DELEGATE ANDREWS REACHES HOME

He Says There is No Doubt About Statehood at the Coming Session of Congress.

Special to the New Mexican.
Albuquerque, Aug. 12.—Delegate to Congress W. H. Andrews reached here this afternoon from the East on the California Flyer. In an interview he expressed certainty that the statehood bill, which will be introduced on the first day of the session, will pass without difficulty, since President Taft and the entire administration will be in back of it. He called attention to the benefits to New Mexico from the Payne tariff bill, the wool schedules remaining as high as they were before, and the high tariff on coal enabling New Mexico to ship coal in competition with Canada to the Pacific coast and the Panama canal. Delegate Andrews expects to visit Santa Fe upon the return of Governor Curry from Lincoln and will be a guest at the executive mansion.

Stat Good Sure.
Special to the New Mexican.
Washington, Aug. 12.—Delegate Cameron wires that the President told Judge Abbott of Albuquerque, that he would recommend separate statehood for New Mexico and Arizona in his message to Congress next December and that he would do all he legitimately could do to secure immediate admission.

DYING IN THE SWELTERING HEAT

New York and Pennsylvania Suffer Intolerably From Sun and Humidity—Crops Destroyed in the Fields.

New York, Aug. 12.—Infant lives to the number of sixty-five went out yesterday and today under the heat and humidity. Twenty-seven babies died at the New York foundling asylum, while other institutions reported scores of deaths.

Coney Island sands were unswept by the usual cooling breeze, and a score of men, women and children were prostrated, three dying.

Burning up Crops.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 12.—Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia are sweltering under the worst hot wave in years. Two deaths and scores of prostrations were reported yesterday.

In the mountains forest fires are raging, and several small towns are threatened with destruction.

The heat is destroying all crops in this district. Truck garden produce has reached record prices. Hay and grain merchants have also raised their prices on reports to the effect that hay, oats and wheat are burning in the fields.

NEGRO SHOOTs DOWN STRIKER

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 12.—The first fatality of the strike at McKee's Rocks occurred today when Steve Horvat was shot and killed by Major Smith, a negro, whom the strikers mistook for a strike-breaker and attacked. Smith drew a revolver to protect himself and Horvat fell at the first shot.

INVESTIGATING MUTINY AT DAVAO

Severe Punishment for Officers in Command

MEN ESCAPE TO MOUNTAINS

Two Resignations Demanded and One Lieutenant Is Dismissed.

Manila, Aug. 12.—The constabulary board which has been investigating the mutiny at Davao, on June 6, when a portion of the second company mutinied, seized the barracks and fought desperately, finally escaping to the mountains, have recommended severe punishment for the officers in command. They demand the resignations of Captain Platka and Lieutenant Dunsforth, as unfit for their position as officers, and the dismissal of Lieutenant DeBalle for unjustly punishing privates and deserting their posts. They recommend the reduction of Lieutenant Gotsch to the bottom of the list of lieutenants and his suspension for one month. Ralph E. McFie, son of Judge John R. McFie, is provincial secretary at Davao and distinguished himself during the mutiny.

PRESIDENT TAFT AND JUDGE ABBOTT

Discuss Material Condition in the Territory

WESTERN ITINERARY CHANGE

Two Nights Will Be Spent in Los Angeles and Day at Grand Canon

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 12.—President Taft's secretary had an extended conference with representatives of the New York Central railroad, who are making the detailed arrangements for the President's trip through the west and south. As a result of the conference some changes have been made in the time of arrival and departure from various places. It has been found that the President can remain in Los Angeles two nights instead of one and then be able to reach Grand Canon in time to spend an entire day there. The President therefore will spend October 11 and 12 in Los Angeles, leaving that city the morning of October 13. Mr. Taft will visit his sister in Los Angeles.

Judge Abbott at Beverly.
Beverly, Mass., Aug. 12.—The President had a long talk today with Judge Ira A. Abbott of the New Mexico Supreme Court, who called to give Mr. Taft some information about political affairs in the Territory. Judge Abbott extended a cordial invitation to the President to stop in New Mexico during his western trip in the fall, and talked enthusiastically about the future of the Territory, which is now the Mecca for thousands of homeseekers. Judge Abbott pointed out the urgent necessity of providing some means of protection for the native citizens, who he thinks are in danger of suffering in competition with the more progressive element which is rapidly taking possession of all the available public land.

The question of statehood for New Mexico was not discussed, for the reason that President Taft takes it for granted that Congress will carry out the Republican party's platform declaration for separate statehood for both New Mexico and Arizona. The President expressed himself as highly pleased with New Mexico and its future. He will make several stops in both that Territory and Arizona during his coming western trip.

PRETTY BRIDE TURNS THIEF

She Stole $240 From Relatives in Order to Furnish Home for Herself and Groom.

Greeley, Colo., Aug. 12.—Pretty Hilma Anderson Yeaby, a bride of four months, confessed that she stole $240 from the home of a relative of her husband. The robbery has been puzzling the police for a week.

The girl in her confession told City Marshal Williams that she stole the money to provide funds with which to purchase furniture for her home.

Mrs. Yeaby has lived in Eaton all her life and was one of the prettiest and most popular girls in the town. For a time she was in charge of the telephone exchange at Eaton.

The robbery which caused her downfall occurred about a week ago. The family of Harry Somerville, a relative of Mrs. Yeaby's husband, was away for the day. During their absence someone entered the house and stole $240 from a drawer containing $1,000 in gold. The balance of the money was not disturbed, and this led the police to believe that a member of the family had taken the cash, which belonged to Mrs. J. N. Brown, a sister of Mrs. Somerville.

After several days Marshal Williams accused the girl of the theft. She confessed, and from later developments it seems that the marshal allowed the story of the young woman to become public.

Since her confession Mrs. Yeaby has been extremely melancholy. She has remained at her parents' home, and has refused to see any of her friends.

INVITATION FROM A HOT PLACE

Bayou Sara, Louisiana, Wants to Entertain President Taft on His Coming Trip.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 12.—Bayou Sara, Louisiana, which attracted attention by the wording of its invitation to Captain Fremont of the battleship Mississippi "Bayou Sara is a hell of a place to entertain in but we will do the best we can," has invited President Taft to spend a few hours in town.

THAW AGAIN DECLARED INSANE

Justice Mills Dismisses Writ of Habeas Corpus

REMANDED TO MATTEAWAN

Conclusion of Another Episode in Famous Litigation.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Justice Mills this morning dismissed Thaw's application for a writ of habeas corpus and remanded him to the custody of the state authorities at Matteawan. The decision declared that Thaw is insane.

