U. N. M. INSPECTS ITS GRANT LANDS

Valuable Reports Obtained by Survey Party.

During the past summer the University sent out an expedition to make a land survey of its properties lying in the northeast quarter of New Mexico. Nearly ninety thousand acres of land were inspected and reported on during the six weeks that the party was in the field, and it is estimated that they covered about eight hundred miles from the time of leaving and returning Albuquerque. All this travelling was done by wagon and horseback.

Dr. Kirk of the Department of Geology, was the chief of the party, while Dr. Clark was his assistant. Two University students, Doering and Gouin, completed the party.

In general the University knew but little of the character of all its lands scattered throughout the state, of which there are over 300,000 acres. Consequently when any was sold or leased, it was difficult to set an accurate value on the land. So the survey trip was planned. The value of this expedition is evident, for it not only tells the character of the U. N. M. land but also of the surrounding country. For each piece of land examined, the party made a topographic map showing wet and dry stream courses, etc.; also the available water was analyzed to see whether it was fit for irrigation and domestic uses; every kind of vegetation growing on the land recorded; the depth of wells and constancy of supply; distance to nearest railroad; whether thickly settled, etc., etc. Over a hundred soil samples were taken and Dr. Clark is now busy analyzing them in his laboratory. In fact the records are so complete that anyone could easily judge the quality of the land. When published with the numerous photographs of the land, the results of the survey will be a most valuable and accurate description of various lands in northeastern New Mexico.

Except for ten thousand acres of first class timber land in the Taos country, the balance seen this summer was agricultural and grazing land—in general of good quality. Great interest in the party was manifested in all the towns they passed through, as many of the ranchers and stockmen wished to learn how they could lease or buy U. N. M. land. Incidentally a great many people wanted to know more about their State University as an educational institution, so the value of the expedition was two-fold.

ASSEMBLY ROTTEN.

Perhaps the most un-interesting assembly that will be held this year was that of Tuesday, Aug. 31. Assembly should be attended by all students; in fact, making it compulsory is being considered. But if University authorities wish the students to show interest in these meetings by attendance, let them use judgment in the selection of those who make the addresses. But it is the sentiment of the student body that such a farce will not be repeated.

New Local Sorority Founded

Alpha Gamma Formally Heralds Entrance Into University Society With Reception and Dance

RECEPTION DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

One of the most brilliant social affairs of the season marks the entrance of another sorority into the University world.

August 25 marked the founding day of Alpha Gamma, the newly organized local sorority. For some years the University has felt the need of a second sorority to co-operate with Phi Mu in furthering the growth and interest of the institution. Alpha Gamma is the natural outgrowth of this need.

With one national sorority in our U., the new local may indeed hope for a successful future. Two national fraternities now on the hill show the growth and rising standard of our student body, and suggest the possibilities of two sororities to produce the enthusiasm and loyalty among the coeds that is found among the men. Alpha Gamma announces itself with the following charter membership: Irene Boldt, Kathleen Long, Shirley Von Wachenhusen, Margaret Cook, Myrtle Hope, Margaret Flournoy, Rebecca Horner, Katherine Conway, Louise Bell, Edith Isenberg, Gertrude Isenberg.

Alpha Gamma Entertains.

The new sorority made its formal debut into University society Friday night, when they were the hostesses at a delightful announcement party, given in Rodey Hall, to the University student body, faculty, and alumni.

Rodey Hall was never more tastefully decorated. The sorority colors,

BAND MEN ORGANIZE

First Permanent Band in History of U. N. M. Has Instrumentation of Fifteen Pieces.

With the silvery notes of cornets, the blare of trombones, and the shrill piping of clarinets, the band started its course for the coming year, in Rodey Hall last Monday night.

Nearly a score of men turned out enthusiastic for the first rehearsal of that very important student organization, with the zest that only U. N. M. students can show.

The prospects for the coming year are exceedingly hopeful. There will be a number of concerts given by the men soon, which will be lively affairs, the music of which will be full of "pep and ginger." A chance for quick action will be given at the state-fair in five weeks, when Roswell comes here with her band, team and rooters. Our men will contend with the tooters of our long rival, while the two teams are on the field. If Prof. Seder's men do not lead the serpentine down through the town for a triumphant procession after the game, it will only be the fault of one or the other gridiron contestants. Surely there shall be music and noise on that evening if our alma mater is once more victorious. The local players will be whipped into shape by that time if it can possibly be done by human effort.

