WILL FINISH SCENIC HIGHWAY

Good Roads Commission Holds Important Session

OVERLAND TRIP TO RATON

Mrs. Chapman Appointed Clerk in Coal Oil Inspector's Office.

The Good Roads Commission met this forenoon in the executive office at the Capitol and there were present Governor Curry, Land Commissioner R. P. Ervin, and Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan, who constitute the commission. Various good road projects were discussed. The commissioners of Lincoln county will be asked whether they will use the forestry reserve appropriation apportioned to Lincoln county in co-operation with Chaves county and the commission, to improve highways in that part of New Mexico. It was resolved to leave on Sunday morning on an overland trip to view the road from Santa Fe to Raton via Las Vegas and to meet with the boards of county commissioners of San Miguel, Mora and Colfax counties to determine the best route for this highway. It was also resolved to expend $1,000 to complete the Scenic Highway between Santa Fe and the Pecos river, providing an equal amount is raised by the county of Santa Fe and those interested in having the road put through, it being suggested that Santa Fe county might do as did Grant and Socorro counties, and give the commission the use of its part of the appropriation of the Forest Reserve fund. Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan will start on Saturday morning over the Scenic Highway to determine what work is necessary to finish the road to the Pecos river and make it passable for automobiles all the way from this city to the Pecos. O. W. Alexander was present and urged the completion of the Scenic Highway to the Pecos and pointed out the benefits. The commission seemed entirely willing to do all in its power providing the road is feasible and the people of Santa Fe and the upper Pecos assist in the matter. The trip from Santa Fe to Raton will be made in an automobile and Territorial Engineer Sullivan will meet Governor Curry and Commissioner Ervin at Glorieta on Sunday forenoon.

IMMENSE IRON ORE RESERVE

Loss of Revenue If Duty Were Removed

56,500 MEN EMPLOYED

Senator Burrows Argues Against Proposed Reduction in Tariff.

Washington, May 13.—After roll call of the Senate had shown 63 Senators present today, Senator Burrows of Michigan spoke in favor of the duty on iron ore as a source of revenue. The present duty of forty cents, which the committee proposed to reduce to twenty-five cents, yields, he said, a revenue of $332,000 which would be lost by placing iron ore on the free list as proposed by the House. Burrows said it was reasonable to state that 56,500 men were receiving $31,500,000 annually in the production of iron ore which industry he said it was now proposed to open to the competition of the world. Quoting from advance sheets of the next annual report of the geological survey he said that there are now 3,500 millions of tons of available high grade ore in the United States while there are 12,000,000,000 tons of low grade.

Speaking of this basis of facts, Senator Burrows said: "The Senator from South Dakota yesterday told us that our iron ore deposits would be exhausted in thirty years, but according to the statement of the Geological Survey at the rate of consumption now going on, the ore will last six thousand years, so there need be no concern on that score." The Senator also discussed the iron ore schedule saying that if the Senate should reject the act of the committee on finance placing a duty of 25 cents a ton on iron ore he would later move to put that article on the free list. He said that the duty would redound to the benefit of the United States Steel Corporation and injure the independent mills who are compelled to buy imported ore. He said he did not believe that Cuban ore would go west of the Alleghenies, but would be available for the steel companies on the east of the mountains who are competitors of Steel Corporation.

Washington, May 13.—"The situation in Washington today is such that you cannot get the truth out of anybody. I am very fond of liars. I have studied them day and night but never in my life saw such an aggregation as are assembled in the Capitol now. They can lie with equal facility on either side of the same question." This burst came from Senator Rayner this morning in the Senate upon the discussion of the iron ore schedules. Rayner pleaded for free ore on behalf of the independent companies and was met with the statement by Smith that Charles M. Schwab had said that to put ore on the free list would not reduce the price of the manufactured article.

Pumping Station For Portales.
Washington, D. C., May 13.—Delegate Andrews today introduced a bill for a pumping station at Portales, Roosevelt county, the sum to be expended to be $300,000. The pumping station is to test the advisability of reclaiming arid lands with water driven from underground flow.

Delegate Andrews also introduced a bill appropriating $25,000 for a fishing station on the Gallinas, near Las Vegas.

Representative Stone of Pennsylvania, presented a protest from citizens of Willard against the proposed bond issue for $60,000 by Torrancia county, the citizens believing that the county seat will be removed within two years to Willard from Estancia and that issuing bonds to erect a court house at Estancia at the present time would be a dead loss therefore.

Bill for Porto Rico.
Washington, May 13.—Olmstead of Pennsylvania, in the House today offered a bill amendatory to the act creating civil government in Porto Rico. The bill provides that: "If at the termination of any session of the legislature, appropriations necessary for support of the government shall not have been made, an amount equal to the sums appropriated in the last appropriation bills for such purposes shall be deemed to be appropriated." The bill also authorizes the President to designate one of the executive departments to take charge of Porto Rican affairs.

CLIMATE OFFERS ONLY CURE

Consumption on the Increase in New York

FIGHT IS ALL IN VAIN

Thirty-Three Per Cent More Cases Than Last Year.

Washington, D. C., May 13.—That instead of a decrease in tuberculosis there is 33 per cent of increase in the number of cases in New York where the greatest fight is waged against the white plague, was the statement of Nathan Strauss, the philanthropist, before a mass meeting for the national study and prevention of tuberculosis. Strauss backed up his statement by figures from the health department of New York. He attributed the increase in cases to the lack of care in the use of milk. He said there would be no headway against the disease until it is made a crime to sell milk unless tested against tuberculosis.

DEVELOP MINE NEAR SANTA FE

Capital Secured and Active Work Will Commence on Rich Strike in Little Tesuque Canon.

