HE WANTS PEACE

Aguinaldo Hides in the Mountains and Sues Again for An Easy Surrender.

GETTING TOO HOT FOR HIM

The Inhabitants and the Filipino Cabinet Officers Are All Anxious for the Hostilities to Cease at Once.St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—A special to the Globe-Democrat from Manila says: It is reported here that Aguinaldo has decided to accept terms of peace offered by the American Philippine commission, and started his representatives from San Isidro for Manila. He is said to have reached this decision at a conference held at San Isidro the day before Lawton attacked the capital.NOTICE FROM GENERAL OTIS.
Washington, May 18.—The following cablegram was received this morning:
"Manila, May 18.—Representatives of the insurgent cabinet and Aguinaldo are in the mountains twelve miles north of San Isidro, which was abandoned on the 15th inst., and will send a commissioner to-morrow to seek terms of peace.
The majority of the force confronting MacArthur at San Fernando retired to Tarlac, tearing up two miles of railway.
Scouting parties and detachments are moving to-day in various directions.
Colonel Kobbie is with the Columbia on the Rio Grande. The great majority of the inhabitants of provinces over which the troops moved are anxious for peace, and are supported by members of the insurgent cabinet. The aspect of affairs at present is favorable." (Signed) "OTIS."The belief is expressed that the end of the insurrection is at hand. No doubt is expressed that the new commission, which is on its way to Manila, will be ready to accept favorable terms, which Otis has been ready to grant upon actual surrender and cessation of hostil-ties.AGUINALDO WEEPS.
Manila, May 18.—Two Spanish prisoners say that Aguinaldo lost prestige with the rebel army, which is rapidly dissolving into bands of pillagers. Generals Pilar and Luna are the only influential Filipinos continuing resistance. Buencamino, a prominent Filipino leader, is reported as saying that Aguinaldo sits indoors crying, and blames himself for the miserable condition of the country, and is afraid to surrender.A HOPEFUL VIEW.
Washington, May 18.—War department officials expect that within two months the Pacific transport fleet will be on the way home from Manila with the last of the volunteer regiments.Letter from the Polar Balloonist.
Leith, Scotland, May 18.—The Norwegian ship Viking, from Soydisfjord, brought a report of a letter written by Professor Andress, which was found in a bottle early in April near Rindang, on the northeast coast of Ireland. It was addressed to the "Polar Expedition at Goteberg." It bore Andress' own stamp, with a request that it be placed at the nearest post office. The letter was mailed, and is expected to reach its destination in a few days.The Masset Committee.
New York, May 18.—Police Commissioner Jacob Hess was to-day before the assembly committee empowered to investigate departments of the city government. Hess said it was the duty of the chief of police to secure evidence against pool-room keepers.Moss asked: "What do you conceive to be your duty with regard to the chief and other subordinate officials of the department?" Hess answered: "To immediately start an investigation."General Kirkland Dead.
New York, May 18.—General W. W.
Kirkland, father of Miss Odette Tyler, the actress, has been stricken with paralysis and removed to a private hospital. Kirkland has been division superintendent of the New York post office for more than twenty years. He went through West Point, and when the civil war broke out joined the forces of North Carolina, his native state. He was promoted brigadier general for gallantry.HIGH-CLASS TAILORING

PEACE CONFERENCE IN HAGUE.

It Is Formally Opened and Delegates Are Welcomed.The Hague, May 18.—The peace conference called by the czar of Russia opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon. M. de Beaufort, president of the council and minister of foreign affairs of the government of the Netherlands, delivered the inaugural address of welcome to the delegates.M. de Beaufort spoke of the high honor in the choice of The Hague as a meeting place, and extolled the noble initiative of the czar, saying this would be a red-letter day in the history of the century, expressing the hope that his majesty would be able to look back at the day as the most glorious of his life.
He concluded with calling attention to the allegorical group over the doorway of the hall, "Peace entering to close the temple of Janus," and said: "I trust this beautiful allegory will be an augury of your labors, and that after you have completed them you will be able to say that peace, whom art introduced into this hall, left it to spread its blessings among whole humanity."The delegates sent the following telegram to the czar: "The peace conference lays at the feet of your majesty its respectful congratulations upon the occasion of your birthday, and expresses its sincere desire to co-operate in the great and noble work in which your majesty has taken the generous initiative, and for which it begs you to accept its humble and profound gratitude."De Staale's proposal for sessions to be secret was adopted. The next session will be on Saturday.
M. de Staale, head of the Russian delegation, in assuming the presidency of the conference, expressed to M. de Beaufort sincere gratitude for the noble terms in which he referred to his country's majesty. De Staale said: "Though to the czar is due the initiative of the conference, we owe much to the Netherlands for inviting us to her capital.
It is a happy augury of success that we meet under the auspices of the young sovereign whose heart is open to everything great and generous. It is on the historic soil of the Netherlands that the greatest political problems have been discussed: here is the cradle of science and international law."CZAR PULL OF HOPE.
New York, May 18.—A dispatch to the Journal Advertiser from William T.
Stead, who is at The Hague in the interest of the peace conference, says:
"While I am not prepared directly anything the czar said to me during our interview a few days ago at St. Petersburg, it is permissible to tell America he is full of hope for results from the peace conference." So far from regarding the war with the United States as the inevitable destiny of Europe, the czar expressed the utmost confidence in American delegates to stand by those of Russia, England and France in securing the establishment of a practical system of international arbitration for all disputes turning on questions of law, interpretation of treaties or investigation of questions of fact."A MESSAGE TO THE CZAR.
Washington, May 18.—The following cablegram was sent by the president to the czar: "On this day of good omen I send my heartfelt congratulations on the opening of the conference at The Hague, which had its origin in the enlightened and generous initiative of your majesty."Charity or Justice.
Cincinnati, May 18.—At the national conference of the charities and correction societies to-day Mayor Jones, of Toledo, read a paper entitled "Charity or Justice, Which?" He said: "Inasmuch as private interests and private greed have failed to find a plan that will let all who are willing to work have the right to live, the time seems ripe for a collective effort to solve the problem.
Let us apply ourselves to the task of an inauguration perfecting a just social system conceived and carried out upon scientific lines and poverty, crime, vice and human misery will be things of the past and the prayer of our Lord will have been realized, and the kingdom of heaven will be set up here and his will be done on earth as in heaven."Worsted Yarn Trust.
Philadelphia, May 18.—The Record today says: "A worsted yarn trust, to be known as the United States Worsted Yarn Company, with a capital of $50-000,000, is practically assured. Nineteen worsted yarn spinners, including the largest spinners of the country, have agreed to enter the trust."Disorderly Soldiers.
Chattanooga, Tenn., May 18.—The 3d Kentucky soldiers, who were mustered out and who passed through this city en route home this morning, created terror by firing promiscuously from the car. At Chattanooga driving park they killed several blooded horses.Presbyterian Assembly.
Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—The opening services of the 11th annual assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States were held this morning. Nearly 700 commissioners were present. Rev. Dr. Wallace Redcliffe, of Washington, D. C., retiring moderator, delivered the opening sermon.Fire in a Steamer.
New York, May 18.—The transatlantic steamer Barbarossa, which sailed today for Southampton, turned about after passing Sandy Hook and steamed back to quarantine, signalling that there was fire in her forehold. The city fire boats and wrecking tugs are alongside the Barbarossa.Peffer Turns Republican.
Topeka, Kan., May 18.—Ex-United States Senator Peffer, one of the founders of the Populist party, has returned to the Republican fold.Senator Kyle Will Serve.
Washington, May 18.—Senator Kyle has withdrawn his resignation as chairman of the industrial commission.

