FACULTY ADDITIONS STRENGTHEN SCHOOL

New Doctors of Philosophy to Guide Work in University.

President David Spence Hill, in carrying out his plan of bringing to New Mexico the biggest men attainable for educational purposes, has added several doctors to the teaching staff.

Joseph Samuel Landers, who severed his affiliations with the University last year in order to become President of the Oregon Agricultural College, has been succeeded by Dr. Benjamin Franklin Haught. Dr. Haught is a graduate of West Virginia. He took his masters at Columbia and taught at Wesleyan, West Virginia four years before studying for his Doctor's degree, which he received in 1921 from George Peabody College.

Dr. George Shelton Hubbell, successor of Miss Ethel Hickey, is a graduate of Wesleyan, where he taught for two years before taking his Doctor's degree at Princeton. Dr. Hubbell is conducting a course in short-story writing in connection with his other work.

In the department of Romance languages, Dr. Helen M. Evers has taken the place of Hannibal Ibarra y Rojas, who has given up teaching and started a perfume factory in Mexico City. Miss Evers is a graduate of Washington University. She took her Doctor's degree at Bryn Mawr, and taught one year at Grinnell.

Another notable addition to the faculty is Miss Katherine McCormick, who replaces Mrs. Velna Minnie Wittmeyer in the department of physical education and hygiene. Miss McCormick received her training at Mississippi State College and Columbia.

BURTON HOLMES CO. "SHOOT" PUEBLO U.

The University will soon make its first appearance in the limelight of the theater-going public, through the Burton Holmes Film Company, which has been in Albuquerque for the last week, making one of its first films of points of interest in the United States.

The camera-man was on the campus almost all of one day "shooting" the Pueblo College and points nearby. The first scene taken, was of the students leaving the Administration building and entering Rodey Hall. He afterwards filmed many scenes on the campus, the Sarah Reynolds Hall, the Dormitories, and other buildings of the institution, including a few feet devoted to the "Estufa" in the corner of the campus, which is modeled after the "Khiva" at Santo Domingo and which is said to be the most unique meeting place of any fraternity in the United States.

The Burton Holmes people have made pictures of points of interest all over the world, and their films are of interesting as well as educational value. According to the statement of the camera-man, their films come before the eyes of over four million people, which should mean a wonderful advertising "boost" for the U. N. M. The film will be before the public in a short time.

Mr. Willard Hopewell, a D. K. E. from Lafayette University, has been on the campus visiting friends of both sexes. Mr. Hopewell will leave for Lafayette about the twenty-third of the month.

SENIORS FORMULATE PLANS IN MEETING

Class of 1922 held their first meeting at twelve-thirty Monday, in Rodey Hall. The meeting was called and presided over by Charles Caldwell, last year's president. After the meeting was called to order, Dean Clark was presented, and he addressed the class on the importance of forming their program of events for the coming year as early as possible.

Following Dr. Clark's suggestion, a committee was appointed to report on some of the essential things to take place in the near future. It was suggested that the male element of the class should carry canes on the campus. The proposition that mustaches should be affected by the men met with decided disapproval when most of the male members admitted they were not men enough to raise one.

A date was set two weeks ahead for the class election when the year's officers will be selected, following which the meeting was duly adjourned.

MAKE PROGRESS WITH ADDITION TO HOKONA

New Wing of Girls Dorm: Adds to Pueblo Style on Campus

The beauty of design of the residential halls of the University has long been a source of pride not only to the institution itself, but also to Albuquerque and to the state of New Mexico. These buildings, as well as the Administration Building which dominates the campus group, embody the traditions of the picturesque Pueblo architecture which is so characteristic of the Southwest. While it has not been practicable to carry out this type of architecture in all of the buildings of the University, it has not been because of a lack of appreciation of the singular appropriateness of the type that later additions to the campus group have been of somewhat simpler design, and the fact that the addition to Hokona, the girl's dormitory, carries out the general scheme of the original building will be a source of satisfaction to all who love the symbolic beauty of the ancient Pueblo edifices.