Not one of the many contentions made by Thaw was sustained. In his formal opinion declaring Thaw now insane, Judge Mills lays great stress on the family childhood history. His determination that the prisoner has not recovered is based principally on the evidence of Dr. Amos Baker, assistant superintendent at Matteawan. "All such authorities," he said, "are public officers with no conceivable motive but to do their duty." The court says it is more convinced by the alienists for the state than for the prisoner and says concerning Dr. Evans: "He had great difficulty in reconciling his present attitude with the former opinion expressed at the trials and in my opinion did not succeed."

Thaw evidently made a bad impression on the judge by his actions on and off the witness stand and the opinion calls special attention to Thaw's facial expression while telling of his belief in White's practices. The court says it is by no means satisfied with Thaw's treatment at Matteawan. After his return there October last, and says no one could but be moved by the distress of the mother as he told of that treatment. It must be understood that Thaw is in the institution, not as a criminal undergoing punishment, as the jury declared him innocent in the matter of the homicide, but as an unfortunate afflicted with mental derangement to be protected and guarded with the distinct hope that he may be ultimately cured. Therefore he suggests that he be allowed the privileges formerly given him and that the mother be afforded every consideration. The opinion concludes that the enlargement of Thaw now, would be dangerous to the public peace and safety, and cannot be permitted.

NEW MEXICO SUITS AS A NAME

Change the name of New Mexico when it is admitted as a state? Certainly not. If such a thing were submitted to a vote of the people they would vote it down almost unanimously. That is what Judge T. B. Catron of Santa Fe, N. M., formerly a member of Congress from that Territory, says about it.

"In the last five years more than one-quarter million inhabitants have been added to New Mexico's population," Judge Catron said this morning at the Coates House. "In two years more than fifty thousand new homestead entries have been taken out. We have assurance from the powers that be in the Senate and House of Representatives that the enabling act permitting New Mexico to become a state will be passed early in the next session of Congress. That will give new impetus to the marvelous development which has been going on in the Territory in recent years. New towns and new agricultural communities are springing up in different parts of the Territory. New Mexico will be admitted to statehood under most favorable conditions. But the people do not want a new name."—Kansas City Star.

SUTTON HAD BOTTLE OF WHISKEY

Testimony in Inquiry as to Drunkenness of the Naval Officer Whose Death is in Doubt.

Annapolis, Aug. 12.—Professor Gilbert Coleman of the naval academy, stated that he was in the company of Lieutenant Sutton from lunch to about midnight of October 12, 1907, the night of Sutton's death, then leaving the lieutenant with Miss May Stewart of Pittsburg, Pa., at the assembly room of the hotel. Lieutenant Allen H. Sumner, U. S. M. C., testified to seeing at the hotel the same night Lieutenants Adams, Osterman and Utley and that all of them were perfectly sober. Lieutenant Sutton, he said, entered the room and offered those in the party a drink from a bottle of whisky, which all declined. Lieutenant Sumner said he afterward went to camp. After his arrival there he saw Lieutenant Sutton leaving the camp armed, without his coat. Later he heard shots and going in the direction, saw Lieutenant Sutton on the grass. He also saw Lieutenant Roelker who appeared to have been injured and taking him into camp, found his clothing torn by a bullet which was found in his garments. The witness identified as his own a card on which he had written: "Sutton I am a damn fool. Consider the gun business cut out." This he had signed. He said this was written by him for the purpose of humoring a whim of Lieutenant Sutton on which occasion the latter was very much intoxicated. The witness hoped it would be a means of inducing Sutton to go to his hotel peacefully.

A gruesome feature was introduced into the inquiry regarding the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, Jr., of the United States marine corps, when the legal representative of Mrs. Sutton, the mother of the dead lieutenant, brought to the witness stand Dr. Edward M. Schaeffer of Washington, an expert on gunshot wounds.

The people in the room, spectators and interested parties, all crowded around the table and gazed with the keenest interest upon the doctor while he placed upon the table glistening skulls to the exterior of one which he affixed in little lumps of wax, steel rods intended to indicate to the members of the court the course of the bullet in the skull of Lieutenant Sutton. The doctor stretched himself upon the table and showed by pantomime how, in his opinion as an expert, it was quite impossible that Lieutenant Sutton could have fired into his own head the shot that killed him.

The witness declared Lieutenant Sutton could not possibly under the circumstances described in the testimony, have exerted sufficient pull on the revolver to discharge it.

When court adjourned, the cross examination of Dr. Schaeffer was in progress.

NO MAN OWNS HIS FARM

New Doctrine Promulgated by New York Professor

NAT. IRRIGATION MOVEMENT

No Need to Hurry to Develop All the Resources at Once.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 12.—That no man owns his farm but is only an agent under obligation to conserve the soil is the doctrine promulgated by L. H. Bailey of the New York College of Agriculture this morning before the Irrigation Congress. He stated that there should be a national irrigation movement but it was not necessary to develop all resources at once. It is well, he said, to have resources to take up when the press of population comes. He was followed by Dr. A. E. True director of experiment stations.

Address By A. C. True.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 12.—Dr. A. C. True, director of the office of experiment stations of the department of agriculture, spoke at today's session of the Irrigation Congress, explaining the scope and purpose of the irrigation investigations carried on by his department. The scope, he said, is the use of water in irrigation, and its purpose is the largest use of our water supplies and the adoption of the best methods in their use.

"At present the greatest need of the arid region, judged by the calls upon us for help, is along the second line of work committed to us by Congress—the use of irrigation waters, with especial suggestions of the best methods for the utilization of irrigation waters in agriculture.

"Throughout the arid region the increase in the area under ditch has outrun the natural increase in population, and as a consequence you must look to the humid region for the farmers who will give value to the ditches built and the lands covered. These prospective farmers are uninformed as to the general conditions under which they will have to live, and also as to the methods of using water in the production of crops. The ditch promoters do much to supply the first deficiency but the people of the East are suspicious of advertisements, and they write by hundreds to our department asking about this or that scheme, whether it is legitimate, and whether the claims as to crops grown are true. It has been impossible to answer these in detail, but we have, during the past year, had prepared and issued a series of bulletins on irrigation in different states and territories, the central idea of which is to present the information needed by a person who is considering settlement on irrigated lands anywhere in the West.