It will be a pleasure for a great number of students to hear that the brass quartet will again be a feature, having practically the same instrumentation as the one last semester. In addition to this a number of quartets will be formed of cornets and trombones. These talented participants in musical art shall appear at the regular assemblies in the morning and at several special entertainments, for the mutual benefit of the student body and townspeople. At these concerts, a goodly number of solos and duets will be rendered by the crack players, accompanied by the entire company.

It should be brought to the attention of our new students, that this will be the first permanent band in the history of our organization. It is practically up to the students as a whole, whether it will last or go under the flood as all activities are liable to do without support.

As yet no way has been seen to purchase uniforms for our men. Here is a chance for large hearted men to financially contribute towards the spirit of the college. Perhaps a number of popular subscriptions would cover this, so that our fellows can make as good an outward appearance as they do in the quality of their music.

At the present we have an instrumentation of about fifteen pieces, five cornets, two clarinets, two alto horns, two trombones, two drums, a baritone, and a B-flat tuba. There is still a great deal of good material hidden among the new students in the school along musical lines. More alto horns, clarinets and trombones are needed. Come on, students, show your spirit, get behind this live movement, and push.

TENNIS CLUB ACTIVE

Old Members Fix Dues for Ensuing Year, and Decide on Fall Tournament.

The "Varsity Raquet Wielders" had a "snappy" meeting in Rodey Hall Thursday noon. Last year's president occupied the chair, and Ruth McKowen was appointed secretary-treasurer pro tem. The annual dues were set at $1.00 and the entrance fee for new members fifty cents. Arrangements for an open fall tournament were made, the entrees for which were to close Tuesday noon, September 7th. Provision was also made for prospective members to work out their dues on the courts under the direction of Prof.

Y. M. C. A. TO BE LIVE PROPOSITION

Perhaps some of the fellows here at the Varsity have an idea that the Y. M. C. A. is not a very healthy proposition. It doesn't make much difference where the idea was picked up; it may have been at church. But just by way of proving it all a mistake the University Y. M. C. A. has billed a stag for next Saturday night. Every man in the University is wanted; especially Coyote Club members. However, if any man has a Baile bid or a Fussing date consider long before making a change. It wouldn't do to let a stag interfere.

But some of the fellows have developed a yearning for a little black coffee.

ENFORCE THE LAW.

There are certain elderly ladies floating around the campus of this University wearing at all times the facial expression of Monte Cristo must have assumed when he said: "I own the earth." That attitude is perfectly all right, and we have no objection to the pose, at all. We wanted all to know whom we meant. You are welcome to the saintly expression if you want to wear it, only take this warning—don't step on the other person's toes. Don't break the rules and regulations and expect to get away with that line of stuff. Don't expect the rest of us to have much respect for your "grey hairs." You are students of the University, and residents of the dormitory; therefore, obey the laws. You are on an equal footing with the younger ladies. Don't expect your age to get you anything.

Several nights since one of these women deliberately broke a law of the dormitory. Never mind what she did, the fact remains that she was not punished. It is clearly, then, the duty of the University authorities to enforce the law, or give unto the younger ladies the right of violating it.

THINK IT OVER.

It is a mistake to suppose that the one and only function of a college paper is to print the news. It is a fallacy to suppose that it serves no other function in the college world. Whether issued monthly, fortnightly, weekly, semi-weekly or daily, almost every American institution has today a paper which reflects in form, in purpose, in plan, in contents, and in organization the tenor or the student body of the institution. These papers express the student body more completely and more accurately than any other organization. They both form and lead student opinion. Like all human institutions, they could, doubtless, be improved; but this does not in any way lessen the value of our college papers to our colleges. They were never more than today the open windows through which the world sees the college world. The personal responsibility of those who conduct these papers was never more strongly felt, and never, I believe, more honestly or honorably discharged. Trying they sometimes may be to those in authority, but all good papers have been since Caesar seized the management of the Acta Diurna and Sapor beheaded a scribe. They are, nevertheless, indispensable. They unite the college world, they keep in touch with students and institutions, they give our college education a common atmosphere, common aims and a common and wholesome readiness to challenge what is, to demand the better and to DESIRE the best. Think it over.

Good fellowship in a college perhaps means as much to the student as some of the courses. And it is certainly a rare opportunity the men have offered to them in the form of membership in the Coyote Club. There are many things in it that uplifting; some that will not soon desert the candidate; and many impressions are made that stick. All who have not yet applied for membership should do so at once; this is the advice of one just initiated.

IT HAS COME TO THIS.

Once more has the professor come to the front with his usual boldness and once more has he voiced his opinion on one of the most vital and momentous subjects now on the minds of the masculines of our dear school. He has just set up a standard in our beloved college which will (not) be observed in the future by the male element.

