FRIDAY, JUNE 22.

Governor Roosevelt is to speak at Kansas City on July 3, and the assembled Democratic hosts will discover that he is a bigger show than their whole national convention and collection of political "has-beens" and curiosities.

Berlin intends to hold an international exposition in 1907. This is still a long ways off, but Berlin announces the event long enough beforehand to give every German a chance to make up his mind whether to attend the Berlin or the St. Louis fair.

This is the first presidential election year in a long time that the name of Senator Dewey was not mentioned either for president or vice president. The general senatorial fame, however, is not vanishing, and he will probably be in line again by 1904.

The excursion season has opened and excursion resorts are flourishing as they never flourished before. Times have become so prosperous that nearly every one who has been thrifty and saving during the winter can afford to take off a week or two to spend it in the mountains, in the forests or along the seashore.

The carpenters of Denver went on a strike for higher wages and finally compromised on an advance of 4 cents a week. It will take them just five years to make up the wages they lost during the strike. A strike, unless it is to protest against an obvious injustice, is generally very profitless both to employers as well as to the workmen.

Thousands of acres of alfalfa are being destroyed in Colorado by a new worm pest which preys on alfalfa. The worm not only eats the alfalfa while it is growing, but also gets into stocks and literally eats them up. New Mexico should take measures to prevent that worm from crossing the boundary, for after it once has a foothold it will be difficult to destroy.

It is unjust that the census enumerators will have to wait until September for their pay. Many of them are persons not overburdened with an accumulation of the goods of this world, and the few dollars they earned in taking the census are actually needed by them. Uncle Sam is not stingy otherwise with his servants, and it seems to be an unnecessary hardship to make the enumerators wait until September for their pay.

Mrs. Eddy, the apostle of Christian Scientists, has suffered a stroke of paralysis, and, strange to say, has not been able to cure herself. But this does not shake the faith of her followers, who simply believe now that Mother Eddy chooses to have paralysis by believing that she has it. Now is the time to convince a skeptic world that Christian scientists have the power to rid themselves of disease, but it is to be feared that Mrs. Eddy is not equal to her opportunity.

No matter what platforms may say or newspapers may discuss, expansion is the issue upon which the fall campaign will be fought. It is a question whether this country shall go forward or whether it shall stand still, and that means going backward. The country has thus far expanded every few decades; it was a natural evolution that denoted growth and progress, and despite violent opposition, whenever the time for expansion came, new territory was annexed or taken possession of. Whether this progress is to be reversed, whether the nation is ready to stop growing, is the issue which is to be decided by the ballots in November.

While the situation in China will not create another Dewey, yet it demands of the commander of the American warships in Chinese waters a good deal of diplomacy and circumspection. To act in union with the powers, whose ulterior aim in China is far different from that of the American nation, and at the same time to avoid all criticism at home, is a task that would try even the genius of Admiral Dewey. No matter what the outcome of the present situation may be, there will be criticism at home, and during a political campaign they are generally very unreasonable critics.

Several cities in Colorado have their annual strawberry feast, Rocky Ford has its melon day, and Fort Collins has its raspberry day. These annual anniversaries contribute a good deal toward advertising the staple product of those towns, and have made them famous beyond the boundaries of the state. It would be a good idea if New Mexico towns were to have annual celebrations of that nature, and thus advertise themselves and their products. Better melons than are raised at Rocky Ford can be and are raised in New Mexico, but who ever heard of New Mexico melons on outside markets? If any are exported they probably parade under the name of Rocky Ford, simply because Rocky Ford by such means as melon day has advertised Rocky Ford melons until everybody in buying melons asks for them.

An Invincible Ticket.

