SIGMA TAU SMOKER A JOLLY SUCCESS

Fraternity Boys Entertain High School Younths at the House Last Wednesday Evening.

A bunch of the local high school fellows were entertained by the Sigma Taus at a jolly stag party or smoker last Wednesday evening, at the Fraternity House, upon the Hill.

The fun commenced about seven-thirty, and it would not be advisable to give the time of departure.

Judge Kirby Prickett played his role of College custodian when he came in as a general rough time was going on. The high school fellows at first looked for the nearest exit—but they finally "got next," from the horse laughs of the others present.

After this the floors were cleared, and all the latest steps of the "Tango" and "Hesitation" were danced to the tunes of the piano player.

"Chef" Harry Frank "pulled the strings" that rung the bell for supper, and everyone gathered around tables heavily laden, on which was scattered promiscuously, coffee, sandwiches and cake. After everyone had done his best at getting away with the most eats, and smokes were well lighted, speeches were indulged in by some of the hosts, and all of the guests. Several embryo Daniel Websters and Henry Clays were listened to with deep attention and interest.

To round out the evening, songs were sung, and after the closing strains of the "Sigma Tau Waltz," everyone departed, well pleased with having spent a most enjoyable evening.

FORMER STUDENTS HONORED.

Word has come to Albuquerque that Miss Kathryn Chaves, a member of last year's Freshman Class, now matriculated in George Washington University, Washington, D. C., has been signally honored.

The Professor of Spanish at the University, having been taken suddenly ill, recommended that Miss Chaves be given charge of these classes during his sickness. She was given this responsibility, and has acquitted herself of it in a worthy and efficient manner.

The Professor has stated that Miss Chaves has not only a remarkable grip upon the Spanish language, but that her accent and manner of speaking it is the purest and best he has heard of any student in this country.

Miss Chaves' intention is to teach Spanish upon her graduation, and if she continues to acquit herself in the manner that has so far characterized herself, the future holds great possibilities in store for her.

Prof. Gruer was at breakfast for the first time this year. Easter morning and strawberries. If he had a chance he might make a second Rip Van Winkle.

CANTATA BY GLEE CLUB SPLENDID EVENT

"From Olivet to Calvary" Rendered Before Large Audience, Meets With Favorable Comment.

Before an audience which filled not only the church proper, but the Sunday School room as well, the Varsity Glee Club, assisted by local talent, rendered the Cantata "From Olivet to Calvary," in the Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon.

Before the singing of the Cantata itself, Reverend Foreman of the Presbyterian Church read the Passion and Death of the Saviour according to St. Luke, as a prelude to explain the Cantata proper.

Following Mr. Foreman, the Cantata itself was rendered, and for an hour and a half the large audience was treated to one of the best events in local musical circles heard hereabouts for many a year.

The work of the Glee Club itself is deserving of the highest praise, and the efficient manner in which they gave the renditions is a tribute to the directress, Miss Mary McFie.

The soloists, Mr. Thomas A. Christian, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Andrews, and Mr. E. Stanley Seder, were up to their usual high standard, and those who turned out expecting a musical treat, were not disappointed.

This is the second time that the Glee Club has given this Cantata, the last time being Easter Sunday, 1913, and the success achieved then was doubtless one of the causes of such a large turnout this year.

This week the Glee Club goes to Santa Fe, where, no doubt, they will acquit themselves with the same distinction and honor as was displayed by them Sunday.

HEARD ON THE GYM STEPS.

"Say, did you ever go gunning for Doodle-Bugs?"

"No; I never heard of them."

"Get up along about umph, o'clock in the morning, taking a left-hand monkey-wrench, a can of sardines, and an egg-beater. Approaching stealthily his place of abode and inserting the egg-beater in the uppermost part of his house, stirring all the while, and humming, "Get Out and Get Under," you pour in the sardines—which are considered a delicacy to a doodle-bug. Forsooth! The doodle-bug appeareth. And why? Well, because he likes sardines. Now! Quick, Gerald, the monkey-wrench! Clamp it on his nostrils and twist—Har! Har! The rest is easy."