The addition, plans for which were prepared by George P. Hill, associate of the firm of Trost and Trost of El Paso, will be of two stories and will contain fourteen individual rooms and two baths. Mr. Hill is in charge of the Albuquerque office maintained by Trost and Trost, who are the leading architects of the Southwest, and the new work is under his personal supervision. Work is progressing rapidly and should be completed in the near future. This will result in a sufficient increase in the capacity of the dormitory to accommodate all of the young women who wish to reside on the campus.

Mr. E. J. Marchant, general contractor and builder, who erected the Sara Reynolds Hall, which contains the Home Economics Department of the University, was awarded the contract for the addition to Hokona, which will insure thorough and careful work.

O. B. Witten dropped in to see his friends for a few days, on his way to the University of Arizona.

Douglas Igoe, matriculating from the University of Florida, has enrolled in the University and is staying at the P. K. A. house.

ENROLLMENT FIGURES INDICATE INCREASE

Enrollment of Men More Than Expected. All Accredited Students.

Incomplete figures in the office of Mr. Kirk, Registrar of the University, indicate a probable enrollment of nearly two hundred and twenty-five students for the first semester of the current academic year. This is an increase of approximately ten per cent over the previous year, and gives proof that the institution is enjoying a healthy and steady growth. President Hill commented on this indication at the first assembly, which was held last Friday, and cited figures showing that the enrollment on both days of registration showed an increase, and also remarked that the first reservation in the residential halls was made early in May. His statement that this gradual and healthy growth, with none of the sacrifice of standing that is too often attendant upon a rapid, "mushroom" growth, is the desire of the administration, is significant.

In spite of rumors that women students would outnumber the men two to one, the figures show that there will be about twenty-five more men than girls, which means that those twenty-five will have to show some real pep or be out of luck when it comes to social affairs. This should scarcely be a cause of grave concern, however.

It is the policy of the University to admit only as students graduates of accredited high schools and those having the requisite number of high school credits or their equivalent, and this year only a half dozen special adult students have been granted admission, and they, of course, are not candidates for a degree. Both the men's and women's residential halls are already full, and the fraternity and sorority houses are well occupied. The students are all of the highest type, and we have every reason to believe that the student body will distinguish itself in all branches of undergraduate activities.

FRIENDLY CO-EDS ADOPT RELATIVES

Oh, boys! don't you envy these Big Sisters? Envious eyes—masculine gender—followed each old girl as she was yanked out of the line in front of the Dean's desk on Registration Day to be endowed with a little sister—that good looking new girl you were just dying to meet! Why do some folks get all the luck?

But the girls certainly were kept on the jump—it must be a great responsibility to be a Big Sister! The trains must all be met, rooms secured, baggage gotten from the depot, to say nothing of the trials of registration, for each Big Sister was determined that her little sister should get in all her required subjects now and not have them hanging fire in her Senior year as her own were doing.

Thuds of toe on pigskin, shouts of "Fall on it!" grunts, and sounds of shoulders crashing into one another, are ushering into existence what dopesters say will be the most successful football year in the history of the University. Between thirty and forty husky young grid-iron gladiators have donned the Cherry and Silver, and are working out their vacation kinks every afternoon.

Practice to date has consisted merely of the toughening and seasoning work preliminary to the rigors of the season. Handling the ball, passing, blocking, punting and conditioning have been emphasized by Coach Johnson thus far, and a number of men are in good shape, having started training weeks ago.

In the opinion of the coaching staff and many of the alumni, the Cherry and Silver faces a most successful year. The eleven that represented the Varsity last season was conceded to be one of the best ever turned out by the institution, and nine veterans of that squad have returned as a nucleus for this year's combination. Tom Calkins will probably hold down a back-field position, and has been limbering up his talented right foot; Wilfley is hard as nails after a summer in the woods, and will be a valuable man, speedy, with weight; Greenleaf is expected to be the mainstay of one wing of the line; Dow looks good for one of the ends; Max Ferguson and Pearce, who are recovering from injuries received in an accident, will help the line immeasurably; the Hernandez brothers have both gained in weight, and are trying for backfield berths; and Jimmy Swinney, the diminutive but speedy Sophomore, is making a strong bid for an end position.

