DREYFUS CONVICTED

The Expected Happened and the Man
Was Found Guilty Because Generals Said He Was.

TEN YEARS' IMPRISONMENT

Labori Did Not Speak Because the Judges
Disliked Him—The Audience Urged Dreyfus to Have Courage—He Asserted Innocence.

Rennes, September 9.—This morning's session of the Dreyfus court-martial opened at 7:30 o'clock. Extraordinary precautions for the prevention of an outbreak had been taken, detachments of police and military having been stationed both inside and outside of the lycée. Every person entering the building was obliged to submit to search for concealed arms. A triple detachment of infantry and artillery men was stationed in the court yard, which was surrounded by shelves of piled arms with fixed bayonets. Only Mme. Labori and four other ladies were present in the press seats. Only about fifty of the general public were admitted. No ladies except those mentioned were allowed in the court room, even "Mme. Blanche" being excluded. The court room had a fringe of gendarmes and other officers plentifully sprinkled among the spectators and press representatives. Dreyfus looked unwell as he entered. He is apparently under an intense strain.

Demange pointed to the contrast between the private life of Esterhazy and Dreyfus, showed that Dreyfus on Devil's island was constantly turning his eyes to France and asking for justice from his chiefs, while Esterhazy was attacking and writing insulting letters to the chiefs, and after asking God to enlighten the minds of the judges, Demange concluded with turning to the audience, and in a voice choked with emotion and hands trembling, said: "You, gentlemen, be you for or against me in the inspiration of the sublime thought of M. Mornard before the court of cassation, I tell you we are all Frenchmen. Consequently, let us unite in a common love of the fatherland, love of justice and love for the army."

An outburst of cheers followed the lawyer's appeal. Demange sank back in his seat as if exhausted.

A loud clapping of hands greeted the conclusion of Demange's finely delivered peroration. Dreyfus, however, appeared impassive. But as he left the stage he exclaimed to those around him: "I am not guilty." The prisoner's hearers replied with cries of "Courage! Courage!"

Dreyfus was pronounced guilty. The crowd outside the court greeted the verdict with cheers for the army.

Dreyfus was sentenced to ten years of imprisonment.

The court stood 5 to 2 for condemnation of the prisoner. Rennes, September 9.—The Dreyfus verdict was returned at 5:02 p. m. The court found extenuating circumstances. Every ticket holder entering the lycée was again searched on reaching the court room. After an intermission the judges re-entered the court at 3 p. m. precisely. They were all extremely serious. There was a hush in the court room when Major Carrière arose, and in a deathly calm and dignified tone made a short speech, concluding with asking for the imposition of the verdict and punishment of 1894.

Demange replied with a few words. Then Dreyfus flushed and said hoarsely: "I affirm I am innocent." The prisoner added that he lived for his own honor and the honor of his wife and children, and after five years of frightful torture he was convinced that at last he would receive justice.

Ringing bells announced the entry of the judges. The officer ordered "Carry arms!" and "Present arms!" the rattle of rifles following, and then Colonel Jouaust marched in, followed by the other judges. The gendarmes shouted "Silence!" and the stillness of death fell on the audience, who waited with heart in mouth for the announcement of Dreyfus' fate.

Colonel Jouaust read the judgment, which opened with the question referred to the judges by the court of cassation, "Was Dreyfus guilty of entering into machinations to send secret documents to a foreign power?" He then gave the answer that the court, by a majority of 5 to 3, found Dreyfus guilty. He concluded by saying that the court would remain sitting until the room was cleared. He asked the audience to go out quietly and not raise a shout of any sort.

TO BE SETTLED BY COURTS

The Large Land Owner Thought It Best,
It Is Said, to Have His Property
Go Through the Hands of the Courts.

Kansas City, Sept. 9.—The foundation has been laid for a long contest over the four million dollar estate left by the late Wilson Waddingham who died in New York about three months ago. This property includes vast tracts of land in the west and southwest. His will filed here a few weeks ago named Floyd T. Beals and C. H. T. Lewis, Kansas City bankers, as executors. This will was executed in 1892 and provided for payment of $10,000 annually to his widow and liberally remembered many relatives.

