THE PHILIPPINE WAR

Occasional Brushes with the Enemy
the Only Amusement American Troops Have Now.

FILIPINOS IN SORE STRAITS

Private Wiltner, K Troop, 4th Cavalry, Wounded in the Arm in Exchange of Volleys—Cruiser Buffalo Dismounts Native Battery.

Manila, Feb. 16, 3:30 p. m.—A large body of the enemy, presumably recon-noitering, was discovered on the right of Brigadier General King's position, near San Pedro Macati, this morning. The entire brigade turned out, and after an exchange of volleys the rebels retreated into the jungles and disappeared.

ONE TROOPER WOUNDED.
11:20 a. m.—Since the American line reached the natural defenses of Manila, no further advance has been made and the troops are encamped along that line, many places being temporarily entrenched. Occasional brushes with small bodies of the enemy by scouting parties have been the only cause of excitement.
Troops K and I, of the 4th Cavalry encountered the enemy's scouts yesterday near Paranaque, and exchanged a few volleys with them. During the firing Trooper Wiltner, of K troop, was wounded in the right arm. The cruiser Buffalo fired four small shells at a party of the enemy, which the cruiser's searchlight showed to be mounting a battery
near Paranaque, and exchanged a few volleys with them. The enemy made no reply, and withdrew the guns to Paranaque.

FILIPINOS IN SORE STRAITS.
The steamers Brutus and Romulus have arrived from Iloilo, but brought no later news, except that the Americans were clearing all vessels and assuming control of the port. The rebels had all public records burned before vacating the town. It is rumored that the Phi-lipinos in the interior are in sore straits and quarrelling among themselves, but it is impossible to confirm the reports, as all communication is cut off.

FRENCH PRESIDENT DEAD.

Paris, Feb. 16.—M. Felix Faure, president of the republic of France, died at 10 o'clock tonight after an illness of only three hours.

MCKINLEY IN BOSTON.

He is Received by Governor Wolcott and Staff and Escorted to a Hotel—Crowds
Give the Visitors a Lively Reception.

Boston, Feb. 16.—President McKinley with four members of his cabinet and associates, arrived in Boston at 10:02 o'clock today. They came as guests of the House Market Club, a national organization of Republicans. A reception will precede the banquet in Mechanics Hall this evening. It seemed as if all Boston had turned out to give President McKinley and party welcome. The throng filled the streets around the station where the carriages were to bear the president to hotel Touraine. Governor Wolcott and military staff were at the station to meet the president, and as soon as the introduction and greetings were concluded, the carriages were entered, and under escort of the first battalion of cavalry, the visitors started for the hotel. As the procession passed, cheer upon cheer was given by the crowd, and upon all sides there were manifestations of cordial welcome.

Several times during the parade and amid a general cheering, yells of derision and hisses were heard for Secretary Alger. This was particularly noticeable at the corner of Park and Beacon streets. "What's the matter with Alger?" was shouted. "Yah, Yah, Yah, Beef, Beef!" jeered the crowd. It took Alger some time to grasp the situation. At last, however, he caught the drift of the shouting and his gracious smiles stiffened into a look of im-passiveness. At the corner of Beacon and Charles street, where a group of young militia men, and when Secretary Alger's carriage was abreast of them, they shouted, "Three cheers for General Miles."

MORE SNOW IN THE EAST.

Great Fears Along the Potomac River Because of Ice Gorges and High Water Which Threaten to Do Much Damage.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 16.—Heavy snow began falling here at noon today, and advices from the surrounding towns indicate it is general in this section of the state. The fall is as great as that of Sunday and Monday, and if it continues during the night, there are fears that the railroads in this neighborhood will be again completely blocked. Great apprehension is felt of a flood in upper Potomac river because of ice gorges and high water.

Losses Covered by Fire.

Philadelphia, Feb. 16.—A fire this morning at 211 to 215 Church street, caused a loss of the building and its contents valued at $60,000. E. K. Plum-ley's, paper box manufacturer, losses are $30,000; losses covered by insurance.

