NEWS

Faculty Lecture Series Concludes
Professor Jackie Hood will present the final UNM Anderson School of Management faculty lecture on Wednesday, April 16 at 7:00 p.m. Her lecture, “Bullying in the Workplace: Challenges to Preserving an Ethical Organization,” is the last in a series of seven lectures presented in the past seven months.

The Distinguished CEO Lecture Series
The spring 2008 CEO Lecture will feature Anderson’s very own, Michael Gallegos. His talk entitled “Entrepreneurship: The Challenges of Growth” will address the pitfalls of growing your business too quickly. The lecture is scheduled to take place on Thursday, April 24, from 6:00 to 7:30 p.m. in the Jackson Student Center. Seating is limited. Please RSVP via email to rsvp@mgt.unm.edu or call (505) 277-6413.

Hispano Chamber of Commerce
Anderson School of Management and Albuquerque Hispano Chamber of Commerce would like to invite everyone to join us on Wednesday, April 30 from 11:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the Jackson Student Center. The event will feature four of New Mexico’s leading business leaders and showcase several student organizations within Anderson. Free admission and light refreshments will be provided. Please RSVP at mgt.unm.edu/students/rsvp.asp. For further information contact Aline Gonzales at (505) 277-0717. Hope to see you there!

NMSCPA Scholarship
The New Mexico Society of CPAs is taking applications for their 2008 scholarship opportunities. All completed applications and supporting documentation must be received in the office of the New Mexico Society of CPAs by Wednesday, April 30. At the time of applying, you must have completed 12 semester hours in accounting and have completed 75 hours overall. For more information about the New Mexico Society of CPAs, visit nmscpa.org.

FAST INFO

Have a question? Ask it at http://fastinfo.unm.edu and we’ll try our best to answer it here.

Question: Where can I look for an internship?

Answer: Everyone wants one but yet they are so hard to find! Internships are found in a lot of different ways and there is no one standard way to find them, so you have to work a little bit. Here are some ideas on how to find one.

- Register in E-Recruiting, many major employers with formalized internships will post here. Remember that these companies will come in the fall semester to find and interview students for spring and even summer internships, so start early!
- Join ASM listservs, the Career Services office gets internships and jobs that get posted to the listservs.
- Talk to faculty members in the concentration area you want to do the internship in. They, many times, have connections to employers and have leads to internships and jobs.
- Develop a target list of companies you would like to do an internship in and contact them directly. Check their website, call the Human Resources department and the department you would like to work in to find out about internships. It’s good to contact both because sometimes the different areas don’t know what the other is doing. Also, it gives you the opportunity to talk to people in the interested department, and maybe they say “No, we don’t have one but we’ve been talking about it.” And this discussion motivates them to create one and you become their first intern!

Anderson Students Reaching Great Heights!

Last week Professor Benavidez’s Promotions Management 487 class began filming a series of commercials in order to promote the usage of public transportation. The Promotions Management course functions as a student run advertising agency, Anderson Advertising Marketing and Promotions (AAMP). Students have the opportunity to work together and gain real-world marketing experience. UNM is one of several universities selected to participate in the Green Means Go: American Public Transportation Association’s collegiate challenge sponsored by Edventure Partners. The class has spent the entire semester developing and implementing plans to market public transportation to young people and hopes to win the competition.
