Albuquerque, home of The University of New Mexico, is a modern, growing metropolis. Its 330,000 residents enjoy a unique cultural background which blends the antiquity of the Pueblo Indians with the heritage of the Spanish Conquistadores and the progressive spirit of the later-arriving Anglo-Americans.

Albuquerque is a mile-high (altitude 5,314 feet) city, seated in the rich Rio Grande Valley at the western edge of the picturesque Sandia Mountains. The dry, clean mountain air cools the area during the summer months and takes the sting out of the winter frost. Average maximum daytime summer temperature is 82.3 degrees. In winter the average is 55.6 degrees.

Albuquerque dates back to the 17th century, and its name is derived from the influential Spanish Duke of Alburquerque of that era.

It is the geographical, cultural, and commercial heart of New Mexico. Because Albuquerque is the hub of a fast-growing aerospace and nuclear industry, it has become one of the top scientific and educational centers in the Southwest.

Albuquerque has a large, creative artists' colony as do Santa Fe and Taos, both within easy driving distance. Civic theater and music groups in Albuquerque have attained national prominence, as has the outdoor Santa Fe Opera.

The high country of northern New Mexico where snow caps the tallest peaks the year around, the rugged mesas and grasslands of the east and central parts of the state, and the spectacular reaches of cactus-studded range provide a tremendous outdoor recreation potential, from skiing in the mountains to nature study in the desert.

GENERAL INFORMATION:

University of New Mexico

The University of New Mexico has been a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools since 1922.

The University is approved for veterans' training under the several Public Laws governing educational benefits.

HISTORY

The University of New Mexico was created by an act of the Territorial Legislature in 1889, opened as a summer normal school on June 15, 1892, and began full-time instruction on September 21 of the same year. Its development since that time has been extraordinary. The 20 acres allotted by the Territorial Legislature for a campus have become more than 500; buildings have increased from a single structure to 94 permanent structures.

The University has 52 instructional departments; work leading to the master's degree is offered in 45 fields, and toward the doctor's degree in 27.

University administrators have for many years realized that the situation of The University of New Mexico provides it with a wealth of source material in the historical and archaeological background of the nation, and that its proximity to the Indian, Spanish, and Mexican cultures makes it a natural place for the study and appreciation of those cultures. They have, therefore, encouraged the development of Southwestern and Latin-American studies and research. Some tangible evidences of this interest are found in the architectural style (a modification of the Indian pueblo), which has been described as "the outstanding example of the effective use of regional architecture in the United States," the offering of a major in Latin-American studies, the annual Field Session in Anthropology, the presence on the faculty of outstanding Latin-American artists and scholars, and the various examples of Indian, Mexican, and Spanish-American painting, carving, and weaving to be found throughout the campus buildings.

GOVERNMENT AND SUPPORT

The government of the University is vested in the Regents and the Faculty. Five Regents are appointed by the Governor of the State for a term of six years; the Governor and the Superintendent of Public Instruction are ex officio members of the Regents.

A scene in the School of Law Moot Court Room.

The University is supported chiefly by appropriations made by the State Legislature, by income from the rental of lands granted to it by the Federal Government, by the income from royalties on the oil taken from these lands, and by student fees.

CAMPUS AND BUILDINGS

The campus of The University of New Mexico is in the eastern section of the city of Albuquerque and comprises over 500 acres, landscaped with grass, giant cottonwoods, elms, and mountain evergreens. The 94 permanent buildings exemplify the University's distinctive architectural style, contemporary in treatment but with strong influence from the Spanish and Pueblo Indian cultures. The architecture is characterized by rectangular, terraced masses, protruding vigas, patios, balconies, portals, and earth-color walls slightly inclined to recall ancient adobe houses. Within easy walking distance of the instructional and administrative center of the campus are the dormitories, a 9-hole golf course, a swimming pool, tennis courts, campus theater, faculty residences, and sorority and fraternity houses. There is also an 18-hole golf course on the South Campus.

SCHOOL OF LAW

ACCREDITATION

The School of Law was established in 1947, and it is fully accredited. It was approved by the American Bar Association on February 24, 1948. Membership in the Association of American Law Schools was granted in December, 1948.

