ALHAMBRA THEIR OBJECTIVE POINT

Riff Tribes Preaching Holy War in Morocco

AVENGE THEIR ANCESTORS

Moors Yesterday Attacked Convoy and Drove the Spaniards Back.

Melilla, Aug. 5.—The Moors yesterday attacked the Spanish commissary convoy obliging the Spaniards to retire. A reinforcement of the Spaniards then drove the Moors back. Preaching Holy War. Alhucemas, Aug. 5.—The Riffs are preaching a holy war and have revived the legend that the descendants of the Moors driven out of Spain by Ferdinand and Isabella, are destined to drive the Spaniards out of Africa and conquer Spain. Priests say the time of fulfillment has come and urge war to regain the Alhambra.

COUNTY SEAT FIGHT GROWING WARM

Lincoln Tax Payers File Suit Alleging Fraud and Attacking Validity of Statute.

The tax payers of Lincoln county have filed a suit in the district court, charging fraud in the signing of the petition upon which the election to change the county seat was ordered. This suit also attacks the validity of the statute under which the petition was filed, as contravening the provisions of the Springer Act of Congress, and also as not being a valid enactment because in the course of its passage through the last legislature, the act was not signed or authenticated by either the president of the council or the speaker of the house of representatives, etc.

The question of the removal of the county seat from Lincoln to Carrizozo, will be voted upon August 17th, with the result of the election, very much in doubt.

The tax payers who reside on the east side of the White mountains in Lincoln county are putting up a strong fight to keep the county seat at the historic town of Lincoln. These tax payers base their claims on the financial condition of the county which already has an outstanding bonded indebtedness of $39,000 with $11,000 to be added at once to pay Socorro county for the mal pais (bad lands) region added to Lincoln county by an act of the last legislature. Carrizozo people say the county seat should be on the railroad "and if we can get it the town will boom and the price of town lots will soar upwards."

A court house and jail at Carrizozo would cost the tax payers from $30,000 to $40,000, the opponents argue, which would leave the county burdened with a bonded indebtedness of from $80,000 to $90,000.

FORTUNES FOR IMPORTERS

Large Consignments of Wines and Brandies Now en Route.

New York, Aug. 5.—The wireless offices are besieged by importers who offer big bonuses to steamship captains now on the Atlantic for quick passages. Thousands of barrels of imported wines and brandies are now on the ocean and attempts are being made to have them entered before the increased duty takes effect and may mean a small fortune to the importers.

PRESIDENT TAFT SIGNED TARIFF BILL THIS AFTERNOON

Passed Both Houses Without Trouble as Did Joint Resolution Reducing Leather Duties—Free Cotton Bagging However Fails in House After Going Through Senate

Washington, Aug. 5.—The Senate and the House adopted the concurrent resolution reducing the duty on leather goods. The Senate adopted McCumber's drawback resolution with free cotton bagging rider, but it was rejected by the House. Taft signed the bill at 5:06 p. m.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—The Senate adopted the conference report on the tariff bill at 2:10, by a vote of 47 to 31, and then took up the concurrent resolution reducing the rates in the leather schedule.

Senate Adopts Leather Schedule. Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—The Senate adopted the concurrent resolution reducing the leather schedule at 3 o'clock.

The President's Visit. Special to the New Mexican.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Secretary Carpenter informed the New Mexican correspondent today that the President will leave Los Angeles on the Santa Fe regular train and will reach Albuquerque on October 15. He will be in El Paso probably on October 16 or 18. He wants to visit the Grand Canon if possible.

The third largest telescope in the United States was shipped today from Cambridge near Boston, to the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona.

Delegate Cameron of Arizona, has introduced a bill in the House granting an increased pension to Samuel Greenwald of Arizona.

Big Program for Today.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The program planned for Congress today includes adopting the conference report, the passage of the tariff bill; adoption of a concurrent resolution revising the leather schedule in the Senate and House; adoption of a joint resolution interpreting the drawback resolution with a free cotton bagging rider and then adjournment of the special session. It is doubted if the program can be carried through in the limited time. The Senate votes on the conference report at 2 o'clock. The agreement is that the leather amendment is to go through both Houses without alteration and that the McCumber provision with free cotton bagging attached is to go through the Senate but is not expected to be adopted by the House. Senator Dooliver the first speaker defended his course as a Republican in contending for the reduction of the tariff and attacked the necessity of bargaining with men in control of the Senate to secure protection of constituents.

Last Night's Session. Washington, Aug. 5.—As though protesting against being called out to a night session, Senators were very tardy in their attendance upon the meeting of the Senate last night. Nearly an hour passed after the appointed time before a quorum could be assembled.

It was finally obtained after an order had been issued to the sergeant-at-arms to bring in the absentees. The entire session was consumed by speeches by Senators Cummins of Iowa and Daniel of Virginia. During the evening a political debate was injected into the proceedings and regulars and "insurgents" handled accusations as to the effect their course would have upon the political future of the party.

"Whatever any one may think of this tariff bill," said Mr. Beveridge, "it is certain this is the last tariff measure that will be enacted by the method or lack of method that has characterized this revision."

Whether the tariff bill about to be enacted, said Mr. Hale, would be accepted by the American people as satisfactory and will be followed by prosperity, no one could tell. But whatever the result, he was satisfied that for ten years people would look upon any project or plan or tribunal that would be likely to disturb conditions. Mr. Beveridge then explained that he had been inclined to the same views but that Mr. Aldrich having expressed a different opinion he would hesitate to press his tariff commission bill until it could be known what the facts would prove to be.

"The Senator will admit," said Mr. Beveridge, "that the language was reassuring to those of us who favored the tariff commission."

"Too much so," replied Mr. Hale.

Mr. Hale then sent to the desk a circular letter from the committee of 100 appointed at the national tariff convention held in Indianapolis last spring for the purpose of promoting tariff commission legislation. It announced that $25,000 would be required to get a bill through congress and requested the recipients of the circular to see that the newspapers were filled with interviews and editorials favorable to a tariff commission.

"That is too high toned agitation," remarked Mr. Hale, bowing to Mr. Beveridge, then taking his seat. "I never heard of such a thing before, but I do not see anything improper in that letter," replied Mr. Beveridge. Some difficulty was encountered in getting a quorum at the night session. Finally at 8:40 the sergeant-at-arms was instructed to bring in the absentees. Senator Lodge entering the chamber made a quorum.

Senator Cummins of Iowa, was the first speaker at the evening session. He attacked the various schedules of the measure as affording no relief to the American consumer.

Challenging Mr. Cummins' statement that there had been no substantial reduction in the bill, Mr. Aldrich, declared that there had been five hundred reductions of rates.

It would be impossible he said, to show that these rates were above a reasonable protective point.

Mr. Cummins, having invited the Rhode Island Senator to visit him in Iowa to help him convince the people that these rates were only high enough to be protective, Senator Bailey suggested that when the two Senators "perform in double harness" he wished to receive an invitation to witness the event.

