Varsity Prospects Looking Bright for Successful Basketball Season

VARSITY SQUAD NOW AT HARD PRACTICE

Most of Last Year's Lineup Back; Plenty of New Material—Attractive Calendar of Games Is Being Arranged.

Both boys' and girls' basketball squads are now at hard practice with excellent prospects for two fast teams this season. An attractive schedule of games is also in preparation.

Before Christmas and in the face of the end-semester exams a large number of boys were out in the gym daily and the girls also put in some good practice. The armory has been engaged for two days a week and, although the practice has so far been between chosen sides of the squad, the inter-class games will be played in the immediate future. The sophs and frosh will clash first and the victorious five will play the juniors, seniors, or faculty. The class teams seem to be pretty well matched with the exception of the seniors who are handicapped by numbers from which to choose. There is also talk of a frat and barb league.

The two McCannas playing the usual fast game at center and forward, Wigley and Claiborne at the guard positions, and Lapraik as forward form a team of tried and experienced players. Howden, Thackery, A. Feather and Upton are making the first mentioned play for their positions. The season last year was successful, only one game being lost and that to the Silver City Normal when Joe McCanna was sick and a sub had to be run in. The varsity expects to land the state championship in basketball this year. Silver City will have the usual strong team and the Aggies are expected to make a stronger bid for first place this season than last.

There is a world of new material for the girls' team besides the old lineup of last season: Misses Lowden, cap.; Keike, mgr., Von Wachenhausen, Beals, and Fortney. Some of the new players who are appearing to advantage are Misses Stearns, Duke, Hawthorne, and Howden.

Manager Walker is corresponding with teams in regard to the Cherry and Silver men making a trip to Denver and playing at the following places on the tour: Santa Fe, Las Vegas, and Raton, New Mexico; Trinidad, Colorado Springs, Boulder, and Denver, Colorado. If the arrangements are perfected this will be one of the biggest tours heretofore made by a Varsity team.

The girls' team will probably play the Silver City Normal and the Agricultural College the same date as the boys. A game with the University of Arizona will likely be here in the latter part of February. The following is the boys' basketball calendar as arranged to date:

Socorro School of Mines, Jan. 22, at Albuquerque.

Silver City Normal, Feb. 4, at Albuquerque.

Agricultural College, Feb. 11, at Albuquerque.

Socorro School of Mines, Feb. 23, at Albuquerque.

DEBATING SCHEDULE CALLS FOR THREE BIG DEBATES WITH STAR TEAMS

U. N. M. to Meet U. of Southern California, U. of Redlands and State College in Debates That Will Put School on Forensic Map—Nine Men to Compose Permanent Squad—Prospects Good.

With a debate with the State College for the first week in March, and two other debates scheduled with two of the best coached debating schools in the west, the University of Redlands, (Cal.) and the University of Southern California, for the latter part of that month, it begins to look as if the new year of 1916 has opened auspiciously for the U. N. M.

There is a wealth of material here to draw from this year, and all the pep and enthusiasm one could wish. Colorado College has eighteen men out for the debating team. The University of New Mexico has twenty-four men working to make the squad!

Bruce, Brorein and Walker of last year's teams are out for the squad again this year, and out of the twenty-one other students debaters better than these may be developed.

All three debates will be held here, and we therefore stand an excellent chance of winning not merely one or two, but all three of the debates. Our teams will meet the incoming teams with the confidence that they have the united support of the entire student body, and better than that we possess one of the best, if not the best coach in the west, Professor C. E. Bonnette. He is such because he has spent years in the study of the material the debating squad will use in its debates, and because he is one of the best informed men in the field of economics in the country.

The University of Southern California, the school that defeated Leland Stanford, will make a special trip to debate us on the question, Resolved, That the Interstate Trade Commission should be empowered to regulate Trusts and Monopolies as the Interstate Commerce Commission is empowered to regulate Railroads.

The question to be debated with the University of Redlands will be: Resolved that the Federal Government Should Own and Operate the Railways of the United States.

With the State College we will debate the question: Resolved, That Federal and State Legislation for Compulsory Arbitration is essential for the adjustment of Disputes between Employers and Employees.

The first activity along this line will begin this week when the preliminary inter-squad debates will be run off before professors Kirk, Hill, and Hugin. These judges will pick nine men from the twenty-four and there nine men will compose the permanent squad.

Upon the outcome of these debates is going to depend our forensic standing in the college world. If we win all three our name goes down on the map. If we defeat the University of Southern California it will be a case in which economists defeat lawyers, and it will be the first time in which our School of Economy will be put to the test for efficiency.

FIRST Y. M. C. A. STAG UNDER NEW OFFICIALS IS MARKED SUCCESS

With Dr. Hope's address, the boxing matches, basketball, and eats the first Y. M. C. A. "stag" under the new officials and the new year was a marked success.

