ELECT THREE TO PHI
KAPPA PHI SOCIETYHelen Goetz, Clair Fetzter and Samuel Rosenbach Receive Coveted Honor.

Three members of the Class of 1921 were notified last week of their election to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary fraternity, after a meeting of the New Mexico chapter held Wednesday of that week. The seniors thus honored are Clair Allison Fetzter, Samuel Rosenbach and Helen Esther Goetz.

Initiation of the three members-elect will occur Thursday, June 2. Each of the three members will receive the degree of Bachelor of Science at Commencement, the day following. Miss Goetz will receive her degree of Bachelor of Science in Home Economics; Fetzter and Rosenbach will receive theirs in Civil Engineering.

The rules of selection of the society specify that the members elected shall be chosen from those in the upper fourth of the senior class in point of scholarship. The society does not restrict its membership to one particular field of learning, but admits those who have done conspicuously good work in science, literature or education.

In addition to its prime purpose of emphasizing scholarship in the minds of college students, the society has as a secondary object the bindings of alumni to the Alma Mater.

Phi Kappa Phi was founded at the University of Maine in 1898. At present it numbers 17 chapters, last of which is that at the University of New Mexico. The badge is an eight-rayed representation of the sun, surrounded by the earth, across which there is a band displaying the Greek letters Phi Kappa Phi.

The New Mexico chapter numbers among its members thirteen members of the faculty: C. E. Hodgkin is president of the local chapter, J. S. Landers vice-president, C. A. Barnhart secretary, and J. D. Clark treasurer. The other faculty members of the chapter are L. B. Hessler, L. B. Mitchell, T. T. Eyre, C. F. Coan, R. W. Ellis, A. O. Weese, Edna Mosher, Myrtle Greenfield and President D. S. Hill.

CO-ED.'S PICNIC IS SNAPPY AFFAIR

Leave it to the co-eds! When it comes to having a good time, safe, sane and sober, they put on their old clothes, borrow their fellows' cars, and are off in a cloud of dust. Thus did the co-eds of U. N. M. last Saturday when they put across the Y. W. picnic. A Ford, an Essex, a Buick, a Hudson, and even Bill's Maxwell was loaded with the fair beauties of the U. N. M.

Say that girls can't climb trees—you're all wrong. Dorothy Stevenson and our little Eva were as nimble as the birds themselves. Julie Mastan was out for first prize in the arboreal contest, when misfortune betook her, the limb broke, and down came Julie, cradle and all.

Talk about speed! Dorothy Crawford and Dora Russell have got the world beat. Don't be misled, they simply won the three-legged race. Special mention should be given to Helen MacArthur and Jessie Harrington, who captured the booby prize in this event.

Calls from within informed the girls that it was time to eat, so every one returned to the cars and got ready for the pie-eating contest, at which Miss Mosher proved herself quite talented, overwhelming four apple, one cranberry and a mince.

"Come on, I have a date," said Lorena; and so, tired and dirty, the gang embarked for their domiciles.

TO THE STUDENTS:

This is the first appearance of the Weekly under the new staff. Unfortunately, the printers' strike, which tied up all the local plants, prevented us from getting the news out a couple of weeks ago. From now on, barring further calamity, the Weekly will be out regularly for your approval.

We hope to put out a good paper. We know we will do the best we possibly can, and in the interests of the Weekly we earnestly solicit the support of the entire student body. By that we don't mean moral support alone. That helps, but if you feel for us, try and reach us. Express your desire for a better publication by doing a little work for it. Bring us in a scoop now and then just to show us what we're missing. Don't waste that "Gentle, Gentle Spring" stuff on your room mate; the rest of the students might like to take a look at it. As usual, the Weekly box will sit patiently in its same old corner near the Seminar room. See that it picks up something besides dust.

Remember, the Weekly is your paper. The Staff is running it for your benefit. Signed articles will always be printed when there is space for them; and our difficulty will probably be in finding articles to fill the available space—so if you have anything to say, get together with your little Corona and produce it.

'VARSITY DEFEATS
INDIAN SCHOOL 6 TO 1

U Team Strengthened by Addition of New Players.

The reorganized Varsity nine proved their ability to play ball when they let the Indians down Saturday afternoon with a 6 to 1 score. Since track season came to a close, the team has been strengthened by the addition of L. Dow, Louie and Ben Gerpheide, who were unable to devote any of their time to baseball before.

Cartwright, for the University, pitched an air-tight ball, allowing the Indians only two scattered hits in the nine sessions. Ben Gerpheide distinguished himself with six assists, and got two clean hits. O. B. Witten also proved himself an expert with the willow when he got three hits out of four times at bat. Chee, of the Indian school, furnished the sensation of the game when he lifted one over the left fielder's head for a home-run. This was the Indians' only score.