These executors were greatly surprised yesterday when local attorneys filed a revocation of the will and asked for the appointment of Cassius M. Gilbert, who has been in charge of the Waddingham interests here, as executor. The revocation was dated in 1896 had been entrusted to Philadelphia attorneys. The revocation makes no provision whatever for distribution of the vast estate but simply revokes the will. One of Waddingham's sons-in-law, is Wm. J. Mills, of Las Vegas, chief justice of the supreme court of New Mexico. It is believed he will be called into the case by the heirs. Waddingham has been married twice.

There are many claimants and many claims against the estate. In a letter the Philadelphia attorney quotes the aged millionaire as having said of his relatives: "They will get the money anyhow and if the court decide the matter there will be none to bear me ill. It will be a better way to settle the matter than I can select."

Another Hurricane.

Washington, September 9.—The weather bureau has issued the following special bulletin: At 11 a. m. a hurricane center is north of east of Porto Rico, and moving in the direction of Bermuda. It will not reach the United States coast. The island of St. Christopher last night a maximum wind of sixty miles an hour, terrific seas and torrential rains.

St. Thomas, D. W. I., September 9.—Advices to-day from Antigua say the island suffered severely from the storm which prevailed yesterday. Many small houses were destroyed and a number of lighters and other boats lost.

Weekly Bank Statement.

New York, Sept. 9.—The weekly bank statement shows the following changes: Surplus reserve, decreased, $6,732,325; deposits, decreased, $6,016,700; specie, decreased, $7,010,700; legal tenders, decreased, $3,500,300; deposits, decreased, $15,354,700; circulation, increased, $306,200. Banks hold $2,458,925 in excess of requirements.

Illness of the Troops.

Manila, September 5, via Hong Kong, September 9.—The censor refused to allow the following dispatch, the accuracy of which is unquestioned, to be telegraphed: The surgeons' reports in regard to the condition of General MacArthur's division show 36 per cent of officers and 25 per cent of enlisted men sick. This includes the sick in quarters and those sent home. Eleven per cent of enlisted men are sick in quarters, and are mostly suffering from dysentery and malarial fever.

Manila, September 9.—Four hundred and fifty rebels with one cannon attacked Santa Rita early this morning. Simultaneously Guagua and San Antonio were attacked by sixty rebels.

All the insurgents were repulsed without loss to the Americans. Colonel Bell and his regiment, while attempting to take the rebels in the rear, met two small patrols and succeeded in capturing a rebel captain, a lieutenant and six privates.

A Filipino who arrived here from Visaya islands says that Victoriano Mapa, a prominent and wealthy lawyer of Iloilo, being forced by public opinion to declare his politics, joined the rebels. The inhabitants of Santa Barbara, the rebel headquarters in the island of Panay, have abandoned the town, fearing bombardment by the United States battle-ship Oregon.

Caracas, Venezuela, September 9.—The revolution under the leadership of General Castro is gaining ground. The insurgents now occupy Niquera, three days' march from Valencia.

Colored Troops to Be Organized.

Washington, September 9.—An order for the organization of two colored regiments was issued from the war department to-day. All the field officers are white men now in the regular army. All the companies are colored men who served in the war with Spain. The regiments will be designated the 48th and 49th volunteer infantry. The 48th will be organized at Fort Thomas, Ky., and the 49th at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Alleged Outlaw Thieves Arrested.

Live Stock Inspector Marion Littleill, of Las Vegas, has had J. W. Jones and Bert Lilly arrested at Trinidad for stealing stock near Raton. Lilly is also under indictment in Colfax county for a similar offense some months ago. It is said that these two men belong to a gang of thieves operating in Colorado and New Mexico.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9.

French military officers may not know how to handle a gun, but the most of them seem to be handy with a pen.

In the first half of this week the official weather reports all along from Denver to St. Louis and Chicago, showed a temperature of from 88 to 101 degrees. In Santa Fe, however, the report was 84.

