenes so grand endure?

Oh, Mountains, stately, vastly grand,
That pierce cerulean skies,
Oh, sunshine, best in all the land,
With climate all men prize.

Oh, Sunsets, glorious and rare,
Whose crimson red does blend
With blushing pink, beyond compare,
While shadows weird descend.

The foothills, robed in purple royal,
Bespeak the city's rank,
As sinks the sun o'er Western soil,
All things do Nature thank.

And when at night the breezes blow,
They sing fond songs of praise
To her who kindly did bestow
These treasures—Santa Fe's.

TEN YEARS FROM NOW

Clipped From the Columns of the Martian News, Published On the Planet Mars.

Special Flash Correspondence to The News.

Santa Fe, N. M., U. S. A., Earth,
May 3, 1919.

Yesterday a prominent citizen,
whose name has not been divulged, presented the city of Santa Fe with a check for five thousand dollars, the money to be used for the securing of an appropriate work of sculpture in the nature of a statue of some historical
Santa Fe trail. In making the gift, the donor did so with the proviso that a committee be appointed by the Mayor of the city to decide upon the kind of statue and stipulated that the statue be placed on the top of the great arch which was constructed a number of years ago to mark the end of the Santa Fe trail. Fortunately, when the arch was built, those in charge of the project were possessed of sufficient foresight to anticipate just such a gift as has been made and the arch therefore was constructed in such a manner that it is of sufficient strength to easily support a large and heavy statue placed over its center. The statue when placed in position will be another great attraction for Santa Fe.

The great fight that has been going on for many years for better roads throughout the Territory and for better streets in Santa Fe has not been fruitless and as a result of the many improvements, there has been an increasing demand for automobiles. At present there are over five hundred privately owned autos in the city and yesterday a very pretty sight was afforded when all of these auto machines were out on dress parade. Connections by autos, with neighboring towns are now being made easily and quickly.

Now that a method has been finally discovered whereby the spring frosts that have for so many years destroyed all fruit crops, can be coped with successfully, it is reported that an organization has been formed for the purpose of erecting a large fruit canning factory. Large crops of fruit in the neighborhood of Santa Fe are promised this year as a result of the discovery of the frost fighting device and it is figured that if the canning establishment is started it will have almost more work than it can accomplish.
Thus do the industries of Santa Fe constantly increase.

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Catholic.

Yesterday at the Cathedral the usual number of masses were said all being well attended. At the 9:30 mass, said by Reverend Anthony Fourchegu, a very forcible sermon was preached by Father Jules Hartman. Father Hartman took for his subject the Blessed Sacrament and gave most forcible argument that the Sacrament contained the real presence of Jesus Christ. He also gave proof to the effect that when Christ said that man should eat of His body and taste of His blood, He intended that His words be taken literally and not in a figurative sense. As authority he sighted many passages of the Bible and quoted a number of famous theological scholars.

St. John's Methodist-Episcopal.

Yesterday being Labor Sunday the pastor preached upon the subject "What Christ and Christianity Have Done for the Workingman." The text was Ex-xx-2 "I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage."

The following is a synopsis of the sermon.

This passage of scripture has special reference to the Israelites of old. In a time of famine they had gone down into Egypt where they multiplied greatly. So long as Joseph the prime minister was living, they were treated kindly. But after his death there arose a new king who knew not Joseph. Then they were reduced to serfdom or slavery. They were compelled to toil under the hot tropical sun tilling the fields and vineyards, digging irrigation ditches and making brick for the treasure houses of Egypt. Had God not come to their rescue they would have remained in bondage till they became extinct as a race and their divine mission would have remained unfulfilled.

There are some who seem to think that Christianity has done nothing for the workingman. This is a mistake. Perhaps no class of people owe more to Christianity than manual laborers. They have been lifted from the lowly position of former ages to the high vantage ground they occupy today, by Christianity.

When Christ came he found three classes in the Roman Empire. There were the patricians who lived in luxurious ease. Then there were sixty million slaves with no rights that others were bound to respect, with few comforts and opportunities. Sometimes slaves were chained like watch dogs at the doors of their masters. It was a law that when a gentleman was murdered if the perpetrator could not be found, all his slaves, with their wives and children should be put to death. Tacitus tells of 400 who were thus put to death.

