THE LAST BATTLE

General Wheaton Had 300 Men in Great Peril Yesterday, But They Were Saved.

SURROUNDED BY THOUSANDS

Treacherous "Friendlies" Were Helping the Insurgents—General Wheaton
Drives the Enemy and Takes Their Town.

Manila, June 20.—General Wheaton's command renewed the attack upon Perez das Marinas early this morning. They moved on the town hoping to reach there by noon, unless strong opposition is encountered. The latest list of American casualties in yesterday's fighting shows five killed and 23 wounded. The wounded were brought to Manila from Bacoor in caissons.

The Herald's Manila correspondent describing the battle near Marinas says: While the American troops were in a sunken road a force of insurgents attacked their left flank. The Americans retreated in good order several miles. Finally being reinforced by Robinson's battalion of the fourth infantry they advanced upon the foe. Our loss during the day amounted to forty killed and wounded. Surrounded by a thousand of the enemy, six miles from reinforcement, with a thousand more insurgents moving rapidly down on the left to make annihilation complete, the first battalion of the 4th infantry Major Budd commanding, in all 300 Americans, fought their way back from Marinas three miles toward the military base at Imus where the rest of the fourth came to their support.

Reports were received that Marinas had been deserted by insurgents. The alcalde came to Imus and formally surrendered the town.

Houses along the roadside were filled with amigors. The battalion advanced confidently until within three-fourths of a mile of Marinas when they discovered the enemy paralleling the road for a long distance on both sides, practically surrounding the little force. Natives began firing from houses in the rear, and some with white clothes were captured with guns in hand. The scheme to wipe out a small body of American troops might have succeeded but for the marvelous courage of the troops and officers. The fight began at noon. The enemy's fire was silenced in one hour. The Americans, on retreating, discovered that they were surrounded. Skirmish lines crowded the Filipinos back toward Imus while out-flankers were on right and left. Under flanking fire the rear guard was desperately holding the enemy's fire poured upon the main road and men were falling every where. An ambulance was filled and cars were pressed into service, loaded with wounded and dragged by hand by prisoners. Two of our dead were left behind.

AN OFFICIAL REPORT.
Washington, June 20.—General Otis forwards the following:
"Manila, June 20.—Wheaton, who was at Imus, Cavite province, with four guns, four battalions of the 4th and 14th infantry, and a Nevada troop of cavalry, sent a battalion south on reconnaissance in the direction of Marinas yesterday morning, where the enemy was reported as concentrating, and scattered forces. The battalion encountered the enemy's force of 2,000 marching to attack Imus, successfully impeding progress. Wheaton, with two guns and two battalions, hurried forward and repulsed the enemy with heavy loss, the enemy leaving over 100 dead on the field. Our loss was five killed and twenty-three wounded. Wheaton was reinforced last night by a battalion of the 9th infantry, and is driving the enemy beyond Marinas, which is now in his possession. Casualties to-day are not reported. Wheaton's qualities for a bold and successful attack are unsurpassed. TAKES THE MEASLY TOWN.

Manila, June 20.—The troops commanded by General Wheaton entered Perez das Marinas to-day without opposition, except from small bands of rebels, who inflicted no losses upon Americans. The town is an unimportant place, surrounded by swamps. Wheaton will probably return to Imus.
Rear Admiral Watson arrived here to-day on the United States transport Zafro from Hong Kong, and raised his flag on the cruiser Baltimore. Commanders of all war-ships called upon the admiral during the day.

MILES HEARD FROM.
New York, June 20.—The "situation in the Philippines is very serious," said General Miles last night. "I know nothing concerning the story that the war department is suppressing news from Manila. The question of issuing a call for volunteers has not, I believe been decided."

A Notary Named.
Governor Otero has appointed David H. Lucero, Raventon, Lincoln county, a notary public.

Towns Flooded.

Mansfield, O., June 20.—Water rose six feet in the streets in the lower portions of the city after midnight as a result of a heavy storm. Two hundred people of the casino were imprisoned by water.

Shelby, Ohio, June 20.—Citizens who were aroused at 2 o'clock by alarm bells found the city under water, heavy rains having the raised Black Fork to raging torrent. People were removed from houses on horse back. The principal streets are running streams. Business is at a stand still.

Street Car Strike at Akron.
Akron, Ohio, June 20.—The local street car system is tied up by a strike. Not a car is running on the Akron and Cuyahoga rapid transit lines to-day.

When the general officers reached the offices to-day they found all the power shut off and the cars in the barns. Some time ago there was a disagreement as to wages, and the matter was referred to arbitration. A report which was submitted last night included a clause providing for arbitrations in the future, and this the company refused to accept. The men held an all-night meeting, and decided to strike. No effort was made to run cars to-day. A conference will be held this evening.

Gold Report from Alaska.
Victoria, B. C. June 20.—The steamer Tees arrived from Alaska with 50 passengers from Dawson and a small amount of gold dust. The Tees brings a report of a wonderfully rich strike on the Yukon river, Koyukuk district. Chunks of virgin gold two inches square are said to have been taken out. The report caused a stampede from Dawson.

President at School.

South Hadley, Mass., June 20.—Commencement day at Mount Holyoke college was made a national event by the participation of President McKinley, who, with Mrs. McKinley, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Allen and members of his official family, had come here to witness the graduation of Miss Grace McKinley, the president's niece. Governor Roger Wolcott and Mrs. Wolcott also attended the exercises. President McKinley presented the graduating class with the diplomas. The town was crowded with visitors.

President McKinley received the degree of civil laws from Mount Holyoke college.

A Ten Million Deal.

St. Louis, June 20.—It is announced that as Governor Stephens signed the railway bill, negotiations for consolidation of all streets railroads in St. Louis are practically completed. The deal involves nearly $10,000,000.

THE ELKS IN SESSION.

Meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Order in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., June 20.—Thousands of members of the order of Elks are here to attend the thirty-first meeting of the grand lodge and reunion of the order. To-morrow there will be a grand parade, in which it is expected 8,000 Elks will participate. There will also be prize drills and band contests. Opening exercises were held to-day at the Olympic theater, which was crowded.

Hon. John Galvin, of Cincinnati, grand exalted ruler, thanked the mayor and local Elks for a hearty welcome, and said: "The ground work and foundation of our order is the great golden rule of life. Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you." After a sketch of the past by Meade D. Detweiler, past grand exalted ruler, and a "Glimpse into the Future" by Hon. Howard McSherry of New Brunswick, N. J., the grand lodge went into secret session.

