AGGIES ONCE MORE DEFEAT US IN TRACK

By Score of 69 to 46, U. N. M. Goes Down Before Old Rivals; Baseball Game Unplayed.

The New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts won Saturday from the University of New Mexico in the second annual track and field meet. The college garnered a total of 69 points, while the opposition gathered in but 46. The university team was badly disappointed through failing to win many events which it had been led to expect by the dope.

Lane and Tuttle of the college aggregation, finished in the order named in the hundred-yard dash, the first event of the afternoon, with J. McCanna of the university third. The time was slow, 11 1-5 seconds.

State Record Broken.

The half mile, which followed, also gave the college eight points, Taylor and James of the college taking first and second, while the varsity man, Fullerton, came in third. Though the time in this event was slow, it established a new state record. It was 2:10 1-5.

Lane, the college pet sprinter, won the high hurdles in 17 4-5. Ray McCanna, of the varsity got second. There was no third.

Locke and Siegel, of the college, got first and second in the mile run, having Clairborne of the varsity the poor consolation of finishing third in a slow mile. Time, 4:59.

The 440-yard dash went to Tuttle, Ray McCanna gathering three points for the varsity with second place and Taylor, of the college, finishing third. This time was the best of any event from a standpoint of college performances. It was 54 4-5.

J. McCanna took the first place that the varsity gathered when he won the 220-yard dash in 25 flat. Tuttle and Taylor were second and third, as named, giving the college four points in this event.

Lane got the low hurdles (220 yards), Boldt, of the varsity, getting second, and Frenger adding a point to the college's already overpowering score by taking third. The time was 27 1-5, also a state record.

Frenger and Coe took the first and second for the college in the pole vault, no varsity man competing. The height was 9 feet 6 inches.

Calkins Wins Shot Put.

Calkins, of the varsity team, got first in the shot put with a heave of 37 feet flat, Lackey gathering second for the varsity and Powers obtaining the usual one point for third for the college.

First place in the hammer throw went to Llewellyn, college, with Brasher, university, second and Powers, college, third. Distance, 121 feet.

Brasher, university, took first place in the discus throw, followed by Llewellyn, college, second and Kaune college, third. Distance 98 feet 2 inches.

J. McCanna, university, finished first in the running high jump, with Lane, college, second, and Coe, college, third. Height, 5 feet 5 inches.

First place in the running broad jump went to M. Higgins, university, Lackey, university, taking second, and

IMPRESSIVE AND SOLEMN ARE THE COMMENCEMENT SERVICES

TWELVE GRADUATES, TEN FROM COLLEGE OF LETTERS AND ARTS, AND TWO FROM SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING, BESIDES SIX FROM DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION RECEIVE CREDENTIALS.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS BY HONORABLE H. W. CLARK

Other Noted Speakers of the Day Are Honorable Felix Martinez, of El Paso, Texas, Professor R. F. Asplund, of Santa Fe, Ex-Governor Stover, of Albuquerque and Marion L. Fox, Editor of The Morning Journal, All of Whom Deliver Excellent Talks, Expressing Their Heartiest Congratulation to the Graduates, and Belief in Splendid Future for the University.

Most impressive and solemn were the graduation exercises of the University of New Mexico, held at ten o'clock, in Rodey Hall, Wednesday morning, upon which occasion twelve graduates from the institution, ten from the College of Letters and Arts, and two from the College of Science, received their degrees from the hands of President Boyd, and six young ladies were given their diplomas by Dean C. E. Hdgin, testifying to the completion of the course in the Department of Education.

Following the march of graduates and members of the faculty from the Administration Building to Rodey Hall, the invocation was delivered by Reverend C. O. Beckman, of the local Methodist church.

Then, after music by the orchestra, the address of the morning was delivered by Honorable Herbert W. Clark, of East Las Vegas, his subject being "The University and the State," extracts of which may be found elsewhere.

Then followed the conferring of Degrees and Diplomas by Dr. Boyd and Dean Hdgin respectively.