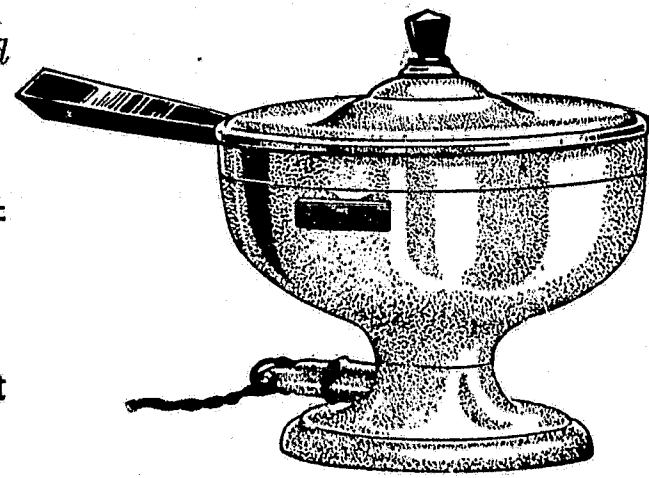

Now, we knew that the Professor was full of those characteristics in which manly pep and invigorating masculine qualities played so strong a part, but we never handed him credit for going so far as to buck the fair sex, but he did it. 'Yep! He sure did! He actually turned down the invitation of one of our fairest, to escort the maiden of his choice to a swell function, just because he was not consulted as to whom he should offer his protection to, for that evening. By this act of independence, the Professor has proven himself an object of free manhood, worthy of highest praise and commendation by those of his turn of mind, and no doubt, as far as the fair sex are concerned, he will be left as free as the four winds to escort himself any place he want to. Professor, we congratulate you on this, your latest triumph.

crimson and white, gave to it a festive and cosy appearance. The Greek emblem was invisibly suspended from the ceiling and framed in a pyramid of red and white streamers. Ribbons were festooned from the walls to make large Alphas. Comfortable seats in cosy corners were numerous, but dancers desiring their occupation seemed still more numerous.

The music was exceptionally good, and delicious punch was served all evening from a supply which seemed inexhaustible.

The sorority members, assisted by their faculty adviser, Miss Gleason, received their guests from eight to nine. It was, indeed, an attractive receiving line. The girls were dressed all in white, and wore red roses. They were thus identified throughout the evening.

The dance which followed lost none of its merriment till long past midnight when "Home Sweet Home" ended the pleasure, and another brilliant social even of the college year was a thing of the past, to be treasured as a happy memory by all friends of the Alpha Gammas.

This early success prophesies a sure future for the sorority, and insures another active factor in the upbuilding of the U. N. M.

Edington, and bids for the position of care-taker of the courts during the playing season are receivable by the secretary-treasurer until Wednesday night, Sept. 8th.

This organization had two tournaments last year, and a membership of over forty. Let's get behind the organization this time and make it an even greater success! We want every tennis enthusiast to take an active part in this club. We have the prospect of three or four contests with other institutions already in view.

Pay your dues, and hand your entries to Ruth McKowen at once. Prove yourself a "Varsity Asset!"

AH! YOU CRUEL AND HARD OF HEART!

All fools are not dead yet. Nope, not even the U. N. M. is free from those of this family. Once more has some one played the goat and once more have the followers of the tooth brush and the printer's ink shown themselves equal to most anything, and through their keenness and forethought, have acquired a new member, who, by the way, was not one of the selected at all, just one of the lucky fools who manage to keep alive on luck. Last Saturday night—and morning—saw a prolonged session of the Coyotes, who, not being satisfied with material at hand, took it on to themselves to betray into their pitiless mitts, one who did not reside at the dormitory, but had his home in town. The poor fool fell! With the idea of helping the Coyotes out and incidentally having an evening's sport, he guilelessly walked into their clutches and was duly made a member. We can justly claim, however, that this one was not a guileless fool, even if he did get badly painted up. He, himself, seems greatly pleased with the honor thus conferred upon him and from now on swears that he will prove himself to be worthy of the high standard set by this well known or no longer than it takes SHRDLU and much feared organization, but he also states that he will wear their color no longer than it takes for it to wear off.

The Phi Mu sorority girls were hostesses at a tea last Friday afternoon at the sorority rooms. The tea was served in honor of a few outside guests.

