EXERCISES GIVEN ON ARBOR DAY

Senior Class at Varsity Presents Excellent Program in Honor of Men Who Were Killed During the War.

A very dignified and most interesting program was rendered Friday afternoon, Arbor Day, by the senior class of the University when four trees were planted on the campus in honor of the U. N. M. boys who lost their lives in the war while serving in the army. Quite a crowd was present at the ceremonies, and a most interesting, as well as patriotic, custom was started at the State University.

The program was under the supervision of E. J. Cristy, president of the senior class, who explained the purpose of the ceremony and expressed the hope that the custom would be preserved by future classes at the U. N. M. After the singing of America by the audience, he introduced Clyde Morris, a member of the senior class, who gave a short talk on "Patriotism at U. N. M." According to the speaker there were three hundred and ninety-five men at one time or another Varsity students who were in the service of their country. Of these several were wounded in the trenches overseas, three died of disease, and one was killed in action. The men in whose honor the exercises were held Friday were Floyd Bradley, Hugh Carlisle, Howard Morrow, and William I. Langton, who died in the S. A. T. C. camp at the University.

The State University, while being the youngest institution of its kind in the country, was always actively seeking ways and means of co-operating with the national government in something which would contribute to

FINAL LECTURE GIVEN

One of the most important and impressive facts brought out by Dr. David S. Hill in the last of his extension lectures delivered Monday, April 6, at the high school was that in 1917 there were 300,000 people in insane asylums in the United States, nearly as many persons as there are in all the universities and institutions of learning in the country.

"Mental Hygiene" or "Conserving the Mind" was the subject of Dr. Hill's final and most important lecture of the educational measurement series. According to him, people who are content only with the most modern methods in their line of work, are often satisfied with primitive ways of thinking, and will not believe that mental habits have anything to do with sanity. The progress of psychology, however, shows that mentality should and could be preserved. In cases of hereditary insanity very little can be done except to avoid the strain and condition.

SCHOLARSHIP AVERAGE FOR QUARTER POSTED

Alpha Delta Wins Cup for Fraternities, and Kappa Delta Nu for Sororities. Encouraging Increase in Grades Made.

The scholarship averages of the fraternities have been made public, and show an increase in the grades of practically every fraternity and sorority on the hill. The scholarship cup for the winter quarter for the fraternities was won by Alpha Delta, and for the sororities by Kappa Delta Nu. The former had an average of 82.72% and the latter 86.64%, which shows quite a difference between the men's and the women's grades.

The remarkable fact about the fraternity averages was the extreme closeness of the race between Alpha Delta and Pi Kappa Alpha, the former winning the cup by the small margin of eight one-hundredths of a point. In view of the large number of hours earned by these two groups, the closeness of the grades is quite remarkable, and shows that the giving of the cup is accomplishing its purpose, namely, the raising of the grades of all the fraternity people. The grades for the winter quarter are much better than for the fall term, and it is expected that there will be a further increase in the spring.

The complete list of grades follows:

Kappa Delta Nu	86.64
Alpha Chi Omega	84.94
Kappa Kappa Gamma	84.09
Phi Mu	82.72
Alpha Delta	82.72
Pi Kappa Alpha	82.64
Sigma Chi	76.57

TENNIS CLUB OFFICERS

Friday, April 9, at 12:30, the students of the University interested in tennis met in room 26 for the purpose of electing officers and getting plans under way for tournaments later on in the spring. The meeting was presided over by Clifford Wolking, who explained the purpose of the meeting, and called for nominations for officers. It was moved that the temporary chairman be continued in office as president, and the motion was unanimously carried. Helen McArthur was then elected vice-president, and Beulah Breeden secretary-treasurer. It is hoped that a splendid series of match games will be arranged among students, as the courts are being put in excellent shape by the University authorities and rules will be formulated for their use by the Club, which has been the instigator of the movement for a revival of tennis.

DEBATING TEAM CHOSEN IN CONTEST

Morris, Gentry, and Booker Are Selected to Represent Varsity in Debates This Spring as Result of Contest Friday.

Friday night one of the most spirited and well fought speaking contests ever heard at the University occurred when six debaters lined up on both sides of the question of Mexican intervention. The contest was presided over by Prof. P. F. Sherwin, who kept time on the speakers, and announced the decision of the judges, Professor J. S. Landers, Prof. C. E. Hodgins and Registrar J. P. Williams. The team was chosen unanimously by the judges, Clyde Morris, George Gentry and Harold Booker being the ones chosen, with Edward J. Cristy as alternate.