Strike at Panama Ended.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The department of state has been informed by cable from Consul Gudgeon at Panama, that a compromise has been effected with the strikers at Colon and work has been resumed. Recent advices said the situation was critical.

themselves as not discouraged by the outlook.

ics in the Navy Yards and

ARMY REORGANIZATION

Democrats Want to Keep the Army Down to 62,000 Men, with 35,000 Additional from Islanders in New Possessions.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Soon after the senate convened today, the house joint resolution authorizing the secretary of the navy to pay certain laborers, workmen and mechanics in the United States navy yards and naval stations, 50 per cent additional for work performed in excess of eight hours per diem, was called up. Senator Burrows (Mich.) who had measure in charge, if it did, it might bankrupt some contractors. Senator Burrows explained that it applied only to regular employees in the naval establishment. The measure was adopted.
The military academy appropriation bill passed without debate, and consideration of the naval personnel bill was begun. Senator Cockrell (Mo.) made a statement for the Democrats in the military affairs committee, criticizing the army bill and presenting the counter proposition of the Democrats. The proposition of the Democratic members of the military committee is to continue the present standing army of the United States with a minimum of 62,000 men for two years, and an enlistment of the natives of the several islands to the number of 5,000 men.

Senator Morgan (Ala.) offered the Nicaraguan canal bill as an amendment to the river and harbor bill, and had it referred to the committee on commerce now considering that measure. The bill offered by Senator Morgan is substantially the Hepburn bill. Senator Hawley (Conn.) reported the army reorganization bill to the senate and stated the necessity of passing the bill very soon.

THE HOUSE.

In the house today, the senate amendments on the agricultural bill were not concurred in, and the bill was sent to the conference committee. Messrs.
Wadsworth (Rep. N. Y.), Warner (Rep.
Ill.), and Williams (Dem. Miss.), are the conferees. Without further preliminary business, the house went into committee of the whole and resumed consideration of the sundry civil bill.

A point of order was made by Mr.
Wheeler (Dem. Kentucky) that the $20,000,000 appropriation to pay Spain for the Philippines, was obnoxious to rule 21, the same as was the Nicaraguan canal project. In explanation of his point of order, Mr. Wheeler said the Spanish Cortes might refuse to ratify treaty, and it could not become a law until both parties had ratified it. He opposed the appropriation on principle, and intended to take advantage of every technicality. The point of order was sustained.

His Bitter Attitude Toward the Craft
—He Is Disfigured for Life.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 16.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Pana, Ill., says: Editor William S. Childress, of the Ben-con Light, and correspondent of St.
Louis and Chicago papers, was assaulted injuries are very serious, and if he survives he will be disfigured for life. It is feared more trouble will follow tonight.

tary in Pana on provost duty.

PROPOSED PALACE AVENUE SEWER.

Number of Feet Necessary to Carry Sewage
Out of the City—Estimated Cost—Time Necessary to Complete the Work.

Yesterday morning persons interested in the construction of a sewer along Palace avenue, made measurements of the distance considered necessary to drain the residences on the avenue, and it was found that from a point opposite the Gladders' residence to the arroya back of the Denver & Rio Grande round house, was 5,429 feet, or a little over one mile. Based on this measurement, it is estimated that a sewer of sufficient carrying capacity to supply the needs of the avenue and contiguous streets will cost $2,700.

The necessity of a sewer along Palace avenue is acknowledged by every property owner on that popular residence thoroughfare, and the city council should take steps at once to provide for its construction. The experience of the past year, of having sewage running along the surface has been enough to satisfy any one that radical measures are necessary to avert an epidemic of sickness.
In fact some of the residents along the avenue have openly expressed their determination of leaving the city unless something is done to abate the nuisance which has existed for many months past.
There are two ways in which the necessary funds for constructing the sewer can be raised: One by assessing the property abutting on the street, the other by popular subscription from the property owners along the route of the proposed sewer. Which will be the better method is a matter to be determined by the city council, and that body undoubtedly has the right to enforce the former even to the extent of selling property in order to collect the cost of the improvement.

The sewer will have to be constructed at the earliest possible moment, or so soon as the frost is out of the ground, and the city council should arrange to carry out the project at once. It is said by those who are posted on such matters that the sewer can be placed in readiness for use within two weeks, after the work begins.

One hundred thousand supplies of good or bad blood to your brain.

