"MAN FROM MEXICO" TO BE ANNUAL PLAY

Will Call for Volunteers as Soon as First Copy Arrives—Presentation in Santa Fe Being Planned by Manager of Play.

"The Man From Mexico" has been selected as the vehicle for University talent for the annual play this year. This play has been selected from dozens considered by the dramatic committee, as it is a very popular play, and still under the author's royalty. It is enjoying a very successful run at New York, and all the larger eastern cities, and should be quite a treat for the Varsity people and Albuquerque playgoers.

In order to secure "The Man From Mexico," the dramatic club has had to pay a large royalty to Sanger and Jordan of New York City, and also a further deposit on the copy of the play. The copy of the play has not yet arrived, but is expected any day now, and as soon as it comes there will be a call for volunteers for the first rehearsal. Everyone of any dramatic talent is urged to be present. The cast calls for about twenty persons.

Mr. Wiley, who coached last year's production, "Going Some," to such a successful finish, will be the coach again this year. His reputation as one of the very best dramatic coaches of the southwest is undisputed.

"The Man from Mexico" is a rip-roaring comedy from start to finish, and involves a case of mistaken identity. An unfortunate husband gets in jail and has to serve the "thirty days and cost." Meanwhile his anxious wife is wondering where he is, and when he finally gets free, he tells her he has been in Mexico.

She, of course, is interested and wants to know more about his wonderful trip. He manages to weave beautiful lies about Mexico, and all goes smoothly until a man from real Mexico arrives. Then complications set in and the fun for poor hubby begins.

The play affords a good medium for University talent, and should turn out to be a good success. Arrangements are being made to have the University cast take a trip to Santa Fe and present the play there on May 11th. A trip of this sort will prove to be quite a treat for the students who will have to put in the hard work necessary to make it a success.

Don't forget to come out for the first rehearsal if you have any dramatic talent. Watch the bulletin board.

The seniors of the University of Chicago have started a mustache growing race. Many have entered the competition.

The 100-yard intercollegiate swimming record of 59 seconds was broken by a prep swimmer last week. The new time is 56 4-5 seconds.

Mr. J. B. Taylor, superintendent of Deming city schools, visited his son, Kohn, a couple of days last week.

REID TO SPEAK AT COMMENCEMENT

Former Attorney General of New Mexico and General Counsel of Santa Fe Is to Give Graduation Address.

Interest has been added to this year's commencement exercises at the University by the announcement of the commencement speakers by President Boyd. The commencement address this year will be by Hon. W. C. Reid, former attorney general of New Mexico, and now general attorney for the Santa Fe railway in this state. Mr. Reid is a strong speaker and a clear thinker and has become well known as an active influence in behalf of improved educational conditions in New Mexico.

This year's commencement program will be of more than usual interest, and will include a number of entertainment features which have not been attempted before, and which are made possible this year by the increased number of students. One of the features will be the announcement in detail of comprehensive building plans for the University which have been matured during the past year.

Among the students who were extremely lucky last week and nearly succeeded in breaking up some of the owners of carnival chance boards were Mr. O. Chandler and Al Cox. Mr. Chandler's most valuable prize was probably a celluloid bouquet and that of Mr. Cox a pair of green stockings about thirty inches in length.

Prof. Aurelio Espinosa, former professor of Romance languages of U. N. M. and at present one of the faculty of Leland Stanford University, will spend next year on Sabbatical vacation in Spain.

Did you notice how all the young would-be poets who have been singing of spring laid low last Thursday?

A number of down-town girls stayed with Hokona friends last Thursday evening on account of the mistake made by the weather man.

MARTIN TALKS AT VESPERS

World Traveler Delivers Talk Upon Life of Great Apostle Paul.

Those present at the vesper service Sunday afternoon were treated to a very interesting talk upon the life of the Great Apostle Paul. Dr. Boyd was to have spoken but he very kindly asked Dr. Martin to speak in his place so that we might have the pleasure of again hearing Dr. Martin. There was a larger audience than usual in attendance, although the student body was not well represented. The great interest shown by the downtown people in the vesper services is very encouraging. It is the earnest wish of those in charge of these services that the students would take a more active interest in the meetings. We feel that you

The program for the annual concert by the University Music department has been announced, and from all indications, the concert will more than equal past attempts by the University. ### HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET TO BE SOON

Basketball Has Been Added to Track and Field Events of Annual Inter-scholastic Athletic Meet.