Letter Carriers Strike.

Paris, May 18.—Owing to the refusal of the senate to vote for increased pay for postmen in a bill recently passed by the chamber of deputies, 3,000 postmen refused to work to-day. There were no mail deliveries this morning.The post office was besieged by business men who demanded letters. Sorting is being done by clerks placed at the service of the postal authorities by big commercial houses and banks. Mail will be delivered by soldiers, conducted by policemen. The cabinet to-day considered the strike, and decided to severely punish the leaders.In the chamber of deputies several members questioned the government about the post office strike, pointing out the inconvenience to Paris business circles.
Premier Dupuy said the government would yield to no such intimidation. A vote of confidence in the government was passed by 353 to 118, the socialist minority cheering for a general strike.The Strike at Buffalo.
Buffalo, N. Y., May 18.—The outlook to-day favors an early settlement of the dock troubles.The marine firemen at this port have gone out on a strike.Lamp Chimney Trust.
Pittsburg, Pa., May 18.—A combination of manufacturers of lamp chimneys, controlling absolutely the output of the United States, has been practically completed. The company will have a capital of $2,000,000, and will operate the five best chimney plants in the United States.A Politician's Offense.
Tacoma, Wash., May 18.—George Hazzard, a Democratic politician known all over the west, was arrested to-day on an indictment found by the United States court at Butte, Mont., for violating the civil service law by collecting funds on Indian reservations in the campaign of 1896. Hazzard was released on his own recognizance for appearance in Montana in June.Iron Advances.
Pittsburg, Pa., May 18.—Ten thousand tons of Bessemer pig iron was sold yesterday at $16 a ton, an advance of $1 over the price fixed by the association last week. The new price will stop all exportation of steel.

A Pennsylvania Villain Hanged.

Norristown, Pa., May 18.—James A.
Clemmer was hanged to-day for the murder of Mrs. Emma P. Kaiser, October 23, 1896. Mrs. Kaiser's life was insured for $10,000. She went riding with her husband. The horse was stopped by Clemmer, who shot Mrs. Kaiser to death while her husband held her.
Clemmer also fired a bullet through Kaiser's arm to give color to a tale of highwaymen which Kaiser spread to account for the death of his wife. Kaiser was arrested and committed suicide.A Transvaal Conference.
London, May 18.—The secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, announced to the house of commons to-day that a meeting between Sir Alfred Milner, governor of Cape Colony, and the high commissioner of South Africa and President Kruger had been arranged to take place May 30 at Bloemfontein, capital of the Orange Free State. President Kruger said he would gladly discuss every problem conducing to a good understanding between the Transvaal and Great Britain, provided the independence of the Transvaal is not impugned.It Hangs

THURSDAY, MAY 18.

El Paso will soon have a hanging, the first in seven years. There should be one per day if all the scoundrels who have fled to that city are to get their deserts.

The more progressive cities all over the world are prohibiting corner and street loafing. The loiterer is an eyesore to the energetic Anglo-Saxons or Teutons, and they are bound to get him out of sight if they can not get rid of him.

St. Louis politicians think they have started something new by having an anti-trust dinner, but further west politicians often find anti-trust dinners staring them in the face, where restaurant keepers are "onto their jobs."

From now until the national campaign in 1900 is a far cry, but the newspapers are already actively discussing the possible candidates for the presidency, and even in New Mexico wires are being laid for the offices to be filled in 1900 and 1901.

As a gag to politicians the referendum is proving very successful in the republic of Switzerland. Under it Switzerland's legislature last year introduced only sixty-five bills, while in the United States congress 24,000 bills were introduced.

It is not only the city council of Santa Fe that has trouble. The city council of Denver is involved in difficulties against which Santa Fe's municipal tangle is a mere plaything. The Denver council is fighting the electric tramway, and a judge threatens to jail the council.

Nicola Tesla, the wireless wizard, tells Denver reporters that he will send a wireless message from Pike's Peak to Paris. If he does it will be the first time he has done anything that he announced he would do. As a man of promises Tesla is following in the footsteps of the late lamented Keely.

Kansas has one man left who ought to be sent after Aguinaldo. When he shoots he is certain to hit. The other day he shot a dog, and in telling the owner how it was done, he shot the dog's owner. The coroner was receiving an explanation of the second occurrence when the shooter shot the coroner.

A new compulsory military law in Mexico is causing many natives to remove to the United States, it is said. The demand for railway laborers at high prices is probably the real cause, and the military law is quoted as the reason for moving in to this country, because the United States law forbids them to cross the line under contract to labor.

Santa Fe has a city library, but there are many people who should use it but do not. If the idlers on San Francisco street and around the plaza, deluged pavements with tobacco juice would go to reading they might become inoffensive citizens. The Woman's Board of Trade is doing a good work in maintaining the library, and it is not their fault that the humbler classes of people in Santa Fe do not read books and papers.

Denver intends to offer prizes for the most beautiful gardens in the city. Some philanthropist of Santa Fe should offer similar prizes for gardens. Competition in that matter would increase the beauty of the city. It is strange, having ample ground, plenty of water, a splendid climate and so many intelligent house owners, that there are only a few really beautiful gardens in Santa Fe.

