WILKERSON, PIERCE, CRAWFORD, TO DEBATE AGGIES MARCH FIFTH

Tryout Held Thursday Afternoon Selected Team Which is to Meet Las Cruces.

On Thursday afternoon the tryouts for places on the debating team were held at Rodey Hall. The team selected will represent the University in the annual debate which is held with the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. This is the eleventh debate which has been argued between the two institutions, the first debate being held in 1910. The debate will occur at State College, N. M., on March 5, 1921.

Although the number of contestants was small, the try-outs were by no means without rivalry. The team selected consists of Mr. Wilkerson, Mr. Pierce, Mr. Crawford, and Mr. Cartwright as alternate. The speeches were all well delivered and much expression and vigorous oration prevailed during the try-out. The judges consisted of Dr. Hessler, Prof. Landers and Dr. Coan. These men comprise the members on the Board of Faculty Advisers of the Debating Organization and much credit should be given them for the much-needed and very helpful assistance they have given in order to make the team a success. During the following week the team will reorganize their speeches and prepare a definite system of attack on the Aggies.

It is planned to award gold "N. M." letters to all men winning places on any team. These letters will probably be in the form of a watch-chain. These letters will be awarded shortly after the completion of the debating season which ends about April 30. A banquet is also under way for all who "make" a team and for all members of the U. N. M. Literary Society. A prominent attorney and a very well known judge will be present at this banquet and will deliver short talks on "Public Speaking and the Necessity for Its Instruction."

ASSEMBLY ADDRESSED BY LYNN M FOX OF Y

Assembly last Friday morning turned out to be rather brief, but very pleasing in what was given. The assembly was opened with a vocal solo by Mrs. Swentker, accompanied on the piano by Miss Barbara Wait and on the violin by Miss Lester. The selection, "Laurance's 'The Waters of Minnetonka'" was beautifully rendered and was repeated as an encore in response to the vigorous applause.

Dean Hodgins then introduced the speaker of the day, Mr. Lynn M. Fox, local secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Fox gave the text of his speech as "The strength of the wolf is the pack and the strength of the pack is the wolf." He then gave a brief talk on that subject.

He told of two men whom he had known, both men of very brilliant intellect and men who should have succeeded, but one of them ended up in jail, the other was exiled in Mexico. Both of them had tried to go against the current, to oppose the will of the majority, but they were swept off their feet and whirled along the downward path. And as he made the plea that each of the students of the University should try to make friends with those around him and to get in tune with the rest of the world, for "The strength of the wolf is the pack and the strength of the pack is the wolf."

Vera Jordan, a new Phi Mu pledge, has moved over to the Phi Mu House from the dormitory.

COACH SAYS GIRLS WANTED PRIVATE COURTS, THEY GOT THEM

The Rules May Be Changed If All Want Change

Coach R. W. Johnson, who has caused much comment for his rules governing the new tennis courts, explained to a Weekly reporter that the new tennis courts were built at the request of the women of the University so that they might have courts of their own and privacy while playing. Coach Johnson said that they got their courts and the rules were made to give them their privacy. Now that they have what they wanted they are not satisfied, for from the women of the University, not the men, come the complaints. Coach Johnson explained that the rules were not his own opinion on the subject but an endeavor to give the women what they wanted. The rules, he said, might be changed when the new courts were finished, but until that time the present rules will be rigidly enforced.

MACPHERSON TO TELL JOURNALISM CLASS HOW TO MAKE PAPERS PAY

Special Meeting for Next Monday

Mr. Gilbert Cosulich, who is giving the series of lectures in Journalism every Friday afternoon at 4:30 has arranged for a special lecture Monday, March 7, by Mr. D. A. MacPherson, business manager of the Albuquerque Morning Journal, on the subject of "Making the Newspaper Pay." Mr. MacPherson has been in the newspaper game for many years and will bring a message of great interest to the future journalists.

IDENTITY OF MYSTERIOUS T. B. CRABB DISCLOSED

HE QUOTES FROM FRA ELBERTUS WHO SAYS

"MODESTY IS EGOTISM TURNED WRONG SIDE OUT"

By Edythe M. Maharam.

The general interest in the identity of T. B. Crabb is equal to the difficulty of obtaining an interview with him, as the reporter for the U. N. M. Weekly discovered when she made the attempt Saturday before last at his cottage at St. Joseph's Sanitarium.

