PATRIOTIC ASSEMBLY TUESDAY MORNING

A. B. McMillen, President of the Chamber of Commerce, Makes Principal Address. Dr. Boyd Also Speaks.

Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock a patriotic assembly in honor of Lincoln's birthday was held in Rodey hall; A. B. McMillen, head of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker.

Professor Hodgkin, at the beginning of the hour, narrated several incidents of Lincoln's life and told some of Lincoln's favorite jokes. He then introduced Dr. Lynn B. Mitchell, who after an explanatory address, read the Gettysburg address. In his explanation Dr. Mitchell said that the address was made on the 19th of November, 1863. The principal speaker of the day was Edward Everitt, who made a wonderful speech. Lincoln's speech was not well received at first, and it remained for England to make the first favorable comment, and to discover what a masterpiece of English the speech was.

A. B. McMillen was then introduced by Professor Hodgkin. Mr. McMillen said that the first question he always asked himself on an occasion like this one was, "Do we appreciate the government under which we live?" He spoke of the great progress which has been made in the last quarter of a century, stating that luxuries thirty-five years ago are now considered necessities.

Mr. McMillen went on to say that this is the time of young men and women.

"The opportunities for young men and young women today is the greatest in the world's history—for young men and young women of character, stirring purposes, who have some object to perform, and who are willing to make the sacrifice which is necessary. There has never been any great accomplishment of any kind which has not been made with great sacrifice. Those young people who bring this idea to their tasks can hardly fail. Business men are looking everywhere for men of character, men who can be depended upon.

"When we think of Lincoln it ought not to be in our minds that anything is impossible. There was nothing in the home influence or early life of Lincoln to indicate a great man. He was born of shiftless parents, in a backwoods cabin, with no advantages in the way of means to obtain an education."

The speaker then gave a short history of Lincoln's life, showing how much he made of the few opportunities he possessed, how he became a master of the English language, and how he solved some of the greatest problems that any man has ever solved.

Mr. McMillen then spoke of the present war—how we can draw from Lincoln's life the determination to apply ourselves to the problems in hand and how we are inspired by his wonderful patriotism to feel a still stronger patriotism for our country.

WOMEN VOLUNTEERS FOR U. S. WAR WORK

All Patriotic Women to Be Given Chance to Enroll for Special War Service. Registrations Urged.

Of especial interest to all college women is the opportunity offered them by the Council of National Defense to offer their services to the government. The plan is to give every woman in the country a chance to volunteer herself for war work, specifying the kind of work she wishes to do, whether she is trained or desires training, how much time she can give, whether she wishes to work at home, or is free to go elsewhere, and whether she will work as volunteer, with expenses paid or for pay. The lines of work cover all the customary activities of women at home and out of the home, and include many not usually associated with women, such as mail-carrier, police patrol, aviatrix and chauffeur. The field is so broad that there will surely be very few women who are not in a position to undertake something, but the appeal must of necessity be especially strong to college women who have a mental training above the average, who are ready to "do things," and who are, as a rule, unburdened with homes and children.

The registration cards will be sent to us within a week or two, and we hope that every woman on the hill will give the question most careful consideration, and sign the card unless she has a truly excellent reason for not doing so.

DR. BOYD TO CHICAGO.

Dr. D. R. Boyd leaves next week for Chicago, to attend the Congress of National Service, which will be held there February 20-23. Dr. Boyd goes as New Mexico's representative, appointed by the governor. While there Dr. Boyd will appear several times on the program, and has been asked to address one of the twenty Chicago high schools.

Dr. Boyd will remain until about March 1st, attending to other business. It is his intention to secure several new teachers before returning, especially for the department of biology and for athletics.

Miss Grace Stortz sang a solo, accompanied by Professor Seder.

Dr. Boyd then made a short address. He spoke of two elements in education, the element from within, and the contact with forces from without. He showed that Lincoln had been deprived of all these contact forces—knowledge of history, science, etc., and of schools and colleges—how his great success was due directly to the powers within.

The assembly was closed by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the audience.

WALKER TELLS OF WORK "OVER THERE"

Former Student, Now in France, Writes to Al Hunt, Registrar, and Tells a Few of His Experiences and Impressions.

George Walker, who enlisted with the foresters upon the outbreak of the war and who has been in France for some time now, in a letter to Al Hunt described some of the impressions which he received from his trip and work after he landed in France. Extracts from the letter follow:

"If you want to be transplanted in another world, join the army. At the American university it did not seem so strange as it does now. There I would run into and around with someone from home thinking nothing of it. It was the same on the ship, but here in France it is just once in a while now that we are on the job.