Just as the price of beef was getting so high that one needed a long-distance aerial telephone to get into communication with it, the game season opened. Pretty soon it may be said that deer is dear, but beef is dearer, and one can bear to buy bear more easily than to buy beef.

General Buckner, of Kentucky, ex-governor of that state, says that the Republicans will elect General Taylor governor, but that he will be counted out under the management of Goebel. General Buckner is a staunch Democrat. He does not like Goebel a little bit, and says he would cut off his hand rather than vote for such a fraud.

According to the dispatches of yesterday the British suddenly concluded that there was no use in being too brash about firing ultimatums at the Boers for fear the return fire would not be in kind. The discovery that the Boers had assembled on the border, cocked their guns and were getting the range of the enemy probably had something to do with the procrastination.

The enormous aggregate of gold on hand, making the stability of the currency absolutely certain, is not the only subject for congratulation in connection with national finances. According to the treasury statement to the end of August, there has been a reduction in the public debt of $4,281,116, and this, while heavy expenditures have been required to prosecute the war in the Philippines and for maintaining garrisons in Cuba and Porto Rico.

New Mexico has the call lately on mining sales, for even Colorado has not had so many to report. The sale of the Ortiz grant for mining purposes at $2,000,000 is one that has not been excelled in value in mining transactions this year by any except Stratton's Independence at Cripple Creek and the Andacoma copper mines. A dozen other New Mexico sales this year figure up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. And the ball has just begun.

New Mexico in September could furnish almost any desired degree of temperature. Near Santa Fe, in the high mountains, frost has already occurred, while the air here has not been suggestive of it. In some of the lower valleys a high temperature still prevails. At the capital a happy medium has continued, while at Denver, a day's journey northward, the temperature has been 14 degrees higher than in this city.

The aggregate of gold in the United States treasury at the end of August was the greatest yet recorded, the total being $247,880,601. When the yellow metal was steadily leaving the treasury during the Cleveland administration, and a syndicate of New York bankers was formed to stop it, the utmost trepidation existed among business men in general. Now the situation is just the reverse. There is confidence on all sides, business booms, and the gold balance has steadily grown until the high-water mark has been reached.

Iron and steel are still in great and increasing demand, and the mines have not yet been able to output more rapidly than the market requires. The continued upward trend of prices for raw material is beginning to affect all branches of manufactures of iron and steel. Machinery for mining purposes, because of its great weight, was the first to feel the effect of the high prices, and now other machinery of lighter kinds is advancing in price. That the prices will soon go to a lower figure there is little hope for this year, as it is now expected that the output will fall short of the estimate. Pig iron is not being produced as fast as consumed, and a great deal of old machinery is going to the foundries to be recast and manufactured into modern forms.

Americans Expanding.

In Washington there are experts upon all sorts of subjects. Some of them have recently been collecting statistics from the manufacturers of ready-made clothing to ascertain whether the American man is increasing in size. The astonishing discovery has been made that the clothing makers have had to add to their line another size with a waist measurement of 47 1/2 inches, so great is the demand for clothing of that ample girth. In 1889, 44 inches was the limit. Hotel men say the increase in flesh is due to the greater use of farinaceous foods. Other authorities say that lack of exercise, the use of elevators, street cars and other labor-saving conveniences causes the increase of adipose tissue. An increase of any inch and a quarter in ten years is alarming. If this is kept up it will take but 1,000 years for the world to be producing men 16 feet around.

Manila as a Cotton Market.

Senator Morgan says the future of the cotton market of the world will be Manila, and that the cotton from the south will be sent there direct by the Nicaragua canal instead of by Liverpool. Two-thirds of the population of the world is in Asia, and will be reached from Manila, where cheap labor will operate manufacturing. The Alabama senator foresees that by ceasing to pay toll through Liverpool a more profitable market will be gained for southern cotton growers. He thinks expansion is greatly in the interest of the south. Perhaps New England cotton mill owners also see that they will be unable to secure cotton and to sell fabrics when the south does business direct with the Asiatics. That may account for opposition to expansion.

Encouraging Tree Planting.