President Boyd next introduced Honorable Felix Martinez, of El Paso, Texas, who had come in as a visitor, on his way to deliver the graduation address at East Las Vegas.

Mr. Martinez spoke of the value of education in fostering the ideals of peace and humanity; he dwelt upon his recent trip to South America, whither he had been sent by the United States government to attend the Pan-American Peace Conference. He spoke on the wonderful strides made in the arts of peace in South America, particularly in Argentina and Uruguay, and showed how Spanish-speaking people of the south were solving many of the great problems that are confronting us today. He compared the prosperity and happiness of South America to the sad conditions existing in Mexico today showing the great need of education, high ideals of citizenship and rule of all the people.

Mr. Rupert F. Asplund, as representative of the state department of education, was the next speaker; he stated how the department at Santa Fe was impressed and pleased with the work of the university, and of the strides forward it was making, and brought the congratulations and good wishes of Honorable Alvan S. White, state superintendent of education, to the university, faculty, graduates and student body.

Ex-Governor R. E. Stover, first president of the university, in a few brief words, gave his heartiest congratulations and best wishes to the graduates.

He was followed by Mr. Marion L. Fox, editor of the Morning Journal, who spoke in a similar vein to Governor Stover.

President Boyd then made a few announcements for the coming year; he stated that with the opening of the Fall Term the University would install a department of domestic science, giving full courses in this important subject.

Also, the date of opening had been changed to the 17th of August; this would finish the first semester at the beginning of the Christmas holidays, and begin the second semester the first week in January, enabling the University to close about the second week in May.

President Boyd then briefly told of the work in the University since he took charge two years ago, outlining the ideas he was trying to inculcate to make the institution one of the greatest possible value to the state, and thus making it realize its highest ideal; that of the greatest service to New Mexico.

Then, following the benediction, and rendering of "Alma Mater," the impressive exercises were brought to a close, and the beginning of the summer vacation had begun.

EXTRACTS FROM SPEECH OF HON. HERBERT W. CLARK.

You have just completed a course of study at this institution known as the University of New Mexico, and, unless I should talk too long, you will shortly receive your diplomas * * *

The course of training through which you have passed has fitted you for something, it is assumed * * * it may be, and I hope is true, that the course of training you have received here is but preparatory of a more intensive training that some of you will undergo before entering into business or into one of the professions * * *

There was a time not so long ago, as history runs, when the establishment and maintenance of educational institutions of any grade were generally thought to be matters for private enterprises rather than a matter for the state. It was not considered at all consistent with the function of the state for it to have anything to

SPLENDID SERMON AT BACCALAURATE SERVICE

Bishop Howden Delivers Instructive and Interesting Lecture Before Large Crowd, Sunday.

Before a crowd that taxed the capacity of Rodey Hall, the university baccalaureate services, with Bishop Frededick B. Howden as speaker, were held Sunday afternoon, from 4 to 5 o'clock.

Following the invocation by the Rev. Hugh Cooper and music by the Girl's Choral club, the scripture reading was by Dr. David R. Boyd, president of the university, he choosing Matthew, VI, verses 19-34, inclusive. Bishop Howden took, as the substance of his sermon, "The Religious Element in Culture," part of verse 29 of the above.

"Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin."

He pointed out to the graduates just finishing the university, the importance of religion, and the belief in an almighty power, which should guide their lives after going into the world.

Depreciates Egotism.

The bishop stated how ridiculous and absurd it was for the young graduates to feel that all the knowledge and wisdom of the world was stored away in their brains, merely because they had finished their courses. He requested them to keep before them the quotation from Matthew, and to observe the beauties and wonders of the universe, which are a great and glorious mystery to all.

