

1963

When as Did Apache Say

Miller Williams

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/nmq>

---

Recommended Citation

Williams, Miller. "When as Did Apache Say." New Mexico Quarterly 33, 4 (1963). <https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/nmq/vol33/iss4/20>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by the University of New Mexico Press at UNM Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in New Mexico Quarterly by an authorized editor of UNM Digital Repository. For more information, please contact disc@unm.edu.

MILLER WILLIAMS

WHEN AS DID APACHE SAY

When as did Apache say
the spirit wakes and walks away and leaves the teeth and eye to clay sing no asleep
in who zit.

Build no word of one day sky
beyond the river bye and bye
When I lay me down to die
I die for simple ever.

When I lay me down to sleep
I lay me never down so deep.
Pray for No One Else to keep my soul if I must lose it.

Meet me in a mountain stream or eat me in an apple cream (but O the brain that builds the dream is clever, sweet and clever).