McKinley and Roosevelt! Where is the party that can nominate a stronger ticket? Where are the men, even in the Republican party, that would have made more invincible candidates? McKinley, who for nine years has guided the ship of state through the tempests of war, the triumphs of peace, under whose direction the nation has attained its greatest glory, its greatest prosperity; whose administration is already passing into history as the greatest epoch in American history. A man above reproach: a man who, like Abraham Lincoln, squarely met the issues of the day and gave the nation a new and greater birth than its fathers ever conceived. McKinley's honor will not grow less with years. As the decades pass the glory of his administration will increase, it will be called the greatest of the nation's greatest, not only as far as America is concerned, but greatest even in world history. Farsightedness is too bitter still, the events of the past four years are too near to appear in their full magnitude, but already glimpses of the greatness of the events that have just transpired, of the greatness of the nation and the greater greatness of its future are apparent, and with all this greatness the name of President McKinley is inseparably connected for all time to come. Surely, he will be re-elected to complete this work that he has begun, to see as the leader of the nation the first fruits of a reign of four years of stress and anxiety glorious in its victories of war as well as its achievements in peace.

Theodore Roosevelt, a son of the Empire state, but the choice of the young and indomitable west and of the new south; a typical American; a man whom even his enemies admire; a character such as has not yet appeared in American history; a man American in thought and deed; a warrior, a statesman, a literary man, a man of the plains, a man of primeval civilization, and yet a man polished and refined; a man who would have been greater than Cromwell in his age, a man who would have been a George Washington had the opportunity offered itself; the only other man in public life to-day who makes a worthy second man upon a ticket headed by President McKinley; a man who can take up the work of the president if needs be and carry it on as strongly and as wisely as it is carried on to-day.

With such a ticket victory is assured in November. The American people can not be so false to their own interests as to defeat the two men who are greatest in public life to-day, who are best fitted to finish the work that was begun in the past four years. It would be a calamity indeed if these two men were to be defeated. But that is improbable, nay, impossible, for every man who loves his country and gives the issues and the candidates due thought cannot do otherwise than vote for McKinley and Roosevelt!

The Vice-Presidency.

The vice presidency is not the unimportant office that Democrats try to make it appear to be. Especially, with a man like Theodore Roosevelt as vice president, it will assume a dignity and an importance against which the governorship of New York will seem insignificant. Theodore Roosevelt is not a man to be dragged into oblivion by his election to the vice presidential chair. As presiding officer of the senate he will give his impress upon legislation, and as a confidential adviser of the president he will exert a pronounced influence. In his intercourse with the diplomatic corps, with legislators and with political leaders, Governor Roosevelt will be prominent, for he is not a man to be eliminated by the election to any office. Four times in the brief history of the American people vice presidents have been called to fill the presidential chair. Beyond any doubt the founders of the republic intended that the vice president should always be a man of full presidential stature. It never occurred to them that the time would come when anybody would be shallow enough to speak of dragging a man into oblivion by nominating him for vice president. There is only one office within the gift of the American people that is more important than the vice presidency, and that is the presidency. All other public offices dwindle into insignificance when compared with these two great offices of this magnificent republic.

Our National Committee Member.

The choice of Hon. Solomon Luna to serve again from New Mexico as a member of the Republican national committee is an honor well merited. Mr. Luna knows the needs and the desires of the people of New Mexico as very few other men know them, and yet his views extend beyond the horizon of home affairs, and his counsel receives the close attention of his fellow-members of the committee which will result in the election of the McKinley-Roosevelt ticket by a majority that will stand unparalleled since the days of Madison. Mr. Luna can and will do much for the interests of not only the Republican party at large in the country, but also for the people of New Mexico, and his influence upon Republican leaders will eventually count strong for giving statehood to New Mexico. In Mr. Luna the territory has a representative in the national committee of whom it can well be proud.

The fact that Roswell school bonds sold at a premium of $900 on a $25,000 issue is certainly a sign that outside capital has confidence in New Mexico under the present administration. Four years ago such a thing as getting a premium on New Mexico school, municipal, county or territorial bonds was unheard of. An administration which has the confidence of outside capitalists is the kind of government to keep in power.

The Tucson Star recently printed a picture of the $25,000 library presented to that city by Andrew Carnegie upon condition that it raise $4,000 toward the project. If Tucson, which is not larger than Las Vegas or Albuquerque, can meet the conditions for such a gift, Santa Fe or any other city in New Mexico ought to be able to touch Mr. Carnegie's purse for a library building that would be a pride and a credit to the territory.