AIMS AND METHODS

The lawyer who functions in his profession, whether as private practitioner or as public servant, is an integral part of the system by which a democratic society governs itself. If he is properly to discharge the responsibilities of this role, his education for the profession must be both broad and intensive. In its breadth it must encompass a full understanding of and belief in the democratic respect for the individual personality and the democratic processes designed to allow the individual to develop and participate in a free, self-governing society. In its intensification it must impart a high degree of competence in the craftsmanship of the law—in those skills and insights essential to an adequate performance of the lawyer's function as advocate, counselor, judge, legislator, teacher, administrator, or civic leader.

Such education neither begins nor ends in the law school, and the School of Law is continually concerned not only with its own curriculum but also with the quality of prelegal education and with the continuing self-education which should be pursued by all members of the profession. In consequence, it is urged that students enter the school with as broad a cultural and educational background as it is possible for them to obtain. The student will spend the equivalent of six semesters of study in the law school in courses designed both to bring the teachings of history, philosophy, and the social sciences to bear upon the solution of legal problems and to develop the skills and insights essential to research, analysis, criticism, drafting, counseling, and exposition. Due to the low ratio of students to teacher, substantial individual and small group work is possible in the school, especially in the senior year.

FACILITIES

Law Building

The law school has its own building, with classrooms, faculty offices, moot court room, student bar and law review offices, and law library. A new building is being planned to take care of a larger enrollment.

The Library

The law library is housed in the law building and contains approximately 80,000 volumes. It contains an excellent collection for study and research, and is kept current. The size of the book collection is being rapidly increased.

Courts and the Bar

State and municipal courts and the United States District Court are convenient to the law school. The students may not only visit them but are brought into contact with them through their work with the Legal Aid Society. Members of the bench and bar are generous in giving their time to speak to the students and in serving as lecturers. The law school conducts a regular program in continuing legal education.

NATURAL RESOURCES JOURNAL

The School of Law publishes the Natural Resources Journal, a periodical designed to provide a forum for the interchange of ideas relating to resources development and conservation among lawyers, economists, scientists, engineers, planners, and public administrators. The Journal also contains a New Mexico Section devoted to developments in state law and legal institutions whether or not related to natural resources.

One member of the faculty serves as editor of the Journal. Selected students of superior ability make up a student editorial board to aid in the editing and publishing of the Journal and to contribute to the New Mexico Section.

ADMISSION

Tests

All applicants for admission to the School of Law are required to take the Educational Testing Service's Law School Admission Test (LSAT).

The LSAT is administered at this University and at numerous other places throughout the United States in February, April, August, and November of each year. To avoid delay in processing applications, this test should be taken no later than February preceding the fall semester for which application is made. An application to take the test must be filed with the Educational Testing Service, Box 944, Princeton, New Jersey 08540, at least three weeks in advance of the scheduled testing date. Application blanks and information as to precise testing dates can be obtained from the Educational Testing Service.

Beginning and transfer students may also be required to take speech, hearing, interest, and other tests before or after their entrance into the school.

Beginning Students

A baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university is required for admission to the law school. The minimum qualitative requirement is a cumulative average of C on all previous college work. At least three years of work allowed for the baccalaureate degree must have been done in residence.

Final selection of applicants will be made on the basis of the scholastic record in all college or university work attempted, scores in the required aptitude test, and such other information as the law school may require.

Beginning law students will be admitted at the opening of the fall semester only.

Combined Course.—Students of exceptional qualifications who are eligible to enter The University of New Mexico College of Arts and Sciences may be permitted to enter upon a combined course of college and law school study leading to the acquisition of a B.A. or B.S. degree in Arts and Sciences and the J.D. degree. A total of 6 years will normally be required to complete the combined course. Students with more than 35 semester hours' credit are not encouraged to apply for admission to the combined course, and students who have completed more than 65 semester hours are not eligible to enter the combined program. Applicants for permission to take the combined course should arrange to take, and to have the School of Law advised of their scores in, the Law School Admission Test. Permission to pursue the combined course will be based upon the student's total scholastic record in all college work attempted, upon his scores in the LSAT, and upon such other information as the School of Law may require.

All students pursuing the combined course will be required to take a B.A. or B.S. degree in Arts and Sciences prior to or simultaneously with the receipt of the J.D. degree. For this purpose, they may credit against the B.A. or B.S. degree a minor in Law. In all other respects, they must meet normal degree requirements of the College of Arts and Sciences. Such students will take, during their sophomore and junior years in the College, three or four introductory courses in the law school. After the third year, the student enters the law school as a regular student and normally takes ten or more hours of law per semester.

Metropolitan Albuquerque, at night, spreads its lights for miles along the Rio Grande.