Appointed Territorial Treasurer.

Governor Otero today appointed J. H. Vaughn, cashier of the First National bank of Santa Fe, treasurer of the territory, to succeed Samuel Eldred. Mr. Vaughn has signified his acceptance.

CLEVELAND CAR LINE

Mobs Again Assail Motormen and
Smash Car Windows, But No
Arrests Are Made.

ONE CONDUCTOR SHOTS

Riding In Cleveland As Dangerous As Going to War in the Philippines with Aguinaldo's Insurgents.

Cleveland, O., June 20.—Cars were running during the day on all lines opened by the street car company since the strike. No crowds were allowed to gather. At 1 o'clock this afternoon a special committee of the city council, appointed to try to settle the street car strike, met representatives of strikers and the company face to face. The members hope to open the way for a settlement of the trouble.

As has been the rule since the strike began, riotous disturbances broke out to-day about noon. A crowd boarded a Wade Park avenue car near Lindus and Annade avenues and beat a non-union motorman into insensibility. The conductor fled from the car. Another Wade Park avenue car was stoned, and one on the Euclid avenue line attacked. Many women were on board, and shrieked with terror as stones crashed through car windows. One woman fainted at the corner of Wilson avenue and Quincy street. One man was shot, and others had narrow escapes. Passengers escaped as best they could when stones began to fly, but the conductor and motorman were struck repeatedly. The latter drew a revolver and fired three times into the crowd. He then put all speed on and ran the car out of the mob's reach. George Berg, Jr., a striking conductor, was hit in the leg by a bullet, which was extracted. No arrests were made.

A Passenger Rate War.

Galveston, Tex., June 20.—All railways having terminals south of Dallas yesterday put in a passenger rate to meet the cut of the Texas & Pacific railroad to all Mississippi river points. This action will probably lead to a passenger rate war in the southwest as it seems to be the determination of railways which remained true to the agreement of the south western association to discipline the Texas & Pacific.

MOB AT MADRID.

Miners Go to a Boarding House and Shoot
a Man for Working.
Special to the New Mexican.

Cerrillos, N. M., June 20.—At 8:30 o'clock last night the Robert McKinley boarding house at Madrid was surrounded by men with Winchester rifles, three of whom entered the house and proceeded to a room occupied by John and Henry Holdenhurst. John Holdenhurst was shot in the right shoulder with a 44-caliber revolver, the ball ranging back and coming out below the shoulder blade, inflicting a dangerous wound, from which he may die. The Holdenhurst brothers were working an entry in one of the coal mines after two other miners had given it up, saying they could not make money at the price paid, and had been warned to leave town. At least seven men implicated are known, and warrants are out for their arrest.

Sheriff Kinsell was summoned to Madrid this morning, and left by the first train. His telegram stated that union miners committed the crime, and were masked when they went to the hotel.

Several Cloudbursts.

Parisville, O., June 20.—Several cloudbursts occurred here last night, accompanied by a severe electrical storm. The house of Isaac Hunter was swept from its foundations by Horse Tail creek. Searchlight parties have been out since daylight looking for Hunter's body, but were not successful. The damage to bridges and roadways is more than $100,000, while the property loss is $200,000 or more.

San Francisco, June 20.—The steamer Australia has arrived from Honolulu, and brings word that the Philadelphia sailed from Honolulu for San Francisco June 11. ## EXPLOSION AT FORT PICKENS.

One Magazine Blown Up But Brave Work
Saves the Others.

Washington, June 20.—Secretary Long received a dispatch from Captain Reisinger, commandant at the Pensacola (Fla.) navy yard, which says: "Fire and heavy explosion at Fort Pickens. Sent fire apparatus and working force to assist." Fort Pickens is one of the defenses of Pensacola harbor.

Atlanta, Ga., June 20.—Colonel Frank, commanding the department of the gulf, received a dispatch at noon to-day from Lieutenant Horn, commanding officer at Fort Pickens, giving information that one of the old-style magazines exploded this morning. One man was killed. The explosion was caused by a fire which Colonel Frank thinks must have originated in the kitchen.

Pensacola, Fla., June 20.—A smaller magazine at Fort Pickens took fire and blew up this morning and completely wrecked one corner of the old fort and several buildings used as headquarters for laborers on new fortifications were destroyed. One man was killed and four men badly injured, one having an arm and leg broken. The larger magazines, in which were stored a great quantity of dynamite and other explosives, and forts were saved by brave work of Captain Neumann and marines from the navy yard. The loss will reach $75,000. It is said that cement barrels were being burned, and grass becoming ignited, the fire spread to the magazine.

TUESDAY, JUNE 20.

If the smelter strike be settled by arbitration, then the board should settle another matter—decide just how little the various newspapers of Denver had to do with the settlement, or else life in Denver will not be one grand sweet song for their readers.

Ex-Governor Hogg, of Texas, says that the south would pay the expenses of transportation of enough negroes to give every state in the Union an equal proportion of the colored element, and thus solve the race problem by thinning the crowd.

The south is now making money on cotton, because it is no longer shipped to the north for manufacture into fabrics. The southern people are operating factories and saving the freight. Last month alone 400,000 spindles were added to the number used in the south.

Pennsylvania has decided that when her volunteers land in San Francisco they shall have no chance to doubt that they are at home. They are at once to become the guests of Pennsylvania, and to go home on special trains of Pullman cars.

Incidents are being printed with regard to the prowess of Paul Kruger when he was a boy, and a picture is going the rounds of the papers portraying him in the act of choking a panther when he was but 17 years old. Just now he is engaged at 74 in hearing a lion and twisting the tail until the British beast roars.

The pie trust just incorporated in New Jersey is not the first pastry combination attempted. A distinguished resident of New Jersey, Hon. Grover Cleveland, and his cabinet organized a pie trust when they took the whole official bakery with 40,000 slices of official pie, and issued a civil service order to establish a perpetual monopoly.

Yesterday was fighting at a point twenty miles from Manila, and the New Mexican received reports of the condition of things at the front at the hour of 5 p. m. This report came to the office at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The news was probably taken to Manila by courier, so that it did not leave that city until far into the night following its receipt at Santa Fe.