High school interest in athletics throughout the state is at present coming to a strong focus on the approaching interscholastic athletic meet, now a regular affair, and conducted under the auspices of the University of New Mexico and the State Athletic Association.

The meet this year is expected to excel last year's by far. Not only are the prospects good for a much larger list of entrants, due to the favorable impression and comment caused by the success of the affair last year, but also a state basketball tournament has been added. On account of the popularity of the court sport among the

Holds Conference With Y. M. C. A. Cabinet—Plans Laid for More Extended Work.

Last Sunday Mr. Gale Seaman, one of the traveling secretaries of the North American Student Y. M. C. A.'s, stopped off in Albuquerque to confer with the U. N. M. association cabinet members. Mr. Seaman was returning to his home in Los Angeles after having attended conferences in several eastern colleges, including Harvard and Yale.

Mr. Seaman very interestingly related his experiences, as well as the successful year that the college associations have enjoyed. Mr. Seaman showed that, among college men especially, there is a deeper religious feeling—not the religion bound by narrow

MENTAL ENJOYMENTS.

If a student were to express a disinterestedness in any of the athletic events that take place on the campus he is at once branded as lacking the true college spirit; but he can utterly ignore those things provided for the mental enjoyment of the students and nothing is said or thought of it.

The biggest thing in the college training is that phase of the work which develops the mentality of the student; yet how lightly are some of them treated. The lyceum courses, musical entertainments, lectures by noted men and women—all intended for the mental development and enjoyment of the student—often go unattended by the greater part of the corps of students.

Football, basketball, baseball and the like are all essential to a well-rounded institution of learning, but to be enjoyed to the fullest they should be mixed with the various entertainments of a literary nature.

Many who are much in evidence at a football game drop completely from notice as soon as the season for this sport is over. This should not be the case. The fellow who can root the loudest for his athletic team should try his oratorical ability for the debating teams and the literary societies. He should seek the mental as well as the physical enjoyments in order to be the right kind of a student.

WALK AS THOUGH YOU WERE SOMEBODY.

Never allow your physical standard to drop. Keep up your energy; walk as though you were somebody, and were going to do something worth while in the world, so that even a stranger will note your bearing and mark your superiority. If you have fallen into a habit of walking in a listless, indolent way, turn right about face at once, and make a change. You don't want to shuffle along; like the failures we often see sitting around on park benches, or loitering about the streets, with their hands in their pockets, or haunting intelligence offices, and wondering why fate has been so hard with them. You don't wish to give people the impression that you are discouraged, or that you are already falling to the rear.

You can not aspire or accomplish great or noble things so long as you assume the attitude and bearing of a coward or weakling. If you would be noble and do noble things, you must look up. You were made to look upward and to walk upright, not to look down or to shamble along in a semi-horizontal position. Put character, dignity, nobility into your walk.—Success.

COMING OF SPRING.

"Balmy spring is here and the sap is rising fast in trees and poets," said a recent writer; but he forgot to mention the "Young man's fancy lightly turning to thoughts of love," as most writers do.

But why should we not be in an amorous mood? The myriads of little birds which flit and flutter from the moss-draped oak to the budding elm are happy of their existence, and are singing their love songs all the day long. The insects emerging from their dark winter homes greet the farming rays of the spring sun with their various expressions of happiness, seeking out their mates for the summer season. The gentle zephyrs bring the perfume of the flowers which seem to be rivaling each other for beauty.

The earth is covered with a green velvety carpet which is flowered with the white clover blossoms and the pink buttercups; the blueness of the violet contrasts strongly with the yellow and white daisies.

'Tis well that the sap should rise in the poet as well as in the trees; both have been assigned a mission by old Mother Nature. With the rise of the sap in the trees the evidences of life appear, followed by the buds. Then the greenness of the tree comes out strongly in the leaves of the branches; but later the fruits, the master work of the tree, are produced. With the rise of the sap in the poet, as in the tree, the evidences of life appear. The buds or first efforts at poetry then appear, followed by the greenness of the poet, as is strongly shown on the leaves of his composition book; but later the fruits, the masterpieces of the poet, are produced.

But whether or not we be flowers or poets, the coming of the spring-time is ever welcomed as a time when the beauties of nature begin to unfold and the hearts of man become happier.—Exchange.