The fear that the Rio Grande would have damaging floods this year was groundless. The river is low from head to mouth, and is expected to soon cease flowing in the southern part of the territory. The heavy snows on the mountains of Colorado are on ranges which drain to other streams than the Rio Grande. This is unfortunate for New Mexico, for she can better afford to have floods than a shortage of water in the river during the crop season.

Railway builders complain considerably of the proneness of native laborers to hurry to the nearest town to spend money after pay day, leaving contractors short of men. One contractor tried to improve on this state of things by bringing 100 Italians to Otero county from New Orleans at an expense of $1,700. They worked but a short time, and quit because they did not like sand storms and sighed for the malarial swamps of Louisiana.

Santa Fe is cursed with hundreds of mongrel curs, whose home is the street, and who, especially in summer, are a menace to the public. In many towns and cities an annual tax of $1 or $2 a year is collected on every dog, and such a tax, if impartially collected in Santa Fe, would net a handsome sum. It would be easier to collect than poll tax, for a threat to shoot the dog for which no tax had been paid would bring in many a dollar. And the treasury would be plus a dollar or the city minus a dog.

Mississippi legislators not so long ago passed a law fining every unmarried man over 30 years of age $500 unless he could produce affidavits that he had proposed to a woman. An Arkansas law fines a woman who has refused marriage and compels her to darn the socks for six months of the man who proposed to her. The New York senate at one time passed a law making it a penal offense for any one to serve oyster soup in a restaurant with less than thirteen oysters in it. Yet there are some persons mean enough to say that legislatures are fool assemblies, instituted to bamboozle people into the belief that the people are free and independent and are the lawmakers.

Thomas Jefferson was the author of the following: "The honest payment of our debts and sacred preservation of the public faith. No national creditor shall be forced to accept a depreciated currency, and the words of a public obligation shall be interpreted rather against ourselves, in order that no shadow of dishonor shall fall upon the nation. Honor, honesty and economy have been the watchwords of the Democracy; honor, honesty and economy in public and in private life: love of liberty and respect for universal manhood." Some of the disciples who take his name in vain should study up on his doctrine before they make more talks not in accord with the above.

Admirers of Admiral Dewey are proposing to build a palace in Washington for him, and to make him a present of $250,000. The admiral has no use for a palace in Washington, for he will have a floating palace always at his command; also a handsome salary and a pretty good fortune from prize money. He has no family, and no use for a fortune with which to bother. If he will get a wife the government will gladly take care of the widow after the admiral passes away. He should add to his glory by telling the generous people that he has had sufficient reward for his deed in winning promotion and the admiration of his countrymen, and if they wish to be rid of their money to apply it to a hospital service for marines.

The new chief justice in Samoa has raised the king's salary from $50 per month to $150. The German consul thought that $50 was all the ruler was worth. But the chief justice did right. The time has come when admirals sneer at barefooted kings. The poor fellows will have to wear clothes while the commission of three countries is there settling the future of the island kingdom. And when they depart the sovereign can never be sure that an American tourist steamer is not going to put in there, now that this country is taking an interest in the lands of the Pacific. And it would never do for the king seekers to find his kingship promulgating on the beach in a breechcloth. It is now the penalty of royalty to wear clothes.

Well, now, expansion must be abandoned. An El Paso proclamation of forty citizens calls for a mass meeting to denounce imperialism. Says the proclamation: "This republic can not continue to exist as a republic if its armies are used to fasten shackles upon a people straggling for liberty." Well, now, did anybody assert that it could? But who is fastening shackles on a people struggling for liberty?

Did not the American government within a year wage a holy war to free a people in the Atlantic, and is it likely that the same administration, the same people and the same troops are now seeking to shackle a race on the Pacific? Some people at El Paso lie awake nights to find some cause to kick against the government.

Some one had better take charge of Nikola Tesla before he goes to the summit of Pike's Peak to do mischief. According to his theory, at the height of about four miles electric power can be transmitted by the air, but dire results may follow when an electric force of a few million volts is discharged. He says it may excite powerful affinities in the air, nitrogen causing it to combine readily with the oxygen and other elements, and the action become so powerful as to ignite the atmosphere. If some morning the residents of this mundane sphere should be awakened by a crackling, awe-inspiring sound, should see lightning dart in every direction and columns of flames shooting from the sky to the earth, it will not be because the millennium is being ushered in, but because Nikola Tesla, the Hungarian, will be making a trivial experiment in wireless telegraphy on Pike's Peak.

The editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, in an interview at Chicago, said that moneyhounds come from the east and manhood from the west; that the east is the curb rein and the west is the spur, and that progress comes out of the west. That is flattering to the west, but not to the intelligence of the editor of the Brooklyn Eagle. It is about time that people understand that there is no difference whatever between the men and women of the east and those of the west except a difference of surroundings. They are mostly Americans, with the same ambitions, the same limitations and the same idiosyncrasies. There are as many millionaires on Cascade avenue, Colorado Springs, as there are on the same length of street in New York City, and there are the same number of fools, Aguinados, honest men and good women per thousand in California as there are in New York. All this talk of the Eagle editor that the people of the west are sentimental, while the people of the east are practical, is all nonsense. The United States is one nation, has one flag, and is inhabited by one people.

Unhappy Cubans.

The world moves and Cuba is moving with it so fast that the heads of the natives swim. Some of them, according to dispatches, threaten to fight the United States representatives there. The officers in command in Havana are drawing it pretty fine on the Cubans. Gambling, cock fighting and open shops on Sunday are forbidden. Now an order has been issued that laborers must not appear on the streets without a top shirt. Out in the boundless middle west, and even in the sunny shores of California, the laundry heathen may smoke his pipe of peace on his front doped in white pajamas, and everywhere in

ONLY ONE CURE FOR SCROFULA.

S. S. S. is the Only Remedy Equal to this Obstinate Disease.

There are dozens of remedies recommended for Scrofula, some of them no doubt being able to afford temporary relief, but S. S. S. is absolutely the only remedy which completely cures it. Scrofula is one of the most obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases, and is beyond the reach of the many so-called purifiers and tonics because something more than a mere tonic is required. S. S. S. is equal to any blood trouble, and never fails to cure Scrofula, because it goes down to the seat of the disease, thus permanently eliminating every trace of the taint.

The serious consequences to which Scrofula surely leads should impress upon those afflicted with it the vital importance of wasting no time upon treatment which can not possibly effect a cure. In many cases where the wrong treatment has been relied upon, complicated glandular swellings have resulted, for which the doctors insist that a dangerous surgical operation is necessary.