BISHOP HOWDEN TO DELIVER THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON

It has been announced that the Rt. Rev. Frederick B. Howden, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of New Mexico, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the University of New Mexico. The exercises of Commencement will take place during the last week in May, and Baccalaureate Sunday will be May 24. The choice of Bishop Howden to deliver this address is a very happy one, and will give the people of the University and of the town an opportunity to hear this distinguished clergyman.

TROPHY AND MEDALS ON THEIR WAY HERE

Prizes for Second Interscholastic Contest Coming.—Spalding Trophy Much Coveted One.

Coach Hutchinson and the committee having in charge the coming University of New Mexico Interscholastic track meet, are hard at work, completing their plans, and everything is about in readiness. All that remains is for the high schools to send in their entry blanks, which, it is expected, will have done on or before April 20.

Word has just been received by Coach Hutchinson that the silver trophy donated by A. G. Spalding & Brothers is on its way, and on its arrival the cup will be exhibited at O. A. Matson's store. This cup is to be the permanent property of the school winning it three times; the school which wins it one year will be permitted to retain it until the next year, and in addition, will have its name engraved thereon.

Schools Are Interested.

The medals have also been ordered, and will be here in a day or two, and will also be exhibited along with the cup, at O. A. Matson's.

The committee at the University is daily in receipt of letters from the various high schools, asking questions about the meet, and signifying their intention of entering. Some of the more distant schools, where they cannot send a team, will send one, two or more men, and as there are to be three prizes for each event, gold medal for first place, silver for second, and bronze for third, there will be chances for all of them to get one or more prizes.

Special committees from the University, consisting of students and faculty, will have in charge the entertainment and care of the visiting high school athletics. These committees will be appointed in a day or so, and will be ready to take full charge of all visitors, and look out for them upon their arrival and during their stay for the meet. The track will be in readiness for the benefit of the athletes, and all can avail themselves of its use for practice before the event.

U. N. M. BASEBALL TEAM

ALSO GOES TO SANTA FE

Two Games Scheduled For Cherry and Silver Same Time the Glee Club Makes the Visit.

Manager Arno Karl Leupold has finally succeeded in scheduling two baseball games in Santa Fe, to be played next Friday and Saturday, and accordingly the baseball team will make the trip along with the Glee Club, Friday morning.

The first game will be played with St. Michael's College, on Friday afternoon, and the second will be with a town team. The management will pay all expenses, as they will get two-thirds of the gate receipts at St. Michael's, and all the receipts at the game with the town team.

A game will be played with the local Indian School Wednesday to help practice up the squad. They will probably return from Santa Fe Sunday afternoon.

BOOST THE TRACK MEET.

The coming interscholastic track meet, on Saturday, April 25, should have the most whole hearted and loyal support of every student of the University. Beyond a doubt, there will be a far better representation this year than last, as not less than six schools, namely, Santa Fe, Tucumcari, Las Vegas, Deming, Belen and Albuquerque, have signified their intention of entering, and there are still more who are determined to be present at this event, if possible.

This is YOUR opportunity to show these visitors what a splendid institution and loyal student body we have here. Our hope for the future rests in the high schools of the State, for from them shall we draw the greater part of our students. If we show these visitors a good time, and get them interested in theVarsity, each one, on returning, will be a live advertisement for theVarsity, and will do his part in "boosting" the Institution to his fellow students.

So let's all try to turn out with bells on when these young athletes arrive, and show them what a splendid school we have here, and we can then rest contented with having done a good piece of work after the meet is over, and they have returned home, filled with enthusiasm and admiration for the best University in the country.

DO YOUR PART, EVERYBODY!

SAYS THE COLLEGES OF TODAY ARE DREAM FOSTERERS

University Students of the Present Have Wonderful Ideas of Big Future Accomplishments.

(By President James, U. of Ill.)
I have no hesitation myself in saying that the young men of today are dreaming dreams on a larger scale, and thinking in larger units, than the corresponding boys of my own college generation, which was the first half of the seventies.

When a boy grasps the idea that we are at work in our department of agriculture, for example, trying to determine the conditions of a permanent agriculture; that is, that we are trying to find out a system of culture by which Mother Earth, instead of yielding continually less, may yield continually more, his imagination will have caught fire, and he will look out on the world of agriculture and all its problems with that eye of a statesman which characterized Faust in the second part of Goethe's great tragedy. For with an improving agriculture comes an improving quality of the agriculturist, one element reacting on the other; and with the improving quality of the agriculturist, using that term in a large sense comes an improving civilization with all which that implies.