CANCER IS NOT INCURABLE

Time was when Cancer was considered as incurable as leprosy. Physicians and friends could give little relief or encouragement to one afflicted with this terrible disease. Even now doctors know of no remedy for this fearful malady; while admitting it to be a blood disease, they still insist that there is no hope outside of a surgical operation, and advise you to have the Cancer cut out, but at the same time assure you that it will not return. You may cut or draw out the sore, but another will come in its place, for the disease is in the blood—is deep-seated and destructive, and beyond the reach of the surgeon's knife or caustic, flesh-destroying plasters. The blood must be purified and strengthened, the system relieved of all poisonous, effete matter before the Cancer sore will heal.

S. S. S. is the only medicine that can overcome this powerful and contaminating poison and force it out of the blood. It builds up and invigorates the old, and supplies new, rich, life-giving blood. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy; no mineral can be found in it; the roots and herbs from which it is made contain powerful purifying properties that act directly upon the blood system and make a safe and permanent cure of Cancer. It has cured thousands, why not you?

Cancer is not always inherited; your family may be free from any taint, yet your blood may become so polluted that a severe and stubborn form of the disease may develop from a sore or ulcer on your tongue or other part of your body; a slight bruise or hurt, a little pimple on the eyelid, lip or other cause so insignificant as to attract little or no attention. If you have an obstinate sore, don't rely upon salves or ointments to cure it—begin with S. S. S.

At once; it will cleanse your blood and prevent the formation of cancerous cells. Mrs. R. Shirer, La Plata, Mo., writes: "A small pimple came on my jaw about one inch below the ear on the left side of my face. At first it gave me no trouble, and I did not think it was anything serious until the jaw began to swell and became much inflamed. At the same time the sore began to spread and eat into the flesh, and gave me intense pain. I tried everything I could hear of, but nothing did me any good. I then began the use of S. S. S., and after taking several bottles the Cancer healed, and there is now no sign of the disease. This was two years ago, and I am now enjoying perfect health."

Send for our special book on Cancer; it contains much information that will interest you; it is free. Write our physicians about your case, and for any advice or information wanted; they have made a life study of Cancer and all blood diseases. We make no charge whatever for this. A NEW DEPARTMENT

An Eloquent Address At the International Mining Congress By Hon. L. B. Prince.

A DEPARTMENT OF MINES

A Resolution Introduced By Ex-Governor Prince to Establish a New Cabinet Office to Be in Charge of a Secretary of Mines.

A resolution was introduced by ex-Gov. L. B. Prince at the international mining congress at Milwaukee, providing for a call to congress to establish a bureau of mining. This is the first open move for this recognition of the mining industry, and it is the nucleus for wide and extensive campaigning by the mining men of the country to secure a governmental bureau over the art of mining. The resolution says:

"The magnitude and importance of the mining industry, which has now reached over $800,000,000 of annual product, calls for the establishment of a national department of mining, the chief officer of which shall be of the cabinet." Ex-Governor Prince made a telling address upon this subject. He spoke as follows:

This is the most important subject that can come before this or any other mining congress at this time, and will continue so to be until the establishment of a department of mining becomes an accomplished fact. In the first place, it may be remarked that it has been the settled policy of our government from the beginning to increase the number of executive departments whenever the magnitude and importance of a subject and its need of national encouragement or supervision showed such action to be proper. At the beginning, under President Washington, we had but four departments and four cabinet officers—the secretaries of state, treasury and war and the attorney general. In 1788, in consequence of anticipated wars with powers across the sea, the navy department was es-established; in 1829 the vast extension of our mail system made it proper that the postmaster general should become a cabinet officer. It was not until 1849, after the acquisition of Texas and northern Mexico, with a national domain more than doubled from its original area, that what is now by far the most extensive of all the departments, that of the interior, was established; and it is within the memory of all of us when the most widespread industry of the country, after long years of waiting, obtained proper recognition by the formation of the department of agriculture in 1889.