He also dwelt on the fact that all talents and learning, no matter how good and inspiring in themselves, are apt, if not closely guarded, to make the person receiving them worse off than before. The bishop exhorted the graduates to keep the ideal of service and justice always before them, and thus eliminate the danger of misuse of God-given gifts. He cited the example of the naturalist, Agassiz, who always opened his school, at Buzzard's Bay, with a prayer to the Almighty, so that his students, in studying the wonders of nature and science, would never lose sight of the great primary cause of all.

This, he stated, exemplified the point he was trying to make clear. That no study, and no vocation, however intrinsically noble, or no college course, will bring uplift and progress unless there be a certain spiritual attitude on the part of the man himself, which will insure these things.

Double Trio Sings

The importance of God in civilization was emphasized by calling attention to the ancient civilizations of Greece and Rome, which, eliminating God and morals from their culture and learning, became as "whitened sepulchers, beautiful on the outside, but within filled with dead men's bones."

Following the bishop's sermon, the double trio sang "Sanctus," and with the pronouncing of the benediction by Bishop Howden, the services came to a close.

Miss Matilda F. Allen, B. A. of the U. N. M. has just been awarded the Degree of M. A. in Romanic Languages from Leland Stanford.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1914

FAREWELL.

With this issue, The Weekly bids farewell to students and faculty, until next school year.

It hopes that it has been successful in its effort to portray, successfully and interestingly, student life and activities the past year, at the U. N. M. If it has, it is satisfied; if not, there is nothing to say, except that infallibility is not a student editor's gift.

Thanks in particular are due to the faithful work of the small staff, whose names appear above; with nothing to reward them but the satisfaction of work done, which, after all, is the best recompense for any good deed, they have stayed with the work since the opening of school, and made possible the issuing of the paper during each week of the school year 1913-14.

In particular, credit is due Miss Treasure Hartmann, the local editor, who has not, for a single week, failed with her contributions, and her efficiency in this respect may be noted from the fact that she has made her part of The Weekly the most interesting and eagerly-read part of the publication.

Mr. Lested Ifield, associate editor, also comes in for his share of thanks, both for his contributions, and assistance in reading proof, each of which he was always willing and anxious to do.

Mr. Walter F. Gouin, and Mr. M. Higgins have never failed to "come across" on all occasions, and an equal amount of thanks also comes to them. Others deserving of gratitude are: Messrs. E. S. Seder and Albert S. Hunt, and Miss Florence M. Seder and Jean Arnot.

Certain members of the faculty, too, whose names are withheld, have helped out, from time to time throughout the year, and to each and all from whom any assistance, kindness or encouragement has been forthcoming, The Weekly extends hearty thanks.

THE PAST YEAR.

The year just closed has been auspicious and encouraging from every standpoint a loyal supporter of the U. N. M. could wish.

We started out with a foot ball team that made a record for itself any institution might be proud of. Then we took second place in the oratorical contest, besides making a "hit" during the State Teachers' convention with our musical organizations, etc.

The basketball team, owing to inability to schedule games, did not do much this year, which was most unfortunate, as we had material here for two championship teams, and it was hard to say which was the better.

In debating we defeated our old-time rivals, the Aggies, for the first time in six years, thus putting ourselves on the map in that respect.

Our baseball and track teams have both done all that could be expected of them, and have made a reputation for clean sportsmanship all through.

With this year in back of us and with excellent prospects for 1914-15 hopes for the continued good fortune of the U. N. M. run high in every loyal student and faculty member's heart.

Keep Kickin'!

Spring is here at last—spring with all her fancies, wiles and malades. Being human, we can hardly expect to escape the wiles and fancies, but we must look out for the malades. Spring fever is a disease old as creation and few there are that have ever been able to evade the ravages thereof. None are immune. And yet—and yet—

We are on the home stretch of the semester. It will take every ounce of energy we can summon up to make this last lap the success it should be. Now is the time to begin fighting down that pestiferous malady, the fever of the springtime. If you are already infected, don't let on. Languorous afternoons and mellow moonlight nights we must yield to sometimes in spite of ourselves. But don't forget those studies and all otherwise laborious—keep up that old pep! Don't let your fancies slip too far into the realm of springtime's fancies. Don't let yourself slip back one single cog in engrvy, even if you have got the spring fever.