The division of forestry of the department of agriculture has decided to aid farmers in the west to establish plantation forests by co-operating with them in the necessary work. A circular has been issued explaining conditions upon which such help may be had. Upon application of a land owner an agent of the department will advise the applicant as to the best varieties of trees to plant in each particular locality, and where practicable will personally superintend the planting and instruct in methods of cultivation, such assistance to be free of charge except where a tract in excess of five acres is to be planted. By conserving the moisture and tempering the wind, forest plantations modify the local climate to a very marked degree. As the farmers of the plains come to recognize more fully the great indirect as well as direct value of foreign plantations, wood lots, shelter belts and wind breaks, scattered over the treeless regions, the result will prove of vast importance in the development of the west.

More About Cantaloupes.

This paper has been advising New Mexico farmers to grow good varieties of cantaloupes and seek the eastern market. The following facts indicate that profit in this branch of agriculture is large for western producers. The Rocky Ford (Colo.) cantaloupes pack forty-five to a crate. The wholesale price averages above $1 per crate. A recent photograph taken at Rocky Ford of a wagon load of 117 crates of cantaloupes, valued at $200, and hauled by one pair of horses, shows how valuable is the product. The entire load was the result of but one day's picking from five acres.

One St. Louis dealer has handled nearly the entire Rocky Ford crop this year, and paid therefor over $400,000.

In Chicago last week the Rocky Ford melons brought $1 per dozen at retail, while the sweet Michigan gems went beginning at 20 to 30 cents per basket. Saturday in St. Louis home-grown melons sold for 50 cents per crate and the Rocky Fords at $1.75. Reports from other eastern markets are in consonance with the above.

Melons from other Colorado towns sell equally as well when properly packed and graded. The favorite size is not much larger than the doubled fists of a man, just large enough to serve individually at restaurants.

The Transvaal Treasure.

The English people have abundant reason for seeking to control the portion of the Transvaal country where gold mines are located. No less than 90,000 miners are employed. Outlanders and blacks, the latter refusing to do that class of work. The average value of the ore is only $10.50 per ton. Cyanide treatment instead of smelting reduces the cost of production to $4.50 per ton with large plants. The great magnitude of the fields, the absolute continuity of the ore and its positiveness with depth form the great value of the district. The output for 1898 was 141 tons avoirdupois of fine gold, a modest load for a freight train. Batteries of 200 stamps, each weighing 1,200 pounds, and crushing nearly five tons apiece daily, are quite common. During the last year forty companies, with an aggregate investment of $65,000,000, paid dividends that averaged 34.6 per cent for the total investment, the market value of the stock being 400 to 600 per cent above par. As English capital operates nearly all the mines, the extent of England's interests in the Transvaal are seen.

The Irrigation Congress.

The irrigation congress to meet at Missoula, Mont., September 25, should certainly be attended by the delegates chosen by Governor Otero. There must be no public gathering concerning irrigation and the disposition of arid lands without New Mexico being represented. The objects of the national irrigation association, which called the congress, are set forth officially by the constitution and by laws as follows:

The leasing of the public grazing lands at a nominal rent in limited areas to settlers farming adjacent lands, the revenue from rentals to go to the states for irrigation development, leases to be subject to right of reclamation by irrigation and of settlement of lands actually cultivated, title of land to remain in federal government until actual settlement, the leasing of said lands to be under the control of the states where situated and the revenues arising therefrom to be expended by the states under the direction of their state engineering bureau; provided, that in any state having no engineering bureau, the federal government may lease the lands and expend the revenues in the construction of irrigation works in that state.

The construction by the federal government of storage reservoirs for flood protection, and to save for use in aid of navigation and irrigation the flood waters which now run waste, and also the construction wherever necessary of reservoirs and irrigation works to furnish water for the reclamation and actual settlement of the arid public lands.

The preservation of the forests as sources of water supply, the conservation of existing supplies by approved methods of irrigation and distribution, and the increase of the water resources of the arid region by the investigation and development of underground supplies.

and beneficial use be the measure of the right. The holding of an annual irrigation congress and the dissemination, by public meetings and through the press, of information regarding irrigation, and the reclamation and settlement of the arid public domain, and the possibilities of better agriculture through intensive farming.