"Come back later!" was stormed at the novice reporter from no less a personage than T. B. Crabb himself.

"Oh, of course—certainly—thank you!" And record time was made from St. Joseph's to town.

Several days later in Journalism Class at the U. N. M. the reporter was approached by Curtis E. Light of Chicago, alias T. B. Crabb. "May I ask why you did not return the other day when you called? You are undoubtedly one of my many admirers." (Feature his abnormal supply of unmitigated nerve!)

The casual retort was, "I had merely been requested to obtain an interview with some notorious—"

"Notorious is good! for," as T. B. Crabb explained, "any means of being known to the public, whether as a celebrity or as a notorious character would satisfy me. Self depreciation has never been one of my faults. My contributions to the Morning Journal are always accepted, but I am convinced that it does not pay to have stuff printed—no body can understand this."

As one of the journalistic rules is to cater to the trend of thought of your victim, I offered: "I suppose the extraordinary talent you display is the result of much practice?"

DORMITORY GIRLS ROMP ALL OVER GREEK LETTER GIRLS

Win Easily From Alpha Chi Omega.

The crack Girls' Dormitory quintet romped all over the Alpha Chi Omega team to the tune of 36 to 12 Wednesday afternoon in the girls' gymnasium. The dormitory girls, who by far outclass any other girls' team on the hill, played their usual good brand of basketball. The Greek letter team put up a hard fight but to no avail against the expert team work of the Dorm. Miss Emma Gerhardt earned especial praise for her fine shooting. Final score, 36 to 12; favor of the Girls' Dormitory. Mrs. Whitmeyer refereed.

ARTS AND SCIENCE BATTLE ENGINEERS SATURDAY

Basketball Game is Arranged.

Conversation is again stimulated by the announcement of a basketball game between the colleges of Engineering and the A. P. S. which will be played Saturday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. The outlook is very favorable for an exciting game, as the teams are very evenly matched. Witten is captaining the Engineers and White is heading the A. P. S. Neither of the teams have had much practice together and teamwork will probably not be the strongest feature of the game. However, the rivalry between the colleges is quite marked and the game promises to be one of unusual spirit.

ALPHA DELTA PI KEEPS GIRLS' SCHOLARSHIP CUP P. K. A. WINS MEN'S

Pi Kappa Alpha Takes Semester Place in Cup Race Among the Frats.

The Alpha Delta Pi sorority takes possession of the girls' scholarship cup for good after winning the cup for the third successive time this semester. Phi Mu came second in the cup race, Kappa Kappa Gamma third and Alpha Chi Omega last. The averages based on active membership only are as follows:

Alpha Delta Pi	87.21%
Phi Mu	86.08%
Kappa Kappa Gamma	80.20%
Alpha Chi Omega	78.37%

Among the men's fraternities the men's cup is based on the same general principles and Pi Kappa Alpha won the cup for this past semester. Pi Kappa Alpha has two laps on the three which will give them permanent possession of the cup. They also have had the cup three times since its first award. The rules of awarding the cup give it to the fraternity which wins it three times in succession or five times not in succession. Alpha Delta came second and Sigma Chi third. The averages are as follows:

Pi Kappa Alpha	80.20%
Alpha Delta	78.33%
Sigma Chi	77.27%

The averages among men's organizations this semester have not been up to the standard set in the grades last spring under the quarter system. The lowest mark in the last quarter, 80.94%, made by Sigma Chi, would win the cup this semester. From the statistics kept in the registrar's office it is found that the standard of work represented by grades grows better toward the last of the year.

The attendance record kept by the office of the Dean of Women will no doubt turn some light upon the grade averages of the women's organizations. They are as follows:

Kappa Kappa Gamma	90.7%
Alpha Chi Omega	88.8%
Dorm.	88.5%
Alpha Delta Pi	88.2%
Unorganized Group	86.8%
Phi Mu	84.4%

IS IT ANILINE? ANALINE? OR IS IT ANALYNE? ASKS THE CHEMISTS

According to the Chemistry department more people spell the word "aniline" incorrectly than spell it as it should be spelled. "Aniline" seems the proper spelling to most people. For a long time after the dye industry started up on a good sized scale in America, even the largest metropolitan dailies carried "National Aniline" in their market quotations of the stock of the large American dye manufacturing concern. The word "anil" is the Portuguese and French name of the indigo plant.

