Annual Inter-Class Meet to be Held Thursday Afternoon at 4 O'clock

VARSITY STAGES POST-SEASON BASKETBALL

Varsity Makes Splendid Showing Against Oakland Y. M. C. A., Third Choice for World Beaters in Chicago.

The Varsity five met a 74-41 defeat at the hands of the Oakland Y. M. C. A. last Saturday night at the Armory before a substantial crowd of basketball enthusiasts.

The native sons were returning from the national meet at Chicago with third honors and arrangements were made for them to test the strength of the sunshine five of the U. N. M. The game was fast as far as scoring was concerned and the Varsity started her attack with the usual speed and had the Golds going for a short period but the near-champs got on their feet presently and led the sunshine quintette a chase that might be interpreted as merry for the rest of the period.

At the end of the first half the score was 36-18 which proportion was maintained throughout the remainder of the contest. It could not be said of the Golds that they showed any remarkable or startling speed nor ability at long distance basket shooting. They were tall muscular fellows who grabbed the ball out of mid-air and then carried it right under the basket with team work that was machine-like, and there tossed it through the hoop. Their team-work and physical size accounted for their large score.

Varsity ran in four subs during the course of the game. In spite of the fact that most of the men had been out for track they did not show the form nor speed that they did at the close of the past season.

INTERESTING PHILIPPINE PICTURES AT ASSEMBLY

Progress Due to United States Educational System Pointed Out in Talk by Mr. Worcester.

To those who had seen the pictures and heard the talk of Mr. Worcester the night before at the Crystal, the slides shown at assembly were particularly interesting. The field to be covered was extremely large, and in the half hour assembly time it was impossible to give a good comprehensive view of the subject. But after hearing the talk the night before which gave one a very thorough idea of the Philippines in a most interesting manner, the pictures shown at the University had an added significance. The pictures showing the condition of Filipino life before the American teachers had been able to reach the Filipino, contrasted with the changed conditions after schools had been established and education begun, gave a good idea of the progressive work of the teachers. It would seem that the future progress of the Philippines depends upon American guidance.

REDLANDS WINS FIRST ANNUAL DEBATE ON TECHNICALITY

Visitors Score Strongly in Limitation of Argument to Ownership of Interstate Railways—U. N. M. Men Put up Hard Fight for Victory Before Fair Sized Audience—Splendid Musical Program Rendered.

(By A. E. BRUCE)

Before an audience that might well have been much larger and after a fight that could not have been harder the University of New Mexico lost its first annual debate with the Redlands University on Monday night. From beginning the debate program was full of snap and interest. Earl Porterfield opened the program with one of those splendid trombone solos for which Earl is becoming noted. Then followed a selection by the Sigma Tau quartette, always a guarantee of good music.

M. L. Fox Presides.

M. L. Fox, editor of the Morning Journal and an enthusiastic supporter of college debating, presided over the meeting and announced the question which was stated as follows: "Resolved, that the federal government should own and operate all interstate railways."

The University upheld the affirmative and the University of Redlands the negative.

Pryor B. Timmons opened the debate for the affirmative with the statement of the question and an outline of a plan for taking over the railroads. Mr. Timmons placed special emphasis upon the importance of authorities in such a question where there is a great tendency to a prejudiced opinion. After pointing out the evils of the present system of regulation Mr. Timmons declared that the negative must either defend the present system, concede government ownership, submit to anarchy or present an entirely new plan of regulation which would meet the present situation. After setting forth strong objections to the present system Mr. Timmons described the manner in which these objections would be met and overcome by government ownership.

Negative Springs Surprise.

Mr. Fred Fagg opened the debate for the negative and had not been upon the floor two minutes until it became evident that the negative rested its case upon the definition of the term "interstate railways." Mr. Fagg declared that the question did not involve the government ownership of all the railroads and that the proposition of the affirmative would involve a division of the railroads of the United States into two classes, viz.: Government owned and privately owned, this division to be based upon the terms interstate and intrastate. Furthermore he declared that such a division was unrecognized by the Supreme Court and by all authorities upon the question. This division he urged would so confuse the making of rates and tariffs that the work of the Interstate Commerce Commission would be increased instead of being decreased.