Within a very short time the hills near Santa Fe are to be the scene of active gold mining. The mine is located about three miles from town in the Little Tesuque canon. The strike was discovered some years ago by A. B. Craycraft, the local photographer, and although the assays secured were more than satisfactory, insufficient capital forbade the working of the claim. During the last few days, other parties have become interested and an agreement was reached that will lead to the speedy development of the mine. Sometime ago, James Mullaney, an expert mining engineer of New York City, visited Santa Fe and learning of Craycraft's claim, became interested and visited the Little Tesuque canon. He at once pronounced the claim an excellent one, predicting a bountiful yield. He further expressed a desire to become interested with Craycraft and proceeded to the immediate development of the mine. W. W. Ingersoll, of Chicago, is also interested. Several assays made show four hundred dollars in gold to the ton. One vein is also rich in silver while a copper vein about thirty feet wide has been discovered. It is the intention of the owners of the mine to cart the ore in wagons from the mine into Santa Fe. If the situation should justify, it is very probable that a smelter will be established here in the city.

APOLONIO TORRES KILLED AT ROSWELL

Drinking Bout Winds Up in Shooting of Visitor From West Texas.—Deed Unintentional.

A drunken bout at the home of Teodoro Gonzales at Roswell wound up in the killing of Apolonio Torres, aged 20 years, who had arrived only a few days ago from western Texas to shear sheep. The deed was committed by Regino Gonzales, aged 22, who had a 45 caliber revolver from which he was extracting cartridges which he intended to sell for more liquor, when the weapon was discharged. The bullet pierced the visitor's heart. Gonzales admits the shooting but says it was unintentional and that he was too drunk to remember how it really occurred. The funeral of Torres took place at Roswell yesterday afternoon.

He said that the mechanical work in the development was of high order, but much of the work done was ill advised. Robert H. Hetherington, assayer at Prescott, who assayed the ore testified as to the value of samples submitted.

THE DAILY ROUND UP.

THE WET ROAD.

(Blanche Allen Bane in "Success Magazine.")

Leave the stretch of the dusty highway, slip your fetters and make you free!

Heedless of lure of lane and byway, forsake your dreaming and come with me

The way of the gray and shining surges, the long wet road that is called the sea.

Why do you sigh for the springtime maying, scent of hawthorn and lilac sweet,

And the beckoning fields where you two went straying when youth was laughter and life complete?

Do you not know that the primrose path may never be trod by returning feet?

There is a voice that is all-compelling dominant, not to be denied.

Harking you out from your inland dwelling to take your way with the ebbing tide.

Where the sun is a friend and the gulls are brothers and a star is set as the only guide.

And the years hold promise of glad tomorrows and of great joys that are yet to be;

And the keenest sorrow of all your sorrows becomes but a shadowy memory

As you take the road where the winds are running, the long wet road that is called the sea!

COPPER CONSUMPTION HAS INCREASED.

New York, May 13.—Figures of the Copper Producers' association for the month of April, made public, show that the proportion of consumption and distribution to production was considerably greater during that month than for March or February.

During the month 113,574,292 pounds was produced, as compared with 117,058,661 produced in March, and 103,700,817 in February, but the deliveries and exports in April totaled 4,593,114 pounds more than in March and 38,109,507 more than in February. Excess of production over consumption in April was 918,171 pounds, as against 8,995,654 in March and 25,154,303 in February.

Stocks of marketable copper of all kinds on hand May 1 in the United States were 183,198,075 pounds.

Production during April continued upon a large scale, the daily rate of output being nearly the same as in March, which month set a record. The fact that the month's output was practically absorbed bears out the statements previously made by selling agencies that users of copper abroad were buying in large quantities.

Exports of copper in April amounted, according to the producers, to more than 65,000,000 pounds, which is about 2,000,000 pounds more than shown by the government figures for the month and about 6,000,000 larger than in March. Deliveries to domestic consumers were about 47,000,000 pounds, or about 1,000,000 pounds less than those of March.

But from statements made by the selling agencies during the last ten days, it would appear that American railway equipment companies and brass manufacturing concerns have been coming into the market for large supplies. The sales agencies have been selling right and left and it was reported today that the United Metals Selling Company, the distributing concern for the Amalgamated Copper Company, had sold between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 pounds at a shade above 13 cents a pound.

The Most Common Cause of Suffering. Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure cannot be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by all druggists.

HOME ENDORSEMENT.

Hundreds of Santa Fe Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Santa Fe people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Santa Fe reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

Miss Adela Arias, 106 Griffin street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "The use of Doan's Kidney Pills in my case brought relief from a disordered condition of my kidneys that had troubled me for some time. I suffered from a dull, heavy ache in the small of my back, the attacks always being aggravated by colds and in addition to this, I was often distressed by headaches and dizzy spells. My attention was first called to Doan's Kidney Pills about three years ago and I procured a box at Stripling and Burrows' drug store. Their use proved that the claims made for them were genuine. Off and on since whenever occasion has required, I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and the quick and positive relief always obtained warrants my high opinion of them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

It is an admitted fact that real estate, financial men and merchants all say that quickest and best results are obtained by advertising in the New Mexican.

MISS DISETTE WRITES OF GOV. MORRILL

Glowing Tribute to Kansas Pioneer and Friend of New Mexico By Resident of Santa Fe.