The Colorado papers have a controversy going as to whether Captain Lambert, of the Pueblo Chieftain, is the oldest editor in the state. That is a matter that may have to be investigated by going to the records, but any one who reads Colorado journals can easily see that he is one of the best editorial writers in the state. Denver has no better.

Mexico has consolidated all of her bonds and reduced the rate of interest from 6 to 5 per cent on $115,000,000, but she gave gold-bearing bonds. The money-lenders of the world will not take promises to pay in silver, for principal or interest. As Mexico uses silver, it will take $2 of revenue to pay $1 of interest, which is equivalent to paying 10 per cent interest on her foreign debt.

New Mexico could use her own wool if she only would. The manufacture of blankets would pay from the start. In California there are woolen mills that make nothing but blankets, and their product is known in all the markets. The freight on the wool could be saved, and there is a market in this part of the world for the blankets. Cheap labor could be secured.

The United States will not be coaxed into giving Canada an Alaskan port to please England. If Canada quarrels with England for being unable to help her that will be a family affair, and like all such matters, should have no outside meddling. But if Canada thinks she can seize a port, let her try it. There are miners and soldiers enough up there to make the effort as interesting as was the attempt of their kindred to grab in the Transvaal under the leadership of Jameson.

Owing to the strike troubles at Pana, Ill., Governor Tanner has given orders that there shall be no celebration of the Fourth of July in that town. So the municipality is seized with a wild desire to burn firecrackers. Resolutions of a lurid tinge have been passed condemning the method exercised to prevent the people of the town painting it red. Had the executive ordered Pana to celebrate there would have been the same indisposition to obey. In some localities the people go on the theory that whatever is, is wrong.

The people of southwestern Socorro county are not at all satisfied with so large a portion of that part of the county being set aside for a forest reserve. Many settlers have for fourteen years been making improvements upon the tract, but could not file owing to the land being unsurveyed. From the divide of the Mogollons westward to the Arizona line, a distance of thirty-five miles, there is not enough timber to shade a jack rabbit. It is asserted by the settlers.

Bland was the original consistent free silver advocate, but Bryan eclipsed him in the Chicago convention. The ingratitude of the silverites can not be atoned for by erection of a monument by Bryan and others. Bland deserved the presidential nomination which was impulsively given to Bryan.

With a hundred houses under construction, 150 men employed in supplying lumber from the adjacent mountains, railway building in progress, several neighboring mining camps booming, a summer Chautauqua in progress and a summer resort on the mountain top close at hand, Alamogordo seems not to realize that summer is at hand, when towns and their trade generally take a rest.

The proposed railway from Pagosa Springs to Arboles, via Farmington, N. M., might be called the "Fruit Line" when built. It is estimated that in the valley of the San Juan, 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 pounds of fruit is raised annually, and half of it goes to waste for lack of a railway. The valley will prove to be one of the greatest fruit belts in the United States. There is a fine opening for canning, distilling and evaporating enterprises. Not more than one-fourth of the good land is under ditch, and the water supply is inexhaustible.

The Medical Record has a correspondent who combats the modern doctrine demanding indulgence in baths. A correspondent cites a case of an exceedingly healthy man, aged 94, who has taken but two baths. In each case he fell into a river while drunk, but not having weakened his constitution by too frequent uses of water, he stood the shock without damage. He expects to score a century without having taken an intentional bath.

The schools are now turning out very wise young people. Their fathers believed themselves as wise in their generation, doubtless. These graduates will live to see the day when they will wonder how they ever believed themselves to be wise. There are some old people who still think themselves astute, but the majority are only trying to make others think so. The youngsters really believe in their own superior wisdom and are sure of success. Youth is an optimist; later he becomes more or less of a pessimist.

Philadelphia should no longer be called a slow town. Sunday the office of a street railway company was visited by bandits who tied up ten or a dozen employees with baling wire and then appropriated the receipts of two days, amounting to about $4,000. Precautions had been taken to cut all wires by which the police might be notified. Speedy artists of the west could have turned out a more skilful job. By a singular coincidence, a New York dispatch published the day before the robbery stated that "Black Jack," who has been killed and arrested in New Mexico so often, was seen in New York last week. Can it be that he sought Philadelphia as a slow town in which to turn a trick.

New Orleans recently decided to acquire the water works in that city and to furnish water free to all citizens, but every house must have pipes therein and be connected with sewers. The city has voted for the issuance of $30,000,000 in bonds to carry out its sanitary measures. Only taxpayers were allowed to vote on the proposition. The city has probably lost many times the above sum by lack of cleanliness and from attacks of yellow fever. But now she proposes to be clean, and therefore will furnish all the necessary water and provide for the disposition of waste and refuse such as have heretofore gone into open sewers and accumulated in the gutters.

The canneries of California have formed a combination to fix prices for fruit to be bought from orchardists. That looks wrong to the farmers. The walnut growers have an organization to determine the price to be accepted for their product. That looks wicked to the dealers who want the crop. The railroads of southern California have a pool on the orange business to maintain rates and divide the shipments. That is villainous, say the newspapers. The big newspapers of Los Angeles have a combination to keep up the price of the papers delivered to subscribers. That is abominable, say the two-for-a-nickel and one-centers of the newspaper crowd.

Russia's decision to abandon the penal settlement in Siberia leaves only France, Spain, Portugal and Turkey as the civilized countries with penal colonies. Brutality has been the rule where prisoners have been sent into remote localities in charge of men who are prison-hardened and can not be watched by responsible officials. The best place for a prison is where it can be under the public eye. Men are not sent into confinement to be kicked, beaten and killed by guards, who, if unchecked, often become brutal if given unlimited authority. Prisons and conditions constantly grow better when they have the attention of the public. But in penal colonies no improvement has ever been known.

Tuberculosis from Milk.
Illinois is agitated over the increase of tuberculosis among cows, and dairymen are liable to have all their cattle slaughtered. While no one wishes to drink the milk of a diseased cow, it appears that the tests of milk of a consumptive animal shows no germs in the fluid. In New Jersey, at an experiment station, tests were made for years. A herd of tuberculous cows were kept at the station for the experiments. The report made says that "the milk from these cows has been tested and analyzed again and again, but thus far no germs have been found in it. So far as science can determine, these cows have produced clean and healthful milk."