Mr. H. E. Thompson, of Milledgeville, Ga., writes: "A bad case of Scrofula broke out on the glands of my neck, which had to be lanced and caused me much suffering. I was treated for a long while, but the physicians were unable to cure me, and my condition was as bad as when I began their treatment. Many blood remedies were used, but without effect. Some one recommended S. S. S., and I began to improve as soon as I had taken a few bottles. Continuing the remedy, I was soon cured permanently, and have never had a sign of the disease to return." Swift's Specific—

—is the only remedy which can promptly reach and cure obstinate, deep-seated blood diseases. By relying upon it, and not experimenting with the various so-called tonics, etc., all sufferers from blood troubles can be promptly cured, instead of enduring years of suffering which gradually but surely undermines the constitution. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable, and never fails to cure Scrofula, Eczema, Cancer, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, Boils, Tetters, Pimples, Sores, Ulcers, etc. Insist upon S. S. S.; nothing can take its place. Books on blood and skin diseases will be mailed free to any address by the Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

THE TERRITORIAL PRESS.

SILLY JEALOUSY.

(Bland Herald.) The towns in New Mexico injure each other by senseless local jealousy. All will be benefited by harmonious action for the common good.

ONLY LIVELY RIVALRY.

(Albuquerque Citizen.) There is no ill-feeling between Las Vegas and Albuquerque over the contest to secure the rough riders' reunion. The people of these two cities are patriotic and enterprising, and each is anxious to show every possible courtesy to the men who won fame for themselves and reflected credit on the territory in the war with Spain.

PRESS COMMENTS.

NO PLAY ON MEMORIAL DAY.

(Los Angeles Times.) To indulge in public sports or pastimes on Memorial day is to show not only disrespect for the heroes—both dead and living—of our wars, but also an utter disregard for the tender feelings of the relatives and friends of the dead.

STUDENTS IN PATRIOTISM.

(Kansas City Star.) The best piece of news received from Porto Rico in some time is that 400 Porto Ricans are to be enlisted into the United States army to serve in the island. What the Porto Rican needs is an education, and the United States army will serve as an admirable school for him. Four hundred students in patriotism, order, discipline, and courage and military tactics should furnish the heaven for the whole lump of Porto Rico. Porto Ricans, left to themselves, will remain as they are to the end of time. As American soldiers they may become a variety of Americans.

THE GALICIAN INVASION.

(New York Commercial Advertiser.) The 50,000 Galicians on their way, or preparing to come, to this country are only an additional instance of the foolishness of governments in trying to stamp out local customs and racial differences in order to substitute a uniform dead level of national life. Austria can't manage these people in her own way, and oppression and famine are driving them to us. Immigration officers here report the Galicians to be undesirable, but a recent report on the Galician colony settled in the Canadian northwest is very favorable, declaring them to have disappointed the poor expectations formed in regard to them. Canadian evidence may lessen the repugnance felt at their coming here.

AGUINALDO THE ENSLAVES.

(Washington Post.) The Post has repeatedly assured these idolators of Aguinaldo and managers of President McKinley that it was their idol, their Washington, not the president, who was trying to enslave the Filipinos, and was responsible for all the lives and property sacrificed, all the wrongs inflicted on both sides in the work of restoring order in the Philippines. The Post has reason to believe that some of these maligners have known from the start that they were uttering calumnies. It believes this because it deems it impossible for them to have believed the villainous stuff which they have uttered. There are, in all great crises, a few men who intelligently observe are compelled to set down as either knaves or fools. Those Americans who have slandered the president and the army by circulating reports of worse than savage treatment of Filipinos, by order of the constituted authorities, are not fools.

The Heritage of Dewey's Descendants.

The document which the president of the United States recently framed, making Commodore Dewey and admiral, will be highly prized by his descendants. It will be passed down from generation to generation. It will become as famous and as valuable as the great stomach remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which may be passed from generation to generation. As a flesh-builder, a nerve tonic, a blood purifier and appetizer it is simply wonderful. If you feel tired in the morning, if there's a bad taste in your mouth, try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Be you man or woman, be your ailment constipation, indigestion, inactive liver or kidneys, the Bitters will cure you. All druggists sell it.

What Was Up.

Mrs. Finnegan—Young Clancy sent Mary Ann a five-dollar bouquet last night. I think there's something up. [Mr. Finnegan—So do I; I saw him coming out of a pawn shop yesterday. I think it's his overcoat.

An Epidemic of Whooping Cough.

Last winter during an epidemic of whooping cough my children contracted the disease, having severe coughing spells. We had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy very successfully for croup and naturally turned to it at that time and found it relieved the croup and effected a complete cure. JOHN E. CLIFFORD, Proprietor, Norwood House, Norwood, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by A. C. Ireland.

A FOLLOWER OF MEASLES.—In many instances a persistent cough follows an attack of measles. In speaking of the Mr. Walter B. Beel, editor of the Elkin (N. C.) Times, says: "Three weeks ago I had an attack of measles which left me with a bad cough. I took several doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the cough has entirely disappeared. I consider Chamberlain's medicines the best on the market." For sale by A. C. Ireland.

Apprehensions.

She—Anything that is worth winning is worth working for. He—Yes; but the question is, will your father thaw out, or will he wait to keep on working for you after I've won you? —Chicago News.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demonic enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

Reason for the Preference. Northern Visitor in Georgia—I see you raise hogs almost exclusively about here. Do you find they pay better than corn and potatoes? Native son—Wal, no; but yer see, stranger, hogs don't need hoeing! —Puck.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I was taken very badly with flux and procured a bottle of this remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease. J. W. LYNCH, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy is sold by A. C. Ireland.

Ups and Downs.

Are you willing to lay down your arms? asked the American. Of course, answered the Filipino chieftain. But I have to do it without managing to lay up a little money at the same time. —Washington Star.

FOR EITHER SEX. This remedy being injected directly to the seat of the disease of the Genito-Urinary Organs, requires no change of diet. Cure guaranteed in 1 to 3 days. Small plain package by mail, $1.00. Sold only by Ireland's Pharmacy, sole agent, Santa Fe, N. M.

MILL WATERS.

The mill wheel's dipping, dripping And turning all the day. What shall we do with the water That hourly runs away? It sings above the milldam Like any minstrel's girl. It shatters over the mill wheel In ruby and in broken pearl. The colored singing waters, Rosy and white they go From the trouble of the mill pond To the peace that lies below. The tears of men and women, The blood of the singing kind— All these are in the waters. Whence burst, but cannot bind. —Nora Hopper in Black and White.