Which is it?
If bad, impure blood, then your brain aches. You are troubled

You are as tired in the morning as at night. You have no nerve power. Your food does you but little good.

Stimulants, tonics, headache

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 16.

The refunding of the territorial and municipal debts of New Mexico into 4 per cent bonds means a material decrease in taxation. The Bureau refunding bill should be passed. It cannot do any harm if passed, and may do a great deal of good.

The passage of the Duncan revenue law will bring about better assessment and a more thorough and better collection of taxes. These are greatly needed in the territory. The 33rd legislative assembly will do itself proud by the passage of the Duncan revenue bill.

Congressman Cummings of New York would have amended the army bill, providing that federal troops must not be used to repress disorders in any state except upon application of the state authorities. This was promptly and properly defeated. In view of the Chicago riots, where the state authorities lost their heads, and were unable to use the state troops to effective purpose, it is just as well that Mr. Cummings' amendment was lost. But for the presence of the regulars on that occasion, the city of Chicago would have been wrecked and sacked.

The much talked of court of inquiry in the Miles-Eagan beef scandal has been ordered by the president, who seems determined to probe the matter to the bottom; and as General Miles is satisfied with the composition of the court, it is fair to presume that "the true facts in the case" will be brought out shortly for the people to judge from. After this has been done, steps should be taken to punish the perpetrators of the outrages, after which "for goodness sake" let the issue be buried so deep that its pestiferous odor will no longer nauseate the nostrils of a very, very weary and tired American people.

The lessons taught by the mistakes in the earlier weeks of the Cuban campaign, as to the quick and satisfactory handling of troops, and to equally satisfactory provision and dispatches of supplies and equipment, have evidently been learned, for the manner in which troops and supplies are now being handled is a credit to the nation. No chances are being taken in any department, situations are carefully studied out in advance and adequate preparations made to meet all emergencies, while sanitary conditions are so carefully looked after, that recently there was not a death for two whole days among the thousands of United States troops in Cuba. The conduct of the military affairs in Manila too, is admirable in hand, and it is noted that when an emergency arises, it is promptly met.

The observing reader can not fail to note the difference between the long drawn out, desultory and profitless struggle between the Spaniards and the Filipinos, and the sharp, decisive and satisfactory fighting between the American troops and the Filipinos. Notwithstanding the lackadaisical, shiftless, thriftless manner of Spanish methods of warfare, the Filipinos believe that all foreigners fought very much like the Spaniard. The Filipino has learned that there is a large and healthy difference between American and Spanish methods, in warfare as in other things, and after Malolos is captured, and the native forces cleaned out of the last ditch, the actual condition of things will begin to dawn upon the native mind, and then there will be a suitable opportunity to permanently adjust difficulties.

Eastern anti-ritualistic circles have been more or less disturbed by the appearance of several Methodist church choirs in New York and Chicago clad in surplices, and some well meaning but not very discriminating church people have taken alarm, and expressed fears of the advent of "the frippery of ritualism." However, there is no particular need of distress in this direction. The surplices are only harmless Oxford gowns and "mortar boards," and the uniformity produced in this attire is pleasing, and by no means objectionable. By the wearing of "mortar boards," that is the Oxford scholastic skull cap with flat board and tassel, the immense flower garden hats and other forms of millinery nightgowns and scarves are set aside, and more attention will hereafter be given by the congregations to the actual worth of vocal attainment instead of to the numerous styles of atrocious head gear that has for so long been an abomination in organ lofts.

The New Mexican is in favor of the right kind of economy in territorial institutions, in salaries and in all miscellaneous expenses of the commonwealth.

By the right kind of economy, however, is not meant the cutting down of appropriations to cripple the territorial business. With the principle of economy fairly applied, with an honest and fair assessment, levy and collection of taxes, there will be found no trouble in making both ends, as far as territorial expenses are concerned, meet. The trouble heretofore has been that, while appropriations have been made to meet the necessary expenses of the territory, collections have fallen so far short that every year there has been a deficit of from 35 to 40 per cent. The 33rd legislative assembly is now called upon to meet the large deficits which have been accumulating for the past five years. This is one of the hard problems of the situation, but which the New Mexican believes will be met and solved at the present session.