Dr. Hope opened the evening's celebration with a beneficial and interesting talk on the care of the body and temperance in athletics. "Hutch" gave a short talk and the fun started. Houchen, Simmons, and "Hutch" exhibited the gentle art of tumbling. Happy Hall and Lefty Langston went three rounds of feinting and pounding to a draw—at least neither took the count. Rusty Ray and Fighting Feather then donned the mitts and pranced about the floor exhibiting much foot and windmill work. There was no decision given on this bout for about the time they were wishing there were ropes to lean on somebody yelled "eats" and ring and ringside were at once deserted.

After everybody had put away five or six apples and a slightly less amount of doughnuts a couple of games of "hot hand" were started. Then the pros. got together and organized a basketball team and with two selected from the students the fight started for the championship of the tri-corner league. The faculty got mugged up pretty badly in the first fracas but came back strong in the second contest and got away with the big end of the score. From the fittest survivors of the withered league two teams were then chosen and it must have been in the vicinity of twelve bells when the last stag staggered home. No, there was nothing stronger than coffee.

Owing to the manner in which the coyotes have been howling around Kawataka in the otherwise still hours of the night there promises to be some strange faces appearing in the club before many moons. Some of the new kawatakaites have had hard work to keep the beasts from their door on the nights when they are most dangerous. Cheer up boys, the blow will fall when you least expect it.

Miss Mary Smith was the guest of Misses Hazel and Anara Stewart Monday evening and night.

CITY BASKETBALL LEAGUE IS A SURE PROPOSITION

League Offers Excellent Opportunity for Students to Make Hit With Citizens—Six Teams Entered—Games Every Saturday Night.

The recent formation of the Albuquerque Basketball League including the six leading teams of the city offers to the Varsity the opportunity to better establish themselves with the people of Albuquerque, to get practice for games with outside teams, and to win the league pennant.

Four teams have already entered and when complete the league will most probably consist of the following teams: Albuquerque Business College, Forest Service, Company G, Indian School, Albuquerque High School and the Varsity. The contests will take place in the armory and the plan now on foot is to play a doubleheader every Saturday night. The two teams not playing each week end probably will play a practice game on Tuesday of each week. An invitation is to be extended to the girls' teams of the different institutions to play preliminary contests Saturday nights, these games to begin at 7:30. The boys' doubleheaders will begin at 8:30 and last not later than 10 p. m. The season will extend for a period of five weeks and should there be a tie for first place it will probably be played off on Washington's birthday.

The percentage and standing of each team will not be computed from the number of points scored in each game but from the number of games won—as in baseball. The team winning the greatest number of games will receive a pennant at the end of the season. An end-season dinner will be given to all players and members of the league.

The officers of the league have not been elected as yet but will be immediately. Each team will have a voice in the drawing up of the constitution and will be represented in the executive body. The appointment of the referee and umpire will be in the hands of the managers of the league.

In case all six of the proposed teams do not enter the league it is probable that a second Varsity team will be formed—likely from the freshman class. It is constant practice that makes perfect in basketball. The Aggies have formed a college league with several teams. The different high schools of the state have formed several playing combinations. Albuquerque is bringing together her best teams and it is up to the Varsity to win this city league pennant. If arrangements for the big Denver tour are perfected the Varsity must have a clean sheet of victories before she undertakes such a northern conquest. Everybody get out and boost for the Cherry and Silver team!

Several University students have been assigned parts in different plays to be put on by an expert dramatic professor. The professor has been asked to give the citizens of Albuquerque a first class home talent entertainment.

WHY NOT BEGIN NOW.

No one can suggest a better time than now in which to start real work on our annual college play. Up to this time we have not heard the word dramatics even mentioned about the campus; in fact some of the new students do not know that we even possess a Dramatic Club. So now is the time to demonstrate in real earnest the far-famed histrionic ability of our Charlie Chaplin, Clara Kimball Young, Francis X. Bushman, and Sarah Bernhardt student understudies.

Start early; that sounds like a father's advice to his son as prescribed by the Junior Class in the late edition, but nevertheless it is true, as we know by the experience of last year and in other years past. If you wish to get anything done, if you wish to show the people of Albuquerque what we can do in the dramatic line, we've got to get busy right now and work hard. We have heard the suggestion that we present our annual play at the time of the interscholastic Track Meet and it strikes us as a good suggestion; but to do this we must start early, and we do not think that a better time for organization could be chosen than this very week.

THE GRIND.

They call him a grind because he spends most of the day and night in study. He is not a mixer, and does not enjoy being with the boys after supper. The girls laugh at him instead of with him, so he does not go with them. In the class room he thinks of them merely as a part of the natural surroundings.