Score by innings: R H E
University . . . 202 110 000—6 8 2
Indians . . . 000 100 000—1 2 8
Batteries—Varsity: Cartwright and Bramlett; Indians: Chavez, Martin and Burnside, Pahe.

A QUEER FELINE
INVADES CAMPUS

A queer donation to Professor Hodgkin arrived from Deming a few days ago. It was a remarkable looking thing resembling a cat somewhat, but upon close observation it looked more like a cat-o'-nine tails. It was donated by a Mr. Carl Snyder, and there may be something significant in the fact that he sent it to the head of the Normal Department.

At present the remarkable specimen is all ginned up in a bottle of alcohol, awaiting the settlement of the argument between Prof Hodgkin and "Pop" Weese for its possession. Our sympathies are more with the cat than the contestants.

VISITORS ON THE HILL.

William Burney, a former U. N. M. Student and member of the Alpha Delta fraternity, visited his friends at the University for a few days last week, while on his way to Winslow, Arizona.

Miss Edna Miller of Hagerman, N. M., who attended the University last year, is staying at the Phi Mu house until the end of the school year. She is a sister of Vic. Miller.

HOLD FIRST HONOR
DAY ON JUNE THIRD

Scholarship Awards to Be Made; Start Annual Custom.

A new tradition for the University of New Mexico will be inaugurated Friday morning, June 3, when the University will hold its first Honor Day just previously to the Commencement exercises.

President D. S. Hill, appointed a committee last week consisting of Deans Mitchell and Eyre, Professors Clark, Barnhart, Coan and Mosher and Registrar Kirk to investigate the record of each student in the four classes for the past year, and name eight who should be honored at the Honor Day exercises by the award of certificates of Excellence from the faculty.

Two students are to be chosen from each class, who have made the best record of the class in scholarship. One of these is to be from the College of Arts and Sciences, and one from the College of Engineering.

In addition to the Certificates of Excellence to be awarded by the faculty, the Student Council will also award honor certificates of merit to students who have distinguished themselves in athletics, debating or journalism. Selection of the students to be awarded the certificates is in the hands of the Student Council and the members of the student organizations.

The C. T. French medal for the best record of scholarship will also be awarded at the same time.

Honor Day has been a successful custom for a number of years at other schools throughout the country, and President Hill expects that it will prove a success here as well.

COAN DELIVERS
ASSEMBLY TALK

In the absence of Dr. Hill, who is making commencement addresses in various parts of the state, the assembly last Friday was presided over by Dr. Clark. The program was opened with a vocal solo by Miss Hortense Sweitzer, an ex-Varsity student, and one of Albuquerque's most talented sopranos.

Colonel R. E. Twitchell, who was scheduled to speak to the students on the history of New Mexico, was unable to appear, and Dr. Coan, head of the Department of History, who has made an extensive study of the history of the Southwest, delivered the address, proving himself an able and willing substitute.

TENNIS LAURELS OF
U. N. M. TO WILFLEY

Wins Dieckmann Cup after Closely Contested Match with John P. Hayes.

Vernon Wilfley of Roswell, a Junior in the University, won title to the tennis championship of the U. N. M. after defeating John Pope Hayes in the final round, played Wednesday afternoon, before an enthusiastic crowd of spectators, composed largely of students, but liberally sprinkled with town people.

By defeating Hayes, Wilfley also secured clear title to the Bruno Dieckmann loving cup, donated by the graduate manager of athletics for the first time in the history of tennis competition on the Hill. The trophy is a sterling silver affair, standing eighteen inches in height, and is suitably engraved.

Eleven entries started the match playing on Saturday of last week. The pairings were evenly drawn, and hard play was witnessed from the first round. In the semi-finals, Wilkinson lost to Hayes, who had defeated Horgan on the day before. The runner up had no trouble in disposing of his opponent, and dopsters conceded the Southern boy an even break with Wilfley, who had his hands full with Wagner, being pushed to deuce sets, for a win at 6-4, 4-6 and 8-6.

Wednesday afternoon was mercifully free from any noticeable wind, and the final match commenced with Wilfley serving. The Roswell star won his first three games, dropped the next, but wound up the first set at 6-1, having Hayes at the mercy of his skillful placing game at all times.

In the second set, Hayes continually brought the gallery to its feet by his spectacular recoveries of Wilfley's seeming aces, and by sheer courage, fought his way to a 7-5 victory, which evened the players, at one set all. Both men were seen at their best in this stage of the contest, and Hayes wore himself out with his efforts.

In the third frame, Wilfley regained his confidence, and while nearly every game in the set went to deuce, won 6-2. The winner was in splendid condition at the end of the third set, while his opponent was badly winded. The fourth set went to Wilfley, 6-3.