In discussing the subject editorially the Rural New Yorker, an authority, says that although no germs have been found in the milk, "it is not safe to say that the milk has never contained any. The germs might be found in one milk, and not in another, or in one single quarter of the udder. It is difficult to discover them, for the testing apparatus is not yet perfected. Still it may be said that the germs in such milk are very scarce, if they exist at all." There are few dairy herds in which all

RAW AS BEEF FROM ECZEMA!

No Torture Equal to the Itching and Burning of This Fearful Disease.

Eczema—which is more than skin-deep, and can not be reached by local applications of ointments, salves, etc., applied to the surface. The disease itself, the real cause of the trouble, is in the blood, although all suffering is produced through the skin; the only way to reach the disease, therefore, is through the blood.

Mr. Phil T. Jones, of Mixersville, Ind., writes: "I had Eczema thirty years, and after a great deal of treatment my leg was so raw and sore that it gave me constant pain. It finally broke into a running sore, and began to spread and grow worse. For the past five or six years I have suffered untold agony and had given up all hope of ever being free from the disease, as I have been treated by some of the best physicians and have taken many blood medicines, all in vain. With little faith I began to take S. S. S., and it apparently made the Eczema worse, but I knew that this was the way the remedy got rid of the poison. Continuing S. S. S., the sore healed up entirely, the skin became clear and smooth, and I was cured perfectly."

Eczema is an obstinate disease and can not be cured by a remedy which is only a tonic. Swift's Specific—

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD
—is superior to other blood remedies because it cures diseases which they can not reach. It goes to the bottom—to the cause of the disease—and will cure the worst case of Eczema, no matter what other treatment has failed. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed to be free from potash, mercury or any other mineral, and never fails to cure Eczema, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, Cancer, Tetter, Rheumatism, Open Sores, Ulcers, Boils, etc. Insist upon S. S. S.; nothing can take its place.

Books on these diseases will be mailed free to any address by Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

cows are absolutely healthy, and if the disease of consumption were communicated to milk drinkers results should be more apparent. Scientists say that tuberculosis is increasing among cattle and decreasing in the human race.

THE TERRITORIAL PRESS.

NEW MEXICO FOR HEALTH.

(Ruswell Register.)

New Mexico is attracting world-wide attention on account of its climate. Experts in the treatment of tuberculosis, the dread disease that kills so many thousands of bright men and women every year, have at last condescended to investigate the oft-repeated statements made by the press of New Mexico as to the effect of the dry air and bright sunshine upon the health of those who come here in time, and are recommending it as the best climate in the world for the successful treatment of patients afflicted with consumption. Fort Stanton will soon become a government sanitarium, Las Cruces is to have one, and others are talked of. With the establishment of better railroad connections New Mexico bids fair to become the health-seeker's paradise.

MINING INVESTMENTS SAFE.

(Albuquerque Journal-Democrat.)

There are scores and hundreds of opportunities for investments in mining properties in New Mexico to-day which would pay bigger returns on the capital invested than any other legitimate business that men could go into in any part of the country, and a man is just as safe in making such an investment as he is in lending his money on a farm mortgage, provided he will use the same ordinary business prudence in the one case that he regards as indispensable in the other, but if he goes into a mine as he goes into a lottery he has no right to think that he is making a "sure thing" investment. The pinching of an ore body is no more probable than the failure of crops. The possibilities of big returns are infinitely better from the mine than the farm, and the risk of loss no greater. Employ experience and ability in appraising, and pay accordingly. Do not pay mine price for a prospect and expect to realize any more than you would expect to realize on a swamp bought at farm rates.

LLEWELLYN'S DENIAL.

The District Attorney Establishes An Alibi.

Major W. H. H. Llewellyn, who assisted in the prosecution of Lee and Gilliland at Hillsboro, on a charge of murder, has issued a circular calling attention to the reports which were telegraphed over the country while the trial was in progress. As an example, he cites the Associated Press report of June 9, which contained the following: "On direct examination Rhodes said Jose Espalin stated that men were going to kill Lee, and he (witness) hurried onward and warned the intended victim. July 11, 1898, the day before the fight in which Kearney was killed at Lee's, Llewellyn took supper at my house. In the presence of my wife he said he would do anything to do these men (referring to the defendants). I had sent a runner to town to see if Lee was there, with instructions to inform him about the posse, when it started out. Men were in the adobe inclosure waiting to kill him. Pointing to a wagon, Major Llewellyn said he had dynamite there, and when he heard Lee was at home, said he would go there, invite the woman out and throw dynamite into the house."

Mr. Llewellyn says: "It is a sufficient reply to the foregoing to say that on July 11, 1898, I was with my regiment in the trenches before Santiago de Cuba."

Not much attention is often paid to the first symptoms of Eczema, but it is not long before the little redness begins to itch and burn. This is but the beginning, and will lead to suffering and torture almost unendurable. It is a common mistake to regard a roughness and redness of the skin as merely a local irritation; it is but an indication of a humor in the blood—of terrible

A Shakespearean Discovery.
The most scholarly men of the world have devoted years to the study of one of Shakespeare's greatest creations. Hamlet has been discussed by the ablest minds of all countries. What his malady was, has vexed more than one scientific brain. It remains for America and the producers of America's greatest remedy—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—to make the discovery. Nothing allied Hamlet but indigestion, which upset his liver, polluted his blood and made him nervous. If it had been possible for Hamlet to have had Hostetter's Stomach Bitters he would have been a different character. It makes and keeps stomachs strong, and with hearty digestion and pure blood no disease is possible. It is for both men and women. All druggists sell it.

After the Explosion.
Mrs. Jones—Where's Mary?
Mrs. Jones—I sent her to find out where the escape of gas was.
Mrs. Jones—Did she tell you how it came to explode?
Mrs. Jones—No.
Mrs. Jones—How's that?
Mrs. Jones—She hasn't come back yet.
—Pick-Me-Up.

A Cheerful Chap.
Maud—Dick proposed to me last night. Ella—What did you tell him?
I said he had better ask mamma, and what do you think the wretch said?
Goodness knows!
He said he had asked her already, and she wouldn't have him.
—Tit-Bits.

Would Not Suffer So Again for Fifty Times Its Price.
I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach troubles. I shall not be without it in my home hereafter, for I should not care to endure the suffering of last night again for fifty times its price.—G. H. Wilson, Liverman, Burgettstown, Washington Co., Pa. This remedy is for sale by A. C. Ireland.

How They Talk and Think.
It always exasperates me to meet Josephine Jenkins, whom you used to be sweet on.
Why, my dear?
She always looks at you as if she could have married you if she had wanted to.
—Chicago Record.