Laguna, Valencia county, New Mexico. The glowing tribute paid to our mutual friend, ex-Governor Morrill, makes me wish to write you a hearty endorsement of all you have said, as well as to add my own feeble expression of gratitude and affection. For 30 years Gov. Morrill has been to me a counselor and friend. His influence, advice and funds helped me over several rough places on life's journey. He was never too busy to write a warm, encouraging letter, and never too engrossed in the affairs of his wide career to be able to grasp the details of my small one. It is hard to imagine the dear old town without him as its central figure. In the sad week, since I learned that he was gone, my mind has traveled back over the years when, as a very young and inexperienced teacher in Hiawatha, he and his dear wife sought me out, encouraged, cheered and helped me. Often during my seven years residence there they took me home with them from church, and after dinner a drive to the woods with them, or a quiet talk among the beautiful evergreens on the lawn, would change the whole mental atmosphere for me, and send me out ready for another week of work. Since I had neither influence, wealth nor accomplishments, nothing in fact that people usually demand in return for such favors, there could have been only the most unselfish motives in their extending that kindness to me. On one of those drives Mr. Morrill made a joke that has come back to me when I have seen a large number of yellow wild flowers. The prairie was beautiful after a rain, and we were all admiring the wild flowers and contrasting them with those of the New England and Canadian woods. I said, "Have you noticed how the yellow flowers predominate in this country?" "Yes. Don't you know the reason?" he replied, as if it were quite apparent. "No. Do tell me," I said, all alert for a scientific explanation. "Because there are so many more of them," he replied, and I could only promise to pay him later. Once while indexing the old records of the county commissioners office, I found an entry remitting the taxes of E. N. Morrill, "on account of fire." I asked him about this, and never forgot the look of sadness that shadowed his face as he told me of the loss of that, "little mill on the Walnut," and the hard times that he experienced in those early days. He became quite silent for a time, and the effort with which he pulled himself out of that sad reverie taught me that his usual cheerfulness was largely a cultivated habit of mind, coming from a determination to let no misfortune obscure the sunshine of life. How well he succeeded we who sat in his bible class Sunday after Sunday, and met him constantly in business, have reason to remember. His strongest hold as a Sunday school teacher, as I recall him, was his ability to draw out the opinion of each member of his class, based on their actual experiences, and to apply the spiritual lesson for the day to the meeting of those experiences. Our discussions often took us far from the text of the lesson, but they resulted in very plain and practical application of its essentials to our daily lives. After an absence from town or any unusual experience of his, we always expected an interesting hour and were never disappointed. Sometimes there would be a ripple of merriment in his class in which he invariably joined, especially if it was at his own expense. I remember once he began in this way, "I have just had a most impressive experience in a visit to the prison at Leavenworth. Some old friends are down there"—Here we irreverent young folks smiled audibly, and he laughed with us and then continued, "In charge of that institution." All our mirth was soon forgotten in his vivid and sympathetic portrayal of the evil forces in life that make criminals of our fellow men. There were no pious platitudes, no smug self-complacencies in his teaching, for they were foreign to his nature. He led his class, but never dominated it and his attitude was always that of a learner rather than a teacher. On one occasion he had been talking of success or had used the term quite freely, and I was quite anxious to hear his definition of it, so I said, impulsively, "What is success?" To my surprise and embarrassment he paused awhile, and then said, very gravely, "I thank you, my child for that reproof. No one but our Heavenly Father, who alone knows the limitations of each life can justly measure its success or failure. And I think we will all have to wait the final answer to that question until we reach the land where bodily infirmities and earthly limitations can not hinder our complete development." He gave us his best thoughts without reserve, and we talked to him as to a father. When I met him in business he always had some joke that lightened care. He dearly loved a tilt with me on the suffrage question, and always came out of it acknowledging that all the justice, logic and arguments were on the side of suffrage; but he said he could not quite make up his mind to the necessary changes it would make in the old political order of things. One day he came in to the county clerk's office rather hurriedly and said, "Miss D., we are afraid we are going to lose this election for school bonds unless we can get some of the ladies to come out and vote for them, so I have brought the carriage and would like to have you help me gather them up. "I couldn't think of it, Major," I said, shaking with laughter. "It is unwomanly, immodest, and entirely out of my sphere. Go to the polls? Those awful places? I am surprised that you would suggest it." "Don't stop now to rub it in, child; not until the bonds are safe. There is no time to be lost. Just be good and come and help us out." We did, but ever afterward we had the suffrage laugh on our good friend. When Haskell institute was opened his influence secured me a position as teacher. In about a year a Democratic administration came in and all employees who had Republican backing were promptly turned out. The Indian service was not then under civil service rules. I had worked very hard, under very trying conditions, and keenly felt the injustice. It was Mr. Morrill's patient explanation of the working of "the spoils system," and his assurance of his unshaken confidence in me, that gave me courage to go on. When I decided to come to New Mexico and continue my Indian teaching in a climate better suited to my impaired health I went to Mr. Morrill for funds, and he told me I could have them on my personal note, by adding the name of a mutual friend who had offered to be my security. He said, "I am going out of town tomorrow, and if I am not back in time go to Mr. Charley Jones and he will attend to it." I had met Mr. Jones only a few times and felt very much embarrassed. Borrowing money was a new experience for me, and the sum looked very large. I think it was $50. Mr. Jones did his best to put me at my ease, and when I signed the note and started to take it to get the other signature, he smilingly put his name below mine saying, "I believe the bank would just as soon have my name, and it will save your steps." I never saw the good, quiet man again. My first Christmas among strangers was brightened by a box for my pupils from the Sunday school of which Mr. Morrill was superintendent. From the same source came the first bath tub the Zuni Indians ever saw. Mr. Morrill agreeing with me that when Indians get the bath tub habit their civilization is not very far off. In 1882 I visited Hiawatha, bringing with me a little adopted Zuni girl, an orphan, who is now a woman and my assistant teacher. She has never forgotten how Mr. Morrill took her in his arms and placed her on the seat beside him in the carriage. In 1900 I found an opportunity to buy a home in Santa Fe in which I hope to teach and raise other orphan girls, and it was Mr. Morrill who loaned me the money to buy this home, placing his own name on the notes as one of the sureties. That this money was loaned on good security and at a fair rate of interest detracted nothing from the kindness. Laxity in business matters is not true philanthropy and Mr. Morrill realized it. One of his finest traits was a business integrity that demanded and cultivated that quality in others. We now own that home of several acres, in the heart of the city, and are adding something to its value each year. The little orphan girl is my right hand in the school work here. Three other orphans have had four years in boarding schools, and spend their vacations in this home with me. All are doing well and we are all working for the means, and hoping for the time, when we can enlarge our Santa Fe plant and take into it more orphan children. I suppose ours is only one of many cases where his support and encouragement have benefited humanity. No wonder that "There is nothing the matter with Kansas," when such men as E. N. Morrill laid its foundation. With equal pride we may add, "There never was anything wrong with Hiawatha," for that it had prohibition long before the state is a matter of history. One of its old residents told me of the time they had to keep saloons from getting a foothold in the place. Of one persistent offender he said, "We finally ran him out of town with our shot guns." When the younger generation of Kansas produces such men as Attorney General Treckett, and others like him, we can, with some degree of resignation, lay palms and sheaves of ripened wheat in the folded hands of their progenitors knowing that, "what the Fathers of Kansas have fought for their sons can be trusted to guard." But oh, how fast these dear old friends are going! I sometimes wonder if I shall ever have the courage to revisit the dear, familiar places which know so many of them no more. Of some I cannot trust myself to write. Time has not yet healed the wound made by their going. But all from the golden haired girl, who I taught to recite on her 7th birthday, "seven times one," and who in after years left you dazed and desolate, to this silver haired statesman, have left with me some of the most beautiful memories of life. Sacred always to me must be the place in which, "Such as these have lived and died." Life in this isolated post of duty would be dearer indeed if it were not for the hope that, "We shall meet some day on Life's Sunnier Side. For I know that though dead they have never died."—Mary E. Disette.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