The third class were the plebeians who despoiled work as fit only for slaves. Three hundred and twenty thousand of these were receiving public aid and their homes were worse than any modern tenement house.

To these three classes came the Carpenter of Nazareth. Let us notice some of the things which he has done for the toiling masses. He gave as one of the evidences of his Divinity the fact that unto the poor the gospel was preached. He said the laborer is worthy of his hire. He taught those principles of brotherly love and Christian living which have been most potent factors in the elevation of the masses.

Others have cried, Down with capital! Down with nobility! Down with culture! But He believed in leveling up rather than leveling down. In other words the burden of His message was up with the masses. He taught that one man is as good as another so far as position and place are concerned. The only aristocracy He recognized was the aristocracy of the heart.

As a result of Christ's teachings the laborer is now recognized as a man rather than a chattel. He is also recognized as a child of God who cannot be abused without displeasing the Father.

Tons of literature have been written in the last few years on the labor question. And it has all been written directly or indirectly by the Carpenter of Nazareth.

Every Christian college has its department of sociology where every phase of the labor question is studied. Thousands of sermons will be preached on this subject today.

God and Christ have dignified labor by making it subservient to all ends. An empire cannot be established, a republic founded, a mountain tunneled, a railroad built, a Bible printed, a church erected, the kingdom of God established and the world redeemed without labor of hand as well as of brain.

We are indebted to the laboring man for the food we eat, the clothing we wear, the books we read, the fuel we burn, the churches in which we worship, the casket in which we are laid to rest and the tomb stone which marks our last resting place.

Plato, Cicero and others considered common labor a disgrace but Christ worked for years at the carpenter's bench making ox yokes and carts and other things the villagers and country folk needed. The first announcement of the Saviour's birth was made to poor laboring men, the shepherds on Bethlehem plain.

His disciples were poor fishermen who sometimes toiled all the day and night without catching anything.

Aristotle would have considered Christ and the apostles unworthy of citizenship in Athens. But the Christian church reveres the Carpenter of Nazareth and ranks the disciples among the greatest benefactors of mankind.

Paul was a tent maker. Luther was a miner's son. Bunyan was a tinker. Franklin was a printer. Lincoln was a woodsman and Grant a tanner. A large share of our most successful men in church and state have begun life in homes of poverty and have themselves for a time engaged in manual labor.

As Rome called Cincinnatus from the plow so God and Christ, when they have wanted a man for some great work have usually called him from the humble walks of life and from the ranks of the toiling masses. Thus has labor been dignified.

Through the influence of Christianity the material condition of the laboring classes has been greatly bettered. They receive a larger wage than ever before and the eight hour day in most of the skilled trades is now observed. In this country they have a voice and vote in making the laws that govern them.

Besides classes are not fixed as formerly. The son need not follow the occupation of the father unless he so desires. The blacksmith's son may become president. The carpenter's son may become a literary genius and the bricklayer's boy may be a bishop.

Conditions will continue to improve. Wages will either increase or the cost of living decrease. There will one day be a more equal division of wealth. The wage-earner will share more largely in the profits of his own labor.

Today the man who starves to death because he is out of employment and who has no friends, is buried at public expense. Some day the public will provide work for the otherwise unemployed so that no man need starve because penniless and out of employment. Old age pensions will also be granted at some future time.

Lastly Christ helps the workingman by affording him salvation and all the comforts of the gospel. He is willing to save men from evil habits which are often the chief cause of their poverty. He offers to the humblest day laborer the treasures and happiness of heaven.

First Presbyterian Church.

Yesterday morning the pastor of this church had for his theme, "Victory Through Suffering," showing the reality of trouble, the fictitious character of "Christian Science," so-called, and how the child of God may derive spiritual strength from his sorrows and physical infirmities. The evening subject was "A Pessimist's Verdict of Life," the text being taken from Ecclesiastes 1-2: "Vanity of vanities, said the preacher, all is vanity." An extract of the sermon follows:

The Bible as a whole is not a pessimistic book. Sometimes, it is true, its writers fall into a despairing mood. Moses loses heart with the children of Israel; David sinks into despondency in some of his psalms; Elijah flees from the wrath of Jezebel, and wishes to die; Job pours out his soul in distress in the day of his calamity; and Jeremiah fills chapters with his lamentations.