KEEP KICKIN'!—De Pauw Daily.

"Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; nothing is more common than unsuccessful men of talent. Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb. Education will not; the world is full of educated derelicts. Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent. The slogan, 'Press On!' has solved and always will solve the problems of the human race."—EX.

Women and Tobacco.
Women and tobacco are two things which Coach Alonzo Stagg, of Chicago university, has tabooed from the football squad.

Coach Stagg recently posted a notice on the athletic bulletin board at Chicago calling for spring football practice. On the bulletin was written these words:

"No fussers or smokers are wanted."

The South Dakota State College is boosting for 1200 students for next year's attendance.

They say that Cupid strikes the match that sets the world aglow. But where does Cupid strike the match?—that's what I'd like to know.

Kaune, college, third. Distance, 13 feet 6 inches.

The final summing up of points for the afternoon gave college 69 points, with 46 to the university.

The baseball game, scheduled to take place immediately after the track meet, was called in the first inning, owing to the heavy wind which sprang up. The members of the university team, accompanied by Coach R. F. Hutchinson, left Saturday evening.

do with the education of its youth

Time was when a king and a few nobles controlled the human institutions in most states, and education for any but the classes was neither necessary nor desirable. With us the control of human institutions is vested in the people themselves, and this idea of government is spreading, perhaps slowly, but none the less surely, over the world. It has reached even Russia and China in some degree.

The state that is limited to the protection of lives and property and the administration of justice, that is limited practically to the protection of my rights, as we call them, is not worth bothering about. A state—the state in which we live, for example—is something more than a mere geographical subdivision of country governed mechanically from a place we call its capitol. It is made up of people, of human beings. It is the human being that makes a state live and move and have its being, and it is through this thing we call the state, that we human beings are striving to work out our destiny.

As I see the facts, the solution of these questions must inevitably lie in the side of making a citizen first, or at any rate on the side of making a citizen and a man at the same time—with particular emphasis on the citizen.

It looks to me if we are now in this country beginning to fight out some of the questions that were fought out in Paris. Don't misunderstand me. I don't mean that we will have a bloody revolution; I do mean that we are having a revolution, nevertheless. We are fighting over the old question of whether we should attempt to make a man first and a citizen afterward, or if we can, a citizen first and a man or individual afterward.

Granting that it is true that the activities of the state must be constantly widened to meet the new conditions and demands, what will guide this widening process? The answer is: Public opinion. But who will guide the formation of public opinion, not consciously, perhaps, but guide it just the same? The educated man, the educated citizen ought to and will inevitably do it. Not the individual who has been trained to be a man first and a citizen afterward, but the man who has been trained to be a citizen first and an individual afterward—in short, the man who has been trained in institutions like the one you have been attending.

This brings me to the conclusion of my remarks. This university has a very definite function in connection with the state of New Mexico. Its primary purpose is, in my judgment, that of making citizens for the state of New Mexico, and for the United States. It should train young men and young women in such a way that they, after leaving here, will more readily see and appreciate the changes that are constantly taking place in society, and will each do his part intelligently in assisting to mould and guide public opinion so that the state may properly exercise its functions in the vast field of activity it is entering into.

LOCALS.

Miss Florence Seder gave a delightful reception last Saturday, in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. R. Seder. A large crowd of university girls were present, and all report a most "lovely" time of it.

Miss Mary Bright will spend the summer in Kansas, her home state.

President Boyd leaves Wednesday evening for Deming, where he will deliver the high school commencement address on Thursday evening, May 28. From there he goes to Denver, to attend the inauguration ceremonies of the new president of Denver University.

Joe Frazee leaves June 1st for a trip to Denver, where he will remain until the fall opening.

Professor E. W. Gruer, who has been acting in place of Professor John D. Clark, absent on Sabbatical Leave, returned to California. Professor Clark will be here the second week in June.