Deliberate Slander.
Irate Officeholder—Look here sir! Explain why I am referred to as a low-down political jobber in your paper?
Editor—Oh, it was the fault of the compositor. I wrote it "robber" plainly enough.
—Philadelphia Record.

The Size of It.
Edith—What does a man mean when he says that comment is useless?
Davie—Means that he can't think of anything else to say.—Puck.

Charles H. Marks, while acting in the capacity of nurse at the Second Division Hospital of the Fifth Army Corps at Santiago de Cuba, used a few bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea, and found it to work like a charm. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

A Calamity Escaped.
Henry Hocorn—A wet season is bad enough for the farmers, but a dry one is worse.
Seth Summerfall—That's right; an 'it'd about use a fellow up if we'd have 'em both at the same time.—Puck.

An Artistic Racket.
Isn't Alice's that a perfect symphony? I don't know; it looks more to me like an operatic round up by Wagner.
—Detroit Free Press.

A Card of Thanks.
I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of coughs, lung troubles and whooping cough, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction, we feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Mrs. S. Doty, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

A Humble Enquiry.
Mr. Henpeck—Is my wife going out, Eliza?
Eliza—Yes, sir.
Mr. Henpeck—Do you happen to know whether I'm going out with her?
—Fleegande Blatter.

Non-Committal.
Suppose I tell you, dearest, that my father has lost all his money. What will you do?
Go out and see if the story can be verified.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50-cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—A. A. Babcock, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by A. C. Ireland.

Gradual Accumulation.
Mrs. La Salle—You said Mrs. Wabash got her furniture on the installment plan, didn't you?
Mrs. Desbourn—Yes; she's had four husbands, and got a little with each one.—Yonkers Statesman.

NERVITA restores VITALITY, LOST VIGOR, AND MANHOOD. Cures Impotency, Night Emissions, and various diseases, all effects of self-abuse, or excess and debility. A permanent and reliable. Brings the plant back to its normal state and restores the life of youth. Price, 50c per bottle. 10 bottles for $5.00. Money refunded if not cured. Write for circular. Nervita Medicine Co., 110 West 42nd St., New York, N. Y.

LOVE IN A CAB.

The stopping of his cab made Mr. Arthur Cargill look up from his paper. The way was packed. All at once he recognized a girl's face, frightened and pale. "Jump in!" he cried. The girl saw him just in time, caught the extended hand and was by his side, panting and safe, in a moment.

"My dear Miss Chesterton," he said, "why do you run such risks?" "I don't know. Suppose I'd been knocked down and run over."
"And by my cab," murmured Cargill. Cargill, quite by accident, laid his hand upon Miss Chesterton's.

By this time they were approaching the Trocadero, where Cargill had proposed to dine. Miss Chesterton's fright had evidently quite put her own destination out of her head. The cab drew up impassively. Miss Chesterton suddenly awakened.

"Where are we?" she asked.
"At the Trocadero," said Cargill, "where I hope you are going to dine with me."
"But I promised to be at Hampstead by 7, and I couldn't think of dining with you as I am, Mr. Cargill."

"You can't possibly reach Hampstead by 7. It is 6:30 now, and it's precisely as you are that I want you to dine with me." "Now," said Cargill, "come along. I insist on your coming. Remember, I saved your life."

"If you put it like that, Mr. Cargill," she said, "you leave me no option."
"Dining," he said, "is an art. Not one lady in a thousand understands it. The harmony must be preserved. It is not less subtle than music. Now, your misfortune this evening has been the means of giving me a great deal of pleasure. If you hadn't jumped into my cab I should have been dining miserably alone."

"You would probably have been quite happy," Miss Chesterton said.
"Believe me—no," said Cargill. "To tell you the truth, I was thinking about you just before. I intended to call upon you tomorrow."
"I should have been glad to see you," she said.
"I suppose you will consider it will be unnecessary to call now?" he asked.
"Oh, no," she said; "mamma will be in."

"I say it with all respect to your mother," he said, "but I didn't particularly want to see her. I wanted to see you."
"About the colic puppy you promised to get for me?" Miss Chesterton asked hurriedly.
"No, the puppy had nothing to do with it. Let me fill your glass."

"When it has been about—about the bazaar," she said, trying to look unconcerned and succeeded only in blushing deeply at her own failure.
"About the bazaar?" echoed Cargill in mild astonishment. "I don't know anything about a bazaar. Do you want me to help you in something of that sort?"
"No," she said. "I made a mistake. I was thinking that you knew all about it, but of course you don't."

"Indeed I don't," said Cargill. "Bazaars are not exactly in my line."
"No," Miss Chesterton agreed humbly.
"I don't want to spoil such a pleasant evening as this to me at any rate."
"Thanks," said Cargill, "but I'm going to risk it. If you could only promise not to be annoyed at what I'm going to say." He felt his way cautiously and watched her face side along. He was very much in love with Miss Chesterton, but he was still well enough in hand to go carefully.

"I'm sure you wouldn't say anything to annoy me, Mr. Cargill," she said, fingering the stem of her glass nervously.
"That's a kind of permission for me to go on, isn't it?"
"Yes, without you were going to propose something very dreadful," said Cargill, catching at the word, "that you should marry me."

Miss Chesterton instantly felt that the eyes of all the room were upon her, but a glance assured her that she was as much alone there as in a church.
"Is that so very dreadful?" Cargill asked.
"No; it's very kind," said Miss Chesterton.

"I didn't quite put it in the form of a question, but I will now. I've been in love with you for quite three months—of course you didn't notice it. My dear girl, I—let me hold your hand under the table—" "Will you be my wife?"

Her fingers closed upon his, and she turned a flushed and laughing face toward him.
"But the art of dining?" she said. "We should never get on together, should we? I know nothing about it, remember."
"I'll take the risk," Cargill said.
"And the wine?" she said. "I am quite ignorant of wine."
"That is more serious," he said, "but I'll risk that as well."
"Then you don't take any interest in bazaars," she said.

"None whatever, but if you particularly wish you can run a bazaar of your own and manage it all yourself."
"Not for the world," said Miss Chesterton.
"Are there any other objections?" asked Cargill. "Because, if there are, we may as well settle them now."
"I can't think of any more at present."
"Then you say 'yes!'"