Drifting into a discussion of politics Senators Cummins, Aldrich, Bailey, Dick, Beveridge and Smith (Michigan) entered upon an experience meeting concerning the political issues of 1896. Mr. Aldrich insisted that the misrepresentation of the McKinley tariff bill first caused the defeat of the Republican party and then resulted in the nomination and election of McKinley.

"It was the money question that controlled that campaign," suggested Mr. Beveridge.

"It was the absence of money that controlled it," suggested Mr. Smith. "On our side," interposed Mr. Bailey.

Concluding his remarks Mr. Cummins reiterated that he would vote against the conference report. Senator Daniel renewed his complaint that he and other Democratic members of the finance committee had been excluded from a fair participation in the confirmation of the bill.

Mr. Daniel concluded with a general denunciation of the bill and warned the Republicans that should the right man arise to lead the democracy, victory would be assured to the Democrats.

At 11:42 the Senate adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Cummins on the Tariff.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Senator Cummins of Iowa, discussed the paragraphs of the tariff bill generally, not presenting his objections in detail. He sought to establish his contention that no substantial tariff reform is accomplished by the changes the bill makes. Mr. Cummins announced his determination to vote against the bill though he confessed the belief that it was superior to any bill framed for revenue purposes and so far as the schedule goes, better than the Dingley law.

"I am opposed to the conference report and to the bill which it embodies," he said, "because it is not such a revision of the tariff as I have expended the best years of my life in fighting for and is not a fair and reasonable performance of the promise of our platform."

"This is not a court of bankruptcy and I am not willing to accept ten cents on the dollar in discharge of the obligations of the Republican party. It always has been, and is now a solvent organization, and it is not only able, but its rank and file will insist upon paying its debt in full. Its pledges will be redeemed at par and although the bill, in the blindness of Strikers Camp in Tents and Live by Catching Fish.

The stock of bread is almost exhausted and meat is so expensive that only the rich can purchase it. The strikers, thousands of whom are camping out, living principally on fish caught by themselves. Soldiers are distributing milk in limited quantities, to preserve the life of babies, but no ice can be obtained. Paupers from the state institutions have replaced the striking grave diggers, undertakers and funerals are held under military escort, the corpses being carried on stretchers as no hearses are obtainable. The gas and electric plants are guarded by land and sea following an alleged attempt to dynamite the gas house. Work has ceased at the Gotenberg slaughter houses.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING CHINESE

Two Mexicans and Two Chinamen Arrested at El Paso, Texas, by Deputy Marshal.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 5.—Charged with smuggling into the United States Salvini Ribas and Luz Leon were arrested by Deputy United States Marshal H. R. Hillebrand and are now in the county jail, awaiting a hearing before Commissioner Oliver.

The arrest of the Mexicans followed the capture of two Chinese, by immigration inspectors, as they were attempting to cross the dry bed of the Rio Grande.

The Chinese, it was said, were in the custody of Mexicans, who, at the time, were successful in eluding the inspectors. The marshal's office at once worked out a clew and two arrests were made.

Deputy Hillebrand, with the assistance of another deputy, is still working on the case. One of the Mexicans who is said to have been with the Chinese when they were detected crossing the river, it is believed was wounded by a shot fired by one of the immigration inspectors.

Appearance bond has been fixed at $1,000 by Commissioner George B. Oliver.

HE ASTONISHED THE NATIVES

As the result of a wager, McKay rode a horse into a hotel and around the billiard table, thence to the police station where he paid a $10 fine. It was a profitable experiment as the wager was a large one.

Brown surrendered at the marshal's office here and gave a thousand dollar bond.

LUST OF WHITE IS EXPOSED

Sixty-Eight Letters to Young Girls Identified

CHARGES NOT DELUSIONS

Wealthy Architect Was Slave of Bestial Passions.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The plan of Thaw's attorneys to show that the prisoner's beliefs concerning the practices of White and rich men associated with young girls were not as the state holds, delusions of a distorted mind, was followed by the introduction of the testimony of David N. Carvalho, the hand writing expert, employed by Thaw during his first trial. Carvalho said that 68 letters said to have been written by White to young women had been pronounced genuine by him. The witness told of Thaw having discussed the letter from White to a woman designated as "May." Witness said the girl told him she burned the letter fearing her father would kill White and herself if he found it.

Took More Than He Gave.

White Plains, Aug. 5.—The letter was admitted in evidence after a strong protest by Jerome. Carvalho then said that Sue Parker had made a sworn statement after the events alleged to have taken place between herself and White. She offered Thaw letters said to have been written her by White for $5,000. The letters were finally bought for $500. The woman's affidavit, Carvalho said, described in detail how White had taken her to a place known as the "Eagles Nest," when 17 years old, given her wine and ruined her or attempted to. Asked why she is willing to tell the story, the woman said: "He took from me more than I got from him. Now he is dead and I am destitute. I feel justified in selling letters for what I can get."

Let Sleeping Dogs Lie.

Thaw then identified the letters. Cross-examined by Jerome, Carvalho said the letters are not obscene and contained nothing to prove absolutely the manner of her downfall. Jerome cross-examined with an expression of menace. "You'd better let sleeping dogs lie, Mr. Jerome," exclaimed Carvalho excitedly. "If you want to call yourself a dog I take the word from your lips," responded Jerome, but nevertheless he changed his manner of interrogations. Carvalho said Thaw impressed him as rational during the first trial.

Sport of the Wealthy in New York.

If he can show that Stanford White and a number of wealthy friends did maintain several establishments, where young girls were ruined, and that an attempt really was made on his client's life, Mr. Morschauer will be able to dissipate some of the "delusions," evidence of the state. He intimates that he has some surprises in store for the remaining days of the hearing including ten lay witnesses who may testify as to what Thaw knew of White.

The dull routine of expert testimony was jarred by an interruption from Pietro Caporale, a wild looking Italian, who had been hanging about the place for several hours and who tried to force himself into the room. When the attendants refused him admission, he waved a letter and demanded to see District Attorney Jerome.

"Tell Thaw they will rob him as they robbed me of my children," he yelled repeatedly. It developed that he wanted Mr. Jerome to help him obtain the release of his little girls from the juvenile asylum in New York. After Dr. William J. Meyer, one of Thaw's experts had pronounced him probably a harmless lunatic, the man was placed on a train and sent to New York.

THREE FATALITIES IN BANK HOLD UP

THOU ART THE WORLD TO ME.

The hawthornes are in blossom,
The flowers deck the lea;
I do not care for flowers,
I only think of thee.
Thou'rt lovelier than flowers
That deck the sunny lea;
My darling, O my darling,
Thou art the world to me.

The birdies fill the green woods
With merry songs of glee;
I do not care for birdies,
I only think of thee.
Thy voice by far is sweeter
Than birdies' song of glee;
My darling, O my darling,
Thou art the world to me.

The sunshine lies on meadows,
Its golden gleam I see;
I do not care for sunshine,
I only think of thee.
Thy glances dim the sunshine
That brightens flowery lea;
My darling, O my darling,
Thou art the world to me.