The latter case is almost exactly analogous to the one which we now present. No one is ignorant of the immense advantage which has accrued from the establishment of the department of agriculture, by the introduction of new plants from foreign lands, the exhaustive experiments with regard to soil and fertilizers, the organized effort to obtain relief from insect pests, and in a thousand ways which have tended to increase both the quantity and the quality of the products of the field and the orchard; and no one would now think for a moment of abrogating that department. Yet, as will presently be shown, the benefit to be derived from a department of mining will even exceed that of agriculture in its extent.

The increase in the importance of the mining industry in this country is really phenomenal. Many of those here present can remember when our only gold mines were those of North Carolina and Georgia, and the mint marks of the eagles and half eagles of that day remind us that the coinage was at that time was none. The first coal mine opened was in Rhode Island, but the product was so hard as to be almost combustible; and while the mines of Pennsylvania soon after supplied both coal and iron, yet it was long years before copper was brought from the shores of Lake Superior and lead was found almost on the banks of the Mississippi at Galena. Then came the wonderful discovery of gold in the newly acquired region on the Pacific coast in 1848, and about a decade after that of both gold and silver in the Rocky mountain section; and from those dates the onward march of mineral discovery and mineral production has been steady and rapid. To-day it has passed the mark of $800,000,000 of annual production; in every one of the more important metals and minerals it exceeds the product of any other country; in iron it is one-third that of the whole world; in coal it is four times that of Europe, and in copper it exceeds that of all other nations combined.

While the agricultural product of the country is greater than the mineral, yet when we consider permanent substantial gain the latter is far superior. At the end of a year the agricultural product is consumed and has disappeared from the face of the earth; even in its production a part of the previous supply has to be destroyed as feed. But it is a peculiarly gratifying feature of the mining industry that it is constantly adding to the permanent stock of man's possessions of the wealth of the world.

It has been said that that man is a bludge of grass to grow where but one grew before; but what shall we say of the hardy miner, who, from the rocky fastnesses of God's eternal storehouse, brings forth untold riches, without the loss of one dollar's worth of previous accumulation? It is an absolute addition to the available material for man's use or ornament; it is new matter placed at his disposal; practically it is a creation, for it is extracted from the bowels of the earth, where it has remained from the foundation of the world, and where, but for the energy and enterprise and skill of the miner it would lie dormant forever. Much of it is by nature in forms that bear no resemblance to the brilliancy of the molten metal, sometimes concealed in a hundred-yes, a thousand-times its volume of worthless rock; but the ingenuity of man extracts it in perfect purity, ready for the varied uses of human life.

The gold and the silver of King Solomon's temple are still in existence somewhere in the world, after doing their work of utility or beauty for thousands of years. They may have changed their form scores of times, but once brought into the hands of man as his possession, they continue in their round of usefulness, passing from nation to nation, from generation to generation, through all mutations of place and contradictions of purpose for countless ages. Battered or melted, hidden in secret vaults or buried in the earth, losing all semblance of earlier use or form, through every vicissitude of time and place, the substance still remains, to be the creature of man's changing tastes and fashions to the end of time.

In no department of industry can government aid and supervision be of such direct and immediate benefit. By systematic exploration of the mountainous portions of the public domain, vast bodies of minerals may be brought to light which otherwise would long remain unknown. Geological investigation will direct the path of the untiring prospector; save a vast amount of labor and expenditure now devoted to useless ends and leading only to disappointment; and increase the extent of valuable discovery and development to a marked degree. Every invention which utilizes ore hitherto unavailable is a benefit to the whole country. An improved process which cheapens the treatment of mineral even a single dollar per ton very largely increases the production of metal and the extent of the mining industry, as the amount of ore increases in a surprising ratio with each reduction of grade. It would be the business of the department, by an exhaustive series of experiments, to discover or invent processes of treatment, mechanical or chemical, which will reduce to a minimum the expense of treatment, and thus render available vast bodies of ore now useless for any practical purpose. By the dissemination of its reports, it would draw attention to the value of minerals that are now daily passed over unnoticed because their character is unknown or their worth unrecognized.