His people have always had a fixed purpose ahead, to which they struggled with every atom of strength. His father has brought up a large family, and has had to work early and late to keep the children clothed and fed. His mother has always had the desire to learn; but as she received little education while young, and has little time to read now, her desires are kept smoldering. But she has by, her enthusiasm, burned into the minds of her children the ambition to become well educated men.

The grind used to walk several miles to the high school in the town every day. After being graduated there he taught school a year or two, and saved every cent possible. Then he went away to college. While there he has done his utmost to learn his lessons well. He will never be a great man in the money making sense, but he will become a deep scholar, and thus fulfill the dreams of his mother—his only sweetheart. His ideal is perfection in learning lessons. When the examination papers come back and he has made the highest grade, the other students with curling lip call him a grind. But this proof of his ability brings a passing gleam of happiness to the tired features of "the grind."

He has never had an easy time, and he does not know that he could enjoy letting lessons go until examination time draws near and then "cramming."

Here's to the grind, unpopular, unlovable, but withal in deadly earnest!—Selected.

HOW ABOUT THOSE FOOTBALL SWEATERS?

In rejoicing over our Thanksgiving victory we have seemingly forgotten one important item on our celebration program. It has been the custom heretofore to present the insignia men of the football team with sweaters, as a reward for their hard work and the hard knocks during the three months of the football season. Sweaters were presented last year, sweaters were presented the year before, and it would be an obvious neglect of duty not to present them again this year, especially since we have the Southwestern Championship cinched. Why not get this off our hands; now; why not take some immediate action in regard to this matter?

Messrs. Threlkeld, Beck, McMains, McVickers, Allison, and Mozely, all of whom live in the southern part of the state near Roswell and Artesia, chartered an auto with which to make their vacation trip. The boys returned Monday with the exception of Allison who will probably not return this semester, and Mozely, who was ill when the boys left for Albuquerque.

GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZED.

The secretary of the New Mexico Geographic Society has received from the director of the U. S. Geological Survey official recognition of the society's functions as a co-operative factor in all government maps and other publications of a geographic nature. The Society has already taken up for consideration four new topographic maps of areas within the state and will act as final authority on place names to be used on these and any other official state maps. In all cases where duplication or conflict of names occurs, precedence will be given those of aboriginal or early Spanish origin, thus preserving historic and other appropriate associations.

The maps received are those of areas about Tularosa, Tyrone, Tres Hermanos, and San Simon, and may be seen by inquiring at the Department of Geology at the University. Inspection and criticism by those familiar with these localities mentioned is especially invited.

The membership in the Society is already state-wide. Anyone anywhere, if interested in geography, may become a member on election by the Society and payment of the very nominal dues—one dollar a year. Communications will reach the Society at its permanent headquarters if addressed to the Secretary, New Mexico Geographic Society, University, Albuquerque, N. M. Copies of the constitution and of geographic publications, which will appear from time to time, will be sent to members only.

COLLEGE.

A college is a factory for turning raw material into case-hardened athletes, kid-finished society leaders, and future members of "Who's Who." Its work is marvelous. It can take an eighteen-year-old youth with premature trousers, haystack hair, and an Adam's apple like a plum, and in four years can work him over into a calm-eyed football champion who looks as if he had just stepped out of a ready-made clothing advertisement. It can transform a bashful boy, who turns his toes in so that they will not be too prominent, into a loud noise in a flat hat and a sore throat necktie, who is only happy when he is stealing the wheels from under a trolley car. It makes statesmen out of cowherders, society leaders out of plowboys, halfbacks out of mother's darlings, and wise men out of high school seniors. And it accomplished all of this without taking the material apart or using an axe on it!

Colleges were invented a great many centuries ago, but have only become virulent during the last fifty years. Formerly, a college was only a place in which to learn things in books, and was as dull as a monastery. Now it is a place in which to learn all about Science, Politics, Lawn-tennis, History, Art, Blocking Off With the Elbow, Evidence on Christianity, How to Keep a Dance Program Straight, Histrionics, Frat House Construction, Trigonometry, Sign Stealing, French, Advanced United States, Physiology, Bating in All Its Branches, Baseball, Gymnastics, How to Live on Credit, Matrimony, the Science of Making the Hair Stand Up Straight, Political Economy, Noises—Mechanical and Vocal—Greek, Human Nature, Girls and Policemen. The college student of today learns all there is to learn about all these things in four years,

HOW POKER ORIGINATED?

There's a harmless and an innocent game
Whereof the description is poker,
But mighty uncertain the same
When a monkey sits in as the joker.

1. Now the sons of men dwelt in tents, and Jared dwelt over against Enos, and over against Enos dwelt Jared.

2. And Enos sat in his door upon a keg, which anon he smote, and the sound was hollow, and the wind made music in the bunglehole.