"Mr. Cargill," she said, "don't you think you have me at a disadvantage—almost at your mercy? You see, you saved my life this evening and then gave me a very good dinner afterward."
"Excellent!"
"Then forget about the life saving—I give that up—count it out."
"But I can't," he said.
"Then count it in," he said.
"I will," said Miss Chesterton, "and I say yes."

There was a long silence, in which both Miss Chesterton's hands went under the table. Suddenly she cried out:

A WILY VENGEANCE.

There are only a few army posts where everybody doesn't know everybody else's business, and particularly in Pinos Altos, where, not counting the soldiers of the United States, there are no more than nine white people. All these, equally as a matter of course, are familiar with one another's affairs. Only one matter has ever baffled them, that being the true cause of the broken engagement between Lieutenant Teddy Dupont of the garrison and Miss Warren, daughter of the inspector or general. It was the only real, genuine love affair in the place, and naturally every one took the greatest interest in it.

The wedding day had been set and arrangements made for a honeymoon trip. The women were hunting up things that might perhaps be made decent to wear. The lovers themselves seemed happy as the day was long, and things were running as merrily as the proverbial marriage bell. Then, as Mrs. James expressed it, before you could say "Jack Robinson" the engagement was declared broken.

Miss Warren departed a day after for New York, and Lieutenant Dupont started on his downward race to the devil. It was all very strange; no one understood, and no one understood now, unless it be Enriqueta.

After leaving West Point Teddy Dupont had, as is often the case with young and untutored officers, started out on a pretty rapid pace. At that time he was stationed in a rather tough city, where many men go the pace. But before he had the time to do very much harm to himself, his regiment had been ordered out to Pinos Altos, a New Mexican sand, adobe, mesquite, Greaser, border town, where United States troops were needed several times per month to quell disturbances that were continually arising between the few mining whites and the Greaser-Mexican population.

None of the officers' wives went at first, since it was so much the usual rough town. Later when things had quieted down they would come. And so it happened that for several months there was no white woman in the town of Pinos Altos. Had there been, perhaps this story would never have been written.

At first things were rather exciting, for the Greasers and Mexicans and Indians, resenting the entry of the soldiers, had "raised Cain" to some extent. And, as in the making of trouble and worry they preferred the methods of sticking knives in the back after dark, burning houses and hurriedly equipped barracks, etc., Lieutenant Dupont and his men had some little work in the quieting of the turbulent spirits. So long as the rows were on Dupont was in his glory. When they were off and there was nothing on earth to occupy him but a few hours' duty each day, he became desperately bored and ill tempered. He thought longingly of the big cities, where the glittering streets, the music, parks, clubs and other places. Then he would stare angrily from the barracks window down at the sandy town of Pinos Altos, with its one solitary mission church and the low adobe houses that seemed populated equally by burros, pigs and fat, brown babies. There were even no flowers to be seen, nothing but prickly cactus and miserable, dried up mesquite—not a pleasant outlook for a young and untutored officer who had yet to learn that duty is duty whether at West Point or Pinos Altos. It was too much for young Dupont, and he cast about him without further thought for getting out of there—anything to amuse him.

Not that he could call Enriqueta amusing—far from it! But she was pretty—so pretty! A woman of the sierras, half Mexican and half Indian, with some sprinkling of half forgotten Spanish blood, she was typical of her dusky, passionate race, and for a long while (two months) Dupont was wildly in love with her and had serious thoughts of presenting her to his people at home as Mrs. Teddy Dupont. But common sense stepped in and made him realize that the seraped and blanketed girl, even with her beautiful eyes and face and figure, would look dead at the head of the breakfast table at home. She might look still stranger receiving his mother's guests in the stately old drawing room and at the dinners that were given weekly by the old fashioned folk in his country. He shuddered as he thought of the latter, even though at that same moment Enriqueta was swinging in his hammock and taking sly puffs now and then from his own cigarette, for she could not be made to see that forks and knives should be used instead of fingers when eating.

The other men in the camp of course knew about Dupont's flirtation with that thick-skinned girl, but it was not one of their business, and then from his own cigarette, for she could not be made to see that forks and knives should be used instead of fingers when eating.

Besides, many of them had flirtations of their own from Sublieutenant Jackson down to the boots boy, and people who live in glass houses should not throw stones.

Pinos Altos had become so regenerated at last that the married men began to talk of the coming of their wives and the fixing up of quarters. There were great stir and bustle and hammering and scouring and mending begun on all sides in the married quarters. Even the unregenerate unmarried men sheepishly did what they could to aid the laboring Beneditos—It would be so good to see a white woman again, they all agreed. Dupont didn't care—he knew all the married women of the Seventh, and they were, according to his ideas, slower than most; no fun in them—no go! And as for some harmless flirtations! He smiled as he thought of it. The Mrs. James and the time that he had dared to squeeze her hand at a dance. How "hopping angry" she had been! No, it didn't matter to him whether they came or not. Enriqueta, savage as she was, had more life and go in her than the entire outfit. By the way, he must take care that they didn't find out about her, else he would be out. It isn't pleasant to be out by the only white women in one's station.

It was much jollier after the women came, for they stirred things up, as women are in the habit of doing, and many little amusements were organized, such as picnics and riding parties and card games and small dances, where there were just about enough couples to make the lancers come out straight. Dupont faithfully took his part in everything, though of late he had been drinking rather heavily, and two or three of the women didn't any longer speak to him. They had their suspicions about Enriqueta. In a little place one is obliged to know these things, so I am told—but, above all, when you invite a gentleman (and an officer) to play cards with you it is awkward to have him come very nearly drunk and entirely boisterous.

The truth of the matter was that Dupont was tired—tired of Enriqueta, and his unavailing efforts to get rid of her had driven him to drink and distraction. He had always drunk, of course, to a certain extent; never as he had been doing of late.

Did you ever notice the man in the switching tower? Does it ever occur to you that the lives of every living person on a train frequently depend on the promptness and intelligence with which he moves the switch levers under his control?

If men could only realize how small a thing may act at the critical instant to switch them from a dangerous track on to one of perfect safety, the yearly deaths from lung diseases would be less by many thousands.

