GEOLOGICAL AND BIOLOGICAL TRIP TO JEMES

Professors and Students Enjoy "Roughing It."

Labor Day vacation was profitably spent by several students and professors when they made a trip to Jemez Hot Springs, N. M., to investigate the geology of the locality. The party, consisting of Profs. Kirk and Weise, and three students, Gouin, Olds and Doering, left Albuquerque Thursday afternoon with the U. N. M. survey wagon and team and two saddle horses. By nightfall they were at Corales, where Dr. Kork discovered he had left his pillow at home.

At 4:30 Friday morning they were eating breakfast by lantern light so as to have an early start for the waterless trek of thirty-five miles across the desert. This they did in good season and made camp a few miles beyond the Jemez Indian Pueblo. Prof. Weese had a lively engagement with a rattler there, but came out victor. The party arrived at Jemez Springs Saturday noon and were immediately made the guests of Mr. Otero, the proprietor of the springs. That afternoon was spent in investigating the nearby country, and Church canyon was found to be a veritable gold mine for fossils. Over a hundred excellent fossils were quickly gathered to be added to the University's collection. ("Swede" Olds thought there were enough old fossils at the U. as it was.)

Sunday morning they all saddled up to see the soda dam, the sulphur springs, the sulphur mill, the ice cave, the sulphur fumaroles, etc., and it was a sore bunch that came in that night after riding over thirty-five miles during the day. Monday noon they started home, and Prof. Weese made good use of some extra blankets on the wagon set. Early Tuesday all were up and happy, except Doering who was sorely disappointed that it hadn't rained one single night during all the nights they had slept outdoors.

The expedition came to a close when they returned to the University Tuesday afternoon, everyone voting the trip a grand success.

Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE AT ESTES PARK

(BY LOUISE LOWBER)

The Western Student Conference of the Young Women's Christian Association was held at Estes Park, Colo., from August 24 to September 3, 1915.

Due to the present situation in America and abroad, the conference this year was an important event. In the reconstruction period which will follow the war, the women students of the country will have before them a great responsibility. It was essential, therefore, that the college women should get together to consider the social significance of recent events, the ways in which we, as individuals, become established in a living faith.

The call that went out to the women

PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION MUCH ENJOYED

Boyd Family Extends Glad Hand to Students.

The annual reception to the new students by Dr. and Mrs. Boyd was given last Friday night at the Boyd residence on South Hight street.

On the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Boyd, Miss Alice Boyd, and the members of the senior class.

The junior class, following the old time custom, ushered the guests to the dining room where punch was served. Before leaving the guests registered in the book which was there for the purpose.

Dr. and Mrs. Boyd displayed the same cordiality and ability as hosts for which they are always noted, and at a late hour, the guests took a regretful departure.

A very pleasing program was rendered under the direction of Prof. Seider. The program was as follows:

Trombone solo—"Song of the Smith"

.....Alexander

EARL PORTERFIELD

Clarinet solo—"Andante Constable".....Tscharkowsky

EARL GERHARDT

Piano solo—"Valse Styrienne".....

.....Woolenhaupt

MISS HELEN THACKER

Y. M. C. A. STAG PARTY HOWLING SUCCESS

The Y. M. C. A. stag party stands out prominent among the social affairs of the week. The men assembled in the gym Saturday night to have a general good time, and they had it.

There was not an item on the fun program that was not calculated to take with every man present. Almost every man from the dorm and the fraternity house were there. A few confirmed fussers, however, had dates and missed the fun. That type of student we don't worry about, because we have his number and know just about what to expect.

The Y. M. C. A. is going to be a live proposition this year. This was evidenced by the crowd that turned out for the first function. It is now up to the students, who wish to derive as much good as possible out of their college course, to get behind this movement and push. This is probably for some the first chance they have had to join a Y. M. C. A. This, then, is your chance to find out what the Y. M. C. A. is, and what it is trying to do for the college man. Join now, get into the heart of its activities and you will never regret it.

We did not know there were so many ex-pugilists in the school until we saw them tried out Saturday night. Boxing proved to be the leading feature of the evening. The first and best event on the program was a four round bout between Ohio Willie and the Ken-

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR FOOTBALL

Wealth of New Men Indicates Strong Team This Year.

Prospects were never brighter for a winning football team than they are this year. Never before has New Mexico had such a quantity of good material from which to pick eleven stars. Never before has a collection of men turned out carrying around so much "beef." In past years there has been at all times men out with the "pep," and the spirit that does things. Always in the past, the best coach in the Southwest has turned out a strong team of light men; but this year, with every item that goes to make a great football team at his disposal, Coach Hutchinson intends to show the world what a real football team looks like. We are going to have a championship team, and don't you forget it!