THE HIGHEST JUDICIAL OPINION.

It is fairly well established by the courts that under statutes like those of New Mexico and under the general police power, city authorities have the right of limiting the number of saloons within the city limits and to raise the license fee to an adequate amount. The right to banish the saloon altogether or arbitrarily, is still more or less an open question, unless such authority is directly conferred by the legislature. Under the New Mexico statute, the holding of a popular election to determine the question, can not add anything to the powers that the statute already confers upon the municipal government. Such an election can therefore have only the effect of moral suasion or of gaining time for the saloons in fighting off higher license fees or stricter regulation.

It is difficult to look at the saloon question calmly and dispassionately. It is so great an evil that the wonder will be a decade hence that the people ever tolerated it just as people wonder now how it was that slavery took so firm a root on American soil. However, no one will question the dispassionateness of the Supreme Court of the United States, yet, Justice Field, in Crowley vs. Christensen, arraigns the saloon in terms so severe and yet so just, that no adequate defense remains. At the same time he upholds the doctrine, that every state and territory has the right to regulate the saloon or to banish it altogether. He says: "It is undoubtedly true that it is the right of every citizen of the United States to pursue any lawful trade or business, under such restrictions as are imposed upon all persons of the same age, sex and condition. But the possession and enjoyment of all rights are subject to such reasonable conditions as may be deemed by the governing authority of the country essential to the safety, health, peace, good order, and morals of the community. Even liberty itself, the greatest of all rights, is not unrestricted license to act according to one's own will. It is only freedom from restraint under conditions essential to the equal enjoyment of the same rights by others. It is then liberty regulated by law. The right to acquire, enjoy, and dispose of property is declared in the constitutions of several states to be one of the inalienable rights of man. But this declaration is not held to preclude the legislature of any state from passing laws respecting the acquisition, enjoyment and disposition of property. What contracts respecting its acquisition and disposition shall be valid and what void or voidable, when they shall be in writing and when they may be made orally, and by what instruments it may be conveyed or mortgaged, are subjects of constant legislation. And, as to the enjoyment of property, the rule is general that it must be accompanied with such limitations as will not impair the equal enjoyment by others of their property. For the pursuit of any lawful trade or business the law imposes similar conditions. Regulations respecting them are almost infinite, varying with the nature of the business. Some occupations, by the noise made in their pursuit, some by the odor they engender, and some by the dangers accompanying them, require regulations as to the locality in which they shall be conducted. Some, by the dangerous character of the articles used, manufactured, or sold, require, also, special qualifications in the parties permitted to use, manufacture or sell them. All this is but common knowledge, and would be mentioned were it not for the position often taken, and vehemently pressed, that there is something wrong in principle and objectionable in similar restrictions when applied to the business of selling by retail, in small quantities, spirituous and intoxicating liquors. It is urged that, as the liquors are used as a beverage, and the injury following them, if taken in excess, is voluntarily inflicted and is confined to the party offending, their sale should be without restriction; the contention being that what a man shall drink, equally with what he shall eat, is not properly matter for legislation. There is in this position an assumption of fact which does not exist—that, when the liquors are taken in excess, the injuries are confined to the party offending. The injury, it is true, first falls upon him in his health, which the habit undermines; in his morals, which it weakens; and in the self-abasement, which it creates. But, as it leads to neglect of business and general demoralization, it affects those who are immediately connected with and dependent upon him. By the general concurrence of opinion of every civilized and Christian community, there are few sources of crime and misery to society equal to the dram shop, where intoxicating liquors, in small quantities, to be drunk at the time, are sold indiscriminately to all parties applying. The statistics of every state show a greater amount of crime and misery attributable to the use of ardent spirits obtained at these retail liquor saloons than to any other source. The sale of such liquors in this way has therefore been at all times, by the courts of every state, considered as the proper subject of legislative regulation. Not only may a license be exacted from the keeper of the saloon before a glass of his liquors can be thus disposed of, but restrictions may be imposed as to the class of persons to whom they may be sold, and the hours of the day and the days of the week on which the saloons may be opened. Their sale in that form may be absolutely prohibited. It is a question of public expediency and public morality, and not of Federal law. The police power of the state is fully competent to regulate the business—to mitigate its evils or to suppress it entirely. There is no inherent right in a citizen to thus sell intoxicating liquors by retail. It is not a privilege of a citizen of the United States."