Greaver Cleveland, Andrew Carnegie and Wm. Jennings Bryan are engaged in the exhausting labor of writing letters to the daily papers in which they oppose the policy of expansion, and the Mugwump press of the country is taking the incident as a sufficient cause to shout, "Party lines are disappearing." Just why party lines are fading from the political view of the country because three great has-beens are opposing the administration is somewhat difficult to understand. Cleveland and Bryan have always posed as simon pure Democrats, while Carnegie floundered into the Democratic camp the moment the possibility of keen competition in the iron and steel business was assured. So long as men think for themselves, so long will parties exist, and all the Cleveland-Carnegie-Bryan soreheads in the country can not make Mugwumps out of men who have an opinion and do not fear to express it.

Recent developments in the Philippines have brought out clearly that Aguinaldo is more of a blackmailer than a patriot. He is a patriot for revenue only. The Spanish government gave him $400,000 in Mexican money to get out of the country and not return. Aguinaldo took the money and hid him to Hongkong where he deposited the money in his own name; and the faith he has kept with the Spaniards since then is what has been described in Roman history as Punica Fides. Aguinaldo is out strictly for money and also for glory, but principally the former. He is shrewd, sharp and unprincipled, and has some education, but not enough to stand him in very much stead when it comes to dealing with Americans. He will deceive not one man of intelligence in casting broadcast such assertions as that it was the Americans who began the recent island war, and that the Spaniards are butchering innocent natives and shooting them unchallenged on the streets of Manila. If the wily Filipino can escape to Hongkong and get his cash, he would do well to leave for Europe, and keep away from the islands hereafter.

On Courses of Study.

The courses of study in the Chicago public schools have been subjected to a healthful overhauling under the direction of the new superintendent, ex-President E. Benjamin Andrews of Brown University. There are some courses of study in higher, the collegiate institutions, that might also be overhauled, and established on an entirely new basis. The study of the modern languages is one, a shining instance in fact. It has for years been the custom to start students in so-called introduction books, beginning with the alphabet, a few primary grammatical rules, then exercises, a reader, and next the classics of the language. It is a rush and hurry process, and the thoroughness that the situation demands, and the highest and most desirable type of which is noted in the German schools, is honored more in the breach than in the observance. The result is that French and German classics are a perpetual stumbling block, and in many cases only by liberal and surreptitious use of translations, can the student manage to pull through recitations and examinations, only to speedily forget all that he has learned in a short time after leaving college.

The French, Spanish and particularly the German classics are no child's play. The thoughts of writers like Goethe and Schiller, even in the English text, require a high order of intelligence to comprehend; and when expressed in the most polished German ever written, in an idiom and forms of expression the mastery of which requires continued and persistent study of years, it is reasonable to expect college students with only a "rush and brouhaha" acquaintance with the German tongue and its countless difficulties, to gain a real insight into the thoughts of some of the most profound minds the educated German nation ever produced.

If Goethe and Schiller and the great continental writers are to be studied in the undergraduate departments of our colleges, it would be well to have them studied in English, and even then the student will find he has all he can well wrestle with. If German or French or Spanish is to be taught, let it be with a view to genuine acquisition of those languages, a talking acquaintance, with commercial use in prospect. Then a student will have some incentive to work for he will have something of practical value in view. The sooner professors of the higher institutions realize that many of the present methods in imparting instructions are more injurious than wise, and adapt themselves to more sensible methods of procedure, the sooner will students be placed where they can feel that they are accomplishing something and not wasting their time over trying in vain to surmount impossibilities.

BIG COPPER STRIKE

Property Belongs to a New York Syndicate—Development Work Being Pushed.

VALUES EXCEED $200 A TON

Description of the Mines—One Body Fully Six Feet in Width—Concentrating Plant to Be Erected at Once.

The New Mexican's special correspondent from Taos has secured the full particulars of the big Copper Hill strike and subsequent developments on the claim. The period covered embraces nearly a year of development work and chronicles two important mineral discoveries in the property.

Last June Dr. Peter M. Wise, accompanied by his expert, J. K. Turner, came out from New York for the purpose of examining the copper property owned by Anderson brothers on Copper Hill, seven miles from Embudo on the Rio Grande railway.