I had a regular consumptive cough, of which I was afraid, and everybody continued to warn me concerning it," says Mr. A. F. Novotny, P. O. Box 147, New York, in a significant letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. "When I started to take your medicine I was losing weight rapidly. I was very pale and had no appetite whatever. I used three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and now my condition is changed entirely. I do not cough at all. I have gained eight pounds in weight, have gained my healthy color, and my appetite is enormous. I can and will recommend your medicine to everybody who may be in need of it as it is a sure cure, and no humbug as so many other patent medicines are. It is by far the superior of all."

One chapter of Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser tells of nearly one hundred men and women thus promptly switched from the track of death by this matchless remedy. This book is sent free for the bare cost of mailing, 2 one-cent stamps or cloth-bound for 30 stamps. But only one copy to one family.

PHASANTS IN THE SACRAMENTOS.

The Effort Being Made to Give the Birds a Start.

Attorney W. A. Hawkins, of the El Paso and Northeastern railroad, has obtained about twelve of the Mongolian pheasants, with which he intends to stock the Sacramento mountains. The pheasants have been shipped to Judge Allen Blacker's place, where the effort to propagate them will be made. Not many could be secured, as they are hard to get at this time of year. The birds, however, breed very rapidly, and the Sacramentos are admirably adapted for their propagation. The pheasant is a very hardy bird, and will do well in any country where there is a regular rainfall and good cover, as there is in the Sacramentos. This is the breeding season, and it is expected that the birds will bring out several broods this year. The hens nest twice each year, bringing forth a brood of ten or twelve each, which they turn over to the cock for his care and protection. They are soon big enough to take care of themselves, and then the hens nest again, bringing forth a second brood. The pheasants cost about $3 each. If they can be protected for a few years the Sacramentos will ultimately be stocked with one of the finest game birds in the world. The Mongolian pheasant is a little larger than the prairie chicken, has beautiful plumage, and is very swift of wing, making a difficult target for the sportsman. In Oregon and Washington they were protected by law for a period of five years, and now there are thousands of them in those states. It may be that the New Mexico laws afford sufficient protection, but if not, then Mr. Hawkins will ask the next legislature to pass a law that will protect the birds.

TALL MOUNTAIN PEAKS.

New Maps Show Altitude of Mountains Near Santa Fe.

Superintendent of Forest Reserves W. H. Buntin to-day received new and large maps of the Pecos forest reserve, such as are being made of all government forest reserves. N. L. King, of the general surveyor's office at Santa Fe, drafted the maps. An interesting fact is that the height of all mountain peaks has been ascertained. There are thirty-one peaks on the reserve more than 10,000 feet high. Twelve are over 12,000 feet in altitude. The highest on the reserve are the Truchas peaks, being respectively 13,396 and 13,275 feet high. Mount Baldy, near Santa Fe, is 12,623 feet high; the Lake Peak has an altitude of 12,385 feet, and there are two others near Santa Fe 10,900 and 10,700 feet high respectively.

It is reported that caterpillars are playing great havoc on the reserve, eating all the leaves from the trees. The caterpillars prefer the leaves of the quaking asp. Shovelers of the caterpillars are taken up and burned.

BLANKETS—

The finest and largest lot of Chimallo blankets in town can be seen at Gold's General Store.

Clerk Lester's Visit.

F. E. Lester, clerk of the agricultural college at Mesilla Park, intends to leave Santa Fe this evening. He is much pleased with his visit, and thinks that a number of Santa Fe young people will next year enter the college. Mr. Lester also said that he had received letters from the parties who investigated this vicinity with the intention of determining how Santa Fe and surroundings are adapted to sugar beet growing, which indicate that a beet sugar plant will be erected here, as sugar beets raised at Santa Fe surpass in quality those raised anywhere else in the west, as has been determined by tests made at the agricultural college.

A GLORIOUS RAIN.

First of Consequence in Months—Weather Exceeds That of Denver.

Shortly before the rain and thunder storm broke loose this afternoon over Santa Fe the heat felt somewhat oppressive. A call at the weather bureau by a reporter developed the fact that the thermometer stood at 84 at 1 o'clock and at 79 at 2 o'clock. The barometer was rapidly falling, and the humidity was increasing. Five minutes after 2 a refreshing rain commenced and continued until small rivers ran in the gutters.

Last year the rainy season commenced June 6. The highest temperature for June last year was 91. The highest temperature on record for June was 92 degrees for three successive days in June, 1881.

The thermometer at Denver last Sunday marked 96, and at Santa Fe 82. Monday the record was 100 at Denver and 84 at Santa Fe. The humidity in Chicago ran up to 71 and above. It ranges here at this time from 8 to about 30.

ALAMOGORDO ACTIVE

Building More Houses Than Any Other New Mexico Town and Business Is Good.

MANNING'S PUMPKIN STORY

Merchants Are All Making Money and No Summer Dullness Prevails in Otero County's Capital—Its Advantages.

J. F. Manning, who sojourned in the city Sunday and Monday from Alamogordo, tells many glowing tales of the southern country and its future possibilities. In fact, he is so enthusiastic over the matter that several of his friends have various limbs talked off and others are thinking of hiring a hall and inducing him to give a course of lectures on the salubrious climate and imperial resources of the new Eldorado. To a New Mexican representative Mr. Manning said:

"Alamogordo is unquestionably the best town and the Alamogordo News the best newspaper in the territory. From a water tank eight months ago, a city of 2,000 inhabitants has sprung up and it is still springing. Other railways have sought in vain for the breed of tank that hatches such cities, but the El Paso & Northeastern seems to have a monopoly on them. I have no doubt but what, in two years' time, Alamogordo will have a population of 5,000 and then the other towns in this part of the country will have to look to their laurels.

"What is there to support the place? Everything imaginable. Stock raising, agriculture, coal, timber, mining, fruit growing, etc. The town will have the railway shops, two large saw mills with a capacity of 100,000 feet of lumber a day, and a county seat. Even now, it gives evidence of more enterprise than any other city in the territory. It has one of the best conducted hotels in the west, electric lights, street sprinkler, and all possible modern adjuncts to progression. An excellent depot building, dwellings, in profusion, that cost from $2,000 to $5,000 and a number of large brick business houses are now shown. The town is no 'kid.' It has long pants, suspenders and all the other paraphernalia of manhood.

"Well, I would dislike to say that the climate of Alamogordo is superior to that of every other place. But one can procure any climate imaginable there. Up in the mountains icicles grow as long as Peffer's whiskers and form an important branch of the summer industries.