"These bulletins contain the information the settler needs in deciding whether he wishes to take up irrigated lands and where he shall settle. But he is in greater need when he goes on the lands. He does not know when nor how to apply the water to his soil. Much of this he must learn by experience, but we are doing what we can to meet his needs by publishing bulletins describing the best practice of the sections already highly developed, and giving plain directions as to how to perform every operation connected with the use of water in irrigation. In addition, our field men devote as much time as possible to giving personal advice and public talks along these lines. Just now more of our energy is being devoted to the needs of the new settler than to any other line of work.

"Taking the country as a whole, however, and looking at the arid region from a national standpoint, economy in water is more important. The highest estimate of the area which can be served by the available water supply is about 10 per cent of the total area, while the more conservative students of the arid region place it at 5 per cent. All admit that the water supply is the limiting factor in the development of the West. It follows then that every reduction in the quantity used upon a given area makes possible a corresponding increase in the area which can be reclaimed. The quantity of water actually used by plants in the processes of growth is very small, as compared with the quantities diverted from streams for use in irrigation, and it may be possible to decrease this quantity by breeding drought resistant crops, but this does not offer a very large opportunity for saving on account of the small quantity required by any plants. But in order that plants may secure

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE NOTES.

(By Daniel C. Ortiz.)

Yesterday the Institute received a visit from one of the most prominent men in the Territory, Ex-Governor L. Bradford Prince. Mr. Prince addressed the teachers on the "Spanish-American School," which is to be opened September 21. It was through the efforts of Ex-Governor Prince that the legislature passed an act to establish this school. Perhaps it is the only school of its kind in the United States. It will be for Spanish-speaking teachers to prepare them to teach the English language in the rural schools. Nothing will be charged to those who attend the school, the only expense they will have will be their board. Mrs. George Dixon, the conductor of the Santa Fe County Institute, will be assistant principal. If the other teachers are as good as Mrs. Dixon it will be a good school indeed.

Mr. Clemente Ortiz has the best record of all teachers attending the Institute. He has taught school for about fifty-one years. He was born in 1831 in this city and commenced teaching school in 1852 at the age of 21 years. He taught school until 1861, when he enlisted in the Union army and served during the Civil war. During that period from 1862 to 1861 he taught in the best schools of the Territory. In 1865 he was honorably discharged from the army. In 1867 Mr. Ortiz began teaching school again, and has continued ever since. He was a teacher in Archbishop Lamy's school here. Mr. Ortiz also taught in a government school for the Indians. He has taught almost in every school in this county, besides several other counties of the Territory and Southern

A CORROBORATION

Of Interest to Santa Fe Readers.

For months Santa Fe citizens have seen in these columns enthusiastic praise of Doan's Kidney Pills by Santa Fe residents. Would these prominent people recommend a remedy that had not proven reliable? Would they confirm their statements after years had elapsed if personal experience had not shown the remedy to be worthy of endorsement? No stronger proof of merit can be had than cures that have stood the test of time. The following statement should carry conviction to the mind of every Santa Fe reader.

Toribio Rodriguez, 110 Johnson street, Santa Fe, N. M., says: "Two and a half years ago I gave a statement for publication in regard to my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. Today I am stronger in my praise of this remedy than ever. I suffered greatly from disordered kidneys, the pains in my back being so acute at times that I had to stop work and sit down. The trouble steadily grew worse and I rarely knew what was to be free from an ache or pain of some kind. Soon after I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Stripling, Burrows & Co.'s drug store, my pains and aches disappeared and my back was as sound and well as ever. Doan's Kidney Pills have my strongest endorsement."

EVERY ACRE OF IRRIGABLE LAND NEEDED

States Secretary Ballinger in Strong Address

SPEAKS AT SPOKANE

Reclamation of Arid and Semi-Arid Lands of West is of First Importance.

Secretary Ballinger, who yesterday before the National Irrigation Congress at Spokane spoke of "The Attitude of the Administration Toward the Reclamation of Arid Land in the West," said in part:

"While the government has invested over $50,000,000 in irrigation works many times that amount has been invested since passage of the reclamation act, by private enterprise and it is safe to say that a large portion of these private investments have resulted from government example and encouragement; and let me say here that it has not been and is not the policy of the national government in the administration of this act to hinder or interfere with the investment of private capital in the construction of irrigation works, but rather to lend it encouragement. This is particularly true in reference to irrigation under the Carey Act in the various states.

"The purpose of the reclamation act is to undertake the irrigation of arid and semi-arid lands where a considerable portion thereof belongs to the public domain and by the installation of storage and diversion of available waters to irrigate the largest possible area within a given territory at the least cost to the entrymen and land owners for construction, maintenance and operation, always keeping in view the matter of settlement of these lands and rendering them capable of supporting the greatest number of families. The law is a beneficent one. It differs, however, from the simple homestead law in that it holds out inducements only to men of sufficient industry and capacity to carry the added burdens of construction maintenance and operation, which is the cost of the lands. While it is possible that persons of limited means may successfully enter and acquire irrigated lands, it will generally be found that it is not a poor man's proposition, unless coupled with intelligent industry in agriculture.

"Any one who has visited one or more of the reclamation projects now in operation and sees on the one hand the desert covered with sage brush and barrenness and on the other hand the water flowing over the fertile soil producing heavy crops of grain or orchards of fruit, appreciates to the fullest extent the benefits of irrigation.

"The people of the West therefore who are familiar with these wonderful results in irrigation are highly appreciative of the importance of reclamation service, but the great difficulty which the servance encounters is in finishing the projects now taken as against the clamor for a diversion of the funds to new fields.

"I cannot conceive of anything which will contribute more to the permanent wealth and prosperity of the reclamation states and territories than the continued construction on the broadest possible scale of irrigation works.

"The danger which the government is undertaking to overcome is the establishment of small irrigation projects in localities where by such establishment the larger opportunities are destroyed, thus preventing enormous areas of lands from ever acquiring the use of water. For lack of funds the government is at present often required to surrender possibilities in water appropriations, which means an enormous loss in future development of irrigation works, and I fear this is not fully appreciated. It is for this reason that at times private enterprises are disposed to contend that the government is obstructing greater possibilities for larger areas of irrigable land. I may mention here what has frequently occurred to me as a source of advantage, both to the states and the federal government, and that is the securing from the various states of uniform legislation in the matter of appropriation of the water and its beneficial use and also legislation looking to the control and conservation of all available water powers.

"This congress could accomplish no great work beyond the stimulation of interest in the development of irrigation than to secure uniform water regulations in the states and also uniform legislation affecting interstate waters.