The examination of the mine and tests of the ore were satisfactory to Mr. Wise and he purchased the property for a syndicate of New York and Washington capitalists. The negotiations were conducted by O. B. Steen, a Taos mining operator. Mr. Steen first called the attention of the eastern men to the prospective value of the property.

After consummating the deal, the syndicate placed Mr. Turner in charge as manager, and a force of men was set to work developing the mine. Within 60 days the first strike was made at a depth of about 100 feet, on the Champion claim. The vein when cross cut showed a five foot body of quartz between walls that gave average values of better than $35 per ton. A level was run on the ore body a distance of 100 feet showing that the value bearing cluze was continuous. Several cars of ore were taken out while doing the assessment work and shipped to the smelters.

Meanwhile a force of men has been working the Oxide King, an adjoining claim, and at a depth of 200 feet a cross-cut was driven to the vein and a drift run in the ore a distance of 100 feet.

Later a cross-cut was started from both shafts to the east vein, which runs parallel with the vein already opened. The vein had been previously opened on the surface by a series of open cuts and shallow workings. Last week the vein was cut from the Champion shaft and will probably be reached from the Oxide King shaft this week. The Champion cross-cut shows the richest ore yet encountered in the property. The ore body is fully six feet wide, the pay streak showing solid copper glance running over $200 per ton. The whole vein at this point will average over $40 per ton. When the vein is cut from the other shaft it will make the best showing in the territory, quantity and value considered.

An underground survey is now being made in the property and the manager is arranging to put in air drills and push work on an extensive scale. A concentrating plant will be erected to handle the low grade ores, and the Rio Grande river, two miles distant, will furnish the power for all the machinery. A tramway, operated by electricity, will convey the ore from the mine to the mill. The pay roll at the mine has averaged about $2,000 per month, and the concern is today the largest mining enterprise in northern New Mexico.

The Copper Hill Mining Company has been organized with a capital stock of $1,000,000, and it numbers among its stockholders several gentlemen of national fame. The board of directors of the company is composed of the following named gentlemen: Hon. Ernest G. Timme, auditor of the state department, Washington; Hon. George D. Melkjohn, assistant secretary of war, Washington; Simon L. Phillips, president South American Mahogany company, New York; Dr. Peter M. Wise, president of the state commission in lunacy, New York; Floyd B. Wilson, president South American syndicate, New York; Charles T. Thayer, manager United States Express company, New York; and J. K. Turner, M. E., Embudo, New Mexico.

The success of the Copper Hill Mining Company means more money for the development of the great mineral resources of northern New Mexico. Colonel Marcus P. Miller, of the 3d artillery, in command of the American forces before Iloilo, has been rewarded for the exceptionally able manner in which he handled his wing of the campaign by just promotion to a brigadier's rank in the regular army. He will be widely congratulated. It may be noted that the artillery arm of the service has been honored more, since the beginning of the Spanish war, than previously, by promotions of its colonels to brigadier generals. In previous years the infantry arm has had the call, and latterly the cavalry arm was specially remembered. In the last Army Register only one general appeared from the artillery, General Graham, from the colonelcy of the 5th regiment. But of late there have been a number of advancements in the artillery, and captains and lieutenants who have been stationary for years are now forging ahead.

The English press is pointing out the fact that while American success in the Philippines can not be disputed, yet, this country must be prepared for a series of tollsome campaigns over the gentleman Filipino is conquered. And in this campaign the climate and disease are pretty sure to aid the natives. However, the authorities at Washington profess entire confidence in the ability of Admiral Dewey and General Otis to be ready for any emergency that may appear. The first requisite in the island is a secure and stable government, and that Aguinaldo is able to provide this is now shown to be a fallacy. After the United States forces have permanently established law and order, this country will then have a chance to give the Filipinos an opportunity to make up their minds what sort of government they would like, and what relations they would prefer to assume with the United States. No reason has yet been made apparent why such a question should be referred to Aguinaldo for settlement.

RESOLUTIONS OF REFUTATION

Citizens of Taos Protest Against Sensational Publications About So-Called Race Troubles.

COUNTY HAS GOOD RECORD

Citizens Are Law-Abiding and Hospitable—Cause of the Death of Sheriff Trujillo Set Forth—Signed by Prominent Men.