The young folks Spring are praising,
And coo 'neath shady tree;
I do not care for Springtime,
I only think of thee.
There is no Spring without thee,
Without thy smiles of glee;
My darling, O my darling,
Thou art the world to me.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Santa Fe readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Pasquale Yanni, College street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "In 1902 I gave a public testimonial in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills to the effect that they had cured me of a pain in my back, caused by disordered kidneys. My work obliges me to sit down a good deal and this weakened my kidneys, causing much backache. While at work I suffered more intensely than at any other time and I was very anxious to find a remedy that would relieve me. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Stripling, Burrows & Co.'s drug store and to my delight, they soon fixed me up in good shape. During the past seven years I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

EVEN YUMA SETS A PAGE That New Mexico Could Well Afford to Follow

WILL EXHIBIT PRODUCTS

Farmers Fully Realize Importance of U. Land and Irrigation Exposition

Yuma, Ariz., Aug. 5.—Preparations are being made for exhibits at the United States land and irrigation exposition for the purpose of showing the outside world that Yuma has some of the choicest agricultural lands in the country. This city has many enthusiastic boosters and the energy with which they urge the merits of the lands in this vicinity is an inspiration to any one who is familiar with the conditions in larger cities.

The matter of making exhibits in Chicago from November 20 to December 4 is in the hands of the Yuma County Commercial Club. It chances that there are some former Chicago men who have taken up their residence in Yuma and they are enthusiastic with reference to the advisability of making a big showing in Chicago. C. D. Baker, president of the Yuma County Commercial Club, said:

"We realize that Chicago is the greatest center in the country for colonization work. No better place could be found for reaching the people who would be desirable neighbors on our rich farming land, nor could a better time be chosen.

Richness of Yuma Territory.
"I believe, along with all the other residents of Yuma, that we have one of the richest spots on the globe. We will be on hand next fall at the United States land and irrigation exposition to show Chicago and her visitors what can be accomplished by turning the waters of the Colorado river on the soil of Arizona where the fertility of ages has been stored up for the benefit of the farmer of today. The southwest is grateful to The Tribune for its enterprise in connection with the exposition and we appreciate the splendid opportunities that are offered to us."

The Laguna dam, which is the main engineering feature on the Yuma project, has just passed through a remarkable test and has completely demonstrated its fitness for the work for which it was designed by the engineers of the United States reclamation service. The Colorado river has been sending down for many weeks the greatest volume of water that it has ever carried. This great flood has passed safely over the dam without doing a particle of damage. The dam is fourteen miles above Yuma at the only point where the rocky hills approach the river.

Yuma Dam a Mile Long.

The structure is of what is known as the Indian-weir type and is the first of its kind in America. There are similar structures in Egypt, where they have been built across the Nile river, which has many characteristics that resemble the Colorado. The dam at Laguna is 4,700 feet long. In other words, it stretches nearly a mile across the river. The dam has some universal features which had to be provided on account of the great amount of silt that is carried by the river. The dam will create a lake about ten miles in length and from this lake the water will pass into sluiceways. As the flow is checked the silt will be deposited and only the clearer water will pass out into the irrigated canals. The sluiceways can be cleared by opening large gates through which the rush of water will carry the accumulated deposits.

Yuma is an old town and its lack of development during recent years will probably be more than made up for when the development that is to come with irrigation is complete. There is a possibility that the present system of canals originating at the Laguna dam may be extended so as to include a large area in the Imperial valley. If this should be done there will be an area of upward of 1,000,000 acres under irrigation in this vicinity. Those who are most interested in the progress of this locality say that it is only a question of time before the proposed plan for an extensive system of canals running into the Imperial valley, will be put into practice.

What the Valley Will Produce.
With reference to the products that can be grown here, W. A. Peterson, expert in charge of the experiment work being conducted in this vicinity by the department of agriculture, said:

"In the following statement of the agricultural conditions of Yuma valley the facts in the case have been strictly adhered to. Numerous instances could be cited of extraordinary yields of Yuma valley products, but the writer has confined his statements to such as he believes can be duplicated by the practical farmer of average intelligence and ability who has acquired some knowledge of irrigation farming. Because of the uncertain supply of water for irrigation purposes Yuma valley farmers in the past have depended largely upon alfalfa, since there was always a profitable and nearby market for this product. Alfalfa also can withstand considerable drought without any permanent injury resulting.

"With the completion of the Yuma project and the bringing under cultivation of thousands of acres of fertile land having an abundant and permanent water supply there will be almost no limit to the diversity of agriculture products which can and will be grown successfully in Yuma valley. Yuma valley, with her perpetual growing weather, productive soil, silt laden irrigation waters, and infinite variety of products, offers opportunities for agricultural development well nigh inconceivable to the husbandman from rainfall sections.

"In anticipation of this approaching development and the desire on the part of incoming settlers for accurate information regarding the production of various crops, two experiment stations have been established in the valley. A small substation of the Arizona experiment station has been operated for three years and serves as an excellent object lesson of what can be accomplished with trucking crops on a small holding.

To Teach Settlers What to Grow.
"The United States department of agriculture, in co-operation with the reclamation service, is equipping a large and permanent experiment station in the valley seven miles above Yuma. The purpose of this station is not only to improve by breeding and selection the crops now grown in the valley, but also to introduce and place on a commercial basis many of the new plants adapted to Southwestern conditions, including several subtropical species.

"The surface soils in Yuma valley vary in texture from a nearly pure sand to a fine loam or adobe. The whole valley is underlaid at varying depths by sand which affords excellent drainage for the surface soils. No hardpan exists to prevent the free movement of the soil moisture. The whole valley is of sedimentary origin, being an accumulation of deposits by the Gila and Colorado rivers during periods of overflow. In this respect its origin is similar to the famous Valley of the Nile, which has been cropped for centuries without depleting its soil fertility. The mesa, a broad, coastal plateau, seventy-five feet above the level of the valley, is composed almost entirely of one type of soil, a coarse sand, containing at intervals a small amount of lime."

Farmers Form Organization.

A Farmers' Co-operation Association has been formed for the purpose of helping the growers sell their produce. This association sends out carload lots of produce to various points. As a rule the shipments are to the east and to the north. At present alfalfa is the banner crop of the Yuma district. As a rule seven or eight cuttings can be obtained during the year, the average yield being about ten tons to the acre, and good prices almost invariably can be obtained.

When the land in this vicinity reaches its full development it is probable that deciduous fruits will lead all other products. The agricultural experiment station, established by the University of Arizona, was started primarily for the purpose of adapting the date so that it would bear well near Yuma. The station began work in June of 1905, and the results have been satisfactory. Some of the dates have ripened during the third year.

MINES AND MINING

Fairview District—Another high grade strike has been made at Fluorine camp, Sierra county, on the Ben Cox lease. At the Weber property, where a remarkably good surface showing was found the four to seven feet ledge for more than 1,000 feet shows picture ore and contains free gold. The Weber lessees have increased their force, and there are but few idle men in camp now. Mr. Halcyon is putting a gallus to his Gold Reserve and will unwater the mine and take the rich ore out. It is said F. P. Davis is quietly selling all of his interests in the camp, including townsite and recorded claims as well as options to Mr. Scasty and a Mr. Vance. The Sub Treasury people are installing a new compressor at their mine, and the E. P. H. people have nearly all the old mill from Chloride creek moved to Grafton, and will proceed to erect it on the newly excavated site, but Dixie Kaslib is the most persistent of them all. He is going down in the Ace of Hearts and has quite a force at work.