During a recent quiz in Chemistry II a member of the class went the newspapers one better. He wrote as follows: "During the recent war anyline dies—". Apparently his instructor read no further, for his blue book was found in the patio of the chemistry building marked as follows in red ink: "Is analyne the name of a movie heroine or the name of a chemical? Is the word following it a noun or a verb?"

Miss Dorothy Donovan of Detroit, who has been attending the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, has entered the University for the second semester work. Miss Donovan has come to Albuquerque with a younger brother who is ill, and will be a sophomore on the hill.

Who is to do anything along these lines should join the Society as soon as possible in order to begin work for the coming year. The meeting has been called by George Bryan, who was last year manager of debate.

They also are carrying an excellent grade of fraternity stationery engraved with crests of the various fraternal organizations on the Hill and, best of all, they have two kodaks which they will loan free.

LIBRARY PARROTS.

There seems to be a tendency on the part of some of the personnel of the student body to use the library for a social gathering place. To look at some of the groups which now and then gather in the library one would speculate on how soon the refreshments would be served.

These parrots must be done away with. The library is a place for study, and nothing else. There is no excuse for any lengthy conversations to be held in the library and it is not fair to those who are trying to study to have some social parrot jabbering away to a neighbor. Everyone co-operate with Miss Shelton, the librarian, and her assistants to frown down the Library Parrots!

MORE OUT FOR DEBATING.

With the debating season fast approaching and with one of the try-outs over, we must realize that we have not had enough students who have expressed a desire and a determination to make the debating team. Of course, there have been the faithful few who have been working on the coming debates, but what we need right now is for more to become interested. There are fine chances for making one of the teams and much glory and good experience in it for many more than are out. See Professor Hessler or Walter Berger, debate manager, at once.

KISS DEFINED AND DISSECTED; EFFECT HINGES ON SPOT

French Savant Says Kissing Is Acquired Art and is a Union of Lips.

The Denver Post carries an article in one of its past issues which tells of the discoveries of Professor Edouard Maelspine. Part of the article follows:

"The kiss has been discovered. In a thirty-three page treatise just printed in La Mercure, weightiest and most solemn of French reviews, Prof. Edouard Maelspine, one of France's most learned savants, describes, analyzes and dissects the kiss in all its phases. He even weighs it.

In the latter effort he arrived at the astonishing conclusion that persons kiss on the lips from force of habit and not because the lips are the most sensitive part of the human body.

To excite the same sensations, he affirms, it is necessary to impress a kiss equal to the weight of two milligrams on the forehead, temples nose and cheeks, three milligrams on the palm of the hand, five milligrams on the lips, eyelids or stomach and fifteen milligrams on the palm of the index finger.

"In the white race," he continues, "the kiss is above all achieved by touch and its characters may be sexual or social. But with the yellow peoples the kiss has strictly a significance of a voluptuous nature and is formed by olfactory impressions. The Mongolians do not know either the kiss of friendship or of politeness. With them the kiss is reserved to lovers, to fiancées or man and wife.

Dr. Maelspine approaches his subject with the assertion that kissing is not fundamentally a natural act, but an acquired art.

"Many persons think that kissing is a habit in vogue throughout the world. But not only are there countries where the kiss is unknown but there are many more where it is a totally different form to our own," he writes.

After asking what a kiss really is, the professor answers himself:

"The kiss," he says, "is the union of two lips with simultaneously a myriad of sentiments and sensations—love, desire, fear, respect, purity, abandonment.

Dr. Maelspine then proceeds to analyze the psycho-physiology of the kiss. Under the sub-head of the "elements," he states that:

"The kiss is the first carnal manifestation of love. The passionate look is nothing but desire. The handshake is full of reserve, of constraint, of full of hope. The kiss is simply another and more exquisite manifestation of the sense of touch than the handshake. And it is from the sense of touch that all our other senses are derived."

According to the professor a kiss can be very disagreeable if it is cold. Our lips should be warm; he asserts, to get the full value of the sensation. At the same time he admits that Charicles and Pygmalion apparently got a lot out of their passionate kissing of a marble statue.

After ten pages of learned discussion on whether any one without a sense of taste could hope to derive pleasure from kissing, the savant proceeds to the assertion that kissing is an acquired habit, because no newly born babe understands anything about it.

Professor Maelspine closes his dissertation by a reference to War's "Kissing—the Science," wherein the Virginian campaigns for the prohibition of the kiss between tuberculars.