"Ours in a nation of busy people, a nation of great resources and possibilities and most favorably situated for trade and commerce. Its wealth is greater than that of any single country, even of France and Germany combined and this wealth is increasing at a fabulous rate. Much of it has been accumulated by the destruction by the sacrifice and waste of nature's gifts and it is a fortuitous circumstance that the country has been brought to understand the importance of utilizing and saving our nation's wealth and making it possible for the nation to continue to prosper and for the generations that are to come to have some share of that prosperity especially since no element of the nation's wealth is greater than that contained in the soil. For this reason, if for no other, the work of reclamation of the arid and semi-arid lands of the West, is worthy of first importance in the development of the nation's resources. Every acre of irrigable land will be needed in the nation's economy.

"In a century we have passed from a purely agricultural country to an industrial and commercial country, but we have not outgrown the necessity for agriculture."

Describes Code.

John H. Lewis, engineer for the state of Oregon described the code of water law enacted by the last legislature. In part he said:

"Oregon has recently adopted a scheme of public control for water resources. This system is in advance of other states in that rights to use water for power development are limited to a period of 40 years, subject to renewal under laws then existing. Compensation to the public is also provided.

"The ultimate object of the new law is to secure a proper division of streams among those entitled to their use. It is not supported by an constitutional provision, but rests entirely upon the policy holder of the state.

"Its enforcement devolves upon the state engineer and the division superintendent of each of the two divisions into which the state has been divided.

"This law is divided into (1) determination of early rights; (2) granting of new rights; (3) protection of all rights when determined.

"The state engineer and two superintendents as a board have the power to determine all rights on a given stream upon the application of any water user. This determination is based upon the surveys and testimony taken by the superintendent. The claims after notices are submitted for the inspection of all interested water users and contests permitted.

"Upon the evidence collected an order will be entered by the board setting forth the location and extent of each right. This order becomes effective at once and can be enforced by the appointment of a water master. It is later filed with the circuit court for confirmation. If no exceptions are taken within 30 days, a degree must be entered and a water right certificate is then issued by the board to each claimant based upon decree. The state engineer has power to limit the amount of water asked for and to fix the time in which the works must be completed. A permit can be denied where a proposed use is menace to the safety and welfare of the public.

"When all rights on any stream have been determined a water master will be appointed who can be called out during the times of scarcity to protect any water user."

$600,000 PROFIT IN GROWING ONIONS

Southwestern Texas Farmers Have Marketed Their Crop at 75 Cents to $1.25 Per Crate.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 12.—That the Southwest Texas onion growers have cleared over $600,000 on this year's crop is now an established fact. Divided among about 500 growers this would give $1,200 to each of them. Many of these, however, grow onions only on a very small scale and for this reason the big growers must have done remarkably well this year.

Though the crop has been marketed several weeks ago, it has only now been possible to get close figures on it. Since only 95 per cent of the onion growers belong to associations these are complete only to that extent. The shipments amount to a little over 2800 cars of 500 crates each, sold at prices ranging from 75 cents to $1.25 per crate. Approximately $1,120,000 was received for the crop.

The onion industry in Southwest Texas dates from 1904. In that year the first onions were raised by George Copp of Cotulla. During the next two years onion raising spread over Dimmit county, the Laredo district, and extending down the Rio Grande valley reached the Brownsville country. In 1905, 600 car shipments were sold and during the following year the shipments increased as indicated: 1906, 1000 cars; 1907, 1200 cars; 1908, 2400 cars, and 1909, over 2800 cars. That this season's crop was not doubled, as was done last year, is due to the fact that the growers were afraid they would flood the market. This year's demand, however, has been keen enough to warrant the planting of a larger area during the coming year. Onions selling at 75 cents a crate are profitable investment, while at $1.25 they may be considered on a par with first class gold mining stock.

SECRETARY BALLINGER'S ADDRESS.

Secretary of the Interior Ballinger said at Spokane yesterday that it is not the policy of the national government in the administration of the Reclamation Act to hinder or interfere with the investment of private capital in the construction of irrigation works, but rather to lend it encouragement. This is good news to New Mexico, where the policy of the government has been distinctly the other way, in fact, has gone so far as to appropriate an immense volume of the flow of the Rio Grande to pay a national debt to Mexico, for what is alleged to be a national debt, action that stands unparalleled for its injustice, in the annals of the nation. Why New Mexico should be called upon to pay such a debt with the waters so much needed for the reclamation of its own lands, and why work on private irrigation works on the Rio Grande should be hindered on that account, will be as difficult to explain in the future as it is for a guardian to explain why he used the estate of his ward to pay his own debts. However, the danger to which Secretary Ballinger alludes that the construction of small works by private enterprise will prevent the full utilization of waters and opportunities, is an imaginary one where the law of water rights is adjusting itself to the doctrine already adopted in many Western states that beneficial use and not mere prior appropriation is the measure of the water right.

However, the secretary is right when he says:

"The purpose of the reclamation act is to undertake the irrigation of arid and semi-arid lands where a considerable portion thereof belongs to the public domain and by the installation of storage and diversion of available waters to irrigate the largest possible area within a given territory at the least cost to the entrainment and land owners for construction, maintenance and operation, always keeping in view the matter of settlement of these lands and rendering them capable of supporting the greatest number of families. The law is a beneficent one. It differs, however, from the simple homestead law in that it holds out inducements only to men of sufficient industry and capacity to carry the added burdens of construction maintenance and operation, which is the cost of the lands. While it is possible that persons of limited means may successfully enter and acquire irrigated lands, it will generally be found that it is not a poor man's proposition, unless coupled with intelligent industry in agriculture.

"Any one who has visited one or more of the reclamation projects now in operation and sees on the one hand the desert covered with sage brush and barrenness and on the other hand the water flowing over the fertile soil producing heavy crops of grain or orchards of fruit, appreciates to the fullest extent the benefits of irrigation.

"The people of the West therefore who are familiar with these wonderful results in irrigation are highly appreciative of the importance of reclamation service, but the great difficulty which the servance encounters is in finishing the projects now taken as against the clamor for a diversion of the funds to new fields.

"I cannot conceive of anything which will contribute more to the permanent wealth and prosperity of the reclamation states and territories than the continued construction on the broadest possible scale of irrigation works."

NEW TOWNS AND OLD.