Weak women should read my "Book No. 4 for Women." It tells of Dr. Shoop's Night Cure. Tells how these soothing, healing, antiseptic suppositories, bring quick and certain help. The book is free. Address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. For Sale by Stripling-Burrows Co.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

LET THE TRUTH BE TOLD.

There is destitution among the homesteaders in portions of the Estancia valley and in parts of Eastern New Mexico. There are appeals for help, pitiful and heart-rending that are coming in increasing numbers to the executive office at Santa Fe. There are also petitions signed by whole sections, asking the government to step in and save families from starvation. There are families housed in one room shacks dotted over the dry mesas who do not know where the next meal is to come from or where to get rags to cover them during the winter. This is deplorable. Governor Curry is setting to work every agency that he can reach and will within a few days dispatch A. T. Koch, a special representative, to the Estancia valley to investigate conditions.

Who is to blame? No one in particular. The lure of the West, the desire to own a home appealed to many who had heard of New Mexico's free lands, of its fine climate, of its productiveness, and they came. They selected land as they would in the East; land that sloped right, land that was fertile; that looked promising in the sunshine of fall or winter. They did not know that there are vast areas in New Mexico where the average rainfall is not sufficient to raise crops every year with scientific or any other kind of farming, where irrigation alone will carry crops over May and June. Nor did they know that there are also vast areas where the rainfall is sufficient generally to raise such crops as are adapted to the climate and the soil and the comparative shortness of the growing season. Those who selected lands in those sections and depended upon the first year's crop to establish them, have failed miserably this year for May and June were pitilessly dry.

Then again there were settlers who made their homes on good dry farming lands but expected to raise crops by merely sticking the seed in the soil, possibly of some crop needing lots of moisture, and sitting idly by to watch it grow. They had made no effort to store moisture by fall and winter plowing, by harrowing in spring, by cultivation after each rain. They too, are disappointed and if they came without means to tide them over winter and next spring, they too are in a bad fix, but the blame is partly with themselves. Kansas and Nebraska went through this same experience and New Mexico cannot escape it.

Then there are a considerable number who made good; who settled in sections that had sufficient rains for crops this year; or who by scientific farming carried their crops over the drought; or who have bought land in irrigated districts; or who pumped water; or who took up lands near growing towns and disposed of them at a good figure; or who relinquished their homesteads at good prices. It is to be feared that the speculative element entered into the coming of many a homeseeker, but like in a lottery, the prizes are few and far between.

This is not saying that New Mexico is not a land for the homeseeker. There are millions of acres to be had free that with the proper cultivation or by using the proper means can be reclaimed to make splendid homes for thousands of people, but New Mexico is not Illinois. The land to be cultivated must be properly chosen, it must be scientifically treated. Water is the essential for raising crops and water must be conserved and procured somehow, for the clouds do not yield it in sufficient quantity at the right time except during exceptional years. The selection of crops, the farming, therefore, must be scientific, where possible it should be supplemented by irrigation from reservoirs or pumps. Speculation without means is a hazardous game on New Mexico farms, just as it is elsewhere.

In the meantime, the people of New Mexico are face to face with an unpleasant situation. They must relieve those in actual need; they must enable those who desire to leave the Territory because of crop failure to do so; they must tide over those who desire to stay and above all they must impress all those who intend to come and who are here that hard work, scientific work, timely work and wise selection of soil and crops are essential to success in farming in New Mexico.

The fear of those of small faith that the United States will abandon such policies as those of the reclamation and forestry services, is unfounded. This nation will not go backward, not for the present at least.

THE TEST OF FITNESS FOR STATEHOOD.

With some people in New Mexico, the practice of going to Washington with all of their troubles, has grown into a habit. If the legislature passes a law they do not like, they storm Congress with petitions to repeal or annul it; if they do not like a certain official they file charges and plead for his removal; if a certain appointment does not suit them they beg the Senate not to confirm it, and if they want anything for themselves they set to work some Congressman at Washington to get it for them. No wonder, that the impression still lingers, that New Mexico is not fit for self-government. In the states, legislatures too pass laws that do not suit every one but there is no appeal to Washington, by city councils and individuals; in the states too, men are elected or chosen for office who are persona non grata to some people but there is no petitioning Washington to be relieved; in the states too, conditions exist that are not pleasing to some of the people, but Washington is without power to help. It is one of the most onerous conditions of a territorial form of government that every disgruntled, disappointed political hack can go to the national capital and find a willing ear into which to pour slanders about the people, the legislators, the office-holders, the political leaders of the commonwealth. Yet, it was the intention of the national government, originally, that the people of New Mexico should make their own laws, select most of their own officers, deal with their own problems and settle their difficulties among themselves without annoying or pestering Washington. Even our own supreme court said not so long ago:

"And it is, indeed, of a piece with the general policy of Congress not to interfere except in extreme cases with the conduct of the affairs of a territory by its people. It has considered and treated the territorial form of government as a kind of training school for statehood; the Territory as the embryo of the future state—a state like its sister states in all essential particulars; not an autocracy, but a state to which the nation must, under the Constitution, guarantee a republican form of government." To that end it has been no doubt, deemed advisable that the people of the territories should to a great extent, suffer the consequences of their own errors of omission and commission in legislation and otherwise, and learn, even at the cost of sore experience, to be self-governing, as the people of the states must be. To teach the people of a territory that they may elect unfit officers and rely on the executive over whom they have no direct control, to free them from the results of their own acts or negligence, it may naturally have been thought would lead them away from self-government and not toward it. Besides affording a training for statehood, the manner of dealing with such a subject by the people of the Territory furnishes for Congress an important test of their fitness for statehood."

And what of a people who elect their own legislators and then petition Congress to annul the laws placed on the statute books by their chosen legislators? What more argument need Congress urge against statehood, when New Mexico's own people affirm their inability to make their own laws?

UTILIZING THE WASTE.

The waste wood heap continues to diminish and pass away.

A Massachusetts manufacturer of brushes recently made a discovery in Maine which supplied him with material exactly suited to his purpose. He went to the Pine Tree State to buy wood for the backs of hair brushes and the handles of shaving brushes, and chanced to visit the yards of a spool maker who was using white birch. The spool maker took the white part of the wood only, and was throwing away the red hearts. Thousands of cords had been burned or dumped in the lake to be rid of it.

The red hearts were exactly what the brush maker wanted, and at little more than the expense of freight he supplied his factory.

This is typical of the trend of manufacturing. Waste of wood is still great, but it is decreasing. What one factory cannot use, another turns to profit. Formerly mills threw away half the forest—tops left in the woods, sawdust dumped in streams to pollute them and destroy fish, slabs burned in perpetual bonfires, and defective logs and low grade lumber abandoned as not worth moving.

This policy does not generally prevail now. Some mills have put in machinery to work up their own by-products, others sell their waste to manufacturers who can use it, as in the case cited in Maine. The properties and uses of woods are now subject to careful investigation, and the problem of turning to account the odds and ends and the by-products is brought more to the front now than formerly.