Football practice has been under way for several weeks now, and it is easy to make a good estimate of our prospects in that line. A great deal of time is being spent on rudimentary work, such as kicking, catching, falling on the ball, going down the line under kicks, and charging. These are preliminary steps to the knowledge of the great college game, yet they are absolutely essential. The fate of many a game has often been decided by a fumble at the decisive moment. This means hard work—hard work for the men, harder work for the coach. Now it is up to the student body to show their support and confidence by coming out to the side lines and cheering them on afternoon after afternoon.

Your support is needed. It is needed at a debate, at oratorical contests, at concerts, and no less at athletic activities. Get into the habit and permit to be imbued into your very "self" that spirit of patriotism and loyalty to your school and her activities without which she could not long endure.

ASSEMBLY

Assembly last Tuesday morning opened with a baritone solo by Seals Morgan. That such musical selections should be made a part of the assembly's regular program seems to be a question of no doubt. They will bring added student support of assembly, and serve to develop the comparative-ly large amount of talent the University has in this field.

Dr. Boyd, who had shortly before returned from the twentieth annual session of the National Association of State Universities, spoke to the students. The purpose of this Association, he told, was to deal with all problems concerning work of state universities. Efficiency in work and how to obtain it seemed to be the big consideration this year.

So from this assembly of university presidents, Dr. Boyd brought the message of "Efficiency" to the students. To be alert, prompt, public-spirited, are the outstanding characteristics of an efficient student. By the way, that means that if you have any football in you, even though you're in the ban-

ALBUQ. DOES NOT KNOW VALUE OF UNIVERSITY

Nathan Jaffa Says U. N. M. Will be Most Important Asset City Has.

Hon. Nathan Jaffa, member of the board of regents, and former secretary of state, was quoted as saying not long ago that Albuquerque in its recent diagnosis of the city's defects overlooked one which he believes to be one of the most serious of the city's sins of omission. This is a proper understanding and appreciation of the value of the State University to the city, and a resulting lack of co-operative effort toward the promotion and success of this institution.

"I do not mean," said Mr. Jaffa, "to assert that Albuquerque does not appreciate the value of the University to the state, or to this community; but I have noted with astonishment, at the various meetings of the board of regents here, and at events at the University which I have attended, what appears to be an utter lack of any desire to participate in the activities of the institution, or to co-operate with it in its work. I have been at commencements when it was possible to count the number of Albuquerque citizens attending upon the fingers of my two hands. I have sat in meetings of the board of regents at which questions of the highest importance to the commercial future of this city have been pending, when, so far as any evidence could be had Albuquerque showed no more interest than if the University had been located in Alaska. The time will come when this institution will be the most important commercial and social asset of this city, just as it will be the most important educational asset of the state. I should say that one thing the matter with Albuquerque is a failure to appreciate and support the most important institution and asset, this city has."

tam weight class, you'll be out on the field. Dr. Boyd further emphasized the assignment of every moment to some work. The University is no place for an idler. Pleasure in the university life, as in after life, comes from doing. And then extent of the pleasure depends on the effort we exert in our work.

Following assembly, members of the Freshman class remained in Rodey Hall for a rehearsal of school songs.

Miss Laura McCollum, a graduate of the University normal class of 1914, and a member of the sophomore class of last year, was married at high noon Sunday, Sept. 5, to Mr. Robert Miller. The ceremony was performed by Dr. J. H. Heald at the home of the bride's parents, 824 East Coal Ave.

Miss McCollum was always an active worker in student affairs at the University, and is well known in social circles throughout the city.

Mr. Miller is an employee of the Occidental Life Insurance Company.

The young couple left for a two weeks honeymoon, the whereabouts of which no one will know until they return to make their home in Albuquerque.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1915.

A CHANCE TO HELP.

"The University is bound to grow fast from now on."

The above statement was made by one of the students, and is an expression of the ideas of all who have been watching the state school.

There is no reason that the attendance next year should not be twice that of this year. A considerable number of high school graduates leave the state annually to attend institutions in other states. They seem to think that New Mexico does not have the educational facilities of older institutions. But if they will investigate before passing judgment, they will find that in nearly every course they can secure as good training as they can in other places.

What is needed is a closer touch with the secondary schools, and a demonstration to them of what is being done here, the class of students, and the advantages they will gain by patronizing their state institution. The methods now used might be supplemented by contests other than athletic; special inducements or substantial aid to ambitious students. Best of all a boost for the U. N. M. by all who are in any way in touch with prospective college students over the state.

Perhaps it would not be out of order here to suggest that if a suitable number of students, for instance the Glee Club and some of our musicians, could spend two weeks in making a tour of the state, visiting various communities maintaining high schools, and demonstrating the various activities that exist here, there would thus be stimulated a sentiment among the people much more lasting and favorable than could be gained by descriptive literature or any other means. It will at least be well for those interested to consider such an expedition of conquest.

ORGANIZE A DANCING CLUB.