PRESS COMMENT.

(Galveston News.) The Cuban people have suffered as few people have from the beginning of time. For hundreds of years they have been ground down by foreign tax gatherers, only in the end to have their land harried into almost a desert. They are weak from the century's burdens. They are crushed to earth in the struggle which culminated in the relief from the burdens. They are in no condition to take up the task of self-government when it is demonstrated that they are threatened with a plague of politicians whose claims will inevitably result in further agony to the people. The Cuban war has produced a myriad of soldiers of fortune—soldiers of fortune of her own and of this soil. There is but one relief from them, and that is annexation.

FUTURE OF MANILA.

(Kansas City Star.) Senator Morgan points to Hong Kong as an example of what Americans can make of Manila. Hong Kong has been transformed in sixty years by the British from a sterile rock to the second or third largest shipping port in the world, and he has faith that the capital of the Philippines is destined to become a greater port than the English island city off the coast of China. Senator Morgan is about to start a campaign in the south to arouse sentiment in favor of expansion, for the reasons here stated. In doing this he is going contrary to the beliefs of the leaders of his party, but the senator is putting partisanship under his feet and standing up for the manifest destiny of his country and for what he conceives to be the best interests of the people of the south, whom he has represented with conspicuous ability for many years in the United States senate.

UNDOUBTEDLY RIGHT.

(Indianapolis News.) Murat Halstead has not lost his courage, and he had it with him last night in Cincinnati, when, in response to his address on the Philippines before an audience that was in sympathy with Agulmaide, one of the audience "hoped Ovis would be kept in a wood contrived blundering until he and our whole army were driven into the sea and captured." Mr. Halstead promptly said a man with those sentiments was a traitor to his country, and he reiterated his definition when it was retorted that two-thirds of the audience felt the same way. Mr. Halstead is exactly right. A man who holds such sentiments is a traitor to his country. A man might oppose his country's policy, but to express the wish that our armies should be captured or driven into the sea by his country's enemy is certainly traitorous. Any political party that subscribes to such sentiments will feel the wrath of the American people.

ALTGELD NOMINATED BRYAN. (Brooklyn Standard Union.) Ex-Governor Altgeld, of Illinois, is the controlling spirit in the Democracy to-day. And it is not a divided Democracy that he controls, either. His power has been growing ever since he made William J. Bryan the Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1896. It was great before—so great that he was able to seize the political machinery of one of the principal parties of the country at the Chicago convention when his opponents in his own party were in control of the presidency. Leaving the silver question out of consideration, the Chicago platform of 1896 was openly a socialistic programme.

NORTH POLE MYSTERIES.
The return of an Arctic explorer clears up many mysteries, who says that much new land was discovered in Weddell Sea, and open water was seen far to the south. This shows that the great wall of ice reported by early explorers was a myth. Arctic explorers are not the only ones who meet with deception. Many people with indigestion and dyspepsia have been deceived so many times that they believe there is no cure. They can be cured through hundreds of medicines have failed. Take the only reliable medicine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which also cures constipation, nervousness, sleeplessness and liver and kidney disorders. Do not accept a substitute. See that a private Revenue Stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

The Stolen Kiss.
The hammock hung between the trees.
The maiden fair
Lay in it with her eyelids closed—
He saw her there.
With wildly beating heart he stole
Up to her side
And softly to her ripe, red lips
His own he applied.
He kissed her—kissed the gentle maid,
So fair, so sweet,
And with a tumult in his breast
Beat a retreat.
At length she slowly straightened up,
With open eyes:
He took but one, she said and sighed
A lot of sighs.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF DIARRHOEA.

A PROMINENT VIRGINIA EDITOR.
Had Almost Given Up, but Was Brought Back to Perfect Health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

READ HIS EDITORIAL.

(From the Times, Hillsdale, Va.)
I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time, and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well in my readers and fellow-sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man to-day, and feel as well as I ever did in my life.—O. R. Moore, Sold by A. C. Ireland.