It is expected that the custom of offering a trophy in the men's singles every spring will continue, and Coach Johnson yesterday announced his intention of continuing the tennis team, and will endeavor to arrange a series of team matches for next season.

CLASS OF 1921
ERECTS MEMORIAL

The Class of 1921 re-established an ancient custom of the Varsity and erected a Class Memorial on the Campus Saturday morning.

Their gift is in the form of a concrete bench constructed along lines that harmonize with the Pueblo style of architecture of the various buildings.

The entire male portion of the class donned overalls and labored industriously for several hours with shovels and trowels, under the direction and with the admiration of the feminine portion of the class. The result would do credit to professional contractors.

The bench is an artistic addition to the beauties of the Campus and has been welcomed with loud acclaim by those permanently tired individuals who are perpetually in search of some comfortable place to park themselves between classes.

seniors, Cullen Pearce, Vernon Wilfley, Ed Horgan, and George Bryan, who constitute the total active membership of the Khatable Senior Honor Society, met for a short get-together and business meeting. While the organization is still a comparatively game of the season equipment is the best made for athletic use. The new uniform form with the present uniform that the sweaters are reinforced leather to prevent any chafing.

A WORD ABOUT COMMENCEMENT

Commencement is the biggest thing in any college. To those who have spent four years in achieving a degree, it is a tangible thing that brings home the realization of success. All of us should be looking forward to our own Commencement as the worth-while climax to our undergraduate days. Let's make this year's Commencement the kind of a success we would like to have at our own.

Reports are current that a number of the students are thinking of leaving school the day before Commencement. These same students could not possibly think of leaving on the day before a football game. Yet consider, of the two, which is more vitally important. Let's make it a success by having a boost from every student, and as many of the students and alumni present as can possibly come.

JUST A MINUTE!

One week remains of the current academic year. For some, the Seniors, it is the last week of a collegiate career filled with many and varied interests. To them we extend the wish that it may well round out and complete their experience here, and so crystallize their final memories of the University as to make them a heartening influence in the work that is before them.

For those who will return in the fall, this is the last week in which to insure eligibility for and participation in the various activities of the school. Wherever your interest lies, in athletics or in debate, remember that your chance may depend, perhaps, on this week's work and on the examinations. Football, basketball, track, and the several literary and forensic activities, all contribute to the prestige of a school. The University of New Mexico, under the able leadership of our president, has come into the forefront of the institutions of the Southwest, and at present has perhaps the strongest faculty in its history. Dr. Hill and the board of regents are unceasing in their efforts to develop the University and advance its interests. These interests are yours. Upon your active interest in every department of the University depends a part of its prestige. In this remaining week strike hard to reduce the eligibility problem to a negligible factor in the strength of next year's teams. Just one week. Everybody get busy.

THE DRAMA OF THE DINOSAURS

By H. A. N.

Scientists tell us some very interesting facts about vegetable and animal life on this earth in the carboniferous age. As we understand it, the carboniferous age was that period in the evolution of this old ball on which we live when vast portions of the earth's surface were covered with a very luxuriant growth of plant life which was very rich in carbon. It was this decayed vegetation which by the marvelous alchemy of nature became, in the fullness of time, the great coal and oil deposits of the present day.

These facts contain a certain interest to many of us and, we suppose, are highly educating for all of us, but they are mentioned at this time only because they furnish the setting for the strange drama of animal life which nature produced in those prehistoric days.

Scientists have restored for us the figures of some of the prehistoric animals which lived in the luxuriantly forested swamps and meadows of the carboniferous age. Some of these beasts were horrible looking things with great bodies and tails twenty or thirty feet long, but with amazingly small heads and legs.

But the curious fact about all this was that these beasts were a gradual evolution—a product, so to speak, of the age in which they lived. They did not spring out of the earth, "full armed," as it were. They were descended from a swifter race more normally developed, with larger, more efficient brains and legs.

For a time, we suppose an aeon or two, for such freaks were not evolved overnight, things went along fine for these creatures, for food was plentiful and their stomachs and tails got bigger and bigger and their legs smaller and smaller until they were just strong enough to drag these highly organized stomachs from one meadow to another.

But after an aeon or two conditions became unfavorable for these creatures, the climate changed for the worse, perhaps the air became colder, and it didn't rain so much. As a result vegetation and food was not so abundant. And the animals with the little legs and the big tails lost out. They gave place to smaller animals with bigger legs and more muscles which were not handicapped by big useless tails, animals which came from the less favored portions of the earth's surface where existence was more precarious and the maintenance of life was a struggle. So ended the drama of the dinosaurs.

It is a far cry from those ancient days of dinosaurs and other almost mythical monsters to our present "man made" highly organized industrial system by which human life is maintained. Yet we are the heirs of that age as surely as sure can be and our whole modern industrial structure rests on the bountiful supply of coal and oil which we have inherited from the carboniferous age.