The citizens of Taos county are circulating the following resolutions for the purpose of refuting the dispatches of a sensational character sent out a short time ago by various business men of that place, relative to the race riots there:

Whereas, the people of Taos county see that sensational articles appear almost daily in the eastern press, and also in territorial papers, sent out from our own town and other points in the territory by unknown and corrupted persons, in which articles the honor of the Mexican people of this county has been rudely attacked as being agitators and revolutionists;

And, whereas, that all has been published is known and it can be proved to be a swarm of lies written by the pen of some person without scruple, reputation or responsibility that only places himself by the scandalous productions of his pen against innocent, peaceful and hospitable people;

Therefore be it resolved by the law-abiding citizens, and business men of the county of Taos assembled in public meeting that we emphatically protest against the author or authors of all and each of the articles that referred to the disturbances and hatred among races, and we request all sensible men that before believing the said articles they shall ask information from some business man considered to be a respectable and honest citizen, who has at heart the welfare of this county and knows the noble feelings of its inhabitants irrespective of race, religion or political belief; and be it further

Resolved, That although we recognize that some wrongs have occurred in our county, originated by the cause of the influence of bad liquor, we challenge any other county of this or any other territory or state to show a cleaner record in regard to crimes and murders. And resting in that confidence and security by the same articles that they are urging the passage of an act creating a body of mounted police, referring to the county of Taos as one of the parts where it is most particularly needed, we, the law abiding citizens, do emphatically protest against such measure, of creating a mounted police, because we believe that it is not necessary, especially in this part of the territory. We besides emphatically deny the discharging of shots between opposing parties on the night of the 25th day of January, and we also deny that the Americans are, or have determined to move their families from this place for fear of revolution. Be it further

Resolved, that we recognize the origin of this question to be due to the death of the sheriff, Luciano Trujillo, but we deny and sustain that said event was not derived from hatred of races, but due to the influence of liquor; and with all that we contemplate this county as one of the most peaceful counties; the records show not more than ten cases of murder in more than forty years of organization as a county of this territory.

Be it finally resolved that this resolutions be published in three or four newspapers of this territory, and one or two eastern newspapers and further request all the newspapers of the territory to copy or comment upon the same.

Witness my hand and seal at Taos, N. M., this 15th day of February, 1906.

Blood Poison.

Those who have never had Blood Poison can not know what a desperate condition it can produce. This terrible disease which the doctors are totally unable to cure, is communicated from one generation to another, inflicting its taint upon countless innocent ones.

Some years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. The little one was unequal to the struggle, and his life was yielded up to the fearful poison. For six long years I suffered untold misery. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot, and no language can express my feelings of despair. I had the best medical treatment. Several times I was operated on, but to no purpose. The mercury and each seemed to add fuel to the awful flame which was devouring me. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it, to try S. S. S. We got two bottles, and I felt hope again revive in my breast—hope for health and happiness again. I improved from the start, and a complete and perfect cure was the result. S. S. S. is the only blood remedy which cures the most desperate cases.

THE MAD GODS.
What would the mad gods do
For hate with me, I wonder?
Or what for love with you?
—Swinburne.

Percy Charrington was carried home on a hurdle with his neck broken one stormy afternoon in mid-November, having lost those who stopped to proffer assistance the best run of the season.
People shook their heads and remarked that young men from the grass counties who will try to fly the Essex fences can only expect broken necks as a matter of course. A fence that begins with a small ditch and a soft take off, continues with a big built up bank crowned by a stout staked hazel hedge and is concluded by a nine foot drop into a chasm like a ready made grave on the far side is not the place to fly, as any fool should have known and all Essex people do know.

So Percy Charrington went home on a hurdle—all of him that the startled soul left behind when it set forth on its separate journey from the bottom of that pitiless ditch, and Mrs. Charrington, five days later, sat in her widow's weeds in the lonely library and gazed across the sodden, gray garden with eyes that looked and saw not.

She had been a prisoner and now the shackles had fallen, and behold, she was free!
Two hours before the heavy Essex clay fell dead and solemnly upon her husband's coffin; two hours ago she turned her face from the past and faced the future—the future that five days back had never existed for her. Wherefore she sat in her library and was calmly, steadfastly glad.