The Moral is Plain.
The Saintly Man finally accosted the Other Man.

How long have you been addicted to the tobacco habit? The Saintly Man demanded, with the brusquerie befitting his sense of rectitude.

Forty years, answered the Other Man, humbly.
Do you see that twenty story building yonder? asked the Saintly Man.
Yes, sir, the Other Man replied. If I had saved the money I have spent for tobacco, I might own that building, merely, or two or three like it, at most. But fortunately I learned to use tobacco, so that now I have but to stick a ten cent perfect in my face and I own the earth!

This fable teaches—but let it go at that.—Detroit Journal.

AROUND ELIZABETHTOWN.

What Some of the Mines There Are Showing.

The custom mill is busy at Elizabethtown and adding mine owners to work their property. Tom Pullman is opening his big vein on the James lease at Baldy. The richness is found in the slate interstices and in a red ore so desirable in this mining field. The vein of pay ore is from 6 to 10 feet.

The Paragon mine, adjoining the Black Horse property, has been bonded to W. C. Scott, who has formed a co-operative development company to extract the ore and have them treated.

Some of the best miners in the district have associated themselves with this gentleman in the opening of this claim. Mr. Scott is acknowledged by the mining fraternity of this whole section to be authority on both mines and milling operation and construction, and is consulting engineer for the most intelligent and progressive operators in this section.

The Edison mill at Midnight is doing effective work under the management of Mr. Penneck, and the weekly clean-ups are most satisfactory to all concerned.

B. Madock, of La Belle, the owner and proprietor of the Rome hotel in that mining camp, is negotiating with eastern capitalists for the floating of a company to develop his Colorado tunnel proposition. The tunnel is in a couple hundred feet and directed toward the four claims on the mountain above, which have ore bodies uncovered and are certain producers, so as the veins are cut below.

David Baumert, formerly of Longmont, is engaged in his old occupation of placer mining. His successful operations on Comanche creek and now on Grouse gulch are a source of gratification to his many friends.

C. J. Dold, superintendent and general manager of the Montezuma Gold Mining Company, reports his assay department crowded with work. The quartz miners are testing and sampling their ores as never before in the history of mining about Elizabethtown, and truly an era of business prosperity seems about to dawn in the particular line of mining and milling.

On the "68" a double shift of men have been pushing a cross-cut to explore a quartzite dike which was thought to be the extension of the Red Bandana by the parties who have the bond and lease.

Ed Slattery, of Baldy, has located the Copper Mine, and his good judgment was proved when Mr. C. J. Dold, the assayer, found in his rock $20 gold and a large per cent of copper.

Morris & Thompson, merchants at Red River, have been negotiating with Mr. Elspass, the inventor of the roller mill of that name, for a plant to be erected at Red River City. The vast quantity of ore at that point awaiting treatment fully justifies the order.

DISCOVERED BY A WOMAN.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz. Thus writes W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. At Fischer & Co's drug store; regular size 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

IRRIGATION IN THE FAR EAST.

The Primitive Methods Which Modern Science Succeeded.
The following strong word-painting of the primitive methods of irrigation still employed in the land of Northern Syria, the land of the Euphrates, the Orontes and the Tigris, cannot but impress itself on the successful American irrigator who sees the forces of nature subdued and controlled for his benefit through modern engineering ingenuity.

"From the dawn of human ingenuity," says Raghib Raif, in the Irrigation Age, "for centuries unnumbered, wooden water wheels of fearful form and cumbersome weight, huge monsters which gave grudgingly, were used along the river banks, requiring high dams and constant repairs—much attention for meager results. With what success? In winter a heavy, sullen, glooming revolution, turning at the will of the capricious currents, and at a time when water, in the form of rain, is showered down, thus reducing their value as irrigation machines. In summer, when the heats were come, the dry earth cracked and crying, they would stand motionless in their sluggish currents, seeming to ridicule the puny efforts of primitive man."