"Kind fate has certainly guarded me and treated me well. The Tenth is some outfit and the department of agriculture is forever looking after everyone's welfare in regard to equipment. We have the best of everything necessary and a plentiful supply at that. No one should be in want for clothing or eats.

"Fortunately I started out with the supply end of the regiment and still more fortunately I'm still with it and have been able to get a small idea of what other regiments need for their part in this, a war much more in reality than our carefree imagination led us to believe.

"We were on the ocean for twenty-three days, coming over I was beginning to think I'd been transferred to the navy but we finally reached the bloody bloomin' British Isles. After a sight-seeing trip over the full length of them we slipped across the channel in the dead of night. Since then we've been in the army, trying all the time to get things moving as quickly and surely lined up and then 'bust' the kaiser so we can get back in a modern and up-to-date country.

"This war is surely going to make Americans of every last man who crossed the water and instill in the minds of all those in the 'Old World' that America, although always pursuing the 'eagles,' is fully capable of doing a war job up quickly and thoroughly.

"We were surprised at conditions in France. Somehow I pictured it as a country broken, but they are alive and most French people do not live in hope, but sincerely believe that the German kultur will soon be a thing of the past. A patriotism well worth the sacrifice we are making, don't you think, after all they have suffered?

"Sunny" France must be somewhere else or else that pertains to the genial disposition of the French; for in all the places I've been it rains or looks like it is going to all the time."

UNIVERSITY GIRLS ARE UP IN ARMS

Conceited Man to Be An Object of Attack by the Female of the Species. Scarcity of Men is Cause.

There are too many girls in the market. The competition in this cut-throat contest for popularity is entirely too keen. So much so, in fact, that it is ruining the few men left. They have become more conceited and stupid than ever. They have come to feel that their mere presence at a social function is a gracious condescension on their part, and make no effort to be agreeable or entertaining. Instead of pursuing the aggressive in the social game, they assume the defensive and endeavor to deflect all advances of the girls in the running.

This condition is brought about by a superfluity of girls. Lamentable as it was before the war, it is even now tragic, since so many of the eligible men have entered the service. Look about the campus. See girls hovering about the bulletin boards, girls thronging the library, girls in class offices, girls on committees, girls everywhere. But let a single man put in appearance, and at once he is surrounded by a dozen or so equally charming and attractive young things, like butterflies about a single desert flower. They are all ready enough men to go around. It is estimated that of eligible men on the campus there is only one to every seven girls. Obviously, then, the excess of the supply of girls above the demand of the men is lowering the individual value of the girls; and contrawise, the value of the men is being gradually inflated.

The only solution of this problem is to limit the supply and thereby increase the demand. This has been done.

Monday morning upon this campus, in a secret session at which there were no men present, an earnest band of young women, eager to promote and insure the more efficient marketing of a chosen few, pooled their individual interests and formed a matrimonial trust. Each member of the trust agreed to withdraw from the general area of competition, in favor of one girl whose name should be drawn by lottery, and in addition, promised to encourage and assist in every possible way the activities and successes of the designated one. Neither the nature of the vows taken nor the name of the member delegated to the campaign were disclosed.

It is supposed that the main idea is to keep but one eligible girl in the market at a time, and when she is safely anchored to a "case," to put up another member in her place. Of course the organization is young yet, and will be expected to develop better technique and special methods only as its needs demand.

SILENT CONTRIBUTORS.

The Weekly has several contributors, some regular and some otherwise, who do not wish to take special credit for the articles contributed. The staff takes this opportunity of thanking them and telling them that their work is appreciated. They are helping to make the Weekly a student paper.

If any one else knows of any news which he thinks ought to be in the Weekly, he should not hesitate to hand it in. There is a box in the faculty exchange where such items may be placed, or they will reach some of the staff if marked "Weekly" and placed in the University post-office. Better still, if you have anything, hand it to one of the staff personally. If you knew how we welcome news you would not be backward about handing it in.

JOIN THE RIFLE CLUB.

Every patriotic student of this institution owes it to himself and to his country to grasp this opportunity to learn to handle and shoot an army rifle of the latest official pattern.

This club is affiliated with the National Rifle Association of America, and is under the direct charge of the war department. Membership can be had for the small sum of one dollar, which entitles one to one hundred and twenty rounds of ammunition, and instruction under a competent instructor, who has had training in the Presidio training camp.