The past decade has seen many new towns founded in New Mexico and some of them like Tucumcari, Clovis and Alamogordo have grown to be cities in everything but name. But the old towns will have their inning too and among them Santa Fe and Taos have the greatest promise of being important cities commercially and industrially. Las Cruces, another of the older town has felt the impetus of the new era and of it the El Paso Herald says editorially:

"There has been no more rapid development of any community in the entire West in a given space of time, than in the town of Las Cruces, the thriving little city to the north of El Paso.

"From a village of adobe huts and mud roads a few years ago, it has come out of obscurity in a very short space of time as a live business center, with paved streets, good sidewalks, beautiful parks, handsome stores and withal, is one of the liveliest towns of its size in the entire Southwest.

"There are no longer any evidences of the old regime; of the sleepy Las Cruces of the past. It is now the wide-awake, the active, the energetic Las Cruces of today, a typical Western American town, full of life, activity and enterprise. It is peopled with live citizens and is governed by a board of men who are enterprising and progressive.

"Martin Lohman, the chairman of the board of trustees, has taken an active leadership and interest in all the work of improvement, and is now devoting his entire time to the up-building of his home town. Having acquired a comfortable fortune in the place as a business man and having been repeatedly honored by his people with public office, he has now retired from active life and is devoting his efforts to helping to make Las Cruces one of the best towns in New Mexico, and with success too.

"As the center of vast fields of alfalfa, hundreds of acres of cantaloupes, numberless fields of vegetables and orchards by the score, Las Cruces is a shipping center of much importance and is increasing in her importance each year.

"This little City of Crosses is rapidly developing from a sleeping infant of the plains, to a young giant of the valley, a fit monument to the work of its energetic inhabitants."

GOOD MARKSMEN.

Today, New Mexico's rifle team left for Camp Perry, Ohio, to participate in the annual national rifle shoot, which begins on August 23. It is the aim of the war department to create a corps of expert marksmen not only in the regular army, but also among the National Guard. History has demonstrated that the army that can shoot straightest and quickest is the army that wins. In 1866 when Prussia defeated the much mightier army of Austria in seven battles, one on each successive day, it was due to the fact that the German needle gun was much quicker and the Germans were much better marksmen than the Austrians. During the war of Japan with Russia, the Japanese owed much of their triumph to their skill as marksmen, and it is not far amiss to maintain that one expert marksman is worth to a fighting army ten men who cannot shoot. Great Britain learned the lesson during its war with the Boers, but it was not a new lesson for the Swiss had taught it to the nations several hundred years ago and Jackson emphasized it to the British at New Orleans in 1815. At Camp Perry, this time, there will be used for the first time exclusively the new pointed Springfield bullet in place of the Krag Jorgensen. The war with Spain proved the United States to be many years behind, even Spain in its small arms and the old Springfield rifle was no match for the Mauser. Even the Krag Jorgensen has proved itself inferior in the Philippines to the second-hand Mauser, Maennlicher and other foreign makes of weapons bought by the insurgents. But the new Springfield rifle and bullet are the product of the latest inventions and improvements and give the marksmen a wide range and an accuracy that should run up some startling scores at Camp Perry this year and in which New Mexico sharpshooters should have an honorable share.

It is good news which comes from the Navajo reservation in a round-about way from Washington, that the Navajos are prosperous, that their flocks are on the increase and that they are taking greater interest in farming. The government has done much for the Navajos and the Pueblos, but the greatest thing it could do for them is to throw open their reservations to settlement and thus have the Red Man enter into active industrial competition with his neighbors. Possessed of valuable land holdings and of flocks and herds, the Indian would not be at a disadvantage and at the same time would benefit by the development which would come to his surroundings, if the land holdings he does not use were placed in the market. In land holdings, as well as in water rights, the maxim should be that lands not put to beneficial use should be thrown upon the market for acquisition by those who will use them. It is a doctrine adopted in Europe of late years, where the unearned increment in the value of lands, is taxed so heavily that land owners will put their lands to beneficial use or alienate them. In the United States too, reservations, such as those in the far Northwest, have been put into the possession of homeseekers without detriment to the Indians and to the manifest advantage of the country.

Bounded by the Rio Grande on the west, by the Pecos on the east and by the Santa Cruz on the north, all of them with a strong and perennial flow of water with considerable fall, Santa Fe county has many power possibilities. The Rio Grande at Buckman's even during the driest season flows 500 second feet and the fall in White Rock canon of this mass of water is several hundred feet. During floods, the flow exceeds 10,000 second feet and for long periods during each year averages 4,000 to 5,000 second feet. In other words, the White Rock canon alone could furnish enough water power for all of the present manufacturing industries in the Territory. The Pecos, too, has a strong flow, and on the Santa Cruz, a power plant to develop 2,000 horsepower is about to be erected. The lesser streams such as the Nambé, the Santa Clara, the Tesuque, the Santa Fe and others have power possibilities too and on another page are given pictures of two natural falls that are yet unharnessed but that would prove splendid power propositions.

Far be it from the New Mexican to cast rocks in the matter of proof-reading at the newspapers in the Territory for it realizes its own lamentable limitations in that direction too well. From the biggest to the smallest newspapers, there is hardly ever an issue free from the most exasperating errors, exasperating at least to the editor who in time grows more sensitive instead of calloused to the impossibility of catching every error on the fly as the paper daily glides to press and out of his reach. But once in a while, the error is of such laughable or malignant nature as to be worthy of passing attention. In the Albuquerque Citizen, last evening, for instance, a marriage at Santa Fe is "spoken of as a matter of humor for some time," when the hapless editor no doubt intended to write "rumor." Brother Brogan had better hie to some resort in the Sandia or Jemez mountains when the bridegroom strikes Albuquerque upon his return from his wedding trip.

The fact that the Grand Army of the Republic, forty-four years after the Civil war has still a membership of more than 200,000, and that the survivors of those who fought on the Northern side of that great conflict still exceed 600,000, or one and a half times the entire population of New Mexico today or three times its population at the last census, shows how mighty a struggle it was, how great in numbers the armies that fought the battles. It also shows that the stamina of American men, their vitality, is unbroken when 600,000 of them have survived for 44 years the hardships, the privations, the exposures of those terrible campaigns that tried the souls of the bravest. The average age of those survivors is more than 65 years and while from now on time will demand a more rapid tribute each year, yet, in a few years the world will witness the spectacle of half a million men seventy years old who are veterans of the terrific struggle that began 49 years ago.