The United States Forest Service has taken up this study in a comprehensive and systematic way. Investigations of the woods of particular states are being conducted, usually in co-operation with the states concerned. The plan, when fully carried out, will include every commercial wood in the United States, not fewer than 200 species. The properties of each will be investigated, its hardness, toughness, elasticity, durability, weight, fuel value, size of tree, regions where grown, the common names by which it is known in different localities, and other matters of this kind. A history of the wood's uses in the past will be given, and an account of present uses; together with suggestions for a wider range of usefulness in the future by pointing out in what capacities it will serve best and be most valuable.

HAPPY RATON.

Raton is about the size of Santa Fe. It has about the same municipal and civic problems that bother Santa Fe and a few more besides. But Raton seems to be getting along in every respect except the enforcement of the Sunday law and closing down the Red Light district, but that will come too in its own good time. In other matters the Gate City, is a model for the much older Capital City. Says the Raton Range:

"The Raton police have taken the only safe course and have rid the town of suspicious and undesirable characters. As a result the town appears to be more peaceful, and to be freer of undesirable citizens, than it has for a long time. The country officers, city marshal and assistants, and the local Santa Fe officers have been very vigilant along this line, and Raton people have a feeling of security, which exists in very few towns in the southwest."

"Marshal Martin has been busily engaged collecting the $3 road tax from the citizens of Raton and the money has been extremely well spent on Raton's streets. The business streets of the city have been neatly graded and cleaned and are in the best condition they have ever been. The trees all over the city have been neatly trimmed and sprayed, which is one of the best improvements, which could possibly be carried out by the present city administration."

"This week the city force is at work on residence streets and these will all be neatly graded and the weeds cut and rubbish cleared up even out into the outlying districts of the town."

"Raton's garbage system has finally become a real success and is working like a charm. The city has never been in as good a condition as it is at present in this respect, and what is better, the fellow who makes the dirt, pays the garbage man."

"Three years ago the Raton Range began a crusade for a cleaner town and for an adequate garbage system. This crusade was met with opposition by a few non-progressive citizens, but an ordinance was finally passed providing for such a system as the Range suggested. For a few months it was difficult to make collections for the removal of garbage and also difficult to procure men and teams to do the work, but the people have become accustomed to the system, pay their garbage assessment willingly, take more care of the appearance of their yards, alleys and streets, and the town is one of the cleanest in the southwest as a result."

"Prior to the installation of the present garbage system, the town got an annual cleaning, which cost the city several hundred dollars out of the general fund, and then was allowed to go in an unkempt manner for another year before being cleaned again. The monuments of debris of all sorts become landmarks about corner lots of the city and the visitors to Raton saw a veritable Hogan's Alley at every turn. The present city administration has apparently solved the whole problem of keeping the city clean, and every resident of the city can see the improvement and apparently all are glad to pay their share of the small tax, which is necessary to keep up the garbage system."

"Now with the new provision for the collection of road tax to be used in the care of our city streets, the city will see another improvement, and with judicious expenditure, Raton can be made a model town."

The El Paso Fair Association, which had intended to annex the Taft-Diaz meeting as a sideshow to its grand display, may be robbed of this advertising feature, for according to latest reports, conditions in Mexico are such that Diaz will have to sit on the lid in the City of Mexico until he dies, lest the kettle explode. He therefore cannot shake hands with President Taft unless the latter goes to the capital of the neighboring republic for that purpose. After all, in republics, where the will of the people is more important than that of the rulers, the meeting of two presidents is of very little general significance.

Says the El Paso Herald: "Every county in New Mexico will have a fair of some sort this fall." Not Santa Fe county, the more 'tis a pity. Perhaps some day Stanley or Pojoaque will come to the front with a county fair.

A Faithful Friend.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by all druggists.

AN OLD MAN'S LESSON

We met an old man today who is dependent on his relatives, and they don't like the enforced task of taking care of him. "Had I saved 10 cents a day during my younger years," said he, "I would have been independent. I might have saved a dollar a day during all my working career and not stinted myself in the least." (Atchison Globe)

The above is only one of many reasons why a SAVINGS ACCOUNT is a good thing both for youth and old age."

THE DISCOURSE
OF A DRUNKARD

(Translated from the Spanish in La Gaceta.)

A vagabond entered a saloon and asked for a drink. It was given him and while he was in the act of drinking, a youth who happened to be among those present exclaimed:

"Now, then, let us have a discourse as to whether liquor is very poor, if it does not loosen the tongue of man." The drunkard hastily downed his glass and when the liquor had stimulated his blood, addressed himself to those present. He displayed a grace and dignity that was not to be hidden by his uncleanness and his rags.

"Gentlemen," he said, "in contemplating tonight, there appears before me the sombre picture of my youth. This swollen countenance that you gaze upon was at one time as clean and as healthy as yours. This body now vacillating and trembling, at one time was as active and graceful as any, because I conducted myself well among men. Just as my friends, so I too had a home and a position. I had a wife as beautiful as the dream of any artist but I dropped the respect and honor of that invaluable pearl, as did Cleopatra, into a glass of wine and saw it dissolve itself and then carried away with the intoxicating drink. I had sons as beautiful and pure as the flowers of spring and I saw them wither and die beneath the scorching maledictions of a poor drunkard. I had a home wherein burned the fire of love and before the altar of which I officiated, but I extinguished the holy fire and in its place fell darkness and desolation. I had ambitions and aspirations that mounted as high as the morning star but they were crumbled and throttled for I no longer remembered them. Now I am a husband without a wife, a father without sons, a vagabond without a home and a man with all his inspirations and impulses dead. All has been brought about by drink."

The vagabond ceased speaking. From his hands fell the glass and striking the floor was dashed into a thousand pieces. The lattice windows of the saloon opened and then violently closed. When the group of persons arose to look the vagabond had disappeared.

VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. Angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass is such that she looks forward with dread to the hour when she shall feel the thrill of motherhood. Every woman should know that the danger and pain of child-birth can be avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, which renders pliable all the parts, assisting nature in its work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this crisis in safety.

MOTHER'S FRIENDCLEANINGS BY A
PERIPATETIC PENThe Trail Blazers.
H. R. H.

Much has been said in history about the early pioneer trail blazers, but seldom if ever has anything been told of the men in the forest service who are at the present day engaged in cutting paths through rough, mountainous, unsettled country, and whose work goes on unheralded and practically unheard of save in official headquarters.

Nevertheless, men in the employ of the government forest service, are blazing trails that unquestionably in the days to come, will be foundations of regular public roads of travel. Of course, the trails through the forests are built by the forest service, primarily because of necessity in order to properly guard the forests and prevent disastrous destruction by fire.

Yet always do the trails become highways for use by the general public, often being the means of short and quick travel between different points where otherwise the ordinary public would be compelled to journey in roundabout ways. But in spite of this fact, it is extremely doubtful whether the forest service ever receives the slightest recognition or credit for this service. The idea appears to prevail that the forest men do nothing aside from trying to preserve the growth of forest trees.

