BEAT THE AGGIES

MENAU VICTORIOUS

Presbyterians Take Long End of 9-7 Score.

The Menaul School aggregation again defeated the University Second Team last Saturday by the score of 9-7. The game was hard fought all the way through and the result was in doubt until the final blast of the referee's whistle.

For the University, Sganzi played an excellent game, while Miller's playing at quarter made many of the on-lookers rub their eyes. Sganzi scored the University's touch-down, when he received a forward pass on Menaul's 20-yd line, early in the second period, and raced across the goal line before being downed. Romero kicked goal.

In the third quarter Menaul came back strong and within a short time had scored when Candelaria picked up a fumbled ball and ran twenty-five yards for a touchdown. He failed at goal.

The Varsity tightened up, but thru some fast work on the part of the back field Menaul pushed Varsity to the 30-yard line from where a field goal was kicked by H. Gonzales. The score was thus made 9-7, and the Varsity failed to change it before the end of the game, though Menaul was pushed hard in the fourth quarter.

For the Varsity Sganzi, Miller, Craig, Gray and Hopewell starred, though every man played a good game.

GIRLS' BASKET BALL

At a regular meeting of the Girls' Basket Ball Team last week, Dorothy Stevenson and Mary Van Nyvenheim were elected as Captain and Manager respectively for this season.

Miss Stevenson proved herself a very able pilot for the team last year and with her election for the position this year, and the election of Miss Von Nyvenheim as manager, who comes from Santa Fe with very good recommendations, the outlook for the championship team is very encouraging.

Games are being arranged with Las Cruces, Silver City, Normal School, Normal University, Normal School at Las Vegas and the University of Arizona, by Mrs. Wittenmeyer, coach of the team. She has the record of coaching the New Trier Champions, who stood for three years undefeated.

THANKSGIVING FOOTBALL

Hard Fought Game Expected Between the Varsity and Aggies to Decide Championship in New Mexico and Texas.

University of New Mexico's big football team will make its final bid for championship football honors Thanksgiving Day when they are to clash with the New Mexico Aggies on the Varsity Field.

The University squad has gone through the season's grid-iron race with a clean slate. So far it seems that the team has made a specialty of Miners, having played the Socorro School of Mines, score 55 to 0, in favor of the Varsity; Colorado Miners to a score of 0 to 0; New Mexico Military Institute to a scoreless tie and the El Paso School of Mines 57 to 13, with the big end of the score in favor of the Varsity.

The Aggies also have had a good season, having lost only two games. One to Arizona by a score of 33 to 0, the other to the 7th Cavalry in Texas, by a score of 6 to 0. They defeated the 82nd. Artillery 32 to 0; Socorro School of Mines 54 to 0. The Institute held them to a scoreless tie. The Varsity defeated Texas Miners 57 to 13. Arizona beat the Miners 47 to 0, and the Aggies 33 to 0. Roswell defeated the Miners 13 to 7.

The contest will be between a light and speedy team and a team combining speed and weight. One might say tonnage for the Aggie team is distinguished by several very heavy men in their line-up. On the field, they have gained most ground on weight advantage. With stars, such as McGarry, Speight, Blackwell and Butler, in their backfield the Varsity men will be kept on their mettle.

The University team has been fortunate in having the best athletic coach in the West, in the person of Coach John McGough. Every day for the past two months, the football squad has been out on the grid-iron, sweating, laboring, and being whipped and coached into winning shape by this competent mentor. Until now, the Varsity team has been rated as one of the most powerful elevens in these parts, and her supporters are looking forward for victory over the beefy Aggies.

All this "dope" is liable to set the football enthusiasts mental machinery slipping. In the past the Varsity has won four games over the Aggies and the Aggies copped four games from the Varsity. The game on Turkey Day will decide not only this score but the championship of New Mexico and Western Texas.

The probable line-up follows:

PEP MEETING

Woodward Elected Yell Leader. Burt And Grantham Assistants

In the "peppiest Pep meeting" of the year held in Rodey Hall at 11 o'clock, Tuesday of last week, Harold Woodward was elected cheer leader and Edwin Burt and Everett Grantham as his assistants.

After the student body had been tuned up by giving several Varsity Yells, President Richardson turned the meeting over to Football Manager Charles Caldwell and Coach McGough.

The Coach made a short, but spirited talk, after which Captain Claude Mann, Grant Mann, Carl Adelotte, George Gentry and Stuart McArthur of the football squad, were called upon to make some remarks. All they asked was the co-operative support of every student of the University at the Varsity—Aggie game on the U. N. M. Athletic Field next Thursday afternoon, promising that the football team would do its share.

STUDY HOUR FOR KWATAKA

Altho the University authorities have never imposed any regulations on the residents of the Men's Dormitory regarding hours of study, etc., the men living in Kwataka have for their own benefit voluntarily agreed among themselves to observe a study hour five nights a week.