Mr. Lee Walker, the second speaker for the affirmative, declared that government ownership and operation of the railroads was clearly a function of the government and in a masterful way reasoned that private ownership and operation of the railroads was responsible for many of the political and social evils that are today corrupting our government. Mr. Walker quoted advocates of private ownership in substantiation of this point. He pointed to the fact that the United States was the last progressive government to take over the railroads and challenged his opponents to cite a single instance in which government ownership of the railroads had failed in a government as efficient as our own. In conclusion Mr. Walker went into the problems of operation and cited many difficulties and evils of unnecessary waste which would be eliminated under the plan of the affirmative.

Mr. Arthur Jacobsen in concluding the main argument for the negative declared that the government ownership and operation of only the interstate railways would be impracticable because the system of government ownership would not be complete. Mr. Jacobsen declared that fully seventeen per cent of all railroads in the United States come under the classification of intrastate railways. This division he maintained would lead to discriminations in rates between government owned and privately owned railroads, would completely destroy the unity of these systems and thus render the entire system entirely inefficient. In conclusion he declared that the negative would defend either the present system or the government ownership of all the railways in the preference to the plan of the affirmative.

Spirited Rebuttal.

The rebuttal cannot be so carefully summarized as have been the main arguments, however suffice it to say that the rebuttal was the best part of the debate and those who missed it are the losers.

Fagg in opening the rebuttal for the negative challenged the affirmative to show their authority for the plan which they advocated. Timmons of the negative produced a letter from the Interstate Commerce Commission proving that practically all railroads are involved in interstate commerce and are therefore interstate railroads. Jacobsen produced letters from the commissions of New York, Ohio and California to show that it was impossible to draw a line of distinction between inter and intra state railroads.

Mr. Walker in concluding the debate placed strong emphasis upon authorities declaring that the negative had conceded government ownership and were debating on a technicality of no importance. In conclusion Mr. Walker reviewed the ar-

ANNUAL CONCERT TO BE GIVEN APRIL 11

Detailed Program to be Announced Later—Band to Play, Choral Club Will Sing—Best Musical Talent in State to Appear.

The annual concert by the University department of music is always an event in this city, and this year's promises to be no less so. The date has been changed since the first announcement was made, and the concert is scheduled for Tuesday evening, April 11, at the High School auditorium.

The detailed program will be announced shortly by Prof. Stanley Seder, but it may be said here that the University band will participate in several numbers, as also the brass quartette. The University Choral Club will be heard in Fanning's "Day-break," a stirring and dramatic chorus, as well as in the well known "Inflamatus," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater." Other numbers will be by a ladies' chorus and by the male quartette.

Mrs. Ralph M. Henderson, popular violinist and singer, formerly of this city, now of Santa Fe, will be soloist in violin numbers, also soprano soloist in the "Inflamatus." Mrs. Mabel Stevens Himoe, whose art would be an asset to cities many times as large as Albuquerque, will be heard in piano numbers.

A quartet consisting of Mrs. Henderson, soprano; Miss Louise Thorn, mezzo-soprano; E. Stanley Seder, tenor, and Robert T. Sewell, baritone, with Mrs. Himoe at the piano, will present Charles Wakefield Cadman's song-cycle, "The Morning of the Year." This will be the second public performance of the cycle in Albuquerque, the first having been several years ago, at the time of Cadman's visit in this city.

Plenty of variety is thus assured for the program, and it is expected that there will not be a dry moment from start to finish.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF ALPHA DELTA'S

Enjoyable Dinner Held at Alvarado—To be Annual Affair.

Last Wednesday night the members of the Alpha Delta fraternity assembled in Taft hall at the Alvarado hotel to celebrate the first anniversary of that organization. From 6:30 till 10 the twenty-four members who were present revelled in verbal and gustatory pleasures, especially the latter, from the well recognized olives to the highly socialized "chicken a la King en Caisses," which some of the would-be wits insisted was only "a la 'King in Kansas.'"

The usual jollities were indulged in, and following the dinner toasts were made by Ernest W. Hall, Pryor B. Timmons, M. L. Doering, and Lee W. Walker. E. W. Johnson acted as

ROBERT E. LEE TO HIS SON.

