FOREIGN PRODUCING MINES.

The increase in production likely to result from the new laws in the Scandinavian countries and from the opening of the copper mines in the Near East will result in a continuity of the demand for copper. This will place the United States in a stronger position in the world market.

SOMETHING ABOUT COPPER.

Copper.-The country is, naturally, the world's greatest consumer of copper, but British industry uses nearly as much as the United States, and the copper consumption of France is about a third of the American production.

There has been some indication that the production of copper may decrease in the near future, but it is likely that the demand will continue to increase, and the copper market may become a little tight.

The increase in the price of copper is due to the fact that the supply is not sufficient to meet the demand, and that the production is not likely to increase materially in the near future.