But these are passing moods. The Bible is a book of hope; it believes the best about things; it teaches that all things work together for good to the Christian. It shows us God on the throne, doing all things well. It is the most optimistic book ever written. If you want to put a book into the hands of a miserable, despairing man that will do him good, choose the Bible.

Its promises have uplifted, its prayers have helped, its teachings have inspired. Through it men have taken fresher and brighter and more hopeful views of life. They have been encouraged to try again, and at the last have been enabled to strengthen the things that remained—the things that were ready to die.

The Ecclesiast Deliberately Pessimistic.

The writer of the text sees everything as vanity, folly, vexation of spirit. There is no profit under the sun. Man comes in with vanity and goes out in darkness. Sorrow is better than laughter. It is better to attend a funeral than a feast. Even childhood and youth are vanity.

Nor does this seem to be a passing mood of the writer. There are dark days, sorrowful moods, hopeless times that come to us all. There are losses, defeat, sickness, bereavement, disappointed hopes and sun shines, the birds sing, we get out of the valley of shadows, and pass a very different verdict on life.

But the verdict of this book of Ecclesiastes seems to be no hasty one, but a settled, deliberate conclusion, arrived at as the result of experience and mature thought. And there are many today who have arrived at the same conclusion. The tone of much present-day literature is the tone of our text; all is vanity. Life is hard and cruel and disappointing. You are told that if you succeed, success is little better than failure, which is true if your efforts have as their final goal the limits of the present life.

We are also reminded that the disappointed men and women are not all found in the free lodging houses, but there are disappointed ones in the saloons of society, in the mansions of Fifth Avenue and Park Lane. Life is vanity, whether it bears the unmistakable stamp of failure or the uncertain appearance of success. And one of the saddest things is to hear ever young people talk like this. Kipling's lines are too sadly true:

"We have done with hope and honor, we are lost to love and truth,
We are dropping down the ladder rung by rung;
And the measure of our torment is the measure of our youth—
May God help us, for we knew the worst too young!"

Two Kinds of Disappointment.

You will notice, and it is a very significant fact, that the conclusions of the text were not the outcome of trouble. It is not the verdict of a man harassed by continuous misfortune, or persistent ill-health. It is not the wall of poverty; neither does it come from one on whom some heavy blow has fallen. The man who passed this verdict on life was a prosperous man—one of fortune's favorites. This world has not had many men who could write such a list as is found in Chapter II of this book, and sum it all up by saying: "Whatsoever mine eyes desired I kept not from them. I withheld not my heart from any joy."

Nevertheless, Solomon was a grievously disappointed man. Now there are two sorts of disappointed people in the world. There are those who are disappointed because they do not get what they want, and there are those who are disappointed because they do get what they want; and believe me, my friends, the latter kind of disappointment is by far the worse of the two.

The man who is disappointed because he has not got his desires, still has the fascination of his hopes before him. But he who has got his desires, and is then disappointed, has picked the bubble, and knows the meaning of emptiness and vexation of spirit. The man who falls to scale the heights, has still the heights before him; but he who has reached the heights and found them barren, is disappointed indeed. And the last was the disappointment of Solomon.

Selfishness the Source of Disappointment

Dear friends, it is not well for anyone to be able to satisfy all his desires. Believe me, it is a mistake to exhaust any pleasure. Do not, I pray you, satisfy all your desires; leave something still to be exploited, and then you will never have reason to pass Solomon's verdict on life. For his is the verdict of selfishness, and selfishness and disappointment always follow each other. The selfish person is always a disappointed and gloomy person. The great paradox of this life is that we must give to get, we must die to live.

What utter selfishness this book reveals. Take this second chapter; it is all "I"—I made, I got, I did, I had, I sought; and the text is the end of it all—"Vanity and vexation of spirit." If you want to know and enjoy the best that life has to give, be unselfish; remember that there are others in the world besides yourself, and life for the purpose and privilege of helping them. Then you will never feel like repeating the words of the text, because out of your own experience you will know they are false.