3. And Enos lifted up his voice and wept because the keg was empty.

4. Then Jared journeyed across the plain bearing a flagon: the same was the apple-jack of Lebanon.

5. He brought also tokens which were called cards, and the colors thereof were as the colors of the rainbow.

6. And he gave to Enos to drink, and he taught him the uses of the tokens, for he was learned in all the wisdom of the Pharaohs. And the stakes whereof they played were shekels of gold and pieces of silver.

7. And it came to pass that Enos parted the tokens and privily unto himself a spade, the king thereof; a club, the king thereof; a heart, the king thereof, and a diamond, likewise the king thereof.

8. And he said: "Behold he that is diligent in business shall stand by four kings," and he stood.

9. Now Jared held three aces. But he put forth his hand and secretly took yet another ace from the hand of his servant.

10. Then did Enos say: "Behold my hand is worth to seven shekels." And Jared said: "I will go you seven better."

11. And Enos said: "And yet seven more," and Jared said: "Again, and yet seven more."

12. And it came to pass that Enos pledged all his shekels, and his wife, and his ox, and his household goods, and his maid servant; yet, even his boots, and all that he had. And Jared did the like unto him.

13. Then Enos said: "Show me, I pray thee, what thou holdest in thy hand." And Jared showed him.

So all the possessions which were the possessions of Enos became the possessions of Jared and he possessed them.—From Old Testament Stories (Heston).

EFFICIENCY—NEW VOCATION.

Hundreds of people pass daily through the Hudson Terminal Building in New York. Few of these realize that behind the door marked, The Emerson Company Efficiency Engineers—sits one of America's greatest geniuses, Harrington Emerson.

Excepting only Edison, Mr. Emerson is doing more for the future of America than any other living man. He is solving the great industrial problem and opening up a limitless field of endeavor for young men of initiative and ambition.

Fifteen to seventeen hours per week are considered a full schedule.

The fact that the average schedule is lower is due to the fact that there are in the University quite a few special students, many of whom are mature men and women engaged in other occupations but who are devoting their spare time to pursuing a course or two in the University. The scholarship of the women ranks a little higher and of the men somewhat lower than in other institutions. It would seem that the men are not fully realizing their opportunities and this is true to a considerable extent. But it must be remembered that a larger proportion of men than women are working their way through the University and so have less time for study. On the other hand, those who work their way through college are serious students. Five students were suspended for the current semester on account of low grades. It is safe to say that rarely is a self-supporting student suspended for this reason.

and Railroad System and the Frisco Lines, together with innumerable smaller concerns, the public has been brought suddenly face to face with the fact that something is radically wrong with our industrial system.

Speculation has been rife as to what that "something" is, but until the present time nobody has been able to locate it. Mr. Emerson has at last found the root of the evil. The whole trouble can be summed up in one word—"Inefficiency." Inefficient methods, managements, and systems of pay are to blame. In fact, nearly everything in connection with production and transportation is inefficient.

Mr. Brandies, in a speech before Congress, estimated that the railroads of the country wasted and mis-spent one hundred millions of dollars a year. People laughed at the (Continued on page 4)

Misses Graham, Hart and Eaves returned to the University Sunday evening after spending a very enjoyable vacation with relatives and friends in Lovington.

The fascination of U. N. M. life proved too great for "Bud" Friday, who for a short time intended not to return after the holidays. "Bud" registered Monday for this semester's work.

Mr. Ernest Hall, who completed the required amount of work for graduation last semester, did not return after vacation but is taking a business course in the Albuquerque Business College.

statement as preposterous, yet investigation proved that he was conservative. While it is true that the railroads are the most highly capitalized industries in the United States, this statement is applicable to other industries in proportion to their capitalization. This terrible waste reflects directly on the consumer in higher prices, and on the laborer in the form of lower wages. Mr. Emerson has spent his life in finding the cause of this inefficiency, and then, what is more important, he has formulated the cure. He has laid down twelve general principles, which if followed will spell success for any legitimate organization. Mr. Emerson, assisted by a staff of forty men, is installing his principles and methods in some of the largest industrial plants in America, and it is significant that the plants using his methods are leaders in their line.

In order to better understand this movement, a description of the twelve principles is necessary. They can be divided into two classes—ethical and practical. The ethical principles deal more directly with the attitude assumed and the methods employed by the men in control. They are:

1. Ideals.
2. Common Sense.
3. Competent Counsel.
4. Discipline.
5. The Fair Deal.
6. Efficiency Rewards.

The practical principles deal more directly with the employees. They are:

7. Records, Reliable, Immediate, and Adequate.
8. Planning and Despatching.
9. Standards of Schedules.
10. Standardized Conditions.
11. Standardized Operations.
12. Written Standard Practice Instructions.