In fact, the methods in which systematic investigation and experiment can increase the mineral product are more numerous than we can imagine in advance of experience. There are imperfections in our national laws which retard prosperity and production, which individuals seem powerless to amend, but which would be remedied without delay on recommendation of a mining department. For instance, in dealing with the large areas of mineral lands within the boundaries of land grants made by the governments of Spain and Mexico, the United States expressly reserves all gold, silver and quicksilver, presumably for the benefit of the discoverer or worker; thus providing a dual ownership heretofore unknown to our laws. But though ten years have passed and congress has held session after session, not the slightest provision has been made for the use of any of those minerals; and, so, though in many cases their situation is well known, they remain unprospected and unworked. With a cabinet officer to attend to the interests of the mining community, this need would have been officially presented to congress and remedial legislation obtained years ago.

In every way the use of metallic and industrial minerals is being increased in a rapid ratio year by year. A moment's thought will show the truth of this. From the humblest household utensil to the tall skyscraper building which rivals the tower of Babel in its presumptuous altitude, metal is taking the place of wood and other materials.

No stronger illustration of this can be found than in the architecture of the new navy of which we are so deservedly proud. Half a century ago the marine defenders of old England were aptly called her "wooden walls," built, as they were, of choicest oak and propelled by sails of cotton and ropes of hemp. How entirely is this changed and the vegetable kingdom superseded by the mineral? Now the hull and bulwarks of iron and steel, the ordnance of steel and bronze, all propelled by great metallic engines fed by thousands of tons of mineral fuel, unite in proclaiming that on the water, as on the land, the dependence of the nation is on the product of the mine.

In this subject the miners of all sections and of every class are equally concerned. Those who are interested in the coal of Pennsylvania, the copper of Michigan, the iron of Wisconsin or Alabama, or the lead and zinc of Missouri, unite with their far-off brethren of the gold and silver regions of the Rocky mountains and the Pacific slope in demanding this encouragement and development of the business in which all are engaged. And the people at large have no less interest, as every improvement made in the extraction and treatment of ore lessens the price of all articles of metallic material, both great and small.

The establishment of a department of mining will not only be a proper recognition of the importance and magnitude of this great industry, but will have an inspiring practical effect in stimulating invention and industrial advancement and the development of resources now dormant and useless.

Other countries with not one-tenth of our annual mineral output have ministers and departments devoted to mining; let us, in the United States, not be behind them in granting this national encouragement and aid to the mining industry of our own land.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Crowning Virtue.

For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband had heard of my suffering with Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of women's weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

Life Gradually Lengthening.

Recent statistics prove that the average health and length of life of human beings have grown stronger and longer with the years. In the 15th century, there was not to be found a man or woman over 60 years of age. It is clearly demonstrated that the change for the better has been brought about by modern ideas and methods. One of the agents which has been most instrumental in preserving life is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Thousands have died from stomach and digestive disorders, who might have survived had they resorted to the Bitters. It is the greatest of known tonics for stomach and digestive organs. It cures dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation, and has done so for the past 50 years. There is nothing to equal it.

Some "Toed Cheek."

Under the circumstances, that anti-trust declaration of the New York Democrats, with Bob Van Wyck sitting in the game as delegate and trust denouncer, may be described as toed cheek.—Hartford Courant.

Neglect is the short step so many take from a cough or cold to consumption. The early use of One Minute Cough Cure prevents consumption. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. It cures all throat and lung troubles. Children all like it, and mothers indorse it. Ireland's pharmacy.

Like Grown-ups.

Oh, Gratitude! So naughty! And yet you prayed this morning to be made a good girl.

But, mamma, I didn't mean right away!—Life.

Reports show that over 1,500 lives have been saved through the use of One Minute Cough Cure. Most of these were cases of grippe, croup, asthma, whooping cough, bronchitis and pneumonia. Its early use prevents consumption. Ireland's pharmacy.

Sometimes the Case.

Stranger—What do you understand here by the straight ticket?

Native—Well, the straight ticket is the one that's made up of crooked candidates.—Philadelphia Press.

Small in size and great in results are DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills that cleanse the liver and bowels. They do not gripe. Ireland's pharmacy.

The Boss Is the King.

If Richard Croker could proclaim a new code of laws for the city of New York, nobody would be surprised, and the city would not think of refusing it.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ivy poisoning, poison wounds and all other accidental injuries may be quickly cured by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is also a certain cure for piles and skin diseases. Take no other. Ireland's pharmacy.