A WORD TO MOTHERS.
Mothers of children affected with croup or a severe cold need not hesitate to administer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It contains no opiate nor narcotic in any form, and may be given as confidently to the babe as to an adult.

The great success that has attended its use in the treatment of colds and croup has won for it the approval and praise it has received throughout the United States and in many foreign lands. For sale by A. C. Ireland.

Pumping for Irrigation.
Although great mountain storage reservoirs must be the ultimate solution of western development, there is perhaps an indefinite light ahead to convince the people at large of the necessity for and justice of national aid in their construction. In the meantime men are looking around for independent methods of watering their orchards and crops in a small way, with the result that the yearly increase of irrigation pumping outfits is rapid. Many sections of the west are underlaid with stores of water, in most of which this water can be tapped, and through effective pumping systems brought to the surface and distributed for the growing of crops. The geological survey finds that although the aggregate area of such irrigation is comparatively small, there are yet thousands of these independent plants throughout the west. Pumps and windmills are being constantly improved, and the development along these lines in the past few years has been very interesting and rapid.

Unprevaricated Proverbs.

If the X-ray was applied to minds, probably the only one who would not shrink from the ordeal would be the man of consistently evil life.

After a man is thirty he despairs of finding his ideal, while a woman of 30 is apt to see hers in any unattached man of decent looks.

Justice is merely injustice from one point of view.

The less a man does the more time he has for telling what should be done.

Old age is magnified youth.

The speech of love is dangerous only when it becomes a written language.

An unprincipled man may be exceedingly dangerous as an enemy, but is infinitely more as a friend.—Boston Home Journal.

When Women Are Excited.

Wigs—Women don't get excited as often as men.
Wags—Prove it.
Wigs—Well, when a man's excited he sweats.

Wags—Yes.
Wigs—And when a woman's excited she weeps.

Wags—Right again.
Wigs—Well, if a woman should cry every time a man swore we'd have another deluge.—Boyce Monthly.

Trees in New Zealand.

The kauri is the monarch of the New Zealand forest, an indigenous pine, growing to enormous height, frequently 80 feet, before it sends out a bough, while its average diameter is from eight to nine feet. It is said to be 500 years in reaching maturity. There is no underbrush in a kauri forest, the prince of trees permitting no rival within its domain. The totara is another species of pine, which, however, has none of the characteristics of the confere of other countries, either in habit or in appearance.

The most singular of all is the rata, a peculiar tree with somewhat the nature of a parasite. If it springs up near a rimu pine, it winds about it like a huge vine, its tightening coils gradually crushing the life out of the unfortunate pine. When it reaches the top, it sends out branches and stands a hollow shell, its coils knit closely together by a dense network of fibers, which appear in the last stage of its growth. It has a like affinity for its own species, and a second rata springing up beside one of earlier growth will absorb and destroy it as it destroys the rimu. If, however, neither rimu nor rata is within reach, it grows up a respectable and well-behaved tree, attaining a height of from 50 to 60 feet, and is used for masts in shipbuilding.—Chautauquan.

The Eve of the Future.

"The Eve of the Future" is the theme of a writer in the Paris Figaro who is almost willing to admit that she will be an American type, the result of the intermingling of many races and the pursuit of outdoor sports. She will have, he declares, a straight brow, rather low than high; a neck well poised on sloping shoulders—a neck to wear high, narrow collars; slender arms, a waist that could span with two hands, hardly any hips and an independent, manly carriage. "The aristocratic air," he continues, "is not always linked with beauty. As a matter of fact 'blood does not always tell.'"

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Seventy-five young people gathered Thursday afternoon at the beautiful residence of Hon. T. B. Catron in honor of Thomas and Fletcher Catron, the bright sons of Mr. and Mrs. Catron. The greater part of the festivities took place on the fine lawn surrounding the Catron residence. There was dancing and a grand march as well as games on the green sward. The old fashioned Virginia Reel was danced by two or three sets. A Punch and Judy show, a decided novelty in this part of the country, caused unbounded merriment. Delicious refreshments were served. The affair was somewhat in the nature of a farewell party to Thomas Catron, who will leave Sunday evening for the West, to attend military academy at Lexington, Mo.