DIPLOMACY.

"In the first place, Talbot, you know little or nothing of the—or—lady's connections," said Lord Merton, carefully adjusting his eyeglasses. "However charming the lady herself may be, you must allow that the prospect of welcoming a host of unknown relatives is rather alarming—estimable people, I am sure, to be classed among those thoroughly good, respectable persons who carry their praiseworthy independence to the extent of declining to submit to any trammels—even of an 'aunt.' Does the father of the young lady follow any particular profession or is she a gentleman at ease?"

"Mr. St. Denis has been very unfortunate," said his son shortly. "He is, I believe, at present somewhere on the continent."

"Something somewhere on the continent! Probably a billiard marker at Boulogne," Talbot thought. Talbot, that young man who had a billiard marker a congenial companion, let alone an agreeable father-in-law. And Mrs. St. Denis—she also on the continent?"

The young man flushed hotly. "I have never seen Mrs. St. Denis," he stammered. "She is too great an invalid to receive any one."

"So," murmured Lord Merton sweetly, "father unfortunate, mother an invalid—promising relations, upon my word. Miss St. Denis herself, I understand, is—our—our—"

"Yes," replied the son, starting moodily out of the window, "Dora is on the stage."

"You've a very nice place here, my boy," said his father after a pause. "Good collection of pictures too. That's a charming looking portrait by the door."

From his station at the window Talbot heard his father rise and cross the room to examine the portrait in question—a very pretty picture of a girl. Anxious to forestall the inevitable question, "Who is that?" the young man squared his shoulders, bit his lip and announced as coolly as he could: "That is Miss St. Denis."

"Ah!" remarked Lord Merton. And with a significant shrug he dropped his eyeglasses and resumed his seat. The young man pulled himself together. "My mind is made up, sir," he said. "I am determined—I trust, with your consent—to make Miss St. Denis my wife."

Too old a diplomat to affect anger or surprise, Lord Merton shifted his ground. "You have of course obtained the lady's consent?" he said.

But though disconcerted the young man answered as firmly as before. "Dora will not definitely accept my offer until she knows my people's views upon the subject. You can understand, sir, that I want the matter settled. Have I your consent or not?"

"It would be unjust both to the lady and to you to decide so important a question without consideration," his father answered gravely. "Besides, there is your mother to be consulted. Take my advice and leave things as they are until tomorrow. Come, my boy," he added as the young man showed no signs of yielding, "you haven't given either me or your mother much of your time lately, and we're all getting a younger. Leave things till tomorrow and come back with me to lunch."

Lord Merton was so rarely intimate, so very rarely affectionate, that Talbot seemed surprised, and even a little touched. Twenty-four hours was not long—he had been neglected of his mother lately—and nothing could change his determination to marry Dora—nothing!

"With the understanding that the matter is settled tomorrow, then, sir," he said. And Lord Merton, having gained his point, accepted the understanding, with reservation.

It had gone hard with better men than Talbot to outwit his father, so there was no occasion for the young man to call himself hard names when, the next morning, he found Lord Merton had left town on an urgent business connected with the coal mines on his estate. The annoying part was that, after all, it might really be the mines, in which case there was no knowing when he would come back. The young man could have kicked himself for not having clinched matters the day before.

Now, in matters of diplomacy, the truth is remarkably elastic, and therefore no one need feel surprised to learn that, in this case, the "mine" was simply one of information, as represented by a private inquiry agent. Very little time sufficed to place Lord Merton in possession of ample information concerning Miss St. Denis.

"Compromise!" he hailed the idea with delight. Why not invite this objectionable young person down to Maddox Hall—his country seat—say, for a month, the engagement to be made public at the end of that time, unless— Lord Merton smiled.

If the compromise thus effected had done nothing else, it had educated the young actress to a fuller appreciation of the amenities of life than she had before possessed. She had known but little brightness hitherto, and poverty, with its endless shifts and contrivances, has a narrowing influence on the possibilities of a woman's nature. She realized also for the first time that Talbot's affection for her entailed a certain amount of sacrifice on his part, and that she was by no means the only pretty or fascinating woman in his circle.

She revelled in the unwonted luxury and refinement of her surroundings. "I hate to be poor," she said to Lord Merton in a foolish burst of confidence. "I think it's worse than anything else." And Lord Merton smilingly agreed, and made himself more charming than ever, taking her over the estate and explaining at length the working of the coal mines, from which he derived his wealth. "Mercenary to the backbone," was his mental ejaculation. "Sell her soul for gold," he added, noticing the interest she displayed at the number of tons brought to the surface and the royalty due on each.

"My place is nothing, my dear young lady," he said, in reply to some envious remark. "You should see Sir Harry Tyler's. It's simply magnificent! In fact, Tyler could buy me up twice over. He's the 'coal king' of the country, you know; whereas I only own two miserable mines." And he shrugged his shoulders deprecatingly.

Perhaps it was the knowledge that the young man was the "coal king" that made Dora so gracious to him that afternoon. He had been more persistent in his attentions during her stay than Talbot quite liked, and Dora, in that spirit of coquetry which is part of the equipment of every actress, had by no means repelled him. That evening, the last night of her visit, she was more than usually radiant. Lady Merton had given a ball in her honor, and she had been a great success.

Tired with excitement, she readily accepted Sir Harry's invitation to "sit out" for a couple of dances. London, with its dreary streets and hideous cries, seemed very far away in the dimly lighted conservatory. In a flood of stauds, tulle, tulle, tulle, and rapid triumphs, unexpectably, how wonderfully lucky she was to be able to leave it all—forever! She was roused from her day dreams by her companion's protestations. In a flood of stauds, tulle, tulle, tulle, and rapid triumphs, unexpectably, how wonderfully lucky she was to be able to leave it all—forever! She was roused from her day dreams by her companion's protestations.

He was so earnest, so passionate, in his pleading that the girl felt sorry for him, vexed that he had not known of her engagement. She laid her hand upon his arm, and he turned to answer, Lord Merton's voice, grown old and thin—yet raised to an unwonted pitch—sounded from the hall.

"This true, my boy, the mines are flooded, and we are indeed—poor, not a penny!" She did not catch his son's reply. Stunned and dazed, she strove to realize what had happened. Gradually, out of the chaos and confusion of ideas, her mind grasped the fact that with her the choice of poverty, with its meagre surroundings, and wealth, with all that makes life worth living. Talbot ruined, poor—she could not go back to it; the small, stuffy rooms in the suburban street, the hideous alliteration of a life of work, want and weariness. Her mother, oh, how could she tell her that it had all come to an end—that there was nothing to look forward to, nothing to hope for! Her whole soul shrank and recoiled.