No wonder that it is no longer fashionable to drink; that the average man who has not lost all of his self-respect would rather not be seen going into a saloon and is shamefaced when an acquaintance sees him come out; that a young man is so terribly handicapped in the race for success if it is known that he drinks, and that saloons must invent other attractions than mere drink in order to lure sufficient custom to the bar to make the business profitable. Said the Supreme Court of Nebraska in Peuler vs. State, of the tendency of the liquor trade, that it is "productive of pauperism, vice, misery, and crime, to the great injury of the people at large and especially of the particular locality where it is carried on." These are not the ravings of fanatics, of unbalanced, long-haired men and short-haired women, but the calm, well reasoned out opinions of the highest courts of the land, the safeguard of our liberties and not the instruments of oppression.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT FOR SANTA FE.

The strongest argument, and one unanswerable, for commission government for Santa Fe, is that it could give the municipality no worse administration than it has had and the likelihood that it would be a great improvement upon what it has had heretofore. It must be understood from the start, however, that the municipal authorities of Santa Fe are sorely handicapped, be they mayor and city council, or be they three commissioners and a mayor. The city's revenues are entirely inadequate for the carrying on of public improvements such as the spirit of the times demands. Santa Fe's income is only about a fifth of that of Albuquerque, it is less than that of towns like Alamogordo, Clovis or Tucumcari, it is only a fraction of that of Roswell, and one-half of that of East Las Vegas, it is barely sufficient to pay the fixed charges such as water and light, interest and salaries. Admitting these limitations, however, the government of Santa Fe by a mayor and eight councilmen has been more or less of a failure because of the playing of petty, peanut politics by individual members of the city administration, and by reason of the personal ambition of each member who refuses to submit himself to the demands of the common weal. Another disturbing factor has been the constant dissension among the businessmen and property owners of the city, who are quick to criticize and slow to praise, no matter what the action of the mayor and the city council; who will not unite to uphold a city administration that is really trying its best to do the most with the little at its command.

A commission in charge of the city would probably remedy the worst effects of years of misrule, but it would have to do it with iron hand. It would not dare to become the tool of any faction or of any individual. It would have to keep an eye single to the welfare of the entire community and would not be swayed from its purpose by the howls of any muckrakers or any self-appointed tribunes. Its members would probably retire from office with the curses and execrations of many of their fellow citizens ringing in their ears. They would have to possess backbone sufficient to queer themselves politically and probably in business, by doing right no matter what influential taxpayer or what interests objected.

It is therein, where the benefit of the commission form of government lies. As a matter of course, it would be easier to find three businessmen measuring up to these qualifications who could be elected at large, although they could scarcely be re-elected if they did their duty, than it is to find eight such men to be elected by wards and under prevalent political methods. The businessman and property owners, could bring enough pressure to bear to force the election of the right kind of men under the commission form, while under the present methods they can not, for ward politics will not be dominated by business interests while the city as a whole can and will be.

The New Mexican has in mind, and so has every business man, the names of three businessmen who would make an ideal commission. Upon comparing notes it would be found that each person's idea as to who should be the commissioners would not be very far apart and that all interests could unite on three men whose ability and integrity and public spiritedness are above question. Politics should have no large place in the selection. In fact, the petty kind of politics that is being played at present, has no more place in the running of the city government than it has in running a grocery store. However, the commission could be made non-partisan and care might be taken to balance the progressive with the conservative elements.

By all means, let Santa Fe adopt the commission form of government and let Santa Fe do it before Albuquerque and Roswell get to it, just to show that like in so many other things, this old and historic town, despite its reputation for being ancient, is still setting the pace for the commonwealth.

The establishment at Tesuque of a place where visitors can be accommodated, where there will be pavilions for picnics and provisions for meals for outing parties, will do much to popularize short horseback trips and outings to the beautiful valley just across the divide. It is the lack of just such accommodations in the beautiful and grand mountain and river retreats right at the gateway of Santa Fe, that have retarded the development of this section as a summer resort. With accommodations like those to be provided on the old Wilcox ranch at Tesuque, and those planned in the Rito de los Frijoles and such as exist on the upper Pecos, many more visitors will be induced to visit Santa Fe in summer, especially if the right kind of advertising is done. At the same time, it will lead many people of this city to become better acquainted with their own beautiful and attractive surroundings, and instead of going a thousand miles away for an outing they will seize the opportunity to visit their own mountain retreats.

There is one fact in fighting epidemics of such diseases like measles and scarlet fever, that the towns which have the most rigid sanitary regulations and enforce the closest quarantine under the most progressive methods, seem to have as many cases as do the towns that make no effort at all to prevent the spread of the disease. In smallpox, vaccination has had much more effect in preventing epidemics than quarantine. This is not an argument against enforcing quarantine and sanitation, but explains why children in the cleanest and most exclusive homes where the greatest of care is taken, will have cases of scarlet fever and measles the same as the children in hovels living under the most unsanitary conditions.

A farmer named Weeks is putting 20 acres in alfalfa near Des Moines, Union county, sowing it on ground that was just broken and only harrowed once. After seeding, it is to be harrowed again and then left to take care of itself. Weeks, who comes from Colorado says that by this method farmers near Walsenburg raise two crops of alfalfa each year, averaging two tons an acre, and that with less rainfall than in New Mexico. The experiment is worth while and if it succeeds, thousands of acres around Santa Fe ought to blossom into alfalfa fields ere long.