It is certain there will be no despairing not from those who truly follow Christ, not seeking solely their own pleasure, but giving themselves, like their blessed Master, to the service of others. They may be found amid squalid surroundings, best with difficulties and bearing heavy burdens, but in proportion as their lives reflect the life of Christ, so will there not be one triumphant optimism. And life to all such, is, and will continue to be, an ocean of glorious possibilities, bounded on the further side by the golden shores where stands the eternal City of God.

MINES AND MINING

Receiver for Stephenson-Bennett Mine—Jorge Frank W. Parker has appointed J. I. McCullough of Las Cruces, receiver of the Stephenson-Bennett mine in the Organ mountains. Mr. McCullough was president of the old company and his appointment is the result of an amicable arrangement which is to lead up to speedy reorganization. Operations are to be resumed on a much larger scale than ever before within the next sixty days, the property being one of the most valuable in New Mexico.

Sold Placer Claim—Robert Kirker has sold his placer claim at Pinos Altos to Frank W. Graham. Modern machinery is to be installed by the purchasers.

Big Blast—Says the Western Liberal, published at Lordsburg, Grant county: "The big blast in the railroad quarries at Steins is nearly ready for explosion. The tunnels and cross-cuts have been completed and the men are now busy loading them with powder and tamping the tunnels so the explosion will break the rock."

Concentrator Closes Down—The concentrator at Santa Rita, Grant county, closed last week for several days to admit the making of necessary repairs.

New Mining District—The El Paso Herald speaks as follows of the new mining camp of Fluorine:

"The new camp of Fluorine is about 13 miles from Fairview, and is just over the line in Socorro county. The camp has been laid out in what is considered to be the center of the mineral district, as a matter of convenience, it being expected that the miners engaged on the different properties will reside in the camp. A number of buildings are being erected and a store, hotel, and several other business, and a number of applications have already been received for building sites. Water can be obtained in shallow wells, and is of splendid quality."

"The formation of the vicinity is generally andesite porphyry. The values are in quartz. Experienced miners believe the ore will finally go to tellurium, although on the surface it is largely free."

Articles on New Mexico Mines—Southwestern Mines of last week had an excellent write-up of the Red River District, Taos county, from the pen of R. P. Kelly, of the Monero Mining District, Colfax county, from the pen of Professor Fayette A. Jones, and news letters from the camps of Oro Grande, Otero county; Elizabethtown, Colfax county, and the Black Range in Sierra county. The Mining World of Saturday has a two page write-up of the Tres Hermanas District in Luna county, by Waldemar Lindgren of the U. S. Geological Survey, who has visited Santa Fe several times in recent years.

The Most Common Cause of Suffering.

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure cannot be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by all druggists.

A Game for Blood—Yesterday on the High School ball grounds the Curry Browns fought a long drawn out battle with the newly organized team known as the Farmers. The game lasted thirteen innings being replete with sensational plays and good batting. When the clouds of conflict raised the Curry Browns had outlasted their opponents by a score of 7 to 6.

Disturbed the Peace—On Saturday Cruz Morales, a woman, and Juan Romero a blind man were found causing considerable disturbance and upon complaint were arrested for disturbing the peace. The woman was not locked up owing to her sex but is under the custody of Officer Jose Garcia. The blind man is in the city jail awaiting trial.

Wind Damage in Eastern New Mexico—The Roswell Record of Saturday evening reports a violent windstorm in the lower Pecos valley on Saturday afternoon. The telephone and telegraph wires "were shot to pieces" by the wind, as the telephone operator put it. At Texico, several buildings were unroofed and for a time a report was circulated of serious damage and loss of life at Clovis, but these reports were fortunately not verified.

Will Contest Alexander Will—An Albuquerque attorney has been retained by the Princess de Broglie, who was divorced a few days ago at Paris, to contest the will of her father, Sofre Alexander, formerly of Albuquerque, and who died at Chicago, supposed to be worth several hundred thousand dollars, a part of it in lands in New Mexico. Mrs. E. Ralph Blair, wife of the cashier of the First National bank at Sedalia, Mo., joins with the princess in the contest against the third wife of Alexander whom he married only a few weeks before his death.