Applications.—All correspondence regarding law work and entrance, all applications for admission, and all transcripts (two copies of each transcript are required) should be addressed to the School of Law, The University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, New Mexico, 87106. An application for admission may be obtained from the School of Law. A $10 application fee is required with the application. Applications will be processed upon the receipt of scores on the required test and two official transcripts from each institution attended, showing courses and grades for all academic work. The transcripts should be forwarded to the School of Law directly by the institution certifying them. If the University of New Mexico is the institution which an applicant for law school last attended, he may request the School of Law to obtain his transcripts from the Records Office.

Transfer Students

A student may transfer from an accredited law school if he is in good standing at that school (i.e. not on probation or under suspension) and if his scholastic record is such that, had it been made at this school, he would be in good standing here. The transferring student must have sent to the School of Law:

1. Two official transcripts of his prelegal course of study from each college or university attended. The School of Law will not accept transfer law credit unless it was preceded by such prelaw study as was then required by this school for beginning law students.
2. Two official transcripts of his law study from each school attended.
3. A letter from the dean of the law school from which he transfers to the effect that he is presently not on probation or under suspension and is eligible to reregister and advance in that law school.

Credits earned at other law schools with a grade of D are not acceptable for subject credit, but grades of D and F will be included in determining whether the transfer student has the over-all C average necessary to enter this school in good standing. A transfer student may be required to retake some or all courses passed with a grade of D.

After admission under the above requirements for transfer with advanced standing, a student's standing in this school is based entirely upon work done here.

A student transferring to the School of Law will not be given credit toward the law degree for work done at a school not a member of the Association of American Law Schools or provisionally approved by the American Bar Association, except that credit earned within 3 calendar years of provisional approval by the American Bar Association may be accepted. Time during which a person was in active military service may be disregarded in computing the 3-year limitation.

Credit earned at law schools located in other countries may be accepted with certain limitations.

Transferring students who have not previously taken the Educational Testing Service's Law School Admission Test may be required to do so.

All correspondence regarding admission as a transfer student with advanced standing, all applications for such admission, and all transcripts should be addressed to the School of Law, The University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, New Mexico, 87106. An application for admission may be obtained from the School of Law. A $10 application fee is required with the application.

Applications will be processed upon receipt of required test scores, required official transcripts, and required letter from the dean of the law school from which the student is transferring. The transcripts should be forwarded to the School of Law directly by the institution certifying them.

Transfer students may be admitted in either the fall or the spring semester.

THE DEGREE

To be graduated with the Juris Doctor degree from The University of New Mexico, a candidate must:

- 1. Have met fully all prelegal requirements.
- 2. Have spent at least 3 full academic years in resident study of law in accredited law schools. Resident study means that a student has been enrolled in a schedule of work represented by a minimum of 10 class hours a week and has passed a minimum of 9 such class hours. In case a student fails to pass work equal to 9 class hours a week, he will not receive residence credit in excess of the ratio that the hours passed bear to 9. A student enrolled in a schedule of less than 10 class hours a week will receive residence credit in the ratio that the hours passed bear to 10. Both academic credit requirements and residence requirements must be met. A student cannot satisfy the residence requirements merely by earning extra academic credit. At least one year (normally the last year) of resident study must be done at The University of New Mexico, and if but one year is done here, it must comprise not less than 12 semester hours of law credit each semester.

3. Have met all requirements for graduation, and have secured during such three or more years of resident study not less than 86 semester hours of credit in prescribed courses of law study with a C average on all work attempted for law credit. The 86-hour requirement applies to all students entering this law school (including transfers) in and after the fall semester, 1966. Students enrolled in this law school prior to that date are required to have 83 hours. (For specific grade requirements on certain required courses, see p. 22, infra.)

THE DEGREE WITH HONORS

The J.D. degree may, in the discretion of the faculty, be awarded with the honors indicated to graduating students who have successfully completed the requirements prescribed by the faculty and who have achieved the following over-all grade point averages in their law school work:

	(B = 3)
cum laude	3.4
magna cum laude	3.6
summa cum laude	3.8

PART-TIME STUDENTS AND OUTSIDE WORK

It is the general policy of the School of Law that students shall enroll in a full-time program of instruction. In the case of students engaged in their first year of law study, a full-time program consists of the entire prescribed first-year program. In the case of all other students (except those who will complete the requirements for graduation at the close of the current semester), a full-time program consists of not fewer than twelve semester hours.

Students are required to secure written permission of the dean before engaging in outside work. Normally not more than 15 hours a week of outside work are permitted.