The dullness in mining all over the West, may be due as much to the vigorous prosecution by the Federal government of wild cat mining as to the prevalent depression. People like to be humbugged and the glaring misrepresentations of wild cat promoters seem to have brought more capital to mining fields than the conservative statements of competent mining engineers. Of course, within a few years, the public will understand all this, but for the present, the reaction is causing many a good prospect and mine to lie idle.

With aeroplanes as low as $7,500 a piece, residents of Santa Fe will in the near future need no Scenic Highways to enable them to get to the Pecos for a day's fishing. A thirty minutes jump over the Dalton Divide will land them on the banks of the finest trout stream in the Southwest and amidst surroundings primeval and majestic.

The woman who waltzed herself to death is about as foolish as the man who drinks or eats himself to death. Excess in any direction is criminal.

The Des Moines Swastika in defending the breed of knockers, makes the point that "Christ was a knocker." That may explain the reason that every knocker thinks he is Christ or some one of equal importance.

TO INVESTIGATE
COAL FRAUDS

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 13.—That 47 persons living in New York were to be summoned as witnesses afforded the first intimation here that the government had been making careful investigation of alleged coal land frauds in the vicinity of Gebo, Big Horn county. These subpoenas have been issued from the United States court to the marshal, with instructions to secure service. Secrecy has been maintained in regard to them, but it is reported that the charges involve the acquisition of coal lands through the use of dummy entrymen. The Owl Creek Coal company, operating at Gebo, is one of the new corporations of the state but a strong one. The cases brought by the government will come up later during the term of the United States district court, which opened today.

The grand jury called to consider criminal evidence involved in cases on the court docket will report tomorrow. The most important criminal case is that against Roy Spoonhunter, an Arapahoe Indian, charged with having killed his child during an attempt to kill his squaw. The tragedy occurred on the Wind River reservation several months ago. Spoonhunter returned to his home drunk, flew into a rage, started to draw a revolver to kill his wife, accidentally discharged the weapon and the bullet plowed through the body of the papoose which had been dropped on the floor by the terror stricken mother.

Biliousness and Constipation.
For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by all druggists.

HELD BY JURY FOR MURDER.

Trinidad, Colo., May 13.—Juan Griego, who, the police say, admitted the shooting and killing of Mrs. Frank Orekar at Frederick last week, was held for the murder of the woman by the coroner's jury. Investigation by the police leads them to believe that a feud has existed in the Orekar family for years and they now attribute the murder of Charles Kukuljan, a wealthy saloon keeper of Suffolk, and the death of Mrs. John Orekar at Raton, New Mexico, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Frank Orekar, to this feud. Griego, it is alleged by the police, says he was employed to do the killing, but refuses to state who hired him.

At the time of the Kukuljan killing, Mrs. John Orekar, a sister-in-law of the woman alleged to have been killed by Griego, was held for the killing of the saloon man. After investigation she was released. She went to Raton, New Mexico, where she died. The police say that she died from poisoning.

Bad Attack of Dysentery Cured.
"An honored citizen of this town was suffering from a severe attack of dysentery. He told a friend if he could obtain a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, he felt confident of being cured, he having used this remedy in the West. He was told that I kept it in stock and lost no time in obtaining it, and was promptly cured," says M. J. Leach, druggist, of Wolcott, Vt. For sale by all druggists.

SHEEPMEN LOSE

VERY HEAVILY.

Saratoga, Wyo., May 13.—H. D. Blydenburg has returned from the Red Desert country, where he has been with his sheep since January 28. He states that the phenomenally bad weather in the desert during February and March resulted in the loss of at least 20 per cent of the sheep ranging in that territory, the animals perishing from starvation because of the difficulty of getting grain to them when it became no longer possible for them to reach natural forage. He estimates that 3,000,000 pounds of corn and 300 carloads of hay were fed to sheep so situated that food could be taken to them. In some cases Blydenburg says that the loss of flockmasters was 60 per cent of their holdings.

ALMOST UNIQUE RAILROAD

Cost of Maintenance Enormous While Income is Practically Nil.

Denver, Colo., May 13.—There is a little railroad called the Colorado Eastern, of which much has been heard in the past, which has all records for frenzied financing in its possession. Yesterday Henry T. Rogers, its president, appeared before the state board of equalization and asked that its assessments be lowered. Of course, from all records, the Colorado Eastern Railroad, does not mind money. Mr. Rogers explained things about it to the board of equalization.

The Colorado Eastern Railroad has a line of 18.4 miles to Scranton, Colorado. Its total expenses during 1908 were $15,467.19. Its total receipts were $31.35 for the year. It has a rolling stock of one engine and a combination baggage and passenger car. The train runs every day over its undulating narrow gauge track to Scranton, which consists of one house. That is all that engine and car does to make its lonely and solitary pilgrimage to the great coal mining center of dreams. It drones along in its weary little way, and snorts indignantly and feebly when it is forced to stop for the Stout street cars, for this railroad does everything exactly opposite from all other roads. Indeed, a legal question might be raised as to whether it is a railroad, a scientific experiment or a mule train. When the engineer gets up enough steam to let the train go, he leaves the fireman shoveling coal and climbs back over the tender to the passenger car to see if there are any passengers. If there are, he collects a fare and inspects the baggage car.

Now one might think that there was no frenzied finance about this, but the manager of the road, P. J. Burke, sits in his private and sumptuous office at 15 Wall street, smokes a cigar that would swallow up the receipts of the road for a month, and then sends a wireless message to the engineer.

The reports in the office of the board of equalization show that the road is some $130,000 in debt. It may be $200,000 or $300,000, but that does not matter. Money does not count with the Colorado Eastern. Of the line, 16.3 miles are narrow gauge while the balance is standard. For a little way where it is standard and the line crosses street car tracks and makes other crossings it is assessed at $25,000 per mile. The Denver & Rio Grande line between Denver and Pueblo is assessed at $16,000 a mile. So there is some class to that little line.