Five billion dollars for irrigation, good roads, waterways, forests and other public improvements, is an alluring proposition especially from the Western standpoint. It is true there are financial limitations and considerations, but to a nation that has an income of almost a billion dollars a year, a three per cent issue of $5,000,000 in bonds would not be a great burden. The interest would amount to less than is being paid out now for pensions. At the same time, the expenditure of the principal along the lines proposed, would add so immensely to the productive wealth of the nation that there would be far less difficulty in reducing the debt and paying it off as there was in meeting the Civil war debt, or as France had, which is not as large as the state of Texas, in paying Germany a war indemnity of five billion francs after a ruinous war, more than a quarter of a century ago.

Next month a special election will be held to decide whether there is to be a larger Santa Fe or not. The arguments are practically all one way except on the part of a few who fear that they must pay more taxes on their property situated outside of the city limits but to be taken into the larger Santa Fe. To them, the increment of their holdings, will ultimately repay them for any slight increase in their taxes. Santa Fe must make the best possible showing when the census is taken and it must also increase its assessed valuation in order to be in position to secure the modern improvements necessary to a modern city.

It must be a source of satisfaction to the Republican leaders that the Payne tariff is already proving itself a greater revenue producer than the most optimistic had anticipated. The Democratic croakings that the Payne tariff would result in a disheartening deficit in the revenues is thus proved unfounded.

The Albuquerque board of education has submitted green boards for black boards in the public schools. Now watch the Irish flock to the public schools.

An Italian historian persists that Americans have not learned to save. In his country, saving is a dire necessity for there the average inhabitant has not the wherewithal to spend.

AN OLD MAN'S LESSON

We met an old man today who is dependent on his relatives, and they don't like the enforced task of taking care of him. "Had I saved 10 cents a day during my younger years," said he, "I would have been independent. I might have saved a dollar a day during all my working career and not stinted myself in the least" (Atchison Globe)

The above is only one of many reasons why a SAVINGS ACCOUNT is a good thing both for youth and old age."

Start one with us today and be independent when OLD.

WHISKY TO BLAME
FOR IT ALL

Led to Murder and Wrecked the Lives of Husband and Wife and Broke up Denver Home.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 12.—Branded as the alleged murderer of her husband, Kenneth Smith, during a drunken brawl in a resort at 2105 Market street shortly before daybreak, Mrs. Millie Smith, 28 years old, tossed on a steel cot in the matron's quarters of the city jail begging and praying for death.

"Oh, I wish I could die some way, and end it all," moaned Mrs. Smith as the enormity of the charge percolated through her whisky-drugged brain. "I left him and went to Market street, but I never once dreamed of doing him harm. And now they tell me that he is dead. Oh, I can't believe it, I can't believe it. Whisky is to blame for it all."

"Whisky made my life unhappy, it made me crooked, then it took me down to Market street and now it has made me kill my husband. Oh, I want some one to kill me. There ought to be some way to end my life without a trial or anything like that."

With Mrs. Smith, and vainly attempting to quiet the hysterical woman is Elsie Litchfield, a girl of 20 years, who is being held by the police as a witness in the case. The Litchfield girl was an inmate of the same resort as Mrs. Smith and was present when the fight between the husband and wife occurred.

Smith was stabbed over the heart with a penknife or a pair of shears. He went to his wife's resort to demand the return of certain articles which she had taken from their home at 1921 Lawrence street. Both were intoxicated.

Smith, who was 30 years old, had been employed as a carpenter by John Fredrum, 1913 Lawrence street. He is said to be a son of Peter Smith, 1749 Welton street.

Following the stabbing, the wounded man was taken to the hospital ward of the city jail. Later he was driven in an ambulance to the county hospital, where he expired within a few hours. Police surgeons say that alcoholism was a contributory cause of death.

A Faithful Friend.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by all druggists.

DIPPING VAT IS A GOOD INVESTMENT

Stockmen First Realize This Are Now Making the Biggest Profit in Their Business.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 12.—Cattle raisers in the Southwest are realizing more and more that the dipping vat is the best investment for the ranch. The men who first arrived at this conclusion are already reaping large benefits. As a remedy against the tick the dipping vat has no superior and the same can be said of all other skin diseases stock of all kinds is liable to contract. What is more the obnoxious screw worm is treated with greater ease and the best results in the dipping vat. Stockmen in a position to know claim that an animal which has been through the dipping vat requires only one-half the feed others do for the reason that every parasite has been eliminated.

August time, tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course, full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influence depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach. Heart, and Kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen and see how quickly will be yours again. Sold by Stripling-Burrows Co.

MOTHER'S FRIENDTREASURE THAT
SLIPPED AWAY

Negro Who Claims to Have Been Surreptitiously Deprived of $50,000.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 12.—Treasure estimated at from $30,000 to $50,000 was stolen from the premises of H. A. Alexander, a negro residing at 545 Gallagher's alley. At least this is what Mistah Alexander tells the police. That institution being saturated with skepticism and the you-got-to-show-me spirit when it comes to affairs involving the Afro-American, has serious doubts on the case. Still upon the earnest solicitation of the negro City Detective Neumann was instructed to investigate the case and Chief of Police Van Riper is now spending sleepless nights trying to unravel the mystery in accordance with the best Sherlock Holmes methods.

The facts in the case are somewhat peculiar, likewise a whole heap unearthly. Mr. Alexander, though not suffering from an excess of chicken pie or watermelon, discovered a few nights ago that a peculiar will o' the whisp light was flitting about one of the corners of his back yard. Incidentally he noticed that his house was taking a slight list in that direction though the seismograph of the local weather bureau did not show even the slightest tremor. Visions of buried treasure began to haunt Mr. Alexander. No doubt one of the monks of the old missions had buried his ill gotten gain on that spot and his spirit was making nightly visits keeping guard over it or regretting the interest his capital was losing by laying idle.

It was at this juncture that an unknown and now missing negro appeared on the scene. According to his own statements and subsequent developments he was a "wise" man. For the small compensation of $10 he offered to brave the evil spirit that kept vigil over the treasure and dig it up. Without wasting much time he proceeded to get busy. Soon a hole 6x4 feet and 6 feet in depth had been dug. The wise negro was still digging. Once more his pick descended and this time it struck what sounded like an iron pot. The receptacle of the treasure was lifted out of the hole with due solemnity; its lid removed it was found to be filled with gold coins.

"Before this heah money can be 'propriated by yuah," said the wise negro, "Ah must have some more of your money. This time it'll be $25. Affah dat de pot must put back in this heah hole for 'nother 30 days. Dat's the verdict of them spirits." The $25 were handed the wise negro in double-quick time. The pot was returned to its resting place and the hole was filled up again.