Imaginations Are Quickened.

The imagination of a student in architecture quickens and reaches up into newer and higher regions through his dreams of great and beautiful structures, for it carries him into intellectual and aesthetic intercourse with the great architects of all countries and all times. The boy who catches a notion of what it means to the world and to civilization to subdue nature and to harness the winds, the streams, the ocean tides, and the heat of the sun to the car of human progress, can certainly not be accused of a lack of imagination.

Take a still more "material" illustration. The boy who recognizes what it means for our day and generation to discover and utilize for human welfare the clays of a great commonwealth like Illinois in such a way as to increase the wealth of a community in the production of clay products; who has a vision of the far-reaching effects of the increasing facility and ease of life, following upon the use of brick, for example, as a paving material, and the consequent emergence of a whole great commonwealth from the thick muck and mud of its fertile fields to a solid basis of facile communication and intercourse; who realizes how investigations in this field may result in a complete change in our style of building and in the incorporation into it of all the principles of art and beauty which humankind has worked out in the course of ages, and how by steady development of our scientific knowledge and our artistic skill through the same use of clay products we may increase enormously the beauty and joy of life in the contact with the common articles of furniture about a house, like plates and dishes—when a boy, I say, has this vision and comprehends these relations and interrelations in a larger way, he is lying, and moving and having his being in a world of imagination and beauty.

The boy who is dreaming of making a combustion engine which shall get rid of smoke in our great cities, and increase the ease of movement throughout the world, certainly cannot be accused of not using his imagination, for the possibility of his success depends on doing this very thing.

Art and Literature.

All the facts thus far discussed relate to what people are apt to regard as the purely material side of college life. Speaking of the students of the University of Illinois today, where we are supposed to have developed these non-imaginative sides of the university curriculum to the full extent, I believe that there are now more students here on this campus who are interested in art and literature, and looking forward to achieving something creative in these lines than there were at Northwestern or Harvard when I was a student at those colleges nearly forty years ago.

An institution which has turned out a Lorado Taft, who, certainly in the field of sculpture, cannot be accused of lack of imagination; a Walter Burley Griffin, who dreamed of a great city, which will be realized as the capital city of the Australian Commonwealth; a Henry S. Bacon, who imagined the great Lincoln monument on the Mall at Washington, which is to be realized in the next few years, can surely not be accused of destroying at any rate, the imagination of college students.

No criticism for State Universities. My own opinion is that a large part of the current criticism of American colleges and universities is based upon

Can You Say Off-hand Who Slew Sisera? What is State Flower of Mexico? Who is Tagore?

College graduates are supposed to be pretty well informed. There is an old tradition to the effect that for a few months after they have captured their diploma they entertain the idea that they are so well armed with a far-reaching and overpowering intelligence that it is only a question of a few years before they have completely mastered their destiny and that of the nation as well. Maybe so. At any rate, here's a pretty good chance to test your knowledge with things in general. It's called "general information test," and is a sample of those given each year by several of the large private academies of the north. There are 100 questions. Good students make a grade of 60. Take a glance at 'em:

1.—Name the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, the American ambassador to Great Britain, the governor of the Panama Canal Zone, the governor of Louisiana, the king of England, the prime minister of England, the political party now in power at Washington, D. C., the political organization recently defeated in the New York city municipal election, the new national revenue tax, the neighboring country in a state of revolution, the general who led the Carthaginians over the Alps, the man who first circumnavigated the globe, the original thirteen colonies, the cities that have been capitals of our country, the city that was saved by geese.

2.—In what field or office have the following become prominent? Give nationality, also state whether contemporary or historical: Leonardo da Vinci, Alfred Noyes, Huerta, William Sulzer, Martin Luther, Winston Churchill, Yuan Shi Ki, Rembrandt, Rabindranath Tagore.

3.—What historical or literary associations are connected with the following? Tell what nations were involved: Waterloo, the treaty of Ghent, Trafalgar, the statue of liberty, the cotton bale represented on the flag of the 7th U. S. Infantry, Port Hudson, La., the Fourth of July, Gettysburg, Domesday Book, Mansfield, La.