Why not organize a dancing club for the benefit of those unfortunate students who can't dance? Give them at least their first chance to learn. Dancing has attained such prominence in University circles all over the country as to warrant a course in this art to be included in the regular curriculum.
The president of the University of Nevada, for example, has authorized instructors to form classes in the latest dances, the course to be called "ball room dancing." While we cannot expect much help from that source at this institution, we can at least take the matter into our own hands and employ our own instructors. The class could meet one night a week in Rodey Hall, and in a short time what has been hitherto a source of embarrassment would become a source of pleasure. Think this over, and get busy.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS.

As a rule almost every college paper in the country depends upon its advertising columns for its very existence. The Weekly is no exception to this rule. This is your paper. Through the pages of this paper advertisers solicit your trade and patronage. With them advertising is strictly a business proposition. It now rests with you to be a true sport and patronize them.
When you purchase anything from them tell them that you are from the University, that you saw their ad in the Weekly. You will not only make friends with the firm, but you will also help the Weekly.

AN APPEAL TO REASON.

It makes us sad to have to call upon our faithful and never failing Prick-ett, to be more watchful of his duties, for never before, since we've been here has he failed us. It grieves us more than words can tell, to even think of such a thing, but what else can we do; Is it possible that our once most faithful friend has been caught napping, that he does not see these things? The truth stares us in the face—but yet —it cannot be! Ah, 'tis indeed hard to believe that this one who always cared for us in such a kindly and watchful manner, would take away the greatest triumph by failing us in this, the final crisis. No, it is not true!
He who drove all other strays from our dear campus, who kicked all lost (horses, cows, dogs, cats, pigs, rattle snakes, horned toads) off the grounds and even put lost kids on the homeward path, will not be clucked into submission by a barnyard full of hens! Is this a poultry farm, that we must call our school? Why—even the classes are overrun with them and time is given to them, that should be ours. The campus, dormitory, and even the gym and tennis courts are scratched up by this exhibit of ancient poultry. Will these conditions continue?

"Oh, Dean, do not fail us now!"

TENNIS CLUB MEETING.

At a well attended meeting in Miss Hickey's room, last Thursday, the following officers were elected for the coming year: L. J. Claiborne, president; Shirley Von Wauchenhusen, vice president; E. E. King, secretary-treasurer.

The club begins this year's activity with a membership of fifty-five, and with the prospect of reaching a hundred before long. The entries to the tennis tournament closed Saturday instead of Wednesday as before announced. As a result there were a number of additional entries to the tournament. Tournament play begins this week. The three old courts are now in shape, with a caretaker in charge.
All back stops will be improved, and the two new courts will be completed shortly.

The preliminary round matches, now posted on the bulletin board, must be played by Wednesday, Sept. 29. The contestants in each match must arrange their own time of play, post their reservation in the gym reservation book, and secure a club member to referee the match. It will be the business of the referee to decide any disputes that may arise, keep the score, and post the result of the match on the bulletin board. Don't delay playing your matches any longer than is absolutely necessary as the number of entries will necessitate our completing this first round within the time limit set.

The club wishes to express its appreciation of the services of Miss Ruth McKowen as temporary secretary, and of Prof. Edington's co-operation in the matter of getting the courts into condition.

students of the West was responded to by over three hundred college women who met at Estes Park for ten days to work and plan together for the days when those very women will be leaders in the world outside the college.

The Western Students Conference was held under the auspices of the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association of the United States of America. Miss Edith Dabb, one of the student secretaries of the National Board, was the executive of the conference. Associated with her were Miss Bolooah Burner, of the headquarters staff of the National Board; Miss Adelia Dodge, Miss Lucy Riggs, Miss Marguerite Stuart, and others of the field committee. Among the leaders were Dr. Noble S. Elderkin, Dr. Floyd Van Keuren, Miss Mary Bently, Mrs. Lester McLean, and Bishop Payne Thurston.

The mornings were devoted to Bible and mission study, in which there were classes for sophomores, juniors, seniors and faculty members. Prof. William J. Hitchins of Oberlin gave a series of addresses which bound the days into a unit. There were technical councils for those who wished advice in association methods.

The recreation this year was under the direction of a committee chosen from among the delegates. The afternoons were entirely free for sports, and many tramps, climbs, horse-back rides, and baseball games were enjoyed.

He began by telling of his trip to the East, and gave the men a line on the new stuff he got from the big eastern coaches. Emphasis was laid on the necessity of a second team, and every man who could play football, or even thought they could play the game was urged to report for practice. Bleacher support, especially by the ladies, is needed. Other talks were given by others along the same line. The stag broke up promptly at ten with cheers for the U. N. M.

To the Young Men and Young Women of the N. M. U.

At this time of the year we begin to receive our New Fall Goods, and everything that is new, either in fads or more staple articles, you will find in our store.

We Invite Your Inspection of these New Fall Goods at All Times.

You can tell what our new creations are only by coming to see them. Our styles are direct from fashion centers, and our showing is complete in every detail.