"Answer me, dear," whispered her companion. "Tell me you will be my wife." And then she remembered that when no one else had noticed or cared for her Talbot had thought nothing slight that gave her pleasure, deemed nothing a sacrifice for love of her. Could she who had drained the poisonous cup of poverty to the dregs—could she let him taste the bitterness of such a draft alone, should she be the first to wound him, to treat him with disdain? The truth, the naked truth, rose up above the follies, the fripperies, with which she had surrounded it. Should she buy the world at the cost of her own soul?

"Oh, no!" she sobbed. "No!" And with outstretched hands and streaming eyes she called to him, ineffable tenderness in her voice. "Talbot, Talbot, I want you, my darling! I want you. Poverty doesn't matter if I have you!"

The bride looked "simply lovely," as all brides do, and Lord Merton, charming as ever, appeared perfectly satisfied with his son's choice. The wedding was altogether a magnificent affair. The report about the mines having been grossly exaggerated. His lordship is invariably kind and courteous to his son's wife, but considers diplomacy when applied to women to be a mistake. For the rest he publicly denounces all engineers, as robbers, and privately thinks $2,000 for flooding a disused mine a pretty stiff price.

All the same, I don't think he'd have grudged double that if things had been otherwise. —Boston Traveler.

Warwick Lane.

On the right hand side of Newgate street are various streets and courts leading into Paternoster row. Of these Warwick lane, long the abode of butchers and tallow chandlers, but now chiefly occupied by printers and stationers, took its name from the inn or house of the celebrated Warwick, the kingmaker.

Stow mentions his coming to London in the famous convention of 1485 with 600 men, all in riot jackets, embroidered with ragged staves before and behind, and that he was lodged in Warwick lane, "in whose house there was often an oxen eaten at a breakfast, and every tavern was full of his meate, for hee that had any acquaintance in that house might have there so much of sodden and roasted meate as he could prick and carry upon a long dagger."

The memory of the earl was long preserved by a small stone statue, placed in the side front of a tobacconist's at the corner of this lane, and there is a public house which has the earl's head for its sign, but which bears the name of the more or less legendary "Guy, earl of Warwick," whose fame has outlasted that of the "kingmaker." —Household Words.

IT ENDED HER TROUBLE.

"I never courted newspaper notoriety, yet I am not afraid to speak a good word for your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' After a year ago I suffered terribly for nearly four weeks with prostrata and weakness. After using one bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Pellets,' I was a well woman. I have taken no medicine since and have had no symptoms of my former trouble." Mrs. M. A. Bender, Keene, New Hampshire, Ohio.

SPRAY THE FRUIT TREES.

New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, and Experiment Station. —Press Bulletin No. 10.

So far as I know, there are no serious fungous diseases of orchard fruits in New Mexico, but the apple and pear are badly damaged by the codling moth, also known as the apple worm. While the testimony of experimenters differs much as to the benefit to be derived from spraying with paris green solution as a means of killing the codling moth, the great majority of those who have tried it recommend the practice. Its success is largely proportional to the thoroughness with which the work is done.

To make paris green solution, use 2 pounds of lime and 1 pound of paris green to 100 gallons of water, or one-fourth of each to a barrel of water. Take unslacked lime, and after weighing slack strain it. Its purpose is to prevent injury to the foliage. Weigh the poison, then moisten thoroughly with a very little water, making a paste; add water gradually until a complete solution is made. If much water is added to the dry poison, it will form lumps and not mix readily. Having placed the lime and poison solutions in the barrel, add enough water to fill it. The solution is best applied to the trees by means of a spraying pump attached to the barrel. This is carried on a wagon, the work being better done from above if possible. The nozzle should be graduated to throw a spray as fine as mist, and every part of the tree should be reached; but no more need be applied than will cause dripping from the tree. Practice and care are necessary to apply the poison evenly and thoroughly, and every fruit should be reached.

The time to spray is after the blossoms fall and before the fruit stems curve downward. It is best to make two or three sprayings; first, just as the last petals fall; then again at intervals of about ten days. The codling moth is most apt to lay its eggs in the blossom end of the fruit, hence it is especially important that the blossom end be well covered with the poison; this is why the spraying should be done while the tiny fruits stand erect on their stems. As soon as the egg hatches the worm begins feeding, eating its way into the fruit. To be at all effective the poison must be on the fruit when the worm is hatched. In the southern parts of the territory the codling moth has three or four broods a year, and is much more difficult to combat than in northern New Mexico and at high elevations, but spring spraying should greatly reduce the number of worms even where there is more than one brood a year. A bulletin has been issued by the agricultural experiment station on the codling moth, which will be sent free, postage prepaid, to any address on application to the president of the agricultural college, Mesilla Park, N. M.

DRESSED THE TURKEY.

Hilda was satisfied with her work. If others were not.

Hilda was a new arrival in the Hope kitchen, and the mistress thereof was true to her name concerning her. "I am sure she will be a good cook," Mrs. Hope confided to her husband. "She looks so clean and intelligent; besides, she is so pink and pretty."

"Like a peach tart, herself," supplemented Mr. Hope. Whereupon his wife observed "I don't know" coldly and changed the subject.

The Hope family are prominent in Washington society, and Hilda's first task was to assist the chef in preparing dinner for a trio of diplomats. It was late in the afternoon when a loud cry startled the hostess to be from a dreamy peace.

"Oh, mon Dieu, zat I mus' s'affaire ze immediate! Look at Monsieur Le Turk!" cried the chef.

He pointed wrathfully to the turkey in Hilda's hands and Mrs. Hope lost her dignity in one wild shriek of laughter; for a pair of William junior's trousers were pinned about the bird, and a four-in-hand tie ornamented the feathery breast.

"Aye, yust yoked tray, four hours an Aye tank des bane booty gude," said Hilda, with modest satisfaction. "But Aye couldn't fin to clothes I dress bane on or Aye would bane more soon. If Adolph can dress bane hatter, all right." —Chicago Journal.

COURT OF PRIVATE LAND CLAIMS.

It Is Considering the Grant in Which Colin Cameron Is Interested.

The court of private land claims at Tucson will devote all week to the consideration of the San Rafael de la Sanja land grant. It is the most important case before the court, both on account of the value of the property and the prominence of the claimants.

