WHAT REAL SCHOOL SPIRIT CONSISTS OF

Striking Example of What Loyalty to the Team by Students Will Inspire It to Do.

LET US DO LIKEWISE.

(By L. R. Ilfeld.)

Time was up. The first half of the great game was over, and the score decidedly favored our rival, Andover. The men had come up to the field house for a rest, and the coach had commenced to talk about the next half.

"I want—" was all he said, when across the field could be seen the school singing their great football song. It went something like this: "We are loyal to you, Worcester team, We are backing you all, Worcester team, We'll back you to stand 'Gainst the best in the land, 'Cause we know you've got the sand, Worcester team."

The Result of Loyalty.

"I want you to do what the school asks," was all the coach said. When the whistle blew, each fellow ran out on that field, determined to do all he could on that battle-field, with the result that when the final whistle blew the score was 19 to 15 in Worcester's favor.

Who Won That Game?

Now the question is, who won that game? And the answer cannot be otherwise than that the loyalty of the school won it. The school backed the team, and why? Because the team had "sand" and fought. "Brass tacks" is what they were. Every man was a fighter.

And when wind came a little hard, or a painful injury occurred, always could be heard, from across the field, that song of Worcester. Back of that team was the school. Tireless cheerleaders lead willing cheerers, and what could be better than to hear that great old yell coming across the field, and spurring the men on to their best? On the day before the team left to play Harvard Freshmen, it rained continually.

Worcester Turns Out.

But the school needed practice. The afternoon before the game, the school of two hundred and seventy-five fellows donned rain-coats and marched with a band at their head to the field to watch practice, and to cheer the team on. All afternoon the fellows "snaked" around the track, and yelled until they were hoarse.

And did those men out there at work in the mud shrink? No, not a one of them ever thought of quitting.

Loyalty Again Wins.

The next day they went down and played. The score was 3 to 0 in Harvard's favor until the last minute of the play. The goal was only ten yards away, and the last down was just about to be called. One last effort would mean a touch-down and the game for Worcester. The tackle turned to the end and said, "Remember yesterday."

With a last mighty effort the end broke loose, motioned to the half who threw him a forward pass, which enabled him to cross the line, winning for Worcester.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM AT FOOTBALL RALLY IN RODEY HALL THURSDAY

ROUSING SPEECHES BY DIFFERENT MEMBERS OF THE TEAM RECEIVED WITH THE MOST HEARTY APPROVAL OF THE ENTIRE STUDENT BODY.

LAWRENCE B. LACKEY IS CHOSEN AS CHEER LEADER

Professor Ralph M. Barton Delivers Splendid Talk on Value of Football in Development of Manhood, and as Preparation for Successfully Meeting Life's Hard Problems.

Thursday morning the assembly period was turned over to the student body for the purpose of holding a football rally, and arousing more interest among the students in the team and its hopes and desires.

Everyone Is Present.

Practically the whole student body and the different members of the Faculty were present to lend their aid and encouragement to the affair. Student Body President, John G. Pease first made a short talk, calling attention to the value of a good football team in advertising an institution of this kind, from the interest it arouses among prospective students, and the people of the town. Pease also spoke of the great value of football in developing school spirit among the students of the institution, causing as it does, the student to feel a personal pride and interest in the success of the team, and consequently, the school which it represents.

Balcomb Also Speaks.

Pease was then followed by "Red" Balcomb, who spoke in similar manner to Pease, telling of the efforts the Varsity team was putting forth to have a winning combination this year, and requesting the members of the student body to co-operate with them by continuing to come out and watch the practice, and by their presence, during the games, on the side lines, to cheer on the team, and help the men on with their encouragement.

Professor Barton Hits Home.

"Red" was then followed by Professor Ralph M. Barton, Professor of Mathematics at the University, a graduate of Dartmouth College, and an old football man himself. Professor Barton's talk was one of the best ever heard in Rodey Hall, and listened to with the closest attention by all present. He spoke in part as follows:

Football creates a spirit of loyalty among the players and the students. That is what we need here to build up this institution. It is for you to make, and for the Faculty to assist you in making. We are here to work with you, collectively and individually, and help you in every way we can.

Pride in the Institution.

I want everyone of you, whenever hears the name of the University of New Mexico spoken, to feel that that is his place, and it is up to him to assist in its upbuilding.