The War in St. Louis.

They have almost run out of innocent spectators in St. Louis, and a few of those engaged in the strife are being called on to be shot.—Chicago Record.

Starvation never yet cured dyspepsia. Persons with indigestion are already half starved. They need plenty of wholesome food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat so the body can be nourished while the worn-out organs are being reconstructed. It is the only preparation known that will instantly relieve and completely cure all stomach troubles. Try it if you are suffering from indigestion. It will certainly do you good. Ireland's pharmacy.

Queer Lot.

Stranger—I have heard that you have a good many queer people in this town. Citizen—As odd a lot as you'd find in a year's travel. They are a queer set, the whole of 'em, outside my family. And my wife is almost as bad as the others. But, then, you know, she wasn't originally of my family.—Boston Transcript.

AUGUST FLOWER.

"It is a surprising fact," says Prof. Houton, "that in my travels in all parts of the world, for the last ten years, I have met more people having used Green's August Flower than any other remedy, for dyspepsia, deranged liver and stomach, and for constipation. I find for tourists and salesmen, or for persons filling office positions, where headaches and general bad feelings from irregular habits exist, that Green's August Flower is a grand remedy. It does not injure the system by frequent use, and is excellent for sour stomachs and indigestion." Sample bottles free at Ireland's Drug Store. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

Killed His Man.

Cowboy—Guess you never killed a man, did you?

Tenderfoot—Hu! I helped to kill half a dozen of 'em.

How? At college.

Fightin' with 'em?

No. Initiating them.—New York Weekly.

FREE OF CHARGE.

Any adult suffering from a cold settled on the breast, bronchitis, throat or lung troubles of any nature, who will call at Ireland's Drug Store will be presented with a sample bottle of Boschee's German Syrup, free of charge. Only one bottle given to one person, and none to children without order from parents. No throat or lung remedy ever had such a sale as Boschee's German Syrup in all parts of the civilized world. Twenty years ago millions of bottles were given away, and your druggists will tell you its success was marvelous. It is really the only Throat and Lung Remedy generally endorsed by physicians. One 75 cent bottle will cure or prove its value. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

Calamity Howlers Alarmed.

Calamity howlers in the west are climbing their kopjes to escape the sight of prosperity in the harvest fields.—Cleveland Leader.

PLAYED OUT.

Dull Headache, Pains in various parts of the body, Sinking at the pit of the stomach, Loss of appetite, Feverishness, Pimples or Sores are all positive evidences of impure blood. No matter how it became so, it must be purified in order to obtain good health. Ackers' Blood Elixir has never failed to cure Scrofulous or Syphilitic poisons or any other blood diseases. It is certainly a wonderful remedy, and we sell every bottle on a positive guarantee. For sale at Fischer's drug store.

A Man in a Thousand.

Stranger—Are you the gentleman who caught a big, burly burglar, and held on with bulldog tenacity until he ceased to struggle, and you were able to bind and gag him?

Gentleman—Yes. What is it you wish?

Stranger—I called, sir, to ask if you would not accept an agency for some of the long-felt wants which we manufacture and which no family should be without.—N. Y. Weekly.

Mysteries of Debate.

"I'm afraid people won't understand this long argument of yours."

"I don't want to understand it."

"But in that case you can't prove anything."

"I don't care about that, either. All I want to do is to keep 'em on the defensive. And if they can't understand my argument they can't possibly prove that it doesn't prove something."—Washington Star.

A Consistent Profession.

It has often been said of the medical tribe that they seldom will swallow the stuff they prescribe.

Yet though they may not think their jargon is nice.

They will profit derive from their own good advice.

THE TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

Father—My boy, when I was your age I was at my desk at seven o'clock in the morning.

The Son—That may be, but I know the business is perfectly safe in your hands, even while I'm away.—Harlem Life.

This May Be True.

The rain falls not alike upon The just and the other fellow; And the reason of it is because The unjust has the umbrella.—Chicago Daily News.

Mr. Higheollar—Mr. Cash just told me that our church entertainment is to be a very high-toned affair. No tickets will be sold.