This team is undoubtedly one of the strongest put out by the University in many years, all three of the men having had quite a bit of previous experience both as debaters and orators. Much hard work will be necessary to get them ready to meet Cruces on May 6, but there is little doubt as to the University being creditably represented in her two contests. Various members of the faculty have offered their assistance in any manner possible, and every one should give the team support in every way they can. Cruces must be beaten in debating as well as football, and a defeat in the former will mean much for the University.

EVENING OF BALLET

The last presentation under the auspices of the Community Playhouse association this season will be an "Evening of Ballet," which will be given Friday night at the Community theatre by Mrs. Edgar Knight and some of her pupils. Mrs. Knight's reputation as an exquisite dancer of the Ballet Russe school is well known and she will give three interpretations Friday night, one a witch's dance, which she has done before royalty in London, another a butterfly dance, for which special costume and scenery have been designed, and the last probably a classic dance. Miss Sydney Wilson will be seen in a Spanish dance. Miss Virginia McLandress and Miss Marcella Matson, pupils of Mrs. Knight, will each dance solo dances with ballet steps, and a diminutive Ballet Russe will be presented by the little Misses Elizabeth Elder, Frances Stern, Sibyl McLandress, Jane Huning, Frances Wilson, Dorothy Strong, Dorothy and Elizabeth Graham. The ballet will be dressed in pink tulle ballet costumes, and in addition to their ballet figures will execute a minuet. Special music and stage settings are being arranged and it is expected that this will be a charmingly pretty evening.

WARD SHEPARD TALKS ON FORESTRY

Member of the Local Forest Service Gives Most Interesting Talk at Student Assembly Arbor Day.

Great enthusiasm and "college spirit" was shown at the student body assembly at the State University Friday when President Hill in an opening address urged the students to finish the quarter at the University, condemning the practice of leaving early with the expectation of returning for the fall term. He reminded the students that one-half of one per cent of the population of the United States is composed of college men and 70 per cent of these are leaders in professions, statesmanship and industry.

Ward Shepard of the local district forest office, was the speaker of the morning and delivered an Arbor Day address on the "Forests of the Southwest."

"To the average person," Mr. Shepard declared, "a forest is like a mine: as soon as the trees are cut there is nothing left but waste land. To the forester, however, timber is a crop—just as wheat is a crop—with this difference, that whereas wheat can be grown in a year, a crop of trees requires from 50 to 250 years to come to maturity. The growing of a whole forest then is the work not of one forester, or several foresters, but of successive generations of foresters all

ENGINEERS ORGANIZE

At a meeting of the Engineers in the Practical Mechanics building last Tuesday night, the final steps in the organization of an engineering society were completed. The committee which had been appointed to draw up a constitution and by-laws read their final draft. This constitution was adopted, and signed by those present who thus became charter members of the Engineering Society of the University of New Mexico. The officers elected under the constitution were: Clair Fetter, president; Clifford Wolking, vice president; Rex Craig, secretary, and Samuel Rosenbach, treasurer. It was decided that any one signing the constitution during the week following the meeting would be admitted as a charter member.

Regular meetings are to be held the first Tuesday in each month. All engineering students are invited to attend. A regular program will be provided which will usually consist of papers on some subject of general engineering interest. Any regularly enrolled student in the college of engineering who has gone through the ceremony of initiation into the "Knights of St. Patrick" is eligible to active membership, and any other engineering students are eligible to associate membership.

RETURN AND BRING ONE.

This is indeed a splendid motto for our State University, for the great need of our school at the present time is not more money, more teachers, more equipment, etc., so much as it is more pupils. If we could arouse enough interest in the work here to fill the present buildings, classrooms, and dormitories with men and women, we should soon be able to obtain all these other needs.