Back in my institution, Dartmouth, to be a member of the football team is one of the greatest honors to befall a man. All the men who are able come out for practice, and are proud to make a place on the team. The students do not only honor the winners, but feel proud of the team when they are game losers. I have seen the whole college turn out at three o'clock in the morning, walk a mile and a half to the station and bring home a losing team on their shoulders. Loyalty at Dartmouth reflects not only on the student body, it reflects on the alumni also. There is never a time that the alumni at Dartmouth is needed and called upon that they refuse to do their duty. Lawyers in big cases have closed them up by some means or other, come to us in time of need and stood by the school, because the institution needed them.

University Permanent.

An institution like this is one of the permanent things of life, and the sooner you lay hold of the permanent things, the sooner you will establish yourself in the world. In future years you will be proud to have once been a member of this institution.

You are apt to look at the large institutions of the East, already well established, with a good deal of admiration, but there is not one of them that has not been brought through the same stages that we are going through now.

Praise for the Coach.

I have a word to say about Coach Hutchinson. You are fortunate in having such a man with you here. I know many men who have played with him, having played with them myself. Mr. Hutchinson has been closely associated with such men as "Big Bill" Edwards of New York, and that counts for something. Coach Hutchinson comes here to you to give you the benefit of the experience he has acquired. You have a treasure in him, and there is not a better man in his line than Hutchinson in the country today.

Play Fair Always.

Make your team win, if possible, by fair and square means always, because the team which does its best wins a bigger victory than the one which by unfair means rolls up a larger score. Get your score, if you can, by playing hard, but if you lose, and know you have tried your best, don't be discouraged, for you have achieved something, and done something to be proud of.

Miss McFie Talks.

After Dr. Barton had finished, Miss Mary McFie, on behalf of the girls, made one of her usual spirited and enthusiastic speeches, in which she pledged the loyalty of the girls to the team, and assured it that it could always count on them being on hand, ready to cheer them on to fair victory or honorable defeat, if necessary.

Lackey Cheer Leader.

There being no regular cheer leader Lawrence B. Lackey was chosen temporarily to lead the audience in some

NUMBER 4 OF UNIVERSITY NEWS OUT TODAY

Many Attractive and Interesting Articles Help to Keep Up Good Reputation of Varsity Paper.

HIGH STANDARD KEPT.

Number 4, Volume 1, of "The University News," the official publication of the University, has been on the press for several days, and is now ready for distribution. The paper is still keeping up the reputation it has so far enjoyed, of being a remarkably clean looking and well edited sheet.

For Fair Week.

It is the aim of Professor Hodgins, Editor-in-Chief, to have a number of copies of The News for distribution to visitors during the State Fair, which takes place next week. An extra number of papers has been printed, in consequence, and will be given to people in town during the Fair.

Various Subjects Treated.

Among the subjects mentioned in this number of The News is an article on the opening exercises, the Y. W. C. A. Conference at Estes Park, second interscholastic track meet, and others of vital interest to students of the University, friends of the institution, and citizens of New Mexico in general.

Send in Names for The News.

Students of the University, desiring their parents or others who may be interested in the University, to receive The News, should send in the names and addresses of such, and they will forthwith be placed on the regular mailing list. No charge is made for subscription.

SUB-FRESHMAN NUMBER TO MAKE APPEARANCE

In accordance with the plan established last year of issuing special numbers of The Weekly at intervals throughout the year, the first one of these innovations for the present season will consist of The Sub-Freshman Number, which will be edited by Lester R. Ilfeld, Assistant Editor on The Weekly, and a staff to be chosen by him from among the members of the Sub-Freshman Division.

Good Staff Assured.

It is well known that there are a good many capable writers in this important department of the University, so there is no doubt that Mr. Ilfeld will have a first-class staff, which will ensure a splendid issue of The Weekly.

Other Numbers Later.

Other issues planned to appear within the year will be the Freshman Edition and the Suffragette Number. Both these issues last year met with great success, and their editors were congratulated on the splendid showing made, which it is hoped will be the case this year also.

U. N. M. yells, which were given with an energy and spirit that spoke for the whole-hearted support of the students and faculty.

An election was then called to choose the regular cheer leader, and Mr. Lackey was unanimously chosen to fill the place. Then, with several more Varsity yells, the meeting came to a close.

READ THE NEWS.