Floyd Lee has been pledged to the Tri-Alpha Fraternity. Don Wilson and Tom Thackery of A. H. S. are also two other new pledges of A. A.

The Sigma Taus announce Charles Clark and Thomas Calkins, both of A. H. S. as new pledges.

James K. Polk will spend the summer in Roswell, but is expecting to return in plenty of time for the opening in August.

Miss E. A. Hickey, Professor Hodgkin, Professor Mitchell and Professor Hutchinson expect to remain in town for the summer. Professors Hodgkin and Mitchell will have the issuing of "The University News" during the vacation months.

Miss D. J. Sisler, the librarian, leaves for her home in Emporia, Kansas, Friday. (Awfully bad day!)

Miss Nellie Dean also persists in "flying in the face of Providence" and departing for Oklahoma on Friday. We can only hope and pray for such persons, as any human means would be useless to save them from their rashness.

Three students of the Kansas University are building an aeroplane. They expect to fly sometime in April.

At Northwestern the trustees have passed a ruling that all freshmen must live in dormitories or fraternity houses.

Friends.

Oh, what is life without a friend To dissipate our gloom,
A path where naught but briars grow,
Where flowers never bloom.

To bloom as a rose,
Strew flowers over our rugged path,
Pour sunshine o'er our woes.—EX.

Treasure Hartmann, local editor of The Weekly, left for her home in El Paso, Sunday evening. She will visit California the coming summer, but will return to the Varsity in time for the fall opening, August 17.

E. Stanley Seder, of this year's senior class, left for New York Monday afternoon; he will study under Mark Andrews, the famous organist this summer, returning to Albuquerque about September 1st.

Joseph Eldott, Foster Brown and George L. Butler, returned to their homes Friday evening.

Ruth McKowen has gone to Las Vegas, where she will remain during the summer session of the Normal School; she then intends visiting Colorado, returning to the Varsity at the fall opening.

B. Clay Singleton, Varsity debator, and this year's graduate, leaves for his home in Shelbyville, Missouri, this afternoon. He will enter Missouri University Law School the coming fall, and all his friends at the Varsity, which numbers everyone in the student body, and faculty, predict a splendid future for him.

At a meeting held by the insignia track men Monday afternoon, Joseph H. McCanna was elected captain of the track team for next year, over L. B. Lackey, by the narrow margin of one vote. Both men have done excellent work in track this year, and the choice of either would have been a wise one.

Lee Claire Murphy, editor (elect) of The Weekly for next year, will represent the university at the Summer Y. M. C. A. conference at Estes Park, from June 9 to 19. This ought to furnish "Pat" with some good copy for No. 1 of the paper.

Albert S. Hunt and W. J. Higgins will try the joys of bachelor life upon the Hill this summer. Both claim to be expert cooks and housekeepers, but that remains to be seen.

Rex Brashear will be departing in a day or so to St. Louis, his home. Everyone is hoping for Rex back next year, and with certain irresistible attractions calling, there seems to be a mighty good chance of having him with us once more.

All the graduates of Professor Hodgins' Normal Class are already provided with schools for next year. Some of the Varsity boys will be entering the grades also, a little bird whispers.

Matt Higgins, 1914 Track Captain, leaves Thursday afternoon for his home, in Newport, Kentucky. He will enter Cincinnati University Medical College next fall.

Helen James will spend the summer in Roswell, the guest of Miss Mary M. Cooper.

Ed Gallagher is just now celebrating Ireland's Home Rule, and so we have been unable to get any information from him as to his intentions for next year.

Professor John D. Clark has been awarded the Degree of Ph. D. in chemistry from Leland Stanford, Jr., University. Professor Clark will return to Albuquerque about the 10th of June, to be in trim for his classes next fall.

Miss Marie Higgins leaves Thursday afternoon, for a visit to her home, Newport, Kentucky. While there, she will study music at the Cincinnati Conservatory.