In addition to these, "Blanco" White, who captained the eleven in 1917, is trying for an end; Jones, a recent star on the strong Roswell High School combination, is certain to make a backfield place; John Popejoy, who played last year on the freshman team at Ohio State, gives much promise of being a sensational linesman; Greuter, who was a member of the Albuquerque High School team last season, is hailed by the coach as a worthy second to Obie Witten, one of the best centers in the Southwest; and a wealth of other material is available to round out a well balanced aggregation.

Graduate Manager Dieckman has arranged a schedule which matches the Varsity with all of her old rivals, with a few new opponents to make the season one of the most complete, and most difficult that the team has ever faced. While at the present time, all arrangements are not completed, and the manager is not prepared to publish the final schedule, the Varsity will probably have the following contests:

The Texas School of Mines will play here November 5th, if the pending contract is approved.

On October 15th the U. N. M. warriors will journey to Colorado Springs, where they will oppose the strong Colorado College eleven, a member of the Rocky Mountain Conference.

This year will again witness the annual Thanksgiving Day classic with the New Mexico Agricultural

A WORD ABOUT THE WEEKLY.

This is the first edition of this year's Weekly. We feel that we shouldn't let it get away from the press without some comment on it. In the first place, we intend to do the best we can in giving to the students as complete a resume of the news as we possibly can with the facilities we have at hand. The size of the sheet will be regulated by the business it can handle in the way of advertisements, on account of the expense necessarily incurred in publication.

However, our difficulty will probably be in securing enough material to fill the space open to us by the Weekly in its present size. Our first edition, which was the last edition of the past semester, keenly demonstrated to us the fact that there is plenty of room to say a lot of things, for we had space left over for things which went unsaid.

It is up to the students to see that the news gets to the staff of the Weekly for publication. We do our best to get everything in the way of news we can, but in order that we will miss nothing, we have placed in the administration building, on a table near the seminar room, a box. Use it! Put in it anything which may be of interest to the students or those interested in the school for the easiest way to reach every one is through the Weekly.

FOOTBALL OUR BIG AD.

U. N. M.—Southwestern Champions. Sounds good, doesn't it? Means a lot to all of us, doesn't it? Do you know how much it means to the prestige of the school? Perhaps no other factor is as important in the building of university prestige as a strong football team. A strong team strongly supported by the entire student body has immeasurable value as publicity. The fact that U. N. M. has a team and a good team is in itself good advertising. The winning of the Southwestern championship would be, and we hope shall be, a master stroke of publicity.

How are we going to do it? By getting every bit of available material out on the field for every practice, by going out yourself whether you think your chances of landing a berth on the varsity are good or poor. We heard one light but plucky chap who has been out for every practice say that he'd be content if he made second team this year. All men are not varsity material their first year out. But every man who has any football in him can get out and plug, help the first string men develop offensive and defensive strength, and build the team. And for these men there is next year and the next in which to win the coveted letter.

The rest of us can do our part by getting out on the side lines, cheering and encouraging, backing the team from the first practice until the last whistle in the last game. Let's go! Let's all go—just as hard as we can.

INITIAL ASSEMBLY HELD TO GREET '25

University Life and Traditions
Explained to Yearlings

"Welcome, Freshmen," was the keynote sounded at the first Friday assembly of the year in Rodey Hall, at which President David Spence Hill presided, and Dr. P. Gillette Cornish gave the principle address.

The meeting was opened by the student body singing "America," after which the Lord's Prayer, led by Rev. Winifred Ziegler, was repeated.

With the rendering of two humorous vocal solos by Professor John Lukken and Miss Grace Stortz, the meeting developed an air of facetiousness that ripened into mirth with the witty two-minute speeches of Dean John D. Clark and Dean Lynn B. Mitchell. Dean Clark spoke on the primary and secondary endeavors of a collegiate institution and compared the mechanical functioning of a motor with the co-operation of collegiate intellectual work and college athletics, emphasizing the athletics.