BAR EXAMINATIONS

The degree in law from this University will not confer the privilege of practicing law in New Mexico or elsewhere. The degree will satisfy the requirement of graduation from a law school which is a member of the Association of American Law Schools or which is approved by the American Bar Association, as a prerequisite to completing other requirements for bar admission. Information concerning the New Mexico bar examination can be obtained from the Secretary, State Board of Bar Examiners, Supreme Court Building, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES

All students registered in the school become members of The University of New Mexico Student Bar Association. Through this organization they perform their part in the work and life of the school. The students not only manage their social affairs, but have a responsibility for the maintenance of a school with high standards and one which recognizes the need for both technical and nontechnical training and information. They, therefore, have a share in arranging institutes, forums, lectures, and arguments and trial of practice cases and are encouraged through committees to take an interest in improvement of the school. Members of the bar and bench are invited to speak at the Student Bar Association luncheons.

An Honor Code administered by the students has been in operation since the establishment of the school. The Honor Code assumes that a student in the School of Law has entered upon a professional career in which he must take responsibility for his own conduct as well as for keeping his profession pure. The Code covers all phases of law school life, including the taking of examinations without proctors, conforming to law school and law library rules and regulations, professional conduct in all matters, and correctness of applications, forms and other papers submitted to the law school and University.

STUDENT EXPENSES

NATURAL RESOURCES

JOURNAL SUBSCRIPTION

All students enrolled in the law school in degree status are encouraged to subscribe to the Natural Resources Journal.

HOUSING

The University has a limited amount of housing, married or single, for law students. The University Director of Housing has listings of private rental units which are currently available. The Student Bar Association has listings, and it actively assists new students in finding housing; inquire through the dean's office.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITY

Students must take responsibility for meeting the requirements for the degree and for complying with the regulations of the University and of this school. Additional regulations and requirements are posted on a bulletin board in the Law Building.

GRADES

	Grade points per credit hour
A, Excellent . . . . .	4
B, Good . . . . .	3
C, Average . . . . .	2
D, Barely Passed . . . . .	1
F, Failed . . . . .	0

F is also given in any course which the student drops after the eighth week of a semester without the dean's permission.

I, Incomplete. The grade of I is given only when circumstances beyond the student's control have prevented his completing the work of a course within the official dates of a semester. The I automatically becomes F if not removed: (1) within the first twelve weeks of the next semester unless extension of time is permitted at the discretion of the dean, or (2) within the next four semesters, if the student does not re-enroll in residence, subject to the discretion of the dean. The student may change the I to a passing grade by satisfactorily performing the work prescribed by the instructor. The student obtains from the office of the dean a permit to remove the I, pays a $2.00 fee, and takes the card to the instructor, who completes it and returns it to the office of the dean. The dean forwards this permit to the Office of Admission and Records, where official entry on the student's record is made.

W, Dropped without Discredit. W is given in any course which the student drops after the fourth week of the semester, or after the first eight weeks with approval of the dean, while doing passing work.

Change in Grade. No grade except I can be raised by a special examination. An I may be removed by taking the final examination the next time one is regularly given. This usually will be one year later; therefore, an extension of time for removal of the I must be obtained. This applies although the course content, instructor, or credit hours (with proper adjustment) are changed. No special examination will be given except in an exceptional case.

Examinations must be taken at the regularly scheduled time, except with the dean's written permission. A student who misses an examination receives an F in the course unless he is excused in writing by the dean. A student who takes an examination at other than the regularly scheduled time, with the dean's written permission, is graded on the following basis: CR, D, F. A "CR" does not count in the academic average.

SCHOLARSHIP INDEX

A student's academic standing in the School of Law is referred to in terms of a grade point average computed by dividing the total number of grade points earned while enrolled in the school by the total number of hours attempted while enrolled in the school. For nonlaw courses taken after enrolling in the School of Law, no grades will be counted. Hours given a mark of W, I or CR will be excluded in this computation, but hours of F will be counted. All honors, scholarships, and prizes depending upon scholarship are determined by ranking students according to this index.

WITHDRAWAL FROM THE UNIVERSITY

When a student wishes to cancel his registration and withdraw from the University during the semester, he should secure a withdrawal card from the office of the Dean of Men or Women. Grades of W or F are shown on the student's record if he withdraws from the University after the first four weeks of the semester, except that no student may withdraw from the University with a grade of W after the eighth week of the semester without the approval of the Dean of the School of Law. When a student leaves the University during a semester and does not carry out his withdrawal according to this regulation, he becomes liable for a grade of F in all of his classes, even though he is passing his courses up to the time of leaving.