The narrow gauge locomotive is valued at $500. The car is valued at $200. The corrugated iron shed where the rolling stock is kept, known as the shops, is valued at $160. Yet the total valuation placed upon the road is $68,800. Its value lies in its fine right of way into the city.

The operating expenses for 1908 were $10,747.98. The assessment was $2,431.23. The passenger fares last year amounted to $21.20, and the freight to $10.15. Occasionally the family at Scranton orders a sack of potatoes or comes to town.

The Colorado Eastern was built between 1883 and 1886 by two visionaries, who imagined they had discovered an immense coal field at Scranton. It was a coal field of dreams, the road is a strange dreamy road. It goes along in its proud little way, visiting its one house every day, like an aristocratic but impoverished family of noble blood. There is nothing like it in the world. It is a model for frenzied railroad financing.

HAPPENINGS IN REPUBLIC OF MEXICO

Mazatlan Wiped Out By Fire—Cattle Going Insane on Account of Drouth.

Acapulco, Mexico, May 13.—Following the awful holocaust here in which nearly a hundred met death in a theater fire, the state has suffered another calamity from the flames. The town of Mazatlan, 20 kilometers from Chilpancingo, the state capital, was almost totally destroyed by fire and the natives are reported as starving from hunger.

Half clad, they escaped from their homes with nothing. A high wind fanned the flames and almost the entire town was consumed. It was a city of 5,000 persons.

Drouth Kills Cattle. Chihuahua, Mexico, May 13.—Cattle are going insane from lack of water and from eating a certain species of cactus in an attempt to slake their thirst and hundreds of head have been killed. No rain has fallen west of here for many months on the ranges.

Love Finds a Way. Tapachula, Mexico, May 13.—At Tuxin Chica, a small customs port on the Guatemalan border, Fuentes Ramirez, son of a wealthy Guatemalan, kidnapped his sweetheart and spirited her over the border against her father's wishes in true Lochinvar style.

Valle y Rodriguez, father of the girl, objected to the suit of Ramirez for the hand of his daughter, Ramona, but the young Guatemalan was not daunted, and, arranging things with the Guatemalan customs officers, he slipped silently over the line spirited the girl away on his horse and was soon married on his native soil.

The enraged father pursued with his cowboys, but was held up at Guatemalan border until the ceremony was performed.

Fight Duel in Church. Monterey, Mex., May 13.—While attending mass in the cathedral, Ricardo Quiroz and Alfonso Farias, members of wealthy families and students of Marista college, fought a duel with pocket knives.

There had been bad blood between them and Quiroz had challenged the other for a duel.

No acceptance having been received, Quiroz taunted the other lad at mass and Farias drew a knife and began slashing. Quiroz retaliated and both were badly injured.

Set Himself on Fire. Cullacan, Mexico, May 13.—Jose Sanchez, a carpenter, suffering from an incurable disease, saturated his bed with coal oil, applied a match and ended his life in the flames.

Strike for Holiday Pay. Rosario, Mexico, May 13.—The native railroad workers are on a strike because the company docked them for three religious holidays on which they did not work.

APPOINTS DEMOCRAT TO JUDGESHIP

Other Matters of Interest Happening at the National Capital.

Washington, D. C., May 13.—President Taft sent to the Senate the nomination of Henry Groves Connor, a Democrat, to be United States judge for the eastern district of North Carolina.

The vacancy on the North Carolina bench was caused by the death of Justice Thomas R. Purnell has existed for some months, and has been a source of much concern to President Taft. The contest for the place has been a bitter one, and the Republicans of the Eastern district of North Carolina recently urged the president not to appoint a Democrat, even if he had to go out of the district to find a suitable Republican for the place.

Judge Connor was for about ten years on the bench of the supreme court of North Carolina, and for a number of years before that was a judge of the superior courts. Judge Connor is described as being a man of liberal views politically, and is so regarded at the White House, in spite of his long affiliation with the Democracy.

Would Double Tax on Liquor Dealers. Washington, D. C., May 13.—A bill doubling the tax imposed upon brewers and wholesale and retail liquor dealers was introduced by Representative Kendall of Iowa. It also provides that no tax shall be imposed or collected in those localities where the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors is prohibited by state law.

Increase of Pensions for Veterans. Senator Guggenheim of Colorado, introduced a bill to increase 25 per cent the pensions of persons now pensioned on account of disabilities and who have passed the age of 62 years, and at the end of each period of five years over the age of 62 an increase of 10 per cent over the pension then received by the pensioner. The increases provided by the bill are to be on account of age and no medical examination will be required.

Coloradans Get Contract. McAbee Brothers of Las Animas, Colo., were awarded a contract for erecting quarters for sick officers at the Las Animas hospital. The firm's bid was $35,228.

Plum For Cheyenne Man. Charles W. Rath of Cheyenne, is appointed to the position of practical miner in the general land office service at a salary of $1,320 per annum and $3 per diem for subsistence.

Lodge Will Talk for Free Hides. Washington, May 13.—Contrary to unanimous agreement of the Republicans of the finance committee that no one should make a set speech, and despite the majority committee agreement that the duty on hides should be fifteen per cent, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts is preparing a long speech to force hides on the free list, thus demonstrating the desperation of the free hides advocates.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is lead-druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. ## BABEL OF TONGUES IN MEXICO

Museum of Nationalists Sticking Stubbornly to Their Native Language and Foreign Customs.