Dean Mitchell used the same subject but emphasized the primary aim of a college.

Dean Thomas Eyre made the startling statement that "No college student is perfect," but he hastened to add that if 75 percent perfection were attained the student would have no cause for embarrassment.

Dr. Edna Mosher admonished the young men against mistaking her surreptitious "sunny smiles" for other than social encouragement. "Smiling is an acquired Southwestern idiosyncrasy," she explained, "and not flattery."

There were also talks by Mr. John Scruggs, former student body president, Miss Mary Brorein, graduate student, Frank Neher, President of Associated Students, Mary Sands, President Y. W. C. A., and Mr. John Milne, superintendent of Albuquerque Public Schools.

Dr. Cornish, former captain of Yale's baseball team and quarterback on the football squad, spoke for fifteen minutes on "Specialization and Reform." He advised against concentrated specialization on one subject or phase of college life. He condemned the chronic reformer and critic, and asked the new students to bury their first impressions of the teachers as well as the University.

The assembly ended with the slogan, "Our University, as good as the best."

Not only have the girls started many a Freshman out on a sound basis as far as courses are concerned, but their sincere, friendly interest in the new girls has chased away a lot of homesickness and blues so prevalent at the first of the year. A most enjoyable and successful Registration Tea (but it was punch, instead) was given in the Hokona parlor after Registration Thursday. Here the girls got to meet every one, old and new, and also succeeded in drowning a great many of their troubles. Miss Wilma Snyder is chairman of the Big Sister Committee, and this committee is responsible for the success that the Big Sister movement has met with in its first year at U. N. M. The need for such a movement has been long-felt and it is hoped that the precedent established this year will be carried on every fall in the future.

George Bryan, ex-editor of the Weekly, has accepted a part-time position with the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Louis R. Nohl, a Sigma Chi from Columbia, was a visitor on the campus for a few days.

Miss Elizabeth Hill, former student was on the Hill the first registration day with a friend, Miss Crawley, from Kansas City.

The Coyotes are eating raw meat.

Miss Lorraine Cleveland has been a visitor at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house for the last week.

PITFALL AND GIN

O, Thou who didst with Pitfall and Gin,
Beset the road I was to wander in,
Thou wilt not with predestined evil round
Enmesh and then impute my fall to sin.
—Omar XXI, 5 ed.

The architecture of the paper is determined by its columns. Among the others in the Weekly, sensible and grave, pure Doric one might say, this column stands out, chaste and ironic.

It takes nearly everything to make a column except modesty.

Pitfall and Gin is a confessional for your wayward impulses. A sort of place where you can confess to that desire you had to whistle in Political Science, giggle in Chemistry, and bust beakers in Chemistry.

Pitfall and Gin has no reforms to make, believes nothing, thinks nothing, knows nothing. It's a waste of time to read it. Nobody writes it, nobody edits it. It is open to every Tom, Dick and Harry, and every Agnes, Mabel and Becky in the U.

Vamos! The first agitation is dedicated to the Frosh.

Dancing continued from eight until eleven, when dainty refreshments were served. About forty couples attended. The affair was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hughes.

SIGMA CHI.

Last Wednesday evening at the Sigma Chi house the men of Sigma Chi gave the first dance of the school year. Promptly at eight-thirty dancing started and continued until eleven-thirty. The dance was very informal, being a get-together of the fraternity men, their ladies, and several of the new students in the University. In all, about thirty couples danced. A feature of the evening's program was the singing of some of the Sigma Chi songs, immediately following the seventh dance, which is a traditional fraternity "sweetheart" dance. Kenneth Balcomb and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brorein chaperoned.