U. N. M. SHOWS REMARKABLE GROWTH.

The University of New Mexico has at last arrived. It has at last, after years of patient toil, placed itself on a par with any other western state institution of the same class both in numbers of students, as well as in the character of the work carried on. A growth of a little less than 200 per cent in the number of its students of college rank has been achieved within three years. Such a growth is not to be achieved without substantial reason and this is found in a clear realization, for the first time, of the character of the college work being done at this institution, by the people of the state. They know now that this is their University; that they pay taxes every year to support it, and at last they have determined to use it. Three years of earnest endeavor have been devoted to impressing the people with the advantages offered. The harvest this year has been worth the effort.

Three years ago, when President David R. Boyd took charge of University affairs, the University had a student body, of college rank, of 42. There was a total of 99 students, a majority doing all or part preparatory work. During Dr. Boyd's second year the total enrollment reached 110, with 71 doing full college work. Last year

Miss Eula Horton enroled last week.

Fred Sabin has returned from his vacation and enrolled as a Sophomore.

Thank heaven our old enemy, the windmill, has been dismantled.

If money talks as some folks tell, To most of us it says farewell.

Ed Doran was on the hill Monday to take a last look at the U. N. M. before leaving for Fort Scott, Kansas.

Harvey Blom has arrived. He says he is prepared to meet all new comers who may want to debate socialism.

Catherine Chaves registered last week. She is a member of the Senior class this year.

Red Balcomb, football captain and Y. M. C. A. president, returned Saturday night.

Miss Elsie Frank of Espanola, has enrolled as a member of the Freshman class.

George Butler returned Saturday, bringing with him another new student, Mr. Charles Amsden.

The tennis courts are being rapidly put in shape for the fall tournament which will begin sometime this week.

Miss Gleason was ill two days of last week and consequently could not meet her classes on those days.

What do you say to selecting a musical hour for these embryo musicians inhabiting the dorm. and dog houses?

"Huch" has the Freshman gym class hard at work. He expects to find some excellent gymnastic material in the class.

Profs. Kirk and Weese conducted a of students into the Jemez on a geology trip. They expect to be gone about five days.

Twelve men were out for football practice Friday afternoon. There are about a hundred students now in this institution who could go out. Has the Varsity lost its old time spirit?

Several new cottages are being rapidly constructed about the dormitory in order to accommodate the incoming students. They will be ready for use in a short time.

A thoughtful upper classman suggests that Prof. Edington ought to be selected to act as temporary mother to the little knickerbockered infants he loves so well. This strikes us as a good suggestion.

Rev. James M. Shimer, for several years pastor of the St. John's Methodist Episcopal church at Santa Fe, and a one-time favorite of the University, is to be transferred to the Methodist church at Findlay, Ohio, about October first.

Miss Henrietta Weiser was a visitor on the hill Monday and Tuesday of last week. Miss Weiser is a graduate of last year's normal class, and is to leave soon for Barton, New Mexico, where she will place her name upon the roll of "school ma'ms" of New Mexico.

Miss Prunella Duke of Roswell has registered and taken up her residence at the Dorm.

Profs. Wand, Worcester, and Leupold took an automobile trip to Santa Fe Saturday.

WILL McMILLEN MARRIES.

Students and alumni of the University will be interested to learn of the marriage of Miss Olive Wood of Deming to Mr. Will A. McMillin of this city. The ceremony was performed last Wednesday by the Rev. C. L. Overstreet in the First Presbyterian Church in El Paso.

Miss Wood formerly resided in Albuquerque and is well known in social circles here.

Mr. McMillin is a graduate of the preparatory department of the University and an alumni member of the Sigma Tau fraternity.

After a honeymoon on the Pacific Coast, the newly married couple returned to Albuquerque, where Mr. McMillin will resume his duties as cashier of the American Trust & Savings Bank.

of the total enrollment of 137, 122 were of college grade. This year the enrollment has reached 170. College students are better represented than ever before. There are more students of a college type; that is, the students look like college men ought to look. The high schools of the state are well represented, and there are students here from almost every county. This speaks well for the state as a whole.

Just to give you a line on the rough; there will be Portugese wrestling, boxing, hot-hand demonstrations of flying tackels and other events in keeping. Also, Y. M. C. A. entrees will take care of any skeptic in any event.

The purpose of this celebration is to get every man acquainted—absolutely. That is the first step in the Y. M. C. A's work. The next is to show you that it is practical, as practical in its work as the economic or psychological departments of the University. This is done by choosing such speakers for vespers as we heard the other Sunday. It is done by conducting the Bible class, which will soon be under way in such a manner that it leaves one with definite conclusions and a deeper insight, and not a suck taste. The third step is the one you take in dropping around Saturday night.

Get the oldest clothes you have cleaned and pressed—you'll need them—and watch the indicator.