City of Mexico, Mexico, May 13.—Americans have one blessing they are so used to they forget it is a blessing. It is the only big country in the world where one language is spoken in every hamlet, village and town, and from the eastern border to the western and from the northern to the southern. He who lives in the United States must speak English or consign himself to oblivion and poverty in the country where he came to seek other things. In the other countries of the world it is not so. In the United States another language is a doubtful advantage. In the other countries the more languages one knows the more persons he may meet and the more business he may transact. Languages may be valued at dollars and cents.

Mexico is a museum of nationalities and a babel of languages. Those who come from other lands to Mexico remain foreign residents of the country, though they reside here for the rest of their lives and their children are reared as foreign residents, though they are born in this very city. They go to their own schools, maintained by the foreign colony to which their parents belong, and when they are old enough they usually go to the higher educational institutions of the land from which their parents came.

Never Becomes Unified. Thus the country never becomes unified. In fact it becomes more and more foreign each year as the number of foreigners increases, because the natural means of diminishing the number of foreigners through making Mexicans of their children are overlooked by the Mexicans. The public school, that great organization which decrees that the child born in the United States shall become an American, is slighted by the Mexicans themselves and patronized by those who have not the money to send their children elsewhere. And those in the Republic of Mexico who are poor are usually very poor.

Living a year in Mexico is a cheap way of taking a trip around the world. One misses the scenery of France, the climate of Italy, the mountains of Switzerland, but he sees the people living as they lived in their native land, with their habits and customs and natures almost unchanged. The only thing that he misses of the rest of the world is what he can see in a picture book.

There are men who announce without the batting of an eye that they can speak anywhere from two to ten languages perfectly. Whenever one gets beyond three languages it is safe to say he speaks none of them perfectly and loses much of the enjoyment of their literature. It is even doubtful if any man ever knew more than one language perfectly. What he gains by the second it may be safely said he has deducted from some part of the other. Certainly the men one personally meets here who speak three languages do not speak English as well as they might.

There is the humorous side of the question, which becomes developed thoroughly when one sees about seven together who speak different languages. If they are all foreigners they will try to agree upon one language they all understand. It may be Spanish, French, German, English or any one of half a dozen others. If they are unable to agree, Spanish is the language adopted. The amusement comes when a German, Frenchman, American, Spaniard and Italian all speak Spanish, or rather attempt to.

For a burn or scald apply Chamberlain's Salve. It will allay the pain almost instantly, and quickly heal the injured parts. For sale by all druggists.

OBJECTS TO NEW SANITARIUM

Denver Citizen Asks Three Thousand Dollars Damages Because of Its Establishment.

Denver, Colo., May 13.—Because he objects to a sanitarium in his neighborhood, and claiming that it lessens the value of property he owns adjoining it, Ernest Maliner began suit in Judge Whitford's division of the district court for $3,000 damages against the Lare sanitarium located at Vallejo and Forty-sixth streets. He also prayed the court to grant an injunction from operating there.

Maliner asks judgment for damages, alleging the sanitarium, which is a tent colony, is unsanitary and dangerous, and that people will not purchase vacant lots that he owns adjoining the tent hospital because of its being there.

CLOSING DAYS AT MILITARY INSTITUTE

Bronco Will Be Ready for Delivery
This Week—Picnic and Debate
by Students.

Roswell, N. M., May 13.—A debate was held in the gymnasium of the New Mexico Military Institute, Friday night, May 17, participated in by debaters selected from those winning in debates previously held during the year. Thus, the best array of talent of the school crossed swords for the highest honors in debating for the year.
The question to be decided was, "Resolved: That the contract system, as used at present in our state penitentiaries, should be abolished." It was a spirited struggle from beginning to end. Both sides had their material well arranged and it was with doubts and misgivings that the judges finally decided in favor of the affirmative.

A picnic party composed of a number of cadets and young ladies of Roswell enjoyed an outing at the Country Club Saturday afternoon and evening.
The ladies carried lunches and, after a moonlight feast, the party danced till a late hour in the Country Club House.

The Bronco, the annual publication, for the present year will be ready for delivery Saturday, May 15. It is a model of the printer's art. Many pictures in colors of the battalion and other interesting views of the school and surrounding vicinity appear therein. The price will be two dollars per copy. All alumni and friends of the Institute are urged to send in their subscriptions and procure copies at once.

RATHER DIE THAN CUT OFF HER HAIR.

Denver, Colo., May 13.—Mrs. Manna Palmer Waltry, aged 24 years, died here today because she refused to permit her hair, which was 90 inches long and of deep auburn color, to be cut. Physicians told her that she was being exhausted by her luxuriant growth of hair and that to prevent her dying from tuberculosis she would have to have it cut, but she preferred death to losing it.

PUBLIC LANDS RAPIDLY TAKEN UP

Thousands of Acres Filled Upon Past Few Days Under Enlarged Homestead Act.

Denver, Colo., May 13.—Eight thousand more acres were yesterday filed upon at the local land office in the Federal building under the new 320-acre act recently passed by Congress, which throws open certain lands in the Colorado dry farming belt to settlers allowing homesteads that are twice as large formerly. The lands included in the Denver land district are in Morgan, Weld, Arapahoe, Adams and Elbert counties, and besides being valuable dry farming tracts are well adapted for grazing.

The land office at Sterling, in the northeastern part of the state, was swamped with entries yesterday and it was stated in a communication to the local office that over 72,000 acres were taken out in homesteads during the day.

The rush has been so great for the lands during the past week that the office force has had a hard time to keep up with the regular routine work of the office. The entries have been made by people of all classes in all walks of life.

More Men for Fort Logan.

Washington, May 13.—It was stated at the war department that under the proposed arrangement by which Fort Logan will be made one of the large recruiting stations of the army the number of troops to be maintained there will be greater than in the past.

It is estimated that there will not be less than a thousand men stationed at the post at any time and on occasions the number will greatly exceed this.