Dr. Hill's publication, entitled "A Handbook for the Guidance of Undergraduate Students," takes up in detail every phase of University life and curriculum; student activities and customs receive their due share of attention, while the mechanics of the plant are explained in full. No fact concerning which there might at any time be doubt has been omitted from the President's "Handbook," and it has been found useful in acquainting the new student with the regulations of the residential, dining and academic halls.

Student organizations, athletics and scholarships are discussed by Dr. Hill, who intermingles with his information, a spirit of co-operation expressed in words. The policy of the faculty is made clear in this booklet, issued to advise the student, with the friendly hand outstretched.

Freshmen are at all times amenable to suggestions. This statement is one that has equal truth with any of Prof. Barnhart's axioms. The student council assembled the set of adopted yearling regulations, together with many interesting comments on student life, and published the matter in pamphlet form, following the custom at most large institutions. The class of 1925 may, by reading carefully through the "Green Gauge," become well acquainted with the traditions of the University which form so large a part of undergraduate life.

College, known affectionately to the Varsity as the Aggies.

The University of Arizona "Wildcats" will come here to play about the middle of November.

A date has not yet been arranged, but the University of Colorado at Boulder is considering a game with the University. They also belong to the Conference of which U. N. M. is a junior member.

The season's first big game will probably be played with the Socorro School of Mines here, and may be preceded by a number of practice games with the Indian School and the Menaul School. It may be seen that six real contests are scheduled, five of which will be played on the University Field, in addition to the practice games, which will also be witnessed here.

Additional seating accommodations are assured for the field through the efforts of Mr. Dieckman, who has been canvassing the town all summer to secure sufficient pledges to provide for new bleachers. Although his campaign has progressed slowly, the graduate manager is hoping that he may be able to erect as many more seats as now in place.

An Interview With Coach Johnson.

When asked for an opinion on the Varsity's chances during the coming season, Coach Roy Johnson explained: "Although very early in the season to make any promises of a definite nature, I am looking forward optimistically to an excellent year for the football team. While we have had no scrimmage, the material for the line is heavy enough to guarantee a stone wall defense, and the backfield candidates should give us a speedy offensive. We have a good schedule and will do our best to make a good showing. The team's slogan for the year is going to be 'Fight,' and we will fight every inch of the way."

An Interview With the Graduate Manager.

"Good season? It's going to be humdinger!" said Bruno Dieckman yesterday when asked about prospects this year. He continued: "We have more candidates for the team than ever before, with more old first-string men back; we have the most complete schedule in the history of the University, meeting teams of three adjoining states; and we still have the same old Varsity spirit, that counts more than anything. But I just want to add that it will take the support of every undergraduate on the hill to make the season a real success. We may need help in campaigns to defray the expenses of the entirely new equipment furnished the squad, or to sell tickets, and I want to feel that we have that support. I know that the team will do its part—it's going to be the best we ever had."

TO NOMINATE THREE MEN FOR ANNAPOLIS

Examination by Civil Service to Be Held on October 29.

ico to training in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis will be made soon to fill vacancies which will occur in June, 1922, according to a letter in which Dr. David S. Hill has received from Senator Jones.

In order to aid in the selection of the nominees, Senator Jones has arranged with the Civil Service Commission to hold examinations of candidates who present themselves, and these examinations will be held at various convenient places on October 29. All who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity are asked to communicate with Senator Jones well in advance of that date.

The requirements for admission to the academy are that the candidate must be of good moral character, physically sound, well formed, and of robust constitution. The height must be not less than 5 feet 2 inches between the ages of 16 and 18 years, and not less than 5 feet 4 inches between the ages of 18 and 20 years. The minimum weight at the age of 16 is 111 pounds, with an increase of three pounds for each year. Candidates must be unmarried, and between the ages of 16 and 20 in the year in which they enter the academy. The candidate must be citizen of the United States.

Upon nomination the candidates will be required to mental and physical examinations, the dates for which will be announced later.

Candidates for the appointment are asked to communicate with Senator Jones, stating their full name, date and place of birth, past residence, length of residence in New Mexico, height and weight, education and naval training, if any, together with a small photograph, if possible.