"The University News," which is devoted to the interests of the University, is out today, and it is hoped that every student will obtain a copy of it and read it through.

The News is an exceptionally well written and well-edited publication, and deserves the hearty support of the students of the institution, and all who have the interests of the University at heart.

Read it carefully, and then if you have no further use for it, mail it to some friend who may be interested in the University, and on whom you will be conferring a favor that will be greatly appreciated.

THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

The Athletic Association has authorized, through the Athletic Council, the playing of several important football games, and now the success of football, as well as the other athletic activities, depends on the co-operation of the students.

One dollar is not much, but with it you can become a member of the association and participate in all its activities.

The association needs you and you need it. Join now and show your school spirit. We have prospects of a splendid football team, and with the aid of the students of the athletic association, we shall have a football season this year that we can look to with pride, as having had a hand in making it.

Be a booster!

OUR AUTUMN.

(By Buzz.)

Comes now the autumn. The sere brown of the campus, broken only by the sober gray of the cement and stone and the cottonwoods, laden with rustling green and so soon to be hung with molten gold, stretches into weary miles to yonder mountains' blue haze of mystery, but never, never quite reaching it, beckons you on and on. These scenes are brightest jewels in the diadem of the fall we know. It is the romance of peak and plain.

You stand; you look; you dream. Those are the Mountains of Expectation, beyond them lie the Fields of Achievement. But the way is long, the path uncertain, though better now than ever before. A million years of Futurity beckon you on. You have the recorded knowledge of past eons to guide your wavering footsteps. The certainty of your destiny, not for today, nor for tomorrow, but for all time lays hold of you and you behold in it all the changeless hand of Omnipotence.

PROFESSOR HODGIN TALKS ON WONDERS OF MODERN TRANSIT

Shows Great Strides Being Made in Quickness of Travel, and Wonder of Modern Methods.

Thursday morning, at the regular assembly period, Professor C. E. Hodgkin delivered a talk on the remarkable advance made in the last few years in the quickness of travel by which humanity is enabled to go from place to place, as contrasted with that of a few years ago.

Around the World.
The Professor mentioned Jules Verne's famous work, "Around the World in Eighty Days," which when it was first published was received with much skepticism by its readers, but showed how now the rapidity with which Phineas Fogg made his journey was but a snail's pace compared to the speed attained in a voyage around the world at the present time.

He cited the trip of Nellie Bly, who circled the globe in seventy-two days, which was considered "going some" at the time.

Then this record was beaten by Andreas Schmidt, of Paris, who made it in thirty-nine days, thirty-seven minutes and four-fifths seconds. People gasped at this, and wondered where the end would be. But it was not yet in sight.

Then along came John H. Miles, a New York newspaper man, who, leaving the door of his office, made the trip and came back through the same door in exactly thirty-five days, twenty-one hours, thirty-five minutes and four-fifths seconds. This is the latest record for the world trip, but doubtless in a short time it will also be beaten.

Other Wonders Cited.

Professor Hodgkin discoursed on the wonders of the modern buildings, their great height, capacity, etc. He then called attention to the famous electrical hotel, of Paris, where everything is run by electricity, from the elevator, which takes one to his room to the dining table and orchestra, which are all run by electricity. In this hotel one is not bothered with tipping servants and similar pleasures usually found in travel. You write your name on the register with an electric pen, in your room are electrical combs, brushes, etc. When you want to see the time, you press a button, and it is flashed on the ceiling of your bed room. You write your order for your meal on the paper with the electrical pen; the paper is whisked away to the kitchen, and presto! up comes your meal, steaming hot, through a section of the table.

Electrical Music, Too.

While dining, electrical music, made by an electrical orchestra, regales you, aiding your appetite, and capacity for enjoying your meal, and enabling you to find "your innate soul" at the same time.

Where Will It End?

Professor went on to state that in his opinion the end was about in sight and that, in the future, with all these labor and time saving devices within his grasp, man would be enabled to devote more of his time to the intellectual pursuits for which he was destined, and trusted that this would soon come to pass.

The talk was a great novelty to all present, and the hope was expressed that Professor would find time at some near date, to continue with this talk, which was somewhat different from the usual assembly lecture given the students.

REAL SCHOOL SPIRIT.

"Remember yesterday" is what won that game in the last minute of the play.

What We Need Here.