Johnson, at one time a prominent merchant of Santa Fe, and Jesusita Montoya de Johnson, and was born twenty-nine years ago in this city. He attended St. Michael's college, and proved an apt pupil. After being employed in several stores, the young man was engaged as clerk by Territorial Secretary Lane, and for the past ten years has been the trusted and efficient private secretary and stenographer of Solicitor General E. L. Bartlett. Deceased took an active part in the work of the Roman Catholic church in this city, and sang in the cathedral choir. ### UNION DEPOT NEEDED

People of the Capital City Should Unite in a Move to Secure One This Year.

A CONVENIENCE WANTED

The Railway Company Helps Towns That Are Willing to Help Themselves—The Santa Fe and Rio Grande Would Follow Lead of the People.

A few weeks ago the New Mexican stated that an intimation had been given by a railway man that the Santa Fe Railway Company would probably select this city as the location for the next new depot to be constructed, if the people made an effort to induce such action by asking the two railways to join in a union depot, and by making a contribution of a suitable site and terminal, or by the donation of $2,000.

The Santa Fe Railway Company would be willing to do its share, and undoubtedly the Denver & Rio Grande line, which has been the most progressive company in Colorado, and the one which has most assiduously worked for the interests of the people of that state, could hardly fail to join in the enterprise. At any rate, the Santa Fe would undertake the improvement independently if necessary, upon the donation being made by the people. At Trinidad a very handsome depot is now being constructed by the Santa Fe company and a pretty park planned, as the result of a subscription of $2,000 by the people. The railway is spending $10,000 upon the improvement.

It is the policy of the company to build three or four nice depots along its lines each year. The best towns upon the main lines are being supplied. When travelers find nothing but unsightly and uncomfortable railway buildings, in the outskirts of this city, very unpleasant impressions are created. Both the first and last impressions of the visitors must be unfavorable.

The depots are both disgraceful to the city and the railways. They are at inconvenient places, especially as many of the trains arrive and depart in the night. Their locations and the disagreeable features connected with arrival and departure in the middle of the night are dreaded, and people who have once experienced them do not come to Santa Fe oftener than can be helped. The people of the city are daily put to inconvenience because the depots are located so far from the business center. There are many citizens who do not witness the arrival or departure of a train or go to the depot from one year's end to that of another simply because the distance and surroundings prevent.

Where there is a union depot at some spot like the foot of San Francisco street, Palace avenue it would be a public benefit, worth much money to the city. Such a depot could be surrounded with grounds as attractive as the plaza.

Santa Fe should cease to rely on a reverence for the antique to attract visitors. Ancient possessions are all very well, so far as they go, but for every person attracted to a city because of relics a dozen might be induced to come by modern conveniences and evidences of progress, and when they did come, be influenced to stay instead of doing as some do who come—take a hurried drive around sightseeing and depart by the first train, to stay longer where there is an up-to-date appearance and conveniences for travelers. Santa Fe should not be content with being ranked as a back number. It is not glory enough to be considered the oldest town in the United States. A union depot is one of the modern things most needed. The people must do as do those of other towns that secure such benefits—seek them and back up an effort with offers to help inaugurate the improvement. Railroad companies can get along with old depots with less inconvenience than can the people. But an effort to bring about improvements always interests railway men, and they are never slow to join with the people when the latter have enough enterprise to stir up such matters. Railway managers are not fossils, and their local representatives are always ready to work for the good of the town where they are stationed.

The Santa Fe company has always been friendly to the capital of New Mexico. The corporation's general officers rarely fail to visit this city when on a tour, and they frequently bring capitalists and friends to the city. It ought to be easy to induce the managers to help make the city more attractive if there were evidence of a desire by the people to join in this.

The union depot proposition is worth thinking about, working for and helping by donations of land and money. Unless the people take the initiative the railway managers are liable to forget all about the matter, and Santa Fe will have to put up with the present lack of accommodations perpetually, while pushing towns will get what they go after.