The average man who thinks he's "IT," unanimously has been so elected by a total of one.

WHO'S WHO AT U. N. M.

RUSSELL RAY.

Who is there at U. N. M. who would not pop a button off his vest with pride if, upon the mention of the name of Briggs, Sterrett, the creator of "Bringing Up Father," or James Mont. Flagg, he could spout, "Why, me an' Bud went to school together back in Alfalfaburg!"—then follow up with a line of stuff on Bud's love for a cussin' parrot, or some other peculiar characteristic of his?

This article isn't intended as a prediction of the future at all; but let's look into the accomplishments and ability of one "Rusty" Ray of U. N. M. Ray came to the University in '14 and found a place to work in the dining hall. It isn't recorded whether Ray was encumbered with hayseed, but suffice it is to say that his ability as a cartoonist soon got him a place on The Weekly staff and he did some excellent work on the Mirage of that year.

This season Ray again found a welcome place on The Weekly and is on the staff of the '15-'16 Mirage. This is what Ray has done to "get his name in the paper;" but he drew the explanatory cards for the University exhibit at the Fair; during the basketball season produced some excellent advertising cards calculated to draw the crowds; and drew more such cards for the past debates. For the Sigma Tau play he painted some large boosting signs and assisted materially in making extra stage scenery. When the Y's have "something on" and need it advertised they go to Ray. When a dance is given the event is heralded by a characteristic sign by Ray.

Why does everybody go to Ray? Simply because Ray may always be depended upon to furnish something that drives home the desired idea in a peppery, humorous manner. Make yourself necessary to the world and the world will not be without you. Ray is certainly playing his part at U. N. M. Bear in mind that he is working his way through college and that he found time last fall to practice for and make the football team. Yes, Ray is a real Who's Who at the University.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET TO BE HELD HERE SOON

New Mexico high schools, the addition of basket ball to the program will increase the interest in the event.

The track meet will be held, just as last year's, on the University campus, April 28 and 29. The basket ball contests for the championship of the state will be staged on the National Guard armory floor, the nights of April 27, 28 and 29.

Last year Roswell won the track meet, with Albuquerque only two points behind. Both schools will be strong contenders again this year. Coach R. L. Repp, of the A. H. S., has some good material this year and for some days has had a squad at work. In addition to the schools represented last year, Dexter, Gallup, Portales, Raton, Socorro, Santa Rita, and Belen, have already indicated their intentions to send teams this year.

The basketball teams that will be entered are, on available dope, all in the same class, and this section of the meet should furnish some fast play.

Flirtation is a fascinating experiment in the laboratory of Love, in which the foolish carelessly play with combustibles.

WHAT'S DOING AT MINNESOTA.

The University of Minnesota has devoted most of its efforts during the last few years to the business of growing. So rapid has been its development that President Vincent, in a recent statement, expressed real concern as to the problems that must be faced if present tendencies continue to operate. To meet the situation, the university has recently acquired additional property virtually doubling the size of the campus, and is now well advanced in the construction of new buildings for the engineering, medical and other professional colleges. The campus borders on the Mississippi river near the famous St. Anthony falls, and will present a beautiful and imposing appearance when the present plans are carried to completion.

Other things, however, are being done at Minnesota besides merely providing accommodations for the influx of new students. Athletic matters here, as at most other universities, occupy perhaps the most prominent place among student activities. Last fall the football team went through a very satisfactory season, tying with Illinois for the conference championship. Dr. Henry L. Williams, the Gopher coach, is recognized as being among the most successful in the country, and was lately prominently mentioned for the position of head coach at Yale. Admirers of Coach Williams here in Minnesota welcomed the news that Tad Jones had been given the Yale position.

Athletic authorities here took a radical step this year in abolishing baseball as an intercollegiate sport. Although the move was combatted for a time, students are beginning to believe that the step was a wise one, in view of the fact that the game was a losing proposition financially and that the contests failed to attract any considerable amount of interest. In consequence of the abolishing of baseball, intramural sports are steadily growing in importance. We now have intramural hockey, baseball, basketball, handball and football. Inter-fraternity contests, too, are being held more frequently, and are organized in a more systematic manner than formerly.

