LINCOLN AND WASHINGTON.

For the benefit of the turbulence of this good cause, the President and the Congress have been greatly impressed with the need to continue the work of the Federal government in this matter.

New Mexico is composed of a number of separate territories, many of which have been neglected or not recognized by the Federal government. For the benefit of this country, the President has been able to make some important appointments, including the appointment of a new Governor of New Mexico, by Mr. George W. Calkins. This new Governor has been asked to take charge of the affairs of New Mexico, to promote the growth of the State, and to work for the benefit of the people of New Mexico. The President has also been able to make some important appointments for the benefit of the State.