Men, that's what we need here, a yesterday to remember. It's half the game to have the crowd back of you. It makes a man fight for all he is worth. The most despised man on the field is the quitter. Men, let's not be quitters, but let's be up and play the game fair and square, and with a loyal school to back us, it will mean a successful year for the U. N. M.

Purpose.

"The purpose of the association shall be to unite the women of the institution in loyalty to Jesus Christ, to lead them to accept Him as their personal Savior, to build them up in the knowledge of Christ especially through Bible study and Christian service, that their moral character and conduct may be conversant with their belief. It shall thus associate them with the students of the world for the advancement of the Kingdom of God. It shall further seek to enlist their devotion to the Christian Church and to the religious work of the institution."

We want every girl who stands, or wishes to stand for this to join us and help uphold this standard.

Girls' Glee Club Organized.

The Girls' Glee Club held their annual election of officers last Tuesday. Since only one name was proposed for each office, election was in all cases unanimous, and the session an unusually peaceful one. The list of officers follows:

President, Amelia McFie; Vice-President, Mary Cooper; Secretary-Treasurer, Jessie Craig; Librarian, Fern Reeves; Business Manager, Florence Seder.

Speaking of the Y. W. C. A.

There was once a girl who ate with her knife, and committed similar things. The fact caused her no inconvenience at home, but when she entered a certain college, she became the butt of general ridicule. Several older girls, who ate at her table, tried their best, by example and delicate hint, to show her the error of her ways, but no indirect method seemed to succeed.

Finally the president of the Y. W. C. A., feeling a genuine interest in the girl and disapproving the attitude of the other students, went to one of the ladies of the faculty for assistance.

When it was announced that at the next Association meeting Professor would speak, nearly all the girls in the college arranged to be present, for this teacher was a general favorite. The hapless offender was there, too. In a sympathetic and yet impersonal way, the Professor outlined the fundamentals of correct manners. At her mention of some of the cruder blunders, a number of the girls nudged each other and felt a tendency to giggle. But when the speaker began to emphasize the point that the basis of all etiquette is courtesy, and consideration for others, the careless ones began to realize that their attitude of ridicule had been less impolite than the newcomer's offenses. The address fostered a new spirit of consideration and kindness among the girls.

Also, at dinner that evening the new girl was observed eating even her peas with a fork.

This is only one example of what the Young Women's Christian Association aims to do in a school. There are many needs in the life of a student which are not provided for in the curriculum, and it is the purpose of the Christian Association to fill these needs in the student world; to provide a meeting-place for all students, to give them opportunities to become acquainted under the most favorable conditions, to secure employment for self-supporting students, to keep before them an inspiring ideal of conduct, to unify and uplift college spirit; these are some of the things which the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. not only plan to do, but have actually accomplished, in hundreds of colleges and universities throughout the country.

The Y. W. C. A. at the University of New Mexico offers to every girl a chance to develop her own life and be a practical help to others. We accomplished a number of interesting things last year and have still larger plans for this year. All girls who are interested are invited to confer with Mary Cooper, who is chairman of the Membership committee.

"The girl who ate with her knife is not the only kind of girl who has been helped by the Association. Watch this column and we may tell you some more real-life stories of what the Y. W. C. A. is accomplishing."

FOOTBALL SQUAD NOW DOWN TO HARD WORK

Tackling the Dummy, Scrimmage Work and Other Such Matters on the Regular Program.

The U. N. M. football squad has gotten down to hard practice, the result being many aching bones and muscles for the men. The first scrimmage was indulged in Thursday afternoon, there being two full teams out and several extra men besides.

Lively Practice.
The practice was very lively, all the men displaying a lot of "ginger" and enthusiasm, and Coach Hutchinson was greatly pleased with the spirit displayed by the fellows.

Tackling the dummy was the first thing on the programme, the boys all hitting it with as much vengeance as if it were a Roswell half back going for a touchdown. After the usual preliminaries, such as falling on the ball, running down punts, and some signal practice, the men were put up against the real thing in scrimmage. Most of the men were tried at several positions in order to find out where they will best fit, and to give them the experience of these different places.

Good Practice Friday.

Practically the same programme was carried out Friday afternoon, two full teams showing up, and another fine workout was the outcome. Coach Hutchinson is very much pleased with the showing made Thursday and Friday, and there is no reason whatever why both the number and spirit of the squad cannot continue to be the same as was displayed on those two days.