Almost every college in the United States has on a drive for a bigger and better school, and we New Mexicans certainly do not want to be left behind in any project so worthy. Nothing can advertise a school so well as the men and women who have attended that school. We ought to feel proud of our alma mater, because it has done much for us; and using our influence to build it up is the best way to express our gratitude for the benefits we have received within its walls. If the lessons we have here go in at one ear and out at the other, we certainly are missing the purpose for which one attends a university. If these lessons "sink home," then we have received something for life. Let's let some other boy or girl know of the many advantages in this State University and induce him or her to return with us next year. By this means we can double the present enrollment, and soon place our school on the map of sure enough schools. Certainly no more ideal situation for a college could be found, and as the climate here is pronounced the best in the entire United States for study, then why not tell others about it and let them share our good fortune? Why let them seek their education in another state when we have such an opportunity close at home? Make your plans to "Return and bring one."

NORDHAUS TO SPEAK

The next assembly to be held Friday morning, April 16, in Rodey Hall, will be of interest to every student of the University, in view of the fact that the speaker of the occasion is Mr. Max Nordhaus, vice-president of the Charles Ilfeld Company. The subject of Mr. Nordhaus' speech will be "The Executive in Modern Business," and a real message will be conveyed to every student by the speaker, who is one of the most successful business men of the state and has always been a close friend of the University.

working to the same end.

"However long it takes, the chief aim of foresters is to replace a mature forest, harvested for its lumber, for a new crop of trees that will ultimately grow to maturity and be harvested. And so they keep up the process for centuries.

"For three generations the pioneers of America—the men who have pushed forward the frontiers of our civilization—have found opposed to them the howling wilderness. They came to regard the interminable forests of North America as a nuisance, a hindrance to farming and opening up the country. Then, with the development of the country, sprang up the lumber industry. Until the last half century Americans regarded their forest resources as absolutely inexhaustible. Mile by mile, year by year, the lumber man's axe has hewed its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific, leaving behind a desert in place of our great primeval forests. This spirit of wastefulness came not only from the idea that our forest resources are limitless, but also from the traditional land policy of our government."

Mr. Shepard went into some detail as to national forest management, telling how timber sales are conducted, the methods of grazing livestock on the forests, and the opportunities for camping, fishing, and hunting in the forests. He predicted a great increase in recreational use of national forests. He described fire as the great enemy of forests, and pointed out the enormous annual waste due to forest fires.

In closing, the speaker emphasized the great conservation movement now springing up with new vitality. "The greatest forestry problem now before the country," he said, "is the extension of the practice of scientific forestry to private lands. First of all must come a stoppage of devastation of timber lands in private ownership. Moreover the states and the federal government must greatly increase the area of the public forests by the purchase of cut-over timber lands. Unless this forestry program is put into effect, America will ultimately be faced with a timber famine that will strike at the roots of our whole industrial life."

No Surprise.

He was the little brother. Sister's young gentleman was waiting patiently in the drawing-room, and Tommy opened fire with:

"Are you going to propose to my sister to-night?"

"Why, I—er—er—what do you mean?"

"Oh, nothing! Only if you are, you ain't a-going to surprise her. At dinner jus' now she bribed me an' my little brother to go to bed at half-past seven. She's hung four cupid pictures on the parlor wall, moved the sofa over in the darkest corner, got ma and pa to go callin' next door, shut the dog in the cellar, an' been practising 'Because I Love You' on the pianer all the afternoon."—The Queenslander.

KAPPA BANQUET.

Gamma Beta chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma celebrated its second birthday anniversary Friday evening with a banquet in Taft Hall at the Alvarado hotel.

The large table, about which sat twenty-three Kappas, was a dream of loveliness in its decorations of the rainbow hue. Tall pink tapers in silver candlesticks, and dainty white baskets filled with pink and lavender sweet peas added to the beauty of the handsomely laid table. Each place was marked with a miniature frosted cake with two tiny candles, bearing each girl's name in the frosting.

From the baskets of flowers tiny golden keys tied with streamers of pastel shaded ribbons were drawn, and on them were found the words—Ora Louise Walraven and Harry H. Ackerson, betrothed. The announcement caused many congratulations and toasts to the "to be" bride.

Katherine Keleher was toastmistress and toasts were given by Irene Boldt, Margaret Lee, Evelyn Trotter, Annie Lee Duncan and Frances Bear.

The Kappas present were: Katherine Keleher, Irene Boldt, Evelyn Trotter, Kathleen Long, Claire Bursum, Joy Spruce, Evelyn Hunt, Lillian Spickard, Katherine Conway, Frances Bear, Annie Lee Duncan, Belle Barton, Irene Fee, Lorena Burton, Helen McArthur, Margaret Lee, Anita Hubbell, Louise Walraven, Katherine Little, Wilma Snyder, Mrs. Guy Rogers, Miss Mary Kimball, Mrs. J. Haggard, Mrs. Winfred Zeigler, and Mrs. Everitt Wood.