CHANGES IN REGISTRATION

Change in Program of Studies. The student who desires to add a course to, or drop a course from, his program of studies should obtain from the dean a petition for change in program of studies. The student obtains signatures called for on this form and returns it to the office of the dean. The dean sends the form to the Office of Admissions and Records where official entry is made on the student's record. When a student drops a course officially after the eighth week of the semester with the permission of the dean, he will receive a grade of W or F in the discretion of the dean.

A student is responsible for the completion of every course for which he has registered; if he drops a course at any time without filing the official change of program form, he will receive a grade of F in the course. A fee of $1.00 is charged for any change made in the student's program of studies after the end of the second week of the semester.

Change of Address. Each student is expected to keep the University authorities informed as to his address. Any change in address should be reported immediately to the Office of Admissions and Records, and to the dean.

SCHOLARSHIP REQUIREMENTS

Scholarship Standing. The standing of all students (including those who withdraw from the University during the session) with respect to scholarship is checked at the end of each semester (or at the time of withdrawal). At such times, all students who are deficient in scholarship are placed on probation or suspended in accordance with the following regulations. A student placed on probation at any time will remain on probation until the next final examination period.

Probation and Suspension

A student enrolled in the School of Law is placed on probation or is suspended at the end of any semester in which his cumulative grade average on all law courses taken at the University falls below 2.0 (i.e., a C average), regardless of the number of credit hours for which he is currently enrolled. A student who fails to continue his law studies while on probation will automatically be suspended; readmission is at the dean's discretion. A student who has been suspended is not eligible to apply for readmission for a period of one calendar year from the date of suspension. The readmission of a suspended student after the expiration of the suspension period is contingent upon the approval of the faculty of the School of Law. Approval will be granted only if there is good reason to believe that his prior record was not the result of lack of capacity for law school work and that his prior record was occasioned by factors which would not be present on readmission.

The dean may require a student who is on probation at the time of registration to enroll for a minimum number of hours, and he may at any time require a student on probation to drop as many hours as seem to be in excess of the student's ability.

Regulations on probation and suspension as described above apply only at the end of a semester or at the time of withdrawal from the University. However, during the progress of any semester the dean may refer the case of a student to the faculty, and the faculty may recommend to the dean probation or suspension for such student.

LEGAL AID

In addition to class work, the UNM law students have an opportunity to see law in the context of society, and to learn at first hand.

For more than ten years, for example, law students have participated in Legal Aid work in Albuquerque in providing legal services for the poor. Students participate in a bail-bond project in which indigent prisoners are released on their own recognizance. The Student Bar Association has an active program wherein students work in the office of the prosecutor and in a lawyer's office.

Seniors in the School of Law are required to serve in the office of the Legal Aid Society of Albuquerque 3 hours per week for one semester of the senior year.

CURRICULUM

Law School Courses

The course of study, casebooks and other study materials, class schedules, and the like will be determined by the faculty and may be changed at any time. Attendance at special lectures and the performance of special services may be required although not listed as courses.

Legal Writing, The Legal Profession, and one seminar must be taken and passed. All first-year subjects offered must be taken, but a passing grade in each is not essential to graduation unless the dean so rules in a particular case. A satisfactory performance in Legal Aid is required, although no credit is given in this course. All other subjects are elective. The dean may refuse to permit or may require any course to be retaken if failed. Regular attendance at classes is required.

A student must have a cumulative grade point average of 2.0 or higher, as of the date of the last official calculation, in order to take more than one seminar.

BAR EXAMINATION REVIEW

No instruction designed as a review course for bar examinations is offered under law school auspices. A privately sponsored course is available in Albuquerque.

ELECTIVES IN OTHER COLLEGES

No more than 6 credits in courses in other colleges of this University or other fully accredited institutions of higher learning may be taken after entry in the School of Law for elective law credit. Written permission of the dean must be secured. The grade on such courses is not included for purposes of class averages or in determining whether the student has the required C average—except that a grade of D or F may be counted at the discretion of the dean.

Permission of the instructor of any course taken for elective law credit is required, and the student must undertake the responsibility of resolving with such instructor any conflict of law school class meetings or examination schedules with his class meetings and examination schedules in such elective courses.

Several American Indian students, some of them tribal officials, are enrolled in a special program at the School of Law.