In having been wretched for three years she was spared the great misery she should rightly have felt at her loneliness. At moments such as these it is permitted one to be thankful that all women do not love their husbands.

Mary Charrington was a small woman, with a slight figure, a pale face, a little too long for its width, big gray eyes and a mass of old-fashioned, nut brown hair. She was four and twenty, and she had never been sincerely happy in the whole of her life.

Who were to cast a stone at her when we realize that she came nearer to happiness on the day of her husband's funeral than ever before?

It is sinful to wish a man dead, sinful to be glad when he dies, but when that man's person has constituted a barrier between oneself and all pleasure in life, if it be sinful to rejoice at that barrier's removing, then sin such rejoicing must be, and there's an end of it!

She had married him three years before for a diversity of reasons, not for the only one. She put all thought of that aside. She said "Yes" to Mr. Charrington because he was young and good looking and loved her and proposed to her, and because she was lonely and poor and tired of all her surroundings and wanted a strong arm between her and the world. Women marry for that last reason much oftener than they have any idea of.

Of course directly she was married she met the man who was to love, and forthwith loved him, and suffered as only these little, pale faced, gray eyed women can, because they have no strength to rise superior to their love, nor pride of passion ever to contemplate cutting the Gordian marriage knot. The man's name was Jack Collingwood, and he was a barrister, who, being a brave man, ran away and went off to try his luck at the Calcutta bar.

Fate was kind and let him succeed. Fate wanted to keep him away from Mrs. Charrington, and then one day it forgot and let Percy come to irremediable grief on hunting after which, having committed a blunder, it washed its hands of the whole affair and said, "What must be shall be!"

Fate is a fatalist.
She wrote to her lover; she told him she was free. It was not a long letter, but the whole of her life and her love and her hopes of heaven went out to Calcutta between two pages of foreign paper.
The answer came back—the answer she expected and longed and prayed for, and Mary Charrington made her preparations, set her affairs in order and bought her trousseau, walking in a golden world decked with purple and rose and silver—a world all fair to see, that had never before been sought but gray to her.
She sang about the big, empty house; she laughed whenever she caught her own eye in one of the many great mirrors. Once she took off the little white grape cap and threw it into the air. It was very bad taste on her part, but she was so happy that she had got beyond refinement.
So at the end of six months she booked her passage in the Kandahar to go out to him.
She said goodbye to all her friends. She smiled vaguely and irritatingly at their slightly stiff congratulations, and their half veiled hints as to the somewhat indecent haste displayed, when Percy's body was hardly cold in the tomb (According to circumstances some bodies retain an unnatural warmth for an extraordinary space of time).

Mary did not care, and that is the worst of a woman. She loves one man and kicks the rest of the world out of the door. The man forgets—the world remembers. That is the worst of a man and of the world.

She had spent four-and-twenty years in sitting by the weary wayside watching for happiness to come along the road. And now happiness had come in sight, in a distant clond of glory, and she straightway arose to meet it, without any mock modest delay. What did it matter? She was going away from them all for good.

A week before she sailed she received a letter from Jack Collingwood. It was longer than the last. It beat about the bush a good deal, but it left no doubt as to its ultimate intention.
When fate makes a mistake, it is apt to be spiteful. It lies low and watches its opportunity—the opportunity for bringing its victim to grief—and then it is itself again.

Fate made Mary's lover unfaithful to her, and the letter was to break it to her as gently as possible that he had married another woman—in haste, it seemed, lest she should come out and stop him—and that there was no necessity for her to go out to Calcutta.

Mary Charrington suffered torture for that one week. At the end of it she looked facts resolutely in the face and realized that, if she had nowhere to go, she had at the same time nowhere to stay—nowhere in the world.

And out of the world—her dead husband would be waiting for her. The passage was taken on the Kandahar. That was the detail which proved her salvation. A first class passage to India costs money. It would be a pity to waste it. There again was the woman—practical though the numbness of an appalling calamity, the loss of everything she valued. So the Kandahar sailed at the end of the week, and the name of Mrs. Percy Charrington figured in the passengers' list.