To the unacquainted public, the matter of trail making is indeed of great interest. The work is of a character most difficult and carries with it at times many hazardous and dangerous features. Country is traversed that to the ordinary onlooker would appear absolutely impenetrable. Yet, in spite of all barriers, whether heavily wooded sections that entail the ponderous labor of wielding in seemingly endless strokes, the ax, whether the dynamiting of obstructing cliffs or the successful filling in of swamps and bogs, the contending with this, that and what not, the forest men expert in the making of trails accomplish their work and do so as though it were nothing unusual.

A fairly good idea of some of the country through which a trail passes, can be obtained by traversing the new Indian Creek trail, recently completed in Santa Fe county, New Mexico. The trail runs from the Santa Fe canon, traverses the mountains, over the Divide to the Pecos river. It affords an unusually short cut between points where there is much travel and is in reality of far more benefit to the public than to the forest service, although necessary as an aid to forest rangers in the conduct of their business.

On this trail can be seen the heavily wooded districts, the steep grades to be overcome and also the abrupt declivities, near the edge of which the trail sometimes must make its way. An insight is likewise given of the manner in which the trail workers camp out while engaged in their work.

Aside from the wildness and ruggedness of the country with its many natural barriers, there are often wild animals to contend with and in many parts the forest men must be ever on the lookout, though this danger to them seems of little consequence.

In the forest service, there is not alone the need of building new trails from time to time but there is always the necessity of keeping in good condition and repair the old ones. This entails an endless amount of labor and likewise requires considerable money.

The forest ranger is usually the one who first makes the recommendation that a new trail be built. In the exercise of his official duties the necessity of a new trail at once becomes apparent to him. The recommendation is made to the supervisor in charge of the particular district in which the trail is desired and if he approves the idea, he includes the recommendation in his annual report for permanent improvements, which he sends to the district forester. Should the latter authorize the building of the trail the next step is the picking of a suitable force of men to commence the work. A man of excellent judgment and with a trained eye is required to take the work in charge and direct the men. Men selected to superintend this kind of work become quite expert and at a glance can judge a grade. They are of great value to the service and are kept close at hand in order that their services can be commanded at a moment's notice.

Aside from the trained expert, the building of the trail requires a foreman and three laborers.

Before starting out, the party equips itself with a complete camp outfit, sufficient food and the necessary working tools, all of which is divided up and packed on the backs of saddle horses upon which the journey is made to the place where the work is to start.

All new trails are graded not to exceed fourteen per cent. Timber and brush are cut through, rocks and cliffs are blasted and every other kind of an obstacle is done away with rather than ruin a grade by going around. This even though additional cost is incurred, the cost sometimes being very great.

Naturally, the surveyor of the route for the proposed trail keeps on the lookout for rock cliffs and ledges and seeks to avoid them.

Switchbacks are always made as long as possible and great care is taken to make every turn in the trail very level in order to permit animals loaded with heavy packs to make the turn with ease.

Swamps afford a drawback in the building of trails but are not so very frequently met with. When the course must be continued over country which is swampy, bridges are built, this, of course, adding to the expense. On the Santa Barbara trail running from the Divide at the head of the Pecos in New Mexico to the Santa Barbara canon, numerous swamps must be traversed and all have had to be bridged, over six hundred feet of bridging having been done.

And so the work goes on quietly and unostentatiously, new routes through unsettled, impassable country being opened up and yet the work of the trail blazers remaining unsung.

Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by all druggists.

FOURTH DRY FARMING CONGRESS

Billings, Mont., Aug. 5.—Secretary John T. Burns has issued the official call for the Fourth Dry Farming Congress, to be held at Billings, Montana, October 26-28, 1909, and has sent this call as an official invitation to the rulers of all nations, agricultural departments of all countries, governors of all states and to the officers of various organizations identified with or interested in agricultural development. The call states the objects of the Congress to be discussed of methods by which non-irrigated lands may be profitably cultivated, the creation of closer co-operation between government and state experts in charge of the dry farming experimental work and actual farmers of the arid districts and the enlargement of plans for carrying on a great educational propaganda and the encouragement of legislation for the benefit of the agricultural regions of the world.

The Congress will be essentially an agricultural and development meeting. A notable feature will be "Governors' day," when chief executives of many Western states will deliver addresses. Many foreign nations will participate in the program.

An important feature of the Congress will be the Second International Dry Farming Exposition, October 25-29. The exhibition committee with members in all Western states and all foreign countries represented in the Congress, is making active and elaborate preparation for exhibits of dry farmed products representing the arid districts of the world. The people of Billings are making preparations for the entertainment of delegates and visitors upon a most hospitable scale. A general information bureau will be established, which will supply descriptive literature and general information in response to all inquiries addressed to Secretary Burns. The call is signed by Frank C. Bowman, chairman of the National Executive Committee of the Congress, and P. B. Moss, chairman of the Montana Board of Control.

In addition to the government officials and various commercial and agricultural organizations to which this call is sent Secretary Burns is sending it to 30,000 individual farmers and others interested in agricultural development of the West.

Texas Will Send Exhibit to Dry Farming Congress.

Alpine, Texas, Aug. 5.—Preparations are being made on a large scale for the dry farming convention to be held here September 1, at which time final arrangements will be made for the sending of an exhibit to represent Western Texas at the Fourth Dry Farming Congress at Billings, Montana, October 26-28. The convention to be held here will be participated in by practical farmers from all parts of Western Texas, where unusual progress has been made in the last few years in the development of agriculture by dry farming methods.

It is probable that a permanent local organization of dry farmers may be the result of this convention, such proposed organization to work in co-operation with the Dry Farming Congress. This matter has been discussed by a number of the leading dry farmers of this vicinity and is said to meet with general approval.

Bumper Crops for the Dry Farmers of Eastern Colorado.
Burlington, Colo., Aug. 5.—Bumper crops of grain are reported from all sections of Eastern Colorado where dry farming operations have been carried on this year. The harvest in the dry farming districts along the lines of the Rock Island-Prisco system, give a most remarkable evidence of the development of Eastern Colorado that has been made possible through the application of dry farming principles of agriculture.

Three thousand thousand acres of so-called arid land in Eastern Colorado, which last year produced practically nothing, has been transformed this year into fields of grain. It is estimated that the yield of wheat throughout this territory this year will average 25 to 30 bushels an acre. Some of the more enthusiastic dry farmers think this estimate is too conservative.

The Rock Island-Prisco system is taking an intense interest in the development of dry farming in Eastern Colorado and its general agent, G. W. Martin, has just completed an investigation of the conditions. Mr. Martin says the crops have suffered practically no damage from the heavy rains and asserts that record breaking harvests will be reaped all along his lines. The recent rains, he says, have insured fall and spring wheat, oats and barley. Potatoes, corn, peas and other later crops are in excellent condition.

A year ago the settlers in parts of Eastern Colorado met with severe reverses and suffered crop failures which, investigation proved, were due to the inexperience of the settlers and their lack of knowledge of the principles of dry farming.