The following agreement has already been signed by practically every man in the Dorm:

"Dorm Men's Agreement"

"I hereby agree to observe the following rules on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, between the hours of 7:30 and 9:30, P. M., and on Wednesday between 8 and 10 P. M.:

"I will in no way interfere with any other student's desire to study, either by making any loud noise in or about the Dormitory, or by loafing in his room.

"To observe the spirit of these rules, I will not spend unnecessary time in the Grotto during the hours specified."

Dr. Barrington Moore, President of the Ecological Society of America, called on Prof. Weese last Monday. The principal topic discussed was the proposal for the publication of a Journal by the Society. Prof. Weese is a charter member of the Ecological Society.

LET'S GO!

Beat the Aggies! Could any three words in the English language better express the thought of the University at the present time?

The game of the season has arrived—the one we have all been looking forward to. The Turkey Day game means much to the U. N. M., since it virtually decides the championship in football of this part of the country. That the Aggies will put up a game worth the best in our men is conceded by all. Judging from a letter received from the editor of the Round-Up, the Cruces' paper, a number of surprise plays may be expected, and Albuquerque will witness a real battle of wits as well as strength.

Nothing that will help our team should be left undone by the Student Body. They must have our support, entirely and wholeheartedly, if we hope to win; for Cruces means to put up a fight that will demand our best in every respect. Cruces will bring twenty-two football men, a number of rooters, and it is rumored, that a band will also be on hand. Think of it! A band to cheer Cruces. Won't we have to make some noise though, to counterbalance this rooting bunch? We are equal to it, aren't we? Be at the game and let's see if WE ARE!

TRUTH OR FICTION?

While ye editor realizes the risk he runs in publishing the following extract from "The New Hampshire", yet he hopes the young women will not be too harsh on him for printing a forlorn plea of the oppressed sex:

"Notwithstanding the fact that the presence of women in college causes various reactions and widely divergent views on the part of the men, in regard to certain aspects of the question they are agreed. Views may be altered, while habits may require changing and customs readjusting, but there still persists in the mind of each man the question which in its increasing seriousness is causing the greatest perturbation—shall men of the college be permitted to use the side-walks, or must they forsake the side-walks and use only the roads?"

The young women of the institution have a peculiar custom of moving about Durham in groups. The sight of one of these groups of women, sweeping along the narrow side-walks in a column of squads formation, is sufficient to cause a question in the mind of any man who is unlucky enough to meet them, as to just what his course of action shall be. A psychologist would marvel at the rapidity with which his agitated brain now functions.

He knows that by all the laws of much abused chivalry these women have the right of way—he knows and they know he knows. He knows that they will not swerve one-sixteenth of an inch from their course, for him. He is aware of the fact that in all probability, on one side of the walk there is a drop into the road below awaiting, while on the other side there is probably a ditch, wet grass, a mud-hole, or some similar inconvenience. The phalanx is approaching rapidly. What shall he do? There are several possibilities.

If he is a freshman he can stop and stand as much like a statue as his shaking knees will permit. If he is a sophomore he can preserve his cherished pomposity by executing a line plunge, or some approved act once popular in the paleolithic age. But if as it often happens, he is a senior or a junior, the problem is not so easily solved.

Perhaps he recalls having read of an ancient custom that sets once had—the custom of throwing themselves prostrate upon the ground when their master approached, that he might walk over, around, or on them as he saw fit. Without a doubt if the luckless upperclassman should attempt this experiment, he would be trod upon with all the insouciance that "La belle dame sans merci" could muster, but just as he seriously considers this, a message comes racing over the much jumbled axones and dendrites of his perplexed nervous system. By some freak of memory, some suggestive association of ideas, he recalls having passed the show windows of "Lothrop and Farnham's" and seeing suits, tagged $45.00. Fortune favors the brave. Discretion is the better part of valor. The well developed mind of the upperclassman proves its worth in a crisis. He decides that this act would be inadvisable.

The skirmish line sweeps nearer and nearer. He glances to the left side of the walk. The footing seems fairly good there, and he about to side-step, when suddenly the intricate mechanism of his sorely taxed, nervous system again flashes a danger signal. Perhaps he has driven a car. He is familiar with the traffic regulations. He has seen or heard of horrible accidents that occurred when some careless individual failed to "keep to the right". The cortex of his cerebrum is working over time. A new visualization occurs.

A large sign with "Keep to the right" printed in red letters, with a skull and crossbones engraved below this, flashes to mind. It acts as a command. His military training now comes to his rescue. He hears the command, obeys, swerves to the right and is temporarily saved.

KAPPA DELTA NU

Kappa Delta Nu gave a delightful dance Friday evening at the home of Miss Mayme Mills. Purple of two shades, decorated the entire downstairs, and towards the end of the evening delicious refreshments were served. Miss Beatrice Selsor sang, and Dorothy McAllister gave a reading. Miss Soels furnished the music.