Three Kinds of Weather—New Mexico will have three kinds of weather tonight and tomorrow according to the weather bureau predictions. In the northern part, there are to be showers tonight or tomorrow with cooler temperature; in the southwest it is to be fair and warmer and in the southeast warmer without any guaranty of fairness. Yesterday the maximum temperature was 61 degrees and the minimum last night was 47 degrees. The relative humidity at 6 o'clock last evening was 30 degrees.

Prairie Fires—Prairie fires destroyed the range east of Hagerman, eastern Chaves county, and burned 400 fine sheep owned by Eaces and Alston, and valued at $7 per head. A son of Tom Douthitt has been arrested, so says the Carlsbad Current, and placed in jail at Roswell on the charge of having set fire to the range. Fire also destroyed the range at the head of the Black river in Eddy county and sheep belonging to M. Thurman were saved only by driving them to the top of a bare hill. Owing to the drought more prairie fires may occur and cause extensive damage. Cattlemen are shipping their cattle as rapidly as possible on account of the lack of grass and water.

Married at the Cathedral—This morning at 6 o'clock at the Cathedral a pretty wedding took place when Fidel Romero was united in the bonds of wedlock with Miss Maria Onofre Baca of Cienega. The wedding ceremony was performed after a low mass, Reverend Father Anthony Fourche officiating. Frank Ortiz acted as best man while his wife Rosaria D. Ortiz was the bridesmaid. After the services a wedding breakfast was served at the residence of Frank Ortiz, after which the party left for Cienega where a grand reception will take place. The day will be spent in celebration and this evening a dance will be enjoyed. The bridal pair were the recipients of many handsome wedding presents.

Indictments and Arraignment at Roswell—In the district court at Roswell of Saturday the parties indicted on fourteen counts were arraigned, excepting in five instances. W. T. Wells was indicted for killing Ollie Shirley and pleading not guilty, was released on furnishing $25,000 bail. Ralph Van Valkenburg, who had escaped from the jail at Lincoln, pleaded guilty to robbery and receiving stolen goods. J. H. Carmichael pleaded not guilty to flourishing a knife and was placed under $750 bond. The following pleaded not guilty but being unable to furnish $750 bond were placed in jail: Bertha Miles, theft of diamonds; Charles Tuttle, aid prisoners to escape; E. B. Stucker, bribing a witness; Encarnacion Miranda, larceny; Harry B. Davis, burglary at Kenna.

INSIGNIFICANT BLAZE CAUSES FLURRY

Last night about 9:30 there was considerable excitement about town when the fire bells started to ring loudly and the report soon spread that the Old Palace was on fire and in danger of being destroyed. The fire department responded to the call but upon reaching the scene of the conflagration, discovered the blaze to be nothing more than a burning tree in the Plaza opposite the Old Palace building. The tree was somewhat rotten, the trunk being hollow and afforded good material for the flames. With little trouble the fire was extinguished. It is thought that some one who had been smoking a cigar during the evening band concert, tossed away the stump of the cigar which unnoticed fell into the hollow trunk of the tree and still burning lay smoldering until the tree caught fire with the resultant excitement.

LIFE OF PORTER ENDANGERED

Yesterday afternoon when Felix Sandoval, porter at the Palace hotel, was walking along the street accompanied by two companions, he happened to pass by a man by the name of Cosme Padilla. The latter overheard a remark which Sandoval had addressed to one of his companions, rushed up and angrily demanded that Sandoval take back what he had said about him. Sandoval replied that he had been talking to his companions and had not said anything at all regarding Padilla. The latter, however, insisted that a disparaging remark had been made and began to grow ugly. Suddenly whipping out a six-shooter he attempted to fire the same at Sandoval. The two friends of Sandoval, however, grasped the fellow tight and relieved him of the weapon, this ending what for the time seemed to be an extremely serious matter. The gun was this morning turned over to the city marshal. Sandoval, who has been staying up at night with a very sick wife was much wrought up over the affair and especially deplors it as no real cause was given for offense.