The Dry Farming Congress, which will hold its fourth annual session at Billings, Montana, next October 26-28, investigated the conditions in Eastern Colorado and immediately began a campaign to educate the settlers in dry farming methods. A large number of the farmers have joined the Congress and are receiving the educational literature issued by it and are profiting thereby.

The Rock Island Railroad assisted

many of the farmers who failed last year by furnishing them with free seed and putting them in the way of receiving instruction in those methods of agriculture which are necessary for success in the arid regions. As a result the acreage this year planted to wheat and other grains is much larger than ever previously attained in this part of the state. This year has proved unusually propitious and the crops have exceeded the most sanguine hopes of the farmers. The result is that many of the settlers who seriously considered emigrating to other parts of the country have decided to make substantial improvements upon their farms and to remain here permanently.

C. R. Root of Denver, Colorado executive committee of the Dry Farming Congress, is making arrangements for an extensive exhibit of Colorado crops at the International Dry Farming Exposition, which will be held at Billings, Montana, October 25-29 in connection with the Fourth Dry Farming Congress and it is expected that samples of the grains and other products of Eastern Colorado will occupy a permanent place in the state's exhibit.

Utah Lands Reclaimed to Agriculture By Use of Dry Farming Methods.

Nephi, Utah, Aug. 5.—Since the state established a dry farming experiment station near here six years ago and demonstrated the success of that system of farming, 20,000 acres of dry land has been reclaimed and is now in wheat in this vicinity. As a result of the dry farming operations in the territory tributary to this city, Nephi has developed into one of the busiest as well as most attractive cities in Utah. J. W. Paxman of this place, executive committee for Utah of the Dry Farming Congress and a successful dry farmer, is making arrangements to have the results of the work accomplished at this experiment farm displayed at the International Dry Farm Exposition, which will be held at Billings, Montana, October 25-29, in connection with the Dry Farming Congress.

The greater part of the activities at the local farm have been directed toward determining the best wheat for dry farming in Utah, the best manner of preparing the ground and the most favorable season for sowing. The results of this investigative work will be described at the coming Dry Farming Congress. The local farm is in charge of F. D. Farrell, an expert agronomist, who has had remarkable success in adapting the principles of dry farming to the climatic and soil conditions in this region. An effort will be made to have Mr. Farrell attend the Dry Farming Congress at Billings, and describe his work.

Calls Upon Montana Farmers for Exhibits.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 5.—C. H. Reifernath, editor of the Northwestern Stockman and Farmer and member of the Montana Board of Control of the Fourth Dry Farming Congress, has issued a call to the dry farmers of Lewis and Clark county to make selections of their hay and grain and vegetable crops for an exhibit to represent this county at the International Exposition of Dry Farm Products to be held at Billings, Montana, October 25-29 in connection with the Fourth Congress, which will be in session October 26-28. Mr. Reifernath says this Congress is one of the most important events of the year not only for this state but for the entire West, because it will bring to Montana not only many prospective settlers and investors from all parts of the country, but will give an excellent opportunity to the farmers of the West to receive profitable instruction from the scientists and the actual farmers who will participate in the Congress program.

BEB BUG NOT FOE, BUT MAN'S FRIEND

Visitors on Counterpane Should Receive Thanks, Declares Dr. Fletcher.

Chautauqua, N. Y., Aug. 5.—As a test of your self-control the next time you see a bedbug approaching you across the counterpane don't get excited.

Instead of thinking how repulsive it is, notice the color of its eyes. Consider its attractiveness. Observe its habits of thrift. Think how amiable it must be in its own family, and what a useful member of society it must be.

Regard its presence not as an occasion for intermittent fury and a sleepless night, but instead take it as a courteous reminder that the conditions of your abode are not all they might be. In short, say "Thank you, Mr. Bedbug."

In this way you will save yourself much unnecessary trial and tribulation, and this other unpleasant experience will mark a decided advance in your menticulture.

Dr. Fletcher the Defender.
Dr. Horace Fletcher, the founder of Fletcherism gives this advice to those who want to develop the mental strength. Dr. Fletcher is giving a series of lectures here on menticulture and the art of "Fletcherizing," or learning how to live twice as well for half the money.

"It is not difficult to rid one's self of repulsions if the point of view is changed," said the traveler-author-lecturer. "I presume that the most generally detested creature that is not altogether deadly in its venom is the bedbug. The bedbug is more of a tradition than a fact, and many of those who shudder at mention of him never have seen him.

"I am sure that none of his enemies have much, if any, acquaintance with him as to the color of his eyes, his habits of thrift, his amiability in his family, and other qualities that serve to make him a creature attractive and respectable within his sphere.

Bites as Friendly Warning.

"The truth about this much despised creature is that he is useful as a warning against unclean conditions and his odor and his bite are his notes of warning. Instead of filling one's self with a feeling of repulsion or anger or any other emotion that affects the free circulation of the blood, and relaxes and disorders the tissues of the body at sight or mention of a bedbug, the discovery should elicit the expression 'thank you for the information.'

"If it should happen to be in one's own house no hidden crack or corner should escape an overhauling to get rid of the cause of the bedbug's warning; or if it should happen in a hotel there should be a change of hotel. Roaches are splendid scavengers, and are a result and not a cause of unclean conditions. Our warfare should be waged against the unclean and inharmonious conditions and not against the purifiers and harmonizers of the conditions.

People who lose their tempers are really not Christians, Dr. Fletcher believes.

"When a person is angry he cannot be at the moment a Christian, for being angry is as un-Christian as profanity."

Chronic Diarrhoea Relieved.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express Co., Chicago, writes, "Our General Superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old chronic diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23rd Ohio regiment, and have no ailment except chronic diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by all druggists.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE CATHOLICS' IDEAL

Meetings of Union Will Emphasize Hostility to the Use of Liquor.

The principal business of the convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union which meets in Chicago this week is to emphasize the position of the Roman Catholic church as it stands on record favoring total abstinence. Speeches and resolutions before the convention have been planned to keep this idea uppermost.

One of the principal addresses of the convention will be delivered by Bishop Canavan on the subject of Sunday observance, and it will deal with this problem and the general proposition of closing saloons on the Sabbath day.

"The Catholic church favors total abstinence," said the Rev. P. J. O'Callaghan recently. "It has committed itself to this position, but it is too great an institution to insist upon the enforcement of this doctrine as a rule. It will not go so far as to say that no man shall buy or drink a glass of liquor."

Abstinence the High Ideal.

"The question of temperance or in temperance is only one of the things the church has to deal with. There are other vital questions upon which it must act. The church recognizes the value of total abstinence to its members and strongly recommends the doctrine, but does not require it absolutely. That is, it points out total abstinence as the ideal to be sought."

"The Catholic church, through its priesthood doubtless will advise the men of its membership to use their votes on the side of prohibition, but will not enter politics by endorsing any one political party or candidate as against another."

One resolution which was prepared yesterday to be presented to the convention deals a blow at the liquor traffic. It is proposed that the convention ask all corporations and employers of labor to pay their employees in cash instead of checks.

It is said many workmen would not go into saloons except to get their checks cashed on pay day and that once in the saloon they spend money they otherwise would take home to their families.