Later in the season a match will be held to determine the best shot in school, who will in turn receive an N. R. A. medal.

The next regular shoot will be held Saturday, February 16th, and more members are needed to successfully carry out these plans. So let's see ten new men out Saturday, who are "keen" and "raring to tear up the bull's eye." A new shipment containing an ample supply of ammunition and targets has just been received.

SIX OUT FOR THE DEBATING SQUAD.

A total of six debaters have announced their intention to try for the debating team which will meet the Aggies here on March 9. The subject to be debated is, "Resolved, That the Philippines Shall be given their independence two years after the close of the present war."

The University has the affirmative side. Those who have come out are Miss Garrett, Mr. Gould, Clyde Morris, Allen Williams and Harold Booker.

HOWLS AND GROWLS.

(Being excerpts from the record of the Kiyote trial, as taken in shorthand by the official reporter, C. Moore.)

Examination of Jurors.
Mr. Richardson—I object to Mr. Scruggs for obvious reasons. (Miss Darrow was sitting beside Mr. Scruggs.)

Mr. Lee—Your Honor, I demand that he state his reasons.
The Court—You will state your reasons.

Mr. Richardson—I object to him as being mentally incompetent. Any man who will go out at 11 o'clock at night to investigate the different species of cactus, is not qualified to sit on this jury.

Mr. Richardson—I object to this juror (Miss McIntosh).

The Court—State your objections.
Mr. Richardson—Your Honor, this young lady has already shown herself to be susceptible to the wiles and smiles of this defendant, Mr. Overstreet. His soft speeches and admiring glances have already yielded an undue influence over her, and should he smile at her just once real sweetly there would be no chance of securing a conviction in this case.

His Honor—Insufficient grounds; your objection is overruled.

Mr. Craig on the stand—
Examination by Mr. Sachs.
Q. What is your full name?
A. Reginaldo Frederico Craigini.
Q. What then, is your name when not "full"?
A. Rex Craig.

Testimony of Count von Sour Krout:
Examination by Mr. Sachs.
Q. You say that this biscuit you found on the floor of your room was hard?

A. Yes, sir, very hard.
Q. It was capable of breaking a window, then?
A. Yes, sir; it was a regular dining hall biscuit.

Testimony of Mr. Romero:
Cross-examination by Mr. Lee.
Q. You said that Mr. Overstreet FOUR—U N M—H—has a very delicate appetite, did you not?

A. Yes, sir; he has.
Q. Well, about how much would he eat at one meal?

(Mr. Richardson—Your Honor, I object to that question as being irrelevant, incompetent, and immaterial.)

(Mr. Sachs—And I object to it as being irreverent, improper, and immoral.)

His Honor—Objection overruled; the witness will answer.

Several of these candidates are new to University debating, but have had some previous experience in prep schools. Booker won the state oratorical contest last fall at Santa Fe. Several new books on the Philippines, and other sources of material ordered by the library, have arrived and are on the shelves now.

The Aggies have already chosen a team of four to represent them. On this team is Wimberly, the State College's representative in the oratorical contest which Booker won.

The Arizona debate will occur some time in the latter part of April.

CARRY-ON CABARET.

The social event of chief interest to Varsity folk during the past week was the "Carry-on Cabaret" given under the auspices of the Woman's Pan-Hellenic association, at the Elks' club, Friday evening. The students of the University participated in all the various activities and the excellent sum or $300 was realized for the Red Cross treasury.

The ballroom was decorated in the national colors. In one corner refreshments were served throughout the evening by Varsity girls dressed as French maids. In another was a side show and booths where candy and flowers were sold. Dancing continued throughout the evening.

The program consisted of patriotic songs, illustrated by tableaux. The first tableau was "Over There," sung by the Sigma Chi quartet. Next came the song, "Go On, My Boy, Your Country Needs You," by the University Opera Chorus, followed by a solo, "In the Garden of My Heart," by Geo. C. Hoffman. Jimmie Wait sang "I Don't Want to Get Well." Miss Grace Stortz sang "For All Eternity," by Mascherie, playing her own accompaniment upon the violin. "The Long, Long Trail" was charmingly rendered in a duet by Miss Estelle Harris and Robert Sewell. Miss Hortense Switzer sang "John of Arc" for the closing tableau.

SIGMA CHI AGAIN.

The Sigma Chi held open house Sunday afternoon and evening, in honor of their lady friends. Hot chocolate and fudge was furnished, which the guests kindly offered to make. Afterwards the merry crowd gathered around the blazing fireplace to toast marshmallows. College and fraternity songs were sung to the accompaniment of ukeleles.