Mr. Shirtfront—No tickets sold? How do you expect to make any money?

Mr. Higheollar—We shall allow patrons to purchase cards of admission.—Judge.

The Mysterious Code.

"How happily the Von Grotzschs seem to live together."

"Yes. I can't get at the secret of it."

"The secret?"

"Of course; does he let her have her own way all the time, or does she let him have his?"—Detroit Free Press.

Eminently Honorable.

The Widow—Mr. Hopewell, I think you've been attentive to my daughter long enough to justify me in asking your intentions.

Mr. Hopewell—They're blue-white, ma'am, and weigh two carats.—Jewellers Weekly.

The Moral.

Sunday School Teacher—When the bad children called the old man "bald-head" the bears came out of the woods and ate them up! What does that teach us?

Scholar—To always climb a tree before calling names!—Puck.

Insulated.

"Miss Sparks has eyes that seem to throw out flashes of lightning. Ever notice it?"

His Strong Point.

"Is there anything in which you excel when you went to school?"

asked Miss Cayenne.

"Yes," answered Willie Washington.

"I made more blunders than any other boy in the class."—Washington Star.

A Safe Inference.

Nodd—We haven't much of a dinner to-night, but you're welcome.

Todd—How do you know what you are going to have?

Nodd—Well, we had roast beef yesterday.—Puck.

Deserved It.

Her Stern Resolve.

He—Forgive and forget, Miss Bunk.

She—I'll forget you, sir, easy enough, but I'll never forgive you.—Chicago Record.

Generous.

When the queen, during a stay in Scotland, visited the Tay bridge, one of the attendants at the ceremony was the presentation of a beautiful basket of flowers?

The queen smiled as she took it in, but Dundee was not yet satisfied that it had done all in its power. The poorest stepped forward with a low bow.

And your majesty, said he, you need not return the basket.—London Outlook.

"Pull up!" That's the counsel very often given by a well meaning person to a friend who is slipping down the road of alcoholism.

And when the answer comes "I can't," the man is perhaps reproached for the cowardice of that phrase.

"But intemperance is only a form of disease, and there may come a time in the progress of any disease when it can't be stopped. That's what we mean when we talk of 'galloping consumption.' It's like a horse running away with us. We can't stop it."

Strength will stop the wildest horse. Strength is the great necessity in the stopping of disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands who had obstinate cough, bronchitis, weak lungs, spitting of blood, emaciation, and similar ailments which if neglected or unskillfully treated lead to consumption. It cures by strengthening the lungs and giving them power to throw off disease.

"I had been troubled with bronchitis and catarrh of the head for eight years; had severe cough and at times great difficulty in breathing," writes J. W. Howerton, Esq., of Bigall, Hancock Co., Tenn. "A portion of the time my appetite was poor and part of the time I was unable to do anything. I had been treated by our best country physicians for several years but with little benefit. I had been reading about your medicine for several years but hadn't much faith in it. Last spring I concluded that I would try it and before I had taken one-third of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets, I began to feel like a new man and can do as hard a day's work as any man I know. I advise all of my friends who are diseased to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

One of Life's Sorrows.

Were you the smartest boy in your school? asked the very bright boy.

Why—no—not exactly, answered his father.

Did you know as much as I do when you were my age?

I don't believe I did.

Are you even at this late day able to extract the cube root of a number without referring to a text book?

No—no. I don't believe I can.

That's all, said the very bright boy as he turned to his books. Then he heaved a sigh, and with a look of deepest reproach exclaimed. Parents often turn out to be a terrible disappointment to their children now-a-days.—Washington Star.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active energetic man with a torpid liver, and you may know that his liver is torpid when he does not relish his food or feels dull and languid after eating, often has headache and sometimes dizziness. A few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will restore his liver to its normal functions, renew his vitality, improve his digestion and make him feel like a new man. Price, 25 cents. The Plot Deepens.

There seems to be no doubt that the story of the Boer war is going to be continued in our next.—Boston Herald.

A SPRAINED ANKLE QUICKLY CURED.

"At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says George E. Cary, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va. Sold by A. C. Ireland.