They say history repeats itself, and if any one knows that it does, surely mother nature knows with the opportunity to observe which she has had down through the ages. And if she is not altogether too blasé to be interested in human affairs, we are inclined to wonder at times if she is not watching to see if we Americans who are the greatest heirs of the riches of the carboniferous age have not inherited also the drama of the dinosaurs.

Born of the sturdiest and most courageous peoples of the old world, we have come without much effort on the part of the present generation into possession of the richest resources of the whole world. Before the war wealth of food and minerals had been poured into our laps in such abundant fashion that we have enjoyed a standard of living which is the envy of the rest of the world. Our workmen have received wages so high and our corporations have made profits so huge that no parallel exists for them in history. As a nation of consumers we have no equal.

Today conditions are changing; we still have our natural resources, but it is a question if we can hold our places in the markets of the world and maintain our standards of wages and rates of corporate earnings in the face of competition of less fortunate peoples who are working longer hours and are content with a smaller return on capital invested.

True, times have changed since the carboniferous age. We talk now of higher pay, shorter hours, guaranteed returns on capital invested and the rights of invested capital. We seek to conserve these things not by increased production, but by strikes, lockouts, injunctions, etc. But getting back to the terms of the carboniferous age, we want to keep our big stomachs but we don't want to use our legs.

In other ways times have changed. Things move swifter today than they did in the days of the dinosaurs. It took fifty or one hundred thousand years to play out the drama of the dinosaurs. Ours will be settled one way or the other in fifty or one hundred years.

These are the young men of the University of New Mexico who are so soon to be in order to begin work for the coming year. The meeting has been called by George Bryan who was last year manager of debate.

They also are carrying an excellent grade of fraternity—stationery engraved with crests of the various fraternal organizations on the Hill and, best of all, they have two kodaks which they will loan—free—

FORESIGHT

Foresight—not only for their own personal business but for the financial welfare of their employes—is an essential to the prosperity of the business men of America, says the Tobacco Leaf, a publication devoted to the retail tobacco interests of the world. In urging employers to aid their workers toward financial independence, the Leaf declares that employers could follow no line of action so sure to result in their own peace of mind.

"We have been asked by the United States government to say a few words to our readers on the subject of thrift and saving money by investment in Government Savings Securities—which we do most cheerfully," continues the Leaf.

"All the readers of this paper who are employers could do nothing better for their own peace of mind or for the welfare of their work people than to encourage a spirit of thrift among their employes. No reader who is not an employer could do better than to cultivate and encourage the saving habit in himself.

"The withering power of the hand of that famous and marvelous magician, Robert Houdin, once a favorite in the court of Emperor Napoleon III in Paris, was once put to a severe test when the Emperor told him to produce something absolutely new or lose his favor. The test proved that foresight, not tricks, most often bring success.

"Houdin, when brought before the Emperor, after going through a lot of hocus-pocus, said: 'If your Majesty will have yonder oak cut down, in its heart you will find a gold box and in the gold box a message written by your father thirty years ago.'

"The oak was felled. The gold box and its message were found. Houdin, in his memoirs published after his death, confessed that thirty years before he had foreseen such a situation, and had cut into the oak tree and buried the box. And there-in he proved to have a sound head as well as a quick hand.

"The future success of millions of Americans will depend upon their foresight. Like Houdin, if they give thought to the future by looking ahead ten or twenty or thirty years, when the trials bringing success or failure come, their foresight will bring success.

"The savings movement of the United States Treasury Department emphasizes the need for a rigid yet sane economy. To those who become interested in it, it gives abundant power to weather the financial storms of the future. Uncle Sam offers, an outstretched hand to every man, woman and child who looks to their futures, by offering Treasury Savings Securities which can be bought at any bank or postoffice and which are absolutely safe. Give thought to your success by regularly investing in safe and profitable Government Savings Securities."

MARYLOU.

When Marylou casts up those eyes
We mortal men find so appealing,
Methinks a thrill runs through the skies,
Else angel-men are void of feeling!

O, WOMAN, WOMAN!

Since football season now is by
My girl is very cool.
Alas! she loves a slender guy
Who dances like a fool.
She said she loathed the social whirl
And loved men in the game;
And I, fool! thought she loved her
Earl,
But, lo! she loved his fame!
—Fat.

SOCIETY NOTE.

After swimming for a short time under the supervision of the Board of Regents, Gwendolyn removed part of her bathing suit and went to a dance at the Sig house. There was much comment about her sudden conversion to conservative evening gowns.

SPRING SONG.

I have kissed April
Lithe in my arms,
Daffodils thrust in her hair.
I have kissed April, kissed while I dare.
Her mouth that is red,
Her eyes that are blue.
I have kissed April
When dainty Sue
I have kissed you!
I have kissed you!

—O. G.