August time, tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influence depresses first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, heart, and kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen and see how quickly will be yours again. Sold by Stripling-Burrows Co.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK.

Surprising Facts About that Twenty-four Dollar Bargain Peter Minuet Got.

Just 283 years ago the whole of Manhattan Island was bought by stout Peter Minuet, the New York governor of the West India Company, for a few trinkets valued at $24. The Indians were glad to get so much from the Dutch for their hunting grounds.

Several years ago ground at the corner of Broadway and Wall street sold at $24 for six square inches, when a lot measuring 30 by 30 feet brought $700,000. So tremendous is the city's growth that one year's building plans represent a cost of $130,000,000.

It is bewildering, overwhelming, this city of many tongues and many bloods, where a procession of 50,000 Roman Catholics recently marched through festal streets to their great cathedral—although it was once a crime punishable by death for a "Popish priest" to enter New York—and 800,000 Jews abide and flourish where once no Jews might vote.

There are nearly 10,000 policemen in the 3,200 miles of streets. Their pay alone amounts yearly to $12,865,258. They made 244,822 arrests last year. To clean the streets they guard costs $7,418,299 for a single year.

The parks of the amazing city cover fourteen square miles, including some of its choicest ground. It is said that they contain more than 2,500,000 trees and are valued at $1,500,000,000.

In other words, says Pearson's Magazine, the parks owned by New York contain more land than the big city of Rochester, N. Y., and could be sold for enough to pay the entire national debts of Holland, Switzerland, Sweden and Turkey.

Think of a city that has built 514 school houses at a cost of about $100,000,000 and that has more than 16,000 teachers and superintendents educating 651,000 children the salaries alone being $17,581,000 a year. The department of education will spend $27,470,36 this year.

And if the giant skyline of New York staggers the imagination what of the marvellous network of pipes and wires and tunnels under the streets? The separate wires buried under the pavements of the metropolis would reach twenty times around the world.

There is more than $12,000,000 of copper in them. Single cables carry a thousand wires. With thousands of wires under the streets and hundreds of wireless stations on the roof tops millions of messages are whispered underground or overhead every day, and news comes trembling through the atmosphere from distant ships and continents.

Down beside the myriad electric channels hidden under the city rushes a daily supply of about 480,000,000 gallons of sparkling water, of which 325,000,000 gallons come from a clear mountain lake through two aqueducts, one of them tunneled through rock and earth for twenty-eight miles. New Yorkers pay their city $11,000,000 a year for drinking water.

It takes 10,000,000 pounds of food a day to supply the city. There are about one hundred theaters, 1,300 churches and nearly 10,000 saloons. In the midst of this rushing life 105,533 cases of contagious diseases are reported in a year.

On and over and under the streets of New York are 865 miles of surface subway and elevated railway tracks owned by one corporation and capitalized in stocks and bonds at the well nigh incredible sum of $701,135,911.

party of forest men set out for the work. The men in the party were H.

done will take this much time. The men will go over the entire Pecos forest and carefully estimate the total stand of accessible timber. After seeing that the work is properly started Supervisor Stewart will return to Santa Fe.

WORK IS ORDERED
RESUMED AT ENGLE.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 5.—In a telegram to H. J. Gault, acting district engineer of the reclamation service, L. C. Hill, supervising engineer of reclamation projects in the southwest, has instructed him to rush the surveys in the Elephant Butte dam.

Mr. Hill is at Portland, Oregon, in attendance at the conference of engineers with Secretary Ballinger, F.
H. Newell, director of the reclamation service, and Chief Engineer A. P.
Davis.

"Surveys are holding back construction work," said Engineer Gault this morning, "and from the telegram from Mr. Hill it seems that construction work will be started as soon as the surveys are completed. Evidently it has been decided by the powers to complete the dam as soon as possible.

"I have wired Mr. Hill asking for permission to increase the force now making surveys," continued Mr. Gault,
"and expect to hear from him today.
Work will be rushed on the surveys
as rapidly as possible."

Mr. Gault also stated that he expected word soon relative to condemnation proceedings in respect to acquiring right of way and sites for re-

temperance advocates as it involves the right to license saloons on the outskirts of Mountainair which has banished, or rather, never permitted, the saloon within its limits. R. H.
Hanna appears for the plaintiff who is opposed to the saloons, and E. A.
Fiske for the defendants.

Drew Jurors.
Judge John R. McFie this forenoon drew the jurors for the U. S. district court and also for the territorial district court for the county of Santa Fe for the September term, which convenes on September 6.

Heard From His Brother.
The publication in the New Mexican last week of a letter from an Oklahoma man looking for his brother
T. S. Mincer, has elicited the information that Mincer is at Petaca, Rio Arriba county, engaged on irrigation work, and is hale and hearty and was not "murdered by the Indians" as his brother had feared.

Socorro County First to Report.
Socorro county has the distinction of being the first to transmit its assessment roll for 1909 to Territorial Auditor Charles V. Safford who received it today. The county's total assessment is $2,669,747, an increase of $205,643 over last year.

some of its leaders may at this time postpone the day of redemption, I shall await with patience, confidence and serenity, the hour at which it will keep full and complete faith with the American people."

He expressed his admiration and applause for the courage and persistence of the president, "in attempting to secure and to a degree, in securing lower rates in the range of dispute between the House and the Senate."

Speaking with "full consciousness that the president will sign the bill and that it will come a law with his assent," he recommended, and said,
"that there is a fundamental difference between the veto power and the voting power."

"An executive ought not," he said,
"to veto a measure simply because he would have voted against it had he been a member of the legislative body that passed it."

"I have always admitted," said the senator, "that with respect to these commodities of which we are capable of supplying the home demand, duties however high do not harm so long as there exist effectual competition between our own producers; and I repeat that admission now. I have seen, however, competition in the most important fields of production grow weaker and weaker until it has been easy to perceive that with many things prices have not been fixed by the fundamental and essential law of commerce, but have been fixed by the arbitrary will of the producer and solely with reference to the utmost profit that trade would bear.

"Under these conditions it seemed to me that excessive duties would necessarily become a shield for avarice and greed. It seemed to me that duties should be so adjusted as to prevent the domestic producer from raising his price above a fair American level without exposing himself to foreign competition.

"These were the only reasons known to me for a revision of the tariff; and I will never vote for a revision that does not follow, or attempt to follow the lines of economic thought."

Free Hides Resolution.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The concurrent resolution making corrections in the leather schedule of the tariff bill, was reported to the Senate from the finance committee by Senator Aldrich today. The resolution changes paragraph 450 to read as follows:

"Hides of cattle, raw or uncured, whether dry, salted or pickled, shall be admitted free of duty.

"Provided, that on and after October 1, 1909, grain, buff and split leather shall pay a duty of seven and one-half per cent ad valorem; that all boots and shoes made wholly or in chief value of leather made from the cattle hides and cattle skins of whatever weight, or even weight, or cattle of the bovine species, including calf skins, special pay a duty of 10 per cent ad valorem; the harness, saddles or saddlery in sets or parts, finished or unfinished, composed wholly or in chief value of leather shall pay a duty of 20 per cent ad valorem."