He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." or sale by A. C. Ireland.

Could Do Less Real Work.

The man was talking of the woes and the needs of labor.

If it came to a choice, put in the stranger, would you rather have more pay or less work?

The orator drew himself up haughtily. Your question, he said, do not know who I am, he said. I am a business agent, otherwise known as a walking delegate.

Oh, I see, replied the stranger. You couldn't do any less real work, could you?—Chicago Post.

GLORIOUS NEWS

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washington, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by Fischer & Co., druggists. Guaranteed.

The Largest Endowment ever paid.

Fifteen years ago Mr. George Gooderham, of Toronto, took out 15-Year Endowment Policy No. 389,421 for $100,000. In the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, paying an annual premium of $5,352. Now his policy has matured and shows the following results:

1 Cash	$150,847
2 Paid-up Assurance	$210,000
3 Annuity for Life	$ 20,320

At the same time Mr. Gooderham took out a policy of the same kind for the same amount and with the same premium in another company; the cash return on which was $15,000 less than on the Equitable policy.

Here is what Mr. Gooderham says of his results: "I have always been a strong advocate of Endowment Insurance, and about the time I took your policy for $100,000 I placed $400,000 of Endowment policies on my life in eight different companies. Of this amount $310,000 has already matured. I have lived to see the result and to know what it means."

"These results realized by the Equitable are" "larger and more satisfactory than any result" "ever realized by me on any of my policies which" "have matured to date. I may say they are quite" "satisfactory, and that no company has ever done" "so well for me."

Unquestionably dogs manifesting signs of hydrophobia should be promptly executed, but public executions on the streets should be avoided as far as possible. Deputy Sheriff Huber killed two dogs to-day, but he took care to do the work off from the public streets.

About 11 o'clock last night a fire broke out in a wooden shanty in the rear of Wunschnann's insurance office on upper Palace avenue. In three minutes after the alarm was sounded the hose and chemical engine companies were on the ground, and three minutes later the bright blaze was subdued. The damage done was merely nominal. Santa Fe has reason to be proud of its efficient fire department.

City Engineer John L. Zimmerman reports that he has completed surveys of twenty-three blocks in the city of Santa Fe and four tracts outside of the city limits. These surveys cover all but four blocks on the north side of the river, or about half of the city. He has turned in plans of sixteen blocks and the four tracts mentioned. All the surveys are tied to the soldiers' monument in the plaza.

NEW DEPOTS.

The El Paso & Northeastern Railway Built Them At South Capitan and Clondercroft.

The El Paso & Northeastern railway has been completed from North Capitan to South Capitan, a mile and a half distant. This latter place will be the present terminus of the road and will also be the town as quite distinct from the coal camp. Here also a handsome new depot will be built at once and other improvements made which will make the place a desirable residence town.

At Clondercroft, the new station has been completed and trains now run up to the resort. An unusual rush has already set in and the management feels highly gratified at the patronage this justly famous beauty spot is receiving.

Well Known in Santa Fe.

Papers received from Indianapolis announce the death of Hon. James W. Hess, the postmaster of that city. He was well known in Santa Fe, having been on duty here during the Harrison administration as a special agent of the general land office. While in Santa Fe he and his estimable wife had quarters at the sanitarium, and both made many warm personal friends, who will regret to hear of the sad loss Mrs. Hess sustained. He left no children, his only son, Herbert R. Hess, having died about five years ago.

A Good Suggestion.

Santa Fe, June 22.—Editor New Mexican: Dear Sir—It is suggested, and it is a good idea, that the W. B. T. employ some light-weight boys to climb the cottonwood trees in the park and clip off the slender outer limbs that are loaded with cotton balls that will soon open and become a nuisance. The use of the firemen's extension ladder would greatly facilitate the operation.

New Mexico School's.

Hon. M. C. de Baca some time ago received a request from the American Commissioner of the Paris exposition to send photographs of the best school buildings in the territory to the exposition. Unfortunately only two county school superintendents responded to the request for pictures directed to them by Superintendent Baca. As this would have made a poor showing for New Mexico, the pictures were not sent to Paris and New Mexico schools are therefore not represented at the exposition.