Letter Written in 1852 by the Great Southerner to Curtis Lee, a Cadet at West Point, Remains a Model of Eloquence and Fatherly Advice

The letter throughout is characterized by conciseness, concinnity and clarity, and on this account should find a place in any anthology as a masterpiece of correct English and a model parental character building advice:

Arlington House, April 5, 1852.

My Dear Son: I am just in the act of leaving home for New Mexico. My old regiment has been ordered to that distant region and I must hasten to see that they are properly taken care of. Your letters breathe a true spirit of frankness. They have given myself and your mother great pleasure. You must study to be frank with the world; frankness is the child of honesty and courage. Say what you mean to do on every occasion, and take it for granted you mean to do right. If a friend asks a favor you should grant it, if it is reasonable; if not, tell him plainly why you cannot. You will wrong him and wrong yourself by equivocation of any kind. Never do a wrong thing to make a friend or keep one; the man who requires you to do so is dearly purchased at a sacrifice.

Deal kindly, but firmly, with your classmates. You will find it the policy which wears best. Above all, do not appear to others what you are not. If you have any fault to find with any one, tell him, not others, of what you complain; there is no more dangerous experiment than that of undertaking to be one thing before his back. We should live, act and say nothing to the injury of any one. It is not only best as a matter of principle, but it is the path of peace and honor.

In regard to duty, let me, in conclusion of this hasty letter, inform you that nearly a hundred years ago there was a day of remarkable gloom and darkness—still known as the dark day, a day when the light of the sun was slowly extinguished, as if by an eclipse. The legislature of Connecticut was in session, and as its members saw the unexpected and unaccountable darkness coming on they shared in the general awe and terror. It was supposed by many that the last day, the day of judgment had come. Someone, in the consternation of the hour, moved an adjournment. Then there arose an old Puritan legislator, Davenport of Stamford, and said that if the last day come he desired to be found at his place doing his duty, and therefore moved that candles be brought in so that the house could proceed with its duty.

There was quietness in that man's soul, the quietness of heavenly wisdom and inflexible willingness to obey present duty.

Duty, then, is the sublimest word in our language. Do you duty in all things like the old Puritan. You cannot do more. You should never wish to do less. Never let me and your mother wear one gray hair for any lack of duty on your part. Your affectionate father, R. E. LEE.
G. W. Custis Lee.

FACULTY REGULATIONS WORTH KNOWING

Students who fail to make a passing mark in at least half the work for which they are registered will not be allowed to register next semester.

Students now in residence are required to register for next semester before Commencement day. Late registration for them is registration after this time. Fees are not due until the opening of next semester.

Students are held responsible for the courses in which they are officially registered and may not voluntarily drop a course without permission of instructor of course and of adviser.

Redlands Wins Annual Debate on Technicality

guments of the affirmative in a summary of ten points and declared that these points had not been met by the negative.

Before announcing the decision of the judges, Mr. Fox praised the work of the young men very highly, especially for their thorough knowledge of the subject, and their concise, pointed presentation. His announcement that the negative had won was a complete surprise to nearly the entire audience.

This was without doubt one of the most spirited debates ever participated in by the University, and promises to be the means of awakening widespread interest in intercollegiate debating. The young men from California were very affable and expressed their pleasure in coming to Albuquerque and their appreciation of the courtesy shown them by the U. N. M. We may be sure that when the U. N. M. and the University of Redlands meet next year there will be a hotter clash than that of Monday night; and there is likely to be a different tale to tell.

MIRAGE STAFF BUSY GETTING MATERIAL READY FOR PRESS

The Mirage staff is on the job day and night these days rushing this year's annual to completion. The Mirage is to go to press within a week, and the hundred and one things that make an editor's life one of boundless joy are beginning to manifest themselves now. Editor Doering plans to have the Mirage out and distributed by the first of May, and from the dope on hand now, it should be one of the best if not the best issue ever put out by the students of the U. N. M.