Fate sometimes repents and makes what amends it can. It made honorable amends to her. The third man in her life crossed her path and linked his lines with hers on board the Kandahar on the voyage out. He fell in love with her at once—love that came so soon as to run a neck and neck race with pity.

His name was Edgar Goring, and he was a man of action, not speech, and told her that he loved her and meant to marry her.

She laughed for several minutes more than was decorous or suitable when he told her this, but he understood. Then she grew quieter and gave him the history of the last three years simply and truthfully.

"I am quite without hope, and I don't see there is anything left to me. Mr. Goring," she said, "You are more than good, but I am an old woman. I have got through the best of my life. I cannot marry you feeling as I do."

"Oh, yes, you can," said Edgar Goring.
"Very well," she said, giving in from sheer inability to resist. "You must take the risk, and you have got a very, very bad bargain."

She gave him a limp, nerveless hand and looked into his resolute eyes with a watery little smile.
He kissed the hand, and then he kissed her.

"I take the risk," he said. "I mean to marry you and make you forget. I mean to make you love me."
He did all three things.

And this is a true story, so I will not apologize for its glaring improbabilities. Her husband is younger and nicer looking and richer than Percy Charrington, more charming and more successful than Jack Collingwood, and she loves him far better and knows it.

A woman is anointed with the oil of gladness above her fellows when fate bestows upon her a full love and a fuller knowledge of what love can be to her, bringing her, as it brought Mary Goring, through fire and water into the ultimate haven of a wealthy place.—Sketch.

The Mental Eye.
Thousands upon thousands of persons handle our silver dollar, but few happen to observe the lion's head which lies concealed in the representation of the familiar head of Liberty. Frequently even a careful examination fails to detect this hidden emblem of British rule; but, as before, when once found, it is quite obvious. For similar reasons it is a great aid in looking for an object to know what to look for; to be readily found, the object, though lost to sight, should be to memory clear.

Searching is a mental process similar to the matching of a piece of fabric in texture or color when one has forgotten the sample and must rely upon the remembrance of its appearance. If the recollection is clear and distinct, recognition takes place when the judgment decides that what the physical eye sees corresponds to the image in the mind's eye; with an indistinct mental image the recognition becomes doubtful or faulty.

For correct and accurate vision it is necessary to acquire an alert mental eye that observes all that is objectively visible, but does not permit the subjective to add to or modify what is really present.—Professor Joseph Jastrow in Popular Science Monthly.

There is no truer, kinder spirit than that which prompts a woman to dwell in the comfort and uplifting of her own sex—mental, moral or physical. We admire as heroines those women who make it a life's purpose to rescue or nurse or teach their unfortunate sisters, but equally admirable is that spirit which impels a woman who has found help and comfort in sickness to use all her influence in bringing the same relief to others.
"I shall be glad," writes Mrs. Benj. H. Fairbanks, of Rochester, Franklin Co., N. Y., in a cordial letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., "if my testimony to the success of your treatment will help to induce other women, troubled with the diseases peculiar to our sex, to write you, I am glad to be able to tell you of the great good your medicines have done me. I had been troubled with ulceration and its attendant aches and pains and nervousness several times; and finally made worse by a miscarriage. I wrote you. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Remedy and the Golden Medical Discovery for about three or four months and can truly say they cured me. I shall never cease to be grateful."

No woman afflicted by such agonizing and discouraging complaints need hesitate to write to Dr. Pierce. She may feel assured, no matter what her circumstances may be, of his respectful, earnest, fatherly sympathy and best professional efforts in her behalf. He stands among the most eminent practitioners of the century in this special field, and his advice will be given absolutely without charge.

THOUGHT BABY'S EAR WOULD DROP OFF

Body and Head Mass Bleeding Sores. Suffered Beyond Description. Physician Could Not Even Relieve. Kept Under Opium. Cured by CUTICURA.

My infant was one mass of bleeding sores which extended to his head, and we thought one of his ears would drop off. His sufferings were beyond description, and he had to be kept under opium. Our physician did everything for his relief; I became utterly discouraged. My attention was called to a CUTICURA testimonial. I bought the CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT. The result was simply marvelous. After the third day the opium was discontinued; he was free from pain and terrible itching, and in seven weeks was cured, with a clean, smooth, baby skin. J. C. HANCOCK, Clara, Ga.