Mr. Alexander was still feeling much joy when next morning he meandered towards the corner of the back yard where the hole was. Surely Dame Fortune was kind to him. But joy turned into chagrin, grief, and other sad emotion, when he beheld the empty hole. The treasure was gone. Only the empty pot greeted Mr. Alexander with a vague and vacant stare.

The police are now working on this wonderful case. They are of the opinion that the wise negro is wise indeed. There are, however, one or two factors in the case that puzzle them. Mr. Alexander and some other negroes who saw the gold coins in the pot maintain that they were not hypnotized at the time and that the gold was real enough. The weather having been somewhat hot for some time it is hardly conceivable that a negro would dig a hole ten feet deep for a paltry consideration of $35. In addition, Mr. Alexander is sure that nobody could have dug a hole that size in his yard without his knowing something about it. The phenomenon of the will o' the whisp light and the settling of the house are so far unexplained.

PECANS WILL BE PLENTIFUL

Indications Are That Bountiful Crop Will Be Harvested in South-Western Texas.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 12.—There is every indication that a fine pecan crop will be harvested in Southwest Texas this year. The trees along the Medina, Guadalupe, San Antonio, and many other rivers, are loaded. The recent rains and overflows have put the soil in the river bottoms, the favorite ground of pecan trees, in fine shape. Barring unforeseen circumstances a full crop of fine quality will be made.

INTERPRETERS NEEDED
IN SAN ANTONIO

Children of Mexican Parents Will Be Taught English in the Future in Public Schools.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 12.—Children of Mexicans attending the public schools of this city will in the future be obliged to make a good showing in English. Heretofore the schools in the Mexican quarters have taught Spanish with English as a secondary consideration. The result is that San Antonio has a foreign population which has grown up within two gates. Interpreters have been needed constantly in all the courts. Having American citizens born and bred in Texas unable to speak the language of the country is a good example to what toleration is carried here. At the same time it looks like a case in which sentimentalism is carried just a little too far. Young San Antonio Mexicans will be bilingual in the future.

Served as coffee, the new coffee substitute known to grocers everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee, will trick even a coffee expert. Not a grain of real coffee in it either. Pure healthful toasted grains, malt, nuts, etc., have been so cleverly blended as to give a wonderfully satisfying coffee taste and flavor. And it is "made in a minute," too. COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF MAKES ADDRESS

Reviews Promises Made at Time of Election—Southern Resentment Stilled.

Salt Lake, Utah, Aug. 12.—After reviewing the promises he made at the time of his election, Commander-in-Chief Nevius said:

"I have received a warm and cordial greeting wherever I have gone and found the Grand Army posts enthusiastic and doing the best they could under the circumstances prevailing in their respective localities.

"I was treated with great cordiality upon my visit in the southern departments and in Atlanta, Ga., when the Grand Army of the Republic, held a joint meeting with H. C. Lay Evans, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans and his organization. The Stars and Stripes were conspicuous while the Stars and Bars were not in evidence. Our open and public discussion upon the family trouble existing between the northern and southern states and between the men who had stood upon the firing line on both sides was most pleasant. I met the Confederate veterans again in Denison, Texas, and at a public meeting there I divided the time with them upon the platform. I met them also at Birmingham, Ala., and I am satisfied from all I could see and hear and learn that the men who stood upon the firing lines in the southern Confederacy had had enough of the war and were anxious and willing to support the government of the United States under its flag and that, were it not for others who did not participate in that great struggle, but who are still laboring to keep alive the lost cause, there would be no difficulty in cementing the bonds of union between the north and south.

"The consolidated reports of the assistant adjutant general's ending July 4, have not all been received, hence it is not possible to state our numerical strength on June 30, 1909. On December 31, 1907, the members in good standing of the Grand Army of the Republic numbered 225,157. The number remaining on the suspended list at that date numbered 13,489. By the consolidated report of the adjutant general of this encampment there were remaining in good standing on December 31, 1908, 220,616. The number remaining suspended on the same date was 8,539. The number of comrades reported as having died between December 31, 1907, and December 31, 1908, was 10,124. Our gains during the fiscal year have been: By muster in 7,434; by transfer, 2,948; by reinstatement 7,146; by gain from delinquent reports 3,626. Total gains 21,154.

"The number of comrades suspended has been greatly reduced during the past year, but the number remaining suspended is entirely too large. When comrades who are on the suspended list cannot, without prejudice to themselves and their families, pay their dues, the posts should promptly remit them in order that they may again be placed in good standing and have another chance. In discussing suspension, again, Commander Nevius said:

"Investigation will show that there have been many bills introduced in the national conventions and congress, asking for relief for the veterans upon different lines and no prospect, standing united has in the past years secured and placed upon the statute books such pension laws as are in force and will continue to ask for such relief as shall seem to be equitable and just. And it does not stand in the way of our veterans securing such legislation from the national congress as they may by their influence.

"I am informed several departments have passed resolutions along different lines and favoring different laws from those which have received sanction of the Grand Army of the Republic. These resolutions will go into the hands of the pension committee and after their report will receive the consideration of this encampment. I invite your careful consideration of the subject matter of these resolutions.

"The number of survivors of the Civil War at the close of the fiscal year as shown by the report of the commissioner of pensions was 620,955. The number of survivors on the pension rolls May 31, 1909, was 596,411. The amount appointed for pensions during the year was $162,000,000.

"The amount appropriated and spent during the year ending June 30, 1908, in the national and state homes for the support of old and needy soldiers was $1,187,361. My attention has been called two or three times to letters from inmates of soldiers' homes, anonymous letters complaining of ill treatment and irregularities in the homes. All of these matters have been carefully investigated and the complaints found to be without foundation."

The speaker told difficulties encountered in securing a round trip rate of one fare to the Salt Lake encampment saying:

"All roads west of Chicago have given us a rate of one fare for the round trip, and east of Chicago have stubbornly refused to do better than a rate of one and one-half fare to Chicago and St. Louis. This is not as good a rate as these associations are giving to summer tourists for the Yukon-Seaside exposition, but we cannot avail ourselves of the summer tourist rate unless we purchase tickets through to Seattle.

"You will observe comrades, that I have labored earnestly and zealously with the great railroad corporations in the interest of the Grand Army of the Republic for a reasonable rate to and from our encampment, for the men who from '61 to '65 bore the brunt of battle and saved the Union—one and indivisible—and that the great railroad corporations which girdle it with their tracks have no feeling of patriotism and make no concessions to the comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic."

Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by all druggists.

Will Enforce Automobile Ordinance

An automobile seeking to back from the Claire hotel into Don Gaspar avenue, which is very narrow at that place, yesterday afternoon almost ran down a carriage occupied by a woman.
On account of the constant disregard of chauffeurs in exceeding the speed limit and in being careless and thus endangering life, the city authorities have decided to make arrests in the future. It is also likely that an ordinance will be passed closing San Francisco street at its narrowest portion and Don Gaspar avenue between San Francisco street and Water street to automobiles.

Curry County and Clovis Sell Bonds

of Curry county, has sold bonds to ritorial legislature, and for the purpose of building a court house and county jail. The bonds bear 5 per cent and are optional in 20 years, and due in 30 years. The Clovis school board has sold $18,000 bonds to the Commerce Trust Company of Kansas City, at a premium of $500.

The bonds were sold for the purpose of erecting a new high school building, and the bonds are 5 per cent ten year optional.

MAX GARDNER ATTEMPTS TO ESCAPE

Timely Arrival of Deputy Sheriff Baca Prevents Prisoner From Being Successful.

Late yesterday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Seferino Baca heard a very suspicious noise coming from the vicinity of the cell room of the jail.
Opening the door and entering, he found Max Gardner, who is being held on an embezzlement charge, crouching in a suspicious manner in one of the cells. His curiosity aroused, Baca examined the windows of the jail and soon discovered that the bars on one of the rear windows had been filed nearly in two. A little more work and an opening for escape would have been easily completed.
Baca began searching the prisoner
but finding nothing examined the bed clothing. Between the blankets he discovered a file and two steel knives.
The latter were badly nicked and apparently had been put to hard usage.
How Gardner gained possession of the instruments is a mystery though it is thought that some friend on the outside managed to get them to him.
Heretofore Gardner has been allowed the freedom of the entire cell room as has been the custom right along, but because of the attempted escape he will be confined every night in a cell by himself and securely locked in.

SENT THREATEN- ING LETTERS

Ben Tucker Tried This Morning and Bound Over to the Grand Jury.

This morning before Justice of the Peace Jose Maria Garcia, a hearing was given Ben Tucker who was recently arrested for sending threatening letters to an Indian girl named Ella, in the employ of J. W. Akers.
In the absence of District Attorney E. C. Abbott, E. P. Davies acted as prosecutor while Colonel George W.
Prichard represented the defendant.
The prisoner was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $1,000.

Some time ago Tucker was arrested on the charge of receiving stolen money from the girl, he having threatened her and thus compelled her to secure money and jewelry for him. He was tried and bound over in the sum of $500 but again he began intimidating the girl, this time threatening her life.

EXPENSIVE SPECIAL SESSION.

Washington, Aug. 12.—It is estimated that the extraordinary session of Congress cost the American people $500,000. The chief item is millions to Senators and Congressmen which amounts to $154,000 for the House and $47,000 for the Senate.

their supply it is necessary to keep in the soil considerably larger quantities of moisture which must be held there against losses by evaporation and percolation. And in order that this amount may be supplied to the soil, much larger quantities must be diverted from streams to supply evaporation and seepage losses in transit.
Many farmers use much more water than is necessary through mistaken ideas as to the quantities required, while careless and wasteful use is responsible for much loss.

"Seepage, evaporation, excessive use, and waste are the great sources of loss, and while this loss is regrettable, there is hope in the fact that most of it is preventable. It will never be possible to limit use to the quantity consumed by growing crops, but experiments and the experience of farmers in regions where water is scarce and high-priced have shown that by improved methods of applying water and by intensive cultivation
after irrigation the larger part of evaporation losses can be eliminated; that by careful study of his soil and subsoil conditions, the farmer can apply water in such quantities and at such intervals of time that little will be lost by percolation beyond the reach of plant roots.

"Seepage losses from ditches can be eliminated, but not always within the limits of cost allowed by the value of the crops grown, but they can be checked to a large extent without prohibitive expense. Excessive use under the belief of necessity can be stopped by demonstrating that equally large crops can be grown with less water;
while wasteful use must be stopped by such changes in our laws and ditch regulations as will make the cost of water to the farmer depend more largely upon the quantity used. All these things we are trying to bring about, in the belief that in no other way can so much be done to extend the agricultural development of the arid regions.

"As the value of water for use in irrigation increases, increased expenditures for developing water will be justified, but a large part of the losses mentioned can be saved with little or no expense. Estimates of the possible saving vary, but it seems conservative to place it at one-half the water now diverted from streams, making possible a doubling of the irrigated area.

"Our work along the third line—
the use of power in irrigation—relates primarily to pumping. In this field, as in the others, we are working along two lines: Studies of present practice and the supplying of practical information; and technical studies for the purpose of working out improvements in pumping machinery.

"While our work is carried on principally in the arid region, where irrigation is necessary to the growing of crops, it is not confined to that section. The great plains are being settled rapidly by farmers who are growing crops without irrigation, and it is probable that a large percentage of these farmers will succeed. But there will be abnormally dry seasons when which can be grown without irrigation is very limited. The irrigation of a small part of each dry farm would make it possible to grow trees, fruits and vegetables, and in dry years would provide feed for work animals, thus helping to tide over the lean years, which might otherwise ruin
the settlers. We are conducting experiments and collecting data to determine the possibilities of this type of irrigation, where water must be pumped from wells or secured by storing local run-off.

"In the humid parts of Washington,
Oregon and California the dry summers have led to the carrying on of experiments to determine the methods of irrigation best suited to their necessities, and the methods and cost of securing water supplies. The results secured in the Willamette valley, Oregon, have amply justified our work
in that field."

Doctor True said that all but four of the arid states and territories—California, Washington, Montana and Arizona—have adopted codes relating to the use of water. He said this satisfactory legislation has led to a lessening of the department's work in the studies of law affecting irrigation, although study of the operations of the laws from the point of view of the influence upon the use of water was still being continued.

LARGEST CORPORATION FEE IN COLORADO THIS YEAR.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 12.—The largest fee paid to the secretary of state during the present administration for the filing of incorporation papers was paid yesterday by the Victor American Fuel Company, which incorporated for $7,500,000. The fee amounted to $2-
265. The company acquired the property of two other companies and it is the largest coal concern producing coal for the market west of the Missouri river. Several million dollars will eventually be spent in opening new mines and developing those now in operation in the Trinidad and Canon City districts and in New Mexico.