Those who danced were the Misses Beatrice Selsor, Helen Darrow, Kathleen Darrow, Katherine Shotwell, Violet Jahn, Helen Fallis, Lucille Wharton, Julia Maston, Marjory McGinnis, Kintha Ham, Jessie Venable, Sarah Herrick, Ilda Sganzi, Mayme Mills; the Messrs. Sganzi, Scruggs, La Fraik, Carpenter, Fetzer, Gerphiede, C. Mann, G. Mann, Wolkling, Robertson, Ham, Hernandez, Morris, Craig and Adellote.

SIGMA CHI REUNION

The Sigma Chi fraternity will hold a grand reunion during the week. An initiation, a smoker, a banquet, and a dance will be included in the program of festivities. And girls, the dance is to be a real ball, and a little bird told me that we would have leather programs and wear corsage bouquets of white roses, the fraternity flower.

PHI MU

Phi Mu is having a reunion, too. Among the girls who will be here are the Misses Rebecca Skidwith, Alie Atkinson, Gertrude McGowan, Beatrice Hamilton, Lois Stearns, and Alice Holt. Mrs. Frank Porter will give a tea. There will be open-house Friday afternoon, a semi-banquet at the fraternity house Wednesday evening, and an informal dance. Altogether, a grand time is anticipated.

KIYOTES.

(With most humble apologies to the author of The Spires of Oxford.)
I heard most awesome noises
As I was passing by;
And strange dark shapes moved stealthily
Against the starlit sky.
My heart was with the kiyote whelps,
For the pack was in full cry.

I stopped and listened motionless
Beneath the sheltering trees,
And goose-flesh raised upon my back
The size of green June peas.
And the screaming of the whelps was drowned
By the knocking of my knees.

I longed to be home—safe in bed,
But was too scared to start,
For sentinel kiyotes wandered near
With paddles, built to smart,
And I feared they would discover me
By the pounding of my heart.

For hours I stood with bated breath,
(At least it seemed that long),
And the gray of the eastern sky
Told day was coming on.
At last the awful noises ceased,
And I slipped home in the dawn.

upon him. Something must be done.
Instinct, memory, imagination, decision and luck, all these may fail him but there yet remains one saving grace. Memory and the other faculties have monopolized the stage long enough. Habit now comes to the rescue. He steps to the right off the walk. Perhaps he sprains an ankle, wets his feet, or suffers from some other abomination, but habit is now his master.

The company front is now abreast of him. Habit brings his hand up to a salute. Like a reviewing officer he stands fast until the procession passes by. Then he collects his scattered wits, steps back to the walk and moves on to meet the next catastrophe, with the firm belief in his mind that if this is how higher education and woman suffrage affect women, he for one will always fight on the side of the anti's."

GRID NOTES

The performance of the Mann brothers in the El Paso game has undoubtedly earned them a place on the All-Southwestern Team for this year. (Clipped from the Aggie's Round-Up.)

"Skinney" Sganzi and "Flossie" Miller played sensational football against the Menaul team Saturday.

Some of the spirit shown on the side-lines last Saturday was very undesirable. All loyal Varsity students should do everything within their power to abolish such incidents from the campus.

Williams, left tackle on the Aggie football squad, is a former U. N. M. man. Here's hoping that he will be sorry that he isn't one now.

Football Manager Caldwell states that he has received an extra heavy supply of adhesive tape for the game Thanksgiving. Glad to get the news for adhesive tape is one of the best means to hold a football team together.

Nearly all the men on the Aggie team are veterans on the gridiron.

Of all the football games played this year, the Aggie game is THE ONE we are out to WIN.

The gridmen will all be ready when the whistle blows. How about you Varsity students? Bring your teacher friend, or the other one. Bring Dad and Mom and little "kiddie" or "bud". Bring 'em all. But most important, bring Lotta Jazz and PEP to the game Thursday.

LOCALS

George Martin left Saturday morning for his home at Gallup, expecting to spend the week with home folks.

Among the former Varsity students who are visiting friends on the Hill during the Teachers' Convention are: Bernice Hamilton, Alice Holt, Allie Atkinson, Gertrude McGowan, Carolyn Beals, Fern Reeves, Rebecca Graham and Rebecca Skipwith.

George Skeel, who has been living at Kwataka, last week moved down to live with Prof. and Mrs. Weese.

Willard Stofer and Hazel Wilmunder are spending the vacation at their homes in Gallup.

All out for the big snake-dance Wednesday night! Let's show Albuquerque and the teachers that there is a State University on the map, and that it's located right here.

President Hill returned from Chicago Friday night, where he attended the Association of State Universities.

A crowd of Varsity enthusiasts met the train Sunday evening and greeted the visiting teachers with Varsity yells and songs. Good work! Let's keep it up!