"Down below, the climate is semi-tropical. Figs, melons, peaches, plums, etc., grow in profusion. I never heard of a frost or drought affecting the fruit interests of the Tularosa plateau. I brought along a large basket of ripe figs when I left there, but they were stolen from me on the train. And, by the way, those same figs grow as large as toy balloons. All kinds of garden truck are raised. A man once told me that the pumpkin vines grew so fast there that they were out the pumpkins, dragging them over the ground, but everything else does well. It is no uncommon thing to see potatoes there that weigh from three to five pounds, one of which will furnish a meal for three or four persons. I have never seen as large cottonwood trees in my life as I found at La Luz and Tularosa. Last Sunday the Sunday schools of Tularosa held a picnic under one tree. The shade of some of those trees spreads from 50 to 75 feet. Four or five of them make an impenetrable forest.

"But, without joshing, you can say that Alamogordo is the best business town in the territory. The merchants are all making lots of money, and I have not so far heard of anyone complaining about hard times or dull business conditions incident to the summer. And the business men are generally progressive. I only know of one or two business men who do not advertise. No, there are no script stores. The laborers trade where they choose."

INFANTRY INVITED TO LAS VEGAS.

They Must, However, Provide for Their Own Entertainment.

Adjutant General W. H. Whiteman has addressed the following letter to Col. John Borrodale, of Albuquerque: "Dear Colonel: I wrote Lieutenant Colonel Rankin upon the matter of inviting the 1st territorial infantry to attend the reunion, and received reply from him last night; he said that an invitation was sent to Colonel McCord that included the whole regiment, and he supposed the colonel had or would make the invitation known to the officers and men of the regiment. He says that the whole regiment is invited, and hopes they will appear in uniform. I understand, though there is this difference, that it, being rough riders' day, the officers and men of that regiment are made special guests of the City of Las Vegas, and will be quartered and fed by the city, and that they could not undertake to care for all the men of the territorial infantry, but all will be welcomed, and they will do their best to make their visit a pleasant one to all. Very respectfully,

"W. H. WHITEMAN,"
"Adjutant General."

RAISING THE TAXES

City Council Finds That Levy of 10 Mills Will Not See the City Through.

ORDINANCES TO BE REVISED

City Marshal and Others Appointed to Revise and Compile Ordinances—Arrangements Made to Pay Interest Coupons This Year.

The city council met in regular session last evening. Only a bare quorum was present, those in attendance being Canuto Alarid, Sol. Spiegelberg, John Patterson, Eugenio Sena and R. L. Baca. A considerable important business was transacted, and interesting discussions took place.

There was not a dissenting vote upon any measure, although some were considered adopted without a vote for or against.

A resolution was passed, to be sent to the congressional delegate of the territory, he to present it to the secretary of the interior. The resolution asks that the president make a present to the city of the Fort Marcy reservation, as an act of congress allows him to do. The petition is similar to the one sent months ago to President McKinley. The mayor said that the secretary of the old council had informed him that the first petition had not been sent. Mr. Baca answered that not only the first petition had been sent, but that a second answered that not only the first but a second was sent, and that he had letters from the president's secretary acknowledging the receipt of the petitions and stating that they had been referred to the secretary of the interior. Mr. Baca also said that Delegate Perea had a talk with the assistant secretary of the interior, and had promised to push the matter. The council decided that the letters Mr. Baca had received should be made a part of the petition.

A communication was read from City Attorney R. C. Gortner asking whether the city has certified to the board of county commissioners the amount required for levy for general city purposes, the law allowing the city to levy 10 mills for city purposes and an extra levy for interest on bonds. The mayor was authorized to make a levy of 10 mills for general purposes, and an extra levy for the interest account. Last year the whole levy was only 10 mills.

Treasurer Charles A. Schuchert reported that there is $546.09 in the treasury.

Mr. Baca offered a resolution proposing not to pay any interest coupons except those falling due this year until money is collected for the purpose of paying the interest coupons of other years out of levies made for the fiscal year in which said coupons fell due.

The light committee reported substantially like the report published in the New Mexican a week or so ago. It had been informed that the company, when it received the franchise for its work, also received a contract to furnish forty water plugs at $2,000 a year. This contract is part of the franchise and part of the collateral offered for the money that was secured to build the plant. An agreement also existed between the old council and the light company for ten to thirty 32 candle-power lights for $3.33 a light per month.

Mr. Spiegelberg explained the report, and stated that the water company had practically never received any pay from the city for the light it furnished, and the water had been paid for with Bate-man bonds, on which neither principal nor interest has thus far been paid. Under those circumstances, Mr. Spiegelberg said that the taxpayers have no right to kick or complain, and that the council is powerless to abridge the original contract. If anything is to be done, then let the kicking taxpayers take the matter in hand, said the councilman.

A dispute arose as to whether the water company had ever been paid for electric lights. Mr. Baca said it had not, but the company had regularly presented a bill of $650 every three months for plug rent and sprinkling, and that the old council always authorized the paying of $500 on those bills; that the electric lights that burned in the city during the session of the legislature had not been paid for by the city council, but from other sources.

Mr. Spiegelberg insisted that his report and all complaints about the water company be spread on the minutes, so that should the bondholders sue the city there would be the records to show that complaints had been made that the company was not keeping its contract. The mayor was appointed a committee to interview Captain Day and to reach some agreement with him on the light and water questions, and to report to the council at its next meeting.

Mayor Sloan then appointed the following standing committees:

Finance—Baca, Patterson, Spiegelberg.

Streets and bridges—Patterson, Alarid, Sena.

Fire—Spiegelberg, Lopez, Alarid.

Public Works—Baca, Patterson, Lopez.

Health—Patterson, Baca, E. Sena.

Ordinance and licenses—Baca, Alarid, Spiegelberg.

Sewers—Patterson, Baca, E. Sena.

Police—Patterson, Baca, Lopez.

Upon motion of Mr. Patterson, it was resolved to revise the ordinances and compile them in a more convenient form than the present book of ordinances. It was understood that those working on the ordinances should be compensated for their labor. Attention was called to the fact that the law will not allow a councilman to be paid for work done for the city. Only the members of the committee, not councilmen, will therefore probably be paid. The mayor appointed as such committee the city clerk, the city marshal, the city attorney, and Councilmen Baca and E. Sena. It is understood that the mayor is an ex-officio member of all standing committees.

The matter of appointing a new city attorney was then broached by Mr. Baca.

The mayor stated that he would make an appointment at the next meeting.