PI KAPPA ALPHA DANCE.

Pi Kappa Alpha gave a most delightful dance Friday evening at the Country Club, honoring their "sisters." Each honor guest wore a corsage of her favorite roses, a gift of the fraternity.

A delicious buffet supper of cream chicken, sandwiches, pickles, olives, ice cream, cake and coffee was served at eleven-thirty. The programs were just as attractive as they could be, and proved to be another tribute to P. K. A. sisters.

Bluechers orchestra of four pieces furnished peppy jazz music, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Lee ably assisted host Bob Hopewell in entertaining the merry-makers.

PHI MU ENTERTAINS.

Phi Mu has had a busy time the past week, and the reason is, their national president, Mrs. Zenobia Wootton Keller, has been visiting the local chapter. Mrs. Keller was the recipient of many lovely affairs while here and expressed a genuine delight in the spirit of Varsity students.

Among the parties of both alumnae and active groups, were: just a luncheon, rose and white, at the chapter house Wednesday, a trip to Santa Fe and Isleta, Thursday, followed by a dinner party at the home of Mrs. John Simms, and later in the evening initiatory rites for three new members—Pauline Davis, Margaret Hardeman and Lillian Patton—with the most delicious supper afterwards.

Friday noon the alumnae association held their weekly luncheon, at which Mrs. Keleher was honor guest. In the afternoon the scene shifted to the chapter house, where a rose and white tea was given in compliment to the national president. Alumnae, active members and a small group of patronesses and invited guests were present at the reception. The home was a mass of roses, carnations and sweet peas, courtesies of the fraternities on the hill.

SIGMA CHI DANCE.

One of the "peppiest" dances of the quarter was given at the Sig house Saturday night from 8:30 to 11:30. The music was great, the punch was better and everybody had one wonderful time, and in fact nobody wanted to go home "so late."

Among those prominent at the dance was "Swiftly" Shields, a former Varsity man, and football star and a member of the local chapter of Sigma Chi. Also prominent were five new pins—you couldn't see the initiates, they were all pins.

FINAL LECTURE GIVEN.

tions which produce the variety of mental disorder from which the patient suffers. Faulty mental habits can be overcome, the speaker declared, by observing the principles of habit formation, and by training the young minds to healthy habits.

The value of habits, and particularly mental habits, was especially emphasized by Dr. Hill. The three ways of learning, namely, trial and error, imitation, and reasoning, were treated, and everyone was urged to cultivate the habit of making decisions. "How few people like to make decisions," the speaker remarked. "They avoid through inability to decide which is the best thing to do or the thing they want to do. They should cultivate making up their minds rapidly, once a conclusion has been reached as to the advisability of a thing."

Mention was made of the famous Katikak and Jukes families, concerning whom careful investigations have been made. The Jukes family has cost the state of New York over a million dollars, and has produced 1,200 individuals who were either criminals or criminally insane, unless they were imbeciles.

At the close of the lecture a resolution was passed, thanking Dr. Hill for his series of lectures which have given the teachers the benefit of the exhaustive research work made by him along the lines of mental measurements and psychology. The whole course has been a success from the beginning to the end, and inestimable value has been derived from it.

How He Escapes.

It is just as well for our old friend Santa Claus to advertise himself as a myth. If he were a real person they would have him up in some kind of an investigation before this—Washington Star.

Baylor University defeats Rice Institute in dual track meet breaking two conference records.

Austin college loses two very fast and fascinating Texas league games to Baylor University. Scores: 4-3 and 15-9.

Socorro School of Mines has a well trained baseball team this season and from the scores which it has thus far piled up on its opponents we may expect a hard fought game on the 24th of April when the Varsity crosses bats with them at Socorro.

Baylor University, the oldest university in the state of Texas, is soon to celebrate its 75th birthday. An elaborate program is being prepared with many prominent speakers, among them ex-President Wm. H. Taft and Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Following the custom of most of the other leading institutions of the West in inscribing the initial or name of the institution on some nearby mountain, the Las Cruces Aggies have erected and painted a large A on the Tortugas mountain.