Some 160,000 acres of fine stock and agricultural lands lying in the southwestern portion of Santa Cruz county, Ariz., and including the site of the town of Lochiel, as well as numerous improved ranches belonging to private settlements, are claimed by Colin Cameron, who, on account of the fact that Alfred A. Green was the original claimant of the land, now appears in the case as a co-defendant with the government.

Senator Morgan, Francis J. Heney and Rochester Ford are representing the claimants; Judge W. H. Barnes appears for numerous settlers, and Assistant United States Attorney W. H.
Pope, of Santa Fe, is conducting the case for the government.

W. M. Tipton, who made an examination of the records at Hermosillo for the government, was examined for the claimants with regard to his findings in the records.

Y. Bonillas, of Nogales, Sonora, was also examined for the claimants, as to the survey of the lands made by him in 1895. He is the principal witness of the claimants.

MEMORIAL DAY PROCLAMATION.

Governor Otero Calls for Proper Observance of the Day.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Santa Fe, N. M., May 17, 1899.

Long-cherished custom in our states and territories has established, and a grateful nation has enacted, that one day in each year be set apart as sacred to the memory of our patriot soldiers and sailors who have given up their lives in the service of their country; a day in which to recall their many sufferings and sacrifices, and to recount their valorous deeds, for the emulation of our youth, and keep the memory of the departed ones and their heroic example ever green in the hearts of all.

Since the day was last observed we mourn the loss of hundreds of patriotic heroes who lost their lives in our recent war with Spain, and it would seem but meet that the day next appointed should meet with a more general observance than any heretofore, and with a spirit and reverence fully becoming the occasion.

Now, therefore, I, Miguel A. Otero, governor of the Territory of New Mexico, do recommend that upon Tuesday, the 30th day of May, A. D. 1899, the people of the territory refrain from all unnecessary labor and all public amusements, and join with the survivors of the Grand Army of the Republic in the due observance of this day.

Let us on that day not only pay tribute to the memory of the heroic dead, but have a thought and care for the heroes who survive and are still among us, remembering that duty to the survivors is praise to the dead.

MIGUEL A. OTERO,
Governor of the Territory of New Mexico.

By the governor:
GEO. H. WALLACE,
Secretary New Mexico.

Two Drowned in a Shaft.

Frank R. Lloyd, formerly of White Oaks, the owner of a mine at Mineral del Oro, Mexico, has been drowned in a shaft of the mine. The mine had been shut down six months awaiting the erection of new hoisting machinery. During this time the water rose 200 feet in the shaft. On the day that work was resumed Mr. Lloyd and the cage runner were lowered to the water level, but Engineer Faulkner lowered them 12 feet below the water surface, drowning both of the men. The engineer, not cognizant of his mistake, made no attempt to hoist the cage. Indications are that the two men in the cage made a desperate struggle to save themselves.

Seeking Treasure.

Several parties are at Coca digging at the foot of the mesa, on the right bank of Canon Largo at its junction with Red River, for buried treasure. They have documents saying that a party of French-Canadians drifted to New Mexico in 1776, during the revolutionary war, and were killed by Indians. The Canadians, tradition says, buried a vast sum of gold at the junction of the Canon Largo and Red River.

Rate to Los Angeles.

The last official bulletin, just issued for the National Educational association at Los Angeles, announces the following cheap rate of one first-class fare plus $3 for the round trip. Stop-overs allowed both going and returning. Tickets on sale from June 25 to July 8, inclusive.
Good for return September 4, 1899. Any information gladly furnished by Mrs.
Elizabeth R. Jackson, director and manager for New Mexico, Silver City, N. M.

Las Vegas School Teachers.

The school board of Las Vegas selected the following teachers for the next school year:

port, Miss Jessie M. Himes, Mrs. Mattie Garlick, Mrs. Sallie Douglas, Miss Elba Stonerod, Miss Belle Rogers and Miss Minnie Holman.
Miss Keys, Miss Brewster and Mrs.
Bunker were not applicants for re-appointment.

LOCAL LAND TITLES.

A Free Survey Can Now Be Made and Owners Protected.

It is a curious fact that few property holders in Santa Fe city or township hold a direct legal title to their real estate. For years property holders have been under the impression that congress or the courts would legalize the old Santa Fe grant, but the supreme court as well as the court of land claims decided adversely, and that the City of Santa Fe and the township in which it is situated are government land. It will be in order, therefore, for every owner to file small property holdings under the act of March 3, 1891, which says that any holder of government land without title to it can procure such title through himself, his ancestors, grantors, or their lawful successors in title if they have been in continuous adverse actual possession of any tract of land, or in connection therewith of other lands, all together not exceeding 160 acres, in such townships, for twenty years next preceding the time of making such survey. Any one holding less than forty acres can have his property surveyed and a patent made out for it direct by the government without a cent of cost to him. For more than forty acres a slight fee is charged.

Surveyor General Quinby Vance has $5,000 of his annual appropriation still on hand, and will return it to Washington at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1899, if unexpended. This money he is willing to expend for a survey of Santa Fe township, which has never been accurately surveyed, if a sufficient number of property holders file small holding claims. As the survey will not cost property holders a cent, they might and should establish their title now, and have their land surveyed. The time for filing such claims will expire before long, and property holders may be involved in litigation unless they establish titles at this time to the land they occupy.

Another curious phase of this anomalous situation is that the City of Santa Fe does not own its streets or the plaza.
The law rules that no title can be acquired to government land that is being used for public thoroughfares or other purposes. If the city wants to have title to its streets and to the plaza it should file its claim to them now, and the law would probably be construed in favor of the city, though later on serious difficulties might arise if the city laid claim to the streets and to the plaza. The city can not collect taxes on unimproved lands in the city limits because the land is government property.
This is a loss to property holders and taxpayers, for they are simply assessed and taxed higher for improvements they make on their land. There should be a united movement, therefore, on the part of property holders and the city to establish legal title and get the benefit of a free survey and the $5,000 the surveyor general is willing to appropriate for that purpose if the demand is made within the next few weeks. It might be well on the part of the principal property holders to call a public meeting to discuss the matter and take united action.

PROPERTY IN COLORADO.

The Owner of 1,000,000 Acres of Land in Denver Recently.