4.—Name the city referred to by each of the following expressions: Gotham, the Smoky City, the Windy City, the Eternal City, the Crescent City, the City of Protherly Love, the South American Paris, the Hub of the Universe.

5.—Where should the signature be placed on a check? Where the endorsement? Who does the writing in each case, and what does he write? What is the latitude of your home town or postoffice? Explain or, k, i, e., B. C., M. D., What are the emergency directions for a severed vein? A severed artery? What is the value in United States money of a franc? A shilling? A mark? What are the Kalends and the Ides? The chief products of Louisiana? Chief manufactured products?

6.—Who was the national hero of Switzerland, Scotland, Holland, Celtic Britain, Italy, Ireland.

7.—Locate by country: Vancouver, the Amazon, the Appennines, Stockholm, Vera Cruz, Yokohama.

8.—Who was the "Midnight of Orleans" the Father of His Country, the Scourge of God, the Little Corporal, the Iron Chancellor, Le Grand Monarque.

9.—What is the cost of letter postage to England? What course rested upon King Midas? What is raw water? How are its dangers averted? Bohnd your state; your parish. What is a "ship of the desert"? A chronometer? What is a semaphore? A barometer? Who wrote "The Waverley Novels"? "Little Women"? Of what play is Rosalind a heroine? "Titania"?

10.—Who was Jove? Diana? Who was Circe? Pandora? Express 32 degrees Fahrenheit in the centigrade scale. If a clerk were gaining would you lengthen or shorten its pendulum? Show by two figures the difference between two square inches and two inches square. What is the cube root of 125. Define hexameter, kilometer, cycometer. Who slew Sisera? What is the "Mona Lisa"? Why is a hydroplane faster than a displacement boat? Who is Jane Addams? Who decorated the Sistine Chapel in Rome? Why is Louisiana called the Pelican State? What is the state flower of Louisiana?

11.—Identify by naming the author or work: "England expects every man to do his duty." "They also serve who only stand and wait." "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives me to see the right." "I wandered lonely as a cloud, That floats on high o'er vales and hills." "This above all—to thine own self be true, And it must follow, as the night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man." "Veni, Vidi, Vici." "God's in His Heaven, All's right with the world." "But O for the touch of a vanished hand, And the sound of a voice that is still." "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable." "The pale purple even, Melts around thy flight, Like a Star of Heaven, In the broad daylight, Thou art unseen, but yet I hear thy shrill delight."—The Reveille.

ACT I.

(Scene—Room in Boys' Dormitory; air somewhat blue.)

Four merry students, John, son of Emmons; Sweedus Oldisimus, Albertus and Murpherisimus, sit at table, gambling on the Queen. Sweedus Oldisimus puffs heavily on a rank weed.

Albertus (with business of pulling in swag)—"Well shot, fair Murpherisimus; well shot. But your scattering charge of deuces and trays could little stand before my heavy fire of aces. Come, knaves, we'll sweeten the pot, and play again." (Deals.)

John—"Coices! What rotten fortune have I this day had! Never one fair face has lightened my measely hand."

(Business of hiding chips and cards.)

Murpherisimus—"Yes, my Lord; it is the rank weed that blesses the lips of Sweedus Oldisimus."

Wiesiano—"Aha! my knaves, 'tis well. 'Permit me the makings, and a sit-in, and we'll on with the game.' (Reproducing of cards and chips, and sighs of general relief.)

an exclusive study of the historic institutions along the Atlantic seaboard, which may perhaps display all the evils which our friends, Flexner, Birdseye, Corbin, and even President Wilson and President Lowell, discern; and I would not undertake to say that they do not know what they are talking about. But most of the criticism of that sort certainly applies primarily to the institutions described by these friends, and has little or no application to the great State universities of the Mississippi Valley. I believe that the visions which are seen by the young women and the dreams that are dreamed by the young men in these great centers of popular education are destined to change the face of our society, as they make steadily for an intelligent, cultivated, aspiring democracy, determined to dream and to realize the dream, that all the good which has been achieved by civilization thus far shall be maintained and made available for all mankind, rich and poor, educated and uneducated alike.—The Nation.