The increased student activities have necessitated making the book larger than was at first planned. As far as possible the Mirage will be a photographic history of the University for the past year, and the many excellent pictures and cartoons will make the book one every student will be proud to hold up as his annual. Miss Michaels is the art editor and she has some six or seven of our best artists assisting her, among which are Miss Causey, "Rusty" Ray, Balcomb, Sabin, Miss Flournoy, and others.

The associate editors are Miss Hope and Miss Lowber. Tipton and Gouin are reporting the athletics, Timmons the fraternities, while Miss Long is looking after society news. Classes, faculty, student organizations, etc., are handled by the associate editors. The funny folk are George White and Margaret Cook. Altogether there are about eighteen persons directly connected with the staff and many more who are helping with the details, so that from every angle the book should be par excellence, and Manager Glenn Emmons is doing his best on the business end to make it so.

were the views of natural scenery. Undoubtedly the tropical vegetation of some of the islands, combined with the mountain vegetation, and the scenery that both mountains and ocean together would offer, would make pictures never to be forgotten. Some such views were shown. The views were educational and interesting, and the students appreciated the chance to see them.

ANNUAL FRESHMEN TRACK MEET WELL ATTENDED

The annual freshman class track meet was held Tuesday afternoon on the University field. There was a fair sized and enthusiastic crowd of upper classmen and faculty members present but the frosh seemed to be sadly wanting. The frosh did not present a very strong contingent of athletes; not half as many as they might have put on the field.

This was the first track meet of the year. The interclass meet is to be pulled off Thursday. A large number of entrees are expected for this event.

The results of the different events is as follows:

100-yard dash—Thackary, first; Aydelotte, second. Time, 11 1-5.

Shot put—Wigley, 1st; McMains, 2nd. Distance, 36.1.

880-yard run—Bolt, 1st; Nohl, 2d; Tipton, 3rd. Time, 2:32.

High jump—Tipton, 1st; Mozely, 2nd. Height, 4:10.

44-yard run—McMains, 1st; Nohl, 2nd; Boldt, 3rd. Time 6:14.

Broad jump—Thackary, 1st; McMains, 2nd. Distance, 19:45.

SOFT WATER.

The other day when I was washing my face I got to philosophizing about that element known to English speaking people as water, to Germans as "wasser," to Danes as Vand, and to the dead as aqua.

Now there are at least two kinds of water, outside of aqua-ammonia, aqua marine, and aqua fortis, and they are hard water and soft water. Now the main difference between hard water and soft water is this. One is adamantine. The other is more pliable than mush. It is also more apply-able than mush, at least to some things. But then I don't want to go into a chemical discussion. I want to discuss it from the standpoint of the psychologist or in its relation to human life.

Water is used chiefly for two purposes and they are, drinking and washing. I shall not discuss the former use as hard water is generally used for that and my topic is soft water. I shall refer to hard water only insofar as it explains soft water. Well water is used for washing. It is applied to the skin. The skin is the medium of feeling. All things respond to their environment if given time. Consequently if hard water is applied to the skin, the skin becomes calloused and hard. Now the skin is the organ of feeling consequently the feelings are hardened. Perpol, a continued use of hard water will make a person feelingless and hence heartless for the heart is the seat of the emotions.

Now college graduates have a reputation for being cold blooded and feelingless. That's easy. Nearly all rooming houses in college towns use hard water. Daily application for from four to twelve years brings perfect results. Hence we turn out feelingless graduates. The college gets the credit. The true case is water. Perpol: The standing of the college is being ruined by H2 O from the St. Croix Sandstone. This is unfair.

For the sake of the college standing which is our ultimate college aim I would unreservedly recommend that all rooming houses be compelled to furnish soft water for the use of so-journing students.—Selected.

Mr. Arthur Jabosen and Mr. Fred Fagg, the debaters from Redlands, Calif., were on the hill Monday.

After much effort and skillful maneuvering the Weekly reporter obtained an interview with Louie Nohl last evening in regards to the report abroad that Louie had decided, in fact determined, to stop "fussin'." Louie seemed extremely indignant about the matter and said: "There's nothing to it. 'I'm going fussin' tonight and I went fussin' every night this last week, and I'm just going to phone to make a date for tomorrow night." He later admitted that in a fit of fiery passion he had said he was going to cut it out.