Later information as to the demise of Wilson Waddingham is that death was instantaneous and due to apoplexy. He had started to his bank at 20 Broad street, New York, and ran upstairs at his home for some papers. A servant heard him fall in the upper hall, and found him dead. Mr. Waddingham was a heavy man, weighing more than 200 pounds, and his run up the stairs brought on the attack. He was a hard worker, and remained up Monday night until 11 o'clock, attending to pressing business. He was up again next morning at 4 o'clock, and a couple of hours later had breakfast with a friend and transacted some business at the same time. It was soon after this that death occurred.

Besides the vast mineral, land and cattle interests in New Mexico referred to yesterday, Mr. Waddingham had much property in Colorado. He was in Denver a few weeks ago, having come to examine the progress made on a large irrigating enterprise in southwestern Colorado and New Mexico.
This enterprise was formerly known as the John W. Hanna canal, and involves an immense outlay of money.
The work on it is being rushed, and when the canal is completed 60,000 acres will be ready for cultivation.

Mr. Waddingham's interests in Colorado were manifold, and included ownership in large cattle ranches, mining and big projects generally.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MATTERS.

A Meeting to Consider Selection of Principal and Superintendent.

Some of the women of the city are taking a hand in the election of a school superintendent and school principal, as well as the building of a new school house.
They have a committee appointed who are exerting pressure upon the school directors and upon prominent citizens to be progressive in school matters. The women are said to favor Professor Gibbon, of the Normal school of Las Vegas, for superintendent, while the school directors are said to favor Mr. S. E.
Lankard, of Santa Fe. For principal, some of the directors favor Miss Sue Mead, of Cerrillos.

The meeting to elect a superintendent and principal will be held Saturday evening at Attorney B. M. Read's office, and will be attended by the committee of women and many taxpayers in favor of a new school house being built at once, and of electing the very best teachers that can be procured, to the positions of school superintendent and school principal.

The Rio Grande Low.

There is not one-half the amount of water in the river that there was last year this time, and the total discharge for the season thus far has been only a third of last year's. Nor does there seem to be any prospect for better conditions, as the snow in the northern mountains is nearly all melted. Hydro-graphic Engineer Harroun ascribes the scarcity of water to the prevalence of high southerly winds that have caused the snow to be evaporated.

Killed in a Mine.

M. P. Hunter of Socorro, has been informed that his youngest son has been killed in a mine in Colorado.

Is It Malaria or Alum?

(Popular Science Monthly.)

Languor, loss appetite, indigestion symptoms of a physiological condition often termed "malaria." All these symptoms may be and frequently are the effect of the use of alum baking powders in food making. There is no question about the poisonous effect of alum upon the system. It obstructs digestion, prostrates the nerves, coagulates and devitalizes the blood. All this has been made clear, thanks to physicians, boards of health, and food commissions.
So "highly injurious to the health of the community" does the eminent head of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr.
Barker, consider the alum baking powders, that he says "their sale should be prohibited by law."

Under these circumstances it is worth the while of every housewife to employ the very little care that is necessary to keep so dangerous an element from the food of her family.

A pure cream of tartar baking powder, which is the only kind that should be used, ought to cost about forty-five to fifty cents a pound. Therefore, if you are paying twenty-five cents or less per pound the powder is certainly made from alum.

Always bear these simple facts in mind when purchasing baking powder.

MINOR CITY TOPICS.

Everybody invited to the "Poverty Sushi" tonight at Mrs. Price.

There will be a meeting of the Guild to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 at Mrs. A.
C. Ireland's.

A forest fire is burning in between the foothills and the mountain east of Santa Fe, near the reservoir.

E. A. Fiske this morning put men to work to place a new roof on his residence on Cathedral plaza.

The commission on deficiency claims was still in session this afternoon, but expected to adjourn by this evening.

Seven laborers were sent to La Veta pass this morning. At Espanola a carload with laborers was attached to the train.

Traffic on the Denver & Rio Grande railway is so heavy at present that both the outgoing and incoming trains need two engines.

Engineer David White has made a detailed plan of the Locke residence, which will be used in the trial of Locke for the murder of Merrill.

Captain T. B. Hart left this morning for his ranch between Aztec and Durango. He came here to testify in the penitentiary conspiracy trial.

Felix Rodriguez of Grant county, who served two years in the penitentiary for assault with intention to kill was discharged from the penitentiary this morning, having served his time.

Hon. Jose D. Sena, clerk of the Supreme court, will leave tomorrow morning over the narrow gauge on a ten days' trip to Taos. He will return with his wife on the 29th inst., and during his absence, Mr. Ralph McFie will look after affairs in the office.

Two intoxicated men furnished an offensive sight on College street last evening. It took them fully fifteen minutes to grovel their way over the river bridge. The language they uttered was filthy and blasphemous. There was no police man around or the city would be in pocket twenty days' work or a $10

Fire at Alamogordo.

The Pennsylvania, a two story boarding house and two other small frame buildings were destroyed by fire at Alamogordo Tuesday morning. The fire broke out in the Whitman building between 9 and 10 o'clock and extended to the old California building, occupied by a Chinaman as a laundry and at one time used as a rooming house. Two or three old sheds were torn down and prevented the spread of the fire. As the town has not all its water mains laid it is unable at present to fight a fire very energetically. The loss occasioned by Tuesday's fire is slight as the buildings destroyed were not of much value.

THE GUANO CAVES.

Skeleton of a Little Indian Found in the Debris.

The skeleton of a little Indian girl was found at a depth of 8 feet in the guano caves near Lava. Although the guano must have been buried for centuries, the peculiar cloth in which it was wrapped was well preserved. The guano beds are in lava caves, and there are but three openings to the caves, the largest of which will barely admit a man. The darkness in the caves is terrible, and an ordinary lantern will not dispel it. An immense coal oil torch is used by visitors in the cave, and that will cast a glimmer no further than 10 feet. The series of caves are connected with each other, and are about 500 feet long, 40 to 70 feet wide, and 40 feet high.
The caves are full of guano that must have been accumulating for 6,000 or 8,000 years. There are evidences that the deposit was once burned out and the caves filled up again. The guano is deposited by billions of bats, and is very rich in ammonia. A natural lava bridge is near the cave, and the bats fly under it in dense masses that look like clouds. The crater which threw up the immense amount of lava, of which the caves are formed, is near the guano deposits. The lava flow extends ten miles to the Rio Grande river.

Ghastly Evidence.

The remains of Fred Merrill, the gambler murdered some time ago, were exhumed this morning at Fairview cemetery, the head taken from the body and a post-mortem examination held over it at the mayor's office. It will be placed in alcohol and be one of the exhibits at the Locke murder trial.

Albuquerque Items.