Hughey Carlisle left last Friday on an extended camping trip to Grand Canon and the Sierra Nevada Mountains in California. We are certainly sorry to see Hughey leave, and we greatly hope that he will be back again when football season starts next fall.

Dy(e)ing Beauty, Alas!
 The ladies are dyeing their hair, I swear,
 In Paris, New York, Raton, and Denver.
 Even in Albu. and Santa Fe, many, many more
 Ladies are dyeing, who have never dyed before.
 (This sounds like Louise Lowber.)

Oh say, guy, have you tossed your peepers on the Co-eds' new sky-pieces?

Who said Green, Blue, Red and Yaller wouldn't mix?

Gallagher is some popular Irishman. Why, at the last hotel he stayed his nocturnal visitors loved him so, that their calls on him made him pack up and beat it so as to be beyond their reach. Remember, Ed, you never gain anything by turning down your friends!

I think the Dorm girls sing heavenly. Well, they do make an unearthly sound.

Izzy and Dot gave the girls a dandy spread Saturday night. The first part of the evening was spent in dancing. Later the girls joined in an Easter egg hunt. After all the eggs had been found the spread proper was held. The girls enjoyed it very much.

Bill H. says that girls with bought complexions look like Arthur.
 Arthur who?
 Arthurficial. (Oh, quick, Doctor.)

The annual Easter trip to attend the rites of the Penitentes was taken this year by a party including Leslie Harkness, "Pat" Murphy, and a number of others. They report the usual number of blood-curdling scenes, with a few additional thrills.

Addy's Birthday.
 Adelaide Shields had a birthday last week, evidenced by the generosity with which she passed around the candy. We wish her many more birthdays with the same accessories.

Miss Erna Fergusson, '12, now of Washington, D. C., is spending a few weeks in Florida with Miss Constance Abbott, of New York.

Miss Jean Arnot spent Monday evening on the hill as the guest of Miss Lucie Alexander and other friends.

Miss Matilda Allen, '12, who last year received a Master's degree in Spanish from Leland Stanford, spent a few days in town visiting old friends on her way home to Acomita from Santa Fe. Miss Allen plans to go to Porto Rico next year in order to study the dialect and customs of the islanders.

Girls Have Jolly "Feed".
 The girls' dormitory last Friday night was the scene of a jolly spread, participated in by Helen James, Matilda Allen, Mary Bright, Ruth McKowen, Annie Laurie Armstrong, Adelaide Shields, and Louise Lowber. Louise, being a devout church member, waited until the stroke of midnight announced that Good Friday was over before "cutting loose," but then, we are told, she made up for lost time.

The Vesper choir had a good rehearsal on the hill Monday night preparatory to their concert to be given in Santa Fe on Friday.

Rex: Did you know they Gru-er tree in the chem. lab. the other day?
 Izzy: What kind of a tree?
 Rex: A Cchemistry. (Hors-laf)

The pool has gained almost but not quite an inch the last month. Cheer up, Jesse.

Treasure, Louise and Jess have been eating bird-seed for a week or so. But the contest is over now, as Treasure succeeded in eating more than the others, and will accompany the Glee Club to Santa Fe.

Professor Barton was unable to hold classes for a few days last week owing to an attack of La Grippe.

Gee, that fellow is some flirt. He had his nose in "V. V's Eyes." Well, it's better than having it in "The Inside of the Cup" like Gallagher. But be careful, young man, or you'll get your foot "Within the Law."

Dot is seen hanging around the post office more often; she's almost as bad as Jack.

Rex has been courting all week, and tennis hasn't made any racket yet.

Bill said the cantata sounded all right from the balcony. Just what do you think he means.

The baseball nine are also going to Santa Fe with the Choral Club.

ADELAIDE'S PENCHANT.

It was evening, and darkness reigned o'er the deep; Adelaide approached the cyclist.

"Uncle Phyl," said she, "your beacon has ceased its function."

"Bey your pardon, Addy."

"Your illuminator, I reiterate, is shrouded in unmitigated oblivion."

"But really, I don't quite—"

"The effulgence of your irradiator has evanescéd."

"But, madam, I—"

"The transversal ether oscillations in your incandenser have been discontinued."

Just then little Floyd shouted, "Hi, mister, your lamp's out."

And the cyclist understood.