"Despite all rules, despite all dangers, the kiss will persist and form a part of our very nature," he concludes. "Society models and modifies it, but its source is profounder than our being. It is one of those instinctive gestures, mysterious like our life and our soul."

thin, and has big hands; but gray eyes that persist in twinkling. He talks just as he writes, making one long for suitable repartee. The corners of his mouth turn down but give the impression of forced seriousness, for behind his pointed features and artificial frown is a world of fun, gaiety and thorough understanding of human faults and virtues. He is quick of action and I judge precise, for his suit is always immaculately clean and flawlessly pressed, his shoes lustrous and his cuticle in perfect condition. In short, he is the man of his literary style.

He was given last Saturday evening by Mrs. W. G. Hopewell for her son, Willard Hopewell, who spent the

SOCIETY

Our Sunshine City is daily proving the appropriateness of its appellation, thus bringing with it the vivid realization that "Spring" is coming. The usual effects are becoming evident—symptoms of the renowned spring fever, that contagious disease, are plainly visible by the ever-increasing number of vacant stares during class periods; all energy is used up in dreams, for "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to" rides or hikes along the enchanted mesa next to an enchantress, sociable games of tennis (at the Country Club, of course), or just an added degree or two of the prevalent "campus" outdoor sport.

NEW PLEDGES.

With the excitement and uncertainty of rushing season over, the sororities and fraternities of the hill have many new pledges to announce. They are as follows:

Kappa Kappa Gamma—Misses Ruth Dougherty and Myrtle Walker. Alpha Chi Omega—Miss Dorothy Donovan, formerly of Detroit, who will live at the Chapter House. Phi Mu—Misses Pepita Espinosa, Vera Jordan and Dorothy Wagner.

Alpha Delta Pi—Miss Louise Darrow, sister of Miss Helen Darrow, who was a former student at this university. Alpha Delta—Messrs. Von Kiech and Frank Reeve.

SOPHOMORE DANCE.

The Sophomore class gave their long-looked-forward-to dance Saturday night at the Woman's Club and made it an event to be pleasantly remembered by all present. A four-piece orchestra furnished tantalizing incentive for restless feet to indulge in the popular pastime. Unique programs having a large number of "28" on the cover added materially to the charm of the occasion. Johnnie Fernstrom insists that he be given due credit for aiding Miss Lorena Burton in managing such a successful dance.

CHARLES LEMBKE TO BE ON BOARD OF REGENTS

Jaffa, Reidy and Sedillo Are Re-appointed by the Governor.

Governor Mecham has sent to the senate his nominations of members of the board of regents of the University of New Mexico as follows: Nathan Jaffa of Roswell, Dr. J. A. Reidy, A. A. Sedillo, Charles Lembke of Albuquerque, and Mrs. Rupert F. Asplund of Santa Fe.

Mr. Jaffa, president of the board, and Dr. Reidy, secretary, have served for a number of years. Mr. Sedillo was appointed by Governor Larrazolo two years ago. Mrs. Asplund was at one time librarian of the University. Mr. Lembke is an alumnus of the University.

THE SHE-MAN.

I blush sometimes to think that I
Play tennis with a girl;
That in between the strokes we play
We chatter of the social whirl,
Of dates, and music, shows, such chaff
As girls delight in talking of—
I blush to think we sometimes laugh.
I blush to think we mention love!
I blush and shudder, blush again;
I'd hate to be disowned by men.

I know this is effeminate;
That tennis rightly played
Is fierce, relentless, full of hate.
And yet I dally with a maid!
I blush, the gentle words I use
Are different from the kind they hurl,
Who, being men, with sneers refuse
To play at tennis with a girl.
I blush and shudder, blush again;
I'd hate to be disowned by men.

HIS TUNEFUL MESSAGE.

Included among the passengers on board a ship crossing the Atlantic recently was a man who stuttered. One day he went to the captain of the ship to speak to him.

"S-s-s-s" stuttered the man.
"Oh, I can't be bothered," said the captain, angrily. "Go to somebody else."

The man tried to speak to everybody on board the ship, but none could wait to hear what he had to say. At last he came to the captain again.

"Look here," said the captain, "I can tell you what to do when you want to say anything; you should sing it."

Then suddenly, in a tragic voice, the man commenced to sing:
"Should auld acquaintance be forgot and never brought to mind?
The blooming cook's fell overboard and is twenty miles behind."