The feature of athletics that has been given most consideration here is the Western Conference rule barring from intercollegiate athletics all men who have played summer baseball for money. Minnesota and all of the other conference colleges have had many disagreeable experiences in enforcing the rule. Only last fall the Gopher football captain was lost to the team in consequence of his violating the rule. In a straw vote held last fall the students expressed themselves as being about ten to one in favor of abolishing the rule, and other conference colleges have declared the same opinion; but the authorities have seen fit to retain the ruling, and the athletic heads here are making strenuous efforts to enforce it.

The students are not giving all their time to athletics, however, is indicated by the attention paid to matters of a more intellectual nature. Public lectures are being given regularly once a week or oftener by members of the faculty, each of them an authority in his particular field. Thus we are now having a series of lectures on the general subject "Books Often Talked About but Seldom Read," delivered by members of the English department. The speakers are considering, among other seldom-read books, Milton's "Paradise Lost," Boswell's "Johnson," and the Bible.

Another project which is now being planned here is a celebration to be held on the campus this spring on the occasion of the tercentenary of Shakespeare's birth. A pageant is being planned, and a play is to be presented amid surrounding suggestive of the Elizabethan period. Authoritative speakers from other colleges will be here to lecture on the great poet, among them being Professor Hohlfeld of the University of Wisconsin, Professor Charles Mills Gayley of the University of California, and Professor Richard Burton, president of the Drama League of America and professor of English at the University of Minnesota.

creeds and ending in sentimental enthusiasm, but the type of religion that goes farther toward building manly character, and expresses itself in service and upright lives.

Mr. Seaman was well pleased with the activities of the association at the University, and pointed out ways in which better interest may be had, and more good accomplished.

It was decided that two delegates should be sent to the Western Conference at Estes Park, and one to the International convention in Cleveland, Ohio, if possible. It is quite probable that both of these great conventions will be attended by University men.

We wish to call attention again to the vesper services, and to the Bible class which is held every Tuesday night. No one is so busy that he can not reserve two hours a week to attend these meetings. ### TACT.

Use tact! Tact is the knack of keeping quiet at the right time; of being so agreeable yourself that no one can be disagreeable to you. You can gain more by a judicious use of tact than by any other quality. How is this desirable attribute to be gained? By being on the alert. Every moment counts in any business enterprise. It counts the most in the kind of work you are now engaged in. Alertness means that you are on the lookout all the time—constantly getting all you can out of every situation, every circumstance, and every opportunity. Watch every movement, every word, every remark that gives or can give you an insight into your prospects' needs, sympathies and wishes. You need all the knowledge you can get in order to get what you want—the big pledge. Tact may be gained by being everlastingly alert. Don't be satisfied by a namby-pamby sort of alertness. No! Make alertness a habit.—The Marquette Campaigner.

will be well repaid for the time which you give to them.

In speaking of the life of Paul Dr. Martin pointed out that Paul was one of the greatest characters in history and that he ranks with Moses as one of the greatest characters which the Jewish people have given to the world. By training and education Paul was of the strictest sect of the Pharisees and it was a great struggle for him to turn and embrace Christianity. But God had a work and message which none but Paul with his great education and his wonderful intellect could perform. So Paul was converted and became the great theologian of Christianity.

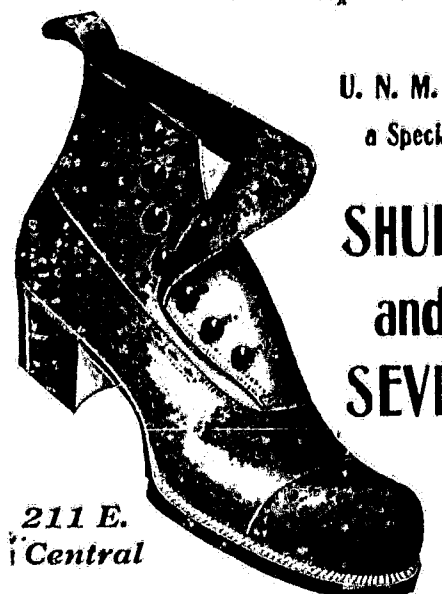

Paul lived for a peculiar purpose and calling. The circumstances which called forth a Paul will never again arise and Paul will always remain unique and loved. To Paul Christianity owes more than to any other one man. With his gift of eloquence he held the great Athenian audience and with his message made the great Greek philosophers respect Christianity.