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to where the intercollegiate track meet will be held this year. The Aggies and the Soldiers are preparing to have the meet at Roswell, while the State University of New Mexico has made preparations for sending its team to Tucson, Arizona, with the understanding that the meet is to be held there. Likewise the University of Arizona is also making preparations for the meet at Tucson.

Although somewhat late we have received that which we can say with the greatest veracity is the most interesting frosh paper which we have received this year. This is the Freshmen edition of the Gold Pan, the student publication of the State School of Mines at Socorro. This particular bunch of freshmen seem to have the right idea and know what it takes to make a real college spirit. May the good word be passed along!

In French Class.

I've learned a phrase and learned it well,
Through sad experience, truth to tell,
It's magic, and it works a spell;
"Je ne sais pas."

This phrase is short, but, though it's small
I use it when I strike a wall;
And then I don't recite at all:
"Je ne sais pas."

It works each time without a miss,
It never fails, oh joy, oh bliss!
I'm free each time that I say this,
"Je ne sais pas."

And so, if I'm not led astray,
Who knows but I'll speak French,
some day?
And don't forget my phrase to say,
"Je ne sais pas."

 VARSITY HAPPENINGS *****

Mrs. David S. Hill is receiving a visit from her sisters, Mrs. Harry Moore and Miss Emily Ward Payne, both of Elizabethtown, Ky., who expect to be here for several weeks.

Mrs. D. S. Hill Entertains.

Just to prove that you're not entirely left out of it even if you don't belong to a sorority was the charming tea given by Mrs. David S. Hill Saturday afternoon for the non-sorority ladies of the University. It was a regular "pink tea"—pink candles, pink flowers, pink candies, pink cakes, and warmly colored pink sentiments floating around. Those who assisted the hostess were Mrs. John P. Williams, Mrs. Lynn B. Mitchell, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Simpson, all of the University.

Miss Claire Bursum spent the Easter vacation with her parents at Socorro.

Misses Marion Spicer and Flora Marshal were week-end guests at the Spicer home at Socorro.

The marriage of Frank D. Shufflebarger of this city to Miss Gertrude Addington of Taos at the home of the bride on April 5 came as a surprise to many friends of the Shufflebarger family. The newly married couple motored to Albuquerque, where they paid a hurried visit to Mr. and Mrs. Shufflebarger, Sr., and left on Tuesday evening for the coast. After a few months in California they will return to make their home in Albuquerque. Frank Shufflebarger has lived in this city all his life. He attended the State University where he was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. He afterwards took a four years' course at the University of Wisconsin where he received a B. S. degree in civil engineering. At the beginning of the war he entered the army and served with the American Expeditionary forces in France. He is the owner and operator of the Frank D. Shufflebarger Construction company which is operating in the Tijeras canyon and also on the upper Pecos. The bride is a very attractive young woman who was well known in her home town.

On April 10 the Sigma Chi fraternity initiated the following men: Melville Rogers, Samuel Wells, John Fernstrom, Robert Albers and Hugh Jack Graham.

The marriage of Miss Shirley Warren, formerly of Albuquerque, an '18 University graduate, to Mr. Archibald Little of Detroit, Monday last, took place at Saint Augustine, Fla. Miss Warren was an extremely popular member of the younger set and distinguished herself during the war through her efficient services.

Coach John McGough is on a tour of the high schools in the southern part of the state in the interests of the inter-scholastic track meet to be held here in May.

success in the war, and succeeded in a measure equalled by few other schools of the same size. Several acres of the campus were turned into war gardens which produced large quantities of vegetables; the three hundred and fifty acre campus was the site for the camp of the New Mexico National Guard, the buildings on the campus being used for instruction and headquarters for the officers.

The whole curriculum of the University was changed to meet the war conditions, a large number of the students being released two weeks before the end of school in the spring semester of 1917 in order that they might return home to till the soil in response to a demand for larger food production. In 1918 the S. A. T. C. was established with more than 160 men enrolled in it, and in spite of many difficulties many courses in various lines of work were offered by the University. Its students, both men and women, were always most prominent in all drives during the war, and the spirit of the whole school was of the highest type.

At the conclusion of the talks the trees were set out by four men of the senior class, each one of the class putting in a spadeful of dirt to signify united action on the part of the whole. One verse of Alma Mater was then sung, and the audience dismissed.