WHISKEY STARTED RIOT AT SANBORN

El Paso, Texas, May 10.—Harold Sanborn, the young Chicagoan in jail at Rincon Antonio, as the result of the riot at the Sanborn plantation near Vera Cruz when six Mexicans were killed, is exonerated in the complete story of the riots received here. The fighting started with the arrest of a Mexican for drunkenness. A brother of the drunken man killed Vicente Espinosa, a peace officer and the fight started generally. At its end, five men and a girl lay dead. Sanborn gave himself up. The Mexican woman says that Sanborn didn't shoot in the direction of the girl.

TWO THOUSAND WIVES WANTED

Well-to-Do Bachelors of the Northwest Make Pathetic Appeal for Helpmeets.

Spokane, Wash., May 10.—There are fully 2,000 healthy and fairly well to do young bachelors in the inland empire, taking in parts of eastern Washington and Oregon, northern Idaho, western Montana and southeastern British Columbia. They want wives. That is, if they can find the right ones. All of them are good-hearted, kind, affectionate and capable of real love. They say so in letters to Levi Grant Monroe, secretary of the Spokane chamber of commerce, who became interested in the movement when Rev. D. D. Vaughan, pastor of the Halsted Street Institutional church, Chicago, announced that more than 200 girls belonging to his congregation would marry "honest men who can make clean money."

"What appeals to me most," said one of the eligibles, "is the fact that the girls are looking for real home-makers. They seem agreed that wealth, talent or swell clothes are not absolutely necessary, but that they want clean men, who are not afraid to work. There are hundreds of strapping young men, full of vim and vigor, in our forests, mines and railroad camps, grain fields, orchards and factories. All of them have had school advantages, and not a few are college men. The majority would marry the right kind of girls and give them life partnerships in good homes."

While Mr. Munroe has no desire to figure as Cupid's messenger, he will, however, forward the bachelors' letters to Rev. Dr. Vaughn at Chicago, in the hope that the girls may find their ideal man, as described in responses to the Chicago minister's circulars. Mr. Monroe said this is not to be taken to mean that girls in cities and towns in eastern, middle western, southern and Pacific coast states or any part of Canada are barred.

"Nothing of the kind," he added. "The bachelors are here; there are 2,000 of them, and they want wives."

STATEHOOD SURE NEXT SESSION.

then asked for an opinion regarding the statehood situation.

Statehood a Certainty.

"Statehood," replied Mr. Harrison, "is a foregone conclusion at the next session of Congress. You should have had it long before this. You did not get it in the first place, because there was too much fear that four Democratic Senators would be elected, hence the introduction of a joint statehood bill. They thought they would be taking less chances of having Democratic Senators, by admitting the territories jointly. Of course the territories defeated this idea themselves. At the last regular session, New Mexico would have secured statehood had it not been for Senator Beveridge and the serious charges he filed. Are the people fit for statehood? They certainly are. Of that there is no question at all. But they will win out at the next session. It's a sure thing."

Santa Fe is Becoming Modern.

"Have you ever been in Santa Fe before?" asked the reporter. "Oh, yes," replied Mr. Harrison. "I have been here three times in three years. There is a peculiar attractiveness and uniqueness about the city. There used to be almost that same attractive quality about St. Augustine, Florida, but that city has changed so materially, becoming more and more modern that it has lost its charm. I am afraid Santa Fe is also beginning to lose much of its former oddness. I notice that there have been wonderful improvements going on and that the appearance of the town is more modern than ever. Of course, that is good for the people of the town, but it is not what the tourists come to see. However, there is still very much to attract and the fact that Santa Fe is a practical center of so many historical points and ancient ruins will help it hold its place as a drawing center for tourists."

Wife an Authoress.

Mr. Harrison and family left today for Taos and will spend several days around that part of the Territory, returning to Santa Fe probably on next Friday when they will leave over the Santa Fe for their home in Chicago.

Mrs. Harrison is well known as an authoress, having written a number of books containing fairy tales for children.

"She still does considerable writing," stated Mr. Harrison, "but I do not permit her to do as much as formerly as it is extremely trying upon her owing to her nervous disposition."