THIRTY CLUB.

The last Thirty Club dance to be given until after Lent was given Monday night at the Woman's Club. Contrary to the "30" custom, this affair was informal. Punch was served throughout the evening. It was one of the jolliest dances held recently among the younger set, and was a fitting close to the pre-Lenten season. Several Varsity girls and fellows were present. They were the Misses Estelle Harris, Anne Harris, Maurine Reagan, Louise Dadey, Frances Bear, Lois Davis, Grace Stortz, LeClair Cavanaugh; and Hugh Cooper, Dwight McClure, Ernest Hammond.

The Good Times Club, a town organization, invites University students to attend a Valentine day dance at the Colombo hall Thursday night.

Miss Lina Fergusson reports the loss of a pair of glasses between the west entrance to the University building and the street car line.

Both of the Albuquerque high school basketball teams were victorious in games with Tucumcari and Santa Fe last week. This leaves the state championship between Albuquerque and Clovis to be settled at a future date.

We have just found out the why and wherefore of the dining hall menu. Dr. James says that no person can eat three Alvarado meals a day and think. The dining hall menus are very conducive to thinking.

The new tennis court add much to the looks of the campus as well as furnish amusement for students.

There were twelve students at vespers Sunday; quite a good average.

UNIVERSITY NOW A WAR COLLEGE.

President David Ross Boyd of the University of New Mexico Monday received the following letter from the war department at Washington:

"I am pleased to inform you that the secretary of war yesterday approved a new list of technical engineering schools containing the name of your institution."

In a list received some weeks ago Dr. Boyd found that the name of the New Mexico University was omitted therefrom. He immediately got in communication with the war department, with the above result.

Th ruling means that engineering graduates of the State University here will be accepted by the war department upon presentation of his credentials, and will not be required to be examined, except physically.

RIFLE CLUB SHOOT.

The rifle club held its weekly shoot last Saturday afternoon on the range north of the University. The new targets which were ordered last spring, and lost in transit, have been located and secured and were used for the first time Saturday. MUSICAL NOTES.

Prof. Seder announces that he will give a "request recital" on the piano soon, providing sufficient requests come in. Hand the numbers desired to him or drop in faculty exchange. The only restriction is that the selections must be serious music. The date will be announced later.

The opera chorus sang successfully at the music festival in spite of depleted numbers due to sickness. The numbers "Sextet," "Inflamatus," and "Sapphire Seas," the last with solo by Miss Estelle Harris. The work of the chorus won special praise from Mrs. Winn and Mr. Christian, artists who appeared at the festival.

The opera chorus sang Friday of last week at the "Carry-on" Cabaret, furnishing the bulk of the program. This week they sing at the Elk's anniversary program. March 1 they are engaged to furnish a concert program for society night at the automobile show.

Recent enrollments on piano are Harold Partch, a young pianist of great prominence, and Miss Carrie Turner of Wagon Mound.

It is hoped that more Varsity people will get out for these services which are held every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Rodey hall. Vespers are held primarily for the students of the University, and should be better supported by them. It is hardly fair to ask a speaker to give his time and energy to speak and then not come to hear him.

Next Sunday, February 17th, Rev. Lynd, of the Congregational church, will be the speaker.

Q. That's all he eats at one meal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. He has a very delicate appetite, then?

A. I would say so.

Testimony of Sheriff Paulsen:

Cross-examination by Mr. Moore.

Q. You were up the Hill in a car that night, were you not, Mr. Paulsen?

A. No; it was a Ford.

Q. And you had some trouble with it going down?

A. I had some engine trouble.

Q. What was the matter, did you lose part of it?

A. Yes, sir; three cylinders were missing.

Q. Nothing serious, then?

A. No, sir; I got home all right.

Testimony of Mr. Stacker (street car conductor):

Examination by Mr. Richardson.

Q. Did you say that this defendant was loaded on your car by two men?

A. No, sir; he was loaded before he got on.

Testimony of Prof Wand:

Examination by Mr. Lee.

Q. Were you at the Boys' Dormitory on the night of the theft?

A. I was after 9 o'clock.

Q. It is hardly necessary to ask where you were before 9.

Testimony of Mr. Overstreet:

Examination by Mr. Sachs.

Q. Have you, or have you not, given up your practice of going down to the White Rhinoceros every night and there imbibing two bottles of bevo? Answer yes or no.